3. General government expenses.—(a) Office of the Governor.—This provides for the executive direction of all Canal Zone Government activities and includes the expenses of the office of the Governor and his residence, the office of the Executive Secretary, and provision for certain contingencies.

(b) Other general government expenses.—This includes the costs of recruitment, repatriation, and employees' home leave travel, aid to indigents, payments to certain former employees, and other general charges.

Unfunded adjustments to total program costs.—This includes depreciation expense on facilities and equipment acquired under the capital outlay appropriation and capital adjustments.

Legislation will be proposed to implement the Panama Canal Treaty of 1977. On the effective date of the new treaty, the Government of Panama will assume general territorial jurisdiction over the present Canal Zone. Under the treaty, Panama will be responsible for many of the public services now provided by the Canal Zone Government, while certain functions retained by the United States will be performed by U.S. Government agencies with continuing operations in Panama. Detailed financial projections of these new arrangements are under development.

The Panama Canal Company is a wholly owned Government corporation whose primary purpose is maintaining and operating the interoceanic canal at the Isthmus of Panama, together with its essential supporting operations.

The administration of the Company is integrated with that of the Canal Zone Government, an independent agency initially financed by appropriations. The Governor of the Canal Zone is ex-officio president of the Company. The Company is expected to be self-sustaining and is required to reimburse the U.S. Treasury, to the extent earned, for the net cost of the Canal Zone Government, the cost of interest on the net direct investment of the United States in the Company, and for the annuity payments made by the United States to the Republic of Panama pursuant to the Treaty of 1903, as amended in 1936.

Legislation will be proposed to implement the Panama Canal Treaty of 1977. Under the Treaty, a new agency of the Federal Government, the Panama Canal Commission, will be established to perform the mission of operating the waterway. The commercial and retail activities of the present Panama Canal Company will be discontinued by the U.S. operation. Detailed financial projections of these arrangements are under development.

3. General corporate expense.—The general corporate expense category includes general and administrative expenses under statutory limitation; the net cost of Canal Zone Government; the interest expense payable to the U.S. Treasury on the net direct investment; and other expenses of a general nature. Section 62, title 2, Canal Zone Code, requires payment be made to the Treasury annually, to the extent earned, for the net cost of the Canal Zone Government and interest on the net direct investment. If not earned, such payments are to be made from subsequent earnings.

Financing.—The Company is authorized to obtain appropriations for its capital needs and to cover losses sustained in the conduct of its activities. In addition, under Public Law 93-607 (88 Stat. 1966), the Company may borrow from the Treasury, at interest, amounts not exceeding $40 million outstanding at any time. While the latter authorization is utilized to backstop the Company's obligations, no cash withdrawals against it are planned during 1978 or 1979. With the total borrowing authority utilized as a resource, the Company's unobligated balance at September 30, 1979, is estimated at $21.4 million.

Operating results and financial condition.—The net operating margin for 1977 is $5,420 thousand, and is estimated to be $6,546 thousand in 1978, and $3,347 thousand in 1979. To the extent earned, payments to the U.S. Treasury of prior year's unearned costs are scheduled at $3,883 thousand in 1978. The Treasury balance is to be $46,587 thousand at September 30, 1978 and $44,962 thousand at September 30, 1979.

Note.—The Company accounts for 1977 are under examination by the U.S. General Accounting Office, and this statement of financial condition is subject to revision pursuant to the auditor's findings.

Contingent liabilities and commitments.—The estimated maximum liability, in addition to liabilities taken into the accounts, which could result from pending claims and lawsuits was $8.1 million at September 30, 1977. In the opinion of management and Company counsel, these pending claims and lawsuits will be resolved with no material adverse effect on the financial condition of the corporation.

Commitments under uncompleted construction contracts and unfilled purchase orders amounted to $27.1 million at September 30, 1977. Of this amount, $1.3 million in unfilled purchase orders were prepaid. In addition, the Panama Canal Company is liable for an indeterminable amount with respect to death and disability payments under the Federal Employees' Compensation Act.

The Company held as custodian negotiable Government securities in the face amount of $6.4 million at September 30, 1977, to guarantee payment by third parties of their obligations.

Effective May 9, 1969, the Company entered into a 25-year contract with the Instituto de Recursos Hidraulicos y Electrificación, an autonomous agency of the Republic of Panama, for the purchase of electric power to be produced by that agency. Effective September 1, 1972 through December 31, 1976, by mutual agreement, the contract was suspended for a period of 4 years and 4 months. As of September 30, 1977, the Company's minimum liability over the remaining period of the contract amounted to approximately $72.3 million.

Uncertainties which impact on financial statements.—On September 7, 1977, the President of the United States and the Chief of Government of the Republic of Panama signed a new Panama Canal treaty and a treaty concerning the neutrality and operation of the Panama Canal. The treaties are subject to ratification in accordance with the constitutional procedures of the United States and the Republic of Panama and will enter into force 6 calendar months from the date of the exchange of the instruments of ratification. These treaties have important significance in that they terminate all prior treaties pertaining to the Panama Canal and establish major changes in operations, civil authority, and ownership of property of the Panama Canal Enterprise.

Until the treaties are ratified, the Panama Canal Company and the Canal Zone Government will continue to operate without any material changes in the scope or the method of operations. These financial statements, therefore, do not purport to reflect the effect of the treaties on the assets, liabilities, and equity of the Panama Canal Enterprise.

1. Inertial confinement fusion.—The objectives of this program are to determine the feasibility of laser and electron beam fusion through inertial confinement. Future applications may include commercial power production and nuclear weapons applications.

Major emphasis in 1979 will be placed upon research to achieve program goals. Funding is requested for the high-energy laser facility, NOVA, at the Lawrence Livermore Laboratory and for a project previously authorized, the high-energy laser facility at Los Alamos Scientific Laboratory, Los Alamos, N. Mex.

2. Naval reactor development.—This program provides for the design, development, and testing of improved naval nuclear propulsion plants and reactor cores having longer fuel life, increased reliability, improved performance, and simplified operating and maintenance requirements. These reactors are necessary to meet a variety of military requirements of the Department of Defense. During 1979, efforts will continue on improving existing submarine and surface ship reactor core and plant technology, and on developing new advanced reactor concepts and propulsion plants including the continued design, development and testing of a propulsion plant for the Trident ballistic submarines.

3. Weapons activities.—This program provides for the design, development, and underground testing of new nuclear weapons, the production of nuclear weapons, and the maintenance of stockpile weapons for the Department of Defense. During 1979, weapons production efforts will increase for several systems. Also included is funding for new construction projects to meet the needs of the expanding programs.

4. Intelligence and arms control.—This program provides for the conduct of activities directed toward the advancement of verification and intelligence technologies related to nuclear treaties, data collection, processing, and exploitation.

Increased 1979 funding levels result from expanded requirements of the proposed comprehensive test ban treaty as well as increased emphasis on nonproliferation matters by the administration.

5. Special materials production.—This program provides for the production of special nuclear materials (principally plutonium) to meet weapons production requirements of the Department of Defense. In addition, the program also provides for management of defense radioactive wastes. The 1979 estimates provide for the continued operation of three production reactors at Savannah River and the N reactor at Richland, the operation of four chemical separation plants, two at Savannah River and one each in Washington and Idaho, and waste management facilities. Emphasis will continue in 1979 on developing technology for long-term isolation of defense waste.

Funding for construction in 1979 will essentially continue projects initiated in prior years in both the production and defense waste areas including the waste isolation pilot plant, New Mexico, and the fluorinol dissolution process and fuel receiving improvements, Idaho.

6. Nuclear materials security and safeguards.—The goal of the 1979 safeguards program is to technically strengthen international nonproliferation measures, design integrated safeguards systems for nuclear power fuel cycle facilities, evaluate cost effectiveness of system concept design, and assess capabilities for further development and refinement of safeguards systems.

1. Life sciences research and biomedical applications.—This program includes two major activities: General life sciences research and biomedical applications research. Research in this program provides (1) the fundamental basis for understanding the normal structure and functions of living organisms at all levels of biological organization; (2) the biological mechanism involved in pollutant damage and repair; and (3) new information on novel uses of radiation, radioactive and high-priority stable isotopes for diagnosis and treatment of human disease.

2. High-energy physics.—In this program studies are conducted of the fundamental building blocks of matter and the fundamental forces of nature in an attempt to more fully understand the relationships and transformations between energy and matter. The method of achieving the program objectives involves the use of large accelerator facilities to provide various types of high-energy particle beams and the use of sophisticated detection and analysis apparatus to study the particle interactions. In 1979 these facilities will be used to continue efforts to exploit recent major theoretical and experimental advances.

Funds are requested to continue the intersecting storage accelerator (ISABELLE) at Brookhaven National Laboratory. At the Fermi National Laboratory the Energy Saver Project has moved from the R. & D. stage and is proposed as a formal construction project.

Nuclear physics.—This program is concerned with attaining a deeper understanding of the interactions, structure, and properties of nuclei through experimental medium energy and heavy ion nuclear research and theoretical investigations. Plans for 1979 include: investigations of charge and momentum distribution of nucleons bound in nuclei; the role of nucleon resonances in the structure and interactions of nuclei; the fundamental nucleon-nucleon interaction; and nuclear matter (including possible abnormal density states) under extreme conditions of excitation.

Funds are requested for the high-intensity uranium beams project at Lawrence Berkeley Laboratory.

ENERGY*

*See "Legislative Program" (end of this chapter) and Part III of this Appendix for additional information.

For necessary expenses in carrying out energy and other activities, authorized by law, including purchase of passenger motor vehicles (not to exceed 188 of which 181 are for replacement only) including 12 police-type vehicles and hire of passenger motor vehicles; hire, maintenance, and operation of aircraft; purchase, repair, and cleaning of uniforms; official entertainment expenses and extraordinary expenses not to exceed $35,000, reimbursement to the General Services Administration for security guard services; $9,366,174,000 and any moneys received from uranium enrichment and other reimbursable programs authorized by law, notwithstanding the provisions of section 3617 of the Revised Statutes (31 U.S.C. 484), to remain available until expended: Provided, That from this appropriation transfers of sums may be made to other agencies of the Government for the performance of the work for which this appropriation is made: Provided further, That the amount appropriated in any other appropriation act for "Energy" for the Department of Energy for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1979, shall be merged with this appropriation.

[FEDERAL POWER COMMISSION]

[SALARIES AND EXPENSES]

[For expenses necessary for the work of the Commission, as authorized by law, including hire of passenger motor vehicles, hire of aircraft, services as authorized by 5 U.S.C. 3109, and not to exceed $1,000 for official reception and representation expenses, $42,785,000.] (Public Works for Water and Power Development and Energy Research Appropriation Act, 1978.)

[FEDERAL ENERGY ADMINISTRATION]

[SALARIES AND EXPENSES]

[For expenses of the Federal Energy Administration, as authorized by law, including hire of passenger motor vehicles, and services as authorized by 5 U.S.C. 3109, but at rates for individuals not to exceed the per diem equivalent of the rate for grade GS-18; $289,123,000: Provided, That in the event of the expiration of such Administration, the funds provided herein shall be available for obligation by any other entity or entities established to carry out substantially the same functions as such Administration: Provided further, That loan guarantees authorized by Public Law 94-163 and obligation guarantees authorized by Public Law 94-385 shall not be made unless so authorized by limitations of outstanding obligational authority provided in future appropriation Acts.]

[STRATEGIC PETROLEUM RESERVE]

[For expenses necessary to carry out sections 151 through 166 of the Energy Policy and Conservation Act of 1975, $2,798,933,000, to remain available until December 31, 1978.]

[NAVAL PETROLEUM RESERVES]

[EXPLORATION, DEVELOPMENT, AND OPERATION OF PETROLEUM RESERVES]

[For expenses necessary to carry out the provisions of section 201 of Public Law 94-258, $155,739,000, to remain available until expended.] (Public Law No. 95-74, making appropriations for the Department of the Interior and related agencies, 1978.)

NOTES

Excludes the following amounts for activities transferred to Salaries and expenses, Office of the Secretary, Department of Transportation (in thousands of dollars):

Budget authority.....	50	54	60
Outlays.....	50	54	60

Includes $14,000 thousand in 1979 for activities previously financed from "Research and development," Environmental Protection Agency; comparable amounts are $10,100 thousand in 1977 and $10,400 thousand in 1978. Excludes $14,000 thousand in 1979 for activities to be financed by "Research and development," Environmental Protection Agency; comparable amounts for 1977 ($12,500 thousand) and 1978 ($13,500 thousand) are included above.

1. Research and technology development.—The purpose of Energy Supply—Research and Technology Development is to develop new energy technologies and improve the efficiency of existing energy technologies. Included in this mission are efforts associated with basic research, technology development, engineering development and demonstrations.

Coal.—The principal objectives of this program are to accelerate the development of environmentally acceptable technologies for converting coal to liquid and gaseous fuels; to foster the rapid development of advanced power conversion systems, including magnetohydrodynamics; to stimulate improved methods for the direct combustion of coal; to validate second generation coal processes by designing, building and operating near-commercial scale modules; to develop systems to increase the productivity and efficiency of coal mining operations; to increase the utilization of coal through improved coal preparation technologies and environmental control technologies, including projects previously conducted in EPA.

Petroleum.—The principal objectives of this program are to develop and demonstrate by 1985, in cooperation with industry, enhanced oil recovery technology to increase production flow rates and ultimate recovery of oil; and to develop the technology required to insure that the Nation's oil shale resources are developed at acceptable economic, social and environmental costs.

Gas.—The principal objectives of this program are to encourage commercial development of the potentially large resources of natural gas located within the United States; and to support shale gas production research targeted to both eastern and western shales.

The 1979 budget includes drilling, stimulation and production of Devonian shale gas wells within the Appalachian Basin.

Solar.—The overall goal of the solar energy technology development program is to help develop solar systems and applications that are economically attractive and environmentally acceptable.

Principal objectives are to help accelerate the use of solar energy for space heating, cooling, and hot water for buildings, industrial process, and agricultural purposes and to develop and demonstrate technologies for the collection and conversion of solar energy to electrical energy.

In 1979 major emphasis will be placed on conducting R. & D. including development of wind systems; photovoltaic and solar thermal electric systems for peak and intermediate electric load applications; ocean thermal for base load in the long term; and technology to produce clean fuels from biomass.

Geothermal.—The major objectives of the geothermal program are to stimulate development of hydrothermal resources for both electric and nonelectric applications; to stimulate development of geopressed resources and to perform the advanced technological R. & D. required for development of the very large hot dry rock resource base.

In 1979, emphasis will be on improved resource definition and on developing advanced technology to exploit geopressed and hot dry rock resources. Also, construction will be initiated on a 50 MWe project to demonstrate the readiness of hydrothermal technology for commercial application. The economic, environmental, institutional, legal and regulatory barriers to geothermal energy commercialization will continue to be addressed.

Magnetic fusion.—The primary goal of the magnetic fusion program is to develop and demonstrate pure fusion central power generation in a manner which will meet environmental, economic, health, and safety requirements. The near-term objective is to assess and demonstrate the overall feasibility of controlled fusion. In 1979 major emphasis will be directed toward demonstrating with hydrogen plasmas, reactor-like conditions in present generation mainline experimental devices. The 1979 budget includes work which identifies and evaluates the feasibility of fusion power applications which can substantially contribute to meeting the nations requirements for nonelectric and inexhaustible energy needs.

Fuel cycle R. & D.—The objectives of fuel cycle R. & D. program are to provide a viable nuclear energy option through the development of nuclear fuel cycles and waste management systems that minimize the risk of nuclear weapons proliferation, make efficient use of natural resources, and protect the environment. The program includes geological investigations to locate a site by 1985 for terminal storage repository operations as well as providing adequate facilities to process and package radioactive wastes acceptable for transport and storage.

Breeder reactor.—The goal of the breeder reactor program is to maintain the option for greatly improved uranium and/or thorium resources utilization for electricity production. This will be accomplished by establishing the technical and engineering basis for selection of a breeder system consistent with U.S. nonproliferation objectives and anticipated national electrical energy requirement. Technical support for the administration's foreign policy initiatives on nuclear nonproliferation will be continued. The program is centered around a technology integration study which will focus the base program research and development efforts, nonproliferation concerns and safety characteristics into an integrated program. Specific accomplishments anticipated are the completion of construction on the fast flux test facility (FFTF) and initial operation by August 1979. A number of support facilities for the FFTF are continued or initiated. This includes continued construction on the fuel storage facility and on the fuels and materials examination facility as well as beginning work on the maintenance and storage facility. Work will continue in the base technology program on safety, physics, materials, fuels, and reactor components.

Nuclear research and applications.—The nuclear research and applications (NRA) program is directed toward assessing, developing, and demonstrating promising products and technologies which can create energy choices and enhance the favorable impact of nuclear energy on our national needs. Research and development will be continued on alternative nuclear reactor technologies such as the water cooled breeder reactor, high temperature gas reactor, and gas cooled fast breeder reactors. In addition, cooperative programs with industry will continue with the objective of improving the productivity of existing and future light water reactor powerplants. In the advanced isotope separation technology activity, effort is being directed at the development of a technology to extend the beneficial use of uranium resources. In space applications, efforts will continue to improve the design and development of nuclear power systems for space applications in support of future NASA and DOD missions.

LWR safety facilities.—The objectives of this program are to support the Nuclear Regulatory Commission's confirmatory safety research program. In 1979, the loss of fluid test (LOFT) facility will be completed and commence nuclear safety tests.

International spent fuel disposition.—This program provides support for the Government's nuclear weapons nonproliferation policy by continuing activities to provide systems for disposition of spent fuel from reactors in those countries cooperating with the United States in nonproliferation objectives during the indefinite period of reprocessing deferral.

Low-head hydroelectric.—The program is designed to assess the economic potential of small hydropower sites; to assess environmental and institutional barriers to small hydropower development; and to help develop and accelerate the introduction of new small hydropower technology.

In 1979, activities will include: resource identification; environmental and safety assessments; legal, economic and institutional studies; and initiation of small-scale demonstrations.

Basic energy sciences.—The objective of this program is to develop the knowledge base in science and engineering for all energy production and conservation technologies. Basic energy sciences provide fundamental input to problems underlying other DOE programs and attempts to identify knowledge that crosscuts the various DOE technologies. In 1979, work will continue in the materials sciences; the chemical sciences; engineering, mathematical and geosciences; nuclear science; and advanced energy projects.

Advanced technology and assessment projects.—This new program is to sponsor potentially useful and important advanced technology projects, not normally funded through traditional programs, for the purpose of long-term development and implementation of energy technologies. Its purpose is to allow the DOE to pursue certain assessments and initiatives that cut across other ongoing programs.

2. Energy supply—production, demonstration and distribution—Naval Petroleum and Oil Shale Reserves.—This program includes those activities necessary to operate, explore, conserve, develop and produce the Naval Petroleum Reserves at the maximum efficient rate and an evaluation of the Naval Oil Shale Reserves. This will include routine operation and maintenance, drilling and equipping oil and gas wells for production, installation of on-reserve facilities and related pipeline systems to handle produced petroleum and related products.

Coal utilization.—The objective of this program is to reduce consumption of petroleum and natural gas in the industrial and utility sectors by increasing the use of coal and other fuels. In order to assure the greatest possible conversion to coal, the Department of Energy is empowered with statutory and regulatory authorities to prohibit the use of petroleum and natural gas by both existing and prospective facilities. Prohibitions may be contested by exceptions, exemptions, and further administrative and judicial review.

Solar.—The principal objectives of this program are: to complement tax and regulatory incentives by installing solar heating, hot water, and cooling systems in approximately 3,000 Federally owned buildings over a 3-year period; to encourage an increase in solar installations for residential, commercial and industrial use from 10,000 at present to at least 2.5 million by 1985; and to initiate a photovoltaics commercialization program to stimulate and accelerate a solar-electric industry.

Activities in 1979 will also include technical and financial assistance to State and local governments—for a program of consumer protection and public education; and to accelerate the market development of all solar technologies.

Uranium resource assessment.—The 1979 uranium resource assessment program accelerates efforts to provide data for use in the search for new sources of uranium, provides for completion of an assessment of currently known favorable areas by 1981, and the 1984 completion of an assessment of the entire conterminous United States and Alaska. These efforts are necessary to determine the existence and location of adequate supplies of uranium to support the growth of nuclear power.

Uranium enrichment.—This program provides for continued operation of the gaseous diffusion plants at Oak Ridge, Tenn.; Paducah, Ky.; and Portsmouth, Ohio; for the enrichment of uranium for fuel in nuclear power reactors, including process development work on the gaseous diffusion and gas centrifuge enrichment processes. Continuation of the gas centrifuge enrichment plant project, Portsmouth, Ohio is proposed.

3. Conservation-Utilities.—The principal objectives of the utilities program are: to encourage national implementation of more efficient load management through technology development, eliminating declining block rates and reducing energy consumption during periods of peak demand; and to facilitate representation of consumer interests during public utility commission rate-making hearings.

Major emphasis in 1979 will be to develop improved bulk power delivery and electric systems design, to help State public utility commissions and non-regulated utilities to plan to implement utility rate reforms required by the National Energy Act, and to provide a national perspective at evidentiary hearings of State public utility commissions. The program of grants for offices of consumer services will continue to help establish new offices in States that are starting these activities.

Residential and commercial.—The principal objectives of the residential program are: to weatherize the homes of low-income persons; to require electric and gas utilities to offer insulation service for a fee to their residential customers; to improve energy efficiency of major home appliances; and to conduct research, development and demonstration activities related to more efficient use of energy in residential and commercial buildings.

The major emphasis in 1979 will be on providing grants to the States for the purpose of weatherizing the homes of low-income persons, particularly low-income elderly and handicapped. Financial and technical assistance will also be provided to public utility commissions for the purpose of developing and requiring an insulation program to be offered by electric and gas utilities to their residential customers. Minimum energy efficiency standards will be developed for major home appliances. There will also be research and development of new building standards for optimum energy utilization.

Industrial.—The principal objective of the Industrial program: to undertake R.D. & D. activities to accelerate and complement private sector activities in industrial energy conservation with particular emphasis in the cogeneration technologies.

Major 1979 program activities include: research and development of high temperature recuperators, industrial heat pumps, and topping cycle cogeneration technology.

Transportation.—The principal objectives of the transportation program are: to help improve energy efficiency in transportation in order to achieve a 25% reduction in the current transportation energy projections for the year 2000; and to reduce transportation's almost complete dependence on petroleum.

Major program activities in 1979 will include R.D. & D. activities in advanced heat engines and electric and hybrid vehicles (EHV).

Federal.—The principal objectives of the Federal program are to establish guidelines for the insulation of federally owned buildings, and monitor energy consumption of the various Federal agencies. Major activities in 1979 include initiation of 1,250 vanpools for Federal employees in areas not generally served by mass transit.

State/local.—The principal objectives of the State/local program are: to reduce energy consumption in school and health care facilities; to provide funding for technical assistance and energy audits in local government-owned buildings; and to promote the conservation of energy and reduce the growth of energy demand by providing Federal financial and technical assistance to States and territories.

Major activities in 1979 provide for: the funding of energy saving investments made in schools and hospitals, and the continuation of State planning and implementation of energy conservation activities.

Multisector.—The principal objectives of the multi-sector program are: to develop reliable and inexpensive storage systems for cross-sectoral energy conservation technologies; to develop an energy conversion technology base that will reduce consumption of oil and natural gas through increased efficiency and through the use of alternative fuels; to support the invention and development of small-scale energy conservation technology; and to provide energy information to the public through an Energy Extension Service.

Major program activities in 1979 include: development of a prototype thermochemical storage system for use in solar thermal power generation; development of a 4.8-MW fuel cell powerplant in a utility grid; initiation of fuel cell technology efforts for environmentally acceptable coal-fueled electricity generation; and establishment of a nationwide Energy Extension Service to provide information to the public.

4. Emergency preparedness.—The objectives of this program are to ensure: that the emergency petroleum conservation measures are in place providing the capability to restrain demand consistent with the magnitude of any future energy crisis and to meet U.S. requirements under the International Energy Agreement; that a gasoline and diesel fuel rationing system is available for activation; that appropriate contingency measures are available for non-petroleum energy supply problems—such as natural gas shortages, electricity brownouts, and coal supply interruptions; and, that standby allocation regulations and refinery yield programs are in place. This program also designs and operates an emergency management information system (EMIS) to provide real time information on supply availability on a national scale.

Strategic petroleum reserve.—The objective of this program is to provide for the reservation of substantial quantities of petroleum in order to diminish the vulnerability of the United States from the effects of a severe petroleum supply disruption. Funding requested in 1979 will support the following major functions: the purchase of approximately 250 million barrels of crude oil required to meet the target of having 500 million barrels in storage by December of 1980; standby operations of the filled storage sites, including oil quality monitoring, security and hardware maintenance; and site acquisition and initial design and construction activities for the program's third 250 million barrel component.

Materials allocation.—This program, a joint effort among the Department of Energy, the Department of Commerce, and the General Services Administration, is designed to provide priority assistance for obtaining materials and equipment for energy programs or projects which maximize domestic energy supplies. Activities in 1979 will consist of processing applications for priority assistance, and performing other claimant agency functions.

5. Regulation.—The regulatory elements of the DOE are the responsibilities of either the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission or the Economic Regulatory Administration.

Petroleum.—The crude oil allocation program operates to ensure adequate crude oil availability to all regions of the Nation and all sectors of the petroleum industry. Equalization mechanisms (entitlements) are employed by this program to preclude a lack of access to available domestic and imported crude oil supplies or significant disparities in crude oil prices.

Equitable distribution of petroleum and natural gas liquid products to all regions and commercial users is the assigned function of the product allocation program. Development and implementation of mandatory allocation plans for covered products ensures appropriate distribution patterns. This program also monitors the availability of decontrolled products and unleaded gasoline.

The crude oil pricing program encourages the enhanced production of domestic crude oil through its pricing mechanisms to lessen the Nation's dependence on imported oil. For 1979 this program will maintain ceiling prices on domestic crude, expand domestic production and exploration efforts through development of suitable economic incentives, draft environmental impact statements on the effects of pricing regulations, and undertake an assessment of the impacts of tertiary-recovery regulatory amendments.

Multiresource.—A capability to assure the equitable pricing of petroleum products and natural gas liquids is provided by the product pricing program. The following responsibilities are identified for this program: the development and administration of price regulations; the monitoring of impacts associated with industry regulations; preparation of decontrol feasibility studies; and establishment of equitable pricing mechanisms for propane and synthetic natural gas feedstocks. Regulations are analyzed on a recurring basis to keep them current and insure their effectiveness as standby or emergency status options where applicable.

The compliance program evaluates and enforces petroleum industry compliance with pricing, allocation, and import regulations pursuant to the EPAA and EPCA Acts. The national offices of enforcement and special counsel develop, monitor, and continually review compliance policy. Regional offices are responsible for policy implementation through the undertaking of investigations and audits. A major restructuring of the compliance program manpower allocation is currently underway to accomplish several recommendations of the Sporkin task force which was commissioned to review program orientation and performance.

The administrative review program is responsible for the evaluation and resolution of all applications for exceptions, exemptions, stays or appeals filed with the DOE for relief from any regulatory or allied mandatory requirement administered by the DOE.

Gas.—Pipeline and producer regulation are mandated by the Natural Gas Act and affect natural gas companies that either transport or produce natural gas for interstate commerce. The Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, in accordance with its assigned pipeline and producer regulation responsibilities, issues certificates of public convenience and necessity for the sale of gas by producers. Construction of new transport facilities and extensions by interstate natural gas companies is similarly regulated. Producer regulation requires the establishment and enforcement of appropriate wellhead prices for natural gas sold to interstate pipeline companies and acceptable wholesale rates to be charged by the pipeline firms for all natural gas sold in interstate commerce.

Hydroelectric.—The need for optimum utilization of the Nation's water power resources is addressed in the hydroelectric program and performed through permit, license, and enforcement operations. Water resource analyses are carried out in cooperation with other Federal agencies and relevant regional, State and local agencies. In addition, the Federal Power Act requires the licensing of additional Federal hydroelectric projects. Safety inspections of dams will be increased in 1979.

6. Energy information.—This program provides for: (1) the development and purchase of near and far-term econometric, statistical and structural process models of energy supply, demand, price, transportation and fuel conversion; (2) substantive information on electric and natural gas supply and consumption for analyses of supply, costs, consumption patterns, problems, trends, technology, and long-range industry plans and outlook—industry data is essential for effective and equitable regulation under the Federal Power Act and Natural Gas Act; (3) the analysis of the impacts of national and international energy policies, actions and developments on the national economy, the major economic sectors, the regions, and specific socio-economic groups; (4) development and implementation of a detailed financial information reporting system to assess industry performance in the area of energy resource production and distribution; validation of all Federal energy data systems; (5) a national energy information system (NEIS) to collect and provide energy information to all users, collection of assumption data at all levels and collection, analysis and dissemination of information on fossil fuels; and (6) direct access to the Department's energy information resources by other Federal agencies, the Congress and the public and access to the Project Independence Evaluation System (PIES) provides information on the historical, current and projected energy situation, and the effects of energy policies and matters on energy supply, demand, price and other factors.

7. Environment—Environmental research and development.—The primary goal of this program is to assure the environmental, health and safety acceptability of energy technologies being developed. This program is comprised of two subprograms; overview and assessment and biomedical and environmental research. The overview and assessment program insures that proper emphasis is placed on environmental, health and safety considerations in formulating and implementing energy technology plans, programs and decisions through oversight and coordination with DOE energy programs. The biomedical and environmental research program performs supportive research needed to address health and environmental problems associated with energy technology development and energy production. The 1979 estimate has been adjusted to reflect that certain health and environmental research projects previously funded in this program will be funded by EPA.

8. Policy and management.—This program supports a wide array of policy analysis and program support requirements necessary to ensure effective DOE management. The program provides for: (1) development and analysis of alternative energy policy proposals, legislation, and evaluation of DOE programs; (2) a central planning, analysis and evaluation capability for technical program issues through development of the national plan for energy research, development and demonstration; (3) the salaries, travel and other costs associated with the program direction and administration of DOE; (4) the institutional relations program that provides information services and outreach activities focusing on the industrial, academic and public communities, evaluation of energy-related inventions and support for energy training and education; (5) the performance of security investigations for persons with access to restricted atomic energy data; (6) the equal employment opportunity-assigned facilities program to identify and eliminate discriminatory practices in assigned contractor facilities; (7) the in-house energy management program to reduce DOE energy consumption; (8) engineering and architectural services for planning and design of complex construction projects presently under consideration for possible future authorization; and (9) the decontamination and decommissioning program for disposition of surplus radioactively-contaminated facilities and sites.

Production demonstration and distribution.—To make available the financial resources needed for commercial development of geothermal energy, DOE is administering a Federal loan guarantee program. The objectives of the loan guarantee program are: (1) to encourage and assist the private sector to accelerate development of geothermal resources by minimizing lender's financial risk associated with the introduction of new technology; and (2) to develop normal borrower-lender relationships that will in time encourage the flow of credit without the need for Federal assistance. Implementation of the loan guarantee program is coordinated closely with the Department of the Interior's geothermal leasing program and with DOE's research and development effort.

The status of the loan guarantee program authority is provided below:

The Alaska Power Administration is responsible for operation, maintenance and power marketing for the Eklutna and Snettisham hydroelectric projects.

The Eklutna project has completed 22 years of operation with total revenues through 1977 of $31,954,000 and the current value of plant in service is $29,784,886. All available energy is under contract.

The first phase Snettisham project was put into commercial operation in December 1973. In 1976 transmission line failures on one section of the line, due to high winds and heavy icing conditions, substantially curtailed production and sales. Revenues from power sales for 1977 were $2,858,000. Project sales and revenues in future years will increase reflecting improvement in reliability because of the major line relocation around the problem area and growth in the market for project power.

The Alaska Power Administration participates along with State, private, and Federal agencies in conducting general investigations relating to the development and use of Alaskan water, power, and related resources. The following studies are representative of the work performed by the Administration: the Alaska Power Survey assesses Alaska's electric power generation needs; the Alaska Water Assessment Study considers the potential for improving coordinated water and related Alaskan land use planning activities; the administration gathers, processes and publishes data on Alaskan electrical power. The Administration also pays the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service for studies of the fish and wildlife aspects of the general investigations program.

The Bonneville Power Administration constructs, operates, and maintains facilities to market electric power produced at Federal hydroelectric generating projects over its high-voltage transmission grid system to public and private utilities and industrial customers in the Pacific Northwest. It also wheels, exchanges, and purchases power from non-Federal hydroelectric and thermal generating plants.

The estimated amounts of peak generating capacity on the Federal transmission system are as follows (in thousands of kilowatts):

	Oct. 1, 1978	Oct. 1, 1987
Federal projects.....	19,946	22,171
Power wheeled and exchanged for non-Federal utilities...	9,524	19,125
Total.....	29,470	41,296

The transmission facilities will integrate new generating facilities into the system. Thirty Federal hydroelectric generating plants are currently in operation on the system. These plants, along with additional generating units being installed at new and existing Federal projects, will bring the total Federal installed capacity from 19.9 million kilowatts to 22.2 million kilowatts.

Budget program.—BPA's 1979 program will be financed from revenues and proceeds from the sale of revenue bonds or notes to the U.S. Treasury which will be repaid from future revenues.

BPA Fund activities include:

System operation and maintenance.—Provides for the scheduling and dispatch of power, operation, maintenance, planning of the system, and the negotiation of power sales and wheeling contracts, billing and servicing these contracts, and the review and establishment of wholesale rates.

Purchase power and wheeling.—Provides for the acquisition of power from other entities by purchase and exchange, and the use of transmission facilities.

Interest on borrowings.—Provides for payments to the U.S. Treasury for interest on borrowings to finance BPA's construction program under $1.25 billion borrowing authority provided by Public Law 93-454.

Associated project costs.—Provides for repayment of the operation and maintenance costs of the U.S. Corps of Engineers and U.S. Bureau of Reclamation power generating projects; interest and amortization on the U.S. Bureau of Reclamation capital investment in power generating facilities; and coordination agreement payments to the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission.

Transmission system construction.—Provides for continuation of construction work on transmission lines, substations, and related facilities initiated in prior years, and initiation of construction on system additions.

Reserve for contingencies.—Provides for the purchase of power in low-water years; repair and/or replacement of facilities affected by natural and man-made emergencies including the resulting additional costs for contracting, construction, and operation and maintenance work; unavoidable increased costs for the planned program due to necessary but unforeseen adjustments including engineering and design changes, contractor and other claims and relocations.

Reimbursable programs.—Provides for the acquisition of energy and other services provided by BPA under various types of trust and reimbursable arrangements.

(a) Energy purchase trust agreements.—Provides for the purchase of replacement energy from other sources for BPA industrial and utility customers during periods when nonfirm energy is not available from the Federal system, with BPA acting as an agent in acquiring nonfirm energy in their behalf for which each customer provides funds in advance.

(b) Other.—BPA constructs, operates, and maintains transmission facilities which are not provided by the administration under its customer service policy when requested and financed by other entities. Also, BPA facilities are relocated as required for highway construction and other purposes under similar arrangements.

Financing.—Public Law 93-454, the Federal Columbia River Transmission System Act, provides for the use by the Bonneville Power Administration of all receipts, collections, and recoveries in cash from all sources, including the sale of bonds, to finance the annual budget programs of the Bonneville Power Administration. These receipts result primarily from the sale of power and wheeling. Public Law 93-454 also provides for the availability of $1.25 billion in authority to borrow from the U.S. Treasury, at rates comparable to borrowings at open market rates for similar issues. Operating revenues are expected to amount to approximately $342 million in 1979.

Operating results.—Estimated cumulative retained earnings at the close of the budget year are $58 million, a net decrease of almost $17 million from fiscal year 1978.

A continuing fund of $50 thousand, maintained from receipt from the transmission and sale of electric power in the southeastern area, is available to defray expenses necessary to insure continuity of service (16 U.S. Code 825s-2).

OPERATION AND MAINTENANCE, SOUTHWESTERN POWER ADMINISTRATION

For necessary expenses of operation and maintenance of power transmission facilities and of marketing electric power and energy, and for construction and acquisition of transmission lines, substations, and appurtenant facilities, and for administrative expenses connected therewith, in carrying out the provisions of section 5 of the Flood Control Act of 1944 (16 U.S.C. 825s), as applied to the southwestern power area, including purchase of not to exceed two passenger motor vehicles for replacement only, $19,909,000 to remain available until expended.

[SOUTHWESTERN POWER ADMINISTRATION]

[CONSTRUCTION]

For construction and acquisition of transmission lines, substations, and appurtenant facilities, and for administrative expenses connected therewith, in carrying out the provisions of section 5 of the Flood Control Act of 1944 (16 U.S.C. 825s), as applied to the southwestern power area, $4,312,000, to remain available until expended.]

[OPERATION AND MAINTENANCE]

For necessary expenses of operation and maintenance of power transmission facilities and of marketing electric power and energy pursuant to the provisions of section 5 of the Flood Control Act of 1944 (16 U.S.C. 825s), as applied to the southwestern power area, including purchase of not to exceed three passenger motor vehicles for replacement only, $8,193,000. All operation and maintenance activities, with the exception of the expenses for the purchase of power and payment of transmission charges, are financed through direct appropriations. An appropriation for the purchase of power and payment of transmission expenses is necessary to cover monthly expenditures in excess of monthly receipts for the thermal power and energy and transmission service provided to SPA.

The construction program provides transmission, substation and switching facilities to transmit power generated at Corps of Engineers' hydroelectric projects in the Southwest. This program is coordinated with the Corps of Engineers' construction program and customer requirements in order that transmission and related facilities will be in place at the time these power projects are completed and available for marketing. This program also provides for the purchase of capital electrical equipment used for upgrading the established system to meet changing customer load requirements.

The Western Area Power Administration is responsible for power marketing in 15 western states from generating projects of the Corps of Engineers in the Pick-Sloan Missouri Basin program and the International Boundary and Water Commission's powerplant in Texas. WAPA is also responsible for the operation and maintenance of an extensive high voltage transmission system, and for construction of selected transmission facilities.

1. Systems operation and maintenance—In 1979 a total of 14 projects, project areas or divisions of projects, will be operated and maintained to meet the power marketing needs required to market power produced by others. Provision is made for marketing of power from the Corps of Engineers powerplants in the Pick-Sloan Missouri Basin program and from the International Boundary and Water Commission's powerplant in Texas.

Energy sales resulting from the WAPA power operations excluding the Colorado River storage project and the Colorado River Basin project are as follows:

Energy sales (millions of kilowatt hours)	23,876	24,337	24,824

Commercial power is sold to wholesale customers such as municipalities, Rural Electrification Administration cooperatives, irrigation districts, public utility districts, State and Federal Government agencies, and private utilities. These revenues are deposited in the Reclamation fund, the Colorado River Dam fund, the General fund, and the Fort Peck continuing fund.

