The Foreign Service buildings program provides consolidated office space for the Foreign Service and other Government agencies abroad and living quarters for American employees. This program also finances real property leases of 10 years or more (shorter term leases are included in Salaries and expenses), procurement of initial furniture and furnishings and repair, maintenance, and operating costs of these facilities.

Unsatisfactory Government-owned or leased office space is replaced with structures designed specifically to meet the particular needs of the Foreign Service and other Government civilian operations overseas. Housing is provided American employees in localities where suitable housing is otherwise unavailable.

Appropriations are made pursuant to periodic congressional authorizations. Public Law 89-636 provided a capital authorization of $29.8 million, and an operating authorization of $12.8 million for 1969. Public Law 90-442 provided an operating authorization of $13.5 million for 1970.

Since 1961, a separate appropriation for excess foreign currencies has been enacted annually pursuant to Public Law 480, as amended. These currencies supplement the regular building fund and are used to acquire or construct real property. They are also used for operating and maintenance costs to the greatest extent possible, in order to reduce dollar requirements. Countries having currencies available for this program in 1970 are Burma, Ceylon, Guinea, India, Israel, Morocco, Nepal (through use of Indian rupees), Pakistan, Poland, Tunisia, United Arab Republic, and Yugoslavia. These funds are credited to and expended under the regular appropriation.

EMERGENCIES IN THE DIPLOMATIC AND CONSULAR SERVICE

For expenses necessary to enable the Secretary of State to meet unforeseen emergencies arising in the Diplomatic and Consular Service, to be expended pursuant to the requirement of section 291 of the Revised Statutes (31 U.S.C. 107), $1,600,000. (Department of State Appropriation Act, 1969.)

The fund is maintained through (a) contributions by participants, including all Foreign Service officers and eligible Foreign Service staff officers and employees, of 6.5% of their basic annual salaries; (b) matching Government (employer) contributions from the appropriations from which salaries are paid; and (c) interest on investments (22 U.S.C. 1071).

Public Law 90-494, approved August 20, 1968, established a Foreign Service Information Officer Corps in the United States Information Agency. The law provided that the new Foreign Service information officers, as well as Foreign Service staff officers and employees of USIA with 10 years of service, will now participate in the Foreign Service Retirement System. The law also provided for a new class of officers, in both State and USIA, to be known as Foreign Service Reserve officers with unlimited tenure. These officers will also participate in the Foreign Service Retirement System. The employee contributions (and interest thereon) which these new participants in the Foreign Service Retirement System had made to the Civil Service Retirement Fund will be transferred to the Foreign Service Retirement Fund in 1969. This accounts for $9,761 thousand of the 1969 budget authority of the latter fund.

It is estimated that approximately 2,034 annuitants will be paid retirement benefits from this fund at the end of 1970 compared with 1,708 at the end of 1968 and 1,846 at the end of 1969. Gratuities represent payments made to Foreign Service officers in classes 4, 5, 6, and 7 who are selected out of the Service.

The United States contributes its share of the expenses of the United Nations and eight of its specialized agencies, six inter-American organizations, seven regional organizations, and fifteen other organizations.

A sizable portion of the indicated increases is directed toward maintaining the prior year level of operations. Other principal increases result from: (1) the United Nations is increasing its staff (particularly in the economic and social field), has approved a salary increase, will expand its technical assistance programs, and will enlarge the activities of the United Nations Industrialization Development Organization; (2) the United Nations Educational, Scientific, and Cultural Organization is expanding programs in education, natural resources, social sciences, culture, and mass communications and is absorbing the International Bureau of Education; (3) the World Health Organization is expanding programs in the fields of teacher preparation, post-graduate education, nursing, public health administration, environmental health, biology, pharmacology, and toxicology; (4) the Pan American Health Organization is taking over the financing of the Foot and Mouth Disease Center, is instituting a Tax Equalization Fund, and is incorporating the third increment of the Malaria Eradication Campaign in the regular budget; (5) the Organization of American States is funding costs of the Tenth Meeting of Foreign Ministers, the expert Committee on Pan American Union administration, the Human Rights Yearbook, and the Special Consultative Committee on Security.

ferences and other international activities necessary to the successful conduct of U.S. foreign relations. These include: (a) conferences of the United Nations, its subsidiary bodies and specialized agencies; (b) meetings of regional and other international organizations—including the Organization of American States and its subsidiary or related bodies, commodity groups, and specialized bodies dealing with intergovernmental economic, political, cultural or scientific matters; (c) participation in other governmental conferences which are not directly associated with any international organization; (d) certain expenses of international secretariats to meetings, conferences and related activities held under U.S. auspices; and (e) contributions to new or provisional organizations.

This appropriation request provides for additional regularly scheduled or planned conferences, and for predictable U.S. contributions to new or provisional organizations. The 1970 estimate does not provide for unforeseen contingencies.

The requested increase of $45 thousand is for additional contributions to the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade Organization.

Replacement of equipment.—Provides for necessary replacement of heavy-duty maintenance equipment.

In addition to the above maintenance items, the program workload includes operation of about 800 drainage and related structures, 92 gaging stations, three diversion dams, U.S. portion of Falcon storage dam, reservoir, and powerplant, the Amistad storage dam and reservoir, additional 7.7 miles of Rio Grande channel, and the Douglas-Agua Prieta sanitation plant.

Increased operating costs in 1970 are due to: (1) Amistad dam and reservoir being in operation for a full year as compared to 2 months in 1969, (2) 12 new gaging stations required in connection with the Amistad dam being in operation for a full year as compared to 6 months in 1969, and (3) maintenance of the additional 7.7 miles of the Rio Grande at El Paso, 4.3 miles being completed in 1969 as a concrete channel and undertaking maintenance of the 3.4 miles of natural channel under the Chamizal Settlement.

This appropriation finances the costs of policy development, central supervisory, and coordinating functions necessary for the overall planning and direction of the Department. It covers the immediate secretarial offices as well as those of the assistant secretaries and the general counsel. Also covered are staff assistance and supervision of general management and administration in the Department and general administrative services provided to the organizations financed from this appropriation.

In addition, during 1970, the Department will relocate a large number of Headquarters employees of the Operating Administrations presently dispersed throughout Washington, D.C., into a new building adjacent to the Department headquarters in southwest Washington, D.C., in order to realize a more coordinated and effective administration of transportation activities.

The Department of Transportation Act of 1966 assigns to the Secretary broad responsibilities for the development and coordination of national transportation policies and programs. This appropriation finances those research activities and studies which directly support the Secretary's responsibilities and which because of their nature and broad applicability are more appropriately conducted in the Office of the Secretary rather than by the operating administrations within the Department. The program is carried out primarily through contracts with other Federal agencies, educational institutions, nonprofit research organizations, and private firms.

1. Transportation policy and planning.—Research and studies are conducted on a broad range of transportation policy problems to determine national transportation requirements and to provide the Secretary with statistical planning information and analyses needed for national transportation policies and programs. Included is the on-going program to develop plans for meeting the transportation needs of the Northeast Corridor. The 1970 amount also includes $400 thousand for carrying forward the study of the automobile accident compensation systems authorized by Public Law 90-313.

2. Transportation technology.—Projects are carried out to advance transportation technology generally to seek solutions to transportation problems which are intermodal in nature and to provide information and forecasts on new technology required as a basis for longer range plans for the development of transportation systems, policies and programs. Projects are designed to complement research and development programs of the operating administrations and to stimulate industry efforts to advance transportation technology.

3. Transportation facilitation.—Research and studies in this area are aimed at reducing the costs and removing the impediments to the rapid and efficient flow of passengers and cargo by modernizing our systems of transportation documentation and procedures. Projects will also be directed at realizing the economic and technological benefits of important transportation developments which can be achieved through cooperative research and development arrangements with foreign countries.

4. Special programs.—Projects in this activity are chiefly to provide technical studies and other data in support of the Department's programs in the areas of hazardous materials and pipeline safety regulation.

The working capital fund was authorized by the Department of Transportation Act to finance common support administrative services. The fund was established on July 2, 1967, and is available without fiscal year limitation to finance the publishing and graphics program at the Washington headquarters. On July 28, 1968, the fund was expanded to include still photographic services for the Washington headquarters. Capital of the fund consists of supplies valued at $88 thousand, equipment valued at $497 thousand, and work in process valued at $2 thousand, minus accrued annual leave valued at $77 thousand which were transferred without reimbursement.

Operating results and financial condition.—Services rendered are charged for at rates which return in full all operating expenses, including a normal reserve for accrued annual leave and depreciation of equipment. The fund is reimbursed in advance by the operating administrations and offices being served. No action is required with regard to the deficit in retained earnings for 1968. The deficit represents less than 1 percent of anticipated annual revenue and will be recovered as a part of revenue during future years.

Changes for both 1969 and 1970 are self-explanatory, except that the $22 thousand change in supplies and materials in 1969 is donated photographic supplies and therefore not included.

The Coast Guard employs multipurpose vessels, aircraft, and shore units, strategically located along the coasts and inland waterways of the United States and in selected areas overseas to carry out the duties specified in title 14, United States Code.

Direct program.—1. Search and rescue.—Most Coast Guard operating facilities have the capacity for promoting safety on or over the high seas and on waters subject to the jurisdiction of the United States. The Coast Guard performs any and all acts necessary to rescue and aid persons and save property placed in jeopardy due to marine and aircraft disaster or due to floods and ice conditions (14 U.S.C. 88). Coast Guard activities in the area of search and rescue fall within the National SAR Plan and other agreements.

2. Aids to navigation.—A network of manned and unmanned aids to navigation is maintained along our coasts and on our inland waterways through the use of tenders and shore facilities to insure the safe passage of the mariner. Loran stations are operated in the United States and abroad to serve the needs of the armed services and marine and air commerce (14 U.S.C. 81).

3. Merchant marine safety.—The Coast Guard insures compliance with Federal statutes and regulations pertaining to the merchant marine industry by reviewing plans and specifications for the construction or alteration of merchant vessels, by periodic inspections, by conducting marine casualty investigations, and by setting standards, procedures, and practices under which merchant marine personnel are regulated (14 U.S.C. 2).

4. Marine law enforcement.—Vessels, aircraft, and shore units enforce Federal laws on the high seas and waters over which the United States exercises jurisdiction. Law enforcement activities include fishery patrols; Campeche, Key, and Alaskan patrols; small-boat boarding; supervision of explosives loadings; enforcement of dangerous cargo regulations; and port control (14 U.S.C. 89, 91).

5. Oceanography, meteorology, and polar operations.—The Coast Guard participates in the National Marine Sciences program (14 U.S.C. 94), which is coordinated by the National Council on Marine Resources and Engineering Development. Its facilities cooperate with the Weather Bureau in taking weather observations from vessels manning six ocean stations (14 U.S.C. 90). Icebreaking is performed by specially constructed icebreakers engaged in polar operations with other agencies (14 U.S.C. 2). Also included in this program is conduct of the International Ice Patrol (46 U.S.C. 738).

This appropriation provides for the acquisition, construction, rebuilding, and improvements of vessels, aircraft, shore facilities, and aids to navigation.

Direct program.—1. Vessels.—A program to replace overage, obsolete, and deteriorated vessels of the Coast Guard will be continued in 1970 with the construction of a replacement for one high endurance cutter and one buoy tender. Modernization and improvements of existing facilities includes improvements and target investigation for balloon tracking radars on high endurance cutters; installation of new generators, air conditioning on seagoing and coastal buoy tenders and improvements on seagoing and coastal tenders; habitability and operational improvements on 327-foot, high endurance cutters; the installation of new generators on two ferryboats which operate between Governors Island and Battery, New York; and the installation of two Tactical Navigational (TACNAV) units on high endurance cutters.

2. Aircraft.—This activity provides for the acquisition of six replacement aircraft and replacement of center-wing sections on six C-130 aircraft.

3. Shore stations and navigational aids.—The program under this activity provides for the establishment of, and changes to, aids to navigation marking river and harbor improvements effected by the U.S. Corps of Engineers, and other urgent needs. Other projects are included to: (a) establish one new station; (b) replace and improve facilities at four locations; (c) relocate one unit; (d) improve facilities at one loran station in the Hawaiian chain; (e) construct a barracks-mess hall facility at Air Station, Brooklyn, New York; (f) provide housing for Coast Guard personnel and their dependents in areas where living accommodations are inadequate; (g) facilitate the survey and design of future major construction projects; and (h) construct depot and mooring facilities to be associated with the buoy tender constructed in 1969 for servicing aids to navigation on the Lower Mississippi River. In addition, six manned light stations will be converted to automatic operation, and dockside sewage and waste oil disposal facilities will be accomplished at various locations.

4. Repair and supply facilities.—The support facilities program in 1969 provides for improvement of facilities at three bases; construction of mooring facilities at Kodiak Island, Alaska; and improvement of existing facilities at the Coast Guard Yard by consolidating the metal shop facilities in one building.

5. Training and recruiting facilities.—The program for improving facilities at the training centers will continue in 1970 with the construction of a library center and an extension to the cadet barracks, Coast Guard Academy, New London, Conn.; construction of an enlisted permanent party barracks at Alameda, Calif.; construction of a fire station and operations building at Reserve Training Center, Yorktown, Va.; and the construction of an organized reserve training center at Governors Island, N.Y. In addition, a synthetic flight training system (SFTS) with building to house the system will be acquired.

6. Alteration of bridges.—The 1970 program also includes the cost of altering or removing bridges which obstruct free navigation of the navigable waters of the United States. Alterations are scheduled for bridges located near Morgan City, La.; Chicago, Ill.; and Wilmington, N.C.

This appropriation provides for retired pay of military personnel of the Coast Guard and Coast Guard Reserve, members of the former Lighthouse and Lifesaving Services, and for annuities payable to beneficiaries of retired military personnel under the Retired Serviceman's Family Protection Plan (10 U.S.C. 1431-1446).

Members are added to and removed from the rolls each month. The average numbers on the rolls will rise in 1970 and will continue to rise in future years. The actual number on the rolls at the end of 1968 was 13,081 and the number estimated to be on the rolls at the end of 1969 and 1970 is 13,780 and 14,540, respectively. The following tabulation shows the average number of personnel on the rolls during 1968 compared with estimated numbers for 1969 and 1970.

Under the provisions of the Retired Serviceman's Family Protection Plan, retired Coast Guard military personnel who elect to receive reduced amounts of retired pay may provide for monthly payments to their survivors. Appropriation requirements are reduced by the difference between the amount deducted from retired pay and the amount paid as survivors' benefits. The liability for future payments is not funded. The analysis of the accumulated deductions is as follows (in thousands of dollars):

The Coast Guard Reserve training program provides qualified individuals and trained units to be available for active duty in time of war or national emergency and at such other times as the national security may require, to meet the requirements of the Coast Guard which cannot be filled within the prescribed time from other resources within the Coast Guard. The training of each enlisted Coast Guard reservist is divided into two distinct phases, initial training and continuing training.

Costs are distributed to activities as follows:

1. Initial training.—Direct costs associated with trainees on initial active training duty are programed under this activity. Two training elements comprise this activity: RL (5 months initial training duty) and RA (2 years initial training duty).

2. Continuing training.—Direct costs of officer and enlisted trainees for drill and annual active duty for training are programed under this activity.

3. Operation and maintenance of training facilities.—All costs for the operation and maintenance of Reserve training facilities are programed under this activity. Included are the cost of four training vessels, the prorated share of the cost of joint usage of Coast Guard and other Armed Forces facilities, the cost of providing stationkeeper support to the organized Reserve training units and the procurement of training aids and facilities (under $50 thousand).

4. Administration.—This activity encompasses all administrative costs of the Reserve training program including recruitment of personnel.

This appropriation provides for administration and conduct of basic and applied scientific research, development, test and evaluation with maintenance, rehabilitation, lease and operation of facilities and equipment.

1. Search and rescue.—The program on search planning and survival equipment will be continued and efforts will be intensified in the development of a detection system for locating distressed persons, small craft, etc. A modest program in domestic icebreaker research will be undertaken in 1970.

2. Aids to navigation.—Additional effort will be applied in 1970 to development of lightweight buoys for protected waters. Further developmental stages of a high-precision, all-weather harbor approach will be instituted in 1970, while continuing developmental work toward further replacement of lightships with more economical aids.

3. Marine safety.—The program under this activity includes continued investigation of construction standards in new fields such as non-military submersibles, the operation of the Shipboard Fire Test Facility in support of continued efforts in fire safety standards, and the continuation of research efforts with interagency groups such as the NAS Advisory Committee on toxic chemicals and the Ship Structure Committee.

4. Marine law enforcement.—Under this activity, the program provides for intensified research efforts in the control of pollution by oil or other wastes of our navigable waters. This program includes advanced development of airborne sensors for detection, booms and gelling agents for control, and containers for defueling of wrecks. A companion project will be continued for development and testing of systems to reduce pollution by the Government's facilities, including Coast Guard cutters. Research in support of the Boating Safety program will be undertaken in 1970.

5. Oceanography, meteorology, and polar operations.—This program includes oceanographic research and data collection in the Arctic area, advanced development of iceberg detection and tracking capability, and development of instrumentation for data collection on Coast Guard offshore structures, vessels, and buoys.

In 1970, the advanced development phase will commence for the national data buoy developmental

COAST GUARD SUPPLY FUND—Continued

The Coast Guard Supply Fund, in accordance with 14 U.S.C. 650, finances the procurement of uniform clothing, commissary provisions, general stores and technical material. The fund is financed by reimbursements from sale of goods.

Costs of approximately $27,000 thousand to be incurred under this fund in 1970 are divided 8% for uniform clothing, 57% for commissary provisions, and 35% for general stores and technical materials, including electronics.

Sales are expected to be $1,127 thousand more in 1969 than 1968 actual and $1,450 thousand more in 1970 than 1969. These increases result from an increase in aids to navigation material, engine parts and electronics, and phasing out of and replacement of equipment.

1. Operation of traffic control system.—This activity covers the operation on a daily 24-hour basis of a national system of air traffic management in the United States and its possessions. With the aid of radar, communications, and other facilities, traffic management personnel at 27 centers monitor and control en route flights of civil and military aircraft conducted under instrument conditions to assure safety and to expedite the flow of traffic. Control towers are operated at 326 major civil airports to guide traffic movements on and in the vicinity of the airports. Some 344 domestic and international flight service stations transmit weather and other information to pilots and relay traffic control data between ground controllers and pilots. The increase in 1970, which will provide for operating newly commissioned air traffic control facilities, for expanded and improved terminal radar services and for handling greater workload demands brought about by the projected growth in aviation activity, is offset by savings due to management improvements and other items of reduction.

TRENDS IN VOLUME OF AIR TRAFFIC

Fiscal year	Landings and takeoffs at airports with FAA towers (in millions)	Instrument operations at airports with FAA traffic control service (in millions)	General aviation hours flown (in millions)	Revenue passenger miles (in billions)
1964	32.9	8.7	15.4	54.2
1965	35.6	9.6	16.2	62.6
1966	41.2	10.7	18.9	76.4
1967	47.6	12.1	21.6	86.3
1968	53.0	14.6	22.9	106.5
1969 estimate	58.5	17.7	24.2	119.4
1970 estimate	64.4	20.6	25.6	132.2

2. Installation and materiel services.—This activity covers the direction and engineering services related to the establishment and improvement of facilities and equipments in the traffic control system; procurement, contracting and materiel management programs; supply support and leased communications services for the traffic control system; and supply support for agency aircraft except for aircraft related to research and development programs. Major increases in 1970 are to provide supply support and leased communications services for air traffic control and air navigation facilities.

3. Maintenance of traffic control system.—This activity covers the technical operation and maintenance of a national network of air navigation and traffic control aids in the United States and its possessions. Major increases in 1970 are for the maintenance of new air traffic control and navigation aids planned for commissioning. These increases are offset partially by savings resulting from the discontinuance of nonessential facilities, operational improvements, and other items of reduction.

4. Administration of flight standards program.—This activity covers the establishment and enforcement of the civil air regulations which are designed to assure the high standards of safety in aviation. Inspections are made and certificates issued for aircraft, airmen, aircraft operators, and air agencies that meet safety or competency requirements. Facility flight inspection functions and management and maintenance of agency aircraft are also included in this activity.

5. Administration of medical programs.—This activity covers the development of regulations governing the physical and mental fitness of airmen and other persons whose health affects safety in flight; the development and supervision of a health and medical program for agency personnel; the administration of an aviation medical research program, the project costs of which are financed under Research and development; and the operation of the Civil Aeromedical Research Institute building.

6. Research direction.—This activity covers: (a) the planning, direction, and evaluation of the research and development program, the direct project costs of which are financed under the Research and development appropriation; and (b) related administrative support for the operation of the National Aviation Facilities Experimental Center at Atlantic City, N.J.

7. Administration of airports program.—This activity includes costs of preparing the annual national airport plan; development of airport planning, design, and construction standards; furnishing of planning and engineering advisory services; administration of the Federal-aid airport program; assuring compliance of public agencies with the provisions of agreements relating to airports; and promoting airport safety.

Under this appropriation, the Federal airways system is improved by the installation of new equipment and the construction and modernization of facilities to keep pace with aeronautical activity. The appropriation also finances major capital investments required by other agency programs such as aircraft for facility flight inspection and training, and experimental facilities for the research and development program. The 1970 estimate will carry forward the program to increase the capacity of the airways system and make its operation more efficient and safer. It provides for continuation of major efforts already underway to provide an automation capability in the air traffic control system. Operating costs of facilities procured under this appropriation are financed under the Operations appropriation.

1. Air route traffic control centers.—(a) Long-range radar provides FAA air traffic controllers with information on aircraft positions at distances up to 185 miles. (b) Automation equipment covers computers and other devices which aid controllers in handling en route air traffic. (c) Other center facilities covers the installation of equipment to provide communications and related services.

2. Airport traffic control towers.—(a) Terminal area radar aids traffic control in the vicinity of airports by displaying aircraft positions at distances up to 60 miles. (b) Terminal area automation covers computers and other devices which aid controllers in handling terminal air traffic. (c) Other tower facilities cover the establishment, improvement, and relocation of airport traffic control tower facilities.

3. Flight service stations.—(a) Domestic flight service stations and associated facilities provide flight assistance service to pilots. (b) International flight service stations provide long-distance communications for transoceanic flights.

4. Air navigation facilities.—(a) Very high frequency omnidirectional radio ranges equipped with tactical air navigation capabilities (VORTAC) are standard short-range navigation aids used to define airways and air routes and to provide distance and direction information to pilots. (b) Low and medium frequency facilities include radio beacons and ranges which provide pilots with direction and weather information. (c) Instrument landing systems provide pilots with direction, distance, and glide slope information necessary for making safe approaches to runways under poor visibility conditions. (d) Visual aids consist primarily of lighting aids which also assist the pilot in making final approaches to airport runways, particularly in areas where terrain or other environmental factors cause potential hazards to safe landings.

5. Housing, utilities, and miscellaneous facilities.—This section includes general support facilities and items not covered elsewhere.

6. Aircraft and related equipment.—For: (a) Facility flight inspection covering aircraft and avionics equipment to inspect the accuracy and other characteristics of navigation and traffic control aids from the air; (b) training aircraft used to provide flight training to agency personnel and to maintain the proficiency of operations inspectors; (c) aircraft and equipment used to provide logistics support for remote facilities, for use by agency officials, and for other general purpose missions.

7. Research, test, and evaluation facilities.—This activity provides for the construction and improvement of plant and facilities at the National Aviation Facilities Experimental Center in Atlantic City, N.J. It also covers the procurement of capital items of equipment for use in the research and development program.

The Federal Aviation Administration carries out a program to improve and modernize the national system of aviation facilities through the development of new systems, procedures, and devices. The agency also carries out a program of medical research to aid in the development of rules and regulations governing the certification of airmen and to assure aviation safety.

Research and development is conducted through contracts with qualified firms, universities, and individuals, or by agency staff or other Government agencies. The data, procedures, or equipment resulting from this program are tested and evaluated to determine their potential value in meeting a variety of needs of the overall National Airspace System.

Supervision and administrative support costs for the research and development program financed by this appropriation are covered by the Operations appropriation. Costs of acquiring experimental facilities and general purpose equipment for the research program are included in the Facilities and equipment appropriation.

1. Air traffic control.—This provides for improving the airways system by applying existing technology to air traffic control problems to effect in-service improvements as required, by system modernization where necessary, and by long-range research and development to meet future needs. Studies of present airways system operations and future requirements and work in the fields of data processing and display, data acquisition, and communications are included.

2. Navigation.—This provides for modernization, expansion, and improvements of the common system navigation facilities in the United States and in overseas areas where international agreements require U.S. participation. Work in the fields of landing systems, short and long distance navigation, and flight inspection is included.

3. Aviation weather.—This provides for a program, coordinated with the Departments of Defense and Commerce, to develop devices and improve techniques for the communication and display of weather information to aviation users. The effects of weather in air traffic management techniques and systems are also analyzed.

4. Aircraft safety.—This activity provides for a program, coordinated with the Department of Defense and the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, to study, develop, and evaluate devices to enhance the safety of civil aircraft by providing practical solutions to critical safety problems and a sound basis for airworthiness standards and safety regulations. Also included are efforts directed toward the analysis of noise and sonic boom problems related to aviation and the solution of these problems.

5. Aviation medicine.—This provides for conducting an aeromedical research effort directed toward the identification and elimination of those physical, physiological, and psychological factors which may jeopardize safety in flight.

This appropriation finances management, operations, maintenance, and capital outlay costs for equipment and maintenance projects at the federally owned Washington National and Dulles International Airports which serve the National Capital Area. The 1970 request reflects an increase in the level of facility maintenance at both airports. The staffing requirements remain unchanged from the 1969 level.

The operation of the airports is conducted on a business basis with revenues derived from landing fees, concession activity, and lease arrangements deposited as receipts in the general fund of the Treasury. The direct operating costs and capital outlays are financed by direct appropriation.

The following statements reflect financial results of the total operations at the two airports. These statements include computation of unfunded depreciation and interest on a basis comparable to that used by other major commercial airports, and total actual revenues.

The Washington National Airport is operating at a profit while Dulles International Airport continues operating at a deficit which results in a deficit for the combined operation of these airports. The rate structures and concession arrangements are established so as to assure the recovery of operating costs, interest expenses and an appropriate return on the Government's investment during the useful life of the airports. Revenues, however, have been and are expected to continue growing at a faster rate than expenses.

This appropriation finances construction of major improvements and expansion of facilities at Washington National Airport and Dulles International Airport. Projects are undertaken whenever necessary to insure the capability of these airports to adequately, safely, and conveniently meet air traffic needs of the public and to promote development of aviation activities in general.

All outlays for physical improvements are added to the airports' capital investment and will be subsequently recovered through fees and charges to the tenants and users of the airports.

<sup>1</sup> The Department of Transportation Appropriation Act, 1969, Public Law 90-464, appropriated $30,000 thousand for 1970 to provide advance planning.

Under the Federal Airport Act, grants are made to public agencies to aid in the development and improvement of public airports. These grants generally cover 50% of the cost of approved projects and are limited to facilities deemed essential for safe operation of aircraft at airports. Contract authorizations were provided for this program through 1961. These authorizations together with appropriations to liquidate obligations under the authorizations are reflected in the schedules for Grants-in-aid for airports.

Public Law 89-647 amended the Federal Airport Act further to authorize additional appropriations of $75 million for each of the years 1968, 1969, and 1970. This account covers appropriations authorized under this act as well as appropriations of prior years, beginning with 1962.

The following table summarizes activity under both the contract authority and that part of the program which is funded by direct appropriation (dollars in millions):

This program is to assist the aviation industry in the development of a competitive commercial supersonic transport aircraft. The objectives are to develop a safe airplane, superior to others of its class and economically profitable to build and fly. During the early part of 1969, the prototype construction was deferred to permit redesign for correction of technical problems to assure program objectives can be attained before accelerating outlays. An evaluation and decision on the revised design will be made later in 1969. Recommendations for the program in 1970 will be transmitted to the Congress at a later date.

The fund provides premium Aviation War Risk Insurance in the event of an outbreak of war. Binders are issued to cover aircraft, persons, and property and will become war risk insurance in wartime and in situations short of war; policies covering aircraft, persons, and property which become active insurance upon issuance are available to certain civil air carriers in connection with Government contract operations. Administrative costs are out of fee receipts (49 U.S.C. 1531, as amended; 75 Stat. 210).

Unfunded contingent liability as of June 30, 1969, is estimated at $41 billion.

This appropriation provides funds for projects initiated pursuant to the provisions of the Highway Beautification Act of 1965 and the Federal-Aid Highway Act of 1968.

1. Landscaping and scenic enhancement.—Provides funds for grants-in-aid for landscaping and roadside development.

2. Control of outdoor advertising and junkyards.—Finances the programs to control outdoor advertising and junkyards along interstate and primary highways. Costs will be incurred for (1) compensating sign and property owners for the removal of billboards, (2) removing and relocating junkyards, and (3) screening other junkyards.

3. Administrative expenses.—Provides necessary administrative expenses in support of the above activities.

The Federal-Aid Highway Act of 1968 authorized $25 million contract authorization in 1970. Legislation will be proposed to provide contract authorization in 1971 of $85 million. Contract authorization becomes available for obligation one year before the year for which authorized.

1. Program direction and coordination.—The Director provides direction, coordination, and implementation of the Bureau's overall policies, programs, and objectives. To assist him in this responsibility, staff offices have been established which carry out responsibilities in planning, scientific matters, and implementation of research findings.

2. Motor vehicle and equipment safety.—These funds will be used to continue development of motor vehicle and tire safety standards and of the procedures for evaluating and assuring compliance. The initial standards were issued before January 31, 1968, and additional standards will be issued periodically.

3. Used car safety.—These funds will be required to develop and validate used car safety standards, improve motor vehicle inspection, and all aspects of automotive repair technology.

4. State and community highway safety.—Funds are advanced to this account to administer the State and community highway safety programs authorized by 23 U.S.C. 402, as added by the Highway Safety Act of 1966.

5. Accident investigation and information analysis.—These funds will be required for collecting data from all sources for the purpose of determining the relationship between motor vehicle or motor vehicle equipment performance characteristics and (1) crashes involving motor vehicles, and (2) the occurrence of death or personal injury as a result of such crashes.

6. Research, demonstration, and training.—These funds are required for highway safety research and development activities. The funds will be used to conduct comprehensive traffic safety research, to conduct training and education programs, and to conduct demonstration projects that will speed the implementation of new safety techniques into practice.

7. Support of Federal Highway Administration.—Provides a proportionate share of the costs for functions of the immediate office of the Federal Highway Administrator and consolidated staff functions of the Administration.

Main highways within or adjacent to national forests are constructed and improved with these funds. Projects are jointly selected by the States, the Forest Service, and the Federal Highway Administration on the basis of their contribution to meeting traffic requirements within the national forests. Authorizations are apportioned by States on the basis of a formula which uses as factors the national forest area and value in each State. Contract authorization of $33 million is available for each of 1970 and 1971. Funds can be obligated in the year prior to the year for which authorized.

The 1970 estimate of $30 million finances the balance of the 1968 authorization and $18,050 thousand of the 1969 authorization provided by the Federal-Aid Highway Act of 1966.

Actual and estimated progress of the program is summarized in the following table (dollars in thousands):

Fiscal year	Annual authorization <sup>1</sup>	Miles completed	Unobligated balance, end of year	Obligations for projects	Outlays

Highways are constructed and improved through public lands in States with large areas of such lands. Funds for this program are available a year in advance of the year for which authorized. Contract authorizations were made available by the Federal-Aid Highway Act of 1968 for 1970 and 1971 in the amount of $16 million for each year.

The 1970 appropriation estimate finances $5.3 million, the remainder of the 1968 authorization, and $6.7 million, a portion of the 1969 authorization which was provided by the Federal-Aid Highway Act of 1966.

An act, approved November 8, 1966, authorizes the Secretary of Transportation to require lands for and to construct a border highway in the city of El Paso, Tex., along the international boundary to the International Bridge. Plans are approved by the U.S. Commissioner, International Boundary and Water Commission.

An authorization of $8 million was approved for carrying out the provision of this act. The $4 million appropriation requested in fiscal year 1970 will finance the completion of the highway.

The Central American section of the Inter-American Highway, comprising 1,555 miles, is being constructed in cooperation with the Republics of Guatemala, El Salvador, Honduras, Nicaragua, Costa Rica, and Panama. These Republics pay one-third of the cost of highways through their countries, and have assumed responsibility for future maintenance.

The Federal-Aid Highway Act of 1962 (76 Stat. 1146) authorized an additional appropriation of $32 million, which has been appropriated, to complete the highway to acceptable standards. No new budget authority is requested for 1970.

The 1964 amendments to the Alaska Omnibus Act increased the Federal share payable from 50% to 94.9% for the repair and reconstruction of areas damaged by the earthquake of March 1964 and subsequent seismic waves.

The Pacific Northwest Disaster Act of 1965 provided an additional $50 million authorization for 1965 and an additional $20 million authorization for 1966.

The Federal-Aid Highway Act of 1966 provided an annual authorization of $50 million to be financed 60% from the Highway trust fund and 40% from the General fund.

Costs are originally incurred for these programs under the Federal-aid highways (trust fund) appropriation. The request for appropriation to repay the Highway trust fund for 1967 and 1968 outlays is deferred to 1971.

Expenses for administration of the Federal-aid highway program and for highway research by the Bureau of Public Roads are financed by deductions from Federal-aid authorizations. Administrative services for other programs of the Bureau and for road construction programs of other Federal agencies are initially financed from this activity, and reimbursements are collected from these programs. This limitation does not cover administrative expenses of highway beautification, which are handled by a separate appropriation.

1. Program direction and coordination.—Provides overall program direction and coordination of the missions of the Bureau of Public Roads.

2. Program development.—(a) Engineering and operations.—This activity provides engineering guidance to Federal and State agencies and to certain foreign governments.

(b) Traffic operations.—The purpose of this program is to reduce highway hazards and to encourage use of modern traffic engineering to increase the capacity of existing highways, particularly in urban areas.

(c) Highway planning.—Current and long-range planning and programing is carried out with special emphasis on solutions to urban highway problems.

(d) Right-of-way and location.—States, other Federal agencies, and certain foreign countries are assisted in right-of-way acquisition.

(e) Research and development.—This is direct and contract research and development relating mainly to traffic operations, new construction techniques, and the social and economic aspects of highways.

3. Program operations.—These funds finance the costs of the nine regional offices and 52 division offices related to engineering supervision of the interstate and primary, secondary, and urban programs.

4. Training programs.—Highway engineers and program managers are trained on the job.

5. Support of Federal highway administration.—These funds provide for support of the staff of the Federal Highway Administration.

Grants are made to States for construction and improvement of Federal-aid highways. Authorizations are provided in the Federal-Aid Highway Act of 1956 and subsequent highway legislation to cover 90% of the costs of completing the 41,000-mile National System of Interstate and Defense Highways, and to match State funds on a 50-50 basis for the primary, secondary, and urban programs. The Federal share of project costs is increased in those States with large areas of public domain. Payments to the States for work done are made out of the highway trust fund, into which are deposited certain percentages of tax receipts on motor fuel, tires and tubes, tread rubber, trucks, buses, trailers, truck use, truck parts and accessories, and on lubricating oil used in highway vehicles.

The Federal-Aid Highway Act of 1961 authorized additional appropriations for the interstate program, and also provided increased revenues to finance these increased authorizations. The Federal-Aid Highway Act of 1968 provided $1.1 billion for each of the years 1970 and 1971 to continue the Federal-aid primary, secondary, and urban programs; provided increased authorizations for the Interstate System for fiscal years 1970-74, inclusive; provided $200 million for each of the years 1970 and 1971 to initiate traffic operations projects in urban areas (TOPICS); and an additional amount of $125 million in each of the years 1970 and 1971 for the Federal-aid primary and secondary systems in rural areas. All authorizations are available for use in the year prior to the year for which authorized.

The latest cost estimate to complete the Interstate System is $50.64 billion, which is $8.34 billion more than previously estimated. Congress approved authorizations through 1974 to cover this latest estimate. Present revenue sources will finance these additional costs until September 30, 1972, the termination date of the Highway Trust Fund. An extension of the termination date of the Highway Trust Fund and additional revenue sources will be required beyond September 30, 1972.

As of October 1, 1969, more than 26,500 miles of the 41,000-mile Interstate System were open to traffic. Most of the mileage, exclusive of toll roads, was built or improved under the Federal-aid Interstate program, under the 90% Federal, 10% State matching program launched in 1956. Toll roads, bridges, and tunnels incorporated in the system totaled 2,305 miles. In addition to the sections open to traffic, 6,043 miles were under construction with Interstate funds, and engineering or right-of-way acquisition was in progress on another 7,662 miles. Thus, some form of work was under construction or completed on 40,214 miles of the 41,000-mile system—about 98 percent of the total system mileage.

Construction projects involving 225,444 miles in the regular Federal-aid program (primary, secondary, and urban) have been completed since July 1, 1956, at a total cost of $18.99 billion; and contracts involving 15,024 miles at a cost of $3.47 billion were authorized or underway on October 1, 1968. In addition, $1.46 billion of engineering and right-of-way acquisition work had been completed, and $743 million was underway.

Actual and estimated progress of Federal-aid programs are summarized in the following table:

The Highway Revenue Act of 1956, as amended, provides for the transfer from the general fund to the highway trust fund of revenue from the gasoline tax and certain other taxes paid by highway users. The Secretary of the Treasury estimates the amounts to be so transferred. In turn, annual appropriations are authorized from this trust fund to meet expenditures for Federal-aid highways. Legislation has been proposed to finance the highway beautification program, traffic and highway safety, State and community highway safety, motor carrier safety, forest and public lands highway programs from the trust fund.

This appropriation finances research and development, and demonstrations programs in high-speed ground transportation.

1. Research and development.—This includes materials, aerodynamics, vehicle propulsion, vehicle control, communications, guideways, and research testing on new systems, components, and techniques.

2. Demonstrations.—This provides for conducting demonstrations to determine the contributions that high-speed ground transportation can make to more efficient and economical intercity transportation systems. Demonstrations of improved services will be conducted to measure and evaluate public reaction and acceptance of such services. Travel needs and preferences will be analyzed and performance and costs compared.

The Alaska Railroad was located, built, and is operated by the Federal Government under the act of March 12, 1914 (38 Stat. 305). The authority to construct and operate the railroad was vested by that act, in the President, who, by Executive Order 2129 of January 26, 1915, delegated this authority to the Secretary of the Interior. After completion of the railroad in 1923, the President, in Executive Order 3861, authorized and directed the Secretary of the Interior to operate the railroad.

On April 25, 1965, the President superseded Executive Order 3861 with Executive Order 11107 which continued the authority of the Secretary of the Interior to operate the Alaska Railroad, but conferred certain powers to the Interstate Commerce Commission with respect to the tariffs of the Alaska Railroad.

Under the Department of Transportation Act (act of October 15, 1966, 80 Stat. 931; Public Law 89-670), the authority of the Secretary of the Interior as regards the Alaska Railroad was transferred to the Secretary of Transportation. The law did not change that part of Executive Order 11107 which conferred certain authorities to the Interstate Commerce Commission with regard to tariffs of the Alaska Railroad. The railroad now operates as a bureau of the Federal Railroad Administration.

Budget program.—There are no significant changes planned for 1970. The operation and maintenance rail line program is expected to remain at a level approximating estimated revenues. Proposed capital improvements are modest and within the capability of the present force structure. This will enable the railroad to maximize year around use of all levels of skills required to maintain safe and adequate transportation services. The major program activity of the railroad is the transportation service; the principal supporting services are maintenance of way and structures and maintenance of equipment. Lease of real properties and riverboats and related facilities round out the budget program of the railroad.