2. Purchase power and wheeling—The program includes $68,760 thousand in 1979 for the purchase of power and wheeling excluding credits for net billing. The establishment in 1961 of a net billings procedure for certain of these power transactions between the Federal Government and non-Federal utilities precludes the need for an additional $8,876 thousand in 1979.

System construction.—Construction activities will be underway in 1979 involving five multipurpose water resource projects. The construction of transmission facilities will be necessary for marketing of electric power developed from generating plants of others.

Construction activities will be underway in 1979 involving one multipurpose water resources project. The construction of transmission facilities will be necessary for the marketing of power developed by the generating projects of others.

Operation and maintenance.—In 1979, operation and maintenance will be maintained on 2,000 circuit miles of transmission facilities.

Energy sales and revenues resulting from the Colorado River storage project financed from this fund are as follows:

Energy sales (millions of kilowatt-hours)	1977 actual	1978 estimate	1979 estimate
	6,464	5,636	5,636

This fund defrays the expense of operating the power generation and transmission facilities of the Fort Peck project, Corps of Engineers—Civil, and emergency expenses to insure continuous operation. The continuing fund, Fort Peck project, will be managed by the WAPA, Department of Energy. The Corps of Engineers will operate and maintain the power generating facilities and the Department of Energy will operate and maintain the transmission lines and attendant facilities and perform the power marketing functions. Expenses for these programs will be funded by revenues collected by the Department of Energy and deposited to this fund.

Decontamination and decommissioning of radioactively contaminated facilities.—This program contains funding for remedial action for uranium mill training sites and remedial action for former Federal installations under legislation to be proposed.

Uranium Enrichment Revenues.—Legislation would be proposed to change the uranium enrichment services criteria to permit a fair value charge for toll enriching services.

The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) is charged with the administration and enforcement of laws concerning dangerous, misbranded, and adulterated foods, drugs, human biologics, medical devices, cosmetics, and man-made sources of radiation.

1. Foods.—FDA is responsible for insuring the safety and quality of a major segment of the Nation's food supply and the safety of the Nation's cosmetic supply. FDA reviews industry petitions and publishes tolerances for the safe use of food additives, conducts research, develops analytical methods to detect and prevent food and cosmetic adulteration, sets standards for classes of food and defines good manufacturing and sanitary practices. To insure cooperation and compliance with the foregoing, FDA inspects food and cosmetic processing plants and marketing establishments, analyzes collected samples to verify that these products are safe and properly labeled and—when necessary—takes regulatory action to obtain compliance with the law.

2. Drugs and devices.—FDA is charged with insuring that human and animal drugs, human biologics, and medical devices are safe, effective, and properly labeled. FDA reviews research and manufacturing data to support the safety and efficacy of these products prior to marketing, evaluates literature and experience reports submitted by industry and the medical profession, and conducts research. FDA also inspects manufacturing firms, reviews labeling, analyzes samples, and—when necessary—takes regulatory action to enforce the legal requirements.

3. Radiological products.—FDA is responsible for eliminating unnecessary exposure to electronic product radiation through research, surveillance, and performance standards.

4. National Center for Toxicological Research.—FDA conducts research programs to study the biological effects of potentially toxic chemical substances found in man's environment.

5. Program management.—This activity includes FDA's executive and administrative functions.

NOTES

Excludes $1,790 thousand in 1979 for activities transferred to: General departmental management, $1,783 thousand; Preventive health services, $7 thousand. Comparable amounts for 1977 ($2,264 thousand) and 1978 ($1,789 thousand) are included above.

Includes $15,000 thousand in 1979 for activities previously financed from: Health Care Financing Administration: 1977, $15,000 thousand; 1978, $15,000 thousand.

Obligations incurred under allocations from other accounts are included in the schedules of the parent appropriations as follows: Salaries and expenses, Bureau of Prisons; Appalachian regional development programs; Supplemental security income program; Health Care Financing Administration.

This appropriation includes activities that provide health services primarily to low income people and their families through categorical project and formula grant programs. Emphasis will be placed on expanding adolescent health and pregnancy prevention services. In addition, services are provided directly to certain Federal beneficiaries through the Public Health Service hospital system. These health service programs are:

1. Community health services—(a) Community health centers.—Grants develop and support ambulatory health care projects in rural and urban areas where health resources are scarce.

(b) Home health services.—Grants are awarded to develop and support home health projects in areas which have a high percentage of elderly, medically indigent, or both.

(c) Comprehensive health grants to States.—Grants are provided to States on a formula basis for a wide range of health services primarily determined by the States.

(e) Maternal and child health.—Grants to States finance services for promoting the health of mothers and children and for crippled children.

(f) Genetic services.—Grants are provided for screening and treatment of hemophilia, sickle cell anemia, and other genetic disorders.

(g) Family planning.—Grants develop and maintain comprehensive voluntary family planning projects in areas of greatest need.

(h) Migrant health.—Grants provide primary health care services to migrants, seasonal farmworkers, and their families.

(i) National health service corps.—This activity provides health care personnel for health manpower shortage areas.

2. Quality assurance.—Effective in 1978 this activity was transferred to the Health Care Financing Administration.

3. Health care services and systems—(a) Patient care and special health services.—This program provides direct and contract health care to the legal beneficiaries of the Public Health Service through a system of 8 general hospitals, 26 outpatient clinics, contract physicians, and the national Hansen's Disease Center at Carville, La. Consultation to Federal agencies on the establishment of occupational health programs is also provided under this activity.

(b) Health maintenance organizations.—Effective in 1978 this activity was transferred to the Office of the Assistant Secretary for Health.

(c) Emergency medical services.—Grants are awarded to develop a network of self-supporting regional emergency medical services systems.

1. Research—(a) Cause and prevention research.—To prevent the occurrence or reduce the incidence of human cancer by developing the means to prevent the initial development of cancer, or halt or reverse the progression of the disease, through research in carcinogenesis, epidemiology, immunology, viral oncology, and nutrition.

(b) Detection and diagnostic research.—To develop ways of finding cancer at an early stage by improving methods for determining the presence, nature, location, and extent of a patient's disease and by identifying risk factors and high-risk groups through research in epidemiology, immunology, and detection and diagnosis.

(c) Treatment research.—To develop the means to cure cancer patients, maintain control of cancer in patients who are not cured and improve the rehabilitation of cancer patients through the conduct of preclinical treatment, clinical treatment, and rehabilitation research.

(d) Cancer biology.—To provide a better understanding of basic biological mechanisms involved in control of normal and malignant cell growth and behavior.

2. Resource development.—(a) Cancer centers support.—To develop and maintain cancer centers as a national resource for the conduct of multidisciplinary cancer research, control, public and professional education, and training; and to serve as a focal point for reaching out and responding to community needs in cancer.

(b) Research manpower development.—To assist in providing cancer research and cancer patient management, education, and training, available on a continuing basis to professionals, scientists, and institutions.

(c) Construction.—To assist in providing the biomedical facilities needed to safely implement the cancer research activities necessary to achieve the objectives and goals of the national cancer program.

3. Cancer control.—To facilitate the widespread application of available new, proven, and practical cancer knowledge and technology into the general practice of medicine through the conduct of identification, field test, demonstration, evaluation, and promotion efforts in the intervention areas of: (1) prevention; (2) detection, diagnosis, and pretreatment evaluation; and (3) treatment, rehabilitation, and continuing care.

1. Caries.—The national caries program is an organized research and development effort to develop methods to eliminate caries as a major health problem.

2. Periodontal diseases.—The periodontal diseases program develops new knowledge which may lead to the prevention and eradication of these diseases.

3. Restorative materials.—The restorative materials program aids the development of improved materials and methods to restore lost oral tissues to normal form and function.

4. Craniofacial anomalies.—The craniofacial anomalies program is focused on improvement of treatment and understanding of the basic mechanisms, to prevent such developmental aberrations.

5. Pain control and behavioral studies.—The pain control program supports investigations into the nature, etiology, pathophysiology, and treatment of the major pain problems associated with the oral-facial complex.

6. Soft tissue stomatology and nutrition.—The soft tissue program focuses on developing knowledge in the areas of soft tissue diseases, nutrition, salivary glands and mineralization that can be applied to research.

7. Dental research institutes.—The dental research institutes bring together universities to focus upon the problems of oral health.

8. Intramural research.—Intramural laboratory and clinical research is concerned with the causes, treatment, control, and prevention of diseases and disorders of the oral cavity and facial region.

9. Direct operations.—This program supports scientific and administrative management of grants and contracts, program evaluation and HEW general expense.

10. Program management.—This activity provides support for the overall administrative management and scientific direction of institute programs.

1. Communicative disorders.—This program supports research on improving the diagnosis, treatment, and prevention of diseases and disorders which affect hearing, language, and speech.

2. Neurological disorders.—Research is directed toward neurological diseases; including epilepsy, muscular disorders, multiple sclerosis, Huntington's disease, minimal brain dysfunction, neurological aspects of learning and behavior, slow virus infections of the central nervous systems, Parkinson's disease, and genetic and developmental disorders.

3. Stroke, nervous system trauma.—Research is directed toward cerebrovascular disease and stroke, head injury, spinal cord injury, nerve growth and regeneration, and brain tumors.

4. Fundamental neurosciences.—Support of research in the fundamental neurosciences explores the mechanisms responsible for normal functioning of the human nervous system and the nature of its diseases and disorders.

5. Intramural laboratory and clinical research.—Research efforts of this program embrace the entire range of neurological and communicative disorders. The scientific staff will pursue the most promising lines of research in neurochemistry, neuropharmacology, immunology, and virology.

6. Other direct operations.—This activity supports the scientific direction, administration, and review and approval functions of the Institute's research programs.

7. Program management.—This activity supports the immediate Office of the Director and those staff units which assist the Director in management and direction of the total program.

1. Cellular and molecular basis of disease program.—The cellular and molecular basis of disease program provides a central point within NIH to which scientists conducting cellular and molecular research can turn for program support in the search for a deeper understanding of disease.

2. Genetics.—The genetics program is directed toward gaining a better understanding of the fundamental processes and mechanisms of inheritance in health and disease. Its ultimate objectives are the prevention, therapy, and cure of genetic ills in man, including those multifactorial diseases with a strong hereditary component, such as diabetes, atherosclerosis, hypertension, and schizophrenia.

3. Pharmacology-toxicology.—The pharmacology-toxicology program embraces all aspects of drug-related research from synthesis and development of new pharmacologically active chemical structures, through elucidation of the mechanisms and sites of action of drugs, to improvement of therapeutic approaches. The multidisciplinary nature of drug research calls for the participation of chemists, basic and clinical pharmacologists and toxicologists, and computer scientists, as well as clinical specialists in diverse areas.

4. Clinical and physiological sciences.—The clinical and physiological sciences program provides support for coordinated basic and clinical investigations relating to trauma and burn research and anesthesiology and fosters a more rapid application in clinical practice of new knowledge gained from research in such areas as cell biology, physiology, biochemistry, pharmacology, behavioral sciences and bioengineering. Trauma and burn research is directed to the discovery of better ways to prevent death from injury, mitigate pain, speed recovery of patients and lessen the extent of disabilities caused by injuries.

5. Biomedical engineering.—The biomedical engineering program is concerned with the theoretical, applied, and development aspects of biomedical engineering. It presently supports programs in the areas of the application of communication and control theory to the study of biological systems, biomedical instrumentation, biomaterials, patient monitoring, computers for biomedical research and the application of the methods and technologies of the physical sciences and engineering for the development and treatment of medical disorders.

6. Minority access to research careers (MARC).—The minority access to research careers program is designed to increase the number of biomedical scientists from minority groups. In addition to strengthening the science teaching at minority colleges by offering fellowships to faculty members who wish to expand their background, support is provided for pregraduate training to students intending to go on to graduate study in the biomedical sciences.

NATIONAL INSTITUTE OF CHILD HEALTH AND HUMAN DEVELOPMENT—Continued

1. Research for mothers and children.—The goal of research for mothers and children is to provide for a healthy adult population by improving the health and well-being of mothers, infants, and families. The programs for mothers and children encompass research on the problems of pregnancy, infancy, mental retardation and developmental disabilities, human learning and behavior, and developmental biology and nutrition. Particular emphasis will be placed on high priority initiatives related to research for the healthy infant. Included is research on high risk pregnancy, with special attention on adolescent pregnancy and diabetes in pregnancy, congenital malformations, Sudden Infant Death Syndrome and mental retardation. Continued emphasis will also be placed on developmental dyslexia and other learning disorders and nutrition.

2. Population.—Population and reproduction research includes contraceptive development and evaluation, the behavioral aspects which lead to decision-making processes involving reproduction and population dynamics, and fundamental research in reproductive biology. Special concern will be given to research on the reproductive processes. Included will be continuing effort to develop new drugs, devices, and other methods for fertility regulation that are safe, effective, inexpensive, reversible, and acceptable to various population groups; as well as research on the alleviation, amelioration, or cure of infertility and reproductive diseases and disorders; and concern with adolescent pregnancies.

3. Intramural research.—The intramural research program, which includes biometry and epidemiology, comprises the Institute's own staff and facilities for conducting research in maternal and child health, and population and reproductive biology.

4. Direct operations.—This activity supports administrative and scientific management of the Center for Research for Mothers and Children and the Center for Population Research, program planning and evaluation, research conferences, and scientific and administrative review and management of grants and contracts.

5. Program management.—The overall administration, direction, and coordination of the Institute's programs are provided for in this activity.

1. Aging.—This program supports grants, contracts, and training awards which have as their goal the development of knowledge about the aging process and the improvement of the health status of the elderly.

2. Intramural research.—Program supports the work of approximately 100 government scientists and distinguished visiting researchers. The primary goal of this research is to improve the quality of life for older persons through development of methods to reduce or prevent physiological and psychological disabilities.

3. Direct operations.—This activity provides for the review, approval, monitoring and evaluation of grants and contracts; the coordination of related aging research within other Federal agencies; the conduct of contract supported information dissemination and public education functions; and other essential services such as the NIH accounting system.

4. Program management.—This activity provides the resources necessary to carry out the overall management and scientific direction of the Institute. Among the functions performed are financial, personnel and administrative management, program planning, coordination of the Institute's activities, and the review of current and proposed programs.

1. Retinal and choroidal diseases.—The retina program supports research to acquire knowledge of how both the retina functions normally and how the retina is damaged by disease; applied studies to develop methods of prevention, early detection, and treatment of retinal disease; and development of animal models of various retinal diseases to facilitate research.

2. Corneal diseases.—Corneal disease research is aimed at reducing the impact of corneal diseases through improved methods of treatment, prevention, and diagnosis.

3. Cataract.—Cataract research attempts to identify the causes of cataract and develop methods for its prevention and improved treatment.

4. Glaucoma.—Glaucoma research studies the cause of glaucoma, development of techniques for prevention and early detection of glaucomatous disease and improved methods of treatment.

5. Sensory-motor disorders and rehabilitation.—This program supports laboratory and clinical studies on the development and function of those activities of the brain and the eye muscles that make vision possible. The goal of these efforts is a better understanding of the causes of low vision and blindness which cannot be traced to specific dysfunctions of the eye itself.

6. Intramural research.—Laboratory and clinical research is focused on developing new and improved techniques for the prevention, diagnosis, and treatment of vision disorders. Also included here is the Office of Biometry and Epidemiology which conducts studies in conjunction with collaborative investigations and other Institute programs.

7. Direct operations.—This activity provides funds for salaries and other expenses connected with personnel engaged in activities relevant to the award of research grants and contracts.

8. Program management.—This activity provides support for the overall administrative management and scientific direction of Institute programs.

Note.—Excludes $77 thousand in 1979 for activities transferred to General departmental management. Comparable amounts for 1977 ($75 thousand) and 1978 ($77 thousand). Excludes $38 thousand in 1979 for activities transferred to the center for disease control. Comparable amounts for 1977 ($44 thousand) and 1978 ($35 thousand) are included.

1. Prediction, detection, and assessment of environmentally caused diseases and disorders.—This activity supports research which will lead to improved ability to predict, detect, and assess the health effects of various levels and kinds of environmental pollutants and toxic agents present in the environment.

2. Mechanisms of environmental diseases and disorders.—This activity supports research by grants and contracts which will improve medicine's ability to prevent and treat diseases and disorders resulting from exposure to toxic environmental agents. Research will improve understanding of mechanisms of toxicity and metabolism and, therefore, allow development and assessment of preventive and therapeutic measures.

3. Environmental health research and manpower development resources.—This activity provides for the development of research and manpower resources throughout the Nation in order to improve and expand efforts on environmental health problems. Supported under this authority are the environmental health sciences centers, marine biomedical research centers, and postdoctoral training in environmental sciences.

4. Intramural research.—This effort consists of a range of complex investigations and studies with major emphases in toxicology, genetics, pharmacology, physiology, biophysics, and biostatistics.

5. Direct operations.—This activity supports the scientific and administrative management of the Institute's grants program and the Institute's assessment for program evaluation and general expense.

6. Program management.—This activity provides for the overall administration, coordination, and direction of the varied programs and activities of the Institute.

RESEARCH RESOURCES

To carry out, except as otherwise provided, sections 301 and 472 of the Public Health Service Act with respect to research resources and general research support grants, [$144,947,000] $149,049,000: Provided, That none of these [funds] funds, with the exception of funds for the Minority Biomedical Support program, shall be used to pay recipients of the general research support grants programs any amount for indirect expenses in connection with such grants. (Additional authorizing legislation to be proposed for $550,000.)

Note.—The appropriation for this account for 1978 had not been enacted at the time this budget was prepared. The 1978 amounts shown below are based upon a continuing resolution in effect through September 30, 1978, that provides for this account at a rate consistent with the amounts that would be provided by the conference version of the Departments of Labor, and Health, Education, and Welfare Appropriation Act, 1978.

The Division of Research Resources supports specialized research resources in the Nation's academic and research institutions for the use of grantees and contractors of the NIH categorical institutes in their biomedical research efforts.

1. Clinical research.—This program supports general clinical research centers which are located in university-affiliated hospitals. These funds provide the settings for the performance of controlled studies by clinical investigators.

2. Biotechnology research.—This program provides support for technological tools such as mass spectroscopy, high voltage electron microscopy, nuclear magnetic resonance technology and digital computers.

3. Laboratory animal sciences and primate research.—This program supports resource projects that provide animals and subhuman primates for biomedical research and enable biomedical scientists to effectively use animals in human health related research.

4. Biomedical research support.—This program provides grants to health professions schools, hospitals, universities, and research institutions. Use of funds will be limited to the support of the research of fellowship recipients and other young investigators and preliminary research of established investigators. Funds will not be used for such indirect costs as recruitment, staff salaries, public relations or general seminars.

5. Minority biomedical support.—This program's mission is to increase the number of minority faculty, students, and investigators engaged in biomedical research. This mission is being accomplished by broadening the opportunities for minority faculty and student investigators to participate in biomedical research.

6. Chemical/biological information-handling research.—This program develops and evaluates new computer-based tools for handling research information about chemical substances and drugs and how they interact with human and animal systems.

7. Direct operations.—This activity supports staff who administer and manage the extramural research resource grants and contracts.

8. Program management.—This program provides the general administration, planning, direction and coordination of the division's programs.

1. Medical library assistance.—This activity funds six grant and contract programs which are designed to support the performance of the Nation's medical libraries by providing fiscal and other assistance in developing better health information services.

2. Direct operations.—This includes the following activities:

(a) The Lister Hill National Center for Biomedical Communications.—This research and development component of the Library is responsible for exploring the application of advances made in the fields of computer and communications technology to health information handling, processing and transfer problems.

(b) The National Medical Audiovisual Center.—The Center is responsible for stimulating the development and use of nonprint media in furtherance of national health goals.

(c) Library operations.—This component acquires, organizes and maintains the Library's archival and reference collection of biomedical literature. It also provides access to that collection through the provision of several services including operation of a nationwide on-line computerized bibliographical retrieval service.

(d) Toxicology information program.—This activity operates specialized data bases on drugs and chemicals toxic to man. It collects and organizes toxicology data from the files of collaborating organizations and prepares and publishes bibliographies and reports, operates on-line files, and has the responsibility of coordinating toxicology activities for HEW.

(e) Program management.—This activity provides the overall executive direction and administrative management necessary for the effective operation of all NLM activities. It also coordinates the NLM's international programs and provides funds for NLM's payment to the NIH management fund.

The NIH management fund was established to facilitate the conduct of NIH central operations. Fund activities are financed primarily from advances and reimbursements from the several institutes. Formulas for determining each institute's contribution reflect usage of services provided by the fund.

1. Computer services provide a central scientific research and computational resource in support of the NIH programs.

2. Research services provide centralized and collaborative engineering, scientific, and technical support for research activities.

3. Engineering services provide engineering, architectural, craft, and labor services required for all of the Institutes.

4. Clinical services provide facilities and services, other than physician care, for an integrated operation of its 541-bed facility servicing nine institutes; developing and recommending policies and rules for the protection and welfare of patients; and conducting research in methods and techniques of hospital administration.

5. Grant review and approval provides staff support services in formulating National Institutes of Health grant and award policies and procedures relating to research and training programs; serves as a staff resource for central receipt and referral of all applications for Public Health Service research and training grant support; provides for the initial scientific review of NIH research and training grant applications; and collects, analyzes, and evaluates management and program data needed in the management of the extramural programs.

6. Administrative services include plant and office house-keeping and protection and security services.

7. Standard level user charges provide for the payment to the General Services Administration for rental space occupied by the National Institutes of Health.

The consolidated working fund supports research under interagency agreements between the National Institute of Environmental Health Sciences and the Environmental Protection Agency and between the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases and the Center for Disease Control.

Research on health effects of pollutants.—Studies under this agreement are currently being conducted by the National Institute of Environmental Health Sciences. They are designed to explain and predict the health effects of pollutants and other potentially hazardous by-products associated with the various energy technologies and conservation proposals being developed in response to the nation's drive toward energy self-sufficiency.

National influenza immunization program.—Under this agreement, the National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases supports research related to the national influenza immunization program.

Saint Elizabeths Hospital provides treatment and care for the mentally ill who are either beneficiaries of the Federal Government or residents of the District of Columbia. Programs are financed by Federal appropriations covering treatment and care of Federal beneficiaries and by reimbursements made to the hospital for services rendered other patient groups, principally residents of the District of Columbia.

Saint Elizabeths Hospital operates both inpatient and outpatient programs as well as a security treatment facility. A community mental health center which serves approximately 175,000 persons of the District of Columbia is also administered by the hospital.

The hospital also conducts clinical research programs and provides clinical training.

The budget assumes that the hospital will remain under Federal control until the hospital is accredited. A 1978 supplemental appropriation will provide funds for construction and renovation to address patient needs and the accreditation requirements identified by the JCAH.

Title VII, part C of Public Health Service Act established a revolving fund from which health professions schools could borrow in order to provide loans to their students. Public Law 89-751, the Allied Health Professions Personnel Training Act of 1966, amended the Public Health Service Act to authorize the Federal Government to pay the difference between the interest paid by students to the schools and the interest payable by the schools to the Government National Mortgage Association (GNMA) and the Treasury.

In 1979, provisions are made for the following Federal payments: $110 thousand to GNMA, which represents the difference between the 5.25% interest rate earned by the student loan paper (promissory notes) and the 6.38% rate paid by GNMA on the $9,669 thousand worth of paper (participation certificates) held by the public; $507 thousand to GNMA which represents the 5.25% interest due on $9,669 thousand worth of pledged notes (school promissory notes) held as collateral; $1,282 thousand to the U.S. Treasury on the difference between the U.S. Treasury interest rate and that paid by the schools on $17,670 thousand loaned to the schools.

Title VI of the Public Health Service Act established a loan guarantee and loan fund for medical facilities in the Treasury, without fiscal year limitation, to discharge responsibilities under guarantees; for payment of interest on the loans to nonprofit sponsors which are guaranteed; for direct loans to public agencies which are sold and guaranteed; for payment of interest on direct loans which are sold and guaranteed; and for repurchase of direct loans which have been sold and guaranteed.

The National Health Planning and Resources Development Act, Public Law 93-641, also established a loan guarantee and loan fund which is being consolidated with the aforementioned fund. This fund authorizes direct loans to nonprofit sponsors as well as public agencies with guaranteed loans to nonprofit sponsors.

The fund consists of $50 million restricted for use in fulfilling guarantees in event of default; $30 million serves as a revolving amount from which direct loans are made; and funds required to provide for interest subsidy payments on both direct and guaranteed loans.

The request for $42 million for interest subsidies in 1979 is required to honor the interest subsidies for loan commitments made under title VI.

About $1.4 billion in direct and guaranteed loans will be outstanding in 1979.

Scientific activities overseas (special foreign currency program) are supported entirely by foreign currencies owned by the United States abroad. These currencies are available for the Department's use in those countries where the supply of U.S.-owned currency exceeds normal U.S. Government needs for at least 2 years. For 1979, the Treasury Department has designated five excess currency countries. These countries are: Burma, the Arab Republic of Egypt, Guinea, India, and Pakistan. Authorization for the activities funded by the health agencies with these currencies is provided by the Agricultural Trade Development and Assistance Act of 1954, as amended; and the International Health Research Act of 1960.

The general objective of this program is to support health research and related activities which will contribute to U.S. health programs, while being of mutual interest to the host country, its institutions, and scientists.

The 1979 request of $11,387 thousand in new obligational authority is required to meet expected program requirements in Egypt, Pakistan, and India.

This is a public enterprise revolving fund. Direct loans will be sold to the Federal Financing Bank to provide funds for new loans, and loans thus sold will be guaranteed. In 1975, $35,000 thousand was appropriated to the Health Services Administration as capital for the revolving fund.

It is anticipated that 30 loans averaging $2,000 thousand per loan will be made during 1978 and an additional 30 loans averaging $2,500 thousand per loan will be made during 1979. It is projected that loans totaling $91,098 thousand will be sold to the Federal Financing Bank in 1979.

SERVICE AND SUPPLY FUND—Continued

This fund finances common user supply and service operations of PHS. It is reimbursed from the appropriations supporting the programs benefited (42 U.S.C. 231).

1. Supply distribution sales.—This activity maintains inventories of medical stock and supplies to meet, in part, the requirements of PHS and other Government agencies.

2. Data management services.—This activity provides data processing services for PHS and other Federal agencies.

3. Fiscal services.—This activity provides accounting services for three of the PHS agencies and the office of the Assistant Secretary for Health.

4. Parklawn services.—This activity provides centralized services to occupants of the Parklawn complex consisting of procurement, motorpool, Parklawn Library, tort claims, printing and reproduction, mail and messenger, and building and space management.

5. Central personnel services.—This activity provides centralized training and education services for PHS employees housed in the Parklawn complex.

6. Commissioned officer personnel.—This activity represents the personnel management program for the PHS Commissioned Corps.

Medicaid vendor payments.—The purpose of the medicare program, which became effective January 1966, is to assist States in providing medical care to their low-income population. Federal matching payments for medical assistance under title XIX of the Social Security Act (medicare) are authorized for States having plans approved by the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare.

All AFDC recipients are eligible for medicare benefits. In addition, 35 States provide coverage to all persons receiving supplemental security income (SSI) payments. In 15 States, medical coverage of SSI recipients is limited to those who can meet additional eligibility criteria, although those persons may deduct their medical expenses from their income to establish eligibility. Also, 33 States have elected to cover medically needy persons.

2. State and local administration.—Efforts to assist States to improve administration of the medicare program is a major thrust of HEW. Assistance to States in the establishment of more effective management systems is expected to have a major impact on curtailing provider fraud and abuse.

This appropriation provides for payments from Federal funds to the health care trust funds for certain types of benefits and related administrative costs not financed by contributions from workers and employers. Part of the cost of utilization reviews by professional standards review organizations and delegated hospitals will be paid to the trust funds by this appropriation. The 1979 request is for $7,763,913 thousand and covers the following payments:

1. Military services credits (HI).—A payment of $141,000 thousand to the health care trust funds is requested as reimbursement for benefits based on non-contributory military service credits of veterans of World War II and certain veterans of the post-World War II period. Sections 217(g) and 229(b) of the Social Security Act authorize such payments, including reimbursement for administrative expenses and interest lost to the trust funds.

2. Supplementary medical insurance (SMI).—An estimated $6,853,064 thousand will be required in 1979 to finance the Government's contribution to the Federal Supplementary Medical Insurance Trust Fund. Federal payments, combined with premiums from enrollees and interest earned by the Supplementary Medical Insurance Trust Fund, must be sufficient to finance the estimated incurred cost of benefits and administration. The standard monthly premium rate, which is updated every July, is expected to be $8.20 at the start of 1979, and to increase to $8.70 effective July 1979.

3. Hospital insurance for uninsured.—A payment of $733,849 thousand to the Federal Hospital Insurance Trust Fund is budgeted for 1979 to cover the costs of hospital and related care for certain individuals aged 65 and over who are not insured under the social security or railroad retirement systems. The uninsured group covered by this provision includes persons who retired before their occupations were covered by social security and widows whose husbands died prior to earning coverage under social security.

4. Professional standards review organizations (PSRO's) activities for medicaid.—Funds are budgeted for review of the quality and appropriateness of health care services provided under medicaid. The medicaid program is required to restore to the trust funds its share of costs related to the number of medicaid admissions reviewed by PSRO's.

QUALITY CARE MANAGEMENT, RESEARCH AND ADMINISTRATION*

*See "Legislative Program" (end of this chapter) for additional information.

For carrying out, except as otherwise provided, titles XI, XVIII, and XIX of the Social Security Act, and sections 1526 and 1533(d) of the Public Health Service Act, $115,069,000, together with not to exceed $794,738,000, to be transferred to this appropriation as authorized by section 201(g)(1) of the Social Security Act, from the Federal Hospital Insurance and the Federal Supplementary Medical Insurance Trust Funds referred to therein: Provided, That such amounts as are required shall be available to pay travel expenses either on an actual cost or commuted basis, to an individual for travel incident to medical examinations, and to parties, their representatives and all reasonably necessary witnesses for travel within the United States, Puerto Rico, and the Virgin Islands to reconsideration interviews and to proceedings before administrative law judges under title XVIII of the Social Security Act. Provided further, That $20,000,000 of the foregoing amount shall be appropriated for use pursuant to section 3679 of the Revised Statutes (31 U.S.C. 665), only to the extent necessary to process workloads not anticipated in the budget estimates and to meet mandatory increases in costs of agencies or organizations with which agreements have been made to participate in the administration of title XVIII and after maximum absorption of such costs within the remainder of the existing limitation has been achieved.

The hospital insurance program affords protection against the high costs of hospital and related care to most individuals age 65 and over, and to disabled people under age 65 entitled for at least 24 months to social security or railroad retirement cash benefits. The program also covers treatment of chronic kidney disease for people under age 65 entitled to monthly social security benefits, for insured workers, and for spouses or dependent children of such insured or entitled individuals.

For persons on the social security and railroad retirement rolls, the hospital insurance program is financed by contributions based on earnings from workers, employers, and self-employed individuals. The maximum taxable earnings base is the same for the hospital insurance program as for the social security old-age, survivors, and disability insurance programs. Under present law, the rate applied to earnings up to this maximum was 0.9% through calendar year 1977. Beginning January 1, 1978, the rate increased to 1.00%. Costs for uninsured persons 65 or older in 1974, who met certain transition insured status requirements, are financed from general revenues of the Treasury. Uninsured persons reaching age 65 who cannot be covered under the foregoing provision of law can enroll in the program on a voluntary basis, but must pay the full cost of the protection. The monthly rate was $54 for the year beginning July 1, 1977. Effective July 1, 1978, the rate is expected to increase to $63; and on July 1, 1979, to $71.

1. Benefit payments.—The hospital insurance program provides protection against the cost of inpatient hospital services, posthospital home health services, and post-hospital skilled nursing facility services, with specified deductibles and coinsurance amounts. Benefit payments beginning in 1977 also include funding of the direct review costs for PSRO's. The following table shows comparative data for 1977 through 1979 (in millions) on hospital insurance beneficiaries and on benefit payments classified by type of coverage:

The growth in benefit payments from 1977 to 1979 results primarily from increases in the cost of medical services and in the size of the covered population.

2. Construction.—The costs of site acquisition, design, and construction of office facilities for the Social Security Administration are financed by trust funds.

3. Administration.—This activity reflects administrative expenses attributable to the hospital insurance program by the Health Care Financing Administration, the Social Security Administration, other components of the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, and by the Treasury Department.

4. Experiments and demonstrations.—The Health Care Financing Administration supports experiments and demonstration projects to improve the efficiency of the medicare program.

The supplementary medical insurance program affords protection against the costs of physician services and certain other medical services. Most individuals age 65 and over are eligible for this protection, and about 95% of those eligible have elected coverage. Disabled people under age 65 entitled for at least 24 months to monthly social security or railroad retirement cash benefits also are eligible for this protection. The program also covers treatment of chronic kidney disease for eligible people under age 65 who elect to enroll.

The cost of supplementary medical insurance is financed by premium payments from enrollees together with contributions from the general revenues of the Treasury. The Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare is required by law to promulgate the standard monthly premium rate to be paid by enrollees. The SMI premium rate can rise by no more than the percentage by which cash benefits increased since the last premium raise. Effective July 1, 1977, the premium rate has been $7.70. The rate for enrollees included in this budget is $8.20, effective July 1, 1978, and an estimate of $8.70, effective July 1, 1979.

1. Benefit payments.—The supplementary medical insurance program provides protection against the cost of physician services, home health services not covered under the hospital insurance program, outpatient services, and certain other medical costs, with specified deductibles and coinsurance. The following table shows comparative data for 1977 through 1979 (in millions) on supplementary medical insurance beneficiaries and benefit payments, classified by type of coverage.

Health Care Financing Administration is responsible for administering the health insurance program for the aged and disabled. The principal costs for administration are financed by this appropriation for 1978 and will be financed by the Quality care management, research and administration appropriation in 1979; however, there are certain costs of other components of the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare and other Federal agencies which relate to administration of this program and are shown elsewhere in the budget.

The administrative costs budgeted for this program cover the claims payment functions performed by the contractors, services performed by the State agencies in certifying and consulting with providers of services, and all work performed by the Health Care Financing Administration in directing the program.

NOTES

Includes $500 thousand in 1978 and $500 thousand in 1979 for activities previously financed from "Salaries and expenses." Comparable amount in 1977, $168 thousand.

Excludes $100 thousand in 1979 support and innovation transferred to "Library resources" for title IV-B hold harmless. Comparable amount in 1978, $100 thousand, and in 1977, $167 thousand.

Request for appropriation for the broadcasting facilities portion of the educational broadcasting facilities program will be included in the Allowance for Contingencies. Comparable amount in 1978, $31,968 thousand; in 1977, $32 thousand.

The ethnic heritage studies program will be replaced by a new social history initiative under the Endowment for the Humanities.

1. Grants for disadvantaged.—Grants are made to local educational agencies on a formula basis to help them improve their educational programs in order to meet the special educational needs of educationally deprived children. In addition, grants are made to State agencies for the education of handicapped children, dependent and neglected children and orphans and juvenile delinquents in State institutions, and for children of migratory workers. It is estimated that over 6.5 million children in about 14,000 local school districts and from over 300 State agencies will participate in school year 1979-80. This includes an estimated 216,500 in nonpublic schools. Contracts are also awarded to support program evaluation and other studies.

Since 1975, funds under this program have been appropriated a year in advance of their use by State and local organizations. The present request would be used for school year 1979-80 and would become available on July 1, 1979, and remain available through September 30, 1980. An additional request for grants for disadvantaged is included under the Legislative Program.

2. Support and innovation grants.—Formula grants are made available to the States under this consolidated program to provide support for strengthening State departments of education, supplementary education services, nutrition and health programs, and dropout prevention. Since 1975, funds under this program have been appropriated a year in advance of their use by school districts. The present request would be used for school year 1979-80 to become available on July 1, 1979, and remain available through September 30, 1980. A hold harmless amount is earmarked to insure that no State receives less in 1980 than it received in 1979.

3. Bilingual education.—This program supports local bilingual education classroom instructional projects and assists in developing State, local, and university capabilities for training bilingual personnel and in providing resources for the development, assessment, and dissemination of bilingual instructional material. Research and evaluation studies also are supported.

In 1979, an estimated 564 classroom projects enrolling approximately 253,125 children and providing training for 56,200 teachers, paraprofessionals, and administrators in the area of bilingual education will be funded.

4. Right to read.—This discretionary grant program provides facilitating services and resources to stimulate educational institutions, government agencies and private organizations to improve and expand their activities related to reading. The right-to-read program is both an impetus to, and a component of, a large national reading effort.

5. Follow through.—This program is designed to test various models of primary education programs in order to determine their effectiveness in educating children from low-income families. The 1979 request will initiate a phaseout starting in the 1979-80 school year by funding only those approximately 59,020 currently enrolled students in 162 projects. In order to disseminate improved compensatory educational practices, sites determined to be successful would continue to be funded as "lighthouses."

6. Educational broadcasting facilities.—Matching grants are made for acquisition and installation of electronic equipment to be used in noncommercial educational broadcasting stations to serve the educational, cultural, and informational needs of Americans at home and school. Projects demonstrating how nonbroadcast facilities can be used to distribute information on health, education, and social services also are supported. With the exception of this nonbroadcast telecommunications demonstrations activity, in 1979 the request for appropriation for broadcasting activities will be included in the Allowance for Contingencies.

7. Ellender fellowships.—A grant is awarded to the Close Up Foundation to support approximately 1,900 fellowships per year to students and their teachers to familiarize them with the operations of the Federal Government. No funds are requested in 1979.

8. Drug abuse education.—Grants are made to develop drug education leadership teams at the State and local level through a variety of training programs, and to provide technical assistance to such teams to aid them in assessing local drug problems, develop programs and skilled leadership to combat their causes, and evaluate existing drug problems. In 1979, five training centers and 320 school teams will be supported.

9. Environmental education.—Grants are awarded to both public and private nonprofit organizations and agencies to assist in development of programs at all levels of formal education and for nonformal adult education. In 1979, 86 awards will be made.

10. Ethnic heritage studies.—Grants and contracts are awarded to public and private nonprofit educational agencies, institutions, and organizations to assist them in planning, developing, establishing, and operating ethnic heritage studies programs. No funds are included in the 1979 Office of Education budget request because the program will be replaced by a new social history initiative under the Endowment for the Humanities.

11. State equalization.—Grants are awarded to the States to reimburse them for costs incurred in the development of school finance plans conforming with Federal equity guidelines. Reimbursement rates, based on population rankings of the States, range from $100 thousand to $1 million, with total entitlement at $13.5 million. In 1977, the Congress appropriated $10.5 million, in addition to the $3 million made available in 1976. This completed the requirements of this program on a national basis. Consequently, no funds were requested for 1978. For 1979, $2 million is included for equalization studies under Policy Research in the Departmental Management appropriation.

12. Assistance to Indochinese refugee children.—Grants were made in 1977 to State and local educational agencies to meet the cost of providing Indochinese refugee children educational services necessary to enable these children to achieve a satisfactory level of performance and to support additional basic instructional services directly attributable to the presence in the school district of such children. No funds were requested in 1978 and none are requested in 1979.

1. Financial assistance to local educational agencies (LEAs) and Non-LEAs.—Grants are made on an entitlement basis to applicant local educational agencies for supplemental elementary and secondary programs to meet the special educational needs of Indian children. In addition, 10% of the amount available for LEAs is reserved for grants to Indian-controlled schools on or near reservations which are not LEAs. It is anticipated that approximately 1,156 awards will be made in 1979.

2. Special programs for Indian children.—Grants are made on a competitive basis to State and local educational agencies, federally supported elementary and secondary schools for Indian children, and to Indian tribes, organizations, and institutions, as well as to institutions of higher education, and private nonprofit elementary and secondary schools to improve the educational opportunities of Indian children. It is estimated that in 1979 approximately 112 awards will be made. In addition, 275 fellowships will be awarded in 1979 to individuals for professional or graduate study in the areas of engineering, medicine, law, business, forestry, and related areas.

3. Special programs for Indian adults.—Grants are made to Indian tribes and organizations and to State and local educational agencies in order to support pilot, planning, and demonstration projects, with particular emphasis in the two critical areas of basic literacy and high school equivalency. It is anticipated that 80 awards will be made in 1979.

4. Program administration.—Funds for this activity support the salaries, travel, and other administrative expenses of the Office of Indian Education and the National Advisory Council on Indian Education, as well as planning and evaluation studies necessary for program support.

1. Maintenance and operations.—Payments are made directly to school districts to assist in the operation of schools where enrollments and the availability of revenues from local sources have been adversely affected by Federal activities. The 1978 appropriation provided 88% to 100% of entitlement for 3(a) category children (those whose parents live and work on Federal property); 53% to 60% of entitlement for 3(b) category children (those whose parents live or work on Federal property); 25% of entitlement for children associated with low-rent public housing; 57% to 100% of entitlement for special provisions; and 100% of entitlement for payments to other Federal agencies. In 1978, payments were made to over 4,000 school districts based on 2.5 million federally connected children. These funds were sufficient to fund payment tiers I and II. In addition, $51,000 thousand were provided for hold-harmless provisions B (base closings) and C (out of county, out of State). In 1977, funds were insufficient within the school assistance in federally affected areas (SAFA) appropriation to absorb the cost of disaster payments. To meet statutory obligations for disaster assistance, the Office of Education used $5,207 thousand from the Elementary and secondary education appropriation and $10,000 thousand from the Higher education appropriation as authorized by section 7(c) of Public Law 81-874.

For 1979, amounts shown here are those required under existing legislation to carry out the same program policy as in 1978 without any reforms. Under new legislation proposed for later transmittal, a series of reforms designed to reflect more accurately the burden of Federal impact is offered.

In 1979, amounts for major disaster assistance are budgeted separately. In addition, new legislation is proposed to repeal pinpoint disaster payments.

2. Construction.—Payments are made to provide assistance in construction of school facilities in areas where enrollments and the availability of revenues from local sources have been adversely affected by Federal activities. In 1978, 10 new projects and 5 ongoing projects were funded, providing new or improved facilities for approximately 7,000 children. Emphasis in funding is placed on section 5, construction assistance to local educational agencies impacted by Federal activities; section 9, construction assistance to local educational agencies resulting from temporary increases of federally connected children; section 10, schools constructed on Federal property; and section 14, construction assistance for children residing on Indian lands. For 1979, funds will continue to be allocated among sections 5, 10, and 14, with significant emphasis placed on the construction of school facilities for children residing on Indian lands and on school construction on military installations where local educational agencies cannot provide free public education for children residing thereon.

Civil rights education.....	160	168	-----

Under this account, support is provided to local educational agencies and nonprofit organizations for the purpose of meeting problems incident to school desegregation. This assistance is provided under the Emergency School Aid Act (ESAA) as amended. The act reserves specific percentages of the total appropriation under section 704(a) for separate ESAA activities. Additional support for desegregation activities is provided under title IV of the Civil Rights Act of 1964.

1. National competition projects.—Major activities include bilingual education projects, educational television projects, magnet schools, pairing with businesses and universities, and development of plans for neutral site schools. Special programs and projects are for meeting the emergency needs of desegregating districts and for activities not otherwise funded under the act, e.g., special arts, math, student concerns, and U.S. territories. Awards are made on the basis of national competition and are not subject to the State apportionment formula which is applicable to three ESAA activities. In 1979, authorizations for magnet schools and a part of special programs and projects expire. Section 414 of the General Education Provisions Act extends these authorizations for 1 year. Awards in 1978 and 1979 are expected to be:

Bilingual education.....	32	32
Educational television.....	6	6
Special programs and projects.....	140	145
Evaluation.....	5	6
Magnet schools, pairing, and neutral sites.....	32	32

2. State apportioned projects.—These projects are the principal source of funding available for providing grants to local educational agencies requiring desegregation assistance. Funds are apportioned among the States in accordance with the distribution of their minority group children aged 5-17. Awards are made in three categories: (1) grants to local educational agencies (LEAs) to meet educational needs incident to elementary and secondary school desegregation; (2) grants and contracts to nonprofit organizations for conducting special programs supportive of LEA desegregation efforts; and (3) grants to LEAs to support unusually promising pilot programs for overcoming the adverse effects of minority group isolation. Awards in 1978 and 1979 for State apportioned projects are expected to be:

Pilot programs.....	180	180
Grants to nonprofit organizations.....	215	215
General grants to LEA's.....	430	430

3. Training and advisory services.—Awards are made to render assistance in three areas: (1) the preparation, adoption, and implementation of desegregation plans for public schools; (2) the preparation and implementation of bilingual programs for minority children who are not fluent in the English language; and (3) finding means to eliminate sexual discrimination in educational institutions. For these purposes, funds are made available to general assistance centers, State educational agencies, local educational agencies, and training institutes. In addition to regular grants to LEAs for sex discrimination, a discretionary account funding LEAs on an as-need basis throughout the year for race and national origin is proposed in 1979.

1. State assistance.—(a) State grant program.—This advance funded program supports the efforts of the States in providing handicapped children education and related services that are free, appropriate, individualized, and available to all children aged 3–18 by September 1, 1978, and aged 3–21 by September 1, 1980. Formula grants are made to States to assist in the initiation, expansion, and improvement of programs and projects for education of handicapped children at the preschool, elementary, and secondary levels. The current request covers school year 1979–80, and provides for 12% of excess costs.

(b) Preschool incentive grants.—Grants to States support special education and related services to children aged 3–5. Funds under this advance funded program will be used to increase and improve State and local programs for handicapped preschool children during school year 1979–80.

(c) Deaf-blind centers.—This forward-funded program awards contracts to 10 regional centers to provide appropriate educational, diagnostic, and related services to deaf-blind children and their families through a series of sub-contracts. The centers also initiate whatever ancillary services are necessary to assure that these children can achieve their full potential for useful participation in society.

2. Special population programs.—(a) Severely handicapped projects.—Contracts are awarded to establish and expand programs and practices to meet the educational training needs of severely handicapped children and youth. An estimated 3,100 handicapped children will participate in 38 projects during the 1979–80 school year.

(b) Specific learning disabilities.—The authorization for this model development program expired on September 30, 1977. Projects to improve and expand educational and training services for children with specific learning disabilities will be continued under the innovation and development activity.

(c) Early childhood education.—Demonstrations, technical assistance, and dissemination activities are supported to provide educational, diagnostic, and consultative services for preschool handicapped children and their parents. In 1979, an estimated 183 projects will be supported.

3. Regional vocational, adult, and postsecondary programs.—Contracts are awarded to develop and operate regional programs for deaf and other handicapped persons in the area of vocational, technical, postsecondary, or adult education, building on existing resources and facilities currently serving regional needs. With this request, an estimated 17 projects will be supported benefiting 3,180 participants.

4. Innovation and development.—Grants and contracts are awarded for curriculum and materials development, research in personnel development, and other research and development projects, including those in the field of physical education and recreation research for handicapped children. In addition, projects previously funded under the specific learning disabilities program will be continued.

5. Media and resource services.—(a) Media services and captioned films.—Contracts and grants are made for the acquisition, captioning, production, and distribution of films and other educational media, and the training of persons in the use of such materials for the handicapped.

(b) Regional resource centers.—Contracts are awarded for the operation of 14 regional resource centers to develop and apply methods of appraisal and special educational programming practices for handicapped children, including referral, placement, and followup services.

(c) Recruitment and information.—This program is designed to encourage people to enter the career field of special education, and to provide information and referral services to parents of handicapped children. In 1979, 13 continuation projects will be supported.

6. Special education manpower development.—Grants are awarded to support training of teachers, supervisors, speech correctionists, researchers, and other professionals and paraprofessionals in fields related to the education of the handicapped in regular and special classrooms. An estimated 91,000 people will receive training in 316 projects in 1979.

7. Special studies.—Contracts are awarded for the development of validated evaluation procedures designed to measure the effectiveness of education programs for handicapped children so that compliance with provisions of the State grant program may be monitored.

1. Vocational education.—Formula grants are made to the States to provide for and improve vocational education opportunities for 18,310,000 secondary, postsecondary, and adult students. Basic grants to States may be used to support, at the discretion of each State, any type of vocational education program, including utilization of a 20% set-aside for program improvement and supportive service activities. Separate funds are allocated to States to support special programs for disadvantaged students; that is, those having academic or economic handicaps requiring special assistance to enable them to succeed in vocational education programs and to support State advisory councils. The consumer and homemaking State grant program and State advisory councils also will be supported.

In addition to the State formula grant programs, several national programs are administered: A program to bring about improved practices and opportunities in vocational education through research and development, curriculum development and training activities; National and State Occupational Information Coordinating Committees establishing a system to collect and coordinate program and employment data; bilingual vocational training; Indian vocational education programs; and a National Center for Research in Vocational Education.

2. Adult education.—Formula grants are made to the States and territories for the purpose of eliminating functional illiteracy among the Nation's adults 16 years of age and older who lack a 12th grade level of education. Ten percent of each State's allotment is reserved for special projects and teacher training. The request includes a forward-funded appropriation of $90,750 thousand to fund school year 1979-80. It is estimated that 1,992,000 adults will be enrolled in adult education classes at an average cost of $41 per student.

3. Assistance to adult Indochinese refugees.—No funds are requested for this program. Legislation has expired.

The following programs were formerly included under Higher education (75-0293). The new listing for 1979 reflects the reorganization of the programs into two separate accounts, Student assistance (75-0260), and Higher and continuing education (75-0293).

1. Basic opportunity grants.—The principal form of student assistance is basic educational opportunity grants, which will provide entitlement awards for over 2 million full- and part-time undergraduate students in academic year 1979-80.

The size of the grant is determined on the basis of the expected family and student contribution, specified by the needs analysis system approved annually by Congress, up to a maximum of one-half of the student's cost of attendance. The maximum grant of $1,800, which is an increase of $200 above the previous year's grant, and the increased asset reserve will allow for greater participation of students from middle income families. Included in the funds requested for administrative costs is $2,500 thousand which will be used to conduct a comprehensive quality control study and support initial validation activities.

Institutional allowances will be provided in 1979 to institutions of higher education to increase consumer information dissemination for prospective and enrolled students, and interim validation activities, while broader and supporting quality control initiatives are underway.

2. Supplemental opportunity grants.—This program makes awards to qualified postsecondary students of exceptional financial need. Grant size ranges from $200 to $1,500, or up to one-half of the total of financial aid provided to the student through the institution, whichever is the lesser amount. An estimated 456,000 students will benefit from this program with awards averaging $570.

3. Work study.—This program provides part-time employment to financially needy students as a means of financing their postsecondary education. Federal funds contribute 80% of the student's wages with 20% paid by the employer. An estimated 810,000 students will benefit from this program with awards averaging $610.

4. Direct loans.—Federal contributions to student loan funds at eligible postsecondary institutions provide long-term, low-interest loans to financially needy students to enable them to pursue their education at these institutions. Approximately 853,000 students will obtain loans under this program, loans average $710. Funds requested under teacher cancellations will reimburse institutions for loans made to borrowers who subsequently undertook specified types of teaching or military service.

5. Incentive grants for State scholarships.—This program encourages the expansion of scholarship support to financially needy students by States. Federal contributions to these programs must be matched by an equal amount by the State. Over 300,000 students will be served by this program.

² $3,254,503 thousand has been transferred to Student assistance (75-0260-0-1-502) and the Bankhead-Jones program ($11,500 thousand) has been transferred to the Department of Agriculture as mandated by Public Law 95-113.

Note.—Excludes $3,254,503 thousand in 1978 and $3,278,243 thousand in 1979 for activities transferred to Student assistance. Comparable amounts for 1977 ($2,715,513 thousand) is included.

The student assistance programs were formerly included under Higher education (75-0293). The new listing for 1979 reflects the reorganization of these programs into two separate accounts, Student assistance (75-0260) and Higher and continuing education (75-0293). In addition, subsidized insured loans are now contained under the Student Loan Insurance Fund (75-4308).

1. Student assistance.—Student assistance for financially needy students to pursue postsecondary education is provided through the programs of basic opportunity grants, work-study, direct loans and incentive grants for State scholarships. These programs are now listed under the separate account of Student assistance (75-0260).

2. Special programs for the disadvantaged.—Funds are requested for talent search, upward bound, special services, and educational opportunity centers programs which are designed to encourage and assist low-income youths who have the potential to enter, continue or resume postsecondary educational activities. An estimated 375,000 students will be aided. Funds will also support training of institutional staff to help personnel administer these programs more effectively.

3. Educational information centers.—This program provides grants to States to establish, plan, and operate centers to provide educational information, guidance, counseling, and referral for all individuals including residents of rural areas. Since other programs, such as special programs for the disadvantaged and the campus based student assistance programs, offer these same services, no funding for this program is requested in 1979.

4. Institutional assistance—(a) Strengthening developing institutions.—Funds are requested for this program which consists of basic and advanced institutional development components. This program provides assistance to strengthen academic, administrative, and student service programs in schools with high percentages of minority students and students from low-income families so that these institutions might enter the mainstream of academic life. Approximately 200 institutions will receive aid.

(b) Language training and area studies.—Funds are requested for both the title VI of the National Defense Education Act and the Fulbright-Hays programs. The NDEA VI program is designed to strengthen American postsecondary educational institutions' academic base for teaching and research in modern foreign languages, area studies, and world affairs through the support of centers, fellowships, and research. The Fulbright-Hays program supports fellowships, group projects abroad, and foreign curriculum consultants.

(c) University community services.—This program authorizes grants to States to strengthen the community service and continuing education programs of colleges for the purpose of assisting in the solution of community problems. This function is considered a State and local responsibility and funding is not requested in 1979.

(d) Aid to land-grant colleges.—The annual appropriation of the aid to land-grant colleges program which supports instruction in agriculture, the mechanical arts, the English language, and various branches of the sciences in land-grant institutions has been transferred by Public Law 95-113 to the Department of Agriculture. The permanent appropriation of the aid to land-grant colleges program, which shares the same goals as the annual appropriation, remains.

(e) State postsecondary education commissions.—This program, which supports State initiatives in postsecondary education planning and administration of Federal programs at the State level, is considered a State responsibility. Therefore, no funds are requested for these commissions in 1979.

(f) Veterans' cost of instruction.—This program provides grants to postsecondary institutions to encourage recruitment of, and special services to, eligible veterans. In 1979, services at the current level will be provided to a reduced eligible population.

(g) Cooperative education.—This program, designed to assist postsecondary institutions plan and administer cooperative education programs in which employers pay students for periods of work alternated with study, has largely accomplished its original purpose. In 1979, certain continuations will be funded and a phase out of the program will be initiated.

(h) Construction.—Funds are requested in 1979 for interest subsidy grants to meet mandatory costs of prior year commitments.

5. Personnel development.—(a) Graduate/professional educational opportunities.—Funds are requested to attract and assist able students, including encouraging minority candidates, to pursue academic and professional careers of national priority, and to strengthen the graduate education programs which prepare students for those careers. In 1979, a substantial expansion of this program is proposed to increase the number of individuals benefitting from this program.

(b) Legal training for the disadvantaged.—In 1979, funds are requested for this program which supports fellowships to persons of ability from disadvantaged backgrounds to undertake legal training.

(c) Law school clinical experience.—This program provides training grants or contracts to law schools to help establish or expand programs which provide clinical experience to students in the practice of law. No funds are requested for this program in 1979.

(d) Public service fellowships.—This program is designed to strengthen public service education programs at institutions of higher education and to support the preparation of graduate and professional students in those programs. No funds are requested for this program in 1979.

(e) Mining fellowships.—This program assists graduate students of exceptional ability and demonstrated financial need to undertake advanced study in domestic mining and mineral fuel conservation. No funds are requested for this program in 1979.

(f) College teacher fellowships.—The eligible population is now exhausted for this program and no funds are required.

6. Wayne Morse Chair of Law and Politics.—In 1978, the appropriation for the Wayne Morse Chair of Law and Politics at the University of Oregon fulfilled all the statutory funding requirements. Therefore, additional funding is unnecessary.

1. Public libraries.—Grants are made to States to encourage and assist States in the development of public library services that can fulfill the educational and informational needs of the American people. Also, grants are made to States to encourage cooperative networking among all types of libraries. The number of disadvantaged persons served is estimated to be about 29 million; also about 130 cooperative library projects would be funded.

2. School libraries and instructional resources.—This activity is a consolidation of the following programs: school library resources; equipment and minor remodeling, excluding loans to nonprofit, private schools; and guidance, counseling, and testing. Funding of this program is requested on an advance funded basis for use in the subsequent year. These funds would provide services to about 46 million public and private school children. A hold harmless amount is earmarked to insure that no State receives less in 1980 than it received in 1979.

3. College library resources.—Basic grants, not to exceed $5 thousand, are awarded to eligible institutions of higher education and other public and private nonprofit library institutions for the acquisition of library resources. No funds are requested for 1979.

4. Training and demonstrations.—Grants are awarded to support the training of paraprofessionals and professionals in library and information science for services to all types of libraries, through fellowships, traineeships, and training institutes. Also, grants are awarded to improve the Nation's libraries and improve training in librarianship through support of exemplary demonstration projects, and to disseminate the results. No funds are requested for 1979.

5. Strengthening research libraries.—Grants are awarded to assist major research libraries in maintaining and strengthening their collections (constituting a national resource essential to research and scholarship) and to assist these libraries in making their holdings available to other libraries whose users have need for research materials.

6. College instructional equipment.—Grants are awarded for the acquisition of audiovisual and laboratory equipment and closed-circuit television equipment and materials and related minor remodeling on a matching basis to accredited public and nonprofit, private postsecondary institutions, including trade and vocational schools, as well as combinations of such institutions. No funds are requested for 1979.

7. Guidance and counseling.—Grants were awarded on a one-time basis in 1977 to assist States through programs, projects, and leadership activities designed to expand and strengthen guidance and counseling services in elementary and secondary schools. No funds were appropriated in 1978 and none are requested for 1979.

SPECIAL PROJECTS AND TRAINING*

*See "Legislative Program" (end of this chapter) for additional information.

1. Special projects.—Activities included are authorized by the Special Projects Act contained in the Education Amendments of 1974. Under this authority, grants and contracts are awarded to experiment with new educational and administrative methods, techniques, and practices; to meet special or unique educational needs or problems; and to place special emphasis on national education priorities. A portion of the funds are set aside for priorities specified in the law. The remaining funds are for activities carried out at the discretion of the Commissioner of Education. In 1979, legislation will be proposed to permit increased flexibility in funding discretionary activities.

(a) Metric education.—Projects support activities in State and local educational agencies, universities and colleges, and public and private nonprofit organizations to prepare individuals to use the metric system.

(b) Gifted and talented.—Projects support activities in State and local educational agencies to strengthen leadership and programing for gifted and talented children. In addition, models of exemplary practices are developed which target on special needs of the gifted. Informational products are developed for dissemination to the field.

(c) Community schools.—Projects support educational, recreational, cultural, and other related community services in accordance with needs, interests, and concerns of the community.

(d) Career education.—Projects develop information about the needs for career education, develop State and local plans for implementing career education, provide for the training and retraining of persons for conducting career education programs, promote a national dialog on career education, and demonstrate the best of current career education programs and practices.

(e) Consumers' education.—Projects fund activities at the elementary and secondary, postsecondary, and adult education levels to promote consumer education through research, demonstration, and pilot projects.

(f) Women's educational equity.—Projects support activities to stimulate institutional change and to otherwise promote educational equity for women at all levels of education through the improvement and expansion of innovative programs.

(g) Arts in education.—Grants and contracts are made to encourage and assist State and local education agencies to establish and conduct programs, through arrangements with the John F. Kennedy Center for the Performing Arts, in which the arts are an integral part of elementary and secondary school education.

(h) Packaging and dissemination.—This program provides for the systematic dissemination and diffusion to school districts throughout the country of educational practices and products originally developed in Office of Education supported programs and validated by the Joint Dissemination Review Panel (JDRP) of the Education Division (DHEW).

(i) Educational television programing.—This program provides assistance to support the development, production, installation, and utilization of innovative educational television programs for use by children and adults in their home and school environments.

2. Educational personnel training. (a) Teacher corps.—Grants are awarded to institutions of higher education and State educational agencies to improve the educational opportunities of children from low-income families by encouraging broader and improved teacher training programs. In addition, contracts are made with institutions of higher education, State educational agencies, and local educational agencies (LEAs) for technical assistance and for dissemination, demonstration, and evaluation activities.

(b) Teacher centers.—Awards are made to LEAs and institutions of higher education for the establishment of centers which are designed to give elementary and secondary schoolteachers maximum feasible control over their own inservice training and over the production and modification of school curricula to meet the special needs of their students.

3. Planning and evaluation.—Grants are awarded to and contracts made with public and private organizations for planning and evaluation studies of programs administered by the Office of Education. Seventeen studies initiated in 1978 will be continued. New awards will be granted in 1979 for studies on bilingual education, compensatory education, student financial assistance, occupational, and handicapped programs.

4. Information clearinghouses.—The clearinghouses were established to provide referral, linkage, coordination, and dissemination services in adult and community education programs to agencies, organizations, and the general public. No funds are being requested for this activity in 1979.

1. Advisory committees.—Funds are provided for the operating expenses of advisory committees specifically authorized by Federal statute or by general authority vested with the Commissioner of Education. In 1979, this request will provide financial support to the six Presidential committees authorized by the General Education Provisions Act and continue the support of eight on-going administratively created committees.

2. Program administration.—Funds are provided to enable the Commissioner to carry out the administrative duties of the Office of Education and to support special purpose activities. The Office administers grants-in-aid and other direct programs and provides technical assistance to State and local educational agencies, institutions of higher education, libraries, and other organizations to promote the improvement of education throughout the country. The funds requested exclude computer costs for the guaranteed student loan program which are requested under the Student Loan Insurance Fund in 1979.

3. Planning and evaluation.—This program was transferred in 1978 to Special projects and training.

4. General program dissemination.—Funds are not requested in 1979 for this program which supports dissemination of information on Office of Education programs. No funds were appropriated in 1978.

5. Information clearinghouses.—This program was transferred in 1978 to Special projects and training.

Under the Higher Education Act, the Guaranteed student loan program enables students to borrow from private lenders to help pay for the cost of education and training at over 8,120 eligible universities, colleges, and vocational schools. Loans are either guaranteed by State or private nonprofit agencies or insured by the Federal Government. Guaranteed loans are made to eligible students primarily by commercial lenders, educational institutions, and State agencies. The Federal Government pays up to a 7% interest subsidy on behalf of students while they are in school, during a maximum 12-month grace period following graduation or withdrawal from school and during authorized periods of deferment. In addition to interest subsidies, a special allowance is paid to lenders to encourage participation in the program. The special allowance rate varies with money market conditions and cannot exceed 5% per annum on the quarterly balance of outstanding loans. In case of the borrower's death or total and permanent disability, the Federal Government pays the principal and interest on loans outstanding. The Federal Government is also liable for bankruptcy claims which are filed 5 years after the borrower terminates his course of study.

Incentives to State agencies to participate in the program are also provided. Non-interest-bearing advances are made to State agencies' reserve funds to encourage States to expand their lending programs and/or to establish new State guarantee agencies. The Education Amendments of 1976 authorize the payment to guarantee agencies of one-half of 1% of the total of all loans guaranteed by that agency to help offset the cost of administering the guaranteed student loan program. An additional one-half of 1% is offered to guarantee agencies which enter into supplemental guaranty agreements with the Federal Government and restructure their programs so that they are comparable to the Federal insurance program.

The Education Amendments of 1976 also authorize the payment of an allowance to institutions for administering the guaranteed student loan program. An institution receives up to $10 for each student in attendance who is receiving a guaranteed loan. The payment is to be used first to provide consumer information to prospective students, and then for any other administrative activities that the institution deems necessary.

A Student loan insurance fund is established from which defaults are paid and into which appropriations related to defaults and other receipts are deposited. The Fund enables the Commissioner of Education to make payments on unpaid principal and interest amounts defaulted by student borrowers under the federally insured student loan program and to reinsure loans guaranteed by State and nonprofit agencies to the extent of 80% to 100% of the principal and interest amount of defaults paid by the agencies. The actual rate of reinsurance for each agency depends on whether or not the agency has entered into the supplemental guaranty agreement with the Federal Government and the agency's rate of default at the end of the year.

Section 431(b)(1) of the Higher Education Act authorizes the Commissioner, with respect to legal power and responsibilities under the guaranteed student loan program, to prepare annually and submit a budget program as provided for wholly owned Government corporations by the Government Corporation Control Act. For that purpose, all expenses associated with subsidies previously reflected under the Higher education account and default activities previously reported under the Student loan insurance fund are included under one account for 1978 and 1979. In addition, $12,473 thousand for related system operation costs (computer services) is included under the fund for 1979. This activity, previously funded under Salaries and expenses, will enable the Office of Education to include total guaranteed student loan program costs under a single account. Other administrative expenses including staffing and travel are included in the Salaries and expenses appropriation.

Program operations.—The fund takes over loans on which it pays insurance claims and seeks to collect on them. Claims which are deemed uncollectable are written off as "loss on insured loans." Loans deemed collectable, after allowing for possible loss, are as follows: 1977, $272,596 thousand; 1978, $357,452 thousand; and 1979, $441,632 thousand.

Program costs.—In 1977, defaults and other claims totaling $182,206 thousand were submitted to the Fund for payment. These claims resulted in a deficit in available funds of $15,030 thousand in 1977 which is requested in a 1978 supplemental. In 1978, total costs for claims and interest subsidies are estimated at $726,521 thousand. This amount, when offset by the 1978 appropriation of $255,724 thousand and other available funds results in a requirement for a supplemental appropriation request of $223,939 thousand. The estimate for 1979 cost of $727,244 thousand will require an appropriation of $725,814 thousand.

The default rate in the Federal program is projected to rise from 12.8% in 1977 to 14.9% in 1979. In the reinsurance program the default rate is expected to increase from 8.3% in 1977 to 9.2% in 1979. The expected increase in default claims and rates are primarily based on an estimate of loans that will mature and therefore have the probability of defaulting.

Receipts and reimbursements.—Deposits to the Fund are derived from insurance premiums earned from direct Federal insurance, which is not to exceed one-fourth of 1% per annum of the unpaid principal amount (excluding interest added to principal), and repayment of collectable loans. Additional accrued income on collectable loans is available when converted to cash. Total deposits to the Fund, are as follows: 1977, $30,970 thousand; 1978, $23,200 thousand; and 1979, $30,430 thousand.

Collections on defaulted loans in the Federal program amounted to $9,430 thousand in 1977 and an additional $10,573 thousand is expected to be collected in 1978. The target amount for collection in 1979 is $17,280 thousand which includes $9,500 thousand in contract collections. In the reinsurance program, $10,338 thousand was recovered on defaulted loans in 1977. It is expected that $11,372 thousand will be recovered in 1978 and $12,509 thousand will be recovered in 1979.

Estimated future loss.—Future loss on guaranteed loans represents those outstanding loans that will default and not be collected by the Office of Education. Attempts are currently being made to reduce these amounts (the estimates follow in thousands of dollars).

HIGHER EDUCATION FACILITIES LOAN AND INSURANCE FUND*

* See Part III for additional information.

For capital for the Higher Education Facilities Loan and Insurance Fund, $52,204,000 to remain available until expended: Provided, That $50,000,000 shall be available to the Commissioner under section 771(a)(2)(A) of the Higher Education Act and $2,204,000 shall be available for the payment of such insufficiencies as may be required by the trustee on account of outstanding beneficial interest or participations in assets of the Office of Education authorized by the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare Appropriation Act, 1968, to be issued pursuant to section 302(c) of the Federal National Mortgage Association Charter Act (12 U.S.C. 1717(c)), $1,847,000 to remain available until expended, and the Secretary is hereby authorized to make such expenditures, within the limits of funds available in the Higher Education Facilities Loan and Insurance Fund, and in accord with law, and to make such contracts and commitments without regard to fiscal year limitation as provided by section 104 of the Government Corporation Control Act (31 U.S.C. 849) as may be necessary in carrying out the program set forth in the budget for the current fiscal year for such fund.

Note.—The appropriation for this account for 1978 had not been enacted at the time this budget was prepared. The 1978 amounts shown below are based upon a continuing resolution in effect through September 30, 1978, that provides for this account at a rate consistent with the amounts that would be provided by the conference version of the Departments of Labor, and Health, Education, and Welfare Appropriation Act, 1978.

The higher education facilities loan program authorizes loans for construction of academic facilities in higher education institutions. Such loans may be made for up to 30% of a project's total development cost and must be repaid within 50 years.

Operating costs.—Interest is payable to the Treasury on the cumulative amount of appropriations paid out for loans under this title or available as capital to the fund less the average undisbursed cash balance in the fund during the year. The rate certified by Treasury for payment from the fund during 1977 was 7½%. An additional $50,000 thousand is requested for reconstruction and renovation to help postsecondary institutions meet the requirements of section 504 of the Vocational Rehabilitation Act of 1973 with respect to removing architectural barriers for handicapped students.

Appropriations.—Insufficiencies appropriations are used to fund the deficit resulting from the interest rate required to sell the participation and the interest rate paid by higher education institutions on facilities loans. The budget authority required for insufficiencies is computed as follows (in thousands of dollars):

The Health profession graduate student loan insurance program enables students to borrow from private lenders to help pay for the cost of their medical education and training at over 300 universities. Although the principal amount of the loans will be insured by the Federal Government, the students will be required to pay up to 10% interest per year. Loans will be made primarily by commercial lenders, State agencies, and educational institutions.

In case of default, death or total and permanent disability the Federal Government pays the outstanding amount of the loan. The Federal Government also pays bankruptcy claims if the discharge is granted 5 years after the first date repayment was required.

It is anticipated that 323 eligible universities will participate in the program and that 15,000 students will receive loans averaging $8 thousand in 1979. No more than 50% of the students in each class in schools of medicine, osteopathy, or dentistry may receive loans.

The $1,500 thousand requested in 1979 will be used to support loan cancellations which are provided to those students who serve in "health manpower shortage areas." Other payments including bankruptcy, defaults, and death and disability claims will be supported by receipts into the fund. Borrowing authority of $5 million will be utilized for future contingencies.

The National Institute of Education supports research, development, and dissemination activities which will aid students, teachers, administrators, and decision-makers at all levels of education. The primary goals of the Institute's work are furthering equal educational opportunity and improving local educational practice.

New research during the fiscal year will increase or expand studies on the following topics:

Student achievement and testing.—Possible projects include development of tests that are free from bias; an information clearinghouse to increase the understanding and use of tests; research on achievement in basic skills such as reading, math, and writing; studies of the learning experience of disadvantaged youth; and studies to identify especially successful schools.

Improving teaching.—Possible projects would identify effective teaching practices; study means of professional development of teachers; improve teachers' working environment; examine the processes of preservice training, selection, and tenure of teachers.

Urban education.—Possible work includes studies of excellent instructional programs in urban settings; research on urban school problems in staffing, finance, and management; efforts to improve the dissemination and utilization of educational research and development products to assist urban educators.

Secondary schools and youth.—Possible research will examine learning and development processes in adolescents; the specific problems of organizing high school instructional programs; and the transition from high school to either work or postsecondary education.

Law and finance.—Possible work will extend inquiries of the implications of legislation and judicial rulings on education and explore issues of equity related to education financing.

Funds are also included to support the administration, coordination, and direction of the programs and activities of the Institute.

The Office of the Assistant Secretary for Education is responsible for both the direction and supervision of the Education Division and also for coordination and general supervision of educational activities performed elsewhere in the Department. In addition, the Office has responsibility for administering three operational programs:

1. Fund for the improvement of postsecondary education.—The Fund has been established to encourage the reform and improvement of postsecondary education through grants to and contracts with public and private postsecondary institutions for program development and demonstration.

The Fund supports projects on the basis of priority needs expressed by the university community. Priorities include emphasis on education and work, information for student choice, and improving the cost effectiveness of postsecondary education.

2. National Center for Education Statistics.—The Center collects statistics on the condition of education in the United States and abroad, conducts and reports on statistical analyses, and provides assistance to States and local educational agencies in their statistical activities. The two components of the Center's program are:

(a) Education statistics.—The Center collects and reports information from institutions and individuals which provides a comprehensive and flexible data base describing education and its effects. The base includes both a consistent core of data which delineates the essential features of the education enterprise and those who participate in it and also a varied, detailed flow of information which bears on changing policy issues. Information is gathered on such topics as trends in elementary and secondary education, the changing nature of postsecondary education, financing educational institutions, the educational attainments of persons, the status of educational personnel, libraries, and educational activities in foreign countries.

(b) Statistical services.—The Center provides statistical services to users including activities in the areas of assistance, analysis, and dissemination. Assistance is provided to State and local educational agencies to develop and implement compatible education data systems. The Center also conducts analyses of the meaning and significance of education statistics and disseminates data through a variety of modes acknowledging the differing needs of users. In addition, the Center participates in Federal interagency activities to coordinate data collection, to minimize respondent burden, and to protect the confidentiality of persons in the collection, reporting, and publication of data.

3. Lifelong learning.—In order to improve and expand lifelong learning opportunities, this program will make grants to and enter into agreements with State agencies, institutions of higher education, and public and private nonprofit organizations. Activities will serve to plan, assess, and coordinate lifelong learning programs; to assist States in planning and administering lifelong learning activities; and to develop and demonstrate alternative methods of improving lifelong learning programs. This budget would provide the first year of funding for the lifelong learning program authorized by the Education Amendments of 1976.

4. Program direction and support services.—This activity provides funds for administrative expenses associated with the development and communication of education policy, supervision of the Division, and administration of the three operational programs. In addition, this activity provides continued contractual support of policy analysis activities relevant to the Office's role in developing educational policy. In 1979, the Office is requesting a staffing level of 264, 17 positions above its 1978 level; these positions will be associated with the National Center for Education Statistics, with the lifelong learning program, and with the Immediate Office of the Assistant Secretary.

1. Grants to museums.—The Institute received its first appropriation in 1977. These funds were used for the administrative costs of starting up the Institute.

In 1978, the major portion of the budget included support of a program of grants to museums. It is estimated that more than 5,000 museums and related organizations throughout the country would be eligible for these funds.

Grants will be made available to encourage and assist museums in their educational role. Specifically, funds are authorized for program and staff development, facilities construction, installation of displays, conservation of collections, as well as general administration.

2. Program administration.—Funds are provided in this activity to cover the costs of operating the Institute. The Institute of Museum Services consists of a Director, staff, and the 20-member National Museum Services Board. The Director is responsible for managing the overall activities of the Institute as well as providing information and advice to the Board, which is the policymaking body of the Institute. The Board consists of representatives from the museum community and officials from government agencies concerned with arts, sciences, and education.

The Administrator for the National Center for Education Statistics is authorized to furnish transcripts or copies of tables and other records of the National Center for Education Statistics and to make special statistical compilations and surveys for State or local officials, private organizations, or individuals. Such statistical compilations and surveys shall be made subject to the payment of the actual or estimated cost of such work. In the case of non-profit organizations or agencies, the Administrator may engage in joint statistical projects, the cost of which shall be shared equitably as determined by the Administrator, provided that the purposes are otherwise authorized by law.

All moneys received in payment for work or services enumerated under this section shall be deposited in a trust account which may be used to pay directly the costs of such work or services, to repay appropriations which initially bore all or part of such costs, or to refund excess sums when necessary.

² Excludes $143,000 thousand in 1978 and $141,000 thousand in 1979 for military service credits related to the medicare program which was transferred to the Health Care Financing Administration. The comparable figure in 1977 is $141,000 thousand.

This appropriation provides for payments from Federal funds to the Federal old-age and survivors and disability insurance trust funds for certain types of benefits and related administrative costs not financed by contributions from workers and employers. Beginning with 1978, activities related to the hospital insurance and supplementary medical insurance trust funds were transferred to the Payments to the Health Care Trust Funds account for the Health Care Financing Administration. And, for the first time, this appropriation also includes reimbursement to the Federal old-age and survivors insurance trust fund for the Federal fund share of the administrative cost for pension reform. The 1979 request is for $760,774 thousand and covers the following payments:

3. Military service credits.—A payment of $526,120 thousand to the Federal old-age and survivors and disability insurance trust funds is requested as reimbursement for benefits which were based on noncontributory military service credits for veterans of World War II and certain veterans of the post-World War II period. Payment is prescribed in sections 217(g) and 229(b) of the Social Security Act and includes reimbursement for administrative expenses and interest lost to the trust funds.

The payment to each trust fund is (in thousands of dollars):

Old-age and survivors insurance.....	384,457
Disability insurance.....	141,663

4. Special payments for certain uninsured persons.—A payment of $230,461 thousand is requested to reimburse the Federal old-age and survivors insurance trust fund for benefits paid in 1977 to certain uninsured individuals aged 72 and over, related administrative expenses, and interest lost to the trust fund. These benefits were established to afford some protection for certain persons, or their surviving dependents, who retired before the enactment of social security legislation or before their occupations were covered by social security.

Individuals who had less than three-quarters of coverage and who attained age 72 before 1968 were eligible for benefits under this provision in 1977. The benefits were reduced if the recipient also received another governmental pension. The amount of the reduction depended upon the amount of the other governmental pension. In addition, the benefits were withheld if an individual was receiving payments under a federally aided public assistance program.

5. Pension reform.—A payment of $4,193 thousand is requested to reimburse the Federal old-age and survivors insurance trust fund for those pension reform administrative expenses which are chargeable to Federal funds as specified in section 1131(b)(2) of the Social Security Act. The Federal fund is charged with the cost incurred by the Social Security Administration in furnishing information to individuals who have left a pension fund, of their vested rights in those funds, either upon request or automatically upon application for retirement, survivors, or disability insurance benefits. The reimbursement sought in 1979 includes the administrative expenses (with interest) for these pension reform costs for 1977, 1978, and 1979.