Financing.—No appropriation is being requested for 1970. It is estimated that at the end of the budget year there will be an unobligated balance of $3,185 thousand and an unexpended Treasury balance of $2,833 thousand.

1. Research administration.—This activity covers the costs of developing and supervising the Administration's program of research, development and demonstration projects designed to encourage widespread application of new mass transportation systems, techniques, and methods. Program obligations, financed by the Urban Mass Transportation Fund, are estimated at $42 million in 1970.

2. Program planning.—This covers the costs associated with the development and evaluation of program objectives and priorities, as well as general policy guidance for the various elements of the urban mass transportation program.

3. Program operations.—This covers the administrative costs of the program to assist State, regional and local organizations to improve mass transportation services in their areas. The Urban Mass Transportation Act of 1964 authorizes assistance in the form of support for technical studies, training fellowships, and grants and loans for capital facilities. These are financed by the Urban Mass Transportation Fund. A grant program of $139 million and a loan program of $5 million are planned for 1970.

The Urban Mass Transportation Act of 1964 (49 U.S.C. 1601), as amended, authorizes grants and loans to public bodies for: (1) financing of urban transportation facilities and equipment, (2) demonstration and research projects designed to meet urban transportation needs and improve urban transportation service, and (3) grants to provide managerial training for employees of urban transportation systems. Applicants must show that facilities to be financed under the program are necessary for a program for a unified or officially coordinated public transportation system in the urban area, and are necessary for the sound, economic and desirable development of the area. This program was transferred from the Department of Housing and Urban Development to the Department of Transportation on July 1, 1968.

Budget program.—Net grant and loan approvals are expected to increase from $177.55 million in 1969 to $205.0 million in 1970. An additional $25 million budget authority is proposed for 1970 to finance an expanded research, demonstration and technical studies program. In addition, an advance appropriation of $250 million is proposed for 1971, requiring additional authorization of $205 million.

Program activity is anticipated as follows:

1. Research, development, and demonstration.—Federal grants and contracts assist in the development, testing and demonstration of new ideas, methods and technologies for improving mass transportation systems and services. In 1970, the program is expected to further the changes in emphasis that were started in 1969. Efforts will be directed toward: (1) solutions of problems in user and community acceptance; (2) stimulating private investments in promising areas of technological innovation; and (3) influencing institutional constraints which inhibit the development and application of new systems. As estimated $42 million program is anticipated.

2. University research and training.—Grants assist public and private nonprofit institutions of higher learning to establish and carry on comprehensive research and training in problems of urban transportation. This will attract graduate students into the field of urban mass transportation. An estimated $3 million will be used in this program.

3. Technical studies.—Grants to State and local public agencies are made for the planning, engineering and designing of urban mass transportation systems. In 1970, the program will be expanded to provide funds to urban areas for transportation systems planning. An anticipated $15 million will be used in this program.

4. Managerial training.—Grants under this program provide fellowships for the training of personnel employed in managerial, technical and professional positions in the urban mass transportation field. Not more than 100 fellowships may be awarded in any year and grant assistance may not exceed $12 thousand per fellowship. A $1 million program of seminars and 100 fellowships is expected in 1970.

5. Capital facilities grants.—These grants assist State and local public bodies, and authorized interstate and regional public bodies, in the acquisition, construction and improvement of capital facilities and equipment which are needed for their urban transportation systems. An estimated $139 million in grants will be approved in 1970.

6. Capital facilities loans.—Loans are available to assist State and local bodies, and authorized interstate and regional public bodies, in the acquisition, construction and improvement of capital facilities and equipment. The loans bear interest at a rate slightly greater than that paid by the Treasury on its borrowings and usually mature in 15 years. Loans occasionally are the only means for financially assisting urban communities in meeting their mass transportation requirements.

Financing.—This fund was capitalized by transfer of an applicable portion of the assets and the unexpended balance of the Public enterprise fund, Urban mass transportation fund, Department of Housing and Urban Development on July 1, 1968. Appropriations are authorized to be made to the fund as additional capital to the extent stipulated in section 4(b) of the Urban Mass Transportation Act of 1964.

Operating results.—The fund will operate at a deficit for 2½ more years. During 1972, interest income from capital facilities loans will exceed the accumulated deficit and a surplus will be realized. Financial statements that follow present data relative to the fund prior and subsequent to the transfer of the activity pursuant to Reorganization Plan No. 2 of 1968.

The Saint Lawrence Seaway Development Corporation, a wholly Government-owned enterprise, is responsible for the construction, operation, and maintenance of that part of the St. Lawrence Seaway within the territorial limits of the United States (33 U.S.C. 981). The seaway has been constructed and is being operated and maintained jointly by the Saint Lawrence Seaway Development Corporation and the St. Lawrence Seaway Authority of Canada, in conjunction with the related power development works provided by the Power Authority of the State of New York and the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario.

Operating results.—The Corporation is self-supporting through tolls assessed shippers using the seaway facilities. All operating costs are paid from toll revenues and net operating income returned to the Treasury in payment of interest and principal. Any interest charges not earned will be deferred for later repayment in accordance with an agreement with the Treasury Department. For 1970, the Corporation's total revenue is estimated at $7.4 million to be applied in the following order and priority:

(1) To pay estimated operating expenses for 1970 of $2.8 million, consisting of administrative expenses of $0.6 million (subject to congressional limitation) and $2.2 million for operation and maintenance of the seaway facilities.

(2) To return $4.6 million to the U.S. Treasury in payment of interest on borrowings. This payment is estimated to be $1.7 million less than the interest charges on borrowings estimated at $6.3 million for 1970.

Capital outlay.—The Corporation's construction program consists of a 10-mile canal, two locks, and navigation channels in the 46-mile International Rapids section of the St. Lawrence River between Ogdensburg and Massena, and certain channel and related navigation works in the 68-mile Thousand Islands section between Lake Ontario and Ogdensburg.

The total cost of the United States share of the seaway is estimated at $132.1 million. Work in place at the end of 1969 is estimated at $132 million. The 1970 program includes navigation light control equipment for indicating lock status, additions to related facilities, and equipment purchases.

The locks rehabilitation program for 1970 is estimated at $0.2 million, to provide for contingencies and possible contract change orders arising from lock rehabilitation work performed during the 1968-69 winter nonnavigation season. Work accomplished during the 1967-68 winter navigation season totals $4.5 million. Estimates for the 1968-69 winter work program total $5.5 million including contingencies. At the end of 1970, costs are estimated to reach $10.2 million. The remaining $2.9 million is planned to be expended over the next 5-year period. Legislation has been proposed which requests authority for an appropriation to finance the rehabilitation of locks program at $13.1 million. This legislation would permit the appropriation to be used for reimbursement of costs of work undertaken prior to the availability of appropriation and financed from the Corporation's borrowing authority.

Financing.—The Corporation has authority to borrow $140 million from the Treasury for financing the costs of the seaway and to provide for working capital and claims of which $135.5 million will have been used by the end of 1970. It is estimated that $0.3 million will be used during the budget year 1970. Capitalized interest accrued during the construction phase of the seaway amounting to $6.7 million is not charged against the borrowing authority limitation.

Tolls review.—The review of the St. Lawrence Seaway tariff of tolls was completed earlier in 1967 and an international agreement became effective upon the opening of the 1967 navigation season which provided for no change in tolls on the seaway for the next 4 years; a change in the division of tolls from 71% to Canada and 29% to the United States to 73% to Canada and 27% to the United States. A review of tolls is scheduled to be performed at the end of the 1970 navigation season for any necessary adjustments to alleviate the Corporation's financial situation.

The Safety Board investigates, determines the probable cause, and issues reports on all civil aviation accidents; makes final cause determination and reports the facts and circumstances of major surface transportation accidents, relying on the administrations within the Department of Transportation to investigate such surface transportation accidents; conducts special transportation safety studies; makes recommendations for the purpose of preventing accidents and promoting safety in transportation; and reviews on appeal actions against any certificate or license issued by the Secretary or an administrator of the Department of Transportation.

1. Policy formulation, legal assistance, and information services.—This activity covers the formulation and development of policy and program objectives, providing legal advice and assistance to the Safety Board components, rendering decisions on transportation safety matters and providing information services concerning the Safety Board's activities.

2. Program execution and support.—This activity covers the centralized management, control and execution of day-to-day operations of the Safety Board's programs.

3. Aviation accident cause determination and safety promotion.—This activity covers investigation of all U.S. civil aviation accidents, except investigations which are delegated to the Federal Aviation Administration; determination of accident cause and reporting the facts and circumstances in all aviation accidents; conducting special studies and making recommendations on matters pertaining to aviation safety promotion and aviation accident prevention.

4. Surface transportation accident cause determination and safety promotion.—This activity covers the fields of railroad, highway, pipeline, and marine safety. The Safety Board delegates accident cause determinations of most accidents to the administrations within the Department of Transportation, but reserves the right to make cause determinations and report the facts and circumstances of all surface transportation accidents which it declares to be major. The Safety Board conducts surface transportation studies and acts as an energizer in surface transportation safety promotion and surface transportation accident prevention.

5. Certificate or license appeal.—This activity covers the review on appeal of the suspension, amendment, modification, revocation, or denial of any certificate or license issued by the Secretary or an Administrator of the Department of Transportation.

This estimate will (1) increase the facilities and equipment and the research and development programs of FAA in order to expand the capacity and effectiveness of the Federal airways system beyond the levels proposed in the regular budget estimates and (2) provide for a new and expanded airport development program.

Legislation will be proposed for the new airports program and for increased airways user charges to offset the additional costs of these programs. A more detailed estimate will be transmitted after the proposed user charge legislation is enacted.

FEDERAL HIGHWAY ADMINISTRATION

Legislation will be proposed to finance the highway beautification, traffic and highway safety, State and community highway safety, motor carrier safety, forest highways and public lands highway programs from the Highway trust fund. The following schedules indicate the effect of this proposal:

Legislation has been proposed which requests authority for an appropriation to finance the rehabilitation of locks program, estimated at $13.1 million. The legislation would permit the appropriation to be used for reimbursement of costs of work undertaken prior to the availability of appropriation and financed from additional borrowing from Treasury under the present law.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

SEC. 201. During the current fiscal year applicable appropriations to the Federal Aviation Administration shall be available for [the Federal Aviation Administration to conduct the activities specified in the Act of October 26, 1949, 63 Stat. 907, as amended, under determinations and regulations by the Administrator of the Federal Aviation Administration;] maintenance and operation of aircraft; hire of passenger motor vehicles and aircraft; and uniforms, or allowances therefor, as authorized by law (5 U.S.C. 5901-5902).

SEC. 202. Funds appropriated under this Act for expenditure by the Federal Aviation Administration may be expended for reimbursement of other Federal agencies for expenses incurred, on behalf of the Federal Aviation Administration, in the settlement of claims for damages resulting from sonic boom in connection with research conducted as part of the civil supersonic aircraft development.

SEC. 203. None of the funds provided under this Act shall be available for the planning or execution of programs the obligations for which are in excess of $65,000,000 in fiscal year 1969 for "State and Community Highway Safety".

SEC. 204. None of the funds provided under this Act shall be available for the planning or execution of programs the obligations for which are in excess of $29,000,000, exclusive of the reimbursable program, in fiscal year 1969 for "Forest Highways".

SEC. 205. None of the funds provided under this Act shall be available for the planning or execution of programs the obligations for which are in excess of $12,500,000 in fiscal year 1969 for "Public Lands Highways".

SEC. 206. None of the funds in this Act shall be available to finance interdepartmental boards, commissions, councils, committees, or similar groups under sec. 214 of the Independent Offices Appropriation Act, 1946 (31 U.S.C. 691) which do not have prior and specific Congressional approval of such method of financial support.

SEC. 207. Sec. 203. No part of any appropriation contained in this Act shall remain available for obligation beyond the current fiscal year unless expressly so provided herein.

SEC. 208. None of the funds in this Act shall be available either for planning for, or provision of, subsidized automobile repair or free transportation services.

SEC. 209. None of the money appropriated hereby shall be used to make any payment on any lease purchase contract for jet airplanes to be used by the Federal Aviation Administration wherein the total cost of the lease payments plus the amount needed to exercise the purchase option exceeds the purchase price of the aircraft (which would have been charged were the aircraft to be purchased by normal appropriations) by more than 20%.

SEC. 210. Sec. 204. Positions which are financed by appropriations in this Act which are determined by the Secretary of Transportation to be essential to assure public safety and which are assigned to facilities directly engaged in the operation or maintenance of the air traffic control system or the air navigation system of the Federal Aviation Administration may be filled without regard to the provisions of section 201 of Public Law 90-364, and such positions shall not be taken into consideration in determining numbers of employees under subsection (a) of that section or numbers of vacancies under subsection (b) of that section. (5 U.S.C. 596a; 5 U.S.C. 2131; Department of Transportation Appropriation Act, 1969.)

A recent interagency study emphasized the need for creating a centralized Federal law enforcement training center which would provide adequate training facilities and a modern training program for all Federal law enforcement personnel. The study further recommended that the training center, for administrative purposes, function as an activity of the Treasury Department. This appropriation will pay for the Director, staff, and other operating expenses of the center which will provide common law enforcement training for the agencies, and carry out research in law enforcement training methods and curriculum content.

This appropriation will provide for the initial costs of constructing and equipping the recommended Federal Law Enforcement Training Center. It will consist of a campus-like training center with modern classrooms, ranges, special training areas and equipment, and dormitories and support facilities to accommodate 750 resident students. A federally owned site in Beltsville, Md., is available for the center. The total estimated cost for facilities and equipment will approximate $18 million. The center will conduct recruit, advanced, specialized, and refresher training for enforcement personnel of participating agencies.

The Bureau maintains the central revenue, appropriation, and expenditure accounts; disburses for virtually all civilian Federal agencies; prepares the central financial reports of the Government; and performs other fiscal functions.

1. Central disbursing operations.—Payments are made, through 12 regional offices, for civilian Federal agencies, except the Post Office Department, the U.S. marshals, and certain Government corporations. Savings bonds are also issued for Federal employees under the payroll savings plan.

The total work volume and productivity relating to this activity carried out by the Division of Disbursement follow (in thousands):

2. Federal tax deposit operations.—Business organizations make deposits through authorized commercial banks or directly with Federal Reserve banks to pay their withheld income, social security, railroad retirement, excise and corporation taxes into the Treasury.

3. Financial reporting and maintenance of the Government's central accounts.—This activity includes the maintenance of central accounts of appropriations, receipts and expenditures which provide data for financial statements. It also includes the preparation and publication of financial reports on the Government's fiscal operations, such as the Annual Combined Statement of Receipts, Expenditures, and Balances; the Monthly Treasury Statement; the Secretary's Annual Report; the Treasury Bulletin; and reports on foreign currencies acquired without payment of dollars.

4. Accounting and reporting development and audit.—This activity includes furnishing technical accounting advice and assistance to other agencies in relation to central accounting, reporting, disbursing and depositary matters; participation in the Government-wide financial management improvement program; performing systems work within the Fiscal Service and the Bureau of Accounts; examination of the financial condition of companies issuing surety bonds in favor of the United States, performing internal audit in the Bureau, and other audits of a departmental character.

5. Banking, investment, international claims and other services.—Banking facilities are provided for all agencies of the Government through the designation of selected institutions to act as official depositories of the Government's funds. Investments in interest-bearing securities are processed for certain funds, such as the Federal old-age and survivors insurance trust fund, the unemployment trust fund, the veterans insurance trust fund, and various Government retirement funds. The work includes accounting for purchases, sales and redemption of securities, processing of capital stock subscriptions of Government corporations, payment of international and other claims.

6. Executive direction.—This provides for the overall management for the Bureau of Accounts.

1. Losses in melting gold.—Out of the receipts to be covered into the Treasury under section 7 of the Gold Reserve Act of 1934, an amount is made available sufficient to cover the difference between the value of gold as carried in the general account of the Treasurer of the United States and the value of such gold after melting and refining (48 Stat. 1061).

2. National defense conditional gift fund.—The Secretary of the Treasury accepts on behalf of the United States, conditional gifts of money or other intangible property to be used for a particular defense purpose. Intangibles other than money, are converted at the best terms available. The moneys held in trust are paid to those appropriation accounts which best effectuate the intent of the donors (68 Stat. 566).

3. Esther Cattell Schmitt gift fund.—Public Law 87-467 (76 Stat. 88) authorized the acceptance of the gift made to the United States by the will of Esther Cattell Schmitt. The income received from the gift to the United States is paid by the Secretary of the Treasury to beneficiaries named in provisions of the will.

To promote the education of the blind.—The $250 thousand invested credit, on the books of the Treasury, formerly an endowment fund established for the promotion of the education of the blind of the United States, was transferred to a trust fund receipt account.

The Bureau of Customs collects the duties and taxes on imported merchandise, inspects all international traffic, regulates certain marine and aircraft activities, combats smuggling, undervaluation, and frauds on the customs revenue, and performs related functions in connection with the importation and exportation of merchandise.

Direct obligations are estimated to be $107,610 thousand for 1970, an increase of $7,294 thousand over the amount available for 1969. This amount reflects $1,051 thousand for other increases to maintain the current level of employment and $6,243 thousand for program increases.

1. Processing of arriving persons and cargo.—This activity processes all persons arriving in the United States and all merchandise imported into the United States. It assesses and collects duties, taxes, and fees on imported merchandise, inspects international traffic, combats smuggling, performs certain marine activities relating to the movement of vessels in the foreign trade, and enforces the laws of other Government agencies affecting imports and exports. It examines and ascertains the value of imported merchandise, and performs scientific analysis and identification of merchandise for tariff and enforcement purposes.

The Bureau of Engraving and Printing designs, manufactures, and supplies most of the major evidences of a financial character issued by the United States. It is the sole source of U.S. currency and Federal Reserve notes, various public debt instruments, as well as most of the minor evidences of a financial character issued by the United States, such as food coupons, postage, internal revenue, customs, and savings stamps. In addition, the Bureau prints a wide variety of miscellaneous commissions, certificates, etc., and executes certain printings for various territories administered by the United States, particularly postage and revenue stamps.

The anticipated work volume is based on estimates of requirements submitted by agencies served. The program comprises the following activities:

1. Engraving and printing.—(a) Currency.—In April 1968, the Bureau completed the program of converting the printing of currency by the dry-print method to its high-speed intaglio printing presses which are equipped with plates that print 32 notes to the sheet. This action eliminated the use of the old, wet method of printing currency, which employed only 18-subject plates. Estimates for the current and budget years indicate an increase in delivery requirements of 12.1% and 23.5%, respectively, as compared with the delivery of 2.11 billion notes in 1968. To meet the increase in delivery requirements, the Bureau is planning for the acquisition of additional high-speed presses in 1970.

(b) Stamps.—This category of work is comprised mainly of postage and internal revenue stamps, and food coupons. The budget estimates for 1969 and 1970 show a substantial decrease in the requirements for postage stamps from the peak deliveries made during 1968 as a result of the postal rate increase. However, this decrease has been offset to some extent by the continued rise in the requirements for certain types of stamps for the Internal Revenue Service and books of food coupons which are ordered by the Department of Agriculture. Plans are underway for the mechanization of certain processing operations currently being performed manually in the manufacture of food coupons.

(c) Securities.—This program encompasses the production of a wide variety of bonds, notes, and debentures for the Bureau of the Public Debt and certain other agencies of the Government. The anticipated requirements of the agencies indicate an increase in the current and budget years of 30.9% and 36.4%, respectively, as compared with the number of pieces delivered in 1968. During 1968 the Bureau completed the program for converting the printing of Treasury notes (10 and 14 coupons) from the wet to the dry method on its high-speed press equipment. This particular product represents the second largest volume item requisitioned by the Bureau of the Public Debt. An annual saving of approximately $140 thousand will be realized in the printing and associated processing operations as a result of the change-over. Conversion of the printing of the major product, Treasury bills, was completed in the previous year.

(d) Commissions, certificates, etc.—Substantial increases are noted in the number of units to be delivered for this class of work in 1969 and 1970 as compared with 1968. However, the production costs associated with these items represent a very small percentage of the overall engraving and printing program of the Bureau.

2. Operation and maintenance of the incinerator and space utilized by other agencies.—Charges are made to other agencies on an actual cost basis for use of the incinerator and maintenance services provided for the space they occupy in the Bureau's buildings.

3. Other direct charges for miscellaneous services.—Charges for a wide variety of miscellaneous services performed by Bureau personnel are made to the agencies concerned on an actual cost basis.

Bureau operations were completed during 1968 with a profit of $47 thousand. In accordance with the provisions of 31 U.S.C. 181 this profit will be retained to partially offset an accumulative deficit of $176 thousand brought forward from prior years. Budget expenditures were $1,261 thousand in excess of receipts in 1968. This condition resulted from (a) liquidation of a substantial portion of outstanding accounts payable associated with fixed assets acquired in prior years, (b) an increase in the amount of accounts receivable due from customer agencies and accrued liabilities in connection with personal service costs. Offsetting these factors was a net decrease in the value of all inventories on hand in the Bureau. Budget expenditures are expected to be below receipts in the amount of $1,303 thousand in 1969 and in excess of receipts in the amount of $1,283 thousand in 1970.

The capital of the fund is expected to remain at $25.3 million represented by an appropriation of $3.3 million and donated assets of $22 million.

A supplemental appropriation in the amount of $1,435 thousand is anticipated to provide additional funds necessary for (1) the payment of paying agents' fees, due to an increase in the volume of savings-type securities redeemed and subject to fee of 4,600,000 pieces above the original estimate, and (2) to reimburse the Federal Reserve banks for their services as fiscal agents of the Bureau, due to an increase in workload and costs based on more current estimates.

INTERNAL REVENUE SERVICE

The purpose of the Internal Revenue Service is to administer and enforce the internal revenue laws. It seeks to preserve and enhance the productivity of the Nation's tax system by fostering voluntary compliance with internal revenue laws and reducing noncompliance.

To encourage lawful compliance with these laws the Service maintains an automatic data processing master file system, informs taxpayers of the requirements of law, assists them in fulfilling these requirements, audits tax returns, collects unpaid taxes, investigates and prosecutes willful tax evaders, etc.

The number of taxpayers and the volume of revenue increases as the population, individual prosperity, and national economy increase. This growth is reflected in the following figures:

Year:	Tax returns filed (in millions)	Gross revenue collections (in billions of dollars)
1967 actual.....	105.2	148.3
1968 actual.....	107.6	153.6
1969 estimate.....	110.3	(1)

The additional funds requested for 1970 are principally to provide additional manpower (net of productivity increases) to maintain compliance levels on the 112.8 million tax returns expected and to meet increased costs of maintaining the staff already authorized. Important technological advances are utilized by extending the use of the direct data entry system.

This appropriation funds the overall planning and direction of the Internal Revenue Service, and the internal audit and internal security functions. This 1970 appropriation request provides for maintaining a balanced level of administrative programs, internal audits, and integrity investigations.

1. Executive direction.—The purpose of this activity is to set policies and goals; to provide the research and planning necessary for orderly and effective accomplishment of the Internal Revenue Service's mission; to provide leadership and direction in the execution of plans; and to provide for the administrative support of all operations.

2. Internal audit and security.—The purpose of this activity is to establish and verify maintenance of quality controls in the Internal Revenue Service. It provides a continuing and independent review of all Internal Revenue Service operations, thereby assuring the Commissioner and operational managers that appropriated funds are spent only for authorized purposes, that tax revenues are properly safeguarded, and that public confidence in the integrity of Internal Revenue Service employees is maintained.

This appropriation provides for all actions associated with the mailing out of tax return forms and instructions, receipt of completed returns and payments, deposit of the payments, and verification through a master file ADP system of the accuracy of information provided on the tax returns. It also provides for payment of refunds, offset of refunds against delinquent accounts, issuance of notices that payments are overdue, identification of possible tax evaders (nonfilers) for investigation, and assistance in selection of tax returns which appear to warrant an audit. It provides for preparation of reports (statistics of income) based on tax return data, for other statistical studies of the tax system, and for forecasting (for work planning purposes) the number of tax returns to be filed by type and size and geographical area (and related workload data) for many years ahead.

District manual operations and service center automated operations are concerned with tax return processing and revenue accounting. Statistical reporting provides for the statistics of income and other statistical research and reports and for tax return and related workload forecasting.

The additional funds requested for 1970 are principally to provide for growth in population, economy, and workload. Important technological advances are anticipated by upgrading the National Computer Center systems, by ex-

This appropriation provides (1) for assistance to taxpayers in understanding and complying with the tax laws and (2) for detecting and correcting instances of non-compliance.

Additional funds requested for 1970 are necessary to meet the normal increase in the number of returns to be audited to prevent a deterioration in the level of taxpayer compliance, and to accelerate identification of taxpayers who do not file returns.

1. Audit of tax returns.—This activity provides for a selective examination of tax returns to see if taxpayers have properly complied with the internal revenue laws. It corrects errors and explains corrections to the taxpayers. It also makes determinations as to whether certain organizations or funds are exempt from taxation.

2. Collection of delinquent accounts and securing delinquent returns.—This activity provides assistance to taxpayers in understanding their tax obligations and is responsible for securing tax returns due but unfiled and collecting taxes due but unpaid.

3. Tax fraud and special investigations.—This activity provides for enforcement of the criminal statutes relating to violations of tax laws. It investigates cases of suspected intent to defraud; recommends prosecution as warranted; and assists in the preparation and trial of criminal tax cases. It is responsible for directing Service participation in the organized crime drive.

4. Alcohol and tobacco tax regulation and enforcement.—This activity provides for administration and enforcement of internal revenue laws and regulations relating to alcohol and tobacco products. It is also responsible for administering and enforcing the Federal Alcohol Administration Act, the National Firearms Act, title IV of the Omnibus Crime Control and Safe Streets Act of 1968, and the State Firearms Control Act of 1968.

5. Taxpayer conferences and appeals.—This activity provides for administrative consideration and settlement of taxpayer appeals of audit findings.

6. Technical rulings and services.—This activity develops tax return forms, instructions, and guides; issues rulings and opinions as to application of the tax laws; and meets with taxpayer groups to review and resolve special tax problems.

7. Legal services.—This activity provides for the legal counsel and legal assistance needed by the Service to administer and enforce the internal revenue laws.

This revolving fund was established pursuant to section 112(a) of the Federal Tax Lien Act of 1966 solely to serve as the source of financing the redemption of real property by the United States. In collecting delinquent taxes, situations arise where it is to the Government's advantage to buy property on which it has a lien when the property is sold at a foreclosure sale brought by the holder of a lien which is superior to the Government's. The advantage arises when the property is worth substantially more than the first lien holder's equity, but is being sold for an amount that barely covers that equity, thereby leaving no proceeds to apply against delinquent taxes. Under these circumstances if the Government buys the property and subsequently puts it up for sale under more advantageous conditions, it is possible to realize sufficient profit on the transaction to fully or partially collect the amount of taxes due. The revolving fund is reimbursed from the proceeds of the sale in an amount equal to the amount expended from the fund for the redemption. The balance of the proceeds are applied against the amount of the tax, interest, penalties, and additions thereto, and for the costs of sale. The remainder, if any, would revert to the parties legally entitled to it.

This office: (a) receives, keeps, and disburses the moneys of the United States; (b) processes claims for the proceeds of Government checks; (c) issues and redeems currency and Government securities; (d) maintains fiscal accounts; and (e) prepares financial statements and reports.

1. Payment and reconciliation of checks.—This activity maintains checking accounts of Government disbursing officers and Government-owned corporations; proves all debits and credits to the general account of the Treasurer by Federal Reserve banks and United States depositaries; performs centralized payment function of all checks drawn on the Treasurer of the United States; reconciles deposits claimed and checks issued as reported by disbursing officers with the deposits credited and checks paid by the Treasurer and determines the outstanding checks in each disbursing account. Electronic equipment has been used by this activity since August 1956 in paying and reconciling checks. Postal money orders have also been processed on this equipment since June 1962 as a reimbursable service for the Post Office Department.

In addition to Government checks and postal money orders, Federal tax deposit forms are also being processed on this equipment. This form represents payment of corporation, employment, and excise taxes. The amounts paid are deposited in the Treasurer's account and the forms are sent to the Treasurer for proving and for conversion of the information on the forms to magnetic tape. The tape records are then sent to Internal Revenue Service for direct input to its computerized central filing system of Federal taxes.

The Check Forgery Insurance Fund was established in the amount of $50 thousand by the act approved November 21, 1941 (31 U.S.C. 561), and increased to $100 thousand by an appropriation of an additional $50 thousand to this fund by the Treasury Department Appropriation Act, 1964. The fund is for use by the Treasurer in making settlement with the payees or special endorsees in cases of checks drawn on the Treasurer which have been paid on forged endorsements and in which it appears that recovery from those liable may be delayed or be unsuccessful. As a result of substantial and continuing increases in the volume of claims being settled each year, this office is requesting $100 thousand additional capital to permit payments to be made to payees or special endorsees as soon as their entitlement is determined.

The service must provide for the protection of the President of the United States, members of his immediate family, the President-elect, the Vice President or other officer next in the order of succession to the office of the President, and the Vice President-elect; persons who are determined to be major presidential or vice presidential candidates, unless such protection is declined; the person of a former President and his wife during his lifetime, the person of the widow of a former President until her death or remarriage and minor children of a former President until they reach 16 years of age, unless such protection is declined. This service is also responsible for investigation of counterfeiting of currency, specie, and securities; forgery and altering of Government checks and bonds; and non-criminal cases.

The permanent White House Police Force protects the Executive Mansion and grounds in the District of Columbia and any building in which White House offices are located. This operation is clearly allied with the personal protection of the President and his family while they are in residence.

The Treasury Guard Force is responsible for safeguarding paper currency and other Government securities and obligations in the money handling divisions of the Treasury Department. It also provides protection for the main Treasury building and its annex.

The Office of the Comptroller of the Currency, the administrator of national banks, was established by the National Currency Act of 1863 (12 U.S.C. 1 et seq., 12 Stat. 665). That act provided for the chartering and supervision of a banking system by this Federal agency.

The administrator of national banks is empowered by law to issue charters to new banking institutions which choose to operate under Federal law. Each approval or disapproval is issued only upon a comprehensive field investigation which is subsequently subjected to thorough analysis by an expert staff of attorneys and economists.

The operations of existing national banks are subject to the supervision of the Comptroller. A staff of over 1,400 national bank examiners conducts a detailed examination on a regular basis of approximately 5,000 national banks with over 10,200 operating branches. The end-product of these examinations is a determination of the financial condition of national banks, the soundness of their operations, and their compliance with applicable laws and regulations. In addition, the Comptroller must pass on all applications for mergers in which the resulting bank will be a national bank. He must also pass on applications by national banks for new branch offices.

In accordance with statute, the Comptroller of the Currency promulgates regulations and rulings for the guidance of national banks. All laws, regulations and rulings relating to national banks are published in the "Comptrollers Manual for National Banks" and the "Comptrollers Manual for Representatives in Trusts," both available in the Comptroller's office.

For the purpose of stabilizing the exchange value of the dollar, the Secretary of the Treasury is authorized to enter into stabilization agreements, and to deal in gold and foreign exchange and other instruments of credit and securities. An exchange stabilization fund, with a capital of $200 million (derived from the increment resulting from the reduction in the weight of the gold dollar which took place in 1934) is authorized by law for this purpose (31 U.S.C. 822a). All earnings and interest accruing are paid into this fund and are available for the purposes thereof, including expenses.

The principal sources of the fund's income have been the handling charge imposed on purchases and sales of gold for the account of the fund, profits on foreign exchange transactions, and interest on investments held by the fund. The income of the fund has consistently exceeded its expenses; the cumulative income of the fund from the time it began operations has been $393.9 million and its expenses $59.5 million, resulting in a net income as of June 30, 1968, of $334.4 million.

It is not practicable to forecast the transactions of the fund in gold, foreign currencies, foreign investments, and the like. The budget schedules, therefore, are incomplete for all items other than operating expenses for 1969 and 1970.

Liabilities of the fund include $1,125 million borrowed by the Secretary from the International Monetary Fund.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

Sec. — Appropriations in this act to the Department of the Treasury shall be available for uniforms or allowances therefor, as authorized by law (5 U.S.C. 5901-2); including maintenance, repairs, and cleaning services as authorized by title 5, United States Code, section 3109; and hire of passenger motor vehicles and aircraft.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

DEPARTMENTS, AGENCIES, AND CORPORATIONS

Sec. 501. Unless otherwise specifically provided, the maximum amount allowable during the current fiscal year in accordance with section 16 of the Act of August 2, 1946 (60 Stat. 810), for the purchase of any passenger motor vehicle (exclusive of buses and ambulances), is hereby fixed at $1,500 except station wagons for which the maximum shall be $1,950.

Sec. 502. Unless otherwise specified and during the current fiscal year, no part of any appropriation contained in this or any other Act shall be used to pay the compensation of any officer or employee of the Government of the United States (including any agency the majority of the stock of which is owned by the Government of the United States) whose post of duty is in continental United States unless such person (1) is a citizen of the United States, (2) is a person in the service of the United States on the date of enactment of this Act, who, being eligible for citizenship, had filed a declaration of intention to become a citizen of the United States prior to such date, (3) is a person who owes allegiance to the United States, or (4) is an alien from Poland or the Baltic countries lawfully admitted to the United States for permanent residence: Provided, That for the purpose of this section, an affidavit signed by any such person shall be considered prima facie evidence that the requirements of this section with respect to his status have been complied with: Provided further, That any person making a false affidavit shall be guilty of a felony, and, upon conviction, shall be fined not more than $4,000 or imprisoned for not more than one year, or both: Provided further, That the above penal clause shall be in addition to, and not in substitution for, any other provisions of existing law: Provided further, That any payment made to any officer or employee contrary to the provisions of this section shall be recoverable in action by the Federal Government. This section shall not apply to citizens of the Republic of the Philippines or to nationals of those countries allied with the United States in the current defense effort, or to temporary employment of translators, or to temporary employment in the field service (not to exceed sixty days) as a result of emergencies.

Sec. 503. Appropriations of the executive departments and independent establishments for the current fiscal year, available for expenses of travel or for the expenses of the activity concerned, are hereby made available for quarters allowances and cost-of-living allowances, in accordance with title II of the Act of September 6, 1960 (74 Stat. 793).

Sec. 504. No part of any appropriation for the current fiscal year contained in this or any other Act shall be paid to any person for the filling of any position for which he or she has been nominated after the Senate has voted not to approve the nomination of said person.

Sec. 505. No part of any appropriation contained in this or any other Act for the current fiscal year shall be used to pay in excess of $4 per volume for the current and future volumes of the United States Code, Annotated, and such volumes shall be purchased on condition and with the understanding that latest published cumulative annual pocket parts issued prior to the date of purchase shall be furnished free of charge, or in excess of $4.25 per volume for the current or future volumes of the Lifetime Federal Digest, or in excess of $6.50 per volume for the current or future volumes of the Modern Federal Practice Digest.

Sec. 506. Funds made available by this or any other Act for administrative expenses in the current fiscal year of the corporations and agencies subject to the Government Corporation Control Act, as amended (31 U.S.C. 841), shall be available, in addition to objects for which such funds are otherwise available, for rent in the District of Columbia; services in accordance with 5 U.S.C. 3109; and the objects specified under this head, all the provisions of which shall be applicable to the expenditure of such funds unless otherwise specified in the Act by which they are made available: Provided, That in the event any functions budgeted as administrative expenses are subsequently transferred to or paid from other funds, the limitations on administrative expenses shall be correspondingly reduced.

Sec. 507. Pursuant to section 1415 of the Act of July 15, 1952 (66 Stat. 662), foreign credits (including currencies) owed to or owned by the United States may be used by Federal agencies for any purpose for which appropriations are made for the current fiscal year (including the carrying out of Acts requiring or authorizing the use of such credits), only when reimbursement therefor is made to the Treasury from applicable appropriations of the agency concerned: Provided, That such credits received as exchange allowances or proceeds of sales of personal property may be used in whole or part payment for acquisition of similar items, to the extent and in the manner authorized by law, without reimbursement to the Treasury.

Sec. 508. No part of any appropriation contained in this or any other Act, or of the funds available for expenditure by any corporation or agency, shall be used for publicity or propaganda purposes designed to support or defeat legislation pending before Congress.

Sec. 509. No part of any appropriation contained in this Act shall remain available for obligation beyond the current fiscal year unless expressly so provided herein.

Sec. 510. No part of any appropriation contained in this or any other Act, shall be available to finance interdepartmental boards, commissions, councils, committees, or similar groups under section 214 of the Independent Offices Appropriation Act, 1946 (31 U.S.C. 691) which do not have prior and specific congressional approval of such method of financial support.

The Atomic Energy Commission conducts a variety of production, research and development, and supporting activities directed toward its responsibilities for national defense and peaceful applications of atomic energy. Most of the activities are carried on in Government-owned facilities by industrial concerns and educational institutions operating under contracts. Coordination with the armed services is achieved through the Military Liaison Committee of the Department of Defense.

Total program costs in 1970 are estimated at $2,234.2 million or $38.8 million less than the estimated 1969 costs of $2,273 million, and $50 million greater than actual costs of $2,184.2 million for 1968. The 1970 decreases are principally in the raw materials, special nuclear materials, and cost of work for others programs, partially offset by increases principally in the reactor development and physical research programs.

In 1970, total program obligations will be more than program costs, the difference being obligations to be incurred for future years' costs. Total program obligations for operating expenses in 1970 are estimated to be $2,247.6 million compared to $2,296.7 million in 1969 and $2,175.4 million in 1968.

The schedule of costs by activity does not include non-budgetary costs such as depreciation charges, accrued annual leave earned but not taken by AEC employees, and the cost of source and special nuclear materials consumed; in total, these are as follows: 1968, $410.8 million; 1969 estimate, $426 million; 1970 estimate, $431 million.

1. Raw materials.—In 1970, it is estimated that 5,475 tons of uranium concentrate will be delivered from domestic producers. The estimate contemplates delivery of the major portion of the additional material which AEC agreed to purchase in calendar years 1969–70 pursuant to the domestic stretchout program announced in 1962. The 1970 estimate of 5,475 tons is down significantly from 7,737 tons in 1968 and an estimated 7,326 tons in 1969.

2. Special nuclear materials.—Special nuclear materials are produced primarily for use in nuclear weapons and as fuels for nuclear reactors. Major production plants are located at Richland, Wash.; Savannah River, S.C.; Oak Ridge, Tenn.; Paducah, Ky.; and Portsmouth, Ohio. Production of uranium enriched in the isotope U<sup>235</sup> will decline somewhat in 1970 as a result of reduced cascade power which will reach the previously announced overall level of 2,000 Mw on June 30, 1969.

Work will continue on process improvements to assure efficiency and safety of operation, to develop more economical methods of production with increased emphasis in 1970 on the production of enriched uranium, and to permit timely development of new production processes as requirements for new products develop. Increased research directed toward the development of an effective system for safeguarding special nuclear materials is also provided for in 1970. By major category, the costs are as follows (in thousands of dollars):

Production of feed materials.....	24,303	27,574	24,053
Production of enriched uranium.....	133,552	119,020	116,012

The emphasis of the civilian power reactor program continues to be directed to the development of the Liquid Metal Fast Breeder Reactor (LMFBR) which promises to produce more fissionable nuclear fuel than is consumed in the process of producing power. Research and development on advanced converter and thermal breeder power reactors and on the application of nuclear power to desalting will also be continued.

Costs of $16.2 million will be incurred for the cooperative power reactor demonstration program in which AEC provides financial aid to assist industry in the development and construction of civilian power reactor prototypes of advanced design. In 1970, the project definition phase of a cooperative LMFBR demonstration plant project will be initiated.