1. Benefit payments.—The Federal Mine Safety and Health Act of 1977 provides for the protection of the health and safety of persons working in the coal mining industry. Title IV of the act provides monthly benefits to living coal miners who are totally disabled from pneumoconiosis resulting from employment in coal mines and to surviving widows. Benefit payments to miners and surviving widows are increased for dependents (a spouse or child). Benefits are payable to orphans, and in certain circumstances, to totally dependent surviving parents, brothers and sisters. The requirements for entitlement and the amounts of the benefits are stated in the law.

Under the law, the jurisdiction for payment of claims from miners filed after June 1973 shifted to the Department of Labor. Also, the responsibility for most survivor claims filed after December 1973 is with the Department of Labor. However, HEW will continue to pay benefits and maintain the beneficiary roll for persons who filed during the time that HEW had jurisdiction, and this will continue for many years into the future. The amount of these benefits and the number of miners, widows and other dependents receiving them at the end of each fiscal period are as follows:

Benefit payments (in thousands).....	$941,319	$971,000	$990,000
Beneficiaries.....	487,000	467,000	445,000

An automatic benefit increase will become effective in October 1978, based on the increase in Federal pay scales. (The basic benefit payment is prescribed by law at 50% of the minimum monthly benefit under the Federal employees compensation system for a totally disabled employee in step 1, grade GS-2). This increase is partially offset by the continuing reduction of the number of beneficiaries entitled to benefits.

2. Administration.—Administrative costs in 1979 are for monitoring and making changes to the beneficiary rolls and authorizing payments to entitled beneficiaries monthly. The reduction from the 1977 and 1978 levels of cost is due to a decline in the size of the beneficiary roll as well as the completion in 1977 of almost all of the appellate workloads.

The district offices of the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare will continue to take claims for benefits, mostly on behalf of the Department of Labor. HEW is reimbursed for these costs, estimated at $770 thousand for 1979, from funds appropriated to the Department of Labor.

Title XVI of the Social Security Act established the Federal supplemental security income (SSI) program for the aged, blind, and disabled. This program, effective January 1, 1974, replaced State-administered programs of assistance to the aged, blind, and disabled. In 1978, the supplemental security income program provides a minimum income of $177.80 per month for an eligible individual and $266.70 per month for an eligible couple. Public Law 93-368 requires that when social security benefits (title II of the Social Security Act) are automatically increased based on a cost-of-living computation, SSI benefit levels will be increased by the same percentage. This appropriation request assumes that a 6.2% cost-of-living increase will be effective in July 1978, and that a further increase of 6.1% will be effective in July 1979.

SSI is administered by the Federal Government under national uniform eligibility requirements and payment support levels. However, to be eligible for Federal matching funds for medicaid, States are required to supplement the Federal benefit to assure that recipients of benefits under the former State-administered programs suffered no loss of income under SSI. States may make additional supplementary payments, and may enter into agreements with the Federal Government to administer their supplementary payments. Under such an agreement, the cost of administering the State's supplementary payment is financed from Federal funds. States that elect Federal administration of their supplementary payments are protected from paying out of State funds any more than their calendar year 1972 assistance expenditures for the aged, blind, and disabled due to overall growth in the recipient population.

This appropriation request includes: (1) $4,979 million in Federal payments to 3.8 million aged, blind and disabled recipients by the end of 1979; (2) $45 million in Federal hold harmless contributions required to protect States against increased costs under SSI; (3) $86.1 million to reimburse State agencies for providing services to and planning and monitoring for treatment of disabled SSI recipients; (4) $569 million to reimburse the social security trust funds for costs of administering the program; and (5) $36.1 million for Federal fiscal liability (FFL) settlements with States which result from erroneous payments of federally administered State supplementation. State supplementation payments financed by the States and administered by the Federal Government as a reimbursable program are estimated to cost $1.5 billion in 1979.

ASSISTANCE PAYMENTS PROGRAM*

*See "Legislative Program" (end of this chapter) and Part III of this Appendix for additional information.

For carrying out, except as otherwise provided, titles I, IV, X, XI, and XIV of the Social Security Act, and the Act of July 5, 1960 (24 U.S.C., Ch. 9), $6,823,056,000, including payment by way of advances or reimbursements to the Social Security Trust Funds for administrative expenses from such funds in a manner consistent with the provisions of section 201(g)(1) of the Social Security Act.

For making, after June 30 of the current fiscal year, payments to States under titles I, IV, X, XIV, and XVI, respectively, of the Social Security Act for the last three months of the current fiscal year; and for making after July 31 of the current fiscal year, payments for the first quarter of the succeeding fiscal year; such sums as may be necessary, the obligations incurred and the expenditures made thereunder for payments under each of such titles to be charged to the subsequent appropriations therefor for the current or succeeding fiscal year.

Such amounts as may be necessary from this appropriation shall be available for grants to States for any period in the prior fiscal year subsequent to June 30 of that year.

Note.—The appropriation for this account for 1978 had not been enacted at the time this budget was prepared. The 1978 amounts shown below are based upon a continuing resolution in effect through September 30, 1978, that provides for this account at a rate consistent with the amounts that would be provided by the conference version of the Departments of Labor, and Health, Education, and Welfare Appropriation Act, 1978.

ASSISTANCE PAYMENTS PROGRAMS—Continued

Estimates of requirements are based on an evaluation of the States' latest estimates together with national trends of historic data adjusted by socioeconomic variables which will impact upon these trends.

1. Maintenance assistance.—Maintenance payments provide needy persons with resources to assist in meeting the costs of daily living.

Federal matching for Aid to families with dependent children (AFDC), the major portion of the maintenance assistance activity, averages 54.3%. The Federal matching for State and local administration is 50% and the matching share for State and local training is 75%.

Efforts to improve the administration of the AFDC program are continuing. Error rates in the caseloads have been reduced and continued improvement is expected. All States now have underway corrective action plans designed to reduce the ineligibility and payment error rates.

2. Child support enforcement.—The purpose of the child support enforcement program, in effect since August 1, 1975, is to assist States in enforcing the support obligations owed by absent parents to their children, locating absent parents, establishing paternity, and obtaining child support. Federal grants for State and local administration of the program are made to States having plans approved by the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare—Federal matching is 75%.

All families in need of support for their children from an absent parent are eligible for the aforementioned services which are provided free for AFDC families. Nonwelfare recipients may be required, in some States, to pay an application fee and the costs of collection may be deducted from collections made. Public Law 95-59 extended Federal matching for nonreimbursed administrative costs associated with non-AFDC child support enforcement activities through September 30, 1978.

Costs and collections are currently expanding as State and local governments continue to operate the child support program. In addition, State and local governments will be working with Federal staff of the Office of Child Support Enforcement to implement the provisions of Public Law 95-142, signed on October 25, 1977. This law requires assignment of rights to medical support as a condition of medicaid eligibility. The State and local governments will have new responsibilities concerning enforcement of rights due from or through an absent parent to pay for medical care in cases where dependents of that absent parent are receiving medical benefits under title XIX of the Social Security Act.

4. Administrative expenses.—The administrative costs budgeted for the assistance payments programs provide for Federal direction of the various grant programs that provide maintenance assistance to the needy. Activities include grants management and consultative services to State and local governments and other grantees. Related activities are: monitoring and reviewing to insure effective and prudent use of Federal funds by grantees; the conduct of research; the collection, processing, and dissemination of statistical data; and the review of accomplishments of program activities.

Because the administration of this program is integrated with that of the other social security programs, the appropriation structure for 1979 has been altered so that the costs of all programs are carried in the same Salaries and expenses appropriation. For this reason the assistance payments appropriation request for 1979 includes $32 million to reimburse the social security trust funds.

1. Cuban Refugee Assistance.—The Migration and Refugee Assistance Act of 1962, the current legislative basis for the Cuban refugee program, was enacted June 28, 1962, following action of the President to establish a temporary program in February 1961 to meet emergency needs of Cuban refugees entering the United States.

Of the almost 700,000 Cubans who entered the United States since 1959, approximately 200,000 have become naturalized citizens, and another 319,000 have achieved permanent resident status, the last step before citizenship. In addition to seeking the privileges and accepting the responsibilities of citizenship, Cubans have become substantially integrated into the Nation's economic and social mainstream. The Cuban refugee population is ceasing to present a special burden for State and local government resources and can increasingly be served appropriately by the regular Federal/State assistance programs now serving non-Cubans.

With the passing of the need for a special program serving only Cuban refugees, a gradual phasing out of the Cuban refugee assistance program will be initiated in 1978 that will provide needed services and assistance to the refugees through regular Federal and State programs serving the entire population, and will thereby further enhance the integration of the Cuban population into American society. The phasing out of the Cuban refugee assistance program will continue through 1983, and throughout this period the Federal Government will make payments to States to offset some of the special costs that may be associated with the Cuban refugee population.

Welfare assistance and services.—Beginning in 1978 Cuban refugee cases eligible for AFDC and medicaid will be included under those programs with Federal public assistance funds providing the regular Federal matching. Cuban refugee program funds will be authorized to help offset the non-Federal share for those cases. Cuban refugee program funds will also be used to offset the cost of general assistance type cases.

Education.—Federal assistance will be provided to meet the diminishing special needs of the Dade County, Fla. public school system, with assistance also provided for English education and vocational training.

Other services.—This activity finances the day-to-day operation of the program, which will be principally directed at assisting individuals to receive needed services and assistance from ongoing State and Federal programs.

2. Southeast Asian Refugee Assistance.—Special assistance to refugees from Vietnam, Cambodia, and Laos has been provided under the authority of the Indochina Migration and Refugee Assistance Act of 1975 (Public Law 94-23, as amended by Public Law 94-313) and further amended by Public Law 95-145, enacted October 28, 1977.

The current authorizing legislation provides for a 4-year extension and phasedown of the Indochinese refugee assistance program. In 1978 it provides a 100% level of funding to the States for refugee cash assistance, medical assistance, social services, and State-local administrative costs. Refugee assistance cases that are eligible will be placed on the regular AFDC and medicaid programs and funds appropriated for the Indochinese program will be used to meet only the non-Federal share of costs. For those assistance cases not eligible for AFDC or medicaid, the States will be fully reimbursed from the refugee program funds. The funding level to the States will be reduced during the following 3 years: in 1979, it will be 75% of the 1978 level; in 1980, it will be 50%; and in 1981, the final year, it will be 25%.

In 1979, $5 million is also included for special projects to assist minor and adult refugees in resettling and gaining skills and education necessary to become self-reliant.

In addition, funds are requested for certain direct services to refugees and Federal management of the program. The services provided included a nationwide toll-free telephone information and referral service and informational publications for the refugees. Also included is pro-

Direct program.—The retirement and survivors insurance program protects individuals and families from the risk of economic loss resulting from old age and death by providing income to retired workers, to their dependents, and to their dependent survivors. The program is financed by contributions to the trust fund which are made by workers, employers, and self-employed individuals based on earnings. From January 1, 1974, through December 31, 1977, the contribution rates were 4.375% of taxable earnings each for employees and employers, and 6.185% for self-employed persons. Public Law 95-216 enacted December 20, 1977, changed the contribution rate for employees and for employers to 4.275% for 1978 and to 4.330% for 1979 and 1980. The rate for self-employed persons will also change to 6.010% for 1978 through 1980.

The contribution rates are applied to taxable earnings up to a specified maximum. The maximum was $15,300 in calendar year 1976 and $16,500 in 1977. In 1978, the taxable maximum is $17,700 and will increase under Public Law 95-216 to $22,900 in 1979 and to $25,900 in 1980. Workers who pay more in social security contributions because of increases in the taxable maximum will receive the benefit of more social security protection because the benefit payments are based on average taxable earnings.

1. Benefit payments.—The Social Security Act provides for payment of benefits to retired workers, their dependents, and their survivors. The average number of persons receiving payments and the benefit amounts classified by major types of beneficiaries for 1977-79 follow:

Beneficiaries (millions):	1977 actual	1978 estimate	1979 estimate
Retired workers.....	17.4	18.1	18.6
Dependents of retired workers.....	3.6	3.7	3.8
Survivors.....	7.5	7.6	7.7
Total beneficiaries.....	28.5	29.4	30.1
Benefit payments (billions):
Retired workers.....	47.1	52.3	58.4
Dependents of retired workers.....	5.2	5.9	6.4
Survivors.....	19.0	20.8	22.9
Total benefit payments.....	71.3	79.0	87.7

Normal growth in benefit payments will continue because: (1) the number of beneficiaries will increase as the number of aged persons in the population and the proportion of the aged, who are insured rise; (2) average monthly benefits will increase as general earnings and price levels continue to rise; and (3) newly entitled beneficiaries will have higher initial benefits reflecting the growth in real wages during their careers.

Automatic cost-of-living benefit increases are determined annually and are effective for June of each year. Benefit payments were increased 5.9% effective for June 1977, and are projected to increase to 6.2% in June 1978 and 6.1% in June 1979. The benefit increases are triggered automatically by increases in the cost-of-living as measured by the Consumer Price Index.

In calendar year 1977, the annual exempt amount of earnings under the retirement test was $3,000. Public Law 95-216 raises the exempt amount for beneficiaries age 65 and over to $4,000 in 1978 and $4,500 in 1979. For beneficiaries under age 65 this amount will increase over the 1977 amount of $3,000 as average wages increase, generating an exempt amount of $3,240 in 1978 and $3,480 in 1979.

2. Construction.—The costs of site acquisition, design, and construction of certain office facilities for the Social Security Administration (SSA) are financed by this and the other social security trust funds.

3. Administration.—This activity reflects administrative expenses attributable to the retirement and survivors' insurance program by the Social Security Administration, other components of the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, and by the Treasury Department.

4. Payment to railroad retirement account.—Annual payments are made from the Old-age and survivors insurance (OASI) trust fund to the railroad retirement fund so as to place the Old-age and survivors insurance trust fund in the same position in which it would have been if railroad employment after 1936 had been included in social security coverage (45 U.S.C. 228g). Estimates are made of the yearly amounts of additional contributions the Social Security Administration would have collected, the additional benefits it would have paid, and the additional administrative costs it would have incurred if railroad employees had been covered under social security. Each year's payment is a settlement for the prior year. It represents the amount by which the estimated benefit payments and administrative costs exceed the estimated contributions, and includes interest through the date of transfer. There was no payment during the transition quarter. The payment for that period will be included in the transfer made in 1978. The components of the net transfers in 1977-79 follow (in millions of dollars):

Benefit payments.....	1,816.8	2,393	2,025
Administrative costs.....	14.2	22	19
Interest.....	106.1	125	96
Less contributions.....	-729.3	-908	-796
Net transfer.....	1,207.8	1,632	1,344

5. Vocational rehabilitation services.—The Social Security Act provides that specified payments may be made from the Old-age and survivors insurance and the Disability insurance trust funds for the purpose of making rehabilitation services available to individuals who are entitled to social security cash benefits because of a disability. The payments are made in expectation that savings will accrue to the trust funds as a result of rehabilitating disabled beneficiaries into productive activity. The Old-age and survivors insurance trust fund bears the cost of rehabilitation services provided to disabled retirement and survivors insurance beneficiaries, and the disability insurance trust fund bears the cost of such services provided to disability insurance beneficiaries.

Reimbursable program.—Advances are made from the OASI trust fund for the administrative expenses of the general fund programs administered by SSA with full reimbursement to the trust fund (including interest when appropriate). Under 42 U.S.C. 1306(b), the Social Security Administration is authorized (within limits set by the Privacy and Freedom of Information Acts) to provide information or services to other governmental organizations or private organizations on a reimbursable basis. Reimbursable work includes providing information from our records such as data relating to earnings, periods of employment, addresses of reporting employers, and employment data for pension funds and unions. Services provided on a reimbursable basis include printing and reproduction, processing data, and use of data processing equipment.

The disability insurance program protects individuals and families against the risk of economic loss resulting from disability by providing income to severely disabled workers and their dependents. This program is financed by contributions to the trust fund made by workers, employers, and self-employed individuals based on earnings. From January 1, 1974, through December 31, 1977, the contribution rates of taxable earnings were 0.575% each for employers and employees and 0.815% for self-employed persons. The contribution rates scheduled by Public Law 95-216 enacted December 20, 1977, will change to 0.775% for employees and for employers and to 1.090% for self-employed persons in 1978. These rates will become 0.750% and 1.040% respectively in 1979 and 1980. The contribution rates are applied to earnings up to a maximum level which is the same for the disability insurance program as for the old-age and survivors insurance program.

1. Benefit payments.—The Social Security Act provides for payment of disability insurance benefits to certain disabled individuals and their dependents. The average number of persons receiving payments and the benefit amounts, classified by major types of beneficiaries for 1977–79 follows:

Disabled workers.....	2.7	2.9	3.1
Dependents of disabled workers.....	2.0	2.0	2.1
Total beneficiaries.....	4.7	4.9	5.2
Benefit payments (billions):
Disabled workers.....	$9.2	$10.4	$11.9
Dependents of disabled workers.....	2.0	2.2	2.5
Total benefit payments.....	11.1	12.6	14.4

Normal growth in benefit payments will continue because: (1) The number of beneficiaries will increase as the population insured for disability benefits rises, especially at ages 50 to 64 where disability incidence rates are highest, and (2) the average monthly benefits will increase as general earnings levels rise. Automatic cost-of-living benefit increases are determined annually and are effective for June of each year. Benefit payments were increased 5.9% effective for June 1977 and are projected to increase 6.2% in June 1978 and 6.1% in June 1979.

2. Construction.—The costs of site acquisition, design, and construction of certain office facilities for the Social Security Administration are financed by this and the other social security trust funds.

3. Administration.—This activity reflects administrative expenses attributable to the disability insurance program by the Social Security Administration, other components of the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, and by the Treasury Department.

4. Payment to railroad retirement account.—Annual payments are made from the disability insurance trust fund to the railroad retirement fund so as to place the disability insurance trust fund in the same position in which it would have been if railroad employment after 1936 had been included under social security coverage (45 U.S.C. 228g). This payment is computed on the same basis as the payment from the Federal old-age and survivors insurance trust fund. Payments are made each year for the prior year. There was no payment during the transition quarter. The payment for that period will be included in the transfer made in 1978. The components of the net transfers for 1977 to 1979 follow (in millions of dollars):

Benefit payments.....	115.7	160.0	137.0

Interest.....	1.2	5.0	3.0
Less contributions.....	-118.1	-120.0	-109.0
Net transfer.....	-0.3	49.0	33.0

5. Vocational rehabilitation services.—The Social Security Act provides that specified payments may be made from the old-age and survivors insurance and the disability insurance trust funds for the purpose of making rehabilitation services available to individuals who are entitled to social security cash benefits because of a disability. The payments are made in expectation that savings will accrue to the trust funds as a result of rehabilitating disabled beneficiaries into productive activity. The disability insurance trust fund bears the cost of such services provided to disability insurance beneficiaries.

LIMITATION ON ADMINISTRATIVE EXPENSES

For necessary expenses, not more than $2,279,842,000 may be expended as authorized by section 201(g)(1) of the Social Security Act, from any one or all of the trust funds referred to therein, and as authorized herein, from payments by way of advancements or reimbursements to the Social Security Trust Funds for administration of titles I, II, IV (parts A and D), X, XI, XIV, XVI, XVIII, and XIX of the Social Security Act, title IV of the Federal Mine Safety and Health Act of 1977, section 212 of Public Law 93-66, as amended, the Indochina Migration and Refugee Assistance Act of 1975, as amended, the Migration and Refugee Assistance Act of 1962, and the Act of July 5, 1960 (24 U.S.C., ch. 9): Provided, That each of the Social Security Trust Funds and the general fund of the Treasury bear its proper share of the costs in a manner consistent with the provisions of section 201(g)(1) of the Social Security Act: Provided further, That in administering these programs such amounts as are required shall be available to pay travel expenses either on an actual cost or commuted basis, to an individual for travel incident to medical examinations, and to parties, their representatives and all reasonably necessary witnesses for travel within the United States, Puerto Rico, and the Virgin Islands, to reconsideration interviews and to proceedings before administrative law judges under titles II, XVI, and XVIII of the Social Security Act and title IV of the Federal Mine Safety and Health Act of 1977: Provided, further, That $25,000,000 of the foregoing amount shall be apportioned for use pursuant to section 3679 of the Revised Statutes (31 U.S.C. 665), only to the extent necessary to process workloads not anticipated in the budget estimates and to meet mandatory increases in costs of agencies or organizations with which agreements have been made to participate in the administration of the above mentioned Acts and Public Laws, and after maximum absorption of such costs within the remainder of the existing limitation has been achieved: Provided further, That $14,800,000 authorized herein shall be available only for acquisition of sites, construction and equipment of facilities and for payments of principal, interest, taxes and any other obligations under contracts entered into pursuant to the Public Buildings Purchase Contract Act of 1954 and the Public Buildings Amendments of 1972, and shall remain available until expended.

LIMITATION ON SALARIES AND EXPENSES

For necessary expenses, not more than $2,685,951,000 may be expended as authorized by section 201(g)(1) of the Social Security Act, from any one or all of the trust funds referred to therein: Provided, That such amounts as are required shall be available to pay travel expenses either on an actual cost or commuted basis, to an individual for travel incident to medical examinations, and to parties, their representatives and all reasonably necessary witnesses for travel within the United States, Puerto Rico, and the Virgin Islands to reconsideration interviews and to proceedings before administrative law judges under titles II, XVI, and XVIII of the Social Security Act: Provided further, That $25,000,000 of the foregoing amount shall be apportioned for use pursuant to section 3679 of the Revised Statutes (31 U.S.C. 665), only to the extent necessary to process workloads not anticipated in the budget estimates and to meet mandatory increases in costs of agencies or organizations with which agreements have been made to participate in the administration of titles XVI and XVIII and section 221 of title II of the Social Security Act, and after maximum absorption of such costs within the remainder of the existing limitation has been achieved.

LIMITATION ON CONSTRUCTION

For acquisition of sites, construction and equipment of facilities and for payments of principal, interest, taxes, and any other obligations under contracts entered into pursuant to the Public Buildings Purchase Contract Act of 1954 and the Public Buildings Amendments of 1972, $14,600,000, to be expended as authorized by section 201(g)(1) of the Social Security Act, from any one or all of the trust funds referred to therein, and to remain available until expended.

Note.—The appropriation for this account for 1978 had not been enacted at the time this budget was prepared. The 1978 amounts shown below are based upon a continuing resolution in effect through September 30, 1978, that provides for this account at a rate consistent with the amounts that would be provided by the conference version of the Departments of Labor, and Health, Education, and Welfare Appropriation Act, 1978.

The Social Security Administration is responsible for administering national programs of old-age, survivors, disability, health insurance, and the supplemental security income program for the needy, aged, blind, and disabled. In addition, it also administers the assistance payments program, refugee assistance program, special benefits for disabled coal miners, annual reporting of earnings and pension reform activities. The principal costs for administration of these programs are financed by this appropriation; however, there are certain costs of other components of the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare and of the Treasury Department which relate to administration of these programs and are shown elsewhere in the budget.

Administrative costs are related to workloads generated by the statutory provisions of social security programs.

These workloads depend upon factors not subject to our control, such as population growth, level of employment, economic conditions, income levels, incidence of illness, and mortality rates.

1. Old-age and survivors insurance.—This program provides monthly benefits for retired workers and their dependents, survivors of deceased workers, including disabled widows and widowers age 50 and over, and certain uninsured persons age 72 and over.

The amounts of benefit payments are automatically increased by annual cost-of-living benefit adjustments of 5.9% effective June 1977 and an estimated 6.2% effective June 1978. The estimated number of persons receiving monthly benefits will increase by 2.3% in 1979 over 1978, as indicated below.

OASI claims applications received (in thousands).....	3,967	4,009	3,944
Persons on OASI benefit rolls (average for year, in thousands).....	28,527	29,401	30,062
OASI benefit payments (in millions)....	$71,271	$79,026	$87,718

The administrative costs budgeted for the old-age and survivors insurance program provide for making initial determinations of eligibility, reevaluating initial determinations and maintaining the beneficiary rolls to assure proper benefit payments, and continuing entitlement to benefits.

2. Disability insurance.—This program provides monthly disability benefits for disabled workers and their dependents. The number of beneficiaries is estimated to increase by 5% in both 1978 and 1979. Automatic cost-of-living adjustments will also increase annual benefit payments, as indicated below.

Disability claims applications received (in thousands).....	1,868	1,953	2,012
Persons on disability benefit rolls (average for year, in thousands).....	4,693	4,927	5,174
Disability benefit payments (in millions)....	$11,135	$12,602	$14,406

The administrative costs budgeted for the disability insurance program provide for processing and reviewing initial claims, determining the continuing disability of beneficiaries, and maintaining the beneficiary rolls to assure proper benefit payments. State agencies determine the existence or continuation of a disability and these costs are included in the budget estimates.

3. Health insurance.—This program includes hospital insurance and voluntary supplementary medical insurance commonly referred to as medicare. The hospital insurance program protects persons age 65 and over and disabled persons who have been eligible or entitled for monthly social security disability benefits for at least 2 years, against the cost of hospital services. Supplementary medical insurance covers the cost of physician services and other medical costs. Enrollees in the program pay a monthly premium and the rest of the program costs are paid for by the appropriations from general revenues. Since the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare reorganization, the administrative activities covering the claim payment functions performed by contractors, services performed by State agencies in certifying and consulting with providers of services, and general direction of the program have been transferred to the Health Care Financing Administration. SSA retains certain functions of this program such as premium billing and collection, and maintenance of the data base on entitlement and premium information.

4. Supplemental security income.—This Federal program provides monthly benefits from Federal funds to needy aged persons 65 and over, and to the needy blind and totally disabled without regard to age. Mandatory State supplementary payments are required for certain persons who were on State welfare rolls in December 1973 to guarantee that no one will have suffered a loss of income as a result of the program. In addition, the States have the option to further supplement the Federal payments if they so desire. Because the administration of this program is integrated with that of the social security program, the costs of administration of both programs are carried in the same salaries and expenses appropriation. A separate appropriation from Federal funds provides for the Federal benefits paid under the supplemental security income program and for repayment to the trust funds for moneys advanced for the administration of the program.

Federal payment levels for an individual and a couple increased to $177.80 and $266.70 effective July 1977. These rates are scheduled to increase by 6.2% in July 1978.

Indicators of workload and program objectives for this activity are:

SSI claims applications received (thousands).....	1,302	1,305	1,315
SSI recipients at end of year (thousands) ¹	4,174	4,208	4,235
Basic Federal SSI benefit payments (in millions).....	$4,636	$4,880	$5,245
State supplementary payments administered by SSA (in millions) ²	$1,416	$1,505	$1,525

² Includes Federal contribution under "hold harmless" provision.

The administrative costs budgeted for the supplemental security income program provide for making initial determinations of eligibility for aged, blind, and disabled benefits, reevaluating the initial determination when requested by the claimant, making changes in the recipient rolls to assure proper payment of benefits, and investigating the beneficiary's continuing entitlement to benefits through periodic redeterminations of eligibility. Determinations regarding the existence or continuation of a disability are made by the State agencies under contract with the Social Security Administration, and these costs are included in the budget.

5. Assistance payments.—Grants to States for assistance payments are made for the Federal share of State expenditures for maintenance assistance and child support enforcement. Research and training projects are also supported.

(a) Maintenance assistance.—Maintenance payments provide needy persons with resources to assist in meeting the costs of daily living.

Efforts to improve the administration of the AFDC program are continuing. Error rates in the caseloads have been reduced and continued improvement is expected. All States now have underway corrective action plans designed to reduce the ineligibility and payment error rates.

(b) Child support enforcement.—The purpose of the child support enforcement program, in effect since August 1, 1975, is to assist States in enforcing the support obligations owed by absent parents to their children, locating absent parents, establishing paternity, and obtaining child support. Federal grants for State and local administration of the program are made to States having plans approved by the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare—Federal matching is 75%.

The administrative costs budgeted for the assistance payments programs provide for Federal direction of the various grant programs that provide maintenance assistance to the needy. Support activities, implemented to assure the integrity of the maintenance assistance and the child support enforcement programs, include financial management assistance and consultative services to State and local governments and other grantees. Related activities are: Monitoring and reviewing to insure effective and prudent use of Federal funds by grantees, the conduct of research, the collection, processing, and dissemination of statistical data, and the review of accomplishments of program activities.

6. Refugee assistance—(a) Cuban program.—The migration and Refugee Assistance Act of 1962, the current legislative basis for the Cuban refugee program, was enacted June 28, 1962, following action of the President to establish a temporary program in February 1961 to meet emergency needs of Cuban refugees entering the United States.

(b) Southeast Asian program.—Special assistance to refugees from Vietnam, Cambodia, and Laos has been provided under the authority of the Indochina Migration and Refugee Assistance Act of 1975 as amended.

The administrative costs budgeted for the refugee assistance programs provide financial support for the day-to-day operation. They also provide direction to individuals in receiving needed services and assistance from on-going State and Federal programs. Other services provided include a nationwide toll-free telephone information and referral service, informational publications, technical assistance to refugee employment training programs and assistance to the refugee resettlement agencies.

7. Special benefits for disabled coal miners.—Administrative costs in 1979 are for monitoring and making changes to the beneficiary rolls and authorizing payments to entitled beneficiaries monthly. The reduction from the 1977 and 1978 levels of cost is due to a decline in the size of the beneficiary rolls as well as the completion in 1978 of almost all of the court cases remanded to the Bureau of Hearings and Appeals by the Federal courts.

8. Annual reporting of earnings.—Public Law 94-202, enacted January 2, 1976, authorizes a single annual wage reporting system to serve the data needs for both the Social Security Administration and the Internal Revenue Service. This legislation gives the Secretaries of Treasury and HEW authority to use form W-2, "Statement of Earnings," as an annual report of wages for both social security and income tax purposes. In addition, Public Law 94-202 mandates that the new system go into effect in 1978, with the first annual reports received by the Social Security Administration in early 1979.

A comparison of significant workloads under annual reporting to comparable quarterly reporting workloads follows (data in millions):

	Quarterly reporting		Annual reporting
	Each quarter	Annually
Private sector earnings items:
Hard copy.....	68	271	144
Magnetic tape.....	13	50	34
State and local earnings items:
Hard copy.....	7.6	30.4	30.4
Magnetic tape.....	3.4	13.6	13.6
Self-employed.....	—	7	7
Pages of documents.....	6.5	26	69

The volume of work increases under annual reporting because: (1) Some employees receive forms W-2 from more than one employer; (2) about 6.9 million non-FICA employee items (mostly Federal employees and State and local employees not now participating in the social security program) must now be processed; (3) the number of items received per page of reporting document decreases from an average of 15 to an average of 2.2, causing more than a tenfold increase in the volume of pages handled in a single processing period; (4) the average number of characters of data processed per earnings item increases from 26 characters under quarterly reporting to an average of 50 under annual reporting, with an increase from 4 to potentially 13 data fields to be processed; and, (5) additional data must be converted to provide earnings information required by the Internal Revenue Service.

The administrative costs budgeted for the system include the following activities: receiving source documents; examining them for adequacy, optical character scannability, and other factors; microfilming them; establishing processing control to insure thorough and accurate processing; submitting appropriate documents to optical scanners for data conversion; converting remaining documents and documents rejected by optical scanners through key-to-tape data conversion; and balancing processed data to assure accuracy.

Funding for all annual reporting activities will be shared by the trust funds and general revenues.

9. Pension reform.—Public Law 93-406, the "Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974" amends title XI of the Social Security Act by adding section 1131, which requires the Secretary of HEW to maintain files in order to furnish information regarding deferred vested pension rights to plan participants upon request, or to the participant (and his dependents or survivors) automatically when applying for social security benefits. This is the only provision specifically identifying SSA responsibility. However, under provisions of this Pension Reform Act, it is estimated that SSA will have to furnish 4 million work histories, under reimbursable agreements, over a 7-year period, to plan administrators if they are to meet their responsibilities under the law. To respond to the earnings information requests from the pension funds, additional copies of the individual earnings list microfilm will be produced.

The administrative costs budgeted for work related to pension reform include: (1) Establishing an automated system with a record of pension fund administrators and their addresses and a record of identifying information of individuals who leave the jurisdiction of a pension fund; (2) duplicating the individual earnings list microfilm in order to respond to earnings information requests from the pension funds; (3) providing individual earnings histories from SSA records as requested by the pension funds.

SSA activity in responding to pension plan request assume that regulations, being prepared by the Department of Labor informing the plans of their requirements, are effective October 1978.

10. Construction—(a) Headquarters.—The Social Security Administration's plan is to construct two buildings, one in downtown Baltimore and the other at the existing site in Woodlawn, Md. Construction has begun at both locations and the buildings are scheduled for completion in 1979. Funds remaining from prior years appropriations will be used in 1978 to complete construction of an access road from the headquarters site to Interstate Highway 70, and to purchase land at the headquarters site.

(b) District office.—The objective is to construct buildings to house Social Security district offices when the General Services Administration determines that construction is more feasible or economical than rental of commercial space or occupancy of existing Federal structures. At the end of 1977, SSA had completed and occupied 76 of these trust fund built offices. Current plans call for site acquisition and design of five additional offices each in 1978 and 1979. Construction of the first five will begin in 1979.

(c) Program service centers.—Construction of these centers was financed by the purchase contract method, with $126 million obtained through certificates of participation. Budget authority in the amount of $14,800 thousand for purchase contract payments is being requested for 1979. The funds for the purchase contract payments are reflected in these schedules as a transfer of money to GSA.

Under 42 U.S.C. 1306(b), the Social Security Administration is authorized (within limits set by the Privacy and Freedom of Information Acts) to provide information or services to other governmental organizations or private organizations on a reimbursable basis. Reimbursable work includes providing information from our records such as data relating to earnings, periods of employment, addresses of reporting employers, and employment data for pension funds and unions. Services provided on a reimbursable basis include printing or reproduction, processing data, or use of data processing equipment. The Department of Health, Education, and Welfare also acts as an agent for the Department of Labor by taking part C black lung claims under the Federal Mine Safety and Health Act of 1977. Costs incurred by the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare in taking claims for the Department of Labor are reimbursed by Labor and included in Labor's appropriation.

The American Printing House for the Blind, under the act "To Promote the Education of the Blind," provides educational materials to students of less than college grade who attend public schools and classes with sighted children and blind students who attend special schools and classes for the blind.

1. Educational materials.—The request for the educational materials will serve an estimated 32,400 eligible blind students, an increase of 1,680 over 1978. The estimated 1979 per capita rate of $110.62 will serve eligible blind children at about the same level of service provided during the past year.

Basic materials provided by the Printing House includes textbooks and literature in braille, including braille music, large-type texts, recorded materials, and many educational aids such as braille writers, talking books machines, cassette recorders, braille, and relief maps, etc. It is also necessary to produce special materials for the multihandicapped and preschool blind children being enrolled in educational programs.

2. Expenses related to advisory committees.—The Printing House has three committees: Publication Committee, Educational Aids Committee, and Educational Research Committee. The 1979 funds will make it possible for the Printing House field representatives to continue to work in educational settings throughout the country to assist and train teachers in the use of the aids and materials available under the act.

3. Educational and technical research.—The 1979 budget request provides a base of funding to maintain continuity and flexibility in educational materials development and associated research. Continuing development of needed educational materials is necessary if the Printing House is to meet its responsibility as defined under the act.

NATIONAL TECHNICAL INSTITUTE FOR THE DEAF

For carrying out the National Technical Institute for the Deaf Act (20 U.S.C. 681, et seq.), [$14,630,000] $16,625,000.

Note.—The appropriation for this account for 1978 had not been enacted at the time this budget was prepared. The 1978 amounts shown below are based upon a continuing resolution in effect through September 30, 1978, that provides for this account at a rate consistent with the amounts that would be provided by the conference version of the Departments of Labor, and Health, Education, and Welfare Appropriation Act, 1978.

1. Career development.—The National Technical Institute for the Deaf (NTID) is a national coeducational residential center that provides postsecondary technical education for the Nation's young deaf people to prepare them for successful employment. In 1979, NTID will continue to provide a full spectrum of direct technical education, communications training, and personal/social development services and the requisite instructional support services to a full-time equivalent student population of 1,070 deaf students. The validity of all NTID curricula will be reviewed on an ongoing basis using the curriculum process model and information on the labor market from the graduate feedback system. A total of 265 students will be placed in postgraduate and work experience situations.

2. Research.—The 1979 request will continue to provide ongoing applied research in the general areas of institutional organization and management, speech, audiology, manual communication, English language, personal/social accommodation, cognitive strategies, career development and decisionmaking, educational support services, and instructional technology as they relate to the technical and general education of a deaf population.

3. Training.—The request for training will provide a variety of sign language and interpreter training programs offered to 1,100 students, faculty and staff, and other professionals who work with the deaf. In addition, 400 people from external sources, or 23% of NTID's total training efforts, will be served as a part of a national effort in conjunction with NTID's educational extension efforts. The intent of these efforts is to provide both onsite and offsite, practical application training to professionals in the fields of higher education, deaf education, and clinical speech/audiology using NTID developed or otherwise proven methods. Finally, 200 graduate interns from colleges and universities, as well as business and service organizations across the country, will come to NTID to complete their training and practical application experience in areas such as speech, audiology, et cetera.

4. Information dissemination.—In addition to maintenance of the existing production system for Focus magazines, NTID catalog, placement and recruitment modules, alumni newsletters, info-series, radio and television spots, and the Annual Report, 1979 will see the culmination of NTID's major educational extension developmental effort. Scheduled for distribution on a national basis are such items as the explanatory materials on the responsibilities and use of interpreters; training methods for student notetakers; multimedia technical instruction modules in such areas as photoprocessing, electro-mechanical technology, and office practice; and programmed English grammar and vocabulary texts.

5. Management.—In 1979, the necessary academic and a national research and dissemination program will be accomplished. The existing organizational administration utilizes NTID's comprehensive planning system which provides for multilevel information on program planning and reporting, budgeting and accounting analyses, personnel administration, space utilization, student scheduling, and data analysis.

GALLAUDET COLLEGE

For carrying out the Model Secondary School for the Deaf Act (80 Stat. 1027) and for the partial support of Gallaudet College authorized by the Act of June 18, 1954 (68 Stat. 265), [$45,976,000] $44,833,000, of which [$16,216,000] $11,105,000 shall be for construction and shall remain available until expended: Provided, That if requested by the college, such construction shall be supervised by the General Services Administration.

1. Liberal arts college.—Gallaudet College is a private, nonprofit educational institution providing an undergraduate higher education program for deaf students, a preparatory program for those students who need such training to qualify for college admission, a graduate school program in fields related to deafness, and a continuing education program for deaf adults. In addition, Gallaudet provides a sign language program as a public service to the Washington Metropolitan area. Instruction includes basic, intermediate, advanced, and interpreter-level communication. The 1979 budget estimate will provide for continuation of necessary programs at current levels, expansion of operations and maintenance services associated with new facilities and for improvement of academic and non-academic services to students. Support will be provided to increase the public's awareness of Gallaudet College and its programs and activities through a program designed to support and help deaf persons on a broader national basis and to expand graduate school programs to provide a master's degree program in school psychology.