The Euratom program provides for completion of research and development in 1969 under a joint program with the European Atomic Energy Community.

The naval propulsion reactors program provides for the design and development of improved nuclear propulsion plants for installation in ships ranging from small submarines to large combatant surface ships.

The space propulsion systems program (Project Rover) is carried out in cooperation with the National Aeronautics and Space Administration to develop nuclear rocket technology for potential space applications.

The space electric power development program is conducted in cooperation with the National Aeronautics and Space Administration and the Department of Defense to develop nuclear reactor and radioisotopic power systems for space applications.

The terrestrial electric power development program provides for the development of radioisotopic power systems for terrestrial and undersea applications.

General reactor technology includes development work in support of the overall reactor program in such areas as reactor fuels, materials, physics, heat transfer, components, chemistry, and chemical separations.

The advanced reactor systems research and development category is devoted to the exploration of promising advanced reactor concepts and development of research reactors.

The nuclear safety program provides for research and development and investigation of safety problems, conduct of field tests, and application of effective engineered safeguards in the construction and operation of nuclear reactors and other facilities.

5. Physical research.—This program comprises basic and applied research in the physical sciences. By major category, the costs are as follows (in thousands of dollars):

Category	1968 actual	1969 estimate	1970 estimate
High energy physics.....	113,289	118,675	124,100
Medium energy physics.....	11,133	11,385	13,300
Low energy physics.....	28,668	29,495	30,050

Total physical research.....	264,712	274,820	286,000

The Commission serves as executive agent for the Nation's high energy physics program. The increase in research costs in 1970 is primarily associated with design and construction of the 200 Bev accelerator, increased utilization of the Stanford Linear Accelerator Center and use of the improved capability of the Alternating Gradient Synchrotron.

The increase in medium energy physics is primarily to continue construction related research and development on the Los Alamos Meson Physics Facility and to support operation of the MIT electron linear accelerator. The increase in low energy physics will permit operation of new research facilities such as the Oak Ridge electron linear accelerator and the Tandem Van de Graaff at Brookhaven National Laboratory.

The increase for chemistry and metallurgical research will be used to advance basic knowledge related to practical operations of the atomic energy program.

The objective of thermonuclear plasma research is to determine whether the energy released by thermonuclear reactions can be controlled and made useful. This research is expected to expand in 1970 to complete the fabrication of large new experimental devices needed to test recent concepts for improved plasma confinement and expand the research associated with these new concepts.

6. Biology and medicine.—Research is conducted on the effects of radiation on living organisms and on the environment, protection against the injurious effects of radiation, and development of methods for using radioactive materials in the diagnosis, treatment, and understanding of human diseases such as cancer. The program includes the measurement and study of the effects of radioactivity (including fallout) in the atmosphere, soils, and surface waters for the establishment of standards to insure that AEC activities are conducted with safety. The program recognizes the responsibilities of other Government agencies conducting programs in biomedical research.

In 1970, emphasis will be given to research on production and utilization of kilogram quantities of carbon 13, an isotope which is potentially valuable for chemical, biological, and medical studies. Emphasis will continue on hazards resulting from inhalation of radon and radon daughters by uranium miners.

7. Training, education, and information.—This program includes specialized training courses; graduate and post-doctoral fellowships; assistance to schools, faculty, and students; operation of the Puerto Rico Nuclear Center; training in nuclear materials safeguards; international advisory and consulting services; dissemination of scientific and technical information; and operation of nuclear science and technology demonstrations and exhibits.

In 1970, AEC will continue to provide graduate fellowships and traineeships. The cooperative use of specialized atomic energy laboratory facilities and staff in assisting the educational programs of colleges and universities throughout the country will also continue.

To facilitate the transfer of certain regulatory functions from AEC to the States, training will be provided for State and local government employees in radiation safety, radiological health protection, and certain other subjects.

Training in nuclear materials safeguards will be provided in order to detect and deter possible diversion of nuclear materials from peaceful to unauthorized use.

To broaden knowledge and understanding of atomic energy, information is provided at both a technical and popular level. Results of scientific research and technical developments are made available to other Government agencies and to the general public. Public understanding of atomic energy is aided by domestic and overseas nuclear science demonstrations and exhibits.

8. Isotopes development.—This program is designed to promote and encourage the development of new uses of radioisotopes and radiation technology. Emphasis is given to development of heat sources for various applications including a circulatory support system, and to development of isotopic measuring and diagnostic systems for tracing and analyzing environmental pollution. Technology development for radiation preservation of foods will continue at a reduced level.

9. Civilian applications of nuclear explosives.—This program provides for the investigation, development, and demonstration of peaceful uses for nuclear explosives. The 1970 budget provides for research and development aimed at a fundamental understanding of nuclear explosive design and explosion phenomenology; development and testing of a cleaner device for use in nuclear excavation projects; a cratering experiment to extend the development of excavation technology; work on special nuclear explosives for producing transuranium elements; and development of underground engineering technology capable of being used in the recovery of natural resources.

10. Communities.—Operating costs for the community program are estimated at $10.1 million in 1970. The 1970 estimate includes assistance payments to the former AEC communities of Oak Ridge, Tenn.; Richland, Wash.; and Los Alamos, N. Mex., under the Atomic Energy Community Act of 1955, as amended. The 1970 estimate includes $4.6 million for the first of two final assistance payments to the Richland School District and community of Richland. The estimate also includes costs at Los Alamos principally for municipal operations, fire protection, and continued maintenance and operation of real estate properties which have not yet been sold.

11. Program direction and administration.—This program includes the salaries and other costs for employees engaged in executive direction, general management, and technical supervision of the atomic energy program, and in the establishment and enforcement of regulations for civilian uses of atomic energy. Employees are located in the Washington headquarters and in field offices. The 1970 estimate provides for 5,998 employees, which is 230 employees over the estimated June 30, 1969, strength of 5,768.

12. Security investigations.—The Atomic Energy Act of 1954, as amended, requires investigations of those persons proposed for access to restricted data of the atomic energy program. The number of background investigations to be requested in 1970 is estimated at 17,300 compared with 16,897 for 1969 and 15,625 for 1968.

13. Cost of work for others.—In furthering the objective of widespread utilization of atomic energy for peaceful purposes, AEC, when requested, furnishes materials and services to industrial organizations and other private parties. Charges made for such products and services are reflected in the budget under receipts and reimbursements from non-Federal sources (revenues applied) and are applied as a source of funds, thereby reducing the amount of appropriations required. The items included are (in thousands of dollars):

This appropriation provides for construction of facilities and acquisition of capital equipment required for the production, research and development, and supporting programs of the Atomic Energy Commission. Of the new budget authority of $400.6 million requested for 1970, $84.5 million applies to new construction projects or modification of existing facilities, $50.1 million is for construction projects which were previously authorized by Congress, $89.1 million is for projects for which amended authorization is requested, and $176.9 million is for acquisition of capital equipment not related to construction.

The funds applicable to the previously authorized projects include $13 million for the new weapons production capabilities project (total estimated cost $315 million); $8.2 million for the Fast Flux Test Facility (total estimated cost $87.5 million); $5 million for the Los Alamos Meson Physics Facility (total estimated cost $55 million); and $11 million for the nuclear safety engineering test facility, National Reactor Testing Station, Idaho (total estimated cost $35 million). The weapons production project provides for new capability and increased capacity required for production of warheads for the Poseidon, Sentinel, and Minuteman systems. The Fast Flux Test Facility, as part of the Liquid Metal Fast Breeder Reactor program, will provide an irradiation reactor for testing fuel and clad materials in a fast flux sodium cooled environment. The meson physics facility will be a medium energy accelerator capable of producing a beam of extremely high intensity for basic research in physics. The nuclear safety engineering test facility is a loss of coolant flow reactor safety testing facility.

Full authorization of $250 million is requested for the 200 Bev accelerator. The 1970 appropriation required for this important basic research facility amounts to $102 million.

The reactor development program includes $6.3 million for a high temperature sodium facility at Pacific Northwest Laboratory, Richland, Wash., to support the liquid metal fast breeder reactor program.

A wide variety of capital equipment is procured to fill the various needs of all operating programs. Such needs range from routine replacement of worn out and obsolete equipment to procurement of new research devices and computers. Additions are needed for expanding programs and to keep pace with rapidly changing technology in the production and research programs.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

Not to exceed 5 per centum of appropriations made available for the current fiscal year for "Operating expenses" and "Plant and capital equipment" may be transferred between such appropriations, but neither such appropriation, except as otherwise provided herein, shall be increased by more than 5 per centum by any such transfers, and any such transfers shall be reported promptly to the Appropriations Committees of the House and Senate.

No part of any appropriation herein shall be used to confer a fellowship on any person who advocates or who is a member of an organization or party that advocates the overthrow of the Government of the United States by force or violence or with respect to whom the Commission finds, upon investigation and report by the Civil Service Commission on the character, associations, and loyalty of whom, that reasonable grounds exist for belief that such person is disloyal to the Government of the United States: Provided, That any person who advocates or who is a member of an organization or party that advocates the overthrow of the Government of the United States by force or violence and accepts employment or a fellowship the salary, wages, stipend, grant, or expenses for which are paid from any appropriation contained herein shall be guilty of a felony, and, upon conviction, shall be fined not more than $1,000 or imprisoned for not more than one year, or both: Provided further, That the above penal clause shall be in addition to, and not in substitution for, any other provisions of existing law. (42 U.S.C. 2011; Public Works for Water and Power Resources Development and Atomic Energy Commission Appropriation Act, 1969.)

This appropriation provides for the basic real property operations of General Services Administration, including acquisition, operation, maintenance, protection, and utilization of general-purpose buildings and space; and for overall direction of buildings design, construction, repair, and modernization.

The appropriation request for 1970 of $311,171 thousand is a net increase of $17,417 thousand above the comparable amount for 1969. The 1969 amount includes proposed transfers of $15,083 thousand for annual costs of expansion space acquired in 1968, not provided for in GSA's 1969 budget, and $3,671 thousand proposed for separate transmittal for wage-board increases, including implementation of the Coordinated Federal Wage System.

The net increase of $17,417 thousand provides primarily for management and operation of new Federal buildings scheduled for occupancy in 1969 and 1970, offset by credits for space released resulting from new construction.

Fair value of property received from other appropriations or funds without cost for use by GSA (in thousands of dollars):

Government-owned space.....	93,976	97,103	98,981
Leased space.....	31,946	33,065	33,942

The net increase for 1970 of $15,174 thousand over the comparable amount for 1969 is composed of increases in operation and protection of Government-owned space, $8,299 thousand; rental, operation, and protection of leased space, $6,275 thousand; and moving, alterations, and related costs, $600 thousand.

2. Space management.—This activity provides for (a) review, analysis, and determination of Federal space requirements and the development of programs and projects; (b) acquisition of real property by lease, purchase, exchange, or donation, including the management of building sites pending construction; and (c) assignment and reassignment of Government-owned and leased space. The increase of $183 thousand over a comparable amount for 1969 is primarily to restore staffing to near but not in excess of the 1968 level.

3. Design and construction.—This activity provides overall direction for the nationwide Federal building design, construction, and alteration programs, including projects financed with funds transferred from other Government agencies. The increase of $2 million over a comparable amount for 1969 is to change from the present system of charging projects with the cost of overall program direction to the practice of financing this staff activity from the Operating expenses, Public Buildings

This appropriation provides for day-to-day maintenance repair work of all types, repairs, remodeling, improvement of space and tenant alterations, conversions, and extensions of federally owned buildings under the jurisdiction of the General Services Administration for these purposes. The budget for 1970 provides for continuation of the long-range program initiated in 1957 to alleviate deterioration and obsolescence of buildings which adversely affect efficient operations of occupying agencies.

Fair value of personal property received from other appropriations or funds without cost for use by GSA is as follows: 1968, $55 thousand; 1969, $25 thousand; 1970, $25 thousand.

1. Maintenance repairs.—Normal needs for day-to-day repairs to buildings and equipment are programed at a rate of $0.18 per net square foot for general office-type space and $0.06 per net square foot for warehouse-type space.

2. Repairs and improvements.—Major and minor repair and improvement projects are selected from an inventory of urgently needed work to offset obsolescence and deterioration of buildings and to bring the properties up to modern standards of usefulness.

3. Conversions and extensions.—Building conversions and extensions estimated to cost in excess of $25 thousand are performed under this heading to provide space to meet current requirements.

4. Program direction.—Overall direction and program development are provided under this activity.

This appropriation will provide for the design of an official residence for the Vice President of the United States, pursuant to Public Law 89-386.

SITES AND EXPENSES, PUBLIC BUILDINGS PROJECTS

For an additional amount for expenses necessary in connection with the construction of public buildings projects not otherwise provided for, [as specified under this head in the Independent Offices Appropriation Acts of 1959 and 1960,] including preliminary planning [of public buildings projects] by contract or otherwise, [$10,995,000] $11,000,000, to remain available until expended. (Independent Offices and Department of Housing and Urban Development Appropriation Act, 1969.)

$3.4 million for preliminary planning and development; and $0.5 million for administrative operations support.

1. Site acquisition.—Acquisition of sites, including title evidence for six projects included in the estimate, and deficiency judgments and interest thereon arising out of condemnation proceedings, said deficiency judgments to be excluded from the project limitation.

2. Design.—Preparation of drawings and specifications, by contract or otherwise, technical services, and reproduction of plans and specifications.

3. Supervision.—Construction supervision and inspection by contract or otherwise, excluded from the project limitation.

4. Preliminary planning and development.—Feasibility studies, site investigations, selections and appraisals, including options to purchase; topographical surveys, including test borings, design through tentative stage, and development of projects prior to prospectus authorization.

Public Law 89-372, approved March 18, 1966, authorized the appointment of 10 circuit and 35 district judges. An additional amount of $6 million was appropriated in the Independent Offices Appropriation Act, 1967, approved September 6, 1966, to provide equipped facilities for the judges by performing alterations to existing facilities, rental of space, and alterations of temporary facilities pending the construction of new buildings under separate financing authority.

The Administrative Office of the U.S. Courts has requested GSA to provide the facilities required for the judges and their staffs at locations where the judges will hold court. To date, the President has appointed all of the judges authorized under Public Law 89-372, and court facilities are at various stages of completion.

Public Law 90-347, approved June 18, 1968, authorized the appointment of nine additional circuit judges. Additional funds may be required at a later date to provide facilities for these judges.

This fund finances, on a reimbursable basis, building management activities consisting of: Management, rental, operation, and protection of Government-owned and leased space in and outside the District of Columbia for housing Federal agencies; modernization and recurring repairs to Government-owned space under jurisdiction of General Services Administration; protection and maintenance of excess and surplus properties; maintenance of sites acquired for future construction of Federal buildings; uniforms and uniform allowances; and other related building services (66 Stat. 594). Retained earnings resulting from operations, after making provision for prior year losses, if any, are paid into the Treasury as miscellaneous receipts.

Operating costs for 1970 are estimated at $475.7 million, a net increase of $15.2 million over 1969, mainly due to additional Government-owned space to be serviced.

1. Buildings management.—(a) Operation and protection of Government-owned space.—Provides for operation and protection of an average of 153.9 million square feet of space in 1970 compared to an average of 152.4 million square feet in 1969 and an average of 148.3 million square feet in 1968. The change from 1969 reflects net additional space to be serviced due to construction of new buildings, and certain buildings being transferred to GSA for operation and protection.

(b) Rental, operation, and protection of leased space.—Provides for an average of 49.1 million square feet in 1970 compared to an average of 48.8 million square feet in 1969 and an average of 47.4 million square feet in 1968, based on currently projected requirements of Federal agencies.

2. Moving, alterations and related costs.—Provides for moving and related alterations based on experience factors of buildings management operations and for moving and space adjustments incident to the new construction program.

3. Protection and maintenance, surplus properties.—Provides for protection and maintenance of excess and surplus properties.

4. Maintenance repairs.—Provides for day-to-day maintenance of GSA operated buildings, and other Government buildings under jurisdiction of GSA.

5. Security and special guarding.—Provides security and above normal guarding service required by other agencies.

6. Operation and maintenance of sites held for future construction.—Provides for maintenance of sites acquired for future construction of Federal buildings and repairs to improvements located thereon.

7. Job order work.—Provides for special services and repairs and improvements to buildings for GSA and other agencies.

8. Other.—Provides for program supervision of repair and improvement operations as distinguished from architectural and design activities initially financed from the Construction services fund, utility services furnished in the District of Columbia to buildings operated by other agencies and utilities to concessionaires.

Operating results and financial condition.—At the end of 1968, the net investment in the fund was $4.2 million composed of $3.5 million appropriated, $7.9 million capitalized assets, $0.8 million retained earnings, less $8 million provision for unfunded leave liability.

Construction services activities consisting of preparation of drawings and specifications for the construction or alteration of public buildings; supervision of construction and alteration activities; and surveys and test borings performed in connection with the acquisition of Federal building sites, and other related services, are financed by this fund on a reimbursable basis from funds appropriated, transferred, or advanced to General Services Administration (40 U.S.C. 296).

Operations.—Initial financing of this fund provides for salaries and related expenses of all personnel engaged in architectural and engineering services in connection with buildings design and construction, both departmental and field. Estimates for 1969 and 1970 cover the GSA public building construction program, the repair and improvement program, and additional workload in connection with projects assigned to GSA by other Federal agencies.

Operating results.—Retained earnings were increased in 1968 to approximately $822 thousand. Due to fiscal restrictions on construction activity, an operating loss of $528 thousand is anticipated for 1969, which will reduce retained earnings to $294 thousand. Operations for 1970 are projected on a break-even basis.

This appropriation provides for (1) establishment of efficient supply and property management practices throughout the Federal Government, and (2) expenses of operating the worldwide supply system through which commodities are furnished to Government agencies, Government contractors, and Government grantees, from depot stocks, or by direct delivery from suppliers, whichever is more economical and meets the needs of the Government. Except for agencies orders placed directly with suppliers under Federal supply schedule contracts, most of the purchases of commodities are financed initially from the General supply fund, subject to reimbursement by ordering agencies. Wherever economical and feasible, costs of commodities furnished directly from suppliers are paid directly from funds of the requisitioning agency without involving the General supply fund. This appropriation also provides for the necessary expenses of carrying out some of the Government-wide Automated data management activities within the jurisdiction of the General Services Administration.

Fair value of personal property received from other appropriations or funds without cost for use by GSA is as follows: 1968, $2 thousand; 1969, $6 thousand; 1970, $6 thousand.

1. Supply distribution.—Stocks of commodities for which GSA has responsibility are received, warehoused, and issued on a worldwide basis to authorized requisitioners through a national supply distribution system consisting of both wholesale and retail distribution facilities. Stores stock sales will increase from $512.9 million in 1968 to an estimated $581 million in 1970.

2. Procurement.—Commodities are procured to maintain inventories at stores depots to insure availability and for direct delivery to agencies. Term contracts for commodities and services are established for large aggregate volume requirements against which agencies place individual orders at uniform price advantages. Total procurement is estimated to increase from $2,054.3 million in 1968 to $2,350 million in 1970.

3. Inspection.—Timely delivery of commodities of specified quality is assured by inspection and surveillance at contractors' plants or supply depots, by laboratory tests and analyses of samples prior to acceptance, and by contract administration assistance. In 1970, Quality control will inspect $690 million of stores items, $258 million nonstores items, and $54.2 million of items procured from Federal supply schedules.

4. Supply standardization.—Qualitative requirements of Federal agencies are reflected in Federal specifications, Federal standards, and Federal item identifications which are mandatory for use in procurement. In 1970, the standardization program will consist of the promulgation of 960 Federal specification and standards actions and 215,000 cataloging actions.

5. Supply management.—Supply management activities will continue to place emphasis on agreements between GSA, the Department of Defense, and the civil agencies for the governing of supply management relationships. Studies and recommendations will continue to be made in order to improve the internal supply systems of Federal agencies. Priority support to the Department of Defense and the Agency for International Development requirements in Southeast Asia will receive continued emphasis.

6. Automated data management services.—During 1970, the resources for this program will be devoted to such functions as procurement assistance, contracting, determination of sharing resources, establishment, maintenance, and publication of ADP management information, reutilization of equipment, furnishing technical assistance, and performing technical research.

The Automatic Data Processing fund was authorized by Public Law 89-306, to coordinate and provide for the economic and efficient purchase, lease, and maintenance of automatic data processing equipment for Federal agencies.

The fund finances on a reimbursable basis a Government-wide automatic data processing operation, including the procurement by lease, purchase, transfer or otherwise of ADP equipment, maintenance of equipment, and operation of service centers and related functions.

Budget program.—The estimate provides for a continued increase in data processing services to General Services Administration and other agencies in 1969 and 1970. Sales are estimated to increase from $17,043 thousand in 1969 to $24,079 thousand in 1970.

1. Data processing.—Provides for the operation of Government-wide Federal data processing centers for use by General Services Administration and other agencies. Other related services also provided are: Pools of programmer analysts and equipment operators to assist other agencies on an as-required basis; joint use facilities for common central ADP services of an installation operated by an agency under GSA policy guidance and/or financing; maintenance centers which will provide repair and maintenance service for Government-owned equipment; time sharing centers where a single computer serves multiple users at various locations, thereby eliminating the need for multiple computer sites, and a magnetic surfaces laboratory to develop test methods for specifications and perform acceptance testing on all magnetic tapes procured through Federal supply schedules. In 1968, the ADP working fund operation in GSA was consolidated into the ADP fund to form the nucleus of the Federal data processing centers operation. Expansion of the center operations and other related operations in 1969 and 1970 are estimated to increase the revenue from sales of $13,178 thousand in 1968 to $15,243 thousand in 1969 and to $20,249 thousand in 1970.

2. Lease program.—Finances the purchases of ADP equipment and soft-ware programs from manufacturers for subsequent lease to Federal agencies when a distinct economic advantage will accrue to the Government. Reimbursement by Federal agencies which lease the equipment from the ADP fund recovers the depreciation on the equipment plus the cost of operating the lease program. The cost to these Federal agencies as a result of leasing equipment from the ADP fund is substantially below the cost of leasing the same equipment from the equipment manufacturers. Revenue from lease is estimated to increase from $1,800 thousand in 1969 to $3,830 thousand in 1970.

This fund finances, on a reimbursable basis, a national supply depot system and a system of ordering supplies for direct delivery to agencies. Supplies or services are sold from the fund at cost to other agencies and the District of Columbia. Related operating expenses are provided for under the appropriation Operating expenses, Federal Supply Service.

Also financed by the fund and reimbursed by using agencies are the operations of interagency motor vehicle pools established in areas of high vehicle density and the rehabilitation and repair of furniture and equipment.

Budget program.—This estimate provides for continuation of the current level of sales to military and civilian agencies.

1. Supply operations.—(a) Stores, regular.—Stocks of common-use commodities are purchased in volume and stored in supply depots for issue to Government agencies. From a total of $512.9 million in 1968, sales are estimated to increase to $581 million in 1969 and 1970.

(b) Stores, direct delivery.—Orders for stores-type items, if sufficiently large and delivery time is not a factor, are placed with the commercial source of supply and delivered directly to the user. Sales were $81.6 million in 1968, and are estimated to increase to $94 million in 1969 and 1970.

(c) Nonstores items.—Definite quantity requirements of commodities which are not susceptible to economical stocking in supply depots are purchased for direct shipment to using agencies. Sales through the fund are expected to increase from $211.1 million in 1968 to $349 million in 1969 and 1970.

2. Export operations.—Stores and nonstores items are shipped to overseas users. Receipts to the fund covering packing, transportation costs and other reimbursable services are expected to increase from $45.9 million in 1968 to $59 million in 1969 and 1970.

Equipment rental.—Operating and administrative equipment is purchased and charged on an accrual basis to the using activities. Receipts are estimated to decrease from $2.8 million in 1968 to $2.5 million in 1969 due to the transfer of ADP equipment to the ADP fund, and increase to $2.7 million in 1970.

3. Rehabilitation and repair of furniture and equipment.—Furniture and equipment repair services, provided through commercial sources wherever feasible and economical, are expected to remain at $0.9 million through 1970.

4. Motor pools.—Services are provided to agencies through a system of interagency motor pools. Sales are estimated to increase from $51.4 million in 1968 to $55.1 million in 1969 and decrease to $54.5 million in 1970 due to greater emphasis on direct payments from agencies to commercial sources for vehicle rentals.

Other revenue and expense.—Gain or losses on equipment disposals, adjustments between fiscal years, inventory writeoffs, and discounts are applied against operating costs.

Operating results and financial condition.—Investment of the U.S. Government at the end of 1970 is estimated at $400.9 million, consisting of $242.7 million direct appropriations, $157.7 million donated assets, and $0.6 million capitalized surplus with $0.1 million deducted for long-term leave liability.

Any operating surplus, as determined by the General Accounting Office audit, must be returned to Treasury as miscellaneous receipts. Payment to be so made in 1969 is $12,284 thousand.

This appropriation provides for basic operations dealing with management of the Government's archives and records and for operation of presidential libraries.

The estimate for 1970 is $1,625.5 thousand more than 1969 financing. Of this amount, $365.5 thousand is required to handle increased transfers of records from agencies and increased reference service demands in Federal records centers; $350 thousand to begin making microfilm publication copies of valuable historical records for regional archival depositories; $87 thousand to establish a centralized program for Federal audiovisual records; $688 thousand for increased presidential libraries activities; $55 thousand for workload increases in the Federal Register; and $80 thousand for increased support activities.

Fair value of personal property received from other appropriations or funds without cost for use by GSA is as follows: 1968, $3 thousand; 1969, $4 thousand; 1970, $4 thousand.

In 1970 records in custody of the National Archives and Federal records centers will total 10.8 million cubic feet, which represents 39% of the total Federal records. Reference services will total 10.5 million, a large increase from 6.2 million in 1968 and 9.3 million estimated for 1969.

1. Records management and centers.—The workload requirements in the 13 regional records centers and in the National Personnel Records Center continue to increase, reflecting agencies demands for service. In 1970, agencies will transfer 900,000 feet of inactive records to the regional centers, where a total of 7.6 million reference services will be rendered from all holdings. The national center in St. Louis, holding more than 100 million case files on separated military and civilian personnel, will furnish an estimated 2.3 million reference services.

In 1968 the existence and operation of Federal records centers accounted for a Government-wide cost avoidance of $16.5 million, representing the value of space and equipment released by the transfer of records to centers and the storage of agency records received in previous years more economically than agencies could have done.

The records management activity helps agencies control their paperwork load, which for all of the Federal Government consists of some 8 to 10 billion pages a year. In 1968 GSA's direct assistance to agencies produced a net first-year savings of $11.5 million including 255,000 man-days saved or released for other duty. Approximately 70% of the assistance was financed by appropriated funds.

2. Archives and related services.—The workload in the National Archives will continue to increase in 1970. Two programs are being implemented in 1970: (1) A 5-year program providing microfilm copies of more than 100 million pages of historical records in regional archival depositories, which cover a wide range of subject matter whose basic documentation in Federal records is vital to research in economic, public administration, political science, law, ethnology, etc.; and (2) rendering centrally several audiovisual services for Federal agencies and the public, including a central information point for Government-produced materials, a central technical assistance staff to assist agencies in production and distribution, a central storage facility for semiactive and current materials, and an augmented audiovisual archival program to meet agency needs.

Increases in positions for all presidential libraries are required in 1970 due to the increasing workload.

The workload of the Federal Register will increase some 21,000 manuscript pages, largely due to the Freedom of Information Act and the recently established Administrative Conference of the United States.

TRANSPORTATION AND COMMUNICATIONS ACTIVITIES

Federal Funds

General and special funds:

OPERATING EXPENSES, TRANSPORTATION AND COMMUNICATIONS SERVICE

For necessary expenses of transportation, communications, and other public utilities management and related activities, as provided by law, including services as authorized by 5 U.S.C. 3109, $6,150,000. (Independent Offices and Department of Housing and Urban Development Appropriation Act, 1969.)

This appropriation provides for improving management of transportation, communication, and public utility services in all civilian agencies, and for providing specialized services to civilian agencies in each of these fields.

1. Transportation services.—Guides, procedures and educational programs for improving transportation practices and operations in civilian agencies are developed; reasonable rates are negotiated with carriers; and procurement assistance, rates, routing, and related services are supplied to executive agencies. The estimated workload in 1970 provides for increases of 2% in procurement contract assistance and 2% in information services.

2. Communication services.—Networks are designed and engineered for a Federal communications system for general and national defense use, compatible with the National Communications System. Studies of equipment utilization, service, rates, and economic factors are made, contracts negotiated, and management and control of operations are provided. The projected program for 1970 provides for the management of the Federal Telecommunications System financed through the FT fund whose sales volume will increase from $114.1 million in 1969 to an estimated $122.9 million in 1970, and for increasing emphasis on the management of Government-wide communications.

3. Motor vehicle management.—Government-wide policies and procedures are developed to improve the overall efficiency of the operation of the Government-owned motor vehicle fleet, and to assist the various Federal agencies with motor equipment management. The program for 1970 contemplates 20 additional motor equipment studies of agencies' managerial and operational policies. Implementation of the recommendations of such studies have to date reduced equipment investment by about $3.7 million and operating costs by $5.2 million.

4. Public utilities services.—Negotiations are conducted with public utilities companies on behalf of executive agencies and technical assistance is rendered in connection with regulatory proceedings. In 1970, continued emphasis will be placed on the above areas, where, in 1968, savings to the Government of $1,098 thousand accrued.

In the transportation, communications, and public utilities services, the regulatory representation function consists of (1) negotiations with carriers and utility companies concerning consumer considerations of the Government, and (2) participation in regulatory proceedings. New rate proposals are discussed with the carriers before they become effective which, it is anticipated, will minimize the number of rate proceedings in which GSA will participate during this year on behalf of the Government as a user.

This fund was authorized by Public Law 87-847, approved October 23, 1962. It finances, on a reimbursable basis, a telecommunications system for the Federal Government which is operationally compatible with military communications systems. The system provides local and long-distance voice, teletype, data, facsimile and other communications services.

Expenses payable from the fund include personal services, procurement by lease or purchase of equipment and operating facilities (including cryptographic devices), and other costs necessary to operate the system. These expenses are reimbursed from available appropriations and funds of any agency or organization for telecommunications services and facilities made available to them.

Initial capital of $9 million was appropriated by Public Law 88-25, approved May 17, 1963. This sum may be increased by donations of supplies and equipment.

Budget program.—The estimate provides for a continued increase in volume and quality of communications services provided to executive agencies of the Government. Total sales for 1968 were $97.7 million and are estimated at $114.1 million in 1969 and $122.9 million in 1970.

1. Voice program.—Provides for a telephonic system which will enable personnel in each Federal agency office to communicate directly on a machine-to-machine or station-to-station basis with any other agency office in the Nation. The system will provide day-to-day service as well as incorporate features which would be necessary in emergency situations. The program for 1970 contemplates a sales level of $104.3 million, an increase of about 7.5% over 1969, and an anticipated traffic volume of 67 million intercity calls being handled by FTS.

2. Record program.—A common unified system to satisfy record communications requirements of all Federal civil agencies by providing machine-to-machine service for transmission of information by data, teletypewriter, facsimile, and other transmission media while at the same time providing message processing capability required for peak-period traffic loads, time zone differences, machine code and language translation, and processing of multiple address messages. The continued development of the records program is reflected in the projected sales increase of $1.5 million or 13% in 1970 over 1969.

3. Circuit procurement program.—Provides for centralized procurement of circuits while at the same time permitting each agency to maintain operational control over its own circuits, thereby obtaining benefit of multiple tariff offerings of the commercial carriers. The sales program increases from $5.1 million in 1969 to $5.2 million in 1970.

4. Special programs.—Provides for an effective communications security program for civil agencies in keeping with objectives of the U.S. communications security plan, and for a consolidated program of procurement and maintenance of equipment to implement such security plans. These programs insure that the Federal Telecommunications System will remain operational in the event any portion of the normal system is disabled or destroyed.

Operating results and financial condition.—At the end of 1969 the net investment in the fund is estimated to be $8.7 million, composed of $9 million appropriated, $0.2 million donated assets capitalized, less $0.5 million unfunded leave liability. Following the close of each fiscal year any surplus earnings, after making provision for prior year losses, if any, are to be deposited in miscellaneous receipts of the Treasury.

The Property Management and Disposal Service has the responsibility for: (a) acquisition, administration, and disposal of national stockpile inventories pursuant to the Strategic and Critical Materials Stock Piling Act; (b) custody and disposal of the supplemental stockpile established by the Agricultural Trade Development and Assistance Act; (c) administration of utilization and disposal functions of the General Services Administration with respect to excess and surplus real and personal property; (d) rehabilitation of personal property; and (e) administration of the inventory of machine tools and industrial manufacturing equipment established under the National Industrial Reserve Act.

The estimate for 1970 provides for acquisition, handling, storage, maintenance, inspection, upgrading, and rotation of stockpiled materials and disposal of those stockpile materials excess to objectives, the administration of the industrial equipment reserve activities, the appraisal of real and personal property, and continuing emphasis on reuse of existing real and personal property to obviate new capital and procurement outlays, with prompt disposal of those items no longer required, and the rehabilitation of personal property to extend its useful life.

The estimate for 1970 provides for conduct of these programs with an increase of $1,280 thousand over the 1969 level.

1. Property management.—This activity covers the cost of acquiring, handling, storage, upgrading, rotating, inspecting, and maintaining materials in the national and supplemental stockpiles and administration of the national industrial equipment reserve. Rotation of abaca and sisal is planned in 1970 to exchange over age stocks with industry for fresh material. Pursuant to the Strategic and Critical Materials Stock Piling Act, cash receipts from sales of rotated materials would be available for application against the cost of replacement materials.

a. Strategic and critical materials.—Strategic and critical materials amounting to approximately 41.3 million tons and valued at $5.9 billion were stored at 143 locations as of June 30, 1968. Distribution of depot storage costs for these materials is as follows (in thousands of dollars):

Recurring costs.....	7,259	7,635	7,391
Nonrecurring costs.....	1,361	1,300	1,300
Relocation, transportation, and handling.....	201	600	900
Total cost or estimate.....	8,821	9,535	9,591

In addition to depot storage, this activity provides for the acquisition of new materials, upgrading and rotation of present materials, and provides inspection and stockpile management services relative to maintaining the national and supplemental stockpiles.

b. Industrial reserve.—This activity also provides for administration of a National Industrial Equipment Reserve, which had an inventory of 9,362 tools as of June 30, 1968.

2. Real property disposal.—This activity provides for utilization of excess and disposal of surplus real property, including national industrial reserve properties. The estimate for 1970 provides for utilization transfers of 130 properties, sale of 285 surplus properties, and other surplus disposal (donations, etc.) totaling 250 properties. The selling price of real property and rental revenue in 1970 is estimated at $76 million.

Physical care, protection, and maintenance of excess and surplus real and related personal property pending disposal are also provided. In addition, this activity is responsible for the appraisal of excess and surplus real property and inleasing as well as the establishment of specifications, standards, and methods governing such appraisals.

3. Personal property disposal.—This activity covers the cost of disposal of strategic materials excess to objectives, and the utilization, donation, rehabilitation, and sale of surplus and exchange/sale personal property.

a.-c. Nonstockpile.—This activity provides for utilization of excess personal property, thereby reducing new procurement; donation of surplus personal property for public benefit purposes; sale of surplus and exchange/sale personal property; and rehabilitation of personal property owned by the Government to extend its useful life. The estimate for 1970 provides for utilization transfers and donations totaling $1,020 million at acquisition cost, an increase of $20 million over 1969, and proceeds from sale of surplus and exchange/sale property totaling $14.5 million, an increase of $1.5 million over 1969. Rehabilitation of personal property will amount to $140 million at replacement cost, an increase of $10 million over 1969.

d. Strategic and critical materials disposal.—This activity provides for the disposal of excess strategic and critical materials. Sales commitments of strategic and critical materials are estimated at $120 million and $157 million in 1969 and 1970, respectively. The estimates are based on the assumption of a continuation of present economic conditions but with the passage of new disposal legislation.

4. Program support.—Program support, planning, and coordination are provided to all activities of the Property Management and Disposal Service. This activity is responsible for data collection and economic analysis of all factors bearing on stockpile materials, personal property and real property, such as supply, demand, consumption, prices, etc. This area also serves the entire Property Management and Disposal Service in development of financial plans and operating schedules, long-range plans and programs, analysis of problem areas, and evaluation of actual program results in relation to approved plans and objectives. This activity is responsible for internal Service operations including personnel, property, space, etc., and serves as the central point for internal and external reports, and development and coordination of all procedures and regulatory material.

5. Service direction.—General direction over all programs assigned to the Property Management and Disposal Service is provided by the Commissioner and his immediate staff, and in the regions by 10 regional directors who are responsible for carrying out program operations in these areas.

Appraisers, auctioneers, and brokers familiar with local markets are used to accelerate the disposal of surplus real and related personal property. Fees of appraisers, auctioneers, and brokers and costs of advertising and surveying are paid out of receipts from disposals within each year in accordance with 40 U.S.C.A. 485(b). Also paid from such proceeds is the direct expense in connection with utilization of excess real and related personal property (68 Stat. 1051). Properties sold by auctioneers and brokers totaled four in 1968 and are estimated at 14 in 1969 and 1970.

Guarantees are given on loans made by public or private financing institutions, including Federal Reserve banks, to facilitate performance of defense production contracts. Upon demand of lending institutions, the Government is required to purchase the guaranteed percentage of the loan or the Government may elect to make a voluntary purchase of the guaranteed percentage. Advances from appropriations available for procurement may be made to this fund for its temporary use, although such action has not been necessary to date. Net earnings are retained to meet possible future loan defaults (50 U.S.C. app. 2091).

The Government's maximum contingent liability as guarantor on one loan now in effect is estimated to be $34.1 million at the end of 1970. Retained earnings are estimated to be $0.2 million at the end of 1970.

This fund, authorized by Public Law 90-469, approved August 8, 1968, provides for the operation of the William Langer Jewel Bearing Plant at Rolla, N. Dak. This Government-owned plant is the only facility in the continental United States capable of producing jewel bearings in quantity. The Office of Emergency Preparedness has determined that the plant is an essential part of the national mobilization base and that its continued operation as a domestic source of jewel bearings is in the interest of the United States.

All jewel bearings required for the national stockpile are produced in this plant. Under the requirements of both the Armed Services Procurement Regulations and Federal Procurement Regulations, Government contractors are required to procure and use jewel bearings manufactured at the Langer Jewel Bearing Plant under certain specified conditions.

It is anticipated that this revolving fund will be activated January 1, 1969. There are authorized to be appropriated to this fund any additional sums which may be required for operation of the plant. However, the requirement for appropriated capital is not anticipated at this time.

Under the provisions of Reorganization Plan No. 1 of 1957, the Reconstruction Finance Corporation was abolished as a corporate entity and the remaining functions of the Smaller War Plants Corporation and the World War II assets program were transferred to the General Services Administration for final liquidation.

Operations.—It is anticipated that there will continue during 1970 the servicing of leases and conditional sales agreements covering two facilities, and two other miscellaneous assets. Financial and legal servicing will also be required on approximately 20 cases in the hands of the Department of Justice under the complex food subsidy program. In 1970 administrative expenses in connection with financial and legal services will be absorbed in funds available from regular GSA programs.

Operating results.—Proceeds from liquidation will be paid into miscellaneous receipts of the Treasury.

This management fund provides financing of administrative operations services on a centralized and integrated basis for all General Services Administration programs.

1. Administration.—Consisting of accounting and reporting, credit, insurance, and related financial services, budget, personnel administration, management systems and office services. Overall management of GSA's centralized field duplicating services is provided under this head; however, financing of these services is reflected in the Working capital fund.

2. Audits and compliance.—Provides management with an independent and objective review and appraisal of all GSA programs through the medium of contract and internal audits, investigations, and civil rights equal employment opportunity functions.

3. Legal services.—In the fields of real property, personal property, archives, and records, transportation and communications, strategic and critical materials stockpiling, and finance and administration.

Central blueprinting, photostating, duplicating, and distribution services are financed by a working capital fund pending reimbursements (40 U.S.C. 293). The Joint Committee on Printing, U.S. Congress, has authorized GSA to establish and operate one departmental printing plant in Washington, D.C., and 13 field printing plants to meet the needs of GSA and other Federal agencies. In addition, GSA operated 12 duplicating plants at the end of fiscal year 1968, and it is anticipated that GSA will establish one new or consolidated centralized duplicating plant each year for the next several years.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

The appropriate appropriation or fund available to the General Services Administration shall be credited with (1) cost of operation, protection, maintenance, upkeep, repair, and improvement, included as part of rentals received from Government corporations pursuant to law (40 U.S.C. 129); (2) reimbursements for services performed in respect to bonds and other obligations under the jurisdiction of the General Services Administration, issued by public authorities, States, or other public bodies, and such services in respect to such bonds or obligations as the Administrator deems necessary and in the public interest may, upon the request and at the expense of the issuing agencies, be provided from the appropriate foregoing appropriation; and (3) appropriations or funds available to other agencies, and transferred to the General Services Administration, in connection with property transferred to the General Services Administration pursuant to the Act of July 2, 1948 (50 U.S.C. 451ff), and such appropriations or funds may be so transferred, with the approval of the Bureau of the Budget.

Appropriations to the General Services Administration under the heading "Construction, Public Buildings Projects" shall be available, subject to the provisions of the Public Buildings Act of 1959 for (1) acquisition of buildings and sites thereof by purchase, condemnation, or otherwise, including prepayment of purchase contracts, (2) extension or conversion of Government-owned buildings, and (3) construction of new buildings, in addition to those set forth under that appropriation: Provided, That nothing herein shall authorize an expenditure of funds for acquisition, extension or conversion, or construction without the approval of the Committees on Appropriations of the Senate and House of Representatives.

Funds available to the General Services Administration shall be available for the hire of passenger motor vehicles.

No part of any money appropriated by this or any other Act for any agency of the executive branch of the Government shall be used during the current fiscal year for the purchase within the continental limits of the United States of any typewriting machines except in accordance with regulations issued pursuant to the provisions of the Federal Property and Administrative Services Act of 1949, as amended.

Not to exceed 2 per centum of any appropriation made available to the General Services Administration for the current fiscal year by this Act may be transferred to any other such appropriation, but no such appropriation shall be increased thereby more than 2 per centum: Provided, That such transfers shall apply only to operating expenses, and shall not exceed in the aggregate the amount of $2,000,000.

Appropriations available to any department or agency during the current fiscal year for necessary expenses, including maintenance or operating expenses, shall also be available for (a) reimbursement to the General Services Administration for those expenses of renovation and alteration of buildings and facilities which constitute public improvements, performed in accordance with the Public Buildings Act of 1959 (73 Stat. 479) or other applicable law, and (b) transfer or reimbursement to applicable appropriations to said Administration for rents and related expenses, not otherwise provided for, of providing subject to Executive Order 11035, dated July 9, 1962, directly or indirectly, suitable general purpose space for any such department or agency, in the District of Columbia or elsewhere.

No part of any appropriation contained in this Act shall be used for the payment of rental on lease agreements for the accommodation of Federal agencies in buildings and improvements which are to be erected by the lessor for such agencies at an estimated cost of construction in excess of $200,000 or for the payment of the salary of any person who executes such a lease agreement: Provided, That the foregoing proviso shall not be applicable to projects for which a prospectus for the lease construction of space has been submitted to the Congress and approval made in the same manner as for the public buildings construction projects pursuant to the Public Buildings Act of 1959. (Independent Offices and Department of Housing and Urban Development Appropriation Act, 1969.)

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration was established October 1, 1958, pursuant to Public Law 85-568 (72 Stat. 426; 42 U.S.C. 2451), approved July 29, 1958, for the conduct of the nonmilitary space programs of the United States, including the exploration of space and its utilization for peaceful purposes, and to conduct and support advanced research and development related to space and aeronautics in support of both civil and military requirements. This appropriation provides for research and development activities of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration as follows:

1. Manned space flight.—These estimates include the Apollo, Apollo applications, and advanced manned mission studies programs. Funding supports all NASA manned space flight missions, the production of space vehicles, the development of earth orbital and lunar experiments and design studies of advanced manned missions including a low-earth orbit space station. Manned space flight programs provide a national capability for manned operations in space. The manned lunar landing, a major demonstration of this capability, is planned for 1969.

(a) Gemini.—The Gemini program was completed in 1967.

(b) Apollo.—The Apollo program has created and demonstrated the capability to perform major manned operations in space.

The development and Apollo launch phase of the Saturn IB launch vehicle was successfully completed last year. During 1968, the fourth Saturn IB was used for an unmanned flight test of the lunar module, and the fifth Saturn IB was used to launch the first manned Apollo Command and Service Modules. This mission, Apollo 7, reopened the history of manned space flight, met all the major test objectives, and went the full duration of 11 days, confirming the reliability of the spacecraft and the concept of open-ended mission planning. If no further Saturn IB flights are required for Apollo development, the remaining vehicles will be used in the Apollo Applications program.

During 1968 a successful unmanned earth orbital test of the Command and Service Modules was conducted on the Saturn V launch vehicle. A manned lunar orbit mission was successfully completed in December.

During 1969, five more manned Apollo missions are planned. The first two will conduct operational testing of the Command and Service Modules and the Lunar Module in earth orbit and in lunar orbit. Depending on the progress of the missions, a lunar landing is planned on one of the three remaining flights.

After the first manned lunar landing, scientific exploration of the moon will be conducted by men and equipment with the objective of understanding its origin, processes of formation, evolutionary history, and relationship to the earth and the solar system. The early lunar exploration flights will use launch vehicles and, with some modification, spacecraft produced for the Apollo program.

(c) Apollo applications.—The program consists of manned earth orbital missions of increasing duration. The Saturn I Workshop and revisit missions serve as a means for accomplishing the medical, human factors, engineering technology and operational objectives established for long duration manned space flight. The solar astronomy mission is designed to support space science through the participation of trained scientist-astronauts in the operation of a complex space observatory. Accomplishment of these objectives will contribute to design and operation criteria for future space exploration as well as demonstrate the long duration usefulness and ability of man in performing complex scientific, engineering, and technology tasks in space.

(d) Advanced manned mission studies.—This program will examine advanced manned space flight program concepts and develop technical information and cost data upon which future program decisions can be based. Included in these activities are further design studies and system, experiment and component investigations for a multi-purpose long-duration space station, capable of several years operation in low earth orbit, and on economical and practical methods of ferrying men to and from the station.

2. Scientific investigations in space.—The objective of this activity is to increase our knowledge of the earth, interplanetary space, the moon, the sun, the solar system, other stars and galaxies, and the effects of the space environment on living organisms. The flight systems used are sounding rocket probes, orbiting spacecraft, and spacecraft designed for planetary and interplanetary missions.

(a) Physics and astronomy.—This program is directed toward the increase of our knowledge of the space environment of the earth and the sun; the sun's relationship to the earth's environment and to interplanetary space; stars and nebulae. It is a coordinated research program with national and international participation. A variety of tools are used in this research including automated observatories, manned spacecraft, interplanetary spacecraft, explorers, sounding rockets, balloons, aircraft, ground based observatories, laboratory and theoretical research.

(b) Lunar and planetary exploration.—Mariner spacecraft flights to Mars are planned in 1969 and 1971 to photograph the Martian surface, to provide atmospheric profile measurements, and to identify certain atmospheric constituents. 1973 missions to Mars are planned using the Titan III D/Centaur launch vehicle. These missions will include both orbiters and soft landers to make the first direct measurements on the surface of the planet. In addition, Pioneer spacecraft will be utilized to explore the interplanetary medium at distances as far out as the orbit of Jupiter in 1972 and 1973. A new class of planetary explorers will be developed commencing in 1970 for investigations of both Mars and Venus, and a Mariner class spacecraft will be launched to Mercury in 1973 utilizing the energy augmentation available by a Venus swing-by. Lunar exploration effort will be devoted to continuing laboratory investigation, theoretical and planning studies to increase our scientific knowledge of the moon and to improve experiments on future missions.

(c) Bioscience.—This program will continue to investigate the effects of weightlessness, radiation, and other space phenomena on animals, plants, and other biological organisms. Another major objective is to obtain knowledge on the origin, nature and distribution of life in the universe. Information for these investigations will be obtained from biosatellite spacecraft, planetary missions and manned flights.

(d) Launch vehicle development and support.—This program includes those launch vehicle procurement activities which are not specifically chargeable to spacecraft missions, such as range support, launch operations, and maintenance engineering necessary to sustain and improve the performance of existing vehicles. The most significant vehicle system improvement included in 1970 is the integration of the Centaur with the Titan III D vehicle for the planned Mars 1973 mission.

3. Space applications.—The objectives of this activity include development of meteorological, technological, earth resources, and geodetic satellites, and studies of communication and navigation components and systems. Specific objectives are to improve satellite instrumentation and data handling technology; to provide data for atmospheric, earth resources and geodetic research; to participate in design and development of operational satellite systems as required and, to study advanced satellite systems.

The earth resources survey program will continue to develop the technology for surveying the earth's resources from space. The major areas of interest are: agriculture/forestry, geology/mineralogy, hydrology/oceanography and geography/cartography. In 1970, development will begin on a new Earth Resources Technology Satellite for experimental application of the technology developed in the earth resources survey program. Flight experiments and activities will also be carried out with the Tiros, Nimbus, Applications Technology and Geodetic Satellites, on an experimental synchronous meteorological satellite, and on meteorological sounding rockets.

4. Space technology.—This activity is comprised of research and development effort relating to space vehicle systems and operations, and associated equipment and components for space missions. Emphasis is placed on space vehicle structures, auxiliary power systems, propulsion systems, and life support technology. The program includes development of a flight type NERVA I nuclear rocket engine having a thrust of about 75,000 pounds to provide basic propulsion capability for future high energy, high payload missions. The improvement of electronic systems for control, data acquisition, and communications will be continued. Much of this and other basic research is conducted in laboratories and special ground-based test facilities located at the various NASA centers.

5. Aircraft technology.—The objective of this activity is to extend the national capability in aeronautics in support of other Government agencies having aeronautical interests and responsibilities such as the Departments of Defense and Transportation. Aeronautical research will continue in VSTOL, subsonic, supersonic, and hypersonic technology in support of civil and military aircraft development. Emphasis will be placed on research in noise reduction and alleviation.

6. Supporting activities.—The programs grouped in this activity provide general support for the attainment of NASA mission objectives.

(a) Tracking and data acquisition.—Operation and equipment of the stations of the NASA tracking and data acquisition networks are provided for here, as well as research and development to increase the capability of the specialized ground equipment.

(b) Sustaining university program.—This program includes training grants awarded for graduate studies in specialized engineering and other fields, and multidisciplinary research grants to universities.

(c) Technology utilization.—The objective of this program is to accelerate the transfer into the economy of new advances in technology generated by NASA and NASA contractors.

This appropriation provides for contractual services for the design, construction, and modification of facilities; the purchase of equipment related to construction and modification; major modifications and rehabilitations to existing facilities; and advance design of facilities planned for future authorization. The principal projects in the 1970 program are described below:

1. Manned space flight.—This activity includes funding for modifications to launch facilities, utility installations, and other facilities at the John F. Kennedy Space Center, NASA, Kennedy Space Center, Fla.; and a power generation facility at the Manned Spacecraft Center, Houston, Tex.

2. Scientific investigations in space.—The estimates for this activity provide for modifications to facilities for fire protection and prevention at the Goddard Space Flight Center, Greenbelt, Md.; a flight information control and analysis laboratory at Wallops Station, Wallops Island, Va.; and modifications to the space launch complex at the Western Test Range, Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif.

3. Space applications.—No 1970 projects.

4. Space technology.—Funds for this activity will provide for a computer-instrumentation research laboratory and extension to the center support facilities at the Electronics Research Center, Cambridge, Mass.

5. Aircraft technology.—This activity includes funding for an aircraft noise reduction laboratory at the Langley Research Center, Hampton, Va.

6. Supporting activities.—This activity includes funds for facility planning and design; completion of two 210-foot-diameter antenna systems at Canberra, Australia, and Madrid, Spain; and modifications and rehabilitations to facilities at NASA installations and at plants operated by contractors for NASA.

This appropriation provides for expenses of research in Government laboratories, management of programs, and other expenses for the operation of NASA installations.

Responsibility for the manned space flight activity is located at the John F. Kennedy Space Center, NASA, Kennedy Space Center, Fla.; Manned Spacecraft Center, Houston, Tex.; and Marshall Space Flight Center, Huntsville, Ala. The scientific investigations in space and space applications activities are concentrated principally at the Goddard Space Flight Center, Greenbelt, Md., and the Wallops Station, Wallops Island, Va. The space technology activity is conducted at all major NASA installations.

Other locations to which portions of the above activities are assigned include: Ames Research Center, Moffett Field, Calif.; Electronics Research Center, Cambridge, Mass.; Flight Research Center, Edwards, Calif.; Langley Research Center, Hampton, Va.; Lewis Research Center, Cleveland, Ohio; and the Space Nuclear Propulsion Office, Germantown, Md.

Aircraft technology work is carried out at the Ames, Flight, Langley, and Lewis research centers.

Programwide support and management are provided by NASA Headquarters, Washington, D.C., and the NASA Pasadena Office, Pasadena, Calif. Support activities for tracking and data acquisition requirements are performed at the Manned Spacecraft Center, Goddard Space Flight Center, and Wallops Station.

The following table reflects the distribution of the direct obligations by installation:

This appropriation provides for the payment of compensation, pensions, and related benefits to veterans and their dependents. In June 1968 there were an estimated 26.3 million living veterans of which 3.2 million (12.4%) were receiving benefits under this appropriation. In addition, 2.3 million dependents of deceased veterans were receiving benefits. Recent legislative amendments will increase the amount of benefit payments to be made in 1969 and 1970. These include: (a) The full-year effect of Public Law 90-77, approved August 31, 1967, which increased most pension rates by 5.4% on October 1, 1967, liberalized other pension benefits, and initially provided certain wartime benefits to Vietnam veterans. The estimated additional pension cost in 1969 will approximate $30 million; (b) Public Law 90-275, approved March 28, 1968, restructures veterans and survivors pension system, effective January 1, 1969, and increases income limitations by $200 for each category. It is estimated to cost $59.3 million for the last half of 1969, and approximately $123.5 million in 1970; (c) Public Law 90-431, approved July 26, 1968, authorizes part-time vocational rehabilitation training effective the same date. This will increase subsistence allowance costs by $2.8 million in 1969 and $3.6 million in 1970; (d) Public Law 90-493, approved August 19, 1968, and effective January 1, 1969, increases the rates of compensation for most service-disabled veterans. It will also eliminate the statutory (q) rate payable for arrested TB, but retain those currently on rolls. Estimates of cost approximate $110.7 million in 1969 and $221.5 million in 1970.

A supplemental appropriation amounting to $179,000 thousand is required in 1969 as shown under Proposed for separate transmittal, existing legislation. This amount includes $6.2 million to meet the cost of increased caseloads and higher average payments occasioned by the new legislation.

1. Compensation.—Compensation is payable to living veterans who have suffered impairment of earning power from service-connected disabilities. Death compensation or dependency and indemnity compensation is payable to the widow and dependents of veterans whose deaths are related to service-connected disabilities.

The increasing trend in veterans average caseload for 1968 and 1969 is due basically to the growth of the Vietnam era caseload which more than offsets the declining caseload trends of the earlier war period categories. The increase in average payment for 1969 is attributable to the full-year effect of paying wartime rates to Vietnam era veterans, as provided by Public Law 90-77, and the initial effect of the increased rates provided by Public Law 90-493. The increase in 1970 reflects the full-year effect of Public Law 90-493, as well as changes in the composition of the caseload.

The increase in the average survivors caseload in 1969 and 1970 is largely the result of conflict in Southeast Asia. Increases in the average payment for 1969 and 1970 are anticipated because of the increasing proportion of cases receiving the higher dependency and indemnity compensation rates over those receiving the "old" death compensation rates. This is accentuated somewhat because of previously authorized increases in military pay which results in higher monthly payments to widows receiving dependency and indemnity compensation.

2. Pensions.—Benefits are payable to wartime veterans and dependents of deceased veterans, on the basis of non-service-connected disabilities or death, and financial need.

A slight decrease in average veterans caseload is projected for 1969 and 1970 because of the continuing caseload decline in the earlier war period categories where the age and mortality rates are the main factors. These decreases more than offset the estimated rise in the World War II, Korean conflict, and Vietnam era categories, as well as the projected general increase in cases attributable to the higher income limitations provided by Public Law 90-275. Projected increases in annual average payments for 1969 and 1970 are attributable, in part, to the full-year effect of rate increases authorized for most pensioners by Public Law 90-77; and to further rate increases provided to certain pensioners by Public Law 90-275.

Based on trends experienced in recent years, a continuing increase in survivors' caseload is projected for 1969 and 1970. In addition, higher income limitations established by Public Law 90-275 will add new cases beginning January 1, 1969. The increase in the average payment projected during 1969 and 1970 is partly attributable to the full-year effect of the higher rates provided by Public Law 90-77, and to the rate increases provided to certain pensioners by Public Law 90-275.

3. Other.—These miscellaneous benefits cover payments which are not readily combined with any one of the preceding compensation or pension categories.

(a) Retired officers.—Emergency officers of World War I and certain officers of the Regular Establishment who have retired because of service-connected disability are entitled to special benefits. The average caseload is declining steadily (as these officers age) from an actual of 800 in 1968 to an estimated 680 in 1970. The annual average payment in 1968 was $2,636. An average of $2,718 is projected for 1969, and $2,724 in 1970, with total requirements approximating $2,011 thousand in 1969 and $1,852 thousand in 1970.

(b) Adjusted service and dependents pay.—Claims made pursuant to the provisions of the World War Adjusted Compensation Act of 1924, as amended, are payable from this appropriation. If the amount of adjusted service credit was more than $50 the veterans were entitled to receive adjusted service certificates. The payment of adjusted service certificates was heretofore made from an adjusted service certificate fund. Activities of this fund were transferred in 1966 to this appropriation.

During 1968, costs of the combined activity were $51,717. It is anticipated that costs will approximate $56 thousand in 1969 and in 1970.

(c) Subsistence allowance.—Payments are made to disabled veterans enrolled in vocational rehabilitation and education programs. These costs are expected to increase somewhat in 1969 and 1970, reflecting Vietnam era activities. In addition, costs in 1969 and 1970 reflect the effect of Public Law 90-431, which authorizes part-time vocational rehabilitation for the first time. Estimated added costs for 1969 and 1970 are approximately $2.8 and $3.6 million, respectively.

Average caseload.....	6,845	9,600	12,000

(d) Burial benefits.—The Administrator is currently authorized to (1) pay an allowance of $250 (plus transportation charges where death occurs under VA care) to cover the burial and funeral expenses of a deceased veteran and (2) furnish a flag to drape the casket of each deceased veteran entitled thereto. The increase in costs is mainly related to the estimated increase in veterans deaths, including those of Vietnam era veterans, as authorized by Public Law 90-77, effective October 1, 1967.

(e) Special allowances, dependents.—Under certain conditions, a special allowance (38 U.S.C. 412) is payable to dependents of certain veterans who died after December 31, 1956, but who were not fully and currently insured under the Social Security Act. Projected increases assume that the current strengths and death rates for the Armed Forces will be maintained through 1970. An average of 390 cases were paid $389,013 in 1968. Approximately 400 cases costing $400 thousand are estimated for 1969 and 415 cases costing $410 thousand are estimated for 1970.

(f) Invalid lifts and other devices.—The Administrator may furnish an invalid lift to veterans in receipt of pension under 38 U.S.C. 617 based on the need of regular aid and attendance. The rise in costs to $419,878 in 1968 is attributable to Public Law 90-77, which authorized the award of devices and equipment to include most aid and attendance cases in need. It is estimated such costs will rise to approximately $1,460 thousand in 1969 and $1,470 thousand in 1970.

(g) Tort claim settlements.—Payment of compromises or settlement under 38 U.S.C. 351 resulting from litigation under the Federal Tort Claims Act are made from this appropriation.

During 1968, 18 compromise payments were made at a cost of $215,086. Compromise payments for 1969 and 1970 are estimated at $250 thousand for each year.

(h) Death gratuities.—Public Law 89-214, approved September 29, 1965, authorized a death gratuity of not to exceed $5 thousand for payment to the eligible beneficiary of a veteran whose death occurred during the period from January 1, 1957, through September 28, 1965, and was attributed to certain hazards of service. Actual costs in 1968 were $5,214,641. Any future activity in this program should be negligible as the last date for making application was November 1, 1967.

This appropriation provides educational assistance allowances for eligible children under the War Orphans' Educational Assistance Act of 1956, as amended; education and training assistance to veterans of post-Korean military service; and special assistance to disabled veterans in the form of vocational rehabilitation, housing grants, and automobiles or other conveyances.

Recently enacted legislation, effective December 1, 1968, will require a supplemental appropriation in 1969 amounting to $14,200 thousand, as shown under Proposed for separate transmittal, existing legislation.

This new legislation further expanded and liberalized educational benefits, as follows: (1) Extends eligibility for educational benefits to widows of deceased veterans of service-connected causes and wives of veterans who are permanently and totally disabled from service-connected disabilities; (2) that the aggregate period for which any person may receive assistance under two or more laws providing educational allowances may not exceed 48 months; (3) that each eligible veteran shall be entitled to educational assistance for a period of 1½ months for each month or fraction thereof of his service on active duty after January 31, 1955; and (4) that farm cooperative training authorized in Public Law 90-77 is available on a part-time basis.

1. Education and training.—Sons and daughters in training under the War Orphans' Educational Assistance Act of 1956, as amended, are provided an educational assistance allowance. A nominal increase in the number of trainees is projected in 1969 and 1970 over 1968. This is the result of a greater number of children becoming eligible for educational assistance as a result of Public Law 90-77, "Veterans' Pension and Readjustment Assistance Act of 1967," which extended the basic eligibility for war orphans' assistance from age 23 to 26 years. A leveling off in training activity is projected after 1969 since the number of sons and daughters becoming eligible will be offset by the number going off the rolls as entitlement is exhausted. The average cost per trainee will decline in both 1969 and 1970. This reduced cost is related to the activity created by Public Law 89-613, which extends an educational assistance allowance to eligible children of the Philippine Commonwealth Army veterans and "new" Philippine Scouts, at a rate in Philippine pesos equal to 50 cents for each dollar otherwise authorized.

Post-Korean conflict veterans whose education plans were interrupted or impeded by active service in the Armed Forces since February 1, 1955, are provided an educational assistance allowance under the provisions of the Veterans Readjustment Benefit Act of 1966, as amended.

The number of veterans and servicemen who will seek educational assistance is dependent on the size of the Armed Forces and the yearly rate of discharge. The extent of participation is projected to increase substantially in 1969 and 1970, as a result of Public Law 90-77, which expanded and liberalized this educational program. The average cost per trainee will decrease in both 1969 and 1970. This is due primarily to the fact that a larger number of veterans are attending schools on less than a full-time basis, are single, and are without dependents. An additional factor influencing this lowering of unit costs in the budget year, is a projection of current experience pointing to a growth in participation rate in correspondence schools and on-the-job training.

2. Special assistance to disabled veterans.—Disabled veterans requiring vocational rehabilitation receive assistance to cover costs of tuition, books, supplies, and equipment. Public Law 90-431 enacted July 26, 1968, authorizes part-time rehabilitative training. An increase in the number of trainees is projected for both 1969 and 1970, reflecting the new legislation and the assumptions that the current strength of the Armed Forces will be maintained, and that the casualties associated with the Southeast Asian crisis will moderately lessen. The increase also recognizes the continued buildup of trainees among the seriously disabled for World War II and the Korean conflict.

Grants are provided for specially adapted housing to veterans having suffered the loss of both feet, to certain blind veterans, and to paraplegic veterans.

Allowances up to $1,600 are made to certain disabled veterans toward the purchase of automobiles or other conveyances. An upsurge in automobile activity was experienced in 1968 as a result of Public Law 90-77, which authorized this benefit to veterans not previously entitled. A decrease is projected in both 1969 and 1970.

1. Military and naval insurance.—Payments are made to the U.S. Government life insurance fund as a reimbursement for claims (1) traceable to extra hazards of military service and (2) for claims while insured was under premium waiver provisions in active military service. Payments are made also to policyholders and beneficiaries for claims on war-risk insurance issued to servicemen and veterans of World War I.

2. National service life insurance.—This appropriation pays certain expenses of the National service life insurance fund and receives premiums and pays claims on nonparticipating insurance policies issued to certain disabled veterans of World War II. Premium receipts are appropriated under 38 U.S.C. 719(b).

a. Payment to National service life insurance fund.—(1) For each death claim traceable to extra hazards of service an amount is transferred from this appropriation, which, when added to the reserve of the policy, is equal to the actuarial value of the claim. In the event of total disability traceable to extra hazards of service, an amount is transferred from this appropriation sufficient to meet the current payments from the fund.

(2) Gratuitous insurance was issued to aviation cadets and to certain persons who were unable to make application for National service life insurance. Under a court ruling in 1964 gratuitous insurance payments are made to illegitimate children previously denied recognition.

(3) The fund is reimbursed when recovery of erroneous payments or overpayments is waived.

(4) The fund is reimbursed for death claims of policies under waiver of premiums while the insured is on active military duty.

b. Direct payments to policyholders and beneficiaries.—(1) Claims are paid on nonparticipating National service life insurance policies issued to World War II veterans with service-connected disabilities.

(2) Claims may be paid in certain instances in which applicants for insurance were rejected for medical reasons and subsequently died in line of duty.

(3) Claims are paid on death which occurred after application, but before effective date of a National service life insurance policy.

(4) Claims may be paid in certain cases in which insurance was discontinued because the insured was discharged to accept a commission, was absent without leave, or was court-martialed.

(5) Payments are made to policyholders who terminate their insurance for the cash value of their policies and to policyholders who have matured endowments.

3. Service-disabled veterans insurance.—Payments are made to the Service-disabled veterans insurance fund to supplement the premium and other receipts of the fund in amounts necessary to pay claims on insurance policies issued to veterans with service-connected disabilities, but who were otherwise insurable. The increase in payments to the fund in 1969 and 1970 is due to an increase in death claims payments to beneficiaries and an increase in policy loans to the policyholders each year.

4. Servicemen's indemnities.—Beneficiaries of servicemen who died prior to January 1, 1957, while in active service or within a period of 120 days after separation from active service were entitled to receive an indemnity in the amount of $10 thousand less any National service life insurance and/or U.S. Government life insurance carried by the deceased. Payments were made to beneficiaries in 120 equal installments, plus interest at the rate of 2.25% per year. The program was completed in 1968.

Financing.—It is planned to transfer $2.5 million in 1969 and $6.5 million in 1970 of surplus retained earnings from the Veterans special term insurance fund to this account.

This appropriation provides for the cost of care and treatment of eligible beneficiaries in Veterans Administration hospital, domiciliary and nursing care beds, restoration centers, outpatient clinics, contract care facilities, and State homes.

To be eligible for inpatient care and treatment, a beneficiary must be a veteran of any war with a service-connected disability incurred or aggravated during a period of war, or, within the limits of Veterans Administration facilities, for any other disability if the veteran is unable to defray the expenses of necessary hospital, nursing home or domiciliary care. Outpatient medical and dental treatment is provided to veterans with service-connected disabilities by staffs of Veterans Administration outpatient clinics and by physicians and dentists participating in the hometown medical care program; to veterans receiving vocational rehabilitation who require treatment to avoid interruption of training; pensioners of nations allied with the United States in World War I and in World War II; and veterans of the Spanish-American War, Indian Wars, Boxer Rebellion, and Philippine Insurrection. Veterans also are provided examinations in outpatient clinics for purposes of rating for compensation and pension, insurance, and determining their need for hospitalization or domiciliary care.

Medical services may be furnished on an outpatient basis for non-service-connected disabilities to veterans who have been determined to need hospital care and whose admission to a hospital has been scheduled, or who require post-hospital treatment to complete hospital care.

Increases in 1970 cover (a) salary adjustments for pay act, wage board and within-grade increases; (b) continued activation of the hospitals located at San Juan, P.R., Gainesville, Fla., and Miami, Fla.; and the initial activation of the new hospital at Columbia, Mo.; (c) expansion of the education and training program; (d) the establishment of additional new medical services; (e) increased usage of drugs, utilities, communications, linens, prosthetic appliances; (f) increases for expanded activities in administrative and construction research; (g) increased equipment and maintenance and repairs including minor improvements; (h) increased reimbursements to the Department of Data Management for data processing services, and to the Department of Labor for Bureau of Employees Compensation payments; and (i) increased outpatient workloads for medical staff and fee visits in addition to increased dental examination and treatment cases.

1. Maintenance and operation of VA facilities.—(a) Neuropsychiatric hospitals.—This covers the operation of neuropsychiatric hospitals. The estimated costs for 1970 exceed 1969 by $8,720 thousand. Estimated operating levels are:

The requirements presented in this budget submission take into consideration the contemplated receipt in 1970 of an equivalent amount of property and supplies from other Federal agencies or from the General Post Fund, National Homes, Veterans Administration, to that experienced in 1968 which had an acquisition value of $2,108 thousand. This does not, however, represent the value of the items when transferred.

A supplemental appropriation in the amount of $14.8 million for 1969 is anticipated under Proposed for separate transmittal.

Legislation has been enacted—

(1) To increase the beneficiary travel rates from 5 cents to 6 cents per mile in accordance with Executive Order No. 11429. For parcel post rate increases effective October 19, 1968 per Federal Register, Volume 33, No. 154, dated August 8, 1968, and to increase the number of veterans eligible for VA outpatient care through creation of new veterans by Public Law 89-358 and the opening of VA facilities to retirees on a "space available" basis, per Public Law 89-614.

(2) To provide for increased per diem rates from $27 to $33 applicable to a daily average of 406 patients at Federal general hospitals and increased per diem rates from $15.12 to $17.24, for a daily average of 20 patients at St. Elizabeths Hospital, Washington, D.C. Such per diem rates are prescribed by the Bureau of the Budget.

To improve the community nursing home care program by providing for reimbursement at the rate of 40% of the cost of hospital care in a Veterans Administration general hospital in lieu of the prior statutory limitation of one-third. This revised authority contained in Public Law 90-429 will facilitate contracting for needed nursing home care.

(3) To increase the maximum statutory per diem rates of the Federal payments for domiciliary and nursing home care of veterans in a State home from $2.50 to $3.50 and from $3.50 to $5 respectively. The increases provided by Public Law 90-432 will assist the States in carrying on these constructive programs for veterans.

1. Medical research.—Medical research projects are conducted in Veterans Administration laboratories or other institutions on a contract basis, whichever is more advantageous or economical.

In addition to amounts provided for the medical research program by direct appropriation, an amount of $15,690,529 was available in 1968 in grants from the National Institutes of Health and from other organizations sponsoring research. Of this amount, $1,651,517 represents grants made directly to the Veterans Administration. The remaining $14,039,012 was granted to various medical schools with which VA hospitals are affiliated. It is anticipated that approximately the same level of funding from these outside sources will be available in 1969 and 1970. This estimate does not include funding of research construction projects which are a part of the Construction of hospital and domiciliary facilities appropriation.

2. Prosthetic research.—This is a research program to develop and test prosthetic, orthopedic, and sensory aids for the purpose of improving the care and rehabilitation of disabled eligible veterans, including amputees, paraplegics and the blind.

This appropriation provides for administration of all nonmedical veterans benefits through the Department of Veterans Benefits; operation of advanced data processing and communications systems through the Department of Data Management; and top management direction and support through agency level staff offices.

Funds requested for 1970 total $20.6 million above the 1969 estimate, exclusive of supplemental amounts being proposed under separate transmittal. These additional funds will provide the manpower to cover the related expenses necessary to handle the workload of recently enacted veterans benefit legislation; to purchase ADP computer equipment currently being leased and lease of additional computer equipment to support new programs being automated; and additional manpower to process increased workloads resulting from aging veteran population and expanding number of veterans in civilian life.

1. General administration.—This activity contains the executive direction of the agency and several top level supporting offices. In addition, it covers the Board of Veterans Appeals which decides all cases of appeals to the Administrator on claims involving benefits under veterans legislation.

2. Data management.—This activity manages all computer operations and is responsible for research into new computer and communications systems. Payback from this applied research will reduce costs and improve agency operations.

3. Veterans benefits.—Veterans' and dependents' claims for compensation, pensions or other benefits are adjudicated, and guardianship and fiduciary service is furnished helpless or incompetent veterans and minor dependents, as indicated by the following workloads (in thousands):

A supplemental appropriation of $4,600 thousand is proposed for increased operating expenses resulting from the enactment of new legislation.

The amount is required to cover the nonmedical administrative expenses incurred in providing the benefits authorized. New legislation generating these additional workloads and employment requirements are as follows:

1. Public Law 90-275, which entirely restructured the VA pension program in regard to benefits payable to veterans and their survivors;
2. Public Law 90-301, providing major liberalization of the veterans home loan program;
3. Public Law 90-431, extending vocational rehabilitation benefits for seriously disabled veterans on a part-time basis;

- 4. Public Law 90-493, granting across-the-board increases in VA compensation to service-connected veterans;
- 5. Public Law 90-207, granting military pay increases which require appropriate adjustments in awards by VA to survivors of service-connected deceased veterans.
- 6. Public Law 90-631, extending educational benefits to widows of service-connected disabled veterans or wives of those with total disability, liberalized classroom requirements of farm cooperative training and authorized payment for approved flight training.

CONSTRUCTION OF HOSPITAL AND DOMICILIARY FACILITIES

For hospital and domiciliary facilities, for planning and for major alterations, improvements, and repairs and extending any of the facilities under the jurisdiction of the Veterans Administration or for any of the purposes set forth in sections 5001, 5002, and 5004, title 38, United States Code, including necessary expenses of administration, [$7,926,000] $96,368,000, to remain available until expended. Total selected resources	80,579	57,345	113,847	132,157

These funds provide for the construction of new hospital and domiciliary facilities, replacement and relocation of existing hospitals and domiciliaries, acquisition of sites, modernization and other improvements, alterations and additions for medical research facilities, nursing home beds, regional offices, supply depots, and data processing centers, including construction planning, administration, and related staff activities. This estimate is for the tenth increment for financing a program to modernize the hospital system. While this program will be primarily for improvements to the older (pre-World War II) hospitals, it will also provide for replacement of 12 hospitals acquired from military surplus, for air conditioning where indicated and for the correction of deficiencies in post-World War II hospitals as necessary to bring them up to the more modern medical standards.

A construction program of $96,368 thousand is recommended for 1970 to be financed with budget authority (appropriation). The amount for construction of replacement and relocation hospitals includes additional financing in the amount of $636 thousand for designing a 500-bed hospital at Stony Brook, Long Island, N.Y.; $25,412 thousand to complete a 760-bed hospital and outpatient clinic at San Antonio, Tex.; and $1,800 thousand to complete a 720-bed hospital at Tampa, Fla. The amount for modernization and other improvements projects includes $46,980 thousand to continue projects for which design is in progress and $9,352 thousand for new projects which will ultimately cost $29,599 thousand. $1,340 thousand is included to complete a 120-bed nursing home care unit at Miami, Fla.; and $2,500 thousand for the complete cost of refurbishing the old hospital at Wood, Wis., for domiciliary use. The amount for medical research facilities includes $3,012 thousand to continue projects for which design is in progress. Also included is $5,336 thousand for planning, administration, design and construction supervision and related staff activities.

1. Hospitals.—(a) New.—This activity covers the new hospitals and bed-addition projects authorized in 1947 and subsequent years. This part of the program was completed with the opening of the Washington, D.C., 710-bed hospital in 1965.

CONSTRUCTION OF HOSPITAL AND DOMICILIARY FACILITIES—Con.

(b) Replacement and relocation.—Beds which are housed in temporary, obsolete, or hazardous structures are to be replaced or relocated. The program initiated in 1955, currently includes 26 projects for approximately 17,259 beds. Status of beds to be provided under this title follows:

Under construction at end of year...	4,024	2,849	3,373
Not under construction at end of year...	4,441	2,540	1,540

(c) Modernization.—Pre-World War II hospitals are to be brought up to the standards of the new hospitals insofar as practicable. The status of projects in this program, excluding those which were financially completed as of June 30, 1967, follows (dollars in thousands):

	Number of projects	Total estimated cost of projects
Completed as of June 30, 1968.....	15	48,810

Scheduled to be placed under construction, 1970...	6	46,494
To be placed under construction, after 1970.....	5	52,110

(d) Other improvements.—This activity provides for needed improvements, other than modernization, at hospitals. The listing excludes projects of $100 thousand or less. The status of the projects in this program excluding those which were financially completed as of June 30, 1967, follows (dollars in thousands):

	Number of projects	Total estimated cost of projects
Completed as of June 30, 1968.....	26	30,655

2. Domiciliaries.—This activity provides for construction at domiciliary facilities, including restoration centers. The status of the projects in this program, excluding those which were financially completed as of June 30, 1967, follows (dollars in thousands):

	Number of projects	Total estimated cost of projects
Completed as of June 30, 1968.....	1	1,789
Scheduled to be placed under construction, 1970...	1	2,500

3. Nursing homes.—This activity provides for the construction necessary to establish VA nursing home facilities. A minimum of 4,000 nursing home beds has been authorized under this program since it was initiated in 1965. These facilities are being provided by altering existing hospital and domiciliary facilities and by the construction of one new nursing home. Construction is complete on all except four projects with 395 beds. Funds in the amount of $1,340 thousand are requested in 1970 to provide construction funds for a 120-bed nursing home at Miami, Fla.

4. Research facilities.—This activity provides for construction of medical research facilities. The status of the projects in this program excluding those which were financially completed as of June 30, 1967, follows (dollars in thousands):

	Number of projects	Total estimated cost of projects
Completed as of June 30, 1968.....	16	7,336

Scheduled to be placed under construction, 1970...	6	6,811
To be placed under construction, after 1970.....	1	132

5. Other facilities.—This activity provides for necessary construction at all other VA facilities including regional offices, supply depots and data processing centers. The status of the projects in this program, excluding those which were financially completed as of June 30, 1967, follows (dollars in thousands):

	Number of projects	Total estimated cost of projects
Completed as of June 30, 1968.....	1	6
Under construction June 30, 1968.....	2	633
Scheduled to be placed under construction, 1969...	1	46

6. General administration.—This activity provides for planning, administration, and related staff activities.

This program provides grants to assist the States in the construction of State facilities for furnishing nursing home care to war veterans. Grants may not exceed 50% of the estimated cost of construction of each project, and may not provide for more than 1½ beds per 1,000 veteran population in any State. As of November 30, 1968, funds have been obligated which will help finance 16 projects for the construction of 1,652 beds in 11 States. Public Law 90-432 extended the authorization for this program of $5 million annually for 5 additional years, 1970-74.