2. Model secondary school for the deaf.—As provided under Public Law 89-694, the model secondary school for the deaf: (a) serves as a laboratory for educational experimentation and development; (b) disseminates working models throughout the field of education of the deaf to programs serving deaf students and educational professionals; (c) prepares deaf adolescents for postsecondary academic and/or vocational pursuits; and (d) provides deaf adolescents with the skills necessary to become well adjusted, contributing, and effective members of the society. The 1979 budget estimate will provide for continuation of essential programs at current levels, and will permit program expansion to accommodate multiple handicapped youth admissions.

3. Kendall demonstration elementary school.—By an act of Congress, Public Law 91-587, the college is authorized to operate Kendall School as a national demonstration elementary school for the deaf. The school will provide: (a) an exemplary educational program for children from the age of onset of deafness through the age of 15; (b) a diagnostic center; (c) a parent education program; and (d) a source of important research on learning problems of young deaf children. The 1979 budget estimate will provide for continuation of essential programs at current levels, and will permit growth in the student population served together with expansion of existing and addition of necessary new programs upon occupancy of the new Kendall School facility in January 1980.

4. Construction.—The 1979 budget estimate for construction will provide for equipping and furnishing the new learning center, upgrading security on campus, constructing a theater annex, renovating and furnishing the Student Union Building and Ely Hall, initiating a program to remove architectural barriers on campus, and completing the third phase of an energy conservation, safety, and security system.

In 1979, the college will directly serve an enrollment of approximately 1,410 graduate and undergraduate students; the MSSD anticipates an enrollment of about 365 students in its programs; and Kendall School anticipates an enrollment of 200. In addition, the college will directly serve approximately 7,825 persons through enrollment in continuing education programs. Gallaudet indirectly serves many tens of thousands of deaf persons both in the United States and abroad and also serves more than 10,000 teachers and administrators in deaf education.

HOWARD UNIVERSITY

For the partial support of Howard University, [$99,118,000] $113,393,000, of which [$3,925,000] $10,000,000 shall be for construction and shall remain available until expended: Provided, That if requested by the University, such construction shall be supervised by the General Services Administration.

1. Academic program.—Howard University is a private nonprofit educational institution consisting of an undergraduate college, a graduate school offering the master's degree and the degree of doctor of philosophy (in African studies, anatomy, biochemistry, chemistry, economics, English, genetics and human genetics, history, mathematics, pharmacology, physics, physiology, political science, psychology, sociology/anthropology, speech and zoology) and 15 professional schools. Federal funds provide 57% of the total operating costs for the academic program. Funds from non-Federal sources are realized from tuition and fees, gifts, grants, endowments, dormitory rents, cafeteria, bookstore sales, and hospital patient fees.

The request for 1979 includes funds for built-in increases such as faculty and staff increases and for partial support of the university's retirement program. In addition funds are also provided for program improvements in the university library system and in the schools of medicine and communications.

The university enrollment for 1979 is estimated at 9,042: 2,550 for undergraduate, 6,290 for graduate and professionals schools, and 202 for the Howard University Hospital.

2. Howard University Hospital.—The hospital furnishes inpatient and outpatient care and a facility for training of physicians and nurses and other professional and technical health personnel. Operation of the hospital is financed by Federal appropriation and patient revenue for medical services including medicare and contractual services from the D.C. government and other local jurisdictions. Federal funds provide 48% of the total operating costs.

1. Grants to States for social services.—In the basic title XX program there is a $2.5 billion ceiling limitation on Federal matching to provide social services to assist eligible persons to become or remain economically self-supporting and self-sufficient; to protect children and adults who cannot protect themselves from abuse, neglect, and exploitation, and to help families stay together; to prevent or reduce inappropriate institutional care by providing for community-based care, home-based care, or other forms of less intensive care; and to arrange for institutional placement, when appropriate, and for services to individuals in institutions.

Within the basic program, grants are made to States based on Federal matching rates of 75% for all services except family planning services which are matched at 90%.

A total of $543,000 thousand is included in the Treasury budget, for proposed legislation, for settling outstanding social services State claims from periods prior to title XX.

2. Child day care.—In 1977 and 1978 an additional $200 million per year has been authorized above the $2.5 billion title XX ceiling for the purpose of providing child day care services and grants to hire welfare recipients in jobs related to the provision of child day care services. These funds are 100% Federal matching for the eligible State expenditures. In 1979 authorization is to be requested to continue this special day care grant program.

3. State and local training.—The 1974 social services amendments to the Social Security Act authorized 75% Federal financial participation in costs associated with providing training to staff of title XX agencies, service delivery personnel of provider agencies, persons preparing for employment in title XX agencies, and individual providers.

Child welfare services are available to all children who need such services without regard to the economic circumstances of their families.

Federal financial participation represents about 6% of total program costs. States are encouraged to coordinate child welfare services with the social services program. Legislation is proposed for 1979 that would modify the present program to provide for the development of State systems for tracking, case review, and protective and restorative services for children in or potentially in foster care.

1. Administration for children, youth, and families.—The programs supported by the Administration for Children, Youth, and Families provide services and activities designed to have a major impact on young children, adolescents, and their families. In 1979, the Head Start program will continue to focus its efforts on improving the delivery of services that are both cost effective and responsive to the needs of children, and on improving local capacity to plan and manage services to children. The level of $680,000 thousand requested for Head Start will provide comprehensive Head Start services to approximately 442,000 children. A level of $19,000 thousand for research and demonstration activities will support projects in the field of child welfare and development initiated in previous years, as well as new projects in the areas of family support and family strengthening, with particular emphasis on improving the quality and delivery of day care services. In addition, these funds will support youth development research, including continuation projects to test models for the provision of comprehensive services to youth and families in crisis, and initiatives related to the conduct of youth target group planning and capacity building projects. The level of $21,228 thousand requested for the child abuse prevention program will support the continuation of activities which provide a broad range of services to children and their families, the evaluation of centers, and the development and conduct of demonstration training programs and other innovative programs showing promise of success. In addition, the initiation of a national prevention effort will be supported.

2. Administration on Aging.—Programs for the aging will continue to pursue the national goal of securing and maintaining independence and dignity in a home environment for older persons capable of self care with appropriate supportive services, and removing individual and social barriers to economic and personal independence for older persons. Under Title III, $172,000 thousand is requested for the following State and area agency activities to expand and improve services and service delivery to the elderly: (1) planning, advocacy, and service coordination to achieve a more comprehensive and coordinated service delivery system; (2) coordination and pooling of available public and private resources to strengthen existing services or inaugurate new services; and (3) strategic funding to fill priority service gaps. Under Title III, $15,000 thousand will support model projects on innovative service delivery models. In addition, $172,000 thousand is requested to advance fund State and area agency activities. Under Title VII, $287,000 thousand is requested to support the nutrition program which will provide approximately 530,000 meals per day, 5 days per week to elderly persons, and to improve the capacity of State and local agencies to meet the nutritional and related social needs of the elderly. Legislation will be proposed to replace the USDA food commodity contributions with direct cash grants in order to provide projects with greater flexibility for purchasing foods. An amount of $287,000 thousand is requested to advance fund Title VII. Under Title IV, $29,300 thousand is requested to support research and training activities, as well as multidisciplinary centers on gerontology. Of this amount $8,500 thousand is requested for research projects to further develop and validate substantive information upon which reasoned policy and program decisions can be made; $17,000 thousand is requested to support activities for career training, inservice training, and manpower development in order to assure an adequate number of trained personnel in the field of aging; $3,800 thousand is requested to continue the support of existing centers of gerontology and to provide support for 20 to 25 new centers. Under Title V, $40,000 thousand is requested to support the upgrading of existing centers and the acquisition of new centers to serve as focal points for older persons in their communities for services and socialization to maximize independent living and participation in the community. For 1980 advance funding of $40,000 thousand is requested for this activity. In addition, $450 thousand is requested to continue to support the Federal Council on Aging and $2,000 thousand is requested to support the national clearinghouse, which will make accessible a comprehensive body of information on the elderly to the general public.

3. Administration for Handicapped Individuals.—The rehabilitation program provides services to mentally and physically handicapped people to enable them to prepare for and engage in gainful employment. A wide range of services may be provided including counseling, vocational evaluation, work adjustment, medical and physical restoration, vocational training, job placement and post employment services.

A priority goal of the basic State-Federal program will be to serve and place into gainful employment as many handicapped individuals as is possible, with heavy emphasis placed on serving and rehabilitating greater numbers of the severely handicapped. In addition, vocational rehabilitation services will continue to be provided to recipients of supplemental security income and social security disability insurance. For 1980, $785,000 thousand is requested for advance funding the basic State grant program.

The innovation and expansion grants program will provide state vocational rehabilitation agencies with funds to be used in planning, testing, and evaluating alternative approaches to improving the capacity, quality or cost effectiveness of discrete service delivery components in the vocational rehabilitation delivery system.

Special projects provide funds for specialized programs, services, studies, and activities which are not fulfilled through the basic State-Federal program. These projects provide services for the most severely handicapped who have been underserved in the past or who have not yet been accepted into VR system.

In 1979, rehabilitation research activities will focus on developing and applying knowledge that will enable VR agencies to improve their operations and program and resource management, and to develop, produce and apply techniques that will restore physical and mental functions to enhance employment potential of the severely handicapped.

In rehabilitation training, priority emphasis will be given to training personnel required by State VR agencies to serve severely handicapped individuals such as the blind, the deaf, the spinal cord injured, and those with end-stage renal disease. The budget request would forward fund this program in order to notify schools in advance of the academic year of the size of their grant.

¹ Added resources will be made available to States if individuals meet the special selection criteria of the Social Security Administration.

Under programs for the developmentally disabled a higher level of Federal support will be made available under the State grant program to enable States to increase the provision of quality services to the developmentally disabled through the design and implementation of a comprehensive State plan and the implementation of a system for the protection and advocacy of the rights of those being served. Approximately 30 special project grants will be supported for demonstration projects and training and technical assistance to promote adequate community-based programs for the care and habilitation and deinstitutionalization efforts for the developmentally disabled. Support will also continue for the university affiliated facilities programs.

4. Administration for Public Services.—In 1979 $2,975 thousand is requested to support research and evaluation activities authorized under sections 1110, 1115, and 426 of the Social Security Act. Grantee funding requested will be allocated to approximately 275 tribes or rural Indian groups, 12 Alaskan villages, 3 Native Hawaiian projects, and 75 urban organizations. Approximately 12% to 15% of the eligible population will be directly served. Following the development of local plans, project grants will be made available in 1979 to support high priority activities designed to achieve improved utilization of existing Federal, State, and local resources, and to bridge major gaps in essential economic and social services.

7. White House Conference on Families.—In 1979 State and national interest group conferences will be held in preparation for the national conference which will take place in early winter, 1979.

The work incentive (WIN) program is designed to encourage and assist individuals receiving support from the aid to families with dependent children (AFDC) program to achieve self-support through a program for employment, work experience, training, and support services. Employment, work experience, and training are administered by the Department of Labor; supportive services by the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare. State expenditures are matched by Federal participation at the rate of 90%.

Funding provided to the States allows them maximum flexibility to design the program mix most suitable to their population and priorities.

1. Grants to States.—The program includes registration, callup for appraisal and employability planning, counseling and development, direct placement, follow-up of all employed registrants, and adjudication of the work test. Individuals are prepared for self-supporting employment through on-the-job training, public service employment, work experience, and institutional training. Child care and other services necessary to enable WIN participants to accept training or employment are also provided. In 1979, approximately one million new applicants for AFDC will register with the WIN program. During the course of the year, about 270,000 registrants will be placed in jobs.

2. Program direction and evaluation.—This activity provides for the administration and evaluation of the WIN program.

The 1979 estimate proposes an appropriation of $3,490 thousand for the purchase of foreign currencies in excess currency countries to support research activities which complement, supplement, and strengthen domestic research and service programs. This program enables the United States to benefit from progress that other countries are making in dealing with rehabilitation, and social security problems, and to utilize the talents of foreign scientists working in these fields.

The 1979 request will be used to support 18 projects in 5 countries that have excess currencies. Sixteen research and demonstration projects are planned in the area of vocational rehabilitation services, including the rehabilitation of trauma patients, burn patients, cancer patients, the mentally ill, and the establishment of a rehabilitation engineering center and a model system for the rehabilitation of the spinal cord injured. Two projects are proposed for 1979 dealing with social security problems. These projects will provide analysis of the experience of other nations in dealing with comparable social insurance and social welfare problems.

There will be U.S. consultants and international scientists or fellows participating in the program during 1979. This interchange of experts program supplements the research and demonstration international program and provides direct technical assistance and information among scientists.

1. Departmental direction.—The departmental direction activity includes those subactivities which are primarily of a policy nature or which provide administrative guidance to the various components of the Department. These subactivities include:

(a) Executive direction.—Broad policy direction is given to the various operating programs of the Department. Staff assistance is provided for the development of the Department's legislative program and for coordination and leadership in all areas of program operation. Staffing is provided for long-range program and policy planning. Planning for welfare reform and a national health insurance program is being conducted.

(b) Public information.—Overall guidance is given to the Department's relations with the public. Information is provided to the press, various public and private organizations, and to interested individuals.

(c) Management and budget.—Staff assistance is provided in formulating policy in all areas of budget, finance, grants and procurement management, and management information systems.

(d) Personnel administration.—The Office is responsible for planning and implementing Department-wide policy in personnel management, training and career development, and equal employment opportunity.

(e) Field management.—This staff supports the offices of the 10 departmental principal regional officials who are the Secretary's representatives in the regions. These officials provide a central focus for congressional office district services, relations with non-Federal governments and the media; conduct assessments of program service delivery; and coordinate problems which involve more than one of the Department's agencies.

(f) General Counsel.—The Office of the General Counsel acts as legal adviser to and provides legal services for the Secretary, certain of the operating agencies of the Department, and the staff of the regional offices.

2. Departmental operations.—The departmental operations activity provides services to the various components of the Department and performs work related directly to the public. These subactivities include:

(a) Facilities engineering.—This subactivity provides a single point of contact for all HEW construction support services; standardization of facilities policies and procedures; surveillance of special purpose projects with regard to design, construction and fund utilization; and administration of standard level user and reimbursable service costs for payment to GSA under Public Law 92-313. The regional staffs are under the administrative direction of the principal regional officials, and functional management of headquarters.

(b) Administrative services.—Provides for the headquarters components of DHEW, centralized mail and messenger services; procurement and distribution of congressional materials; purchasing, supply, and laboring services; reproduction services which consist of offset printing, photographic, visual exhibits, and collating services; procurement of printing from the Government Printing Office and other sources; and inventory management.

(c) Grants and payment system.—Provides a single system that pays all DHEW grant, contract and loan programs classified as Federal assistance in nature, less a few programs not susceptible to a centralized system.

(d) Regional services.—Provides departmentwide common regional administrative services including personnel, financial, indirect cost negotiation and office services.

(e) Employee systems center.—Provides central payroll services for all DHEW employees and departmentwide personnel data services including automated reports and data for all operating components of the Department.

(f) Legal services.—This subactivity covers the legal workloads of the Food and Drug Administration and the Social Security Administration.

The Office of the Inspector General, created by Public Law 94-505, includes the Immediate Office of the Inspector General, the Office of Health Care and Systems Review, the Audit Agency, and the Office of Investigations.

(a) Immediate Office.—The Inspector General oversees the audit, investigations, and systems staffs within the Office.

(b) Health Care and Systems Review.—The Office provides an oversight capability to identify and correct inefficiencies, waste and fraud in all the Department's operations including those health programs specifically cited in Public Law 94-505. In performing this oversight function the Office coordinates those activities in the principal operating components designed to promote efficient program operations and to eliminate fraud and abuse, and it coordinates relationships with Federal, State, and local governments and nongovernmental entities.

(c) Audit Agency.—The HEW Audit Agency is responsible for the policy and coordination of all Department audit activities, including liaison and coordination with the Defense Contract Audit Agency and other agencies. It performs internal and external audits of all Department activities to provide assurance that Federal funds are used for the purposes intended. The Audit Agency is administered on a decentralized basis with the central office in Washington, D.C., responsible for policy, coordination, and overall administration, and a regional staff responsible for the performance of all audits.

(d) Office of Investigations.—The Office investigates fraud and abuse in the management of departmental programs and in the utilization of Federal assistance funds provided by the Department. It serves as the HEW liaison with the Department of Justice and U.S. attorneys on criminal investigation matters, directs and coordinates criminal investigations task forces involving HEW programs, and coordinates Federal-State investigative efforts involving HEW-funded programs. The Office of Investigations is administered from headquarters in Washington, D.C., with investigations directed by field staff located in the regions.

The Office for Civil Rights is responsible for carrying out the Department's enforcement programs under title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 (racial and ethnic discrimination), title IX of the Education Amendments of 1972 (sex discrimination), Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 (discrimination against the physically and mentally handicapped), Executive Order 11246 (employment discrimination on the basis of race, color, religion, sex, and national origin), Public Law 93-638 (Indian Preference Act), sections 799A and 845 of the Public Health Service Act of 1972 (sex discrimination in medical education and nurse training programs), section 407 of the Drug Abuse Office and Treatment Act of 1972 (discrimination in the admission of drug addicts to hospitals), and section 321 of the Comprehensive Alcohol Abuse and Alcoholism Prevention, Treatment and Rehabilitation Act of 1970 (discrimination in the admission of alcoholics to hospitals). These statutes require nondiscrimination in the employment and service delivery systems of virtually every elementary, secondary and postsecondary educational system or institution; every hospital, nursing home, child care or other medical institution; and every State and local health, welfare, social service and education agency throughout the Nation. The statutes require the Department to investigate complaints, conduct periodic reviews, negotiate to secure compliance, conduct appropriate enforcement proceedings, and promote voluntary compliance by all of these recipients of Federal financial assistance.

The Office is also responsible, under Executive Order 11914, for providing guidance to and coordinating the implementation of section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 by all Federal departments and agencies empowered to extend Federal financial assistance.

For 1978, the administration is requesting a supplemental for 898 full-time permanent positions to reduce the backlog in investigating discrimination complaints. This supplemental will represent over an 80% increase in staff resources for the Office for Civil Rights.

The Director, Office for Civil Rights also serves as special assistant to the Secretary and as such advises the Secretary on all civil rights-related policies and programs.

¹ Operating costs in 1978 and 1979 represent the liquidation of 1977 and prior year obligations for activities being transferred from the Working capital fund.

The DHEW Working capital fund provides a single means for consolidating financing and accounting of business-type operations involving the sale of services to customers.

The fund was originally authorized by Public Law 82-452 (66 Stat. 369) to finance central services provided by Departmental management to itself and to the several operating agencies.

During 1977, nine program classifications were included in the fund. Commencing in 1978 and thereafter seven of the program classifications will be dropped and financed through regular appropriations.

The following activities will operate under the fund:

1. Data management services.—Provides data systems design and consultation, key punching, and computer processing to DHEW operating agencies.

5. Administrative Services—(c) Printing and reproduction.—Provides reproduction services which consist of offset printing, photographic, visual exhibits, collating and addressograph services, procurement of printing from the Government Printing Office and other sources.

Operating results.—The fund continued to operate on a sound financial basis. Retained earnings in excess of current needs will be returned to Working capital fund customers in proportion to their contribution to the surplus. Funded annual leave liability transferred to appropriations will be reimbursed direct to Treasury in the amount recorded at the end of 1977.

1. Maintenance and operations.—New legislation is proposed to adjust the entitlements of local educational agencies under Public Law 81-874 to reflect more closely the actual burden that Federal activities place on those agencies, to simplify administration of the program, and to repeal pinpoint disaster payments. The proposed reforms, which will be accomplished over the next several years, place the program on a forward funded basis starting in 1979. The reduction in budget authority of $76.4 million from the amount shown under existing law reflecting program reform is more than offset by the request of $752 million to forward fund the program.

SOCIAL SECURITY ADMINISTRATION

ASSISTANCE PAYMENTS

There are a number of legislative proposals which affect the assistance payments programs.

1. Maintenance assistance.—(a) Standardize the AFDC work expense disregard so that, except for child care expenses, the disregard would be computed as a fixed percentage of earned income rather than based on an itemization of work-related expenses. This would simplify administration of the AFDC program and provide a more appropriate State standard for work-related expenses. (Outlay reduction of $119 million.)

(b) Expand and revise the emergency assistance program so that low income citizens are protected from the most severe financial effects of energy crises and other emergencies. (Outlay increase of $125 million.)

(c) Increase to 75% the Federal matching rates for benefits paid under the AFDC and medicaid programs in Guam, Puerto Rico, and the Virgin Islands, double the total reimbursement ceilings, and require that these territories maintain their contributions under the AFDC program so that the increase in Federal support may be passed through to the poor. This would be a step toward achieving comparability with the public assistance programs in the States. (Outlay increase of $26 million in AFDC.)

2. Child support enforcement.—(a) Eliminate the requirement for incentive payments to States and political subdivisions in interstate child support cases. Since the cost of calculating the incentive payment and transferring it to the proper jurisdiction frequently exceeds the amount of the payment, and since other effective incentives for interstate cooperation exist, elimination of the incentive payment in order to simplify State administration and reduce public assistance expenditures is appropriate and desirable. (Outlay reduction of $21 million.)

(b) Provide Federal financial participation at 75% for child support enforcement services provided by a State to non-AFDC families, and limit the non-AFDC population eligible for these services to those whose total income does not exceed 200% of the State's standard of need. This proposal will make the program more manageable for the States in 1979 by reducing the potential number of cases, while continuing to provide services to individuals who are vulnerable to becoming eligible for AFDC. (Outlay increase of $12 million.)

There are a number of legislative proposals which affect the old-age and survivors and the disability insurance trust funds:

1. Several proposals previously transmitted and now pending in Congress are being resubmitted with this budget. The major items are: (a) a proposal to insure reimbursement from the requesting party of the full cost of retrieving and transmitting information for pension reform information purposes and (b) a proposal establishing a maximum student benefit (outlay reduction of $131 million).

2. Eliminate the minimum benefit for new eligibles and freeze the minimum benefit for those already on the rolls at the amount in effect before the 1978 automatic benefit increase. This proposal would help ease two criticisms: that the minimum benefit is a windfall for those who were not solely dependent on covered earnings; and that it is an undesirable welfare aspect of the social security program. (Outlay reduction of $38 million in 1978 and $254 million in 1979.)

3. Limit the payment of retroactive benefits to 3 months instead of 12 months as under present law. Most retroactive payments are not needed to maintain current income. Also, such a change would simplify the social security program, and encourage beneficiaries to apply for benefits when they retire (outlay reduction of $121 million).

4. Start entitlement to retired workers' benefits, and their dependent's benefits with the first month during all of which all requirements for entitlement are met. This proposal would eliminate the payment of benefits for months in which eligibility does not exist for the entire month, and thus simplify the program (outlay reduction of $138 million).

Legislation is proposed to extend the present provision of $200,000 thousand under title XX for child day care. Reimbursement is at a rate of 100% for supporting either grants for child day care services or grants to providers to employ Aid to Families with Dependent Children recipients as child care workers.

Legislation is also proposed to broaden the scope of child welfare services, to protect and enhance the status of children in foster care, to safeguard their parents' rights, to reunite families where feasible, provide for permanent placement of foster care children as soon as possible, and to provide assistance for adoption. Encouragement will be provided to the States to improve legal procedures and systems to care for and monitor the status of foster care children.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

Note.—The appropriations for this agency had not been enacted at the time this budget was prepared. The 1978 language shown below is based upon a continuing resolution in effect through September 30, 1978, that provides for language consistent with that which would be provided by the conference version of the Departments of Labor, and Health, Education, and Welfare Appropriation Act 1978, as further amplified by the continuing resolution (see note following section 209).

SEC. 201. None of the funds appropriated by this title [to the Social and Rehabilitation Service] for grants-in-aid of State agencies to cover, in whole or in part, the cost of operation of said agencies, including the salaries and expenses of officers and employees of said agencies, shall be withheld from the said agencies of any State which have established by legislative enactment and have in operation a merit system and classification and compensation plan covering the selection, tenure in office, and compensation of their employees, because of any disapproval of their personnel or the matter of their selection by the agencies of the said States, or the rates of pay of said officers or employees.

SEC. 202. Funds appropriated in this Act to the American Printing House for the Blind, Howard University, the National Technical Institute for the Deaf, and Gallaudet College shall be awarded to these institutions in the form of lump-sum grants and expenditures made therefrom shall be subject to audit by the Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare.

SEC. 203. None of the funds provided herein shall be used to pay any recipient of a grant for the conduct of a research project an amount equal to as much as the entire cost of such project.

SEC. 204. None of the funds contained in this title shall be available for additional permanent positions in the Washington area if the total authorized positions in the Washington area is allowed to exceed the proportion existing at the close of fiscal year 1966.

SEC. 205. Appropriations in this Act for the Health Services Administration, the National Institutes of Health, the Center for Disease Control, the Alcohol, Drug Abuse, and Mental Health Administration, and Health Resources Administration and Department Management shall be available for expenses for active commissioned officers in the Public Health Service Reserve Corps and for not to exceed two thousand eight hundred commissioned officers in the Regular Corps; expenses incident to the dissemination of health information in foreign countries through exhibits and other appropriate means; advances of funds for compensation, travel, and subsistence expenses (or per diem in lieu thereof) for persons coming from abroad to participate in health or scientific activities of the Department pursuant to law; expenses of primary and secondary schooling of dependents in foreign countries, of Public Health Service commissioned officers stationed in foreign countries, at costs for any given area not in excess of those of the Department of Defense for the same area, when it is determined by the Secretary that the schools available in the locality are unable to provide adequately for the education of such dependents, and for the transportation of such dependents between such schools and their places of residence when the schools are not accessible to such dependents by regular means of transportation; rental or lease of living quarters (for periods not exceeding 5 years), and provision of heat, fuel, and light and maintenance, improvement, and repair of such quarters, and advance payments therefor, for civilian officers, and employees of the Public Health Service who are United States citizens and who have a permanent station in a foreign country, purchase, erection, and maintenance of temporary or portable structures; and for the payment of compensation to consultants or individual scientists appointed for limited periods of time pursuant to section 207(f) or section 207(g) of the Public Health Service Act, at rates established by the Assistant Secretary for Health, or the Secretary where such action is required by statute, not to exceed the per diem rate equivalent to the rate for GS-18; not to exceed $9,500 for official reception and representation expenses related to any health agency of the Department when specifically approved by the Assistant Secretary for Health.

SEC. 206. No part of the funds contained in this title may be used to force any school or school district which is desegregated as that term is defined in title IV of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, Public Law 88-352, to take any action to force the busing of students; to force on account of race, creed or color the abolishment of any school so desegregated; or to force the transfer or assignment of any student attending any elementary or secondary school so desegregated to or from a particular school over the protest of his or her parents or parent.

SEC. 207. (a) No part of the funds contained in this title shall be used to force any school or school district which is desegregated as that term is defined in title IV of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, Public Law 88-352, to take any action to force the busing of students; to require the abolishment of any school so desegregated; or to force on account of race, creed, or color the transfer of students to or from a particular school so desegregated as a condition precedent to obtaining Federal funds otherwise available to any State, school district or school.

(b) No funds appropriated in this Act may be used for the transportation of students or teachers (or for the purchase of equipment for such transportation) in order to overcome racial imbalance in any school or school system, or for the transportation of students or teachers (or for the purchase of equipment for such transportation) in order to carry out a plan of racial desegregation of any school or school system.

SEC. 208. None of the funds contained in this Act shall be used to require, directly or indirectly, the transportation of any student to a school other than the school which is nearest the student's home, except for a student requiring special education, to the school offering such special education, in order to comply with title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964. For the purpose of this section an indirect requirement of transportation of students includes the transportation of students to carry out a plan involving the reorganization of the grade structure of schools, the pairing of schools, or the clustering of schools, or any combination of grade restructuring, pairing, or clustering. The prohibition described in this section does not include the establishment of magnet schools.]

SEC. [209] 208. None of the funds contained in this Act shall be used to perform abortions except where the life of the mother would be endangered if the fetus were carried to term.

Note.—Section 101 of the joint resolution making further continuing appropriations for the fiscal year 1978 (Public Law 95-205), for the Department of Health Education and Welfare and certain other agencies, contains the following further provision: "Provided, That none of the funds provided for in this paragraph shall be used to perform abortions except where the life of the mother would be endangered if the fetus were carried to term; or except for such medical procedures necessary for the victims of rape or incest, when such rape or incest has been reported promptly to a law enforcement agency or public health service; or except in those instances where severe and long-lasting physical health damage to the mother would result if the pregnancy were carried to term when so determined by two physicians."

"Nor are payments prohibited for drugs or devices to prevent implantation of the fertilized ovum, or for medical procedures necessary for the termination of an ectopic pregnancy."

"The Secretary shall promptly issue regulations and establish procedures to ensure that the provisions of this section are rigorously enforced." (Conference Report, House of Representatives, Report No. 95-538 of July 26, 1977.)

SEC. [210] 209. Funds advanced to the National Institutes of Health Management Fund from appropriations in this Act shall be available for the expenses of sharing medical care facilities and resources pursuant to section 328 of the Public Health Service Act.

DEPARTMENT OF HOUSING AND URBAN DEVELOPMENT

This chapter presents the budget and program estimates for the Department of Housing and Urban Development. Most of the Department's programs are also discussed in part V of the budget (the Federal program by function) under one of three headings: Commerce and housing credit (mortgage credit and thrift insurance); Community and regional development; and Income security (public assistance and other income supplements).

The major divisions of this chapter conform to the Department's functions, as set forth below:

1. Housing programs covers the Department's major housing subsidy programs as well as the mortgage insurance activities of the Federal Housing Administration fund. Other functions included under this heading are loan management, property disposition, community disposal operations, liquidating programs, and the provision of temporary housing for persons displaced by disasters.

2. Government National Mortgage Association (GNMA) covers the Department's programs to increase the availability of mortgage credit and stabilize the financing of selected types of mortgage loans. This heading also covers GNMA management and liquidating functions, the guarantee of mortgage-backed securities, and trustee activities in connection with participation certificates that are backed by loan obligations of various trustor agencies.

3. Community planning and development covers the community development grant program authorized by the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974, as amended. This heading also covers the comprehensive planning grant (section 701) program, rehabilitation loans (section 312), and the new urban extension program as well as the closeout of projects under terminated categorical community development programs.

4. Policy development and research includes the policy development, economic analysis, program evaluation, and research activities of the Department.

Other major divisions within the Department include the New Communities Administration; the Federal Insurance Administration; Neighborhoods, Voluntary Associations and Consumer Protection, including the Office of Interstate Land Sales Registration; Fair Housing and Equal Opportunity; and Departmental Management. The Department's major disaster relief activities are administered by the Federal Disaster Assistance Administration and are discussed in the Funds Appropriated to the President chapter.

Day-to-day administration, processing, and funding decisions for programs of the Department of Housing and Urban Development are carried out in area and insuring offices located within the geographical boundaries of 10 regional offices.

The subsidized housing programs schedule reflects both budget authority to enter into additional contracts for subsidized housing and an appropriation for payments required to liquidate such contracts under seven separate programs as described below. This budget consolidates these separate programs to simplify the budget presentation for subsidized housing activity. The proposed appropriation language would continue the practice of making budget authority available pursuant to specific authorizations. Housing assistance contracts obligate the Federal Government to make annual payments up to the contract amount over the life of the project or mortgage. Since payments usually commence near or upon completion of the dwelling, payments often are not required until 1 to 4 years after execution of the contract. The term of the contract also varies among the respective programs.

Total obligations in 1979 are estimated at $31,756.7 million which will be utilized primarily to fund 400,000 additional subsidized housing units. However, estimated unobligated balances available of $7,066.1 million would reduce the requirement for new budget authority to $24,650.9 million in current authority and $39.7 million in permanent authority. In addition, an appropriation of $4,503.0 million is proposed for 1979 to liquidate contractual obligations made under the various subsidized housing programs. The following subsidized housing programs are included in the consolidated schedule:

1. Lower income housing assistance (section 8).—The Housing and Community Development Act of 1974 substantially amended the United States Housing Act of 1937 and authorized a program of assistance to lower income families commonly referred to as the section 8 program. For 1979, $16.9 billion in new budget authority will be required for section 8. This new authority, together with the estimated $6.4 billion available from prior years, would fund the total estimated program requirement of $23.3 billion. Assistance may be provided to eligible families on the basis of contracts with either public housing agencies (PHA's) or contracts made directly with private owners who wish to participate in the program. Depending on community housing needs as expressed in local housing assistance plans, the program can be used with existing housing stock, to stimulate rehabilitation of deteriorated and substandard housing units, or to provide subsidies to tenants in newly constructed projects. Participating families pay rents equal to at least 15% and no more than 25% of income.

For 1979, this budget proposes reservations for 344,000 units for lower income households. The proposed distribution of units includes 164,000 existing housing units and 180,000 newly constructed or substantially rehabilitated units. Of the existing housing units, 10,000 are estimated to be used in multifamily projects with HUD-insured or HUD-held mortgages that are experiencing severe financial problems. Another 39,000 of the existing units are expected to require moderate rehabilitation.

2. Public housing.—The United States Housing Act of 1937, as amended, authorizes a locally operated low-income public housing program in which public housing agencies engage in or assist in the development and operation of public housing projects which may be newly constructed, existing, rehabilitated, or leased. HUD makes annual contributions to PHA's for the PHA-owned or leased housing. The act also authorizes the provision of financial assistance to Indian housing authorities to plan, build, own, and operate low-income public housing projects. Initial occupancy of public housing projects is limited to low-income families and rents are established by PHA's subject to HUD approval.

This budget proposes that $6.6 billion in budget authority be used to approve applications for 56,000 newly constructed and rehabilitated units. Of the new units, 6,000 would be for Indian public housing. In addition, an estimated $400 million in budget authority will be required to fund amendments to previously approved public housing projects.

Also included is budget authority of $750 million for modernization of public housing to make capital improvements and major repairs to public housing projects owned and operated by PHA's.

In addition, $39.7 million of permanent budget authority is provided for adjustments to existing public housing section 23 leased housing contracts to fund unavoidable increases in operating and maintenance costs.

3. Rent supplement.—The Housing and Urban Development Act of 1965, as amended, authorized rent supplement payments to owners of certain private housing on behalf of qualified low-income tenants. Part III of this appendix includes a supplemental request for the release of rent supplement contract authority. Budget authority for 1-year contracts only is requested to fund interim rent increases during 1978. Beginning in 1979, the proposed Troubled projects operating subsidy program will be used to assist qualifying projects with rent supplement units.

4. Homeownership assistance (section 235).—The Housing and Urban Development Act of 1968, as amended, authorizes a homeownership subsidy for lower income families under section 235 of the National Housing Act. Under this program, mortgage interest costs are subsidized down to 5%. The homeowner must contribute at least 20% of adjusted gross income toward monthly mortgage insurance and tax payments on the house.

For 1979, reservations are estimated for 50,000 new and substantially rehabilitated units. These reservations will be made out of $7.9 billion of budget authority obligated in 1976 pursuant to court order. The long-term obligations resulting from reservations made in 1979 are expected to be approximately $1.9 billion based on maximum contract terms of 30 years.

5. Rental housing assistance (section 236).—The Housing and Urban Development Act of 1968, as amended, authorized a program to subsidize the monthly mortgage payment which the owner of a rental or cooperative project is required to make. This interest subsidy is intended to reduce rents for lower income tenants.

Reservation of all previous bona fide commitments made to specific projects or agencies before the termination of the production program in January 1973 will be completed in 1978 and no new units will be reserved in 1979. Contract authority remaining in 1979 will be used for deep subsidies pursuant to the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974, as amended, and for amendments to existing contracts.

6. College housing grants.—The Housing Act of 1950 as amended by the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1968 authorized the payment of debt service grants to colleges and eligible hospitals for the construction of student housing and related facilities. No new applications for grants have been approved since the program was terminated in 1973. Payments are made pursuant to the existing contracts.

7. State housing finance and development agencies.—Section 802 of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974 authorized grants to be made to or on behalf of State housing finance and development agencies. Such grants may not exceed 33½% of the interest payable on bonds, debentures, notes, and other obligations issued by such agencies to finance housing related facilities. No funds have been proposed for this program for 1979 because of a lack of interest on the part of State agencies, and the obligations shown are from prior year authorizations. Payments are made pursuant to the terms of existing contracts.

Payments for the operation of low-income housing projects are provided to assist public housing agencies (PHA's) to meet certain deficits in the operation of PHA-owned low-income housing in accordance with the United States Housing Act of 1937, as amended. These payments are in addition to the annual contributions for debt service provided by HUD to cover the development, acquisition, or modernization costs of the projects. Operating subsidies provided to PHA's are based on a performance funding system (PFS) formula which limits subsidy payments to what it would cost a well-managed PHA to operate comparable projects. In addition, the budget proposes to make available up to $12 million to meet operating deficits where the PFS formula does not adequately meet new or unforeseen requirements of well-managed agencies.

TROUBLED PROJECTS OPERATING SUBSIDY

For assistance payments to owners of eligible multifamily housing projects, under the program of operating subsidies for troubled multifamily housing projects, $74,000,000, to remain available until expended: *Provided, That none of the funds appropriated in this paragraph shall be available for obligation except upon the enactment into law of authorizing legislation. The administration is proposing an operating subsidy for financially troubled, subsidized projects with HUD-insured or HUD-held mortgages. The subsidy will be available to projects developed under section 221(d)(3) (below market interest rate) and section 236 of the National Housing Act as well as to rent supplement units. A project will be eligible if (1) it is in serious default, (2) its mortgage is held by HUD, or (3) it has been acquired and will be sold to a purchaser who agrees to maintain the low- or moderate-income character of the project.

The subsidies are intended to prevent potential losses to the FHA fund resulting from project insolvency and to preserve these projects as a viable source of housing for low- and moderate-income tenants. The subsidy also will assist in the disposition of formerly insured HUD-owned multifamily projects.

The operating subsidy will fund the difference between HUD-approved project operating expenses and projected rents, and will help defray additional rent burdens for low-income tenants. The actual amount of assistance will be reviewed each year following HUD examination of the project operating budget and management improvements instituted by the project owner. Subsidies will be provided on an annual basis subject to the availability of funds.

TITLE III—CORPORATIONS

Corporations and agencies of the Department of Housing and Urban Development and the Federal Home Loan Bank Board which are subject to the Government Corporation Control Act, as amended, are hereby authorized to make such expenditures, within the limits of funds and borrowing authority available to each such corporation or agency and in accord with law, and to make such contracts and commitments without regard to fiscal year limitations as provided by section 104 of the Act as may be necessary in carrying out the programs set forth in the budget for the current fiscal year for such corporation or agency except as hereinafter provided: Provided, That collections of these corporations and agencies may be used for new loan or mortgage purchase commitments only to the extent expressly provided for in this Act (unless such loans are in support of other forms of assistance provided for in this or prior appropriation Acts), except that this proviso shall not apply to the mortgage insurance or guaranty operations of these corporations, or where loans or mortgage purchases are necessary to protect the financial interest of the United States Government. (Department of Housing and Urban Development—Independent Agencies Appropriation Act, 1978.)