Prior to the enactment of Public Law 89-612, September 30, 1966, grants-in-aid were made to the Republic of the Philippines for the medical care and treatment at the Veterans Memorial Hospital of Philippine Commonwealth Army veterans with service-connected disabilities. Public Law 89-612 extended the program for another 5 years through June 30, 1973, and expanded reimbursement to include payments for hospital care of Commonwealth Army veterans with non-service-connected disabilities, if financial need exists. The program was extended further to give new Philippine Scouts, both service-connected and non-service-connected, the same coverage to which the Commonwealth Army veterans are entitled. To assist the Republic of the Philippines in replacing and upgrading of equipment and in rehabilitating the physical plant and facilities of the Veterans Memorial Hospital, $500 thousand was appropriated for this purpose in 1967, to remain available until expended. Also, $100 thousand was authorized for each fiscal year through 1972 for making grants for medical research and training of health service personnel.

The construction of a memorial on Corregidor Island to commemorate the veterans who served in the Pacific area during World War II was authorized by Public Law 88-240 approved December 23, 1963.

A total of $1,500 thousand has been appropriated for this purpose. Construction of the memorial was supervised by the Department of Navy in accordance with plans furnished by the Veterans Administration. The project was completed and dedicated on June 22, 1968.

The Republic of the Philippines will administer and maintain the area in accordance with the agreement dated December 22, 1965.

The Housing Act of 1964, as amended by the Participation Sales Act of 1966, authorized the pooling of mortgages or other types of obligations of certain Government departments or agencies and the sale by the Federal National Mortgage Association as trustee, of beneficial interests, or participations, in such pools. The Participation Sales Act of 1966 provided that the aggregate amount of participations issued for the account of any trustor may not exceed the amount authorized for that trustor in an appropriation act. In 1968 the appropriation act authorized sales of $850 million for the Veterans Administration. $590 million of that authorization was utilized in 1968. The undrawn authorization of $260 million has been utilized in 1969. No authorization is proposed for 1970.

The Participation Sales Act of 1966 also authorized the establishment of appropriations to cover payment for insufficiencies in the amounts required to be paid by trustors on account of outstanding participations. These insufficiencies are primarily comprised of the excess of interest payments to holders of participation certificates over the interest payments received from the pooled mortgages or other obligations. For sales authorized in 1967, the Independent Offices Appropriation Act, 1967, established a permanent, indefinite appropriation to cover insufficiencies as may be required on account of those sales. For sales authorized in 1968 the Independent Offices and Department of Housing and Urban Development Appropriation Act, 1968 and 1969 established annual, definite appropriations for the payment of insufficiencies on account of sales authorized in those acts. Appropriation of $5.7 million is proposed for 1970.

Sales of participations and use of the indefinite and definite insufficiency appropriations, are reflected in the direct loan revolving fund and loan guaranty revolving fund.

Public enterprise funds:

LOAN GUARANTY REVOLVING FUND

[During the current fiscal year, the] The Loan guaranty revolving fund shall hereafter be available for expenses, but not to exceed $450,000,000, for property acquisitions and other loan guaranty and insurance operations under Chapter 37, title 38, United States Code, except administrative expenses, as authorized by section 1824 of such title: Provided, That the unobligated balances including retained earnings of the Direct loan revolving fund shall hereafter be available, during the current fiscal year, for transfer to the Loan guaranty revolving fund [in such amounts as may be necessary] to provide for the timely payment of obligations of such fund and the Administrator of Veterans Affairs shall not be required to pay interest on amounts so transferred after the time of such transfer. Note.—The above statement excludes the following exchanges of nonworking capital assets: The settlement of VA-guaranteed or insured loans by the acquisition of real property (1968, $193,565 thousand; 1969, $238,590 thousand; 1970, $237,370 thousand); the settlement of defaulted VA-owned loans by acquisition of real property (1968, $66,340 thousand; 1969, $76,888 thousand; 1970, $76,258 thousand); the acquisition of vendee loans in exchange for real property (1968, $276,552 thousand; 1969, $330,000 thousand; 1970, $0).

To assist eligible veterans to obtain credit for the purchase or construction of homes, the Veterans Administration guarantees loans made by private lenders. The number of guaranteed loans closed is expected to increase from 237,000 in 1969 to 273,000 in 1970 bringing the total amount of guaranteed loans outstanding by the end of 1970 to $35.4 billion. The Loan guaranty revolving fund provides for expenses and revenues of property and loan transactions resulting from settlement of guaranty claims.

Budget program.—1. Real property acquisitions.—Private lenders who have acquired property as a result of foreclosure on defaulted guaranteed or insured loans may elect to convey that property to the Veterans Administration. The table below reflects this activity and excludes the amount of indebtedness established against the veteran:

Number of property acquisitions processed	1968 actual	1969 estimate	1970 estimate
	16,763	19,600	19,500
Average cost per acquisition	$11,998	$12,100	$12,100
Total cost (in thousands)	$201,128	$237,160	$235,950

2. Property improvements.—After conveyance of the property to the Veterans Administration, capital expenditures are often necessary to place the property in saleable condition. The following table summarizes these expenditures:

Number of properties acquired	1968 actual	1969 estimate	1970 estimate
	22,150	26,500	26,300
Average cost per property	$984	$1,085	$1,150
Total cost (in thousands)	$21,800	$28,750	$30,245

3. Claims paid.—These payments are made to lenders in accordance with the Veterans Administration guaranty contract and represent the difference between the amount owed by the veteran on a defaulted loan and the value of the foreclosed property (as established by Veterans Administration). These payments are in addition to property acquisition costs shown in 1, above. The table below reflects this activity:

Number of claims	17,435	20,300	20,200
Average cost per payment	$1,082	$1,150	$1,200
Total cost (in thousands)	$18,864	$23,345	$24,240

4. Repurchase of loans sold, net.—Pursuant to Veterans Administration Regulation 4600, dated March 22, 1962, the Administrator may sell with full recourse loans which have been created incident to the sale of Veterans Administration acquired properties:

	1968 actual	1969 estimate	1970 estimate
Number of loans repurchased	2,252	2,200	2,100
Average cost per repurchase	$10,906	$10,875	$10,850
Total cost (in thousands)	$24,561	$23,925	$22,785

5. Cash advances—Vendee loans.—Cash expenditures are not involved in the establishment of vendee loans or installment contracts. However, it is often necessary to subsequently advance cash on behalf of the borrower in order to protect the interest of the Government.

6. Loans acquired.—Guaranteed or insured loans in a default status may be purchased by the Administrator to avoid foreclosure when temporary forbearance will allow the veteran borrowers to cure the default.

Number of loans acquired	268	300	300
Average cost per acquisition	$14,709	$15,000	$15,200
Total cost (in thousands)	$3,942	$4,500	$4,560

7. Commission and discount on sale of participation certificates—Participation sales fund.—Represents the Veterans Administration portion of the cost of marketing participation certificates through a nationwide group of underwriters, by the Government National Mortgage Association as trustee. These costs are in direct proportion to the sale of participation certificates. No sales are proposed for 1970.

8. Property management expense.—Includes local real estate taxes, services performed by management brokers and maintenance of property in a saleable condition.

Average number of properties	13,410	12,487	11,712
Average cost per property	$842	$865	$900
Total cost (in thousands)	$11,297	$10,800	$10,550

9. Sales expense.—Includes brokers' fees and advertising costs incident to the sale of acquired properties.

Number of sales	23,219	27,250	27,100
Average cost per sale	$652	$675	$675
Total cost (in thousands)	$15,140	$18,395	$18,300

10. Interest expense on participation certificates.—Represents the amount of interest the trustee is required to pay holders of participation certificates in respect to which vendee accounts have been set aside pursuant to 38 U.S.C. 1820(e). To the extent this expense exceeds the amount of interest collections on an equal amount of loans pledged to the trustee, participation sales insufficiencies result.

11. Loan placement fee.—Represents the discount paid to investors financing the sale of acquired properties to provide a competitive yield on mortgages.

12. Relationship of participation sales insufficiencies to budget authority.—The budget authority required for "insufficiencies" is computed as follows:

	1968 actual	1969 estimate	1970 estimate
Interest accrued on participation certificates for which insufficiencies are authorized.....	19,285	45,707	45,641
Interest on equal amount of loans in the pool.....	-17,147	-40,212	-38,925
Insufficiency.....	2,138	5,495	6,716
Financed by: Investment income from Participation sales fund.....	-357	-990	-1,000
Carried forward to subsequent year.....	-1,116
Brought forward from prior year.....		1,116
Budget authority.....	665	5,621	5,716
Portion of budget authority applicable to: Sales authorized in 1968 appropriation act (definite appropriation).....	665	5,621	5,716

Financing.—Normal revenue and receipts consist principally of interest income, funding fees received from guaranteed and direct loans closed pursuant to Public Law 89-358, cash proceeds from the sale of real property acquired as a result of foreclosure on guaranteed loans and repayments on mortgages made incident to such sales. It is estimated that $144.1 million in 1969 and $464.0 million in 1970 will be received from these sources. Also an estimated $20.2 million vendee loans will be sold in 1969 and an additional $78.0 million in 1970. In addition, budget authority of $5.6 million and $5.7 million will be required in 1969 and 1970 to meet participation sales insufficiencies. The 1969 requirement includes $1,116 thousand for restoration of the unobligated balance utilized to fund insufficiencies above the amount appropriated.

The Independent Offices and Department of Housing and Urban Development Appropriation Act, 1969 (Public Law 90-550) provided that the unobligated balances including retained earnings of the Direct loan revolving fund shall be available for transfer to the Loan guaranty revolving fund. No transfers are expected in 1969 or 1970.

Authority to spend agency debt receipts was increased by an authorization for the sale of participation certificates amounting to $685 million in 1968, of which $425 million was sold. The remaining $260 million has been used in 1969. No sales of participation certificates are proposed for 1970.

Direct loans are made to purchase, construct, or improve a home; to purchase a farm on which there is a farm residence to be occupied by the veteran as his home; or to construct, alter, repair, or improve a farm dwelling to be occupied by the veteran as his home.

Such loans are made only in rural areas, small cities, and towns where private credit for the making of GI loans is and has been generally unavailable. The maximum term is 30 years and the maximum loan amount is $17,500 except in high cost areas where such a limitation is inadequate. In such areas, the Administrator is authorized to increase the maximum amount up to $25 thousand. The interest rate is the same as the rate allowable for GI loans (38 U.S.C. 1811, as amended).

Budget program.—1. Direct loans to veterans.—Under existing legislation, the eligibility of World War II veterans has been phasing out since 1962, and for Korean veterans since 1965, with terminal dates of July 25, 1970, for World War II veterans, and January 31, 1975, for Korean conflict veterans. Effective March 3, 1966, Public Law 89-358 extended the authority to make or to enter into commitments to make loans to post-Korean veterans and some active duty servicemen. This authority terminates January 31, 1975.

2. Cash advances and repurchases—Vendee loans.—Cash expenditures are not involved in the establishment of vendee loans or installment contracts. However, it is often necessary to subsequently advance cash on behalf of the borrower in order to protect the interest of the Government. These advances are added to the unpaid loan balances.

3. Property improvements.—Properties are acquired by foreclosure on, or the voluntary conveyance of, title to properties securing loans owned by the Veterans Administration. Capital expenditures are often necessary to put

4. Interest on borrowings.—Interest expense is accrued monthly. These accruals are computed on the interest bearing capital of the fund and adjusted for the unexpended balance of the fund.

5. Operating expenses, general.—Includes a variety of miscellaneous expenses borne by the Government incident to closing, and liquidating loans.

6. Property management expense.—Includes local real estate taxes, services performed by management brokers, and maintenance of the property in a salable condition:

8. Commission on sale of participation certificates—Participation sales fund.—The Veterans Administration's portion of brokerage fees charged by the private underwriters who market participation certificates for the Government National Mortgage Association.

9. Interest expense on participation certificates.—Represents the amount of interest the trustee is required to pay holders of participation certificates in respect to which direct loans have been set aside pursuant to 38 U.S.C. 1820(e). To the extent this expense exceeds the amount of interest collections on an equal amount of loans pledged to the trustee, participation sales insufficiencies result.

Financing.—Normal revenue and receipts consist principally of interest income and repayments on direct loans made to veterans. It is estimated that $178.4 million in 1969 and $189.6 million in 1970 will be received from these sources. Also, an estimated $4.8 million direct loans will be sold in 1969 and an additional $4.8 million in 1970.

Authority to spend agency debt receipts was increased by authorization to sell participation certificates amounting to $165 million in 1968. Authorization to sell participation certificates is not requested for 1970.

The Veterans Canteen Service was established by Congress in 1946 to furnish at reasonable prices merchandise and services necessary to the comfort and well-being of veterans in hospitals and domiciliaries operated by the Veterans Administration (38 U.S.C. 4201-08).

Budget program.—Sales are expected to be $63,632 thousand in 1969 and it is estimated sales will be $65,387 thousand during 1970.

Financing.—No appropriation by the Congress will be required for the operation of the Veterans Canteen Service during 1970. Operations will be financed from current revenues. The Congress originally appropriated a total of $4,965 thousand to establish and operate the Service. Funds in excess of the needs of the Service totaling $12,021 thousand have been paid to the Treasury as of June 30, 1968.

Operating results and financial condition.—Operating revenue is expected to be sufficient to cover operating expenses. Retained earnings are required for necessary working capital, therefore, no funds are available for payment to the Treasury during 1970.

This fund finances the payment of claims on non-participating insurance policies issued to veterans with service-connected disabilities but who are otherwise insurable (38 U.S.C. 722). Administrative expenses are paid from the appropriation, General operating expenses.

Budget program.—1. Death claims.—Payments to surviving beneficiaries continue to increase as new deaths occur among the increasing number of policyholders.

2. Cash surrenders and matured endowments.—A policyholder may terminate his insurance by cashing in his policy for its cash value.

4. Policy loans made.—A policyholder may borrow up to 94% of the cash value of his policy. This activity increases with the increased number of policyholders.

The general increase in the activity of this fund is indicated in the following table (dollars in thousands):

	June 30, 1967 actual	June 30, 1968 actual	June 30, 1969 estimate	June 30, 1970 estimate
Number of policies.....	66,779	72,528	75,000	77,000
Insurance in force.....	$578,173	$629,435	$650,000	$668,000

Financing.—Operations are financed from premiums and other receipts. Additional funds are derived from the appropriation Veterans insurance and indemnities, instead of direct appropriations to this fund. It is estimated that the payment will be $4.25 million in 1969 and $6 million in 1970.

Operating results and financial condition.—Because premium and other receipts continue to be insufficient to cover operations, the deficit is expected to continue to increase with capital impairment reaching an estimated $55.8 million by June 30, 1970.

The capital of the fund consists of $4.5 million with $1 million transferred from Readjustment benefits appropriation in 1954 and $3.5 million appropriated directly in 1952, 1956, and 1958.

This fund finances claims arising from the guarantee of premiums due on commercial life insurance policies held by servicemen while they are in service and for 2 years after discharge (72 Stat. 487). The Government guarantees the repayment of any indebtedness not liquidated by the insured himself. Administrative expenses are paid from the appropriation, General operating expenses.

Budget program.—Insurance program.—Claims paid, on application for coverage submitted and approved prior to October 6, 1942, are not reimbursable to the fund. Loans receivable are established for any payments made on applications for coverage submitted after that date, since these payments are reimbursable to the fund.

The activity of the fund is indicated in the following table:

Claims paid:

Loans receivable established:
Number of settlements.....	10	16	16
Average cost per settlement.....	$160	$367	$375

Financing.—Payment of claims against this fund is financed from collections of loans receivable, revenue, and appropriations as needed.

Operating results and financial condition.—The payment of claims has continually resulted in expenses in excess of the small revenue of the fund, thereby steadily increasing the deficit to an estimated $2 million through 1970.

This fund finances payment of claims and administrative costs on nonparticipating insurance policies issued after April 30, 1965, and prior to May 3, 1966, under the three insurance programs—(1) service-disabled standard insurance, (2) service-disabled rated insurance, and (3) non-service-disabled insurance—established by provisions of the National Service Life Insurance Act of 1940, as amended (38 U.S.C. 725(b)(c)), to extend a new opportunity for insurance coverage to disabled veterans who no longer were eligible for other Government insurance.

Each program is self-contained and premiums may be adjusted to insure that each is self-sustaining, as required by law. For this purpose, separate accounting and actuarial records are maintained for each program to determine the individual program costs. Payments are made to the General operating expenses appropriation to cover the administrative costs of issuing insurance policies, processing claims, and maintaining the accounts.

Budget program.—1. Death claims.—Payments to surviving beneficiaries will continue to increase as deaths occur among policyholders.

2. Disability claims.—Payments to individuals who have purchased total disability coverage and who subsequently become totally disabled.

4. Cash surrenders.—A policyholder may terminate his insurance by cashing in his policy for its cash value.

5. Payments to General operating expenses appropriation.—Payments to cover the administrative cost of issuing insurance policies, processing claims, and maintaining the accounts.

6. Policy loans made.—A policyholder may borrow up to 94% of the cash value of his policy.

The following table reflects the decrease in the number of policies and the amount of insurance in force (dollars in thousands):

This fund finances the payment of claims on nonparticipating insurance policies issued before January 1, 1957, to veterans who served in the Armed Forces subsequent to April 1951 (38 U.S.C. 723). Policyholders were given the right (72 Stat. 1716) to convert to a permanent plan of insurance or to a new form of term insurance which may not be renewed beyond age 50 but which costs less than the unlimited term insurance. Policyholders under all plans of VSTI may purchase total disability income coverage with the payment of an additional premium. Administrative expenses are paid from the appropriation General operating expenses.

Budget program.—1. Death claims.—Payments to surviving beneficiaries continue to increase as deaths occur among policyholders.

2. Disability claims.—Payments to individuals who have purchased total disability coverage and who subsequently become totally disabled began in 1960.

3. Cash surrenders.—A policyholder may terminate his insurance by cashing in his policy for its cash value.

6. Policy loans made.—The policyholders who converted their insurance from term to permanent plan were subsequently entitled to borrow up to 94% of the cash value of the new policy.

The following table reflects the decrease in the number of policies and the amount of insurance in force (dollars in thousands):

	June 30, 1967	June 30, 1968	June 30, 1969	June 30, 1970
Number of policies.....	632,055	628,142	624,000	620,000
Insurance in force.....	$5,552,042	$5,516,291	$5,478,000	$5,445,000

Financing.—Payments from this fund are financed primarily from premium receipts and interest on investments.

Operating results and financial condition.—Favorable mortality experience on insurance written against this fund has kept death claim payments well below the amount of premium and interest receipts, thereby producing an annual increase in the retained earnings of the fund. The retained earnings have been reduced by payments of a special dividend and payments to the Veterans insurance and indemnities appropriation and the Veterans reopened insurance fund.

This fund is used to make loans up to $100 to disabled veterans eligible for vocational rehabilitation who are without sufficient funds to meet their expenses (38 U.S.C. 1507). Repayments are used to make new loans.

Increased loan activity in this fund is projected in both 1969 and 1970, as the result of Public Law 90-431, enacted July 26, 1968, which authorizes part-time rehabilitative training. This will cause a greater number of veterans to pursue vocational rehabilitation.

Administrative expenses are borne by the appropriation, General operating expenses.

This fund finances the payment of group life insurance premiums to private insurance companies under the Servicemen's Group Life Insurance Act of 1965 (38 U.S.C. sec. 765-776) and any expenses incurred by the Veterans Administration in administration of the act.

Budget program.—1. Premium payments.—The payment of premiums to private insurance companies in 1969 and 1970 is expected to be a little less than in 1968. This is due to a small decrease in contributions for the extra hazards of service.

2. Payment to general operating expenses appropriation.—The 1968 administration cost to the Veterans Administration was $170 thousand. One-third of this cost is attributable to printing and reproduction of required forms and the remaining to personal services. The total costs should remain about the same through the budget year.

Financing.—Premium costs are met by withholding from the salaries of insured members their share of the cost of the insurance and by contributions of amounts representing the extra hazard costs from appropriations of the departments involved. The extra hazards contributions will be slightly less in 1969 and 1970 over 1968. This is due to the recent decrease in death claims resulting from the extra hazards of service.

The Supply Fund finances, on a reimbursable basis, warehouse inventories and procurement of recurring need supplies and centrally acquired equipment throughout the Veterans Administration in accordance with the provisions of 38 U.S.C. 5011, and items and services to other Government agencies when agencies request such support.

Budget program.—The fund provides financial support for the procurement of supplies and equipment, the maintenance and operation of two supply depots and one subdepot, located at Hines, Ill., Somerville, N.J., and Bell, Calif., the operation of service and reclamation program from each supply depot and subdepot, a centralized periodical procurement activity, printing service to VA installations on a centralized basis, and a marketing center located at Hines, Ill.

The publications and reproduction program provides printing service to VA installations. Printed matter is acquired in accordance with the rules of the Joint Committee on Printing from the Government Printing Office, the General Services Administration, a VA-operated plant in Arlington Va., and from commercial sources.

The marketing center is responsible for determining the level of inventories at the three supply depots and to acquire stocks to maintain such levels as well as the central procurement of items not available from Government sources for VA installations and other Government agencies as may be determined economical.

Personal services and other costs incident to the operations and administration of supply activities at field stations and other than those directly related to the Supply Fund in the Veterans Administration central office are charged directly to applicable appropriations and are not an operating expense of the Supply Fund.

Financing.—Consuming appropriations reimburse the fund for the cost of supplies and equipment provided and services rendered. Operating costs are recovered from the appropriations receiving supplies, equipment, and services at time of reimbursement.

Operating results and financial condition.—The fund operated at a $1 thousand profit during 1968. This profit reduces the prior years deficit to $34 thousand.

This fund (72 Stat. 1154) was established in 1940 as the financing mechanism for World War II servicemen's and veterans' insurance program authorized by the National Service Life Insurance Act of 1940. Over 22 million policies have been issued under this program. Because issuance of new policies ended in 1951 the insurance in force will continue to decline. The general decline in the activity of the fund is indicated in the following table (dollars in millions):

	June 30, 1967	June 30, 1968	June 30, 1969	June 30, 1970
Number of policies in force	4,682,601	4,595,781	4,538,000	4,468,000
Amount of insurance in force	$30,749	$30,235	$29,760	$29,006

The status of the fund excluding noncash transactions is as follows (in thousands of dollars):

Unexpended balance of fund, end of year	6,011,122	6,232,707	6,309,418	6,357,421

The fund is operated on a commercial basis to the greatest possible extent consistent with law. Administrative expenses are charged to the appropriation General operating expenses.

The income of the fund is derived from premium receipts, interest on investments, and payments which are made to the fund from the appropriation Veterans insurance and indemnities, for claims (1) resulting from extra hazards of the veterans' service, and (2) arising on certain policies held by personnel on active duty.

Assets of the fund, which are largely invested in special Treasury interest-bearing securities and in policy loans, are expected to increase from $6,958 million as of June 30, 1968, to $7,183 million as of June 30, 1970. The actuarial estimate of policy obligations as of June 30, 1968, totals $6,867 million, leaving a balance of $91 million for contingency reserves.

A supplemental appropriation of $750 thousand is proposed to cover costs of proposed legislation providing specially adapted housing for wheelchair veterans. The legislative program proposed for consideration by the 91st Congress includes a proposal to extend specially adapted housing grants to veterans suffering the service-connected disabilities of loss of use of a lower extremity and other permanent neurological or orthopedic condition which impairs locomotion to the extent that a wheelchair is regularly required. If enacted for the full year 1970, it is estimated that 75 veterans will apply for and receive housing grants at a cost of $750 thousand.

ADMINISTRATIVE PROVISIONS

Not to exceed 5 per centum of any appropriation for the current fiscal year for "Compensation and pensions", "Readjustment benefits", and "Veterans insurance and indemnities" may be transferred to any other of the mentioned appropriations, but not to exceed 10 per centum of the appropriations so augmented.

Appropriations available to the Veterans Administration for the current fiscal year for salaries and expenses shall be available for services as authorized by 5 U.S.C. 3109.

The appropriation available to the Veterans Administration for the current fiscal year for "Medical care" shall be available for funeral, burial, and other expenses incidental thereto (except burial awards authorized by 38 U.S.C. 902), for beneficiaries of the Veterans Administration receiving care under such appropriations.

No part of the appropriations in this Act for the Veterans Administration (except the appropriation for "Construction of hospital and domiciliary facilities") shall be available for the purchase of any site for or toward the construction of any new hospital or home.

No part of the foregoing appropriations shall be available for hospitalization or examination of any persons except beneficiaries entitled under the laws bestowing such benefits to veterans, unless reimbursement of cost is made to the appropriation at such rates as may be fixed by the Administrator of Veterans Affairs. The American Battle Monuments Commission maintains in foreign countries permanent military cemeteries commemorating the participation of the American Armed Forces. The Commission is responsible also for the planning and construction of all military memorials.

The Commission administers 22 cemetery memorials and 11 monuments honoring U.S. armed forces achievements in World War I and II. In addition, it maintains three World War II and Korean war memorials in the United States and the U.S. National Cemetery in Mexico City, Mexico. Interred in these cemeteries are the remains of 124,880 servicemen and servicewomen, and an additional 91,591 missing or unidentified are commemorated by the inscribing of their names upon appropriate memorials. Each year, large numbers of American tourists and local citizens visit the cemeteries to pay homage to those interred and commemorated in them.

1. Purchase of flowers.—Funds are deposited with the Commission by private citizens for the purchase of floral decorations for graves in the World War I and World War II military cemeteries. The donor is advised when the flowers have been placed (36 U.S.C. 128).

2. Repair of non-Federal war memorials.—When requested to do so and upon receipt of the necessary funds, the Commission will arrange for and oversee the repair of war memorials to U.S. forces erected in foreign countries by American citizens, States, municipalities, or associations. Such moneys are accounted for through this fund (36 U.S.C. 128).

The Agency advises the President and the Department of State on arms control and disarmament policy and its implementation, conducts negotiations with other countries looking toward international agreements to control, reduce, or eliminate arms, and will direct, as appropriate, U.S. participation in such control systems as may be adopted.

Approximately 42% of the 1970 request will be devoted to external research and field testing activities conducted through contracts or grants with nongovernmental research organizations and through reimbursement agreements with other U.S. Government departments and agencies. In 1970, the Agency plans to devote particular attention to the control of strategic offensive and defensive weapons systems.

The Board regulates the economic aspects of air carrier operations, both domestic and international and participates in the development of international air transportation. The increase proposed for 1970 is for expansion in certain critical program areas, primarily in the awards of operating authority, regulation of rates and fares, agreements, and accounting and reporting areas.

1. Awards of operating authority.—This includes (1) the processing of applications for air transportation operating authority or modification of authority either by hearing or nonhearing procedures; (2) the conduct of investigations initiated by the Board involving operating authorities; (3) international aviation work involving obtaining, granting, or exchanging of operating authority with foreign countries generally through bilateral agreements, and the handling of day-to-day operating problems with foreign governments and airline officials; (4) the issuance of foreign carrier permits; (5) the necessary studies, forecasts, and analyses not related to processing a specific case or application.

2. Regulation of rates and fares.—This includes (1) review of domestic and overseas passenger and cargo rate tariffs to determine those rates and fares that should be permitted to become effective without investigation, those that should be permitted to become effective but at the same time investigated, and those that should be suspended pending investigation; (2) review of complaints against air carrier rates filed by competing carriers or by users of those services to determine whether such complaints warrant a formal investigation of the provisions complained of; (3) the conduct of formal (hearing process) investigations of those rates, fares, rules, or related tariff provisions that the Board has found may be unlawful or contrary to the public interest; (4) establishment of minimum rates applicable to foreign, overseas, and domestic charter services performed by the civil air carriers for the Military Airlift Command (MAC), on the request of the carriers or the Department of Defense, or the Board's initiative, so as to maintain these services on a sound economic footing; (5) review of petitions for the establishment or revision of service mail rates filed by the air carriers or the Post Office Department; (6) the necessary studies, forecasts, and analyses not related to processing a specific case or application.

3. Regulation of agreements and interlocking relationships.—This includes (1) the review and approval or disapproval of applications requesting Board approval of acquisitions of control, applications for approval of interlocking directorates, and agreements between air carriers and any other common carrier affecting air transportation; (2) review and approval of agreements on rates and fares under which U.S. flag carriers participate in the International Air Transport Association (IATA).

4. Subsidy support of air service.—This includes (1) the processing of subsidy rate cases by hearing or nonhearing procedures, including the class subsidy rate for the local service carriers; (2) the necessary studies, forecasts, and analyses not related to processing a specific case or application; (3) the provision of economic assistance to Board components on cases with subsidy implications; (4) making recommendations to the Secretary of Transportation as to the Government guaranty of private loans to air carriers for the purchase of more modern aircraft; (4) the verification of subsidy claims submitted by the air carriers.

5. Regulation of air carrier accounting and reporting.—This includes (1) the design, prescription, and administration of uniform systems of accounts and reports; (2) substantiation of carrier conformance with prescribed accounting and reporting regulations through desk analysis of carriers' reports; (3) preparing special analyses and evaluations of air carrier financial data; (4) field audit of carriers' books, records, and reports; (5) performance of special financial and accounting factfinding services in the field.

6. Enforcement of applicable laws and regulations.—This includes (1) the handling of passenger and shipper complaints; (2) investigation of alleged or suspected violations of the economic provisions of the Federal Aviation Act and with all of the regulations, orders, certificates, permits, exemptions, and other requirements issued thereunder; (3) the taking of enforcement action and the achievement of compliance by informal (non-hearing) enforcement action, formal (hearing) administrative proceedings, and the prosecution of enforcement cases in the courts.

The Civil Aeronautics Board fixes rates of subsidy compensation to promote the development of air transportation to the extent and of the quality required for the commerce of the United States, the Postal Service, and the national defense. The Board makes subsidy payments to subsidy eligible certificated air carriers who have demonstrated a statutory need therefor. Subsidy is provided to cover the carrier's operating loss incurred under honest, economical and efficient management and to provide it an opportunity to earn a fair return (after taxes) on investment used and useful in the air transportation services.

The following table reflects the estimated program amounts becoming due finally for each year, together with the adjustments between years:

1. Recruiting and examining.—Most appointments in the competitive civil service are made under the open competitive merit system through examinations held by the offices of the Commission, interagency boards, and Post Office establishment boards operating under the supervision of the Commission. In order to insure that Federal agencies are staffed with well-qualified people and the information about Federal employment opportunities is made known to all citizens, the Commission supplies information to and carries out a program of visits to colleges, junior colleges, high schools, business schools, veterans' organizations, military separation centers, and other likely sources of manpower supply.

The Interagency Board network was established at the President's direction and has made possible the modernization of the recruiting and examining system. There is at least one interagency board in each State; in the larger States with a high concentration of Federal employment there are two or more. The interagency boards announce and rate examinations and provide the public with on-the-spot comprehensive information and advisory service about Federal job opportunities and examinations.

All agency boards of examiners except those of the Post Office were merged into the new interagency board system by June 30, 1968. Post Office boards will be merged into the system approximately October 1, 1969. The interagency board network will then provide full examination coverage for all positions under the merit system.

Workloads are reflected in the following table:

Inquires answered.....	6,034,580	6,080,000	6,080,000

2. Investigation of character and fitness for employment.—The Commission conducts most of the investigations required for security determinations of persons being employed in sensitive positions, and fitness investigations of all persons entering nonsensitive positions. The Commission also conducts other investigations connected with appeals and the merit system. Included is investigations of U.S. citizens for employment by international organizations required by Executive Order 10422 as amended.

3. Inspections.—The Commission inspects agency personnel operations to insure compliance with civil service laws and regulations and to stimulate improvement in personnel practices. The Commission also conducts classification reviews to insure compliance with classification standards.

4. Federal executive manpower.—The Commission will expand its program to develop and use the talent and competency existing within and outside the Government to help staff agency executive positions throughout the Federal service within full merit principles. It will work with agencies to develop effective top-level organization and position structure related to present and future agency missions.

5. Developing policies and standards.—The Commission develops programs, devises tests, issues standards and regulations, and proposes legislation to improve the Federal personnel system for both competitive and noncompetitive positions. It will develop common job standards and wage policies to insure that equitable and valid wages are paid to all wage board employees.

6. Appellate functions.—These consist of hearing and taking action on appeals; reviewing and processing of discrimination complaints, under authority of Executive Order 11246; and providing advice to agencies and individuals regarding rights of appeal.

7. Training.—The Commission makes overall and individual agency appraisals of training operations, and coordinates interagency training programs to achieve full utilization and to avoid duplication and, where it is more economical to do so, conducts training programs for agency personnel on a reimbursable basis.

9. Administration of the Voting Rights Act of 1965.—The Commission provides examiners to prepare and maintain lists of eligible voters and to observe election procedures in States or other political subdivisions designated by the Attorney General. The Commission receives complaints, hears and determines challenges, and assists in the defense of challenge cases filed in U.S. circuit courts of appeals as prescribed by the act.

10. Enforcement of restrictions on political activity.—Under chapter 15 and subchapter III of chapter 73 of title 5, U.S.C., and the Civil Service Rules, the Civil Service Commission administers and enforces political activity restrictions as applied to Federal civil service employees, as well as to officers and employees of State or local agencies whose principle employment is in connection with a federally financed activity.

11. Administration of the retirement and insurance programs.—The Commission administers retirement, group life insurance, and health benefits programs for Federal employees. It is required to adjudicate annuity, death, benefit, refund, and deposit claims; make payments to annuitants and other claimants; collect and account for moneys received; maintain control accounts and systems for the funds; negotiate with private carriers to provide the insurance and health benefits authorized; determine eligibility in certain cases; audit the records of insurance underwriters; and maintain the trust funds established for financing the programs.

This fund finances the cost of health benefits for (1) active employees, (2) employees who retired after June 1960, or their survivors (5 U.S.C. 8901-8913), and (3) the related expenses of the Commission in administering the program.

Budget program.—The balance of the fund is available for payments without fiscal year limitation. Numbers of participants on June 30 are as follows:

Active employees.....	2,172,925	2,207,925	2,310,225
Annuitants.....	353,275	402,375	450,675
Total.....	2,526,200	2,610,300	2,760,900

In determining a biweekly subscription rate to cover program costs, 1% is added to the rates developed by health benefit carriers, for administrative expense, and 3% is added for a contingency reserve held by the Commission for each carrier. Government contributions are limited by law to 50% of the subscription rate, up to a maximum of $1.68 for single coverage, and $4.10 for family coverage. The Commission is authorized to transfer unused administrative reserve funds to the contingency reserve.

Financing.—The fund is financed by (1) withholdings from active employees and annuitants, (2) agency contributions for active employees, appropriated to agencies, and (3) Government contribution for annuitants, appropriated to the Commission.

Operating results.—Funds advanced to carriers but not used for paying claims in the current period are carried forward as special reserves for use in subsequent periods. About $5.3 million unused administrative funds were transferred to the contingency reserve in 1968. The contingency reserves are retained by the Commission and paid to carriers, as necessary to defray future rate increases or to provide increased benefits.

This fund finances insurance premiums paid to private insurance companies for Federal employees group life insurance (5 U.S.C. 8701-8716) and expenses of the Civil Service Commission in administering the program. Separate cost data is maintained for employees regular group life insurance, an additional $10 thousand optional insurance authorized in 1967, and insurance for members of former beneficial associations.

Budget program.—The status of the basic life insurance program is as follows:

Life insurance in force (in billions of dollars):	1968 actual	1969 estimate	1970 estimate
On active employees <sup>1</sup> .....	36.4	36.8	37.6
On retired employees.....	2.2	2.6	3.0

Financing.—Premium costs for the regular program are met by withholding 27½ cents biweekly from the salaries of employees, for each $1 thousand of life insurance and a 50% matching by employer agencies; for the optional program by withholding from employees' salaries, or retirees' annuities; and for the beneficial association program by direct collection from members. Most of the difference between receipts and benefit payments under the policy is held in reserve for paying future life insurance claims. The status of the reserves on June 30, is as follows (in millions of dollars):

Held in special contingency reserves:	1968 actual	1969 estimate	1970 estimate
By basic program insurer.....	197	200	200

Held in trust by U.S. Treasury.....	502	629	764
Total reserves .....	705	835	970

The special contingency reserve with the insurer for the regular and optional insurance programs is limited to $200 million. Excess income from the program over benefit payments and other expenses is deposited in the U.S. Treasury to the credit of the Employees' Life Insurance Fund. The operations of the insurer for the regular and optional life insurance program are as follows on June 30 (in millions of dollars):

1. General fund loans.—Appropriations for 30-year interest-bearing loans from the U.S. Treasury are made available for financing construction of the general public works program of the District of Columbia, including school construction (72 Stat. 183); for the District of Columbia's contribution to the Washington Metropolitan Area Transit Authority for the city's share of construction costs of the rail rapid transit system authorized by the National Capital Transportation Act, as amended (79 Stat. 663); and for education facilities for the Federal City College and the Washington Technical Institute authorized by the District of Columbia Public Education Act of 1966 (80 Stat. 1426). The loans to the general fund are appropriated under a borrowing authority which is related to the ability of the District of Columbia to repay. The loans made under this authorization may not cause the general fund debt service to exceed 6% of local revenues and the annual Federal payment to be credited to the fund (81 Stat. 339). The status of general fund borrowing on a cumulative basis is as follows (in millions of dollars):

Loan authorization:

The Export-Import Bank of the United States was organized in 1934 and its existing programs are authorized under the Export-Import Bank Act of 1945, as amended. The act states in part: "The objects and purposes of the Bank shall be to aid in financing and to facilitate exports and imports and the exchange of commodities between the United States or any of its territories or insular possessions and any foreign country or the agencies or nationals thereof." The major types of financing are loans to foreign borrowers, guarantees and discount loans to United States commercial banks. Insurance is issued by the Foreign Credit Insurance Association and the American War Risk Agency.

Public Law 90-267, approved March 13, 1968, extended the life of the Bank to June 30, 1973; lending authority was increased to $13.5 billion; the amount of guarantees and insurance which may be outstanding at any one time was established at $3.5 billion (to be charged against program activity and lending authority at 25%); and the Bank's name was changed to the Export-Import Bank of the United States.

Public Law 90-390, approved July 7, 1968, expanded the criteria for lending in order to give the Bank greater flexibility in assisting the U.S. balance of payments. The law provides that the Bank may approve such loans, guarantees, and insurance "which, in the judgment of the Board of Directors, offer sufficient likelihood of repayment to justify the Bank's support in order to actively foster the foreign trade and long-term commercial interest of the United States." Executive Order 11420 established the Export Expansion Advisory Committee to assist the Bank in obtaining the maximum balance of payments benefits from the use of this new authority. The aggregate amount of loans, plus 25% of the contractual liability of guarantees and insurance outstanding at any one time under this act, shall not exceed $500 million. The Bank estimates annual loan authorizations of $100 million and guarantees and insurance authorizations of $400 million (gross) under this new export expansion program for 1969 and 1970.

Operating results and financial condition.—The Bank is a wholly owned Government corporation. Capital stock of $1 billion was purchased by the U.S. Treasury. In addition, the Bank is authorized to borrow from the Treasury up to $6 billion; the Bank pays interest on such borrowings.

The Bank's net income is estimated to be $122,649 thousand in 1970, compared with $126,409 thousand in 1969 and $114,137 thousand in 1968. From its net income, the Bank paid a $50 million dividend to the Treasury in 1968 and added the remaining balance of $64.1 million to its retained earnings reserve to provide for future contingencies. The Bank expects to follow a similar course in 1969 and 1970. Total investment of the Government in the corporation is estimated to be $2,744 million on June 30, 1970.

The Administration supervises a coordinated agricultural credit system of farm credit banks and associations which make credit available to farmers and their cooperatives.

Assessments based upon estimated administrative expenses are collected from agencies in the farm credit system and are available for administrative expenses. Obligations are incurred within fiscal year limitations on administrative expenses.