FEDERAL HOUSING ADMINISTRATION FUND

[For reimbursement to the Federal Housing Administration Funds for losses incurred under the urban homesteading program (12 U.S.C. 1706e), $15,000,000, to remain available until expended.]

For payment to cover losses, not otherwise provided for, sustained by the Special Risk Insurance Fund and the General Insurance Fund, $352,290,000, to remain available until expended, as authorized by the National Housing Act, as amended. The Federal Housing Administration (FHA) fund was established pursuant to the National Housing Act of 1934 as a noncorporate business type fund. The act created a system of mortgage and loan insurance programs to help finance the production, purchase, repair, and improvement of residential properties. The FHA fund was brought under the Government Corporation Control Act by the Housing Act of 1948.

As indicated by the task force study on the future of the FHA which was concluded recently, HUD's mortgage and loan insurance programs provide a vehicle for the Federal Government to provide demonstration and leadership in the housing field, produce creative financing instruments, expand involvement in urban areas, introduce flexibility in standards and lot sizes, and reexamine the basis of minimum property standards and neighborhood and site standards.

The FHA fund consists of four separate funds which were established pursuant to the National Housing Act of 1934, as amended. Activity for each individual housing program is shown by fund for financial control and reporting purposes.

The Mutual mortgage insurance fund provides the Department's basic single family mortgage insurance program authorized by section 203 of the National Housing Act. It is a mutual fund where mortgagors, upon termination of their mortgages, share surplus premiums paid into the fund that are not required for operating expenses or losses.

The Cooperative management housing insurance fund, also a mutual fund, provides mortgage insurance for management-type cooperatives authorized by section 213.

The General insurance fund provides for a large number of specialized mortgage insurance programs, including the insurance of loans for property improvements as well as for basic and special-purpose multifamily housing. Programs to insure loans for cooperatives, condominiums, housing for the elderly, land development, group practice medical facilities, and nonprofit hospitals are included in this fund.

The Special risk insurance fund was created by the HUD Act of 1968 and provides mortgage insurance on behalf of mortgagors eligible for interest reduction payments who otherwise would not be eligible for mortgage insurance. In addition, the fund provides insurance on mortgages covering experimental housing where strict adherence to State or local building regulations is not observed. Also provided is insurance for high-risk mortgagors who normally would not be eligible for mortgage insurance.

Expenses and losses connected with defaulted notes, assigned mortgages and acquired properties are charged to the appropriate insurance fund by mortgage insurance program. The combined reserves of all four funds reached a deficit position for the first time in 1975. The deficits do not reflect the actual cash position of the funds, but do reflect the financial status of the long-term insurance reserves. During 1977, expenses exceeded income by $488 million resulting in a reserve deficit from program operations of $1.842 billion. An appropriation of $1,936.3 million was provided in 1977 to reimburse the FHA fund for a portion of the losses sustained in the special risk and general insurance funds from the sale of acquired properties and assigned mortgages as well as to repay the FHA fund for losses from sales under the urban homesteading demonstration.

Insurance reserves from operations at the end of 1979 are estimated to be in a surplus position for the mutual mortgage insurance and cooperative management housing insurance funds, but in a deficit status of about $5.0 billion for the two other funds. The status of estimated insurance reserves through 1979 is as follows:

STATUS OF INSURANCE RESERVES FROM OPERATIONS

As a result of the continued deficits in the FHA fund over the last several years, a number of steps have been taken to halt and ultimately reverse this net loss trend. These include tightened underwriting procedures and faster sales of acquired properties to reduce holding costs. In addition, section 8 subsidies are being used to enhance the viability of projects with HUD-insured and HUD-held mortgages and to assist in the disposition of HUD-owned multifamily projects in 1978. Also, the section 235 mortgage insurance program has been reactivated with higher downpayments and tighter underwriting requirements. Further, the Troubled projects operating subsidy program being proposed for 1979 would result in fewer assignments and acquisitions, assist in the disposition of HUD-owned projects and help reduce losses to the fund.

Budget program.—The budget proposes an appropriation of $352.3 million to restore the net realized losses on sale of property in the General insurance and Special risk insurance funds. Starting in 1979, appropriations will be sought under a separate Urban homesteading account and funds will be transferred to the FHA fund as properties are conveyed. Urban homesteading will no longer be a "feeder" account within the fund, but will be shown under Community planning and development. In 1979, the budget includes receipts of $9.9 million as reimbursement to the FHA fund for properties transferred to communities under the Urban homesteading program.

Financing.—In 1977, $74 million of debentures were issued and $73 million were redeemed. The Housing and Urban Development Act of 1965 authorized the payment of claims in cash and borrowing from the Treasury as necessary to do so. All home mortgage claims and multifamily housing claims under sections 220, 221, 223, 233, 235(j), and 236 are paid in cash. While Treasury borrowings amounted to $130 million in 1977, funds appropriated for 1977 were utilized to repay $1,479 million of Treasury borrowings. Treasury borrowings are estimated at $470 million in 1978 and none in 1979.

Insurance authority.—The authority for insurance operations for all programs was extended to September 30, 1978, by the Housing and Community Development Act of 1977. In general, these authorizations are without dollar limitation, except for the credit assistance program. Revised downpayment and mortgage limit provisions will bring homeownership opportunities within the reach of a larger number of families. The 1977 act also expanded the scope of the graduated payment mortgage insurance program which will assist a larger number of young, first-time homebuyers.

Operating expenses.—Funds are paid directly into a consolidated account, "Salaries and expenses, Department of Housing and Urban Development", for administrative expenses based on workload related to programs financed from the FHA fund.

Section 202 of the Housing Act of 1959 established a program of housing assistance for lower income persons who are elderly or handicapped. Although the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974 (section 210(d)) provided that the receipts and disbursements of the fund shall not be included in the budget, the 1978 HUD Appropriation Act (Public Law 95-119) returned the program "on-budget."

This program provides direct Federal loans for permanent financing of projects for the elderly or handicapped. Projects must include an assured range of necessary services for the elderly or handicapped residents. In addition, the 1974 act authorized the use of the section 8 lower income housing assistance payments program in conjunction with the section 202 program. Beginning in 1978, the Department will take the necessary steps to ensure that applications under the two programs are processed simultaneously. For 1979, a $800 million loan limitation is proposed which will provide financing for approximately 25,000 units. At least $50 million of this amount will be used to finance an estimated 1,400 units designed specifically for handicapped persons.

Financing.—Prior to the implementation of the revised program, funds for loans had been provided by appropriation to a revolving fund. Additional financing had been obtained through issuance of certificates of participation in pools of mortgages financed from this program as provided by the Participation Sales Act of 1966. The following table shows the financing of participation insufficiencies:

Repayments and interest income from loans made prior to 1974 continue to be available for use under the revised program. In addition, the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974 authorized Treasury borrowing up to $800 million. The Housing Authorization Act of 1976 raised cumulative outstanding Treasury borrowings in 1979 to $3,300 million, subject to release in appropriations acts. Release of such amounts of borrowing authority as may be necessary to carry out the proposed $800 million loan program in 1979 is proposed.

Title IV of the Housing Act of 1950 authorized loans at 3% interest to colleges and eligible hospitals for the construction or acquisition of housing and related facilities such as student centers, dining halls, and infirmaries. The HUD Act of 1968 amended the program to provide an alternate source of assistance by authorizing debt service grants which reduced the cost to colleges and hospitals of borrowing in the private market.

Budget program.—New reservations for this program were discontinued effective January 5, 1973. A limited direct loan program was conducted in 1977 and also is being conducted in 1978 using repayments of loans and other income. Eligibility is limited to certain new construction, modernization and rehabilitation of existing facilities. It is proposed to transfer all assets and liabilities of the college housing loan fund to the revolving fund (liquidating programs) in 1979 for liquidation.

Financing.—Funds for the direct loan program have been provided primarily from Treasury borrowing and from the sale of participation certificates which are backed by pools of college housing loans held by the Federal Government. Treasury borrowings totaled $2,811 million as of September 30, 1977.

Sales of participation certificates, as provided in the Participation Sales Act of 1966, totaled $2.2 billion through 1969. In order to pay the interest on the participation certificates, funds are appropriated annually to match the difference between the interest due on the participation certificates and the interest collections on the college housing bonds underlying the certificates.

Budget authority required for estimated insufficiencies and unfinanced deficits is shown in the following table:

Operating results.—The estimated net operating income of $1.8 million in 1978 will decrease the cumulative deficit to $172.7 million.

All unobligated balances, as well as all receipts and reimbursements anticipated in future years, will be used to cover operating expenses and repay Treasury borrowing. The budget provides $22.7 million to fund loan management, liquidation, and property disposition expenses related to possible loan foreclosure actions in 1978.

The low-rent public housing loan fund provides Federal financing for the construction, acquisition, or modernization of public housing projects owned by public housing agencies (PHA's) until the projects can be financed in the private market. Federal loans are not available for financing the construction of leased housing under section 8 of the U.S. Housing Act of 1937, as amended. Payments to liquidate the indebtedness of the PHA's pursuant to annual contribution contracts are provided out of the Subsidized housing programs appropriation.

Budget program.—The Department may contract with PHA's to make loans covering up to 100% of total construction, acquisition, or modernization costs. Experience indicates, however, that the volume of direct Federal loans outstanding at any one time will be only a small percentage of Federal loan approvals because private financing is relied upon as a major source of funds. The status of loan approvals follow:

(a) Direct loans.—Direct Federal loans are made to finance the early costs of PHA-owned project development as well as the modernization of existing PHA-owned projects. Direct loans are made with available working funds and with funds borrowed from the Treasury when necessary. Borrowings outstanding at any one time from the Treasury may not exceed $1.5 billion. Pursuant to the U.S. Housing Act of 1937, as amended, the ceiling on Treasury borrowing is applied only to Federal loans which are estimated to be disbursed rather than to total approvals which are not expected to result in outlays. The Secretary has set the maximum Federal loan exposure factor (that is, the maximum demand for Federal loans at any one time) at 10% of loan approvals outstanding. Only minimal outstanding borrowings are anticipated on September 30, 1978, or September 30, 1979.

(b) Private loans.—When Federal direct loans to a PHA accumulate to an amount that is attractive to private investors, the PHA sells short-term tax-exempt notes to the public and utilizes the proceeds to repay the Federal loans and to meet current needs for additional working capital. These notes are secured by the Federal Government's pledge to make Federal loans, if necessary, covering up to 100% of the development, acquisition, or modernization cost of the project. The notes sold at an average interest rate of 2.84% in 1977.

In 1977, $264 million in direct Federal loans were repaid using funds raised in the private market with a Federal guarantee. Repayments are estimated at about $600 million in 1978 and 1979, respectively. The temporary notes sold to private investors are issued for short periods, averaging 7.9 months in 1977, and may be reissued several times and in increasing amounts before the development, acquisition, or modernization costs are permanently financed. As a result, a considerable turnover of short-term notes takes place and the volume of loan activity conducted under the program during any fiscal year greatly exceeds the amount of loans outstanding at the end of that fiscal year.

The status of temporary financing and refinancing of production and management loans during 1977 and estimated transactions during 1978 and 1979 follow:

(c) Bonds.—Normally, PHA-owned dwellings are permanently financed at or near completion of development or acquisition through the sale of long-term bonds to the public. These usually are 40-year serial bonds and are secured by the Federal Government's pledge to pay annual contributions in sufficient amounts to meet principal and interest requirements. No bond offerings have been made since 1974.

Operating results.—The estimated net operating income of $5.8 million in 1979 will increase retained income to $76.1 million. Retained income may be required to meet program requirements in future years.

The Emergency Homeowners' Relief Act (Public Law 94-50) provided temporary standby authority for the implementation of a program of emergency mortgage relief to homeowners in the event that the condition of the economy caused widespread mortgage foreclosures and distress sales of homes. Emergency assistance could be in the form of mortgage relief loans and advances of credit extended by approved financial institutions. Funds appropriated in prior years for this purpose were not required to be used. The legislative authorization as well as the appropriation of $1.0 million expired on September 30, 1977.

The Nonprofit sponsor assistance fund provides interest-free loans to nonprofit organizations to plan housing projects to be financed under the section 202 housing for the elderly or handicapped program. To ensure a sufficient commitment by the sponsor to the proposed project, only a portion of the startup costs are funded through these "seed money" loans. Sponsors are required to demonstrate their financial capacity by providing an initial equity investment from their own funds not to exceed $10,000. This equity contribution is refunded once successful operation of the project is assured.

The Housing and Urban Development Act of 1968 authorized the Secretary to establish a revolving fund into which would be deposited rental collections in excess of the established basic rents for units in section 236 subsidized projects. These collections are expected to cease totally in 1979 reflecting a change in 1976 which provided that excess rental payment calculations would be made on a project basis instead of on an individual unit basis.

Section 212 of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974 provided that fund balances may be used, subject to prior commitment of contract authority, for the payment of tax and utility increases in section 236 projects. The use of the fund balances for this purpose, beginning in 1976, reflected court orders directing the Department to use the funds for this purpose in certain specific cases. In addition, section 206 of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1977 (Public Law 95-128) amended the authorization to require the Secretary to use the fund balances for the payment of tax and utility increases without the need for commitment of contract authority.

The Revolving fund (Liquidating programs) was established by the Independent Offices Appropriation Act of 1955 for the more efficient liquidation of assets acquired under a number of housing and urban development programs. In 1971, the public works planning advances, grants to aid advance acquisition of land and Alaska housing programs were transferred to the fund for liquidation. In 1975, the assets and liabilities of grants for basic water and sewer facilities, grants for neighborhood facilities, grants for open space land and public facility loans also were transferred to this fund for liquidation in accordance with the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974. This budget assumes the transfer of all assets and liabilities of the college housing loan program to this fund for liquidation effective on October 1, 1978.

Financing.—In the past, certificates of participation in pools of public facility loans and college housing loans were sold. Funds are appropriated annually to cover the difference between interest due on the participation certificates and interest collections on the loans underlying the certificates.

The budget authority required for interest insufficiencies was transferred to the Revolving fund (Liquidating programs) when public facility loan assets and liabilities were transferred to this account in 1975. The computation of budget authority required for public facility loans and college housing loans is shown in the following table:

Under the Disaster Relief Acts of 1970 and 1974, the Department is authorized to use its own funds and resources to respond to Federal Disaster Assistance Administration (FDAA) mission assignments in Presidentially declared disasters. Such mission assignments normally are to provide, finance, and manage temporary housing for persons displaced by disasters.

Section 406 of the HUD Appropriation Act of 1973 (Public Law 92-383) authorized the Secretary to establish a fund to initially finance the costs of providing and managing temporary housing. This fund provides interim financing pending reimbursement from Funds appropriated to the President for disaster relief.

After the fund is reimbursed, the contributing HUD accounts are repaid. However, sufficient balances are retained in the fund to enable the Department to provide future emergency housing promptly. The budget provides a basic working balance of $50 million which, based on past experience, is considered adequate to fund housing mission assignments.

The Housing Act of 1964, as amended by the Participation Sales Act of 1966, authorizes the pooling of mortgages or other types of obligations of certain Government departments or agencies and the sale by the Government National Mortgage Association, as trustee, of beneficial interest, or participations in such pools. The Participation Sales Act of 1966 also authorized the establishment of appropriations to cover the excess of interest payments to holders of participation certificates over the interest payments received from the pooled mortgages or other obligations. A permanent, indefinite appropriation is available to cover insufficiencies for sales authorized in 1967 while those authorized in 1968 require annual appropriations.

Through September 30, 1968, this fund purchased and sold preferred stock in the secondary market operations of the Federal National Mortgage Association and made loans to it as needed to support its operations involving the purchase of federally insured or guaranteed mortgages. On that date, the Association redeemed all preferred stock and became a private corporation owned by its common stockholders. All authority for investment in preferred stock of the corporation lapsed.

The fund is still authorized to make loans to the Association. Such loans were made in the first few months of the Association's existence as a private corporation while it arranged lines of credit with commercial banks. No loans have been made since that time and the loan authority will be used only in emergency situations.

SPECIAL ASSISTANCE FUNCTIONS FUND

The aggregate amount of purchases and commitments authorized to be made pursuant to section 305 of the National Housing Act, as amended, is further increased by $2,000,000,000, of which $500,000,000 may be out of recaptured Special Assistance Purchase authority [may not exceed $2,000,000,000]. (Department of Housing and Urban Development—Independent Agencies Appropriation Act, 1978; additional authorizing legislation to be proposed.)

Special assistance functions.—The Association is authorized, pursuant to section 305 of the National Housing Act, to make purchase commitments and to purchase FHA-insured and VA-guaranteed mortgage loans. Funds are currently available to the President to provide special assistance for financing: (1) selected types of residential mortgage loans pending establishment of marketability, and (2) residential mortgage loans generally as a means of stabilizing building activities. This function is administered with the use of processing facilities of the Federal National Mortgage Association.

Budget program.—Commitment contracts amounting to $2.1 billion are planned for 1978 for mortgages that will bear below-market interest rates under the section 236 assisted housing program, section 8 mortgages, mortgages under the targeted tandem program and amendments to existing contracts. Commitment activity amounting to $2.0 billion is planned for 1979 for mortgages under section 8, and the targeted tandem program. Mortgage purchases, representing deliveries from commitment contracts in prior years, are estimated at $330 million in 1978 and $500 million in 1979. Sales of these mortgages are estimated at $610 million in 1978 and $750 million in 1979.

Budget authority which has been recaptured mainly through portfolio sales, liquidations, and foreclosures, will be used to fund the $2.1 billion program for 1978 and $500 million of the commitments programmed for 1979.

Financing.—Funds for mortgage purchases are obtained from principal liquidations through either repayments on portfolio mortgages or sale of tandem purchases, and borrowing from the Treasury. A portion of the mortgage portfolio was financed by sale of participation certificates. This amounted to $1.2 billion in prior years and there is a remaining liability of $462.8 million offset by $120.7 million on deposit with the trustee in anticipation of scheduled retirements. Funds for operating costs, mainly interest expense and discounts required on tandem mortgage sales, are obtained from mortgage earnings and from appropriations for the difference between interest expense on participation certificates and the income from related mortgage investment earnings.

Operating results.—Through September 30, 1977, losses of $59.2 million for participation sales have been offset by appropriations. Other losses from below-market interest rate loans, tandem costs, interest on Treasury borrowings and asset sales amounted to $1,754.6 million.

Of this amount, $1,695.5 million is carried as an impairment of capital.

The special assistance functions are expected to result in losses estimated at $227.5 million in 1978 and $308.8 million in 1979.

Appropriations for insufficiencies under the participation sales fund will cover $7.4 million of 1978 losses and $6.8 million in 1979 losses.

The following table shows the derivation and financing of the interest insufficiencies on outstanding participation certificates:

Emergency mortgage purchase assistance.—Section 313 of the National Housing Act provides standby authority to purchase below-market-rate mortgages when the Secretary finds that economic conditions are having a severely disproportionate effect upon the housing industry which threatens seriously to affect the economy. This authority was released in 1975 and 1976 to issue purchase commitments for a total of $7.750 billion of home mortgages and $3 billion of project mortgages. An additional $2 billion was released for the purchase of project mortgages on September 21, 1976, and, by September 2, 1977, the funds were fully committed. No new commitments will be issued through 1979 but amendments to existing commitment contracts amounting to $200 million are expected for 1978 and $300 million in 1979. Mortgage purchases are estimated at $1.330 billion in 1978 and $1.950 billion in 1979. Sales of purchased mortgages are planned for both 1978 and 1979. These sales will be scheduled to minimize the loss to the Government. Sales are estimated at $1.15 billion in 1978 and $1.7 billion in 1979.

Financing.—Funds are obtained from Treasury borrowings, mortgage principal liquidations, and mortgage interest payments.

Operating results.—Losses are estimated at $130.0 million in 1978 and $199.9 million in 1979, primarily from the differences in prices paid to purchase the below-market interest mortgages and the prices that are obtainable when such mortgages are sold at market yields.

The Association is required to manage and liquidate its initial mortgage portfolio and other mortgages, loans, or obligations. Liquidation of the portfolio is accomplished through regular principal repayments according to their amortization schedules, by sales of mortgages when they can be absorbed by private investors without disruption of normal market conditions and through principal credits arising from prepayments and foreclosures.

The fund's initial portfolio consisted of mortgages on hand at, or purchased under contracts made before, November 1, 1954. Certain additional mortgages, loans, and other obligations may be acquired for this portfolio from the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development. Residential housing mortgages may also be acquired from any Federal instrumentality.

Budget program.—It is not expected that any purchase of mortgages under these functions will be made during 1978 or 1979.

Financing.—These functions are financed principally by Treasury borrowings, portfolio liquidations, and sales of participation certificates in mortgage pools.

Transfers of principal repayments on pooled mortgages to the Participation sales fund for repayment of participation certificates are expected to be $23.5 million in 1978 and $20.0 million in 1979. This program is more fully explained under the Participation sales fund.

Operating results.—Net income of $2.8 million is estimated for 1978 and $3.4 million for 1979. Cumulative retained earnings reserved for insufficiencies and other losses and contingencies is estimated at $114.5 million for 1979. No payment to the Treasury out of earnings is projected for 1978 and 1979. The following table shows the financing of the insufficiencies:

The Housing and Urban Development Act of 1968 authorized the Government National Mortgage Association (GNMA) to guarantee the timely payment of principal and interest on trust certificates or other securities issued by any financial institution approved for this purpose, and based on and backed by a trust or pool of FHA-insured or VA-guaranteed mortgages.

GNMA must make good on loans resulting from defaults of mortgages included in pools backing guaranteed securities. Claims and other expenses represent losses sustained and projected on the mortgage pools. Recent efforts to limit and reduce losses in the mobile home pools through programmatic changes have resulted in substantial decreases over previous estimates. Estimated losses for 1977-79 are presented below.

Single-family pools.....	71	100	100
Project pools.....	531	1,200	1,200
Total.....	1,584	3,300	3,300

Budget program.—Program activity is summarized in the following table:

[In thousands of dollars]

Financing.—In addition to an application fee, guarantee fees and other charges will be assessed issuers of guaranteed securities to cover costs incurred by GNMA in connection with the guarantees and to establish a reserve against possible future payments of claims under the guarantee.

Operating results.—Fee collections and other income are expected to exceed expenses by $38.1 million in 1979. This amount will be retained to cover future year expenses and as a reserve against losses that may be incurred on guarantees.

The National Housing Act, as amended, authorized the Association to create trusts to facilitate the financing of mortgages and other loan obligations owned by Government agencies. Under this authority, participations in the interest and principal collections on pooled loan obligations pledged by various trustor agencies were sold to private investors.

The budget schedules of the trustor agencies originally owning the loan obligations reflected sale of participation certificates as borrowing from the public. Collections on the pooled obligations are transferred to the Association and invested until distributed to the holders of participation certificates as required by the trust agreement. Collections are then redistributed to trustor agencies for payment of interest and retirement of certificates.

Whenever interest collections on pooled obligations, together with investment income are insufficient to cover required interest payments and a share of administrative and other costs, the trustor agencies pay to the Association, as trustee, amounts equal to the insufficiencies. The costs of any such insufficiencies are covered by appropriations which appear in the accounts of the trustor agencies or by balances available in those accounts.

In the event the principal collections on pooled loans are not sufficient to meet scheduled retirements of participation certificates, the Association, as trustee, may either borrow from the Treasury or sell additional certificates to redeem those coming due. Alternatively, those trustor accounts with unobligated balances available may repurchase pooled loans to provide the cash required for scheduled redemptions.

Title I of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974, as amended, authorizes the Secretary to make grants to units of general local government and States for the funding of local community development programs.

Funds are currently distributed to eligible applicants using the higher of two objective formulas. Funds must be allocated between communities in metropolitan areas and those in nonmetropolitan areas. Within metropolitan areas, "metropolitan cities" and "urban counties" are eligible for entitlement funding based on the criteria of the formulas.

Funding is also made available for urban development action grants which assist severely distressed cities and urban counties in the revitalization of their economic bases and the reclamation of deteriorated neighborhoods.
In addition, a categorical program financial settlement fund is available to assist communities to close out their prior categorical programs.

Budget program.—The total requested for 1979 is $4,150 million. This includes $3,650 million for the basic grant program, $400 million for urban development action grants, and $100 million for the categorical program financial settlement fund.

Outlays are estimated at $2,584 million in 1978 and $2,803 million for 1979. However, actual outlays will be governed by the rate at which communities expend the funds which have been made available to them.

COMPREHENSIVE PLANNING GRANTS

For comprehensive planning grants as authorized by section 701 of the Housing Act of 1954, as amended (40 U.S.C. 461), $57,000,000, to remain available until expended. (*Department of Housing and Section 701 of the Housing Act of 1954, as amended, authorizes Federal support of planning and management programs. Assistance may be provided to States, areawide planning organizations, municipalities and counties, and Indian tribes.

Budget program.—The 1979 program level of $57 million will provide funding to assist States, areawide planning organizations and local governments to collect housing and community development data and prepare comprehensive development plans to manage growth, conserve energy, maintain and expand economic development and improve the environment.

Section 810 of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974, as amended, authorizes the Secretary of HUD to transfer one- to four-unit HUD-owned properties without payment to units of local government for use in an urban homesteading program.

Budget program.—The 1979 appropriation request of $20 million will be used to reimburse the Federal Housing Administration Fund for the value of transferred properties. This is a $5 million increase over the $15 million provided in 1978 in the Federal Housing Administration fund for this purpose. The budget assumes that 3,200 HUD-held properties will be transferred to local governments in 1979.

Title I of the Housing Act of 1949, as amended (42 U.S.C. 1450 et seq.), authorized Federal capital grants and development loans to local public agencies for rehabilitation and redevelopment of slums and blighted areas.

Title I of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974 (Public Law 93-383) terminated this program on January 1, 1975. No commitments for new grants or loans have been made since that date. Eligible activities of the terminated program may be funded, at the option of the grant recipient, under the community development block grant program, authorized by the 1974 act.

No new budget authority is required for the program. However, a permanent indefinite appropriation to liquidate prior unfunded contract authority is available. Loan commitments previously made under this program are still outstanding and will continue until financial settlement of the projects involved is reached. The status of loan commitments outstanding at the end of each period is as follows:

New community assistance grants were authorized by the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1970, as amended.

Budget program.—Grants are distributed to new community developers under section 718 to supplement public facility projects in existing new communities.

Financing.—For 1978 and 1979, financing will be primarily from the cancellation of prior grant reservations to grant recipients under section 718.

The Housing and Urban Development Act of 1968, as amended, and title VII of the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1970, as amended, authorize Federal assistance to private and public new community developers. The program provides for Federal guarantee of the bonds, debentures, notes, and other obligations issued by, or on behalf of, private and public new community developers. Federal guarantees of obligations issued by developers may not exceed $50 million for each new community project.

Guarantees on previous commitments will be issued for $4 million in 1978.

Of the 13 new community projects with guarantees, 7 are currently undergoing financial reorganization. This requires that the Federal Government retire the outstanding guaranteed debentures and provide funding for certain project operation expenses where a project's cash resources are exhausted. These actions are necessary to protect the Federal interest and help assure the future viability of the projects.

Administrative expenses.—These amounts represent the administrative cost of carrying out this program.

Contract support and services.—These costs are incurred for analysis and management and technical services, including land appraisals, for the new community projects in the program.

Interest on U.S. Treasury borrowings.—This represents the interest which will be paid to the U.S. Treasury on the borrowings of the fund. The increase in Treasury borrowings is necessary to fund the proposed budget plan.

Other program costs.—The budget anticipates that four projects will require an acceleration of principal payments on outstanding guaranteed debentures in 1978 involving $79 million. No debenture retirements are scheduled for 1979. It is anticipated that operating expenses for projects with exhausted cash resources will amount to $23.2 million in 1978 and $8.5 million in 1979. Interest payments on guaranteed debentures will decline as a portion of the outstanding debentures is retired.

Financing.—The budget program in 1978 and 1979 will be financed primarily by Treasury borrowing. In addition, developers receiving guarantees are charged fees which will continue at a reduced level in 1979. The amounts advanced to developers to meet certain project expenses will be paid by the developers once the projects are in a financial position to make the repayments. However, it is not expected that any such payments will be received in 1978 or 1979.

Operating results.—Through September 30, 1976, cumulative net profit in the fund amounted to $9.4 million. It is estimated that the fund will accrue an estimated deficit amounting to $76.6 million by the end of 1979. This net loss is due to the financial restructuring of the new communities which require Federal expenditures until repayments can be made by the developers or until recoveries from security can be accomplished. No restoration of capital will be necessary during the period covered by this budget.

The National insurance development fund provides the funding source for two programs authorized by the Urban Property Protection and Reinsurance Act of 1968, as amended: (1) The FAIR (fair access to insurance requirements) plan/riot reinsurance program, a cooperative effort by insurance companies, State governments and the Federal Government aimed at providing reasonable access to fire insurance in urban areas; and (2) the Federal crime insurance program, which provides burglary and robbery insurance at affordable premium rates on properties that meet protective device requirements where such coverage is not available in the private market.

Budget program.—1. Riot reinsurance claims.—The estimate of claims paid through riot and civil disorder reinsurance is expected to continue at about $500 thousand each year.

2. Crime insurance.—(a) Insurance claims.—Claims reflect insurance payments in the program.

(b) Operating expenses.—Expenses are incurred by fiscal agents in issuing policies, settling claims, and maintaining accounting and statistical records.

3. Studies and surveys.—This includes expenses of continuing reviews of market availability of basic property insurance as well as expenses of special marketing and availability surveys.

4. Administrative expenses.—This represents the administrative cost of operating the programs.

Financing.—Claims and expenses are estimated to be paid from premium income and income from holdings of Government securities. Thus, it is anticipated that none of the $250 million in Treasury borrowing authority will be utilized.

Operating results.—Claims and expenses are expected to exceed premium and investment income due to losses under the crime insurance program, resulting in a decrease in the reserves of the fund.

Net losses of the crime insurance program, estimated at $11,757 thousand in 1978 and $13,661 thousand in 1979, will be funded by reserves.

The National Flood Insurance Act of 1968, as amended, authorizes the Federal Government to provide flood insurance on a national basis. Flood insurance may be sold or continued in force only in communities which enact and enforce appropriate flood plain management measures. Communities must participate in the program within 1 year of the time they are identified as flood-prone in order to be eligible for flood insurance and some forms of Federal financial assistance for acquisition or construction purposes.

Under the emergency program, structures in identified flood-prone areas are eligible for limited amounts of coverage at subsidized insurance rates. Under the regular program, studies must be made of different flood risks in flood-prone areas to establish actuarial premium rates. These rates are charged for insurance on new construction. Coverage is available on virtually all types of buildings and their contents in amounts up to $245 thousand for residential and $550 thousand for other.

Policies in force.....	1,156,481	1,354,000	1,605,000
Insurance in force (billions of dollars)....	35.2	42.7	54.0
Communities in program.....	15,678	16,000	16,500

Budget program.—1. Insurance underwriting expense.—Cost of initiating and maintaining flood insurance policies is estimated at $33,136 thousand in 1979.

2. Loss and adjustment expense.—Insured flood losses and associated loss adjustment expense is estimated at $139,935 thousand in 1979.

3. Interest expense.—Interest on Treasury borrowings needed to defray underwriting and loss expenses is estimated at $13,616 thousand in 1979.

4. Studies and surveys.—In 1979, $114 million is proposed for detailed elevation studies to determine actuarial premium rates.

Financing.—The Secretary is authorized to borrow up to $500 million to carry out the program. Borrowings are estimated to total $261,779 thousand by the end of 1979. The program is also financed through premium income.

Operating results.—Cumulative expenses are expected to exceed revenue and receipts from non-Federal sources by approximately $707 million by the end of 1979. The cumulative deficit is primarily financed by cumulative appropriations of $467 million and charges against borrowing authorization of approximately $262 million.

The housing counseling assistance program will continue to assist eligible homeowners to prevent and reduce defaults and to reduce foreclosures on single-family homes and the resulting loss to FHA insurance funds. In 1979, approximately 26,300 families will be counseled. In addition, if the Department's current studies of pre-purchase counseling indicate that this assistance would be cost effective, some of these funds could be used for that purpose.

The National Mobile Home Construction and Safety Standards Act of 1974 was enacted as title VI of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974. Pursuant to the act, Federal mobile home construction and performance standards were published in the Federal Register.

The act directs that inspections and investigations be conducted to enforce the Federal standards. Mobile home producers are required to have their building plans approved by an agency acceptable to HUD prior to manufacture.

Funds were appropriated in 1976 and 1977 for startup costs for this purpose. A $19 fee is charged to the manufacturers for each mobile home shipped which is expected to be sufficient to cover the costs of the monitoring and enforcement activities of HUD contract agents.

The Interstate Land Sales Full Disclosure Act provides protection to the public with respect to purchases or leases of subdivision lots. Statements of record must be filed with the Secretary before subdivisions with 50 or more lots may be sold in interstate commerce, except when the subdivision is eligible for exemption.

The Secretary is authorized to charge a fee, not exceeding $1 thousand, to be paid by the developer when filing a statement of record. The fee receipts are permanent appropriations that offset the administrative expenses incurred in program operations. The balance of the administrative expenses is included under Salaries and expenses, Department of Housing and Urban Development.

The Housing and Urban Development Act of 1970 directs the Secretary to undertake programs of research, studies, testing, and demonstrations related to the HUD mission. These functions are carried out through grants to and contracts with industry, nonprofit research organizations, educational institutions, and through agreements with State and local governments and other Federal agencies. HUD also provides funding for the work of the National Commission on Neighborhoods.

In 1979, funds requested will support HUD research efforts in the following areas: (1) the development of techniques to stabilize housing costs; (2) alternative housing finance mechanisms; (3) housing and related needs of the elderly and handicapped; (4) evaluation of three major HUD programs—section 8, public housing operating subsidies and community development block grants; (5) improving compliance with equal opportunity statutes, executive orders, and Department regulations; (6) neighborhood revitalization and reinvestment, including increased funding for the urban reinvestment task force; (7) attracting minorities and women to urban public service; (8) improving fiscal management of State and local governments; and (9) the dissemination and transfer of research results to users.

Other major activities to be continued in 1979 are: (1) collection and analysis of economic and financial data essential to HUD policy and program development, with the largest single project in this area being the Annual Housing Survey undertaken to measure changes in housing inventory and to compile data on the physical conditions of housing units and the characteristics of the occupants in both urban and rural areas; (2) experimental housing allowance program research; and (3) energy activities.

This appropriation finances salaries and related costs associated with administering the programs of the Department of Housing and Urban Development. Pursuant to 12 U.S.C. 1701(b)(3) all administrative expense funds of the Department may be consolidated within a single fund including an appropriation as well as funds otherwise provided. The individual budget activities are as follows:

1. Housing and mortgage credit programs.—This activity includes staff salaries and related expenses associated with administering housing programs and the Government National Mortgage Association (GNMA). This includes public housing, the lower income housing assistance program (section 8), programs for the elderly and handicapped as well as other production programs to further homeownership, provide mortgage insurance, and extend the availability of mortgage credit.

2. Community planning and development programs.—Funds in this activity are for staff salaries and related expenses required for administering community planning and development programs and new community assistance programs. The programs provide grants for community development, urban development action grants, comprehensive planning, and the closeout of former categorical grant programs such as urban renewal and model cities. Also included under this activity is assistance to private and public new community developers.

3. Equal opportunity, research, regulatory and insurance programs.—This activity includes the salaries and related expenses associated with implementing equal opportunity programs in housing and employment as required by law and executive orders; the administration of research programs and demonstrations; the administration of counseling and neighborhood programs, the administration of the Federal flood, riot, and crime insurance programs; and the administration of consumer protection activities, primarily in the areas of interstate land sales, mobile home construction, and safety and real estate settlement procedures.

4. Departmental management, legal and audit services.—This activity includes a variety of general functions required for the Department's overall administration and management. These include the Office of the Secretary, Office of General Counsel, and Office of Inspector General, as well as administrative support in such areas as accounting, personnel management, contracting and procurement, and office services. Legal services funded under this activity include the field legal staff as well as the Office of General Counsel at headquarters. Additionally, certain overall departmental costs, such as the headquarter's portion of payments for office space rental, utilities, communications, and postal services, are budgeted under this activity.

5. Field direction and administration.—This activity includes the salaries and related expenses for the regional administrators, area office managers, and their immediate staffs who are responsible for the direction, supervision, and performance of the Department's field offices. Also included are the functions of assistant regional administrators for administration and their staffs, and the area office administrative divisions. The functions of this staff include such duties as personnel management and general administrative services for the field offices. This activity also includes the field offices' portion of overall costs such as payments for office space rental, utilities, communications, and postal services.

6. Disaster assistance.—Funds under this activity include the salaries and expenses of the Federal Disaster Assistance Administration in coordinating the national disaster relief program. The funds are provided under the "Funds appropriated to the President" chapter of the budget and paid into this account as necessary. Also included are administrative costs of the Department in providing, on a reimbursable basis, emergency housing assistance as part of the disaster relief program.

The Urban Mass Transportation Act of 1964, as amended (49 U.S.C. 1601), authorizes grants in support of research, development, and demonstration projects focusing on the relationship of urban transportation systems to the comprehensively planned development of urban areas. Reorganization Plan No. 2 of 1968 transferred all but sections 6, 9, and 11 of the 1964 Act from the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) to the Department of Transportation (DOT). Subsequent to this, both agencies agreed that DOT shall have the responsibility for administering sections 6, 9, and 11 as well. Pursuant to this agreement, the unobligated balances of the 1969 appropriation were allocated to DOT.

The Housing Act of 1961, as amended (42 U.S.C. 1436), authorized $15 million in contract authority for grants to develop and demonstrate new or improved means of providing homes for low-income persons and families, including handicapped families. The unobligated contract authority was rescinded by the Housing and Urban Development Act of 1970 (12 U.S.C. 1701z-1 et seq.).

The Working capital fund, authorized by the Department of Housing and Urban Development Act of 1965, finances administrative services which can be performed more efficiently on a centralized basis. The fund is financed from fees charged for services performed.

1. Printing and reproduction services provides centralized services for all departmental printing, reproduction, and distribution.

2. Visual arts services provides photographic and design services along with preparation of visual presentations, displays, exhibits, and administrative graphics.

3. Central supply services handles all procurement, develops programs for storage of supplies and equipment, maintains teleticketing travel services for all central office personnel, and maintains in-house capability for limited office machine servicing and furniture and equipment repair.