Supervision and examination of farm credit banks and associations.—Provision is made for supervision and examination of: 12 Federal land banks; 13 banks for cooperatives; 12 Federal intermediate credit banks; 676 Federal land bank associations; and 456 production credit associations. Also, these credit agencies are furnished such services as assistance in financing and investments, custody of collateral for bonds and debentures, credit analysis, development of appraisal standards and policies, preparation of reports and budgets, and development and distribution of information on farm credit.

This fund is available to the Governor of the Farm Credit Administration as a revolving fund for investment in capital stock of the Federal intermediate credit banks and the production credit associations. Originally there were separate investment funds for the Federal intermediate credit banks and the production credit associations; however, these funds were combined into a single revolving fund as provided in section 5 of the Farm Credit Act of 1933 (12 U.S.C., 1131i), as amended by section 2(1) of Public Law 87-343, approved October 3, 1961.

Budget program.—Federal intermediate credit banks.—Under the provisions of Public Law 90-582, enacted on October 17, 1968, to expedite retirement of Government capital the Governor of the Farm Credit Administration with the concurrence of the Secretary of the Treasury has determined that the fair value of class A stock in the Federal Intermediate Credit Banks for retirement at December 31, 1968, is $108,175,463. Accordingly, upon payment of this amount by the banks, the U.S. Government's interest therein will be retired in full, and thereafter these banks will be privately owned.

Production credit associations.—The remaining Government capital amounting to $690 thousand was retired by the three production credit associations involved on December 31, 1968.

This fund is available to the Governor of the Farm Credit Administration for investments in class A capital stock of the banks for cooperatives (12 U.S.C. 1134).

The fund was created with $500 million capital in 1929; however, it was reduced to $150 million by legislation approved June 25, 1962 (76 Stat. 109).

Budget program.—Under the provisions of Public Law 90-582, enacted on October 17, 1968, to expedite retirement of Government capital the Governor of the Farm Credit Administration with the concurrence of the Secretary of the Treasury has determined that the fair value of class A stock in the Banks for Cooperatives for retirement at December 31, 1968, is $19,804,043. Accordingly, upon payment of this amount by the banks, the U.S. Government's interest therein will be retired in full, and thereafter these banks will be privately owned.

The banks for cooperatives, as mixed-ownership enterprises, were operated through a trust revolving fund up to December 31, 1968, when they become privately owned. This budget presentation relates only to the period up through that date, including the conversion to private ownership. Estimates of their activities during the remainder of 1969 and during 1970 are presented in an annexed budget in Part III of this document.

Ownership and structure.—The banks, of which there are 13, are under the general supervision of the Farm Credit Administration. They finance the operations of farmers' cooperatives.

The banks' lending funds are obtained primarily from the sale of debentures to the public and from their own capital. The debentures are not guaranteed by the U.S. Government, either as to principal or interest. Their administrative expenses are paid out of their own resources. Thus, neither their lending funds nor expenses are obtained by direct appropriation from the Government.

The banks' capital funds now consist of equities of borrowing cooperatives and retained earnings. The Farm Credit Act of 1955 provided for eventual ownership of the banks by farmers' cooperatives and the retirement of the U.S. Government's investment. At the time the 1955 act was passed, the U.S. Government had an investment in the banks of $150 million. By June 30, 1968, this investment had been reduced to $21.7 million while the equities of borrowing cooperatives amounted to $165 million. By June 30, 1968, eight of the banks had completed the retirement of all Government capital.

Budget program.—During 1968, the banks extended credit totaling $1.8 billion, but repayments and revenue held their net outlays to $148 million. In the first 6 months of 1969, the gross loans were $979 million, repayments and revenue offsets held net outlays to $208 million.

Budget authority.—The banks are permitted by law to borrow the money needed to meet loan commitments at a debt-to-capital ratio of 8 to 1. The authorization to borrow counts as budget authority. Actual borrowings were kept to the sums needed for the banks' activities.

Conversion to private ownership.—Public Law 90-582 was enacted on October 17, 1968, to expedite retirement of Government capital from the banks and from other institutions in the Farm Credit System. Accordingly, in December, there was transferred from the banks for cooperatives to certain Treasury funds, the sum of $19,804,043, in full payment of the Government's capital stock, the par value of which was recorded at $21,735,600. With this transaction, title to the Government's share of the banks' retained earnings valued at $12,346,934, was vested in the private stockholders. Also, this transaction removed the banks from the category of mixed-ownership enterprises, and therefore from the budget totals.

The conversion to private ownership significantly reduced both the loans outstanding and the agency debt outstanding in the Government's central accounts. Under ordinary circumstances, such transactions would be recorded as a reduction in budget outlays. However, only a sum equal to the revalued capital stock has been so credited in the budget accounts; the remainder of the conversion credits have been reported as special items outside the budget totals, as follows:

The Federal intermediate credit banks, as mixed-ownership enterprises, were operated through a trust revolving fund up to December 31, 1968, when they became privately owned. This budget presentation relates only to the period up through that date, including the conversion to private ownership. Estimates of their activities during the remainder of 1969 and during 1970 are presented in an annexed budget in part III of this document.

Ownership and structure.—The banks, of which there are 12, are under the general supervision of the Farm Credit Administration. They serve as banks of discount for agriculture, discounting agricultural and livestock paper for, and making loans to, local financing institutions, such as production credit associations, agricultural credit corporations, livestock loan companies, and commercial banks. They also provide the production credit associations with necessary supervision and services.

The banks' lending funds are obtained primarily from the sale of debentures to the public and from their own capital. The debentures are not guaranteed by the U.S. Government, either as to principal or interest. Their administrative expenses are paid out of their own resources. Thus, neither their lending funds nor expenses are obtained by direct appropriation from the Government.

The banks were originally wholly owned Government corporations set up exclusively as banks of discount; however, pursuant to the Farm Credit Act of 1956, the banks became mixed-ownership corporations and were made responsible for supervising the production credit associations and assisting them to make sound credit available to farmers.

All of the capital stock of the Federal intermediate credit banks from organization in 1923 to December 31, 1956, was held by the U.S. Government. The 1956 act provided a long-range plan for the eventual ownership of the credit banks by the production credit associations and the gradual retirement of the Government's investment in the banks. However, because of the increased credit demands placed upon the Federal intermediate credit banks, it was necessary for the Government to invest additional capital in the banks in order to permit the banks to borrow the money to meet these demands within the 10 to 1 debt-to-capital ratio then permitted by law. Public Law No. 89-237 enacted on October 4, 1965, increased the maximum debt-to-capital ratio of the credit banks to 12 to 1, and Public Law No. 90-345 enacted on June 18, 1968, further increased this ratio to 20 to 1.

Budget program.—During the fiscal year 1968, the banks extended credit totaling $7.5 billion, but repayments and revenues held their net outlays to $373 million. In the first 6 months of 1969, the gross loans were $3.1 billion, more than offset by receipts, which brought net outlays to a negative $271 million (that is, to net receipts of that amount).

Budget authority.—The change in borrowing ratio mentioned above, together with the increase in privately owned capital stock and the growth of retained earnings in 1968, increased by $3 billion the banks' authority to issue debentures and notes. The authorization to borrow counts as budget authority. Actual borrowings were kept to the sums needed for the banks' activities.

Conversion to private ownership.—Public Law 90-582 was enacted on October 17, 1968, to expedite retirement of Government capital from the banks and from other institutions in the Farm Credit System. Accordingly, in December, there was transferred from the Federal intermediate credit banks to certain Treasury funds, the sum of $108,175,463, in full payment of the Government's capital stock, the par value of which was recorded at $125,789,120. With this transaction, title to the Government's share of the banks' retained earnings valued at $33,937,770, was vested in the private stockholders. Also, this transaction removed the banks from the category of mixed-ownership enterprises, and therefore from the budget totals.

The conversion to private ownership significantly reduced both the loans outstanding and the agency debt outstanding in the Government's central accounts. Under ordinary circumstances, such transactions would be recorded as a reduction in budget outlays. However, only a sum equal to the revalued capital stock has been so credited in the budget accounts; the remainder of the conversion credits have been reported as special items outside the budget totals, as follows:

Coal mine operators, affected by orders issued by Federal coal mine inspectors, may appeal to the Board for annulment or revision of, and temporary relief from, such orders. When operators appeal, hearings are held, and the Board rules upon the applications. It is estimated that the number of orders subject to appeal to the Board will amount to over 500 in 1970, under the Federal Coal Mine Safety Act, as amended on March 26, 1966. The recommended appropriation includes an amount estimated to be sufficient to cover necessary administrative expenses, and to handle an expected caseload, projected on the basis of related experience under the Federal Coal Mine Safety Act, prior to its amendment, and on the basis of current experience under the amended act.

The Federal Communications Commission regulates interstate and foreign commerce in communications by wire and radio. The Communications Act requires the Commission to (1) attain and maintain maximum benefits for the people of the United States in the use of the radio spectrum and (2) regulate the rates and services of communications common carriers.

1. Commissioners.—This activity includes the top adjudicatory, policymaking, planning, and decisionmaking for the Commission's basic functions.

2. Broadcast.—Standard broadcast (AM), frequency modulation (FM), television (TV), and other related services are licensed and regulated by the Commission. Pertinent data are shown in the following table:

	1967 actual	1968 actual	1969 estimate	1970 estimate
Stations regulated <sup>1</sup> .....	9,841	10,194	10,659	11,119

FM.....	411	442	475	475
TV.....	188	128	150	150
Translators.....	310	424	500	550

The increase for 1970 will be used for processing backlogged applications in the broadcasting services and to revise the Commission's rules governing these services.

3. Common carrier.—The Commission regulates the rates and practices of telephone, telegraph, and cable companies including satellite communications and considers proposed mergers and acquisitions of properties, extensions and reductions in service, construction of facilities and applications to use radio in communication services. The funds provided in 1970 are principally to process the increasing number of applications being filed by communications common carriers for radio facilities, for developing stronger capability for determining revenue requirements for individual classes of service and to conduct studies of customer demand for telecommunications services and cost of capital to the carriers.

4. Safety and special radio services.—Aviation, police, marine, amateur, and other nonbroadcast uses of radio are licensed and regulated. Pertinent data follows (in thousands):

The increase in funds proposed for 1970 is for processing of the continually increasing volume of applications for radio licenses in these services. Further effort also will be devoted to providing frequency relief in the land mobile services, the development of a nationwide radio communications system to enhance safety on the highways, and to implementation of international agreements in the maritime field.

5. Field engineering.—Field employees inspect radio stations; administer operator examinations; collect engineering data; monitor the spectrum; and determine the location of lost ships, lost aircraft, and illegal sources of radio emission. The 1970 program will include replacement of some obsolete field equipment and strengthening of the Commission's monitoring and radio interference investigative capability.

6. Research and planning in communications technology.—The Commission undertakes broad studies designed to improve the utilization of the radio spectrum, approves certain equipment for public use, and licenses experimental radio stations. The increase for 1970 includes an additional $500 thousand for the continued development of the Commission's research program. Some of the studies being considered for 1970 include a further study into broadband communications technology, frequency assignment techniques for microwave radio systems, the social and economic values of communications, and a study of future requirements of the public, industry, public agencies, and individuals for land mobile services. In 1970, the Commission also proposes to initiate a program for the development of an augmented data bank to make available additional technical information regarding licensed stations for use in developing rules and in communications systems planning.

7. Community antenna TV.—The Commission regulates CATV systems which receive and amplify the transmissions of one or more TV broadcast stations and then redistributes the signals by cable to private homes or places of business of those who subscribe to the service for a fee. The number of CATV systems has increased from 1,300 in 1964 to approximately 2,100 at the present time. This growth, which will be further stimulated by recent Supreme Court decisions has added to the regulatory workload of the Commission. Funds for 1970 will permit the Commission to respond more expeditiously to matters pertaining to CATV.

8. Support activities.—This activity includes the professional management and legal services provided to the Commission as well as all routine administrative services.

The Corporation was established for the purpose of protecting bank depositors and to help bring sound conditions to the Nation's banking system. As of June 30, 1968, the deposit insurance fund, representing the accumulated net income of the Corporation, amounted to $3.6 billion. The entire fund is available for the protection of depositors in insured banks and for the payment of administrative and insurance expenses. No funds derived from taxes or Federal appropriations are allocated to or used by the Corporation in any of its operations. Its expenses and insurance losses are paid out of the fund which is accumulated principally from assessments paid by insured banks and from income from its investments in obligations of the U.S. Treasury. The Corporation is authorized to borrow from the U.S. Treasury and the Secretary of the Treasury is authorized and directed to loan to the Corporation, on such terms as may be fixed by the Corporation and the Secretary, not to exceed $3 billion outstanding when in the judgment of the Board of Directors of the Corporation such funds are required for insurance purposes. No borrowing under this authorization has been made to date and none is anticipated in 1969 and 1970.

<sup>1</sup> No provision is made in this statement for expenses which might be incurred by reason of additional bank closings after Oct. 8, 1968, because there is no sound basis for predicting which, if any, insured banks will close in the future.

The Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation was established for the purpose of protecting bank depositors and to help bring sound conditions to the Nation's banking system. In order to protect depositors in insured banks the Corporation is authorized to insure such depositors in the maximum amount of $15 thousand; to examine all insured banks not members of the Federal Reserve System and, in certain situations for insurance purposes, to examine National banks and those State chartered banks which are members of the Federal Reserve System; to participate in the regulation of mergers involving insured banks; and to promulgate and enforce rules and regulations relating to the supervision of insured banks, the withdrawal of deposit insurance, and other regulatory and supervisory matters consistent with its responsibility as insurer.

The income of the Corporation is derived principally from insurance assessments paid by insured banks and interest on investments in U.S. Government securities. As of June 30, 1968, the Deposit Insurance Fund, representing the accumulated net income of the Corporation, amounted to $3.6 billion. The entire fund is reserved for the protection of depositors in insured banks and for payment of administrative and insurance expenses. No funds derived from taxes or Federal appropriations are allocated to or used by the Corporation in any of its operations.

The estimates shown for 1969 and 1970 in these statements make no provision for losses and expenses which might be incurred by reason of the closing of any bank after October 8, 1968 (the date on which these reports were prepared), because there is no basis for predicting which, if any, insured banks will close in the future.

1. Direct program.—The Congress has authorized an appropriation not to exceed $300 thousand through 1970 for planning Federal development programs in Alaska (Public Law 90-69). The Federal Field Committee for Development Planning in Alaska plans and coordinates Federal programs involved in the enhancement and growth of Alaska's economy. In 1970, these programs will focus on promoting economic growth in northern and western Alaska and improving the living conditions of the natives.

2. Reimbursable program.—The Committee has been coordinating the development of a housing components fabrication plant in Bethel, Alaska, which by 1970 will have constructed 300 homes and created 60 training and job opportunities for Eskimos. This program is expected to be completed by the end of 1969.

FEDERAL HOME LOAN BANK BOARD

The Federal Home Loan Bank Board formulates policies and supervises the operations of the twelve Federal home loan banks, the system of Federal savings and loan associations, and the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation; it is also responsible for the examination of all Federal savings and loan associations, and for the examination and supervision of all State-chartered institutions insured by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation.

The expenditure programs of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board and the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation are presented as business-type budgets. Section 2 of Public Law 895, approved July 3, 1948, provides that all expenses of the Division of Examinations, Federal Home Loan Bank Board, shall be considered nonadministrative.

Public Law 87-141, approved August 17, 1961, provides that expenses of any functions of supervision (except of Federal home loan banks) vested in or exercisable by the Board shall be considered as nonadministrative expenses.

The administrative expenses of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board are paid from assessments against the twelve Federal home loan banks and the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation.

The expenses of the Home Office of the Office of Examinations and Supervision are paid from assessments against the twelve Federal home loan banks and the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation.

The expenses of the field offices of the Office of Examinations and Supervision are paid from fees charged against and collected from savings and loan institutions examined and from assessments against the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation.

Budget program.—The Board's budget is based on nine activities.

1. Examination and supervision of Federal home loan banks.—The Board examines and supervises the operations of the Federal home loan banks.

2. Supervision of Federal and State-chartered institutions.—The financial condition and operations of each insured institution is analyzed and corrective action is instituted when warranted. Supervision of insured institutions operating under State charter is carried on, cooperatively, under arrangements made with the respective State authorities.

3. Chartering Federal and insuring savings and loan associations.—Federal savings and loan associations are chartered and regulated. Applications of State-chartered associations for conversion into Federal savings and loan associations and applications of Federal savings and loan associations for establishment of branch offices are also examined. In addition, an analysis and evaluation is made of the insurance risk in connection with applications submitted by savings and loan associations for insurance of share accounts.

4. Examining savings and loan associations.—Supervisory examinations are made of Federal savings and loan associations, State-chartered associations insured by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation, and such uninsured member institutions of the Federal home loan bank system as are not examined by State examiners. Examinations are also made of institutions applying for insurance of accounts and for conversion from a State to a Federal charter when required by the Board. The costs of examinations are assessed against the institutions examined.

5. Executive direction and staff services.—This includes formulation of basic policy and the furnishing of staff services common to the Board and the Insurance Corporation.

6. Analysis of operations.—An analysis is made of the financial condition of member institutions, the flow of savings, the character and volume of mortgage lending, as well as selective review of geographical or community areas and phases of operations and certain analyses of trends in the field of thrift and home mortgage finance, including volume of activity and interest rates of all major types of mortgage lenders.

7. Administrative services.—These consist of auditing; accounting; budgetary and financial reporting; internal budget control; and fiscal organization and management. These services also include general housekeeping and operating services, including printing and reproduction work.

8. Special studies of the savings and loan industry.—The Board is authorized by Public Law 89-426, 80 Stat. 141, 143, approved May 13, 1966, to conduct special studies of the savings and loan industry. Public Law 90-448, 82 Stat. 610, approved August 1, 1968, amended Public Law 89-426 to extend the date for the completion of the studies to December 31, 1969.

9. Acquisition and construction of a building in the District of Columbia.—The Board is authorized by Public Law 89-754, 80 Stat. 1255, 1293, approved November 3, 1966, to acquire property and construct a building in the District of Columbia to provide quarters and facilities for the Board. Under the law, the Board is required to prepare and submit an annual budget program for the building as provided in title I of the Government Corporation Control Act.

The amounts shown in the schedules for the above activities include administrative expenses under annual limitation; nonadministrative expenses under a separate limitation; and certain additional expenses not under limitation. Administrative expenses are estimated to increase from $5,115 to $5,325 thousand. Nonadministrative expenses covering the expenses of examining and supervising savings and loan associations are discussed separately below.

The Office of Examinations and Supervision under the general direction of the Director of the Office conducts regular periodic and special supervisory examinations of all Federal savings and loan associations, of insured State-chartered savings and loan associations, of other institutions of the savings and loan type insured by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation, and of noninsured member institutions of the Federal Home Loan Bank System not subject to State supervision. The Office also examines and analyzes the financial condition of institutions which apply for membership in the System, for insurance of accounts, or for conversion from a State to a Federal charter. The institutions examined bear the costs of examinations, and the fees charged therefor are calculated to defray all of the operating expenses of the examination function.

The Office is also responsible for the supervision of institutions insured by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation. The purpose of such supervision is to prevent the development or continuance of unsafe and unsound financial practices in these institutions and to correct such practices where found. In carrying out the supervisory function, the Office reviews and analyzes the examination reports forwarded by the chief examiners of the respective district offices. The authority for examination and supervision of insured savings and loan associations was expanded by the Financial Institutions Supervisory Act of 1966, effective October 16, 1966. The Savings and Loan Holding Company Amendments of 1967, which became effective February 14, 1968, imposed additional examination and supervisory responsibilities on the Office with respect to savings and loan holding companies and their subsidiaries.

The Federal home loan banks, together with the savings and loan associations and similar institutions which are members of the banks, constitute the Federal Home Loan Bank System and are designed to stabilize and strengthen institutions promoting private thrift and individual home ownership.

The 12 Federal home loan banks obtain their funds from capital stock, issuance of their own obligations to the public, and deposits of member institutions. The capital stock of the Banks consists entirely of subscriptions of member institutions. Transactions of the banks are shown in the annexed budgets at the end of this document. Authority to borrow from the Treasury in the amount of $1 billion is provided in 12 U.S.C. 1431 (64 Stat. 257). No borrowings have been made to date and none are anticipated in 1969 or 1970.

The Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation is authorized under title IV of the National Housing Act (12 U.S.C. 1724 et seq.) to insure savings in all Federal savings and loan associations and in State-chartered institutions of the savings and loan type which apply and qualify for insurance. The protection thus afforded, which insures savers in member associations against financial loss up to a statutory limit of $15 thousand, may be provided through the prevention of default or the payment of insurance to savings account holders in the event of liquidation. The former course of action, which results in complete protection to each investor regardless of the amount in his account, is accomplished by making cash grants or by purchasing all or a part of the association's assets. Also, the Corporation is authorized to make loans to institutions in financial difficulty. Wherever possible, preventive measures are taken to eliminate the necessity of liquidation. However, in the event liquidation is necessary, the Corporation acts as receiver or coreceiver upon request of State authority in cases involving State-chartered institutions. In addition, the Corporation, upon determination by the Board (under legislation effective July 1968, Public Law 90-389) is empowered to act, even retroactively, as sole receiver in cases involving State-chartered institutions.

The Corporation functions under direction of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, which provides certain administrative services and conducts the examination and supervision of insured institutions. The expenses of the Board and its staff offices are paid from assessments made on the Corporation and the Federal home-loan banks.

1. Administrative expenses subject to limitation.—In carrying out its role of protecting savings in insured savings and loan associations the Corporation has settled 76 cases since its creation 34 years ago. Total losses (including provision for losses) to June 30, 1968, have amounted to $135 million representing approximately 10% of cumulative gross income. Detailed information with respect to all of the insurance cases is summarized in the following table (dollars in thousands):

2. Payment to Federal Home Loan Bank Board for services and facilities.—The Corporation will pay 25% of the administrative expenses of the Board as a direct charge and 48% of the remaining administrative expenses of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board in 1970 in return for services and facilities by the Board and staff offices. The Corporation will also pay 48% of the Washington office expenses and 20% of the District offices expenses of the Office of Examinations and Supervision for supervisory services by that office.

4. Other expenses.—Provides for liquidation and other expenses of the Corporation in connection with the disposition of assets purchased from and loans to insured institutions to prevent default.

Financing.—The original capital of $100 million has been completely repaid to the Treasury, together with an additional $43 million for the use of the funds.

The Corporation has continuing authority to borrow from the Treasury for insurance purposes, with a limitation of $750 million outstanding at any one time. No borrowings under this authorization have ever been made.

The Corporation has additional authority to assess against each insured institution additional premiums for insurance until the amount of such premiums equals the amount of all losses and expenses of the Corporation, except that the total amount so assessed in any one year against any such institution shall not exceed one-eighth of 1% of the total amount of the accounts of its insured member and its creditor obligations.

Operating results and financial condition.—The Corporation is entirely self-supporting and in no one year has its operating expenses amounted to more than 10% of total income; in 1968 it amounted to 9.8% and, except for possible insurance expenditures, is estimated to be 6.0% in 1970. Revenues and other receipts have been sufficient to meet all insurance losses, operating expenses, and return on capital stock, and to establish a reserve for contingencies of $2,299.9 million as of June 30, 1968. Total revenues and other receipts since 1934, of $2,534.2 million, have been applied as follows (in millions of dollars):

	Amount	Percent
Expense.....	56.3	2.2
Net insurance losses and provision for losses.....	135.0	5.3
Return on capital stock to U.S. Treasury.....	43.0	1.7
Reserve for contingencies.....	2,299.9	90.8
Total.....	2,534.2	100.0

Operating expenses (funded) for 1970 are estimated at $14,118 thousand, consisting of administrative expenses of the Corporation of $360 thousand, $6,770 thousand for services rendered by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, and $6,988 thousand for other expenses.

Since the time and size of expenditures for the prevention of default and payment of insurance are unpredictable, estimates of future expenditures for these purposes are omitted from the financial statements. They are considered in setting the allowance for contingencies for the budget as a whole.

Net operating income for 1970, which, in the absence of insurance expenditures, is expected to be $62.9 million or 66.6% above the net operating income for 1968, will be retained by the Corporation to meet future contingencies.

Public Law 87-210, which became effective January 1, 1962, requires each insured savings and loan association to pay annually to the Corporation an additional premium in the nature of a prepayment at a rate equal to 2% of the increase in savings for the previous calendar year, less an amount equal to any requirement for the purchase of Federal Home Loan Bank stock during the period. The law also provides for the crediting of a return on the accumulated prepayments of each insured association at a rate equal to the average realized by the Corporation on its own investment portfolio. It is estimated that prepayments will total $175 million in 1970 compared to $189.2 million in 1968.

Public Law 87-210 further provides for the establishment of a primary reserve which shall be the general reserve of the Corporation and a secondary reserve to which shall be credited additional premiums. When the sum of these two reserves equals 2% of total savings plus creditor obligations, the cash payment of the regular premiums and the prepayments will cease and the Corporation will commence transferring the secondary reserve to the primary reserve by crediting each insured association's accumulated prepayments to its regular premium liability. If the aggregate of the two reserves drops to below 1.75%, the prepayments and the cash payment of the regular premium will be resumed and continued until the 2% ratio is again reached. It is estimated that the aggregate of the primary and secondary reserves will reach $3.0 billion by June 30, 1970, or 2.0% of estimated savings and creditor obligations totaling $148.2 billion.

The Corporation is required by law to accumulate a primary reserve (as of the close of any December 31) equal to 2% of the total amount of all accounts of insured members and creditor obligations of all insured institutions before collection of regular premiums may be discontinued provided, however, that each insured institution has paid regular premiums for at least twenty years. It is estimated that the primary reserve will reach $1,260.6 million by June 30, 1970, or 0.85% of estimated savings and creditor obligations totaling $148.2 billion.

HOME OWNERS' LOAN CORPORATION FUND

The Corporation was created to provide credit facilities to refinance the mortgages of destitute urban homeowners. Its lending authority expired on June 12, 1936, and since that time the Corporation has been dissolved. Liabilities, representing matured bonds held by the public together with accrued interest thereon, totaled $326 thousand at the end of 1968 and are estimated to be reduced to $318 thousand by the end of 1970.

The Federal Power Commission administers the Federal Power Act and Natural Gas Act, and has additional duties relating to Federal power developments and related natural resources.

1. Hydroelectric power regulation.—The Commission issues licenses for non-Federal hydroelectric projects which are best adapted to comprehensive development of the country's river basins, including development of recreation facilities, protection of fish and wildlife, water pollution abatement, and provision for alternative uses of water. Projects are inspected during construction and operation for compliance with license requirements, safety and adequacy, and sound engineering practices.

Pertinent data on the Commission's licensing program are:

Description	1968 actual	1969 estimate	1970 estimate
Licensed projects—more than 2,000-horsepower (end of year).....	299	329	359

Total claimed cost of major projects under license (end of year) (in millions).....	$8,282	$8,420	$9,200

Of a potential 176 million kilowatts of conventional hydroelectric power in the United States, approximately 46 million kilowatts had been developed as of January 1968. Of this total, 26 million kilowatts had been developed by non-Federal interests, of which nearly 82% is under Commission license.

The licensing program is self-supporting except for the statutory exemption of public bodies from payment of administrative fees and for certain old licenses with fixed payments for which the Commission does not have authority to require additional fees. In 1970, these fees are expected to bring in $11 million of which $8.2 million is collected for use of Indian lands.

Legislation enacted in the 90th Congress, second session, amending the Federal Power Act, provides the Commission with procedures for processing expiring licenses of projects which are subject to possible Federal takeover. Under these procedures, the Commission in a single proceeding may determine either that a project should be relicensed or recommend that Congress recapture the project for a public purpose. Licenses for 36 projects subject to recapture or relicensing will expire in 1970.

The Commission participates in studying river basin developmental plans with the Departments of Interior and Army and other Federal and State agencies to optimize utilization and protect these life-dependent resources for generations to come.

2. Electric power industry systems evaluation.—The Commission encourages voluntary interconnection and coordination of the Nation's power system. This power pooling has yielded major benefits to the Nation through efficient and reliable distribution of low-cost electrical energy. The lessons of several massive power failures, including the northeast failure in November 1965, pinpoint the need for continued Commission-industry cooperation to insure dependable energy to beneficiaries of power grids. The Commission is urging the industry to implement recommendations contained in the 1967 Report to the President on Prevention of Power Failures for improving utility system planning and coordination, and enhancing reliability of bulk power supply. Establishment of voluntary regional councils and a national council is being encouraged to improve regional and inter-regional coordination and for strengthening intersystem planning, construction, and operation. Electric utilities are required to report power interruptions under FPC Order No. 331 issued December 20, 1966. There were 57 power interruptions reported to the Commission during the remainder of 1967 and 88 in 1968.

The 1964 National Power Survey was a prime example of the Commission's constant search for improvement of its activities through studies and special analyses of the industry's problems and prospects. The Survey outlines courses of action consistent with the needs of the industry, including major programs of coordination and interconnection and the use of more economical large-scale generating facilities. The Commission is working with industry to update the Survey and a supplemental report will be issued in 1970. A similar power survey of Alaska, our largest State, is under way to investigate and determine the efficient and economical development and utilization of its power resources. A report will be issued in 1969.

3. Electric power utilities regulation.—The Commission regulates the wholesale rates and service, the accounts, depreciation practices, certain security issues, disposition of property, mergers, and interlocking directorates of interstate electric utilities.

Pertinent data on a calendar-year basis are:

Description	1967 actual	1968 estimate	1969 estimate
Number of public utilities regulated.....	216	216	216
Operating revenues of regulated utilities (in millions).....	$15,140	$16,000	$16,900
Number of utilities reporting for statistical purposes.....	790	790	790
Operating revenues of all reporting utilities (in millions)—includes publicly owned.....	$18,470	$19,500	$20,600

In fiscal year 1968, the Commission's rate program resulted in annual rate reductions totaling $8,860,595 for the year. Inflationary pressures in the economy are expected to lead to a growing number of filings requesting rate increases.

Workloads are as follows:

Electric rate filings.....	2,387	2,327	2,327
Electric cases.....	34	37	39

4. Natural gas pipeline regulation.—There were 122 natural gas pipeline companies regulated by the Commission in 1968. This figure will remain approximately the same in 1969 and 1970, but the industry will continue to grow at an average rate of 5% to 7% each year. As a result of increased interpipeline competition and cost pressures arising from tax increases and inflation, the emphasis in pipeline activity has shifted to contested proceedings where certificate and rate increase proposals are opposed by competitors, Commission staff, present customers, or other interested parties. The regulatory responsibilities of the Commission affect millions of natural gas consumers, as well as millions of stockholders of the individual pipeline companies, and the metal fabrication and heavy construction industries. Prompt adjudication of certificate and rate cases is a significant factor bearing on the economic health of the natural gas industry and the general economy.

The success of the Commission's rate regulation program is indicated by the behavior in recent years of prices charged by producers to pipeline companies and pipeline companies to gas distribution utilities. Notwithstanding the pressures on the economy and the gradual exhaustion of gas from old reservoirs, the average cost of gas sold under FPC rate schedules to local distributors has actually declined from 38 cents per Mcf in June 1965 to 36.9 cents per Mcf in June 1968. At the retail level, average prices advanced by only 1% during this 3-year period.

Filing fees levied on applications for pipeline certificates are expected to bring $1.8 million into the Treasury in 1970 to help defray the cost of pipeline regulation.

Applications for certificates of public convenience and necessity.....	763	725	730
Rate filings.....	1,608	1,655	1,680
Cases.....	84	81	76

The Commission reviews annually the earning levels of pipeline companies and verifies flowthrough of refunds and rate reductions ordered by the Commission. In 1968, the Commission ordered annual rate reductions totaling $13.9 million and refunds of $46.6 million.

5. Natural gas producers regulation.—The Commission regulates about 3,900 natural gas producers who had a total of over 15,000 rate schedules on file as of June 30, 1968. The Permian Basin Opinion issued in 1965 and affirmed by the Supreme Court in May 1968 established a permanent system for fixing ceiling prices for gas on an area basis under a two-price system. The South Louisiana Opinion was issued September 25, 1968, and opinions in the Texas Gulf Coast and Hugoton-Anadarko cases are expected to be issued next year. A new area rate proceeding, Other Southwest, covering the only remaining large producing area in the United States, was initiated in 1967. Hearings currently in progress are expected to conclude in calendar year 1969. This proceeding may be decided in 1970. At that time, the Commission will be comprehensively regulating 93% of the jurisdictional production of gas. In addition, planning is underway for updating the area price ceilings on a continuing, coordinated, and comprehensive basis.

Refunds ordered during 1968 amounted to $4.3 million and reductions in annual rates totaled $2.4 million. Increases proposed and suspended by the Commission for investigation amounted to $27.4 million, annually.

The Commission, working with industry, plans to initiate a National Gas Survey in 1970. Through the Survey, the Commission will examine its natural gas policies, goals, and objectives through major studies of its regulatory responsibilities. This Survey has long been a critical need to provide a common backdrop of basic data and forecasts for testing both private and public industry decisions and measuring future progress.

6. Services to other agencies and to the public.—The Commission studies industry systems and reports significant data on a recurring basis for use by other agencies, the industries and the public.

Benefits to downstream hydroelectric licensees arising from Federal projects built upstream are determined by the Commission. Collections amounting to $1,694,881 were made in 1968 for benefits provided by projects of Interior's Bureau of Reclamation and the Department of Army.

Proposed Federal hydroelectric projects, their rates and cost allocations are reviewed by the Commission, and water resources studies are performed in conjunction with other Federal and State agencies.

7. Administration.—This activity includes executive, managerial, and support personnel whose functions are applicable to the Commission as a whole.

The Federal Radiation Council advises the President with respect to radiation matters directly or indirectly affecting health, including the formulation of radiation standards and the establishment and execution of programs of cooperation with the States. The Council was established by Executive Order 10831, August 14, 1959, and made statutory by an amendment to the Atomic Energy Act of 1954—42 U.S.C. 2021(h).

The Council membership consists of the Secretaries of Health, Education, and Welfare (Chairman); Agriculture; Commerce; Defense; Interior; Labor; and the Chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission.

The Council recommends basic guides for radiation protection. When approved by the President, these guides become the basis for the promulgation of operational procedures and regulations by Federal agencies. Through arrangements with National Academy of Sciences—National Academy of Engineering—National Research Council, and the National Council on Radiation Protection and Measurements, the Council maintains a continuing review of the current status of knowledge concerning the biological risks associated with exposure to ionizing radiation.

The Commission has the duty of preserving free competitive enterprise through prevention of monopolistic and unfair trade.

1. Antimonopoly.—All types of monopolistic restrictions, including price-fixing conspiracies, boycotting, price discriminations, and illegal mergers and acquisitions, are corrected; economic data and criteria are brought to bear on monopoly and related problems; and supervision is provided over the registration and operations of associations of American exporters engaged solely in export trade. In 1970 investigation and trial of merger and other anti-monopoly cases will be expedited.

2. Deceptive practices.—False and misleading advertising and other unfair or deceptive practices are prevented by corrective action, including the affirmative aid of voluntary trade-practice conferences and advertising guides; business and the public are protected from misbranding and non-disclosure of fiber content of manufactured wool products and household textile articles; consumers and merchants are protected from unfair practices with respect to furs and fur products; and the public is protected from dangers inherent in flammable fabrics. In 1970 consumer protection programs will be expedited; additional regulations and enforcement of the Fair Packaging and Labeling Act will be required; the program to insure proper labeling of woolen textile imports will be expanded; and a program evaluating the accuracy of drug advertising, for which a 1969 supplemental request is proposed, will be expanded.

3. Truth in lending.—The full impact of the educational and enforcement requirements of the "Truth in Lending" provisions of the Consumer Credit Protection Act of 1968 (Public Law 90-321) will be faced by the Commission in 1970. Of the $99.2 billion total consumer credit outstanding in the United States, the Commission is responsible for providing the provisions of the act to lenders holding consumer credit of $43.2 billion or 43.5% of the total.

4. Executive direction and management.—These also include the adjudicatory functions of the Commission.

The Foreign Claims Settlement Commission is responsible for the settlement of claims of U.S. nationals against foreign nations and other claims programs as authorized by law.

1. Administration and adjudication of claims.—The Commission will administer three claims programs in 1970. Public Laws 88-666, 89-780 and 90-421 require respectively the adjudication of an estimated 7,400 claims of U.S. citizens against the Government of Cuba, approximately 5,000 claims against the Chinese Communist regime, and 1,000 against Italy and a smaller number of claims against Bulgaria and Rumania.

2. Review of claims program.—This activity includes research, reports, documentation, and similar functions to meet the needs of the Congress, Federal agencies, foreign governments, and the public on past and pending claims programs including the Yugoslav program to be concluded in July, 1969.

The Inter-Agency Committee on Mexican-American Affairs was established by the President on June 9, 1967, to "hear solutions to Mexican-American problems; assure that Federal programs are reaching the Mexican-Americans and providing the assistance they need; and seek out new programs that may be necessary to handle problems that are unique to the Mexican-American community." The Committee is seeking to assure that the recommendations resulting from the initial hearings held in October 1967 are carried out.

The Committee is also working to bring to other Spanish-speaking peoples throughout the United States the same assistance specifically outlined for the Mexican-American communities.

This appropriation provides for continuing attention by the Commission to interrelations of Federal, State, and local governments. The Commission brings together representatives of Federal, State, and local governments for consideration of common problems and easing of friction points in the federal system. The administration and coordination of Federal grant and other programs requiring intergovernmental cooperation are examined and emerging problems of Federal-State-local relations are identified and explored.

Proposed Federal and State legislative and administrative programs are developed to coordinate taxes at all levels in order to reduce tax overlapping, to simplify the tax structure, and to reduce taxpayer compliance costs and costs of tax administration.

Technical assistance is provided in the review of proposed legislation to determine its overall effect on the federal system, and the most desirable allocations of governmental functions, responsibilities, and revenues among the several levels of Government are recommended.

Recommendations growing out of the Commission's work are submitted to the executive or legislative branches of Federal, State, and local governments for consideration and appropriate action.

The Appalachian Regional Commission's 1970 budget calls for a total in Federal and State funds of $1,856 thousand. Under the act, the Federal Government has full funding responsibility for the Federal staff of the Commission, the States' responsibility for the Office of States' Regional Representative, and the Federal and State governments share equally in bearing the costs of the Commission staff and Commission operations.

The Appalachian Regional Development Act assigns the following major responsibilities to the Commission:

(1) Develop, on a continuing basis, comprehensive and coordinated plans and programs and establish priorities thereunder, giving due consideration to other Federal, State, and local planning in the region;

(2) Conduct and sponsor investigations, research, and studies, including an inventory and analysis of the resources of the region, and, in cooperation with Federal, State, and local agencies, sponsor demonstration projects designed to foster regional productivity and growth;

(3) Review and study, in cooperation with agency involved, Federal, State, and local public and private programs and, where appropriate, recommend modifications or additions which will increase their effectiveness in the region;

(4) Encourage private investment in industrial, commercial, and recreational projects;

(5) Serve as a focal point and coordinating unit for Appalachian programs;

It is the function of the Federal cochairman of the Commission and his staff to coordinate the Appalachian program with all Federal agencies.

The Appalachian Regional Development Act also provides for a professional Commission staff. Employees of the Commission, under the act, are determined not to be Federal employees but are the joint employees of the Federal and State governments.

As authorized in the Appalachian Regional Development Act, the 13 Appalachian States share with the Federal Government the administrative expenses of the Appalachian Regional Commission. The States will advance funds in the amount of $696.5 thousand to pay their share of these expenses for 1970.