4. Communication services includes the cost of the Federal Telecommunications System and mail and messenger functions.

5. Data processing services includes complete ADP service to program operations and to such administrative functions as departmental payroll, personnel, finance and accounting, budgeting, nonexpendable property inventories, and related common services.

Legislation is being proposed to implement, beginning in 1979, a new Department-wide urban extension program which will facilitate the interchange of approaches for handling urban problems. An appropriation of $10 million will be required for this purpose.

TITLE IV—GENERAL PROVISIONS

SEC. 401. Where appropriations in titles I and II of this Act are expendable for travel expenses of employees and no specific limitation has been placed thereon, the expenditures for such travel expenses may not exceed the amounts set forth therefor in the budget estimates submitted for the appropriations: Provided, That this section shall not apply to travel performed by uncompensated officials of local boards and appeal boards of the Selective Service System; to travel performed directly in connection with care and treatment of medical beneficiaries of the Veterans Administration; or to payments to interagency motor pools where separately set forth in the budget schedules: Provided further, That the limitations may be increased by the Secretary when necessary to allow for travel performed by employees of the Department of Housing and Urban Development as a result of increased Federal Housing Administration inspection and appraisal workload.

SEC. 402. Appropriations and funds available for the administrative expenses of the Department of Housing and Urban Development and the Selective Service System shall be available in the current fiscal year for purchase of uniforms, or allowances therefor, as authorized by law (5 U.S.C. 5901-5902); hire of passenger motor vehicles; and services as authorized by 5 U.S.C. 3109.

SEC. 403. Funds of the Department of Housing and Urban Development subject to the Government Corporation Control Act or section 402 of the Housing Act of 1950 shall be available, without regard to the limitations on administrative expenses, for legal services on a contract or fee basis, and for utilizing and making payment for services and facilities of Federal National Mortgage Association, Government National Mortgage Association, Federal Home Loan Mortgage Corporation, Federal Financing Bank, Federal Reserve banks or any member thereof, Federal home loan banks, and any insured bank within the meaning of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation Act, as amended (12 U.S.C. 1811-1831).

SEC. 404. None of the funds provided in this Act may be used for payment, through grants or contracts, to recipients that do not share in the cost of conducting research resulting from proposals for projects not specifically solicited by the Government: Provided, That the extent of cost sharing by the recipient shall reflect the mutuality of interest of the grantee or contractor and the Government in the research.

SEC. 405. No part of any appropriation contained in this Act shall remain available for obligation beyond the current fiscal year unless expressly so provided herein.

SEC. 406. No part of the funds appropriated under this Act may be used by the Environmental Protection Agency to administer or promulgate, directly or indirectly, any program to tax, limit or otherwise regulate parking that is not specifically required pursuant to subsequent legislation.

SEC. 407. No funds appropriated by this Act may be expended—

(1) pursuant to a certification of an officer or employee of the United States unless—

(A) such certification is accompanied by, or is part of, a voucher or abstract which describes the payee or payees and the items or services for which such expenditure is being made, or

(B) the expenditure of funds pursuant to such certification, and without such a voucher or abstract, is specifically authorized by law; and

(2) unless such expenditure is subject to audit by the General Accounting Office or is specifically exempt by law from such an audit.

SEC. 408. No contract or budget authority provided in this Act for Annual Contributions for Assisted Housing, and no funds appropriated in this Act for Housing Payments, shall be subject to the Federal regulation defining the conditions under which two or more persons shall be eligible for admission to public housing as a family, which was promulgated by the Department of Housing and Urban Development on May 9, 1977, at 24 CFR § 812.2(d)(1).

SEC. 409. None of the funds provided in this Act may be used, directly or through grants, to pay or to provide reimbursement for payment of a consultant (whether retained by the Federal Government or a grantee) at more than the daily equivalent of the maximum rate paid for GS-18, unless specifically authorized by law.

SEC. 410. None of the funds provided in this Act to any department or agency may be expended for the transportation of any officer or employee of such department or agency between his domicile and his place of employment, with the exception of the Secretary of the Department of Housing and Urban Development, who, under title 5, United States Code, section 101, is exempted from such limitations. (Department of Housing and Urban Development—Independent Agencies Appropriation Act, 1978.)

DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR

LAND AND WATER RESOURCES

BUREAU OF LAND MANAGEMENT

The Bureau of Land Management is responsible for the conservation, management and development of 470 million acres of national resource lands, including 296 million acres in Alaska.

The Bureau also administers mining and mineral leasing on 370 million acres of mineral estate underlying other ownerships, and approximately 1.1 billion acres of the Outer Continental Shelf.

The work of the Bureau produces revenues from various sources. These revenues are distributed as follows (in millions of dollars):

1. Energy and minerals management.—Includes such activities as energy and nonenergy minerals management (onshore and offshore) in response to national demand. The program will provide for sale of coal, oil and gas, oil shale, uranium, geothermal resources, and nonenergy minerals. The environmental impact of proposed energy and minerals development activities will be assessed. Lease stipulations and other environmental protection measures will mitigate adverse effects. Spending will be reduced in 1979 due to completion of Outer Continental Shelf environmental baseline studies off the contiguous United States. Specifically, the program will provide for issuing onshore leases, 5 competitive sales on the Outer Continental Shelf and processing 1,050 operation plans required under the new surface management regulations.

MANAGEMENT OF LANDS AND RESOURCES—continued

2. Lands and realty management.—Includes such activities as use authorization in support of energy and other programs, maintenance of official land records, and land classification. These activities provide for maintenance of public land status records, and issuance of information about public realty and mineral laws. It further provides for the processing of applications for transfer of use of the public lands for other Federal agencies, State and local governments, and private individuals. The program is directed toward retaining public land in Federal ownership unless, as a result of land use planning, it is determined that disposal of a particular parcel will best serve the national interest. Land and realty actions will provide for processing rights-of-way applications for energy-related development, processing native land selections under the Alaska Native Claims Settlement Act, in Alaska, and processing non-energy-related cases.

3. Renewable resource management.—This includes such activities as range management; soil, water and air management; wildlife habitat management; forest management; recreation management; fire protection; and wilderness management. Range management provides for grazing domestic livestock on public lands by periodically issuing grazing authorizations. It also provides for the protection, control, and management of 70,000 wild horses and burros that graze totally or partially on public lands.

Soil, water, and air management provides for soil stabilization, improvement of water and air quality through land treatment or construction stipulations, and protection of 200 endangered plants growing on public lands. This request will provide for soil/vegetative inventories to meet requirements and commitments for environmental assessment programs.

Forest management provides for sustained yield management of forest lands to meet demands for wood products.

Wildlife habitat management provides for the protection, management, and improvement of fish and wildlife habitats for all species dependent totally or partially on public lands for food and shelter. It further provides for cooperative management with other Federal and State wildlife agencies responsible for species management. The activity also provides for protection and management of 30 species of endangered fish or wildlife using public land habitats.

Recreation management provides for the orderly recreational uses of public lands and protects, interprets, and manages historic and archeological sites. Interim critical management is provided for the California desert to provide protection until the management plan is implemented.

Fire management provides for developing fire techniques as a tool for resource management and developing fire prevention and suppression methods to reduce the possibility of disastrous wildfires.

Wilderness management is a new program initiated by the Federal Land Policy and Management Act of 1976. The act requires that a review be completed on roadless islands and those areas of public land encompassing 5,000 acres or more. This review is to be completed within 15 years after the date of approval of the act or by the end of 1991. This review and subsequent inventories required by the act have brought about the requested increase.

4. Planning and data management.—Includes such activities as data analysis, development of land use plans, and automated data management. These activities provide for developing multiple land use plans on 600 planning units located on 172 million acres of public land. It further provides for land use planning on 23 million acres of the national petroleum reserve in Alaska. Data management supports Bureau programs through development and operation of automated systems for acquiring, storing, using, and disseminating data required for all aspects of agency and resource management.

5. Cadastral survey.—This activity provides for identification of land boundaries and legal property descriptions to facilitate land management programs. During the current year, 7,200,000 acres will be surveyed in Alaska and the lower 48 States.

In Alaska, surveys are performed on lands selected by the State for transfer under the Alaska Statehood Act and for Native townsites, Native allotments, claims resulting from the Alaska Native Claims Act, and for other special purposes.

Surveys in the lower 48 States are performed to identify land boundaries as a prerequisite to resource management. This involves both new surveys and resurveys to reestablish obliterated boundary markers.

6. Firefighting and rehabilitation.—Provides for protection of public land natural resources and other values from loss or depletion due to wildfires. Based on a 10-year annual average of 1.2 million acres, fires result in resource damages averaging $17.2 million each year. Firefighting and rehabilitation costs are anticipated to exceed the amount appropriated for this function in 1978; a supplemental appropriation request appears in Part III of this Appendix. In 1979, the full amount estimated for firefighting is included in the regular appropriation.

7. Administration and enforcement.—Provides for general administration and law enforcement on the public lands. Administration includes executive management and general administrative services such as financial management, personnel management, management analysis, procurement, and property management to support Bureau activities. Law enforcement provides for enforcement of laws and regulations governing the management, use, and protection of public lands through contracts with local law enforcement agencies, cooperative agreements with local and Federal law enforcement agencies, Federal special agents, and a uniformed ranger force.

1. Construction and acquisition.—(a) Buildings.—Buildings for offices, warehouses, mechanical shops, and related facilities are constructed to carry out Bureau programs. The 1979 program provides for construction of a shop at Lakeview, Oreg.; warehouse and shop at Elko, Nev.; warehouse and fire dispatch center at Susanville, Calif.; office space at Shoshone, Idaho; fire retardant storage and parking space at Lewistown, Mont.; employee housing at Hanksville, Utah; warehouse at Rawlins, Wyo.; fire lookouts in Arizona and Idaho; communication site buildings in Arizona; and for survey and design of future facilities.

(b) Recreation facilities.—Recreation facilities for family camping, picnicking, and other outdoor recreational activities are constructed on public land sites receiving heavy public use. The 1979 program includes completion of a campground in Alaska; a campground in California; visitor contact facilities in California, Idaho, and Oregon; and cave management facilities in New Mexico; and for survey and design of future facilities.

(c) Transportation facilities.—Roads and trails are constructed to facilitate access for the development, protection, administration, and utilization of lands and resources managed by the Bureau of Land Management. The 1979 program provides for surfacing of 27 miles of road constructed in previous years, grading of 48 miles of road, construction of 22 miles of trail, reconstruction of 29 bridges, and for survey and design of future facilities.

(d) Acquisition.—Provides for the acquisition of land, easements, and other interest in lands for access and to further management objectives for the public lands. The 1979 program provides for the acquisition of 212 easements.

2. Maintenance.—(a) Buildings.—Provides for maintenance of facilities such as buildings, warehouses, equipment shelters, fire stations, and lookouts. The 1979 program will assist the Bureau in meeting building maintenance and energy-conservation standards through a corrective maintenance program to repair and replace leaking roofs, worn or warped floors, and inadequate plumbing; and to install insulation and storm windows and doors.

(b) Recreation facility operation and maintenance.—Provides for the operation and maintenance of developed recreation facilities and the cleanup of litter and trash from undeveloped recreation sites, roadsides and waterways.

(c) Road maintenance.—Provides for preventive and corrective maintenance of roads, trails, and bridges under Bureau jurisdiction.

Twenty-five percent of the revenue from the revested Oregon and California grant lands is made available for four principal activities on the revested lands, and on other Federal lands in the Oregon and California land grant counties of western Oregon:

1. Construction and acquisition.—Provides for construction of a road maintenance shop in Bridge, Ore.; a storage building in Roseburg, Ore.; acquisition of land for a Eugene, Ore., office site; surfacing of 41 miles of access roads; acquisition of easements for roads in commercial timber areas, and for the renovation and development of recreation facilities.

2. Maintenance.—Provides for maintenance of access roads, operation and maintenance of recreation facilities, and maintenance of management facilities.

3. Renewable resource management.—Provides for reforestation, stand improvement, mortality salvage, commercial thinnings, forest genetics, timber management, protection, and other resource management actions on the O. & C. lands. Planned timber sales in 1979 will continue the allowable cut offerings (1.172 million board feet). The 1979 program will provide additional funding to improve long-range timber sale planning.

Expenses, road maintenance deposits	2,679	3,523	2,600

1. Leasing of grazing lands.—State, county, and privately owned grazing lands that are intermingled with public grazing lands are managed on a leased basis within the limits of receipts from such arrangements (43 U.S.C. 315m).

2. Payments to Oklahoma (royalties).—The State of Oklahoma is paid 37½% of the Red River oil and gas royalties in lieu of State and local taxes on Kiowa, Comanche, and Apache tribal lands to be used for construction and maintenance of public roads and support of public schools (65 Stat. 252).

3. Payments to Coos and Douglas Counties, Oreg., from receipts Coos Bay Wagon Road grant lands.—Out of receipts from the Coos Bay Wagon Road grant lands in Oregon, payments in lieu of taxes are made to Coos and Douglas Counties for schools, roads, highways, bridges, and port districts (53 Stat. 753-754).

4. Payments to counties, Oregon and California grant lands.—Fifty percent of the receipts of Oregon and California land-grant funds are paid the counties in which the lands are situated, to be used as other county funds (39 Stat. 218; 50 Stat. 876).

5. Payments to States (proceeds of sales).—The States are paid 5% of the net proceeds from sale of public land and public land products (31 U.S.C. 711).

6. Payments to States from grazing receipts, etc., public lands outside grazing districts.—The States are paid 50% of the grazing fee receipts from public domain lands outside grazing districts (43 U.S.C. 315i, 315m).

7. Payments to States from grazing receipts, etc., public lands within grazing districts.—The States are paid 12½% of grazing fee receipts from grazing district lands within their boundaries (43 U.S.C. 315b, 315i).

8. Payments to States from grazing receipts, etc., public lands within grazing districts, miscellaneous.—The States are paid specifically determined amounts from grazing fee receipts from miscellaneous lands within grazing districts when payment is not feasible on a percentage basis (43 U.S.C. 315).

9. Payments to States from receipts under Mineral Leasing Act.—Alaska is paid 90% and other States 50% of the receipts from bonuses, royalties, and rentals resulting from development of mineral resources under the Mineral Leasing Act (30 U.S.C. 191), and from leases of potash deposits (30 U.S.C. 285), on public lands.

10. Payments to counties, national grasslands.—Of the revenues received from the use of submarginal lands, 25% is paid to the counties in which such land is situated, for school and road purposes (7 U.S.C. 1012).

11. Expenses, Public Land Administration Act.—Public Law 86-649 approved July 14, 1960, permanently appropriated certain moneys to the Secretary of the Interior. Timber purchasers or permittees provide bond or deposit to assure fulfillment of contracts. Users of roads under jurisdiction of the Bureau of Land Management may make deposits for maintenance purposes. Moneys received in forfeiture of such bonds or for road maintenance are available for necessary forest improvement, protection, and rehabilitation and for road maintenance. Moneys collected on Oregon and California grant lands are available for those lands only and amounts in excess of the cost of doing the work are transferred to miscellaneous receipts (74 Stat. 507-508). The applicable provisions of Public Law 86-649 were repealed by Public Law 94-579, approved October 21, 1976. New deposits for road maintenance will become available in the "Expenses, road maintenance" appropriation below. Collections for rehabilitation of damages will be available beginning in 1978 in the "Service charges, deposits, and forfeitures" appropriation. (43 U.S.C. 1701 et. seq.)

12. Expenses, road maintenance.—Public Law 94-579 approved October 21, 1976, permanently appropriated certain moneys to the Secretary of the Interior. Users of roads under jurisdiction of the Bureau of Land Management may make deposits for maintenance purposes, and moneys collected are available for necessary road maintenance.

Moneys collected on Oregon and California grant lands are available for those lands only. (43 U.S.C. 1701 et. seq.)

BUREAU OF RECLAMATION

The Bureau plans, constructs, and operates facilities to irrigate lands, furnish municipal and industrial or other water supplies, and develop related hydroelectric power and flood control in the 17 Western States and Hawaii.

Appropriations to the Bureau are made from the general fund and special funds. The special funds are (a) the Reclamation fund, largely derived from certain irrigation and power revenue; receipts from the sale, lease, and rental of public lands; and certain oil and mineral revenue; and (b) the Colorado River Dam fund, derived from the revenue of the Boulder Canyon project. The 1979 estimates are summarized by source as follows (in thousands of dollars):

APPROPRIATION TITLE	Estimate of appropriation	General fund	Reclamation fund	Colorado River Dam fund	Other

Federal Funds

General and special funds:

For carrying out the functions of the Bureau of Reclamation as provided in the Federal reclamation laws (Act of June 17, 1902, 32 Stat. 388, and Acts amendatory thereof or supplementary thereto) and other Acts applicable to that Bureau, as follows:

LOAN PROGRAM

For loans to irrigation districts and other public agencies for construction of distribution systems on authorized Federal reclamation projects, and for loans and grants to non-Federal agencies for construction of projects, as authorized by the Act of July 4, 1955, as amended (43 U.S.C. 421a–421d), and August 6, 1956, as amended (43 U.S.C. 422a–422k), including expenses necessary for carrying out the program, [$27,753,000] $23,031,000, to remain available until expended: Provided, That any contract under the Act of July 4, 1955 (69 Stat. 244), as amended, not yet executed by the Secretary, which calls for the making of loans beyond the fiscal year in which the contract is entered into shall be made only on the same conditions as those prescribed in section 12 of the Act of August 4, 1939 (53 Stat. 1187, 1197). (Public Works for Water and Power Development and Energy Research Appropriation Act, 1978.)

LOAN PROGRAM—Continued

Under the Small Reclamation Projects Act (43 U.S.C. 422a), loans and/or grants can be made to non-Federal organizations for construction or rehabilitation and betterment of small water resource projects. Funds are provided in 1979 to continue construction on seven projects, of which four will be completed in 1979.

Under the Distribution System Loans Act, loans can be made to organizations for the construction of irrigation and municipal and/or industrial water distribution systems on authorized Federal reclamation projects. Work will be completed on all three projects in 1979.

This appropriation provides for the planning of potential developments for the conservation and utilization of water and related land resources and includes plan formulation investigations, geothermal investigations, and general engineering and research activities.

Investigations and surveys are made to determine the feasibility of potential reclamation projects and the need for rehabilitation of existing Federal Reclamation projects.

1. Plan formulation investigations.—These include appraisal investigations, feasibility investigations, and special investigations throughout the 17 Western States to formulate resource development plans for basins and specific projects leading to authorization, including studies relating to the rehabilitation, financial adjustment, or water conservation on existing Federal reclamation projects.

2. Geothermal investigations.—The studies are directed toward determination of the feasibility of developing geothermal resources as a usable water source. Initial efforts have been centered in the Imperial Valley of California.

3. General engineering and research.—Studies directed toward improvements in procedures and in engineering methods and materials. Included are studies of atmospheric water resources; of alternative uses and reuse of water and continuing activities in waste water reclamation opportunities in the Western States and electrical energy research and development.

CONSTRUCTION AND REHABILITATION

For construction and rehabilitation of authorized reclamation projects or parts thereof (including power transmission facilities for reclamation use) and for other related activities, as authorized by law, to remain available until expended, [$362,835,000] $270,562,000, of which [$245,000,000] $60,000,000 shall be derived from the reclamation fund: Provided, That no part of this appropriation shall be used to initiate the construction of transmission facilities within those areas covered by power wheeling service contracts which include provision for service to a Federal establishment and preferred customers, except those transmission facilities for which construction funds have been heretofore appropriated, those facilities which are necessary to carry out the terms of such contracts or those facilities for which the Secretary of the Interior finds the wheeling agency is unable or unwilling to provide for the integration of Federal projects or for service to a Federal establishment or preferred customer: Provided further, That the final point of discharge for the interceptor drain for the San Luis Unit shall not be determined until development by the Secretary of the Interior and the State of California of a plan, which shall conform with the water quality standards of the State of California as approved by the Administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency, to minimize any detrimental effect of the San Luis drainage waters: Provided further, That of the amount herein appropriated not to exceed [$400,000] $800,000 for the Central Oregon Irrigation District shall be available for construction on a rehabilitation and betterment program under the Act of October 7, 1949 (63 Stat. 724), as amended, to be repaid in full under conditions satisfactory to the Secretary of the Interior: Provided further, That not to exceed $2,000,000 of this appropriation is available to carry out the purposes of the Endangered Species Act of 1973 (Public Law 93-205), as amended, including cooperative efforts as contemplated by that Act to relocate endangered or threatened species to other suitable habitats as may be necessary to expedite project construction.

[(Rescission)]

[Appropriations provided under this head in the Public Works for Water and Power Development and Energy Research Appropriation Act, 1977, are hereby rescinded in the amount of $2,200,000.] (Public Works for Water and Power Development and Energy Research Appropriation Act, 1978: additional authorizing legislation to be proposed for $21,926,000.)

Construction will be underway in 1979 on 28 projects and on 12 units and divisions of the Pick-Sloan Missouri Basin program. Work will also continue on 11 rehabilitation and betterment projects and advance planning will be underway on 8 projects. The construction completed through 1978 will provide full irrigation service to 4,830,000 acres, a supplemental water supply to 5,849,000 acres, annually provide 3,320,000 acre-feet of municipal and industrial water, and 10,293,000 kilowatts of hydroelectric power. During 1979, facilities will be completed to furnish a full water supply to 12,700 acres, supplemental water supply to 29,200 acres, and facilities to furnish 112,600 kilowatts of hydroelectric power and 75,000 acre-feet of municipal and industrial water.

Delays are anticipated in construction of the Auburn Dam in California and the Garrison diversion project in North Dakota because of a current review of geologic conditions at the Auburn Dam site, and because of unresolved legal and international questions in the case of the Garrison project. Should these problems be resolved satisfactorily any additional funds that may be required will be requested later. Further recommendations on the on-going program and new starts will be made when the water policy review, currently underway, is completed.

SPECIAL FUNDS

Sums herein referred to as being derived from the Reclamation fund, the Colorado River Dam fund, or the Colorado River development fund, are appropriated from the special funds in the Treasury created by the Act of June 17, 1902 (43 U.S.C. 391), the Act of December 21, 1928 (43 U.S.C. 617a), and the Act of July 19, 1940 (43 U.S.C. 618a) respectively. Such sums shall be transferred, upon request of the Secretary, to be merged with and expended under the heads herein specified; and the unexpended balances of sums transferred for expenditure under the heads "Operation and Maintenance" and "General Administrative Expenses" shall revert and be credited to the special fund from which derived. (Public Works for Water and Power Development and Energy Research Appropriation Act, 1978.)

ADMINISTRATIVE PROVISIONS

Appropriations for the Bureau of Reclamation shall be available for purchase of not to exceed [forty-one] nineteen passenger motor vehicles of which [thirty] sixteen shall be for replacement only; [purchase of two aircraft for replacement only;] payment of claims for damages to or loss of property, personal injury, or death arising out of activities of the Bureau of Reclamation; payment, except as otherwise provided for, of compensation and expenses of persons on the rolls of the Bureau of Reclamation appointed as authorized by law to represent the United States in the negotiations and administration of interstate compacts without reimbursement or return under the reclamation laws; for services as authorized by 5 U.S.C. 3109, in total not to exceed [$65,000] $300,000; rewards for information or evidence concerning violations of law involving property under the jurisdiction of the Bureau of Reclamation; performance of the functions specified under the head "Operation and Maintenance Administration", Bureau of Reclamation, in the Interior Department Appropriation Act, 1945; preparation and dissemination of useful information including recordings, photographs, and photographic prints; and studies of recreational uses of reservoir areas, and investigation and recovery of archeological and paleontological remains in such areas in the same manner as provided for in the Act of August 21, 1935 (16 U.S.C. 461-467): Provided, That no part of any appropriation made herein shall be available pursuant to the Act of April 19, 1945 (43 U.S.C. 377), for expenses other than those incurred on behalf of specific reclamation projects except "General Administrative Expenses" and amounts provided for reconnaissance, basin surveys, and general engineering and research under the head "General Investigations".

Sums appropriated herein which are expended in the performance of reimbursable functions of the Bureau of Reclamation shall be returnable to the extent and in the manner provided by law.

No part of any appropriation for the Bureau of Reclamation, contained in this Act or in any prior Act, which represents amounts earned under the terms of a contract but remaining unpaid, shall be obligated for any other purpose, regardless of when such amounts are to be paid: Provided, That the incurring of any obligation prohibited by this paragraph shall be deemed a violation of section 3679 of the Revised Statutes, as amended (31 U.S.C. 665).

No funds appropriated to the Bureau of Reclamation for operation and maintenance, except those derived from advances by water users, shall be used for the particular benefits of lands (a) within the boundaries of an irrigation district, (b) of any member of a water users' organization, or (c) of any individual when such district, organization, or individual is in arrears for more than twelve months in the payment of charges due under a contract entered into with the United States pursuant to laws administered by the Bureau of Reclamation.

Not to exceed $225,000 may be expended from the appropriation "Construction and Rehabilitation" for work by force account on any one project or Pick-Sloan Missouri Basin Program unit and then only when such work is unsuitable for contract or no acceptable bid has been received and, other than otherwise provided in this paragraph or as may be necessary to meet local emergencies, not to exceed 12 per centum of the construction allotment for any project from the appropriation "Construction and Rehabilitation" contained in this Act, shall be available for construction work by force account: Provided, That this paragraph shall not apply to work performed under the Rehabilitation and Betterment Act of 1949 (63 Stat. 724). (Public Works for Water and Power Development and Energy Research Appropriation Act, 1978.)

Construction costs of the Central Arizona project, including the Navajo project participation agreement, are financed through appropriations to the Lower Colorado River basin development fund. Project revenues and certain other revenues as provided by the act will be credited to the fund and be available without further appropriation for defraying the cost of operation, maintenance, replacements, and emergency expenditures for all facilities of the projects, within such separate limitations as may be included in annual appropriations acts. Revenue in excess of these costs will be utilized to make annual payments to the general fund to return project costs allocated to irrigation, power and municipal and industrial water (82 Stat. 894).

Construction.—The 1979 program provides for continuing construction on the Central Arizona project.

Operation and maintenance.—The 1979 program provides for reclamation's share of operation and maintenance costs of the Navajo project participation agreement. Financing will be from project revenue (82 Stat. 894).

Upper Colorado River Basin fund.—Construction will continue on eight participating projects of the Upper Colorado River storage project and advance planning will be underway on five projects. The construction completed through 1978 will provide full irrigation service to 16,200 acres, a supplemental water supply to 218,600 acres, annually provide 388,900 acre-feet of municipal and industrial water, and 1,276,000 kilowatts of hydroelectric power. The impact of the 1979 construction upon reclamation goals will be felt in subsequent years as facilities are completed and irrigation service provided, municipal and industrial water furnished, and hydroelectric power is generated.

Operation and maintenance program.—In 1979, the Bureau of Reclamation will operate and maintain the facilities of the San Juan-Chama project, 4 units of the Upper Colorado River storage project, and the power facility of the Seedskaadee participating project, which altogether include 35,601,000 acre-feet of storage space and 1,276,000 kilowatts of power generation capacity. Financing will be from project revenue. Quality of water and consumptive use studies for the Upper Colorado River Basin, flood control studies of the Florida and Paonia participating projects and the nonreimbursable operation and maintenance will be financed from operating revenues and repayable debt of the storage project, and participating projects will be reduced by this amount.

Energy sales and revenues resulting from the Bureau of Reclamation power operations financed from the Upper Colorado River Basin fund are as follows:

1. Assistance to States for institutes.—This activity provides annual grants for each of the 50 States and for Puerto Rico, the District of Columbia, the Virgin Islands, and Guam, to assist them in carrying on the work of a competent and qualified water resources research institute at one college or university.

2. Matching grants to institutes.—This activity provides for grants to match, on a dollar-for-dollar basis, funds made available to the State water research institutes by States or other non-Federal sources to meet the necessary expenses of specific water resources research projects which could not otherwise be undertaken.

3. Water resources research.—This activity provides for grants to and contracts and matching or other arrangements with educational institutions, private foundations or other institutions, private firms and individuals, and with local, State, and Federal Government agencies, to undertake research directed toward finding solutions to, and mitigating, the most urgent water-related problems of concern to the Department of the Interior and the Nation.

4. Technology development.—This activity provides for grants and contracts to undertake technology development actions, directed toward assuring that the findings of original and innovative research are interpreted and developed to the stage where they can be used for practical application in resolving the most urgent and highest priority water and water-related problems.

5. Scientific information center.—This activity provides for the operation of a national water resources scientific information center.

6. Administration.—This activity provides for the administration and management of the water resources research, technology development, and related activities described above.

7. Reimbursable program.—The Office of Water Research and Technology has been requested to provide technical assistance to the State Department (AID) in their program to assist Israel in the construction of a desalting plant. OWRT has also been requested to participate with the joint commission in the Middle East to provide technical assistance to Saudi Arabia. Three permanent positions have been allocated for the Israel project and five for the joint commission work. The cost of these positions and other associated expenses are fully reimbursable.

1. Planning and research.—Funds are provided for: (a) Nationwide outdoor recreation planning to assess the current supply of outdoor recreation resources and relative priorities for allocating available public resources; (b) evaluation of the estimated recreation benefits of proposed Federal water development projects, participation in comprehensive river basin planning studies, and studies of potential wild and scenic rivers, national trails, and wilderness; and (c) review and dissemination of research on factors which influence outdoor recreation demands.

2. Federal coordination.—Coordination of diverse Federal outdoor recreation and related programs is promoted. Reviews are made of transportation and environmental impact statements for projects which affect major public recreation resources.

3. Technical assistance.—Assistance is provided to Federal agencies, States, local governments, and the private sector on a variety of outdoor recreation proposals, problems, and studies. Surplus Federal lands suitable for recreation purposes are identified and help is provided in the transfer of such lands for public use.

4. Natural heritage preservation.—Funds are provided for development of administrative and technical services for a new program to promote the preservation of resources representing the Nation's natural heritage, including: (a) technical assistance to States to establish State heritage programs; (b) development and coordination of procedures and activities for use by Federal agencies, States, and local governments to identify, select, and protect natural heritage areas; (c) encouraging and promoting the involvement of the private sector and individuals in heritage protection; (d) establishment and maintenance of a national register of natural heritage areas; (e) conducting required and special studies of heritage protection issues and techniques; and, (f) reviewing and monitoring of Federal agency activities that impact heritage resources.

5. Railways conversion.—Financial, educational, and technical assistance is provided to local, State, and Federal governmental agencies regarding the conversion of abandoned railroad rights-of-way for recreational purposes.

1. Habitat preservation.—The Service assesses the impact that human settlement and resource developments have on fish and wildlife and their habitat. Recommendations are formulated to either prevent, minimize, or mitigate adverse effects. To increase understanding of ecological relationships, fish and wildlife are monitored to determine the location, type, rate, and effects of environmental contaminants. Research is conducted at laboratories and field research stations. Training and research are performed at Cooperative fishery and wildlife units at State universities. Overall, this program assures recognition of fish and wildlife values in land and water development decisions and actions, alerts the public to environmental deterioration, and assists in providing the opportunity for future use and enjoyment of natural resources.

2. Wildlife resources.—The Service assists in the enhancement and management of the Nation's wildlife resources to assure that their populations are available for the use and enjoyment of the public and to minimize damage by wildlife on economic activities without adversely affecting wildlife resources. To carry out these responsibilities, the Service maintains a wildlife refuge system consisting of 386 units and 7 wetland management districts containing about 33.99 million acres managed for migratory birds and other wildlife for which the Federal Government has responsibility; directs and coordinates national migratory bird programs; administers certain aspects of the Marine Mammal Protection Act; enforces Federal game laws and regulations; provides technical assistance in the management of wildlife on Indian and other Federal lands; conducts research to improve wildlife management capabilities; and provides direct and extension assistance to Federal, State, Indian, and other public or private entities to alleviate conflict between man and wildlife when damage results to human enterprise. The Service also administers an interpretation and recreation program at its refuges, fish hatcheries, and research laboratories to expand public understanding and appreciation of fish and wildlife resources.

3. Fishery resources.—The Service assists in the development, management and protection of interstate and international fisheries, such as anadromous species, fisheries of the Great Lakes, interstate river and reservoir systems, and fisheries on Federal lands such as national forests, parks, refuges, and Indian reservations. Fish are produced at 88 hatcheries and 1 spawning channel. Five development centers and two training schools are operated to improve fish cultural technology and practices; research is carried out at 12 laboratories and 19 biological stations to improve sport fish productivity, increase hatchery efficiency, determine effects of environmental contaminants on fish, and develop methods of controlling undesirable fish. Technical assistance is provided by biologists to Indian tribes and to Federal, State, and other landowners in the management of sport fisheries.

4. Endangered species.—The goal of this program is to prevent species from becoming extinct and, wherever possible, to return them to the point where they are neither endangered nor threatened. The strategy consists of: (1) identification and listing of species that are endangered or threatened, (2) providing protection from taking, harassment, trade, importation and exportation, and adverse alteration of its critical habitat by a Federal action, and (3) development and implementation of recovery programs for individual species.

5. Administration.—Executive direction, coordinated resource planning, and professional administrative services, including financial, personnel, and property management, are funded through this activity.

1. Federal aid in fish restoration and management.—Assistance is given to States, Puerto Rico, Guam, the Virgin Islands, and American Samoa by the appropriation of funds equal to the revenue of the 10% excise tax on certain sport fishing tackle. States are reimbursed up to 75% of the cost of approved fish restoration and management projects, including research into fish culture, formulation of restocking plans, and acquisition and improvement of fish habitat (16 U.S.C. 777a-k).

2. Federal aid in wildlife restoration.—Assistance is given to States, Puerto Rico, Guam, and the Virgin Islands by the appropriation of funds equal to the 11% excise tax on sporting arms and ammunition, the 10% excise tax on handguns, and the 11% tax on certain archery equipment. States are reimbursed up to 75% of the cost of approved wildlife restoration projects, including acquisition and development of land and water areas, for wildlife management research and approved hunter education programs (16 U.S.C. 669-669i).

3. National wildlife refuge fund.—The Refuge Revenue Sharing Act (16 U.S.C. 715s) authorizes the expenditure of revenues from the sale of products from the National Wildlife Refuge System. Part of the net proceeds of refuge products is paid to counties in which refuges are located for the benefit of public schools and roads. Payment is based on 25% of the proceeds or 0.75% of the value of lands acquired in fee, whichever is larger. The balance of the proceeds is available for land acquisition.

4. Proceeds from sales, water resources development projects.—Receipts collected from the sale of products from refuges on which other agencies have primary jurisdiction are used to cover expenses of producing these products and for managing wildlife habitat.

1. Park management.—The Service administers 294 park areas comprising about 31 million acres of federally owned land located in 47 States, the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, and the Virgin Islands. The program includes: (1) Overall management of park areas necessary to accommodate an estimated 283 million visitors in 1979; (2) maintenance of buildings and other facilities required to accommodate visitor use, as well as to protect the Government's investment; (3) interpretive programs to enhance the visitors' park experience; (4) law enforcement to protect the visitors' well-being and reduce vandalism and other destruction to park resources; and (5) resource management necessary for the protection and preservation of the unique natural, cultural, and historical features in the National Park System.

The following tabulation shows the actual and estimated visits, and general and special fund revenues collected and to be collected by the National Park Service, including recreation fee revenues deposited to the Land and water conservation fund.

1979 estimate.....	282,500,000	21,015,000

The major program elements comprising this activity are: Management of park areas; concessions management; interpretive services; informational publications; visitor protection and safety; maintenance; and resources management.

2. Forest fire suppression and rehabilitation of burned areas.—This activity provides for the suppression and emergency presuppression of fires on or endangering lands administered by the Service, and for the rehabilitation of burned areas to conserve resources, and for the protection of park visitors. The Service administers approximately 31 million acres of forest, grasslands, tundra, and desert shrub.

3. Executive direction.—Provides executive direction of Service programs in the Service's headquarters in Washington, D.C., and nine regional offices located throughout the Nation.

4. Park, recreation, and wilderness planning.—This activity provides for studies, investigation, and planning programs to support the overall direction and management of park activities. Specific programs include: Natural landmark studies; new area studies; land use studies; water resource studies; and general management planning.

5. Cooperative programs.—Under this activity the Service provides assistance to other Federal agencies, States, and private institutions, upon request, in general development planning, site planning, construction, and operational matters, including interpretive planning and guidance in protection and preservation of historical and archeological values. The program elements include: Federal agency, State and private assistance; Indian assistance program; review of environmental impact statements; and Alaska Native Claims Settlement Act.

6. Statutory and contractual aid.—The Service provides financial or other assistance in the planning, development, or operation of natural, historical, or recreation areas not operated by the National Park Service. This assistance is provided for the following sites as authorized by law or pursuant to agreements between the National Park Service and other Federal agencies, States, or private institutions: (a) Roosevelt Campobello International Park Commission, New Brunswick, Canada; (b) Hampton National Historic Site, Maryland; (c) Ice Age National Scientific Reserve, Wisconsin; and (d) International Peace Garden, United States and Canada.

1. Buildings, utilities, and other facilities.—The Service carries out a program for the planning, construction, and reconstruction of physical facilities in units throughout the National Park System. Objectives of this program are to provide initial facilities at new park areas, to provide added facilities at older park areas to meet increasing visitor demands, and to undertake major repair and reconstruction of existing facilities in order to provide safe, usable, and adequate facilities for visitors and to protect park resources.

5. Roads, trails, and parkways.—The 1979 program includes work on authorized parkways and major road projects such as principal park entrance roads or major park roads having high traffic density. These are to be accomplished for the Service by the Federal Highway Administration. Minor park roads, trails and parkways projects, including parking areas, overlooks, campground roads and trails and drainage structures, are carried out by the Service itself. The program provides mainly for the maintenance of existing facilities through such measures as resurfacing and reconstruction and for the development of new roads and trails primarily in recently authorized areas. Program objectives are to prevent a loss of investment in existing road and trail systems, to eliminate unsafe sections, and to meet traffic demands.

The Bicentennial Land Heritage Program providing funds for construction is reduced somewhat in 1979, its third year.

This appropriation provides the following programs:

(a) Maintenance of the National Register—for maintaining the official schedule and protective inventory of the Nation's historic and cultural structural heritage;

(b) Historic architectural and archeological services—to provide technical assistance on preservation, improvement, restoration, and maintenance of cultural properties;

(c) Historic sites survey—for thematic studies undertaken to identify nationally significant historic properties;

(d) Historic American buildings survey—for documenting the Nation's architectural heritage;

(e) Historic American engineering record—for identifying and documenting the engineering heritage of the Nation; and

(f) Archeological investigation and salvage—for conducting such programs primarily in areas threatened by federally sponsored construction programs.

Funding decreases from 1977 due to 1978 transfer of grant-in-aid to the Historic Preservation Fund account.

1. National Park Service, donations.—The Secretary of the Interior accepts and uses donated moneys for purposes of the National Park System (16 U.S.C. 6). Donations amounting to $3 million were received from contributions during 1977. It is estimated that donations of $3 million and $2.2 million will be received during 1978 and 1979, respectively.