The Appalachian Regional Commission will provide technical support for the research and local development districts programs by an advance of funds in the amount of $150 thousand from the Appalachian Regional Development Program appropriation.

The office of the States' Regional Representative, established by the Appalachian State Governors and supported solely by the States, represents the 13 Appalachian States in the day-to-day operation of the Commission.

The Washington Metropolitan Area Transit Authority, a non-Federal agency, was established pursuant to an interstate compact by Maryland, Virginia, and the District of Columbia. The Authority's primary function is to plan, develop, finance, and provide for the operation of a rapid rail transit system to serve the National Capital area. This mission includes responsibility for completion of the presently authorized system which will serve as the basis for expansion into a full regional network.

The initial portion of the system, as authorized by Public Law 89-173, approved September 8, 1965 (79 Stat. 663), and modified through enactment of Public Law 90-220, approved December 20, 1967, is essentially within the District of Columbia. The basic authorized system will become part of the Regional Transit System which will extend into participating jurisdictions in Maryland and Virginia. This Regional Rapid Transit System which was adopted by the WMATA Board of Directors on March 1, 1968, incorporates the basic authorized system of approximately 25 miles into a total area-wide network of approximately 97 miles.

Engineering and architectural activities have been carried forward and substantial progress made in the development of system standards, specifications and scheduling matters, together with extensive soil investigations and testing essential to the engineering program. Contracts for final design of those sections of the system scheduled for early construction have been completed and actual construction will commence in calendar 1969.

During 1970, contracts for the final design of most of the balance of the basic system will be awarded as well as contracts for design on several routes of the approved regional system. Construction on the authorized system will move ahead as programed and the acquisition of rights-of-way will proceed in phase with the design and construction programs along with the relocation of utilities required by construction. Estimates of the transit program are as follows (in thousands of dollars):

In accordance with Public Laws 89-173 and 89-774, $150 million in authorized funds are to be appropriated on a one-third, two-thirds matching basis to the District of Columbia and the Department of Transportation for payment to the Authority. These funds are to be used for the presently authorized system as provided by the National Capital Transportation Act of 1965, as amended. During 1970, these funds will be exhausted and legislation authorizing a Federal share to cover two-thirds of the net project cost of the Adopted Regional System will be proposed. (See "Proposed for separate transmittal, proposed legislation.") Legislation will also be required to authorize the District of Columbia Government to pay the balance of its portion of the local one-third share of the net project cost. The 1970 budget anticipates funds from the Federal Government and the District of Columbia based on both existing and proposed legislation as follows (in thousands of dollars):

	Existing legislation	Proposed legislation	Total 1970

The Commission regulates carriers engaged in transportation in interstate commerce and foreign commerce to the extent that it takes place within the United States. These carriers are common carriers—railroads, express companies, sleeping car companies, motor carriers, water carriers, pipelines (except for water and gas), and freight forwarders—and motor and water contract carriers.

1. Regulation of carrier rates, practices, operating authorities, and finance.—This activity of the Commission consists of preparing studies and analyses of operating costs for use in rate proceedings; regulating rates; granting operating authorities; approving applications for abandonments and extensions of railroad lines, financial reorganizations, and rate agreements between carriers; reviewing proposed discontinuances of or change in the operation or service of trains and ferries and formally issuing orders, rules and regulations.

SELECTED WORKLOAD DATA

1. Planning development of the National Capital.—The National Capital Planning Commission is the official planning agency for the District of Columbia as well as for the Federal Government in the District and the National Capital region. In planning for the orderly development of the Nation's Capital, the Commission develops and maintains long-range comprehensive plans and makes recommendations on specific land use and development projects.

2. Pennsylvania Avenue redevelopment planning.—The Temporary Commission on Pennsylvania Avenue was established by Executive Order No. 11210 of March 25, 1965. The 18-member Commission includes Cabinet officers and the heads of agencies with specific interests in the avenue. The immediate objective of the Temporary Commission is to continue the preparation of plans for the redevelopment of Pennsylvania Avenue.

1. George Washington Memorial Parkway.—Land is acquired along both shores of the Potomac River, above and below Washington from Great Falls to Mount Vernon. One-half the cost is borne by the local jurisdictions.

2. Stream valley parks.—Land is acquired by public bodies with the aid of a one-third contribution from the National Capital Planning Commission.

3. Park, parkway, and playground system in the District of Columbia.—Land is acquired in the District of Columbia, with all expenditures being repaid over a period of years to the United States by the District of Columbia. Acquisitions are part of the comprehensive plan for the park, parkway, and playground system of the National Capital.

4. Relocation payments.—Funds were provided in 1965 for relocation payments to businesses to be displaced by land acquisition related to the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts.

The purpose of the National Foundation on the Arts and the Humanities is to improve the quality of American life. Two operating units, the Arts Endowment and the Humanities Endowment, promote the arts and humanities through grants, consultative services with public and private agencies and the stimulation of private philanthropy. The Foundation may receive private gifts, either for specific purposes or unrestricted as to use, which are matched by Federal appropriations.

1. Promotion of the arts.—Grants are made to individual artists, institutions, organizations, and State arts councils. Programs assist individual artists, sustain independent artistic institutions, increase citizen participation and enjoyment of the arts, encourage productions of cultural significance, expand audiences for the arts and further planning and research.

2. Promotion of the humanities.—Grants support research and publication, strengthen all levels of the educational system and promote public programs. Fellowships are provided for teachers and scholars. These efforts aim at bringing Americans into contact with humanistic thought and improving the quality of knowledge and teaching in the humanities.

The Board resolves representation disputes in industry and remedies and prevents specified unfair labor practices by employers or labor organizations. Additional funds are requested to enable the agency to effectively cope with a steadily rising caseload in both unfair labor practice and representation cases. Estimates for 1970 reflect an intake increase over 1969 of 6.0% for unfair labor practice cases and 4.0% for representation cases.

1. Field investigations.—Charges of unfair labor practices and petitions for elections to resolve representation disputes are investigated by regional office personnel. About 88% of the unfair labor practice cases and about 83% of the representation cases are closed by settlement, dismissal, or withdrawal. The remainder are prepared for public hearing. The agency strives for the voluntary settlement of disputes, and the high incidence of informal settlements achieved thus far is expected to continue in 1970.

2. Trial examiner hearing.—Trial examiners conduct public hearings in unfair labor practice cases. Their findings and recommendations are set forth in trial examiner decisions. In 1968 there were 1,074 hearings held, 189 proceedings adjusted, and 954 decisions issued. The estimate for 1969 is for 1,117 hearings, 184 adjusted proceedings, and 1,039 decisions. The 1970 estimate is for 1,097 hearings, 168 adjusted proceedings, and 958 decisions.

3. Board adjudication.—In an unfair labor practice case a trial examiner's decision becomes a Board order if no exceptions are filed. About 25% of these trial examiner decisions become automatic Board orders or are complied with voluntarily. The remainder are referred to the Board for decision, of which the Board issued 817 in 1968. The estimate for 1969 is 877 and the estimate for 1970 is 825. The Board issued 182 decisions in contested representation proceedings in 1968; it is estimated that issuances will be 188 and 195 in 1969 and 1970, respectively. These decisions are inclusive of those cases in which a request for review of regional director's decisions has been granted. Regional directors issued 1,810 such decisions in 1968, and the estimate is 1,866 for 1969 and 1,941 in 1970.

4. Securing compliance with Board orders.—If the parties do not voluntarily comply with the Board's order involving unfair labor practices, the Board must request the courts to enforce its decisions. In 1968 a total of 344 Board decisions of all kinds required litigation; the estimate for 1969 is 380, and the estimate for 1970 is 404.

The Foundation supports scientific research and science education, principally at colleges and universities. Grants and contracts are made for the conduct of scientific research and for the construction of research facilities; the development and improvement of the institutional aspects of science; scientific information services and various national research programs.

Increased funds are included for expansion of scientific research project support principally for oceanography, physics, earth sciences, engineering, and the social sciences. The Foundation will give emphasis to research projects which are more applied in nature especially in those scientific disciplines whose research results may contribute to the solutions of national problems such as those related to environment.

Emphasis will also be placed on research initiation grants for young investigators, particularly in the field of engineering. Continued reductions in support of basic research by other Federal agencies are anticipated. Consequently, the Foundation will assume the support of those research projects affected by these reductions where continuation is essential to maintaining U.S. scientific strength.

Funds are also included for increased U.S. participation in the International Biological Program (IBP) to permit the Foundation to initiate major integrated research efforts on biological productivity and human adaptation to changing environments as well as studies of complete ecosystems.

The budget continues support for development and improvement of science and engineering at undergraduate and graduate educational institutions, for improving the quality of science instruction in secondary schools and for the further development of discipline-based science information systems.

1. Support of scientific research.—The budget provides for the award of grants and contracts in the various activities as follows:

(a) Scientific research project support.—The Foundation's support of research in the sciences is provided through grants awarded on the basis of merit to investigators at more than 450 institutions, principally at colleges and universities.

GRANTS FOR SUPPORT OF SCIENTIFIC RESEARCH PROJECTS

	1967 actual	1968 actual	1969 estimate	1970 estimate
Number of grants awarded.....	3,756	3,832	3,877	3,983

(b) Specialized research facilities and equipment.—The Foundation provides support for major items of specialized scientific facilities and equipment primarily at colleges and universities.

(c) National research programs.—The Foundation supports broad national programs of scientific research including the Antarctic research program, the International biological research program, the Weather modification program and an Ocean sediment coring program.

(d) National research centers.—The Foundation supports the development and operation of national research centers for optical and radio astronomy and atmospheric sciences.

2. National sea grant program.—This program supports grants and contracts primarily at academic institutions for training, research, and advisory services concerned with the exploitation of marine resources.

3. Computing activities in education and research.—Support is provided by this program to develop and test alternative methods of providing computational facilities for student use in colleges and universities and continuation of partial support of computational facilities for scientific research.

4. Institutional support for science.—Support is provided to assist in the development and improvement of the science programs of colleges and universities. Included are matching grants for the construction, renovation, and equipping of research laboratories, comprehensive grants to assist developing institutions in achieving a higher level of competence in the sciences and engineering, and grants for graduate and undergraduate education improvements.

5. Science education support.—The budget provides for a wide variety of programs to strengthen and expand the training and development of scientific manpower including the following programs:

(a) Traineeships and fellowships to graduate students in the various fields of science, mathematics, and engineering; and fellowships to college and university faculty and foreign senior scientists.

FELLOWSHIPS AND TRAINEESHIPS FOR ADVANCED STUDY IN SCIENCE, MATHEMATICS, AND ENGINEERING

Total.....	9,317	8,653	8,875

(b) Institutes for the training of secondary school and college teachers of science and mathematics.

(c) Projects directed toward the improvement of secondary school and undergraduate science and mathematics curricula; and supplementary programs to stimulate interest in and secure improvement of teaching and training in the sciences at secondary school and undergraduate levels.

6. Science information activities.—The Foundation supports the collection, translation, and dissemination of information on the results of research and the development of improved methods for the exchange of scientific information. The funding and management of the Science Information Exchange is also the responsibility of the Foundation.

7. International cooperative scientific activities.—This activity provides for a cohesive program including all types of international cooperative research and education activities.

8. Planning and policy studies.—This activity supports surveys and analytical studies of research and development within the various sectors of the economy and the current and projected status of scientific manpower and other resources required for the conduct of scientific activities. These studies are related to the formulation of national policies concerning science.

The Board administers the Railroad Retirement Act which provides for the payment of regular annuities for age and disability and benefits for survivors. The Board also participates in the administration of the hospital and medical insurance programs for persons covered by the Railroad Retirement Act for which it is reimbursed in part by the Social Security Administration, the activity of which is reflected in the following "Advances and reimbursements" account. The administrative expenses of the Board in the operation of these programs are financed from a portion of the taxes paid jointly by railroad employers and employees under the provisions of the Railroad Retirement Tax Act.

The Board also administers a program for the payment of supplemental annuities to career railroad workers who were awarded regular retirement annuities after June 1966. This annuity is paid to employees aged 65 and over who retire directly from railroad service after completing 25 or more years of service and is in addition to their regular annuities. The administrative expenses of administering this program and the supplemental annuity payments are financed by an excise tax paid by employers of 2 cents for each man-hour of paid employment.

1. Maintenance of earnings accounts.—Eligibility for retirement and the amount of benefits paid are based on individual records of earnings and the workload fluctuates according to such factors as level of employment, and rate of turnover in the railroad industry. Accounts posted were 895,000 in 1968 and are estimated at 860,000 in 1969 and 840,000 in 1970. The costs are shared on a measured basis with the railroad unemployment insurance program.

2. Processing claims.—This activity includes the work of processing annuity claims and establishing eligibility of persons for health and medical insurance benefits. Annuity claims processed were 240,000 in 1968 and are estimated to be 259,000 in 1969 and 261,000 in 1970. There were 18,000 unretired persons enrolled for medicare in 1968 with approximately the same number estimated for 1969 and 1970.

3. Maintenance of beneficiary rolls.—Benefit payments must be authorized each month for those persons on the rolls who continue to remain eligible. The number of persons on the rolls receiving monthly benefit payments will increase from 956,000 at the end of 1968 to an estimated 961,000 and 965,000 at the end of 1969 and 1970. The number of persons also receiving supplemental annuities will increase from 34,000 at the end of 1968 to 49,000 and 62,000 at the end of 1969 and 1970. The number of persons enrolled for medicare was 815,000 at the end of 1968 with little change expected in 1969 and 1970.

4. Actuarial services.—Actuarial studies and estimates of the assets and liabilities of the Railroad retirement account are required by law.

5. Administration.—The cost of administration is shared between the retirement and the railroad unemployment insurance programs on a measured basis.

6. Contingency reserve.—This activity represents a contingency amount to be used with the approval of the Bureau of the Budget in the event workloads exceed the budget estimates. The amount is to be used only after maximum absorption of such costs within the regular limitation has been achieved.

Under the railroad retirement system, railroad workers and employers pay taxes on wages to finance the payment of annuities for age and disability and benefits for survivors and to finance the cost of hospital insurance benefits. These taxes are deposited in the Railroad retirement account and invested in Government securities. The portion of these taxes which finances hospital insurance benefits is transferred to the Federal hospital insurance trust fund under the financial interchange provisions governing the railroad retirement and social security systems (Public Law 234, 82d Congress).

The railroad retirement system also provides for the payment of supplemental annuities to career railroad workers who were awarded regular retirement annuities after June 1966. This annuity is paid to employees age 65 and over who retire directly from railroad service after completing 25 or more years of service and is in addition to their regular annuities. This program is financed by an excise tax paid by employers of 2 cents for each man-hour of paid employment. These taxes are deposited in the Railroad retirement supplemental account and invested in Government securities.

Income.—The income of the Railroad retirement accounts consists of taxes paid by railroad employers and employees; interest on investments; appropriations for military service credits; and payments from the Federal old-age and survivors insurance trust fund and Federal disability insurance trust fund. The railroad retirement system has a reinsurance arrangement of annual financial interchanges with the social security system so as to place these systems in the same position in which they would have been if railroad employment had been included in social security coverage.

Retirement, disability, and survivor benefit payments.—Payment estimates reflect the continuing growth in the beneficiary rolls and the increases in benefit rates resulting from the 1967 amendments to the Social Security Act and the 1968 amendments to the Railroad Retirement Act.

Administrative expenses.—Such expenses are subject to annual limitations in appropriation acts (see Limitation on salaries and expenses).

Transfers to and from Railroad unemployment insurance account.—The Railroad Unemployment Insurance Act provides that when the balance in the Railroad unemployment insurance account is insufficient to pay benefits due under that act, necessary amounts are to be borrowed from the Railroad retirement account. When the balance in the Railroad unemployment insurance account permits, borrowed amounts are to be repaid to the Railroad retirement account with interest. At the end of 1968 the fund had $140.4 million in loans outstanding, which was $49.9 million less than the loans outstanding a year ago.

Payment to Federal hospital insurance trust fund.—Portion of taxes which finances hospital insurance benefits is for payment to the Federal hospital insurance trust fund, since payments of hospital benefits for railroad retirement beneficiaries are made from that fund.

The Board administers an unemployment and sickness insurance system and an employment service for unemployed railroad workers. Public Law 90-257, approved February 15, 1968, increased the benefit rate from a daily maximum of $10.20 to $12.70 and provided sickness benefits for longer periods to employees with 10 or more years of service. Administrative expenses are financed through a permanent authorization of 0.25% of taxable payroll. As of each June 30, the unobligated balance in this fund in excess of $6 million is transferred to the Railroad unemployment insurance account in the unemployment trust fund (45 U.S.C. 361).

1. Maintenance of earnings accounts.—Insurance payments for unemployment and sickness benefits are based on individual records of earnings and daily wage rates and the workload fluctuates according to such factors as level of employment and rate of turnover in the railroad industry. The costs are shared on a measured basis with the retirement program. Accounts posted were 895,000 in 1968 and are estimated at 860,000 in 1969 and 840,000 in 1970.

2. Processing of unemployment insurance claims.—Workers' claims for unemployment compensation are filed locally and certified for payment through the headquarters offices. Unemployment claims were 751,000, including 152,000 claims generated by the national railroad strike in July 1967, and are estimated to be 590,000 in 1969 and 580,000 in 1970.

3. Processing of sickness and maternity claims.—These claims are filed by mail and certified for payment through the headquarters offices of the Board. Sickness claims were 560,000 in 1968 and are estimated to be 590,000 in 1969 and 580,000 in 1970.

4. Claimant placement services.—The Board conducts an employment service for unemployment benefit claimants. This resulted in savings of benefit payments of approximately $1.2 million in 1968 as 8,100 placements were made. Placements are estimated to be the same in 1969 and 1970.

5. Administration.—The costs of administration are shared between this and the retirement program on a measured basis.

The Board conducts renegotiation with contractors and subcontractors to determine and eliminate excessive profits in connection with procurement under defense and space programs. The Act provides that a report must be filed with the Board by every contractor or subcontractor having receipts or accruals in a fiscal year which exceed $1 million ($25 thousand in the case of brokers and manufacturers' agents) from contracts or subcontracts subject to the Act. Determinations of excessive profits were made by the Board in the amount of $975.5 million, before adjustment for Federal income and excess profits tax credits, from the date of its establishment through June 30, 1968. Of this total, $23 million was determined during 1968.

1. Executive direction.—The Board is responsible for final action in all cases. This includes the screening of contractors' filings and the handling of requests for exemption.

2. Staff operations.—The Headquarters staff furnishes technical advice and assistance to the Board and regional organization.

3. Renegotiation operations (field).—The two Regional Boards conduct renegotiation proceedings and make determinations and recommendations. They are authorized to conclude cases involving $800 thousand or less of renegotiable profits; however, their determinations in such cases may be appealed to the Statutory Board. All determinations in cases involving more than $800 thousand renegotiable profits are subject to approval by the Statutory Board.

The primary purpose of the Commission is to protect the interests of the investing public.

1. Full disclosure provisions.—Issuers of securities for public sale are required to file a registration statement and related prospectus containing significant information about the issuer and the offering with the Commission. This is to insure that investors will be provided with the material facts concerning security offerings. Certain provisions of the Securities Acts Amendments enacted August 20, 1964, extend to investors in certain over-the-counter securities the same protections now afforded to those in listed securities; namely, registration of classes of securities; annual and periodic company reporting; regulation of proxy solicitation; and restriction upon "insider" trading.

Administrative actions closed.....	32	27	28	35
Regulation A filings examined.....	404	447	640	900

2. Prevention and suppression of fraud.—Suspected fraud, deceit, and manipulation in the sale and trading of securities is prevented or minimized by prompt investigation. For 1970, the Commission will continue the inspection of broker-dealers with priority given to inspections for "cause." These inspections include the inspection of non-NASD members. Inspection of investment advisers will continue also on the same basis.

3. Supervision and regulation of securities markets.—National securities exchanges and over-the-counter markets are regulated in the interest of maintaining just and equitable principles of trade for the protection of the public investors. One of the purposes of the Securities Acts Amendments of 1964 is, through Commission regulation, to have nonmembers of the National Association of Securities Dealers (NASD) in the same regulatory position as NASD brokers and dealers.

4. Regulation of investment and public utility holding companies.—Financing and other corporate matters of interstate public utility holding companies engaged in the electric utility business or in the retail distribution of gas are regulated. A total of 25 holding company systems of which 17 are active, comprising 172 separate companies with assets of $17 billion, are registered under the Public Utility Holding Company Act of 1935. Investment companies are registered also and their activities supervised. The assets of these companies have increased from $2.5 billion in 1941 to an estimate of $69.7 billion on June 30, 1968.

The primary purpose of the Selective Service System is effective manpower utilization through classification under the Military Selective Service Act of 1967. The System is responsible for supplying men to keep the Armed Forces at their authorized strength and to the extent that their needs are not met by voluntary enlistment. It will be required to supply an estimated 283,000 men for this purpose in 1970 as compared with approximately 341,000 in 1968 and 260,000 in 1969.

1. National administration, planning, training, and records management.—The overall administration of the act including planning, training and records management is accomplished by the national headquarters and six regional field offices.

2. State administration.—Administration of the act within the several States is the responsibility of the 56 State headquarters operating under the policies determined by national headquarters.

3. Registration, classification, and induction.—These functions affecting over 37 million registrants are accomplished by the over 48,000 uncompensated citizens assisted by about 8,000 clerks at over 4,000 boards. These citizens determine who shall be deferred and for how long in the national interest in agriculture, industry, or other pursuits. They also determine the availability for military service of members of the Standby Reserve.

4. Special boards.—National Advisory Committee on the selection of physicians, dentists and allied specialists.—This Committee acts in an advisory capacity to the Selective Service System. It is separately administered, but funds are furnished by the Selective Service System from its appropriation.

5. National Selective Service Appeal Board.—This Board acts on the classification of registrants which have been appealed to the President. It is under separate administration but the Selective Service System provides funds for its operation.

A supplemental estimate for 1969 to cover pay increases and increased workload is proposed for separate transmittal.

The Small Business Administration counsels, assists, and protects the interest of small business, and provides aid to business firms and homeowners who have suffered losses through disasters. These efforts are conducted through the following activities:

1. Procurement and management assistance.—The objectives of this activity are (a) to insure that a fair proportion of Government contracts for purchases of supplies and services, including research and development and for the sale and disposal of property, be placed with small business enterprises, and (b) to provide technical and management assistance through management courses, and counseling on new and improved products and processes. Funds for this activity are provided by direct appropriations.

2. Research contracts.—Research studies designed to reveal matters materially affecting the competitive strength of small business and the effect on small business of Federal laws, programs, and regulations are financed under this activity. Funds for this activity are provided by direct appropriations.

3. Economic opportunity management assistance.—This activity covers the financial assistance provided by SBA to public or private organizations to pay all or part of the costs of projects designed to provide technical and management assistance to small business concerns in areas with high concentrations of unemployed or low-income individuals. As authorized by section 406, title IV of the Economic Opportunity Act of 1964, enacted in the Economic Opportunity Amendments of 1967, SBA will contract for professional management training and support of small business entrepreneurs in order among other things to (1) establish the management training, counseling, and support needs of firms in target areas, (2) identify business opportunities in these areas, and (3) determine the feasibility and profit potential of proposed business development to be located in such areas.

4. Financial assistance.—This activity comprises: (a) Business loans.—This includes loans and financial counseling to small business concerns, businesses displaced because of federally aided construction, businesses affected by changing economic conditions resulting from increased competition from imported articles, and businesses eligible under title IV of the Economic Opportunity Act of 1964.

Funds for salaries and expenses to support this subactivity are transferred from the Business loan and investment fund.

(b) Development company loans.—This covers efforts to encourage private institutions to expand their role in the economic development of their respective States and loans to State and local development companies to enable them to provide the long-term capital—equity and loans—to small businesses. Funds for salaries and expenses to support this subactivity are transferred from the Business loan and investment fund.

(c) Disaster loans.—This subactivity provides financial assistance on favorable terms to victims of natural disasters for rehabilitation of property damaged or destroyed. Funds for salaries and expenses to support this subactivity are transferred from the Disaster loan fund.

5. Investment company assistance and supervision.—In order to stimulate and supplement the flow of private capital to small business concerns, the Small Business Administration is authorized to (a) license, regulate, and examine small business investment companies, and (b) provide funds to such companies for financing small business firms. Funds for administrative expenses to support this activity are transferred from the Business loan and investment fund.

6. Lease guarantees.—In order to enable small businesses to compete on an equal basis with financially strong businesses in the leasing of facilities in shopping centers and other business properties, the Small Business Administration is empowered to guarantee the payment of rentals under leases of commercial and industrial property entered into by small business concerns. Funds for administrative expenses to support this activity are transferred from the Lease guarantees revolving fund.

Included under procurement and management assistance and financial assistance above are funds for the establishment of the minority entrepreneurship program in 1969 with full implementation in 1970. This program represents a special effort by the Small Business Administration to take steps to bridge the present "Ownership Gap" which exists between the majority and the minority of the American people.

Public Law 89-409, approved May 2, 1966, established this fund as of July 1, 1966, to finance all loan programs, other than natural disaster loans, and prime contracting activity performed pursuant to sections 7(a), 7(b)(3), 7(e), and 8(a) of the Small Business Act, as amended, titles III and V of the Small Business Investment Act of 1958, as amended, and title IV of the Economic Opportunity Act of 1964, as amended. Administrative and other related expenses are also financed from this fund.

While no ceiling on authorized appropriations is specified, a limitation of $2.65 billion has been placed on the amount of loans and commitments (reservations) which may be outstanding at any one time. This ceiling is composed of separate limitations on outstanding amounts as follows (in millions of dollars):

Business loans (including a limitation of $200 million on economic opportunity loans).....	1,900
Development company loans.....	300
Investment company loans.....	450

It is estimated that the limitation on development company loans will be reached in 1970 and that the limitation on business loans will be reached the following year. Thus legislation will be proposed to increase each of them. Outstanding loans and reservations at the end of each year for the programs financed by this fund are as follows (in millions of dollars):

*Capital outlay.—1. Financial assistance.—Business loans (sec. 7(a), Small Business Act).—*Funds may be loaned to business concerns which are independently owned and operated and which are not dominant in their fields. To such small businesses, loans may be made directly or in participation with banks or other lending institutions, and shall be of such sound value or so secured as reasonably to assure repayment. No loan may be made unless the financial assistance is not otherwise available on reasonable terms. No direct loan may be made unless it is shown that a bank participation is not available and no loan on an immediate participation basis may be made unless it is shown that a guaranteed loan is not available. Under the guaranty plan, the Small Business Administration agrees to purchase the guaranteed portion of the loan only upon default.

The Agency's share of an immediate participation or guaranteed loan is limited to 90%. Its maximum outstanding loan and/or commitment to any one borrower is limited by statute to $350 thousand. Business loans, except for the portion for constructing facilities for which the maximum maturity is 15 years, are limited to a maturity of 10 years and with one exception bear interest at a maximum rate of 5½% per annum on the Agency's share thereof.

From the inception of the lending program (Sept. 29, 1953) through June 30, 1968, 85,285 loans have been approved in a total amount of $3,846.3 million. Participating banks' share of this amount has been $717.6 million. Sixty-one percent of the total loans approved have been on a participation or guaranteed basis. In 1970, it is estimated that 14,300 loans will be approved, compared with an estimate of 10,860 in 1969.

*Business loans (Economic Opportunity Act of 1964).—*The Small Business Administration administers a program of financial assistance to small business concerns and to qualified persons seeking to establish such concerns pursuant to authority contained in title IV of the Economic Opportunity Act of 1964 (78 Stat. 526). Loans may be on a direct, immediate participation, or guaranteed basis for up to $25 thousand, for a maximum term of 15 years. The credit and collateral requirements are more flexible than those applicable to 7(a) business loans and provision for management training is made an integral part of the program. It is estimated that 6,000 loans will be approved in 1970, in comparison with 4,430 loans in 1969.

*Displaced business loans.—*Pursuant to authority provided in the Housing Act of 1961, loans are made to small firms that suffer substantial economic injury as a result of being forced to move by federally aided urban renewal, highway, and other construction programs. The interest rate on the Small Business Administration's share of these loans is determined pursuant to a formula prescribed by legislation. For 1968, the rate was 4½ percent per annum. An interest rate of 4¾ percent will prevail in 1969.

Through June 30, 1968, a total of 1,469 displaced business loans for $126.3 million had been approved. Approvals during 1968 were 331. It is estimated that 345 loans for $45 million will be approved in 1970 compared to 335 loans for $43 million in 1969.

*Trade adjustment loans.—*Section 7(e) of the Small Business Act, as amended, authorizes the Small Business Administration to make loans to eligible firms under the provisions of the Trade Expansion Act of 1962, which act provides for certification by the Secretary of Commerce of proposals for economic adjustment submitted by eligible firms. The Small Business Administration is permitted to make loans to firms of any size and in any dollar amount for a period not to exceed 25 years.

*Development company loans.—*The Small Business Administration lends funds to State and local development companies pursuant to sections 501 and 502 of the Small Business Investment Act, as amended. Funds are made available to State development companies for general-use purposes under section 501 and to State and local development companies for plant construction, conversion, or expansion, including the acquisition of land, under section 502. The latter type loans must be so secured as reasonably to assure repayment, may be made directly or in participation with banks or other lending institutions, may be made only when the proceeds are to assist an identifiable small business concern and for a sound business purpose approved by the Agency, and are limited to a maximum of $350 thousand for each such identifiable small business concern.

*2. Investment company assistance.—*A primary function of these companies is to provide a source of needed equity capital for small business concerns. To encourage the formation and growth of such companies, the Small Business Investment Act, as amended, authorizes the Small Business Administration to make loans to any company by purchasing its debentures, directly or in participation with banks or other lending institutions.

Such debentures may be subordinate to any other debenture bonds, promissory notes, or other debts and obligations of such companies, unless the Administration determines otherwise in the exercise of reasonable investment prudence. SBA may purchase such debentures in an amount equal to 200% of paid-in capital and paid-in surplus to a maximum of $7.5 million. Those SBIC's with paid-in capital and paid-in surplus in excess of $1 million, which have invested (or committed) 65% or more of their funds in venture capital, are eligible to draw 200% of the first $1 million and 300% of every dollar over $1 million not to exceed an aggregate maximum of $10 million.

Prior to the Small Business Investment Act Amendments of 1967, financing of SBIC's by SBA was accomplished by means of the purchase of subordinated debentures (considered as a part of "statutory capital" for borrowing purposes) and by means of "direct" loans.

Operating costs.—Interest expense.—Pursuant to section 4(c) of the Small Business Act, interest is payable into miscellaneous receipts of the Treasury on outstanding cash disbursements from the fund (excluding disbursements for administrative expenses). The interest rate or rates applicable to each year's gross disbursements are determined at the beginning of the year by the Secretary of the Treasury, taking into consideration the current average yields on outstanding interest-bearing marketable public debt obligations of the United States of comparable maturities. For interest computation purposes, collections of interest and principal on unpledged loans, proceeds of participation sales, and other receipts to the fund are applied against the earliest year's disbursements still outstanding. The rates set by the Secretary of the Treasury for disbursements in 1969 are 5% for investment company debentures, development company loans, and displaced business loans and 5½% for 7(a) business and economic opportunity loans. These same rates have been used in computing interest expense in 1970.

Interest is payable to the holders of participation certificates at specified rates set at the time of sale. Interest collections on pledged loans are remitted to the trustee for the purpose of paying such interest as it comes due. To the extent that the interest rates on certificates exceed the interest rates on pledged loans, the collections of interest on pledged loans will be insufficient to meet the interest payable on the certificates. Appropriations for this insufficiency are authorized, as is discussed in detail below under the heading Participation sales insufficiencies.

Administrative expense.—Expenses for the loan programs financed by this revolving fund are financed by transfer of funds to the appropriation Salaries and expenses. Use of these funds for salaries, travel, and related expenses is accordingly reflected in the schedules for that appropriation account.

Financing.—This fund was capitalized by transfer of an applicable portion of the assets, liabilities, and unexpended balance of the Revolving Fund, Small Business Administration on July 1, 1966, and by transfer of the unexpended balance of appropriations previously made for trade adjustment assistance loans. Appropriations are authorized to be made to the fund as additional capital to the extent required to carry out the authorized functions.

In recent years, Administration policy has been to provide required additional capital by sale of participation certificates in loan pools, thus substituting private for public credit to the maximum extent possible. The Participation Sales Act of 1966 authorized SBA to place loans in a trust and through the Government National Mortgage Association as trustee to sell participation certificates in such loan pools. The aggregate amount of such participation sales for any one trustor agency may not exceed the amount authorized for such trustor in an appropriation act. Sales of not to exceed $1.35 billion have been authorized: $350 million in 1966 from the predecessor revolving fund under special authority in the Participation Sales Act of 1966, $850 million in 1967, and $150 million in 1968. The authorizations in 1967 and 1968 were available for both this fund and the Disaster Loan Fund. Through June 30, 1968, actual sales have aggregated $1.3 billion, of which $140 million had been redeemed; the remaining $50 million authorized was sold in August 1968. Of the total sales, $1,136 million was allocated to this fund and $214 million to the Disaster Loan Fund.

It is estimated that additional capital of $25 million will be required in 1970 to provide sufficient funds to allow the agency to carry out the estimated program levels for that year and have sufficient carryover balance to finance estimated first quarter obligations of 1971. In lieu of participation sales authority, it is proposed that this capital be made available by appropriation.

Participation sales insufficiencies.—In respect to participation sales as discussed immediately above, the Participation Sales Act of 1966 authorizes appropriations without fiscal year limitation of such sums as may be necessary to permit any trustor agency to pay the trustee such insufficiency as the trustee may require on account of outstanding participations. This authority is not applicable to the 1966 sales in the predecessor fund. An insufficiency results primarily from the fact that the interest rate on participation certificates exceeds the interest rate on the loans pledged in support of the respective participations.

A permanent appropriation in such amount as may prove necessary each year was provided in the Independent Offices Appropriation Act, 1967, in connection with participation sales of $850 million as were authorized by that act. However, for each of the years 1968 and 1969, the Congress provided an annual appropriation for any insufficiency arising from the $150 million sales authority provided in the Departments of State, Justice, Commerce, the Judiciary and Related Agencies Appropriation Act, 1968. The budget estimate proposes a similar appropriation for 1970.

The gross insufficiency in any year represents the excess of interest accrued on outstanding participation certificates over interest accrued on an equal amount of loans pledged for such certificates. This gross insufficiency is met from (1) revenue from the participation sales fund arising from the investment of collections on pledged loans in excess of funds required for interest and principal payments on certificates, (2) reserved retained earnings, if any, and (3) appropriations, as discussed above, in that order. The actual and estimated gross insufficiency, revenue, and budget authority (appropriations) applicable to transactions in this fund for 1968, 1969, and 1970 are reflected in the following table (in thousands of dollars):

Operating results.—The fund will continue to operate at a deficit. Interest and fee income will not be sufficient to cover interest, administrative and other expenses, and a provision for estimated losses. Primarily, this results from the cost of processing a large number of loan applications which are not approved and the cost of servicing an expanding number of widely scattered loans which are relatively small in size.

Public Law 89-409, approved May 2, 1966, established this fund as of July 1, 1966, to finance disaster loans other than those to displaced businesses, made pursuant to sections 7(b) (1), (2), and (4), and 7(c)(2) of the Small Business Act, as amended. These loans are commonly referred to as natural disaster loans. Administrative and other related expenses are also financed from this fund.

No limitation was placed on the amount of loans and commitments (reservations) which may be outstanding at any one time from the fund. Actual and estimated outstanding disaster loans and reservations at the end of each year are as follows (in millions of dollars):

Investment in outstanding loans.....	350.8	351.8	351.1
Outstanding loan reservations: Undisbursed loan authorizations.....	28.1	35.1	40.1
Total, loans and reservations.....	378.9	386.9	391.2

No statutory restrictions exist on the amount which may be loaned to an individual or business suffering loss from a natural disaster. No restrictions exist on the size of business firm which may be eligible for a natural disaster loan. The interest rate may not exceed 3% on the Small Business Administration's share of the loan. The maximum term is 30 years.

Through June 30, 1968, a total of 74,034 disaster loans for $647 million had been approved. Approvals during 1968 were 14,130 for $114.9 million. Recognizing that such loans cannot be predicted, the estimate for 1969 and 1970 is $50 million in new loans.

Operating costs.—Interest expense.—Pursuant to section 4(c) of the Small Business Act, interest is payable into miscellaneous receipts of the Treasury on outstanding cash disbursements from the fund (excluding disbursements for administrative expenses). The interest rate applicable to each year's gross disbursements is determined at the beginning of the year by the Secretary of the Treasury, taking into consideration the current average yields on outstanding interest-bearing marketable public debt obligations of the United States of comparable maturities. For interest computation purposes, collections of interest and principal on unpledged loans, proceeds of participation sales, and other receipts to the fund are applied against the earliest year's disbursements still outstanding. The rate set by the Secretary of the Treasury for disbursements in 1969 is 5½%. This same rate has been used in computing interest expense in 1970.

Interest is payable to the holders of participation certificates at specified rates set at the time of sale. Interest collections on pledged loans are remitted to the trustee for purposes of paying such interest as it comes due. To the extent that the interest rates on certificates exceeds the interest rate on pledged loans, the collections of interest on pledged loans will be insufficient to meet the interest payable on the certificates. Appropriations for this insufficiency are authorized, as is discussed in detail below under the head Participation sales insufficiencies.

Administrative expense.—Administrative expenses for this program are financed by transfer of funds from the revolving fund to the appropriation, Salaries and expenses. Use of these funds for salaries, travel, and related expenses is accordingly reflected in the schedules for that appropriation account.

Financing.—This fund was capitalized by transfer of an applicable portion of the assets, liabilities, and unexpended balance of the revolving fund, Small Business Administration on July 1, 1966. Appropriations are authorized to be made to the fund as capital to the extent required to carry out the authorized functions.

In recent years, Administration policy has been to provide required additional capital by sale of participation certificates in loan pools, thus substituting private for public credit to the maximum extent possible. The Participation Sales Act of 1966 authorized SBA to place loans in a trust and through the Government National Mortgage Association as trustee to sell participation certificates in such loan pools. The aggregate amount of such participation sales for any one trustor agency may not exceed the amount authorized for such trustor in an appropriation act. Sales of not to exceed $1.35 billion have been authorized: $350 million in 1966 from the predecessor revolving fund under special authority in the Participation Sales Act of 1966, $850 million in 1967, and $150 million in 1968. The authorizations in 1967 and 1968 were available for both this fund and the Business loan and investment fund. Including $50 million of sales in August 1968, the total amount authorized has been sold. Through June 30, 1968, $140 million had been redeemed. The remaining proceeds from prior years' sales, together with estimated repayments and revenues on unpledged loans will finance the projected 1970 program level and provide a carryover balance at June 30, 1970, of $66 million for use in subsequent years.

Participation sales insufficiencies.—In respect to participation sales as discussed immediately above, the Participation Sales Act of 1966 authorizes appropriations without fiscal year limitation of such sums as may be necessary to permit any trustor agency to pay the trustee such insufficiency as the trustee may require on account of outstanding participations. This authority is not applicable to the 1966 sales in the predecessor fund. An insufficiency results primarily from the fact that the interest rate on participation certificates exceeds the interest rate on the loans pledged in support of the respective participations.

A permanent appropriation in such amount as may prove necessary each year was provided in the Independent Offices Appropriation Act, 1967, in connection with participation sales of $850 million as were authorized by that act. However, for each of 1968 and 1969, the Congress provided an annual appropriation for any insufficiency arising from the $150 million sales authority provided in the Agency's 1968 appropriations act. This budget estimate proposes a similar appropriation for 1970.

The gross insufficiency in any year represents the excess of interest accrued on outstanding participation certificates over interest accrued on an equal amount of loans pledged for such certificates. This gross insufficiency is met from (1) revenue from the participation sales fund arising from the investment of collections on pledged loans in excess of funds required for interest and principal payments on certificates, (2) reserved retained earnings, if any, and (3) appropriations, as discussed above, in that order. The actual and estimated gross insufficiency, revenue, and new obligational authority (appropriations) applicable to transactions in this fund for 1968, 1969, and 1970 are as follows (in thousands of dollars):

Interest accrued on participation certificates.....	6,668	9,831	8,282
Interest accrued on an equal amount of loans in a pool.....	—4,019	—4,555	—3,998
Insufficiency.....	2,649	5,276	4,284
Financed by:
Investment income from participation sales trust fund.....	—654	—1,201	—512
Budget authority (appropriation, permanent, indefinite).....	1,995	4,075	3,772

Operational results.—The fund will continue to operate at a deficit. With the interest rate on loans set by statute at a maximum of 3%, interest and other income is not sufficient to cover interest to Treasury at the current rate of 5½%, as well as administrative expenses, interest expense on participation certificates, and a provision for estimated losses.

This fund finances a program of insurance to guarantee payments on leases of small business concerns. It was capitalized by the transfer of $5 million from the Revolving Fund, Small Business Administration, pursuant to Public Law 89-117. In order to make the fund self-sustaining, lessees are to pay an insurance premium of not to exceed 2½% of the lease amount, or a premium based on sound actuarial computation.

It is estimated that 300 guarantees with a total exposure of $100 million will be made in 1969. For 1970, the estimate is 900 guarantees with total exposure of $300 million. It is anticipated that about two-thirds of the projected amount

The Smithsonian Institution maintains public exhibits, representative of the arts, American history, aeronautics and astronautics, technology, anthropology, geology, and biology; preserves for reference and study purposes millions of items of scientific, cultural, and historic interest; conducts research in the natural and physical sciences and in the history of cultures, technology, and the arts; presents performances of American arts and crafts; has education programs at the elementary, secondary, undergraduate, and graduate levels; and participates in the exchange of scientific information.

The Institution administers four museums, three scientific laboratories, two natural preserves, four art galleries, and associated information and international programs. It is responsible also for the operation and maintenance of seven main exhibition buildings, a major preservation and storage facility at Silver Hill, Md.; a conference center at Elkridge, Md.; and supporting administrative, laboratory, and storage areas.

During the budget year, staff will be added to prepare the Joseph H. Hirshhorn art collection for exhibition in the new museum under construction. The relocation of the Radiation Biology Laboratory to adequate research quarters will be continued.

More intensive efforts will be made to process backlogged collections of the Smithsonian Oceanographic Sorting Center. Ecological research and the management of natural preserves will be stressed at the Smithsonian Tropical Research Institute, and the Chesapeake Bay

Center for Field Biology. Better collection management and related information needs will be given high priority by the Museum of Natural History, Museum of History and Technology, and the Smithsonian Institution Libraries. Education programs, especially at the elementary and secondary levels, will be reinforced. Support will be continued for the successful operation of the Anacostia Neighborhood Museum. Essential technical support to research, exhibit, and education activities by the Smithsonian Institution Press, Information Systems Division, and Buildings Management Department will be given priority.

The John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts was created as a Bureau of the Smithsonian Institution by the act of September 2, 1958, as amended. The Board of Trustees of the Center is authorized to construct and operate a national cultural center in Washington, D.C., on a site provided by the Federal Government. Warrants totaling $15.5 million were issued as the Federal Government's contribution to the costs of constructing the Center to match a like amount contributed by the public prior to June 30, 1965. A Federal loan of $15.4 million is authorized for construction of foundations and underground parking facilities, which is to be repaid from parking receipts. Construction is underway and it is anticipated that the building will be completed in approximately 24 months.

Adjudication of cases and legal activities.—Upon petitions being filed, the Board holds formal hearings and determines whether: (a) organizations are Communist-action organizations, Communist-front organizations, or Communist-infiltrated organizations within the terms of the Subversive Activities Control Act; (b) individuals are officers or members of a Communist-action organization; (c) organizations or individuals once determined to come within the provisions of the act are no longer of the type so determined and entitled to relief from the further application of the act to them. The Board's determinations involve the consideration of petitions, motions, answers, and evidence adduced at the hearings. In all proceedings the Board is empowered to hold hearings—which shall be public—to examine witnesses and receive evidence, and to compel the attendance and testimony of witnesses and the production of documents relevant to the matter under inquiry. In each case the Board issues a report in writing setting forth its rulings and findings as to the facts, and issues an appropriate order. The Board maintains current public lists of organizations as to which, and individuals as to whom, there are in effect final orders of the Board determining them to come within the provisions of the act.

The major responsibility of the Commission is to assess the impact of foreign trade policies of the United States and of other countries on domestic industries and to provide the President, the Congress, and the public with reports on these matters. The increasing complexity of the Nation's foreign trade relations, the increase in its foreign trade in recent years, and the greatly changing patterns of world trade continue to emphasize the need for research, investigations, and reports on tariff and trade matters.

The Tax Court hears and decides cases involving income, estate, and gift tax deficiencies and claims for refunds of excess profits taxes under the special relief sections of the Internal Revenue Code, and cases involving determinations of excessive profits on contracts renegotiated by the Federal Government.

For 1970, the court proposes a trial program of 160 weeks to be held in approximately 55 cities. This program should result in closing approximately 6,300 cases.

TAX COURT JUDGES SURVIVORS ANNUITY FUND—Continued

This fund, established under 26 U.S.C. 7448, is used to pay survivorship benefits to eligible widows and dependent children of deceased judges of the Tax Court of the United States. Participating judges pay into the fund 3% of their salaries or retired pay to cover creditable service for which payment is required and such additional funds as are needed are provided through the annual appropriation to the Tax Court of the United States.

On June 30, 1968, 11 judges of the court were participating in the fund, and two eligible widows were receiving survivorship annuity payments.

Title II of Public Law 90-259 authorized the establishment of a National Commission on Fire Prevention and Control. The Commission will make a comprehensive study and investigation to determine practicable and effective measures for reducing the destructive effects of fire throughout the country. A report of this study will be presented to the President and to Congress no later than 2 years after the organization of the Commission.

The report will include analysis and recommendation (a) of ways in which fires can be more effectively prevented, (b) how existing programs concerning Government-assisted housing or urban redevelopment programs could be strengthened to lessen fire losses, (c) fire suppression methods currently used, including personnel recruiting procedures, (d) present and future needs for training and education of fire-service personnel, (e) the adequacy of fire communication techniques, (f) administrative problems facing local fire departments and, (g) local, State, and Federal responsibilities in developing practical and effective solutions for reducing fire losses.

The requested $500 thousand will support a small staff of 11 personnel to assist the Commission, as well as provide for the compensation and expenses of the members of the Commission.

Pursuant to statute (Public Law 90-146), the Commission is conducting a comprehensive study and investigation of the scope and adequacy of measures currently employed to protect consumers against unreasonable risk of injuries which may be caused by hazardous household products. Such study and investigation includes consideration of the following:

1. The identity of categories of household products which may present an unreasonable hazard to the health and safety of the consuming public;
2. The extent to which self-regulation by industry affords such protection;
3. The protection against such hazardous products afforded at common law in the States, including the relationship of product warranty to such protection; and
4. A review of Federal, State, and local laws relating to the protection of consumers against categories of such hazardous products, including scope of coverage, effectiveness of sanctions, adequacy of investigatory powers, uniformity of application, and quality of enforcement of those laws.

The Commission was established by Public Law 90-515, of September 26, 1968, to review national water resource problems. Problems are caused by disparities between water supply and use in different regions of the country, conflicting demands for water, institutional constraints affecting water use, and by pollution. The Commission will consider ways of conserving and achieving more efficient use of existing water supplies, innovations to encourage the highest economic use of water, pollution reduction and wastewater reuse, desalting and weather modification, and interbasin transfers of water as alternative means of meeting future water requirements.

The Commission will work closely with the Water Resources Council, other Federal agencies, and the river basin commissions established under the Water Resources Planning Act. The Commission will develop recommendations and guidelines for the most effective use of the Nation's water resources and report to the President and the Congress.

The Commission, which will be in operation for only part of 1969, is to complete its work within 5 years at a cost not to exceed $5,000 thousand. In 1969, the Commission will develop a plan of study. The increase in funding for 1970 will be used to contract for studies of water problems and for the first full year of operation of the Commission.

The Congress created the Tennessee Valley Authority in 1933 for the unified development of a river basin comprising parts of seven States. TVA is a corporation wholly owned by the Federal Government. Its program in 1970 will be financed from three sources: (1) appropriations by the Congress; (2) proceeds available from current power operations and borrowings against future power revenues; and (3) proceeds available from nonpower activities.

Budget program.—1. Regional development program.—A major objective of the TVA Act is full development and use of all the resources of the Tennessee River Basin. The development of these resources is reflected in regional and national gains in the fields of navigation, flood control, water quality, recreation, and fish and wildlife; in agriculture, forestry, minerals, environment, education and man-power development; and in related industrial development.

(a) Water resources development includes continuing development of the all-year 9-foot navigation channel from the mouth of the river at Paducah, Ky., to Knoxville, Tenn., a distance of 650 miles. Traffic and savings to shippers continue to increase. More than 90% of the savings apply on freight originating outside the valley or moving from the valley to outside destinations. Technical studies appraise the opportunities for more extensive use of the waterway. Data supplied to shippers and carriers help solve transportation problems. Advisory work with State and local agencies leads to new or improved public programs by those agencies to help assure full industrial use of the waterway.

Flood control activities are concerned with maintenance and use of storage space in upstream reservoirs for seasonal retention of excessive runoff and the regulation of discharges to rates of flow which can be handled safely by downstream channels and reservoirs. Flood crests are reduced along the Tennessee River and along the tributaries downstream from the reservoirs and along the lower Ohio and Mississippi Rivers. Also, TVA collects and analyzes flood data and studies potential flood control projects and ways to improve operations of the existing system. Technical advice and assistance is given to State and local agencies in finding solutions to localized flood control problems.

Regional water quality management comprises the determination of basic facts about water quality and research and planning of ways of maintaining or upgrading the quality of the water resource. This work is conducted in cooperation with appropriate Federal, State, and local agencies and with industrial users of water.

Recreation projects are designed to promote the optimum development of the water and other scenic resources of the region in a way that will improve the physical and cultural environment, stimulate economic development, and conserve natural and historical resources.

Fish and wildlife development activities are directed toward full realization of economic benefits from this most important regional resource. Particular emphasis is being given to increasing returns from the commercial fishery which includes the harvest of fresh-water mussels.

The capital outlay program for water resource development includes $1,415 thousand for continuing the Oliver Springs, Tenn., project; and $555 thousand for additions and improvements at navigation, flood control, recreation, and multipurpose facilities. A total of $16,521 thousand for continuing construction of multipurpose projects includes (1) $8,720 thousand for the Tims Ford project started in 1966; (2) $6,814 thousand for the Tellico project started in 1967; and (3) $987 thousand for the Bear Creek project also started in 1967. An estimate of $2,300 thousand provides for work on the Upper French Broad multipurpose water control system comprising channel improvements, a levee, and 14 relatively small dams in western North Carolina.

All water resource development facilities are planned, constructed, and operated in cooperation with State and local agencies.

(b) General resources development.—Special attention to selected areas and resources of the Tennessee Valley region, in particularly close cooperation with State and local agencies and with tributary area associations, constitutes an additional phase of TVA's program for the proper use, conservation, and development of the region's resources. Investigations identify current problems and opportunities for development under conditions of optimum use. Research helps develop and test corrective measures. Cooperative projects with State and local groups apply these measures to regional and special problems.

Agricultural projects have the objectives of assistance to valley farmers in improving their economic situation, achievement of a higher standard of living, and efficient use of land resources through ways compatible with the conservation of soil and water resources. Improved farm practices and systems result from the application of research and demonstration findings.

Forestry projects aid the landowners and the timber industry in making full use of the existing forest resource of the valley and of developing it for maximum sustained economic return, consistent with the needs of watershed protection. Forestry projects include appraisals of the quality and quantity of the forest resource and research and demonstrations in forest management, reforestation, industrial wood use, forest tree improvement, and forest fertilizer tests.

Minerals projects have emphasis on economic geology and the preparation, in cooperation with State agencies, of geologic maps essential to the development of regional minerals.

Environmental quality projects are concerned with (1) the cleanup of reservoir shorelines, including driftage, garbage and rubbish left by users of TVA-owned reservoir lands; (2) strip mine experiments and demonstrations; (3) air quality research and controls; and (4) research on economic disposal of solid wastes in cooperation with the U.S. Public Health Service.

Tributary area development is a comprehensive and cooperative approach to resource development in areas of the Tennessee Valley where specific opportunities exist for further development and where local groups have organized to deal with problems of economic advancement and area improvement. Work is in close collaboration with organized groups in 16 tributary areas, most of which lie wholly or in part in the Appalachia portion of the Tennessee Valley.

Demonstrations in education and manpower development are concerned with bringing into the workforce disadvantaged persons and for improving educational systems in low-income rural areas.

(c) Land Between the Lakes.—Work will continue on the 170,000-acre development area in western Kentucky and Tennessee situated between TVA's Kentucky reservoir and the Corps of Engineers' Barkley Lake. Land Between the Lakes is a demonstration of new ideas in public outdoor recreation and conservation education and its development is stimulating the lagging economy of the surrounding area by encouraging further private development. The project includes a variety of facilities where an urbanizing population can use part of its increased leisure to renew its acquaintance with the land and gain new understandings of modern concepts of resource use and conservation. During 1970, the first year in which the entire area will be in TVA custody, those facilities in place will be operated, and new facilities will be added to serve the growing number of visitors.

2. Power program.—TVA is the sole supplier of electric power in an area of 80,000 square miles of the Tennessee Valley States. Operations involve generation and transmission of power and sale of energy at wholesale to local distribution systems and directly to a small number of industries and Government agencies requiring large amounts of power. Power is purchased and distributed by 158 local public agencies and two small privately owned utility companies. Total energy to be supplied is estimated to be 97.9 billion kilowatt-hours in 1970. This is about 5.8 billion kilowatt-hours greater than the energy supplied to the system in 1968 and about 3.9 billion kilowatt-hours above that estimated to be supplied in 1969. Net income from power operations, after depreciation, is estimated to be $80 million for 1970, compared with $48.8 million in 1968, and an estimate of $58 million in 1969.

Of the $218,076 thousand estimate for power generating facilities, all to be financed from power proceeds and borrowings, $100,282 thousand is for continuing construction of Browns Ferry nuclear units 1-3, $5,562 thousand is for continuing construction of Paradise steam unit 3, $90,097 thousand is for continuing construction of Cumberland steam units 1-2, and $21,690 thousand is for Sequoyah nuclear units 1-2. The three Browns Ferry units are scheduled for commercial operation in October 1970, October 1971, and October 1972; Paradise unit 3 in October 1969; the Cumberland units in July 1972 and April 1973; and the Sequoyah units in October 1973 and April 1974.

Completion of the units as scheduled will bring the estimated dependable capacity of the system by the winter of 1973-74 to 25.2 million kilowatts, including other plants operated as a part of the TVA system. Total demands in the winter of 1973-74 are estimated at 23.6 million kilowatts, of which 1.8 million kilowatts will be served by capacity owned by others but made available to TVA under interchange arrangements. There will be a reserve of 15.4% over estimated demands of 21.8 million kilowatts served by TVA capacity to allow for loss of capacity because of breakdown of generating equipment and needs for its maintenance, failure of substation equipment and transmission lines, drawdown of reservoirs during dry periods, and other contingencies.

The 1970 budget includes $445 thousand for design work on additional generating capacity tentatively scheduled for operation in 1975. Capital outlay in 1970 for all power system facilities, including transmission system facilities, is estimated at $293,314 thousand.

3. Fertilizer and munitions development program.—Chemical facilities at Muscle Shoals, Ala., are maintained and operated as a national fertilizer development center, but by statute they must also be available for munitions purposes. These facilities are important to the national defense.

Program activities are of three general types: fertilizer research and development; introduction to the American farmer of new fertilizer materials and improved fertilizer uses; and developmental production of fertilizer materials.

Fertilizer research and development consists of basic chemical and agronomic research and fertilizer process research and development. TVA works cooperatively with the Department of Agriculture, the land-grant colleges, and with industry to maximize effectiveness of research, hasten use of findings, and to avoid undesirable duplication. Research results on technological developments and on new and improved processes are made available to industry. Knowledge gained in fertilizer research is valuable also in the related field of munitions. Special attention is given to methods for the recovery of sulfur in useful form from stack gases to help relieve the worldwide shortage of sulfur and to reduce atmospheric pollution.

Fertilizer introduction is carried on cooperatively with the land-grant colleges and includes carefully controlled small plot demonstrations, tests and demonstrations of fertilizer materials and practices on selected operating farms, and nationwide educational introduction of fertilizers, which is also conducted in cooperation with commercial fertilizer manufacturers, distributors, and dealers. Farmers and the fertilizer industry pay for the fertilizers used, with prices based upon the value of the plant nutrient content as measured by commercial fertilizer prices but discounted to reflect the novelty of the material or practice and the nature of the demonstration. Agricultural extension services of the land-grant colleges give educational and technical guidance in demonstrating and introducing new fertilizers and fertilizer practices in the participating States.

Developmental production has these objectives: to demonstrate the technical and commercial feasibility of new or improved fertilizer processes, thereby encouraging their adoption by industry; to supply materials for widespread educational introduction among farmers; and to supply munitions materials or render other services for national defense.

Capital outlay costs in 1970 for chemical facilities are chiefly for continuing the rehabilitation program begun in 1960. Modernization of the ammonia plant will be under way as will construction of a demonstration-scale unit for production of urea-ammonium phosphate fertilizers. Each step of the rehabilitation program makes significant contributions toward reduction in emissions of air and water pollutants.

4. General service activities.—Operating costs for general service activities cover topographic mapping, bridge maintenance, fallout shelter maintenance, and reimbursable services furnished at the request and expense of other agencies.

Topographic maps of the Tennessee Valley are vital to TVA's planning, construction, and operational needs. In order to be of practical utility, these maps, which cover the entire Tennessee Valley, must be revised periodically. The 1970 program will concentrate on those maps which most urgently require revision and which are most needed at this time for regional development purposes.

Capital outlay funds cover additions and replacements of office, transportation, and electronic computing equipment and facilities used jointly in conducting all TVA programs. In 1970, work will continue on a medical annex urgently needed to house employees now working in substandard and rapidly deteriorating quarters at Muscle Shoals, Ala.

Financing.—Amounts estimated to become available in 1970 are to be derived from (1) the requested appropriation of $55,750 thousand; (2) nonpower revenues and receipts of $22,149 thousand; and (3) power revenues and receipts of $460,882 thousand. In addition, the budget program anticipates financing from borrowings of $250,000 thousand backed by future revenues. A summary of the application of appropriations follows:

Operating results and financial condition.—Only the power program is intended to be self-supporting; the net expense of nonpower programs is covered largely by appropriations from the Treasury. Payments to the Treasury in 1970 are estimated at $68,000 thousand—$53,000 thousand as a dividend (return on the appropriation investment in the power program) and $15,000 thousand as a reduction in the appropriation investment in the power program.

Total assets are estimated to increase by $291,147 thousand during 1970. The increase is mainly in fixed assets, reflecting expenditures for construction of facilities; $267,910 thousand of the increase in assets is in the power program and $23,237 thousand is in nonpower programs. The estimate of current liabilities at June 30, 1970, is $4,772 thousand greater than the estimate at June 30, 1969. The increase reflects liabilities mainly related to construction. Total borrowings from the public for the power program are expected to increase by $250,000 thousand during 1970. The total Government equity at June 30, 1970, is estimated to be $36,375 thousand more than that at June 30, 1969. This change largely represents increases in investments in assets financed from sources other than borrowings.

The United States Information Agency seeks, by means of communication techniques, to influence public attitudes abroad to achieve U.S. foreign policy objectives. The Agency also advises those responsible for formulating and implementing foreign policies and programs as to the probable impact of those policies on foreign opinion.

Agency operations are largely financed from this appropriation and from the related special foreign currency appropriation.

The increase of $2.1 million in obligations funded from the salaries and expenses appropriations will fund non-discretionary increases required to maintain the 1969 program level.

1. Overseas missions.—The program is operative in 112 countries. The Agency operates through 233 posts and supports 131 binational centers. The overseas missions carry out country programs designed to influence local attitudes and actions in support of U.S. foreign policy. Overseas missions prepare materials using local facilities, and use materials provided by the media services in Washington.

2. Media services.—These services provide support for overseas country programs.

(a) The press and publications service maintains communication facilities for the transmission of editorial news and feature materials for adaptation by overseas missions. It produces two monthly magazines titled "America Illustrated," one for distribution in the Soviet Union and the other in Poland; and a monthly magazine, "Topic," in French and English editions for the African area, and in Arabic for distribution throughout the Arab world. The service also operates three regional printing centers and provides overseas missions with printing supplies and equipment.

(b) The motion picture and television service produces and acquires motion picture films and television programs which are then translated into as many as 58 foreign languages. It adapts these programs for specific country or area use, and supports the foreign production, use, and distribution of films and television programs. The service also supplies the missions with equipment for showing motion pictures.

(c) The information center service supports U.S.-operated libraries and reading rooms, and binational centers, providing them with collections of American publications, both in English and in translation, and with English language teaching materials. It assists American publishers in distributing selected products overseas and supports the publication of low priced books for sale abroad. The service also provides exhibits and visual materials to overseas missions for local display, and provides books and periodicals for presentation to selected individuals and groups.

(d) The broadcasting service produces radio broadcasts in English and in 37 foreign languages. Programs are broadcast from transmitters at five domestic and 12 overseas locations. The service also supplies the overseas missions with recorded radio programs and scripts for placement on foreign stations and with radio supplies and equipment.

3. Program direction and other services.—This activity encompasses Agency managerial staffs and centralized servicing functions. Included are the office of the Director, the office of policy and research, physical and personnel security functions, legal counsel, central administrative services, and emergency planning.

4. Shared administrative support.—Administrative services for the Agency's overseas operations, and certain special support services at headquarters, are obtained through reimbursable arrangements with the Department of State.

The purpose of this program, except for trade missions, is to increase mutual understanding between the people of the United States and those of other lands through suitable U.S. exhibitions in international fairs and other demonstrations of American economic, social, industrial, scientific, and cultural attainments.

1. International trade missions are sent abroad to further the development of American export markets. There were 43 trade missions in 1968 and 56 are programed in 1969. Forty-nine are proposed for 1970.

2. Labor missions are sent to selected fairs and exhibitions abroad. There were six labor missions in 1968; eight are programed in 1969; and six are requested for 1970.

3. Fairs and exhibitions combine the former international trade fair and special purpose exhibition programs. In 1968, 10 exhibits were mounted at international fairs and one fourth-series U.S./Soviet exchange exhibit was re-shown in an East European country. In 1969, 16 exhibits will be mounted at international fairs, the fifth series of exchange exhibits will be shown at one site in the Soviet Union, a fourth-series exchange exhibit will be re-shown in an East European country and an original exhibit will be presented in two East European nations. The 1970 estimate provides for 6 trade fair exhibits, reshowings of two fourth-series exchange exhibits in East European countries, and the final five showings of the fifth-series exhibits in the Soviet Union.

4. Montreal Fair.—U.S. participation in the Canadian Universal and International Exhibition held in calendar year 1967 was funded at $9.3 million appropriated in 1965. Obligations for the fair will be completed in 1969.

5. Osaka World's Fair.—U.S. participation in the Japan World Exposition to be held in calendar year 1970 is funded at $10 million, $9,307 thousand of which was appropriated in the second supplemental appropriation of 1968 and $693 thousand of which was authorized for transfer from previously appropriated balances. Obligations for the fair were incurred in 1968 and will continue through 1971.

Congressional action in connection with the Agency's 1967 appropriation called for the termination of IMG operations. Since then the agency has stopped issuance of new guaranties and has completed action on all contracts.

Under the program recently terminated, foreign countries with serious dollar exchange problems have imported U.S. books, periodicals, films, and other informational media.

Program.—Under present authority, payments under existing contracts were completed. No new contracts are being issued.

Financing.—At present no additional borrowings from Treasury are anticipated. Resources of the fund consisting of cash on hand plus receipts from sales of foreign currencies were sufficient to finance payments to contractors.

UNITED STATES-MEXICO COMMISSION FOR BORDER

1. Technical assistance and training.—The Commission will conduct two training programs for local officials in project development, and provide technical assistance to five selected small communities.

2. Conduct of cultural and library programs.—Cooperative programs will be established at teaching museums, bookmobile programs will be supported, and dramatic and musical presentations by local groups will be stimulated.

3. Research and demonstration projects.—Financial assistance will be provided for a special youth program in Las Cruces, N. Mex., a small cooperative manpower training program will be conducted jointly with Mexico; and studies will be made of requirements for vocational, educational, labor mobility, and training facilities in selected areas.

4. General administration.—While the U.S. Section of the Commission has historically been administered from headquarters in Washington, a degree of decentralization was instituted in 1969 by establishing area offices in Laredo Tex., El Paso, Tex., and San Diego, Calif.

The Water Resources Planning Act of 1965 (Public Law 89-80, July 22, 1965) established the Water Resources Council. Under title I of the act, the Council assesses national and regional water requirements, coordinates the comprehensive planning programs of the Federal agencies, develops procedures for Federal participation in regional or river basin plans, and reviews plans developed by river basin commissions. Title II of the act authorizes river basin commissions for the development of comprehensive regional water and related land use plans designed to make optimum use of such resources. Title III of the act authorizes financial assistance to the States in developing comprehensive water and related land resources plans. The Water Resources Council coordinates the grant program with related planning assistance programs of other Federal agencies.

Legislation will be proposed for financing the Federal share of the costs of the Adopted Regional System. The system's net project cost of $1,726 million is to be shared on a two-thirds/one-third matching basis between the Federal and local governments. The Federal share, beyond the $100 million in capital grants already provided, is to be paid through annual debt service grants sufficient to cover Federal share bonds issued by the Transit Authority in the amount of $1,051 million. Anticipated request of $6.2 million for 1970 will support Federal share bonds of $83 million.

Legislation being proposed for the social security system will affect the benefits paid and the taxes received under the railroad retirement system. Higher cash benefits under the social security system will automatically invoke higher railroad retirement benefits for certain beneficiaries as a result of the Social Security guarantee provisions. Increases in the maximum taxable wage proposed for the social security system also increases the wage base and, consequently tax receipts under the railroad retirement system.

PART II

SCHEDULES OF PERMANENT POSITIONS

EXPLANATION OF SCHEDULES OF PERMANENT POSITIONS

Part II contains detailed schedules of permanent positions which are furnished to the Congress, pursuant to section 204 of the Budget and Accounting Act, 1921, as amended (31 U.S.C. 581), and waivers thereunder granted by the Appropriations Committees. These schedules relate to positions established for full-time employment without time limit, and to any others occupied for a year or more. Positions authorized at the end of the year are counted, whether filled or unfilled at that time; positions abolished during the year are not counted.

The first section of the schedule, headed "Grades and ranges," contains a listing of the grades and salary ranges of authorized positions, and the total number in each grade, as illustrated below:

GRADES AND RANGES
GS-17, $26,264 to $28,000_	1	1	1
GS-16, $22,835 to $28,000_	1	1	1
GS-15, $19,780 to $25,711_	5	5	5
GS-14, $16,946 to $22,031_	6	6	6
GS-13, $14,409 to $18,729_	9	10	10
GS-12, $12,174 to $15,828_	11	10	10
GS-11, $10,203 to $13,263_	8	8	8
GS-9, $8,462 to $11,000_	14	18	18
GS-8, $7,699 to $10,012_	1	1	1
GS-7, $6,981 to $9,078_	20	26	31
GS-6, $6,321 to $8,221_	10	10	10
GS-5, $5,732 to $7,456_	20	17	17
GS-4, $5,145 to $6,684_	26	24	24
GS-3, $4,600 to $5,981_	5	8	8
GS-2, $4,231 to $5,501_	3	3	3
Total.....	140	148	153

Grades and their respective salary ranges are reflected in the stub column; the most commonly used grade series, the general schedule grades, is abbreviated "GS-..." The salary ranges shown are the normal ranges of the pay scales which became effective in July 1968 for graded positions, and in December 1967 for executive level grades, under Public Law 90-206. These pay scales may be exceeded, however, when pay rates in private enterprise for one or more occupations in one or more areas or locations are substantially above the statutory rates (in the general schedule grades and certain other positions). In such cases, the Civil Service Commission has authority to permit a higher entrance level (not to exceed the maximum pay step prescribed by statute) and add a corresponding number of steps above the stated pay range.

The second section of the schedule lists operating titles of the individual positions under each grade for which the minimum basic annual salary is equal to or greater than that for grade GS-16 ($22,835).

HIGHER LEVEL POSITIONS
GS-17, $26,264 to $28,000: Administrator_	1	1	1
GS-16, $22,835 to $28,000: Deputy Administrator.....	1	1	1

The number of positions shown in a consolidated schedule will equal the sum of the entries for permanent positions reflected in the related personnel summary schedules that appear in Part I of the Appendix.

EXPLANATION OF ANNEXED BUDGETS AND SUPPLEMENTARY MATERIAL

Part III presents detailed schedules and explanatory statements on the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System, and on five Government-sponsored enterprises which are outside the normal budget process. The annexed budgets have not been reviewed by the President but are presented in the amounts submitted by the agencies.

The Government-sponsored enterprises are now completely privately owned and therefore excluded from the budget totals. The Federal National Mortgage Association's secondary market operations fund, formerly under mixed-ownership, became a privately owned venture on September 30, 1968. The Federal land bank system, consisting of 12 Federal land banks, is cooperative and is completely farmer-owned. The 12 Federal intermediate credit banks, and the 13 banks for cooperatives, also supervised by the Farm Credit Administration, became wholly privately owned on December 31, 1968. The 12 Federal home loan banks, which are supervised by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, obtain their funds from capital stock owned by member institutions, issuance of their own obligations, and deposits of member institutions.

The material on annexed budgets is presented in the general format of similar material for public enterprise and trust revolving funds in Part I. No appropriation language appears because action by Congress is not required.

This part also presents the receipts of the trust funds, organized by agency and fund, and loan disbursements, repayments, and net outlays, also organized by agency and fund.

The Federal National Mortgage Association is a Government-sponsored private corporation. Its purpose is to provide supplementary assistance to the secondary market for home mortgages by providing a degree of liquidity for mortgage investments, thereby improving the distribution of investment capital available for home mortgage financing.

To carry out this purpose, FNMA buys, sells, and otherwise deals in mortgages insured by the Federal Housing Administration or guaranteed by the Veterans Administration, and certain loans insured by the Farmers Home Administration. The corporation also makes short-term loans on the security of any such loans and mortgages, and sells securities based on its own mortgages set aside for that purpose.

The common stock of the corporation is owned by the public and is fully transferable and fully traded. Its capitalization is continuously expanded by the statutory requirement that mortgage sellers make capital contributions in the form of subscriptions to common stock equal to not more than 2% nor less than 1% of the mortgages involved. Borrowers from the corporation are required to make such capital contributions equal to not more than one-half of 1% of the amounts borrowed.

The Federal National Mortgage Association (secondary market operations) was initially capitalized under the Housing Act of 1954 by the issuance of $92.8 million of preferred stock to the Secretary of the Treasury. Additional preferred stock subscriptions by the Secretary of the Treasury were authorized under subsequent acts, the total of such authorizations having aggregated $317.8 million.

The authorizing statute, Public Law 83-560, approved August 2, 1954, originally contemplated that FNMA's secondary market operations would ultimately be completely owned and financed by private participants. On September 1, 1968, pursuant to Public Law 90-448, approved August 1, 1968, FNMA's secondary market operations were converted into a Government-sponsored, privately owned corporation. On September 30, 1968, the $163.8 million of outstanding preferred stock held by the Secretary of the Treasury was retired. The portion of the retained earnings deemed to have been earned on the Government's investment in the secondary market operations, amounting to $54 million, was paid to the Treasury on that date under an escrow arrangement, pending a final determination of the amount of such earnings and the disposition of the funds. As a privately owned corporation, FNMA will be able to raise money in the private capital markets and support the secondary mortgage market unconstrained by considerations which control the Federal budget.

The Association has three separate authorities to borrow money from private sources. It may issue subordinated capital debentures in an amount not in excess of twice the net equity. It may in addition borrow amounts not in excess of the sum of net equity and subordinated capital debentures outstanding multiplied by a factor established by the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development. This factor is currently set at 20. These borrowings usually take the form of debentures, short-term discount notes, or bank loans. Finally, FNMA may issue securities, guaranteed by the Government National Mortgage Association, which are fully backed by pools of mortgages. This last type of borrowing is limited only by the size of FNMA's loan portfolio.

The banks for cooperatives, of which there are 13, are under the general supervision of the Farm Credit Administration. They finance the operations of farmers' cooperatives. During 1968, the banks extended credit totaling $1.8 billion. The funds to finance these loans are obtained from: (1) sales of debentures to the public; (2) notes payable; and (3) their own capital. The debentures which the banks issue are not guaranteed by the U.S. Government either as to principal or interest. The banks' capital funds consist of equities of borrowing cooperatives, and retained earnings.

The Farm Credit Act of 1955 provided for eventual ownership of the banks by farmers' cooperatives and the retirement of the U.S. Government's investment. At the time the 1955 act was passed, the U.S. Government had an investment in the banks of $150 million. By June 30, 1968, this investment had been reduced to $21.7 million. Under the provisions of Public Law 90-582 enacted on October 17, 1968, to expedite retirement of Government capital from the banks for cooperatives, the Governor of the Farm Credit Administration, with the concurrence of the Secretary of the Treasury, determined that the fair value of class A stock in the banks for cooperatives for retirement on December 31, 1968, was $19,804,043. Accordingly, upon payment of this amount by the banks, the U.S. Government's interest therein was retired in full and the banks became privately owned.

All expenses including administrative costs are paid from the banks' own resources and, thus, in no way do they affect the budget of the United States.

The Federal intermediate credit banks, of which there are 12, are under the general supervision of the Farm Credit Administration. They serve as banks of discount for agriculture, discounting agricultural and livestock paper for, and making loans to, local financing institutions, such as production credit associations, agricultural credit corporations, livestock loan companies, and commercial banks. They also provide the production credit associations with necessary supervision and services. During 1968 the banks extended credit totaling $7.4 billion.

The banks' lending funds are obtained primarily from the sale of debentures to the public and from their own capital funds. The debentures are not guaranteed by the U.S. Government either as to principal or interest.

The banks were originally wholly owned Government corporations set up exclusively as banks of discount; however, pursuant to the Farm Credit Act of 1956, the banks became mixed-ownership corporations and were made responsible for supervising the production credit associations and assisting them to make sound credit available to farmers.

All of the capital stock of the Federal intermediate credit banks from organization in 1923 to December 31, 1956, was held by the U.S. Government. The 1956 act provided a long-range plan for the eventual ownership of the credit banks by the production credit associations and the gradual retirement of the Government's investment in the banks. However, because of the increased credit demands placed upon the Federal intermediate credit banks, it was necessary for the Government to invest additional capital in the banks in order to keep the debt-to-capital ratio within the then 10-to-1 maximum permitted by law. Public Law No. 89-237 enacted on October 4, 1965, increased the maximum debt-to-capital ratio of the Credit Banks to 12-to-1, and Public Law No. 90-345 enacted on June 18, 1968, further increased this ratio to 20-to-1. Under the provisions of Public Law No. 90-582 enacted on October 17, 1968, to expedite retirement of Government capital from the Federal Intermediate Credit Banks, Production Credit Associations and Banks for Cooperatives, the Governor of the Farm Credit Administration with the concurrence of the Secretary of the Treasury has determined that the fair value of class A stock in the Federal Intermediate Credit Banks for retirement on December 31, 1968, is $108,175,463. Accordingly, upon payment of this amount by the banks, the U.S. Government's interest therein was retired in full, and thereafter these banks became privately owned.

The Federal land banks, through the nearly 700 local Federal land bank associations make long-term real estate loans to farmers and ranchers. These loans are based upon the normal value of the farm offered as security. A loan may not exceed 65% of the value, plus the amount of stock required to be purchased in the associations. The funds to finance these loans are obtained primarily from sale of the banks' bonds to the public and from their own net worth. These bonds are not guaranteed by the U.S. Government either as to principal or interest.

The banks and the associations are under the supervision of the Farm Credit Administration. All of their expenses are paid from their own resources and thus in no way do they affect the budget of the United States. The expenses of the Farm Credit Administration are paid by assessments collected from all the banks and associations under its supervision.

The last of the Government capital that had been invested in the banks was repaid in 1947. At June 30, 1968, the bank had over $345 million of privately owned capital stock, and $378 million of retained earnings.

The 12 Federal home loan banks are chartered and supervised by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board under the authority of the Federal Home Loan Bank Act of 1932. The banks are financial institutions and their main function is to supply their members—principally savings and loan type institutions, and savings banks—with credit to smooth their operations and enhance their service to the public as savings media and home mortgage lenders in their own communities. Each bank operates in a geographic district designated by the Board and together the banks cover all of the United States as well as Puerto Rico, the Virgin Islands, and Guam. In 1968 the banks extended credit amounting to $2.4 billion and received repayments of $1.8 billion. Advances outstanding on June 30, 1968, totaled $4.9 billion.

The principal source of funds for the lending operation is the sale of consolidated obligations of the banks to the public. On June 30, 1968, $4.7 billion of these obligations were outstanding. The consolidated obligations are not guaranteed by the U.S. Government as to principal or interest. Other sources of lendable funds include 25% of deposits from members (with total deposits amounting to $1.4 billion on June 30, 1968), and funds paid for the purchase of capital stock by member institutions, amounting to $1.4 billion at the end of 1968. Funds not immediately needed for advances to members are invested in obligations of the United States or agencies thereof.

The capital stock of the Federal home loan banks is owned entirely by their members. Initially the U.S. Government purchased stock of the banks in the amount of $125 million. The banks had repurchased the Government's investment in full by mid-1951, and since that time the banks have been owned entirely by their members.

The entire operating expenses of the banks are paid from their own income and are not included in the budget of the United States. Included in these expenses is the assessment by the Federal Home Loan Bank Board to cover a substantial portion of the Board's administrative and other costs.

1. Basic legislation.—The Federal Reserve System operates under the provisions of the act of December 23, 1913, known as the Federal Reserve Act (38 Stat. 251), as amended (included in ch. 3, 12 U.S.C.), and under other acts of Congress.

2. Program.—To carry out its responsibilities under the act, the Board determines general monetary, credit, and operating policies for the System as a whole and formulates the rules and regulations necessary to carry out the purposes of the Federal Reserve Act. The Board's principal duties consist of exerting an influence over credit conditions and supervising the Federal Reserve banks and member banks.

3. Financing.—Under the provisions of section 10 of the Federal Reserve Act, the Board of Governors levies upon the Federal Reserve banks, in proportion to their capital and surplus, an assessment sufficient to pay its estimated expenses. The Board, under the act, determines and prescribes the manner in which its obligations are incurred and its expenses paid. Funds derived from assessments are deposited in the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond, and the act provides that such funds "shall not be construed to be Government funds or appropriated moneys." No Government appropriation is required to support operations of the Board.