2. Preservation, Birthplace of Abraham Lincoln, National Park Service.—This fund consists of an endowment given by the Lincoln Farm Association, and the interest therefrom is available for preservation of the Abraham Lincoln Birthplace National Historic Site, Ky. (16 U.S.C. 211, 212). The amount of $2,540 was received in 1977.

3. Jefferson National Expansion Memorial, contributions.—Pursuant to the act of May 17, 1954 (68 Stat. 98-100), as amended, the Secretary of the Interior was authorized to construct upon the Jefferson National Expansion Memorial National Historic Site, St. Louis, Mo., an appropriate national memorial to those persons who made possible the territorial expansion of the United States. Contributions are accepted from the city of St. Louis or other non-Federal sources in the ratio of $1 to each $3 of Federal appropriations.

SURVEYS, INVESTIGATIONS, AND RESEARCH*

*See Part III for additional information.

For expenses necessary for the Geological Survey to perform surveys, investigations, and research covering topography, geology, and the mineral and water resources of the United States, its Territories and possessions, and other areas as authorized by law (43 U.S.C. 31, 1332, and 1340); classify lands as to mineral character and water and power resources; give engineering supervision to power permittees and Federal [Power] Energy Regulatory Commission licensees; enforce departmental regulations applicable to oil, gas, and other mining leases, permits, licenses, and operating contracts; control the interstate shipment of contraband oil as required by law (15 U.S.C. 715); administer the minerals exploration program (30 U.S.C. 641); and publish and disseminate data relative to the foregoing activities; [$361,547,000] $398,363,000, of which [$33,525,000] $35,396,000 shall be available only for cooperation with States or municipalities for water resources investigations: Provided, That no part of this appropriation shall be used to pay more than one-half the cost of any topographic mapping or water resources investigations carried on in cooperation with any State or municipality. (Public Law No. 95-74, making appropriations for the Department of the Interior and related agencies, 1978.)

The Geological Survey provides basic scientific data concerning water, land, and mineral resources, and supervises the prospecting, development, and production of minerals and mineral fuels on leased Federal, Indian, and Outer Continental Shelf lands.

2. Topographic surveys and mapping.—The objectives of the national mapping program are to coordinate and provide for the highest priority mapping requirements of all Federal agencies, to produce and make available multipurpose maps and basic cartographic data in printed and digital form to meet the new and expanding mapping needs of the Nation, and to develop and maintain a modern production capability. These maps and related map data are required as basic decisionmaking and management tools necessary to assist in such activities as: The location and development of energy resources; environmental studies; land use planning; economic and industrial studies; location and development of highways; selection of power and communication sites and routes and dam and reservoir sites; flood plain studies and flood and erosion control; and military and civil defense. New standard 7.5-minute topographic mapping will be accomplished at either 1:24,000 scale with English units or 1:25,000 scale with metric units. By the end of 1978, published 7.5-minute topographic maps will be available for about 71% of the conterminous United States, Hawaii, and outlying areas; for Alaska, about 85% of the State's area will be covered with 1:63,360 scale maps at the end of 1978. The program also involves the preparation of 1:50,000 scale maps over the unmapped area of the National Petroleum Reserve in Alaska. During 1979, about 86,000 square miles of 7.5-minute new mapping and about 87,000 square miles of 7.5-minute revision will be completed. Production of map data in digital form will begin as this new capability is phased into an operational program through the implementation of modern mapping technology.

For 1978, intermediate-scale mapping at 1:50,000 and 1:100,000 scales will be accomplished for about 175 maps in county format and about 300 maps in quadrangle format. Other small-scale and special maps such as the 1:250,000 scale topographic series, State base maps, and National Park maps will be revised and new products prepared to meet identified requirements. The National Cartographic Information Center will continue to acquire, index, and catalog information on cartographic data available from Federal, State, and private organizations and to serve as a focal point to the user public for their requests for information about those data.

3. Geologic and mineral resource surveys and mapping.—The continuing national program of geologic research and investigations produces: (a) New or improved methods, techniques, and instruments for mineral or energy exploration on land and on the submerged continental margins; (b) geologic, geophysical, and geochemical maps and analyses that show the distribution, age, composition, structure, and physical properties of the rocks and mineral deposits at and beneath the surface of the Earth including the Nation's continental shelves and slopes; (c) information on the chemistry and physics of the Earth and the geologic processes by which it was formed and is being continually modified; and (d) geologic data that are directly applicable to urban development, land utilization, and the solution of land construction problems. The 1979 program provides for increased efforts in geothermal and uranium resource investigations; increased efforts in earthquake hazards reduction; establishment of two new observatories and the updating of others in the National Geomagnetic Observatory Network; an increase for systematic resource assessments of the mineral potential of the conterminous United States; an increase for developing a program to study the effects of climate change; and for decreases in mineral commodities studies and coal resource assessment.

4. Water resources investigations.—The continuing national program of water resources investigations during 1979 has the objective of seeing that the Nation's water resources are appraised and that the necessary water data to develop and manage them efficiently are available when needed. The program produces data and information relevant to the flow and sediment discharge of rivers, location and quantity of underground water, chemical quality and temperature of water, changes caused by nature and by man, availability and suitability of water for present and future demands—all of which are essential to water planning, water management, energy development, and improvement of the environment. Included in the program is research needed to increase our understanding of fundamental principles of water occurrence, movement, and interaction with its environment, and also to improve the accuracy and usefulness of water data through improvements in technology. The increase in 1979 will provide for high-level nuclear waste disposal studies to complement those being undertaken by the Department of Energy. The level of effort for defining the extent and hydrologic characteristics of the major regional ground water aquifer systems will be increased to further determine their potential for total water development, and the effect of prolonged heavy pumping and other stresses on the aquifers. Installation of the national stream quality accounting network will be completed; and five additional intensive river basin quality assessments will be started. Collection and interpretation of data on water use will be expanded; and the services provided by the National Water Data Exchange will be increased and improved.

There will be some reductions in oil shale hydrology and research for special studies and areal appraisals. Also, development of the airborne positioning system for flood plain profiling and other mapping uses will be terminated.

5. Conservation of lands and minerals.—The 1979 program provides for: (a) classification of federally owned lands for the existence and workability of leasable mineral deposits and for sites for development of water resources, (b) evaluation, to determine the fair market value of mineral resources offered for lease by competitive bidding, (c) regulation and supervision of mineral prospecting, development, and production operations on leased Federal, Indian, and Outer Continental Shelf (OCS) lands, and (d) establishment of a platform verification program to provide nationwide guidelines and standards for enhancing the integrity of OCS structures and to insure that platform construction and installation will be conducted in a safe and pollution-free manner. Funds for regulation and supervision will be increased for onshore oil and gas and nonenergy leasing programs. In 1979 a new program will be initiated to provide an accurate inventory of coal reserves under Federal coal leases.

6. Land information and analysis.—The principal mission of this activity is to more effectively meet the Nation's rapidly increasing need for information required to facilitate land-use planning and decisionmaking, and to evaluate the environmental consequences of alternative land uses.

The specific objectives are: (a) Development and application of multidisciplinary earth sciences, other natural science and geographic technology in support of land-use planning and decisionmaking; (b) mapping current land use; (c) accomplishing in-house NEPA-related functions; and (d) collecting, processing, and distributing remote sensing data and applying other aspects of space technology in support of land resources and environmental analysis. Additional funds, in part offset by decreases in this activity, will be provided in 1979 to support the preparation of developmental environmental impact statements, for oil spill modeling and trajectory analysis, and land use mapping.

7. General administration.—General administrative expenses provide for management, executive direction and coordination, and administrative support to the Bureau as a whole. This includes such essential functions as budget, finance, personnel, contract negotiation and administration, property management, organization, and methods and management analysis. General administrative expenses of the Geological Survey are financed in part by the line item and in part by assessments on direct program funds and on funds from other Federal agencies and sundry non-Federal sources.

8. Facilities.—The funds included in this activity will finance the operation and maintenance costs, facilities management needs and related special support services necessary for the operation of the National Center Headquarters complex and major field centers.

Reimbursements from non-Federal sources are from States and municipalities for making cooperative topographic and geologic surveys and water resources investigations (43 U.S.C. 48), proceeds from sale to the public of copies of photographs and records (43 U.S.C. 45); proceeds from sale of personal property (40 U.S.C. 481(c)); reimbursements from permittees and licensees of the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (16 U.S.C. 797); and reimbursements from friendly countries and international organizations for technical assistance (22 U.S.C. 2357). Reimbursements from other Federal agencies (31 U.S.C. 686) are for special-purpose mapping, investigations, and computer services performed at the request of the financing agency, much of which contributes to the basic objectives of the Geological Survey.

National Petroleum Reserve in Alaska.—The Naval Petroleum Reserves Production Act of 1976 (Public Law 94-258) transferred jurisdiction of the National Petroleum Reserve in Alaska from the Department of the Navy to the Department of the Interior on June 1, 1977. The Secretary of the Interior charged the Geological Survey with the responsibility for (a) continuing the Navy's contract exploration program on the Reserve; (b) with developing and continuing production of the South Barrow gas field or other such fields as may be necessary to supply natural gas to the village of Barrow and other communities and government installations in the Barrow area; and (c) restoring certain areas of the Reserve disturbed by previous construction and exploration activities.

The exploration program is being reduced by $11,342 thousand because the drilling program will be completed at the end of 1979. The program, through 1979, will provide reasonable information to characterize the petroleum resource potential in the reserve. This information will be considered in developing recommendations for the best uses of the reserve including potential oil and gas development.

The program for exploration and development of the Barrow area gas fields is being reduced by $13,028 thousand. All development and exploration effort will be postponed until a firm agreement is signed, which will provide for non-Federal agencies to fund and install an adequate system for distributing the gas supply.

1. State regulatory program grants.—Includes 100% grants to States for their incremental expenses of enforcing the interim Federal standards under the Surface Mining Control and Reclamation Act of 1977. Also includes 60% matching grants to States for development and operation of permanent enforcement programs under the act. For 1979, 26 interim enforcement, 27 program development, and 7 program operations grants to the States are anticipated.

2. Federal regulatory programs.—This activity includes Federal expenses for developing permanent regulatory programs, Federal coal mine inspection and enforcement activities, and technical assistance functions. Until State permanent programs are adopted, the Surface Mining Control and Reclamation Act provides for a minimum of two Federal inspections of each mine each year. Provision is made for additional inspections to respond to valid citizen complaints and uncorrected violations identified in two consecutive State inspections. An estimated 7,187 operating mines must be inspected in 1979 plus over 1,000 closed mines where State bonds have not been released. The activity also includes applied research and technology transfer functions. Operation of a cataloging and data center to provide current information on mining and reclamation technology research is included. Applied research projects undertaken are directed toward developing solutions to specific problems encountered in the regulatory and abandoned lands programs of the Office of Surface Mining.

1. State reclamation program grants.—Provides for grants to States to reclaim lands damaged from past mining practices. Under the Surface Mining Control and Reclamation Act of 1977, States with approved regulatory (enforcement) programs may also have reclamation programs and annual reclamation project plans approved. Upon approval, a State is entitled to a minimum of 50% of fund revenue derived from operating mines in the State. The program level for 1979 is based on an estimated seven States having reclamation programs approved during the year, and receiving grants equal to 50% of receipts from the time of program approval.

2. Federal reclamation program.—This activity includes fee collection and assistance to States in developing their reclamation programs as well as abandoned lands reclamation projects undertaken by the Department of the Interior and the Soil Conservation Service (SCS). The SCS rural lands program will reclaim an estimated 1,900 acres in 1979. The Interior program will be aimed at correcting immediate hazards to public health and safety from past mining practices. Included will be repair of impoundments, correction of subsidence problems, extinguishing waste bank fires, and sealing shafts and tunnels.

3. Small operator assistance payments.—The Surface Mining Control and Reclamation Act provides for financial assistance in the form of payments to qualified laboratories to secure certain information needed by small mine operators in filing for a permit under the act. Small operators are defined as those firms or individuals engaged in the mining of coal who produce less than 100,000 tons annually from all mining locations. The 1979 program will provide assistance to a minimum of 350 small operators.

1. Metallurgy research.—Research is directed toward providing the technological base needed to maintain a supply of minerals and metals adequate to meet national economic and strategic needs through efforts to maximize productivity and reduce energy requirements in metallurgical processing, maximize the recovery of minerals and metals from primary and secondary domestic resources, minimize the environmental impacts associated with minerals processing, and minimize the requirements for mineral materials through conservation and substitution. Efforts to advance minerals technology include development of new and improved processes for beneficiation, recovery and purification of minerals and metals. Other research is directed toward effecting pollution abatement, secondary resource recovery, and minimizing mineral and metal needs. Increased funds in 1979 will provide for expanded efforts in metallurgical process engineering with emphasis on pollution elimination. Major efforts to improve domestic supplies of strategic critical minerals such as nickel, cobalt, chromium, and aluminum will continue as will efforts to improve processes for producing iron ore from domestic non-magnetic taconites.

2. Mining research.—Research is conducted to develop solutions to safety and engineering-related health problems which impose a major social cost on mining operations, to investigate longer term solutions such as inherently safe mining systems where the safety and health hazards are engineered out of the mining system, and to develop systems to increase the productivity and efficiency of metal and nonmetal mining operations. Efforts address a broad range of safety and engineering-related health problems in coal, metal and nonmetal mines, including respirable dust, fire, and explosion prevention, industrial hygiene, radiation hazards, post disaster survival and rescue, ground control, ventilation, noise, and system engineering. Research develops hardware and systems to solve safety and health problems and provides basic scientific and engineering data to support the regulatory and standard setting activities of the Mine Safety and Health Administration. Efforts to advance the technology of metal and nonmetal mining will accelerate research on improved underground mining productivity, develop improved in-situ leaching technology, and evaluate alternative low-grade copper/nickel mining techniques.

3. Mining environmental research.—Research is directed to reducing critical mining environmental problems and ultimately to eliminating the adverse environmental effects associated with the extraction of minerals, metals, and fuels which are essential to the economy. Technology which will enable the control of environmental disturbances from current mining operations, the reclamation of mined lands, and the environmentally sound development of the Nation's mineral resources in the future is developed and demonstrated.

4. Mined land demonstrations.—Funds for demonstration programs for the restoration of abandoned mined lands, the control of subsidence caused by mining and the control of fires in inactive mines are not included for 1979. The Abandoned Mine Reclamation Fund administered by the Office of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement will finance such projects in 1979 and beyond.

5. Data collection and analysis.—Technical and economic data on mineral reserves, production, consumption and international trade are compiled, analyzed, forecast, and disseminated for over 100 commodities. This information is used to provide a comprehensive, current information base for policy decisionmakers to use in formulating national mineral policies; to assist Federal, State, and local governments in coping with mineral supply problems; and to assist the private sector in making rational mineral production, consumption, and investment decisions.

6. Mineral land assessments.—Mineral assessments are made on wilderness, primitive, and other public lands to provide data on minerals availability or potential, for use in considering public land withdrawal decisions. Some 5.6 million acres of public lands proposed for designation as wilderness areas remain to be assessed by January 1983 under the terms of the Wilderness Act of 1964 and the Eastern Wilderness Act of 1975, as amended (Public Laws 88-577, 93-622, 94-557 and 94-567). Engineering investigations of mineral resources are undertaken in areas affected by water development and other public works. Environmental impact statements are developed and reviewed as required by the National Environmental Policy Act of 1969. Reduced funds in 1979 reflect the completion of a mineral study of the Utah overthrust belt.

Drainage of anthracite mines.—Funds appropriated in 1956 (69 Stat. 460) will be expended in 1978 and in future years on a matched-fund basis with the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. The funds are provided for the conservation of anthracite coal resources and the prevention of flooding and damage to surface lands or structures through flood control and anthracite mine drainage. The act of July 15, 1955, was amended by the act of October 15, 1962 (76 Stat. 934), to further provide for the filling of voids in abandoned coal mines in the interest of public health and safety.

ADMINISTRATIVE PROVISION

The Secretary is authorized to accept lands, buildings, equipment, and other contributions from public and private sources and to prosecute projects in cooperation with other agencies, Federal, State, or private: Provided, That the Bureau of Mines is authorized during the current fiscal year, to sell directly or through any Government agency, including corporations, any metal or mineral product that may be manufactured in pilot plants operated by the Bureau of Mines, and the proceeds of such sales shall be covered into the Treasury as miscellaneous receipts. (Public Law No. 95-74, making appropriations for the Department of the Interior and related agencies, 1978.)

ALLOCATIONS RECEIVED FROM OTHER ACCOUNTS

Note.—Obligations incurred under allocations from other accounts are included in the schedules of parent appropriations as follows:
Funds appropriated to the President. "Appalachian Regional Development Program."

The authorized purposes of the Helium Act Amendments of 1960 (50 U.S.C. 167) are to locate and develop helium reserves and to produce, sell, and distribute supplies of helium, and to conserve a sustained supply of helium that will be sufficient to provide for essential Government activities.

Budget program.—During 1979, it is anticipated that helium sales by the Bureau of Mines will be about 230 million cubic feet. (All volumes are at the measurement base of 14.7 psia and 70° F.) This is 35 million cubic feet more than sales for 1978. As in the past, extraction of helium for production and sales will be conducted only at the Keyes, Okla., helium plant. The Amarillo, Tex., helium plant is responsible for shipments of gaseous helium in small cylinders and for production and shipment of liquid helium, using helium transported to it from the Keyes helium plant.

Federal agencies and their contractors will purchase approximately 225 million cubic feet of helium directly from the Bureau and from eligible commercial distributors (30 CFR, pt. 602). The remainder of the Bureau's sales are to a few commercial companies.

Helium produced at the Keyes helium plant in excess of the requirement for the current helium market will be conserved by injection into underground storage for future use. Operations at the Exell, Tex., helium plant will consist of processing functions required in connection with the operation and control of the underground helium storage reservoir and operation of purification and liquefaction equipment installed in 1978-79.

During 1979, construction work on new purification and liquefaction equipment at the Exell helium plant will continue. Completion, testing, and inspection of the equipment will carry over into the following year. This new equipment at the Exell helium plant is necessary at this time as the primary 20-year term of the helium-bearing gas supply contract at the Keyes helium plant expires in April 1978. The contract continues in effect thereafter so long as the company produces gas considered by the United States to be suitable for processing. If for some reason the Keyes gas is no longer suitable for processing, the contract would be terminated and purification operations shifted to the Exell helium plant using gas from underground storage.

During 1979, the Bureau will continue to expand the scope of its exploration and evaluation of helium-bearing gasfields of the United States. Studies of fields containing nonwasting helium reserves will receive priority. Nonwasting helium reserves are contained in gases having very low heating value; therefore, the gas is of little or no value for fuel and is not being exploited. Some of the larger known nonwasting helium reserves are on Federal lands, and the ownership of the helium has been retained by the Government.

The Bureau will also continue to update and improve its technical capabilities with regard to helium extraction, purification, and distribution.

The Bureau, through a contract for professional services, will develop trend and causal models of the U.S. helium industry through the year 2000 and beyond. The models should predict the resources, supply, demand, and end uses of helium for each year during the period. These computerized models will permit the Bureau of Mines to periodically update the trends of helium supply and usage, publish results, and continue its leadership role in managing and informing the Nation on its helium resources and use.

Financing.—The helium program of production, sales and helium stored underground is financed from the Helium fund. Income from helium sales, services, and rentals of containers are estimated to provide the needed funding. A decrease in the cash balance with the Treasury will account for the additional funding. The funded operating costs are increased by 5% over those for 1978. The increase is due mainly to an increase in salaries and capital outlay for the purchase and/or fabrication of plant operating equipment.

Operating results.—The revenues from helium sales, storage fees, and other income are estimated to be $9.8 million, while expenses are estimated to be $9.1 million, leaving a net operating income of $700 thousand.

As of September 30, 1977, the total assets of the Helium fund were $623.8 million of which $589.2 million represents helium inventories. The total assets include 2% cash and accounts receivables, 4% plants and equipment, and 94% helium stored underground. Liabilities total $498.4 million of which $468.2 million is owed to the U.S. Treasury (largely principal and accumulated interest). The Government's equity as of September 30, 1977, is $125.4 million.

On September 30, 1979, the total assets of the Helium fund are estimated to be $690.3 million, with $657.8 million representing helium inventories. Total liabilities will be $563.1 million, with $531.9 million owed to the U.S. Treasury. The increase of $63.7 million in the amount owed the Treasury is accrued interest on borrowings and net worth of 1978 and 1979. The Government's equity on September 30, 1979, is estimated at $130.8 million.

1. Education.—The Bureau of Indian Affairs provides a variety of support for the education of Indian children through direct operation of schools, support of tribally operated schools, and financial assistance to public schools serving Indian children. The number of children attending Federal, tribal, and public schools is shown below:

Number of pupils:	1977 actual	1978 estimate	1979 estimate
Federal and tribal schools.....	50,256	51,000	51,700
Public schools.....	155,430	162,275	182,000

The Bureau also assists Indian adults by providing financial assistance to students for higher education studies, by direct support of some tribally operated post-secondary institutions, and by offering continuing education programs in many communities. The number of participants in these programs is indicated in the following table:

Continuing education participants:	1977 actual	1978 estimate	1979 estimate
Higher education scholarships.....	17,000	20,000	20,000
Adult education enrollments.....	18,350	18,350	18,500

2. Indian services.—This activity includes municipal-type government services for Indian communities, along with assistance to tribes in self-government and self-determination projects. Also, the activities associated with the Navajo-Hopi settlement are included. Data are presented below on selected aspects of this activity.

Social service caseloads:	1977 actual	1978 estimate	1979 estimate
General assistance.....	61,500	61,500	61,500

Rehabilitation.....	2,500	3,130	2,650
HUD-assisted.....	6,000	6,000	6,000

3. Economic development and employment programs.—This activity is designed to stimulate reservation economies, and to help Indian people participate fully in those economies.

Business enterprise development is encouraged and assisted through programs of technical and financial aid, with strong emphasis on enterprises owned and operated by Indian individuals and organizations. Indian tribal organizations and individuals are assisted with securing and managing loans for resource and business enterprise development, housing, public utility facilities, education, and other purposes. Individual Indians are assisted in qualifying for, finding, and occupying jobs both on and off the reservation consistent with their needs, capabilities, and desires. Roads are maintained to provide for the movement of people and goods as needed for the well-being of the community.

4. Natural resources development.—This activity is designed to provide for the conservation, development, and utilization of Indian land, water, and related resources. Resources are surveyed and inventoried, and agriculture and forestry development is assisted. The estimates for 1979 include the full amount expected for firefighting purposes as opposed to the previous practice of seeking supplemental appropriations for this activity.

5. Trust responsibilities.—Under this activity the Bureau's trust responsibilities toward the Indian people are carried out. This entails the protection of Indian rights and property, particularly those related to land and natural resources, and the management of assets held in trust for Indian tribes and individuals.

6. General management and facilities operation.—This program provides for the general management functions and for the repair, maintenance, and operation of facilities which support the Bureau's programs. These functions include executive direction; management administrative services; safety management; operation and maintenance of the Bureau's physical facilities; and provision of GSA owned or leased facilities. Administrative costs of centralized support services and general management costs at the local levels are financed from the program activities served.

This fund, established by the Indian Financing Act of 1974, provides a source of financing for Indians who cannot borrow from other Government credit agencies or from ordinary commercial lenders because of their low economic status, isolated geographic location, lack of bankable security, or other reasons. Loans are made to tribes and other Indian organizations for relending to individual members and groups of members, and to finance tribal business enterprises. Loans are also made to tribes for use by them in obtaining expert assistance to prepare and argue claims pending before the Indian Claims Commission. Direct loans are made for any purpose that will promote the economic development of the borrower, including loans for educational purposes.

The fund was established pursuant to the Indian Financing Act of 1974. The purpose of the fund is to support a program of guaranteeing or insuring loans made by commercial lending institutions to Indians and to tribes and other Indian organizations for economic development purposes. An interest subsidy is paid from the fund on loans guaranteed or insured to reduce the Indian borrower's rate of interest. The purpose of this program is to provide an incentive to the private lending sector to make loans to Indians which would not otherwise be made.

Note.—1979 estimate for the Northern Mariana Islands is for activities previously financed from Trust Territory of the Pacific Islands.

The 1979 budget request for administration of Territories finances the costs of operating the Office of the Judiciary of American Samoa. Also requested are grant funds in the amount of $19 million for the operations of the Government of American Samoa. The most significant programs in the budget year include those for education, medical services, and public works.

The appropriation request includes $500 thousand for economic development as authorized in the Guam Economic Development Act of 1968.

Guam construction request of $8.9 million would provide for the building of needed water projects.

The request includes funds for the operations of the Federal Comptroller's Offices in Guam, Trust Territory and the Northern Mariana Islands, Virgin Islands, and American Samoa as provided for in Public Law 95-134, and Secretarial Order 3009.

Under the provisions of the Covenant to Establish a Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands direct grants funds of $16.9 million are requested for governmental operations, construction, and economic development.

In addition the request now provides for the salaries and expenses of the Office of Territorial Affairs which had been funded previously under the Office of the Secretary of the Interior.

Note.—Excludes $16,913 thousand in 1979 for activities transferred to: Administration of Territories.

Under the terms of the Trusteeship Agreement between the United States and the Security Council of the United Nations, the United States exercises full jurisdiction over the territory and is obligated to promote the political, economic, and educational advancement of the inhabitants. These responsibilities are carried out through the Department of the Interior.

The Trust Territory, with a population of about 101,000 persons, comprises 2,125 islands scattered over 3 million square miles of ocean in two major archipelagos, the Caroline, and Marshall Islands. The land area totals 516 square miles.

1. High Commissioner's office.—This office provides executive direction for the development programs and the administration of all the territory.

2. Judiciary.—Provision is made for the high court of the Trust Territory, the court of appeals, and the lesser courts of the territory.

4. Grants.—The cost of operating the government of the territory is provided by Federal grant appropriations and local revenue. The main activities funded under the Trust Territory government are operations and capital improvements.

11. Bikini rehabilitation.—Funding provides grants for rehabilitation of Bikini Atoll so that former inhabitants, removed because of atomic weapons testing, can safely be resettled.

Revenues locally collected in Guam, derived from Federal income taxes, custom duties, and other services were used to finance the cost of the Government Comptroller in accordance with the "Guam Elective Governor Act" (Public Law 90-497). Operations of the Comptroller were included in administration of territories as a reimbursement. Public Law 95-134 now provides that effective October 1, 1977, the Government Comptroller's salary and expenses shall be paid from funds authorized to be appropriated to the Department of the Interior. Unobligated balances remaining in the account are to be paid to the Government of Guam.

Revenue collected by the Government of the Virgin Islands is matched, to the extent of the collections less refunds and costs of collection, by payment out of quarterly revenue taxes collected by the United States on Virgin Islands products transported to the United States under provisions of the "Internal Revenue Code" (26 U.S.C. 7652(b)(3)) amended. Public Law 94-202 provides for quarterly instead of the previously annual payments to the Virgin Islands.

Public Law 91-419, approved September 25, 1970, permanently appropriated certain moneys to the Secretary of the Interior. Royalty fees for the manufacture, reproduction, or use of the character "Johnny Horizon" are used for public service antilitter programs to maintain the beauty and utility of the Nation's public lands (18 U.S.C. 714). This program was transferred from the Bureau of Land Management to the Office of the Secretary on July 1, 1972, under authority of Reorganization Plan No. 3 of 1950 (U.S.C. 1451). The Secretary has determined that the Johnny Horizon program has fulfilled its mission and has been terminated effective September 30, 1976.

GENERAL PROVISIONS, DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR

Sec. 101. Appropriations made in this title shall be available for expenditure or transfer (within each bureau or office), with the approval of the Secretary, for the emergency reconstruction, replacement or repair of aircraft, buildings, utilities, or other facilities or equipment damaged or destroyed by fire, flood, storm, or other unavoidable causes: Provided, That no funds shall be made available under this authority until funds specifically made available to the Department of the Interior for emergencies shall have been exhausted.

Sec. 102. The Secretary may authorize the expenditure or transfer of any appropriation in this title, in addition to the amounts included in the budget programs of the several agencies, for the suppression or emergency prevention of forest or range fires on or threatening lands under jurisdiction of the Department of the Interior and for the emergency rehabilitation of burned-over lands under its jurisdiction: Provided, That appropriations made in this title for fire suppression purposes shall be available for the payment of obligations incurred during the preceding fiscal year, and for reimbursement to other Federal agencies for destruction of vehicles, aircraft, or other equipment in connection with their use for fire suppression purposes, such reimbursement to be credited to appropriations currently available at the time of receipt thereof.

Sec. 103. Appropriations made in this title shall be available for operations of warehouses, garages, shops, and similar facilities, wherever consolidation of activities will contribute to efficiency or economy, and said appropriations shall be reimbursed for services rendered to any other activity in the same manner as authorized by the Act of June 30, 1932 (31 U.S.C. 686): Provided, That reimbursements for costs of supplies, materials, and equipment, and for services rendered may be credited to the appropriation current at the time such reimbursements are received.

Sec. 104. Appropriations made to the Department of the Interior in this title shall be available for services as authorized by 5 U.S.C. 3109, when authorized by the Secretary, in total amount not to exceed [$300,000] $500,000; hire, maintenance, and operation of aircraft; hire of passenger motor vehicles; purchase of reprints; payment for telephone service in private residences in the field, when authorized under regulations approved by the Secretary, and the payment of dues, when authorized by the Secretary, for library membership in societies or associations which issue publications to members only or at a price to members lower than to subscribers who are not members.

Sec. 105. Appropriations available to the Department of the Interior for salaries and expenses shall be available for uniforms or allowances therefor, as authorized by law (5 U.S.C. 5901-5902 and D.C. Code 4-204).

Sec. 106. In addition to the aircraft specifically authorized under this Act there is hereby authorized for acquisition [3] 2 aircraft for replacement only, [2] both of which shall be from surplus. Such acquisitions shall be integral to the provision of centralized aircraft services in Alaska.

Sec. 107. Appropriations made in this title shall be available for obligation in connection with contracts issued by the General Services Administration for services or rentals for periods not in excess of twelve months beginning at any time during the fiscal year.

TITLE III—GENERAL PROVISIONS

Sec. 301. No part of any appropriation under this Act shall be available to the Secretaries of the Interior and Agriculture for use for any sale hereafter made of unprocessed timber from Federal lands west of the 100th meridian in the contiguous 48 States which will be exported from the United States, or which will be used as a substitute for timber from private lands which is exported by the purchaser: Provided, That this limitation shall not apply to specific quantities of grades and species of timber which said Secretaries determine are surplus to domestic lumber and plywood manufacturing needs.

Sec. 302. No part of any appropriation under this Act shall be available to the Secretary of Interior or the Secretary of Agriculture for the leasing of oil and natural gas by noncompetitive bidding on publicly owned lands within the boundaries of the Shawnee National Forest, Illinois: Provided, That nothing herein is intended to inhibit or otherwise affect the sale, lease or right to access to minerals owned by private individuals.

Sec. 303. No part of any appropriation under this Act shall be made available to the Secretary of the Interior for the leasing of oil and natural gas on publicly owned lands within the boundaries of the Flathead National Forest, Montana.

Sec. 304. No part of any appropriation contained in this Act shall be available for any activity or the publication or distribution of literature that in any way tends to promote public support or opposition to any legislative proposal on which congressional action is not complete, in accordance with the Act of June 25, 1948 (18 U.S.C. 1913).

Sec. 305. No part of any appropriation contained in this Act shall remain available for obligation beyond the current fiscal year unless expressly so provided herein. (Public Law No. 95-74, making appropriations for the Department of the Interior and related agencies, 1978.)

GENERAL PROVISIONS, DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR

Sec. 301. Appropriations in this title shall be available for expenditure or transfer (within each bureau or office), with the approval of the Secretary, for the emergency reconstruction, replacement, or repair of aircraft, buildings, utilities, or other facilities or equipment damaged or destroyed by fire, flood, storm, or other unavoidable causes: Provided, That no funds shall be made available under this authority until funds specifically made available to the Department of the Interior for emergencies shall have been exhausted.

Sec. 302. The Secretary may authorize the expenditure or transfer (within each bureau or office) of any appropriation in this title, in addition to the amounts included in the budget programs of the several agencies, for the suppression or emergency prevention of forest or range fires on or threatening lands under jurisdiction of the Department of the Interior.

Sec. 303. Appropriations in this title shall be available for operation of warehouses, garages, shops, and similar facilities, wherever consolidation of activities will contribute to efficiency, or economy, and said appropriations shall be reimbursed for services rendered to any other activity in the same manner as authorized by the Act of June 30, 1932 (31 U.S.C. 686): Provided, That reimbursements for costs of supplies, materials, and equipment, and for services rendered may be credited to the appropriation current at the time such reimbursements are received.

Note.—Section 304, applicable to the Southwestern Power Administration, appears under "General Provisions" at the end of the Department of Energy chapter.

【SEC. 305. Appropriations made to the Department of the Interior in this title shall be available for services as authorized by 5 U.S.C. 3109, when authorized by the Secretary, in total not to exceed $100,000.】

SEC. 【306】 305. Appropriations in this title shall be available for hire, maintenance, and operation of aircraft; hire of passenger motor vehicles; purchase of reprints; payment for telephone services in private residences in the field, when authorized under regulations approved by the Secretary; and the payment of dues, when authorized by the Secretary, for library membership in societies or associations which issue publications to members only or at a price to members lower than to subscribers who are not members. 1. Program direction and policy coordination.—The Attorney General, aided by the Deputy Attorney General and Associate Attorney General, directs and supervises the programs and activities of the Department. Included in this activity are the Offices of the Attorney General, the Deputy Attorney General, the Associate Attorney General, Professional Responsibility, Improvements in the Administration of Justice, Public Information, Legislative Affairs, and Management and Finance. The 1979 program will provide additional resources to support the increased activities of the Attorney General's office, including travel expenses and the establishment of judicial nominating committees, and improve centralized administrative support services to the Offices, Boards and Divisions. Beginning in 1978 reimbursements for such activities as data processing and printing were transferred to the Working capital fund.

2. U.S. Parole Commission.—The U.S. Parole Commission is responsible for the parole, revocation, reparole, and conditions of supervision of all Federal prisoners while on parole. The Commission develops parole policy and provides parole services. The 1979 program increase will provide additional resources to: (1) improve its administrative support capability; (2) improve in-house training for the professional staff; (3) expand the Commission's ability to process the anticipated increase in the number of National Appeals Board cases; and (4) develop more detailed parole decisions. The Working capital fund, established January 2, 1975 (28 U.S.C. 527), finances on a reimbursable basis those administrative services which can be performed more efficiently on a centralized basis at the Department level.

When the fund became operational July 1, 1975, it consisted of payroll services and telephone-related elements of telecommunications. In 1978 and 1979, data processing services, publication services, and additional elements of the telecommunications system will be financed through the Working capital fund.

1. Enforcement of antitrust, consumer protection and kindred laws.—This division administers and enforces the antitrust, consumer protection, and related statutes. The principal statutes involved are: (1) section 1 of the Sherman Act which prohibits combinations and conspiracies among competitors to set prices collusively, or otherwise to restrain trade; (2) section 2 of the Sherman Act which prohibits combinations and attempts to monopolize and monopolization of interstate trade; (3) section 7 of the Clayton Act which prohibits corporate mergers and acquisitions which tend substantially to lessen competition or tend to monopolization; and (4) various statutory provisions which require Government regulatory agencies to consider the preservation of competition in the determination of public interest factors.

This program involves primarily the investigation of suspected violations of the antitrust laws, and the conduct of civil and criminal proceedings in the Federal courts which are designed to deter and punish violators, and to maintain and restore competitive conditions.

Actual and estimated caseload investigations and miscellaneous proceedings are indicated in the following table:

The Government is represented in each of the 94 judicial districts by a U.S. attorney and a U.S. marshal.

1. U.S. attorneys.—The U.S. attorney is responsible for the prosecution of criminal offenses against the United States, the representation of the Government in all civil actions, suits, or proceedings in which the United States is concerned, and the initiation of proceedings for the collection of fines and penalties and for forfeitures owed to the United States. The 1979 program increase will provide additional resources to process the increasing volume of civil cases, investigate and prosecute more thoroughly criminal cases involving organized and white collar crime, represent the Government's interests more actively at the appellate level, and improve program planning and evaluation.

2. U.S. marshals.—The U.S. marshal has custody of all Federal offenders until released by the courts or confined in prison, acts as agent of the courts in the service of process and execution of warrants, and provides protection services to the courts and to key Government witnesses in his district. Program increases are requested to meet increased workload demands in the processing and transporting of Federal prisoners and the protection of judges and magistrates. With the enactment of the 1978 budget, the marshals were given responsibility for the supervision of all unsentenced prisoners in the custody of the Government.

Previously this appropriation was administered by the Federal Prison System. In 1978, the functions were split between the U.S. Marshals Service and the Bureau of Prisons. The U.S. Marshals Service contracts with State and local jails to board Federal prisoners and detainees for short periods of time. These periods of detention occur before and during trial and while awaiting transfer to Federal institutions after conviction. An average of 5,079 prisoners will be boarded in approximately 1,200 jails at an average cost of $13.54 per offender day in 1979.

Fees and expenses are paid to witnesses who appear on behalf of the Government and to indigent defendants in cases in which the United States is a party. Increases are requested in 1979 to cover additional costs for the activities of fact witnesses, expert witnesses, and mental competency examinations. A program decrease is proposed for the protection of witnesses activity.

1. Fact witnesses.—These witnesses testify as to events or facts about which they have personal knowledge.

2. Protection of witnesses.—The Attorney General provides for the security of witnesses and families who are placed in jeopardy due to their testimony or potential testimony on behalf of the Government. Subsistence costs of protected witnesses are paid from this fund.

3. Expert witnesses.—The testimony of these witnesses is used in trials where technical and scientific expertise is required in the prosecution of a case.

4. Mental competency examinations.—Fees are paid to physicians and psychiatrists upon order of the court to determine the mental competency of accused persons to stand trial. Reports and court testimony relating to the examinations are included in these fees.

The program of the Community Relations Service during 1979 can be divided into two general areas. The first, assistance to State and local governments, has the following objectives: (1) reduction in the level of tension and conflict inherent in interracial and inter-ethnic disputes, offering feasible nonviolent alternatives for resolving these conflicts; (2) technical support to the field operations in the form of materials, information, specialists, and access to consultants and experts; and (3) training of State and local officials and community leaders in the skills and techniques of conflict resolution and the effective identification and use of local resources to settle disputes, thereby relieving staff to devote resources to issues of national concern.

The second area, organization program direction, is concerned with (1) the coordination and systematic management of the 10 regional offices; (2) the measurement of program effectiveness; (3) the preparation of informational materials for the Department, other administrative agencies, congressional members and staffs, and professional administrators; and (4) the presentation of pertinent information in professional journals and speeches.

1. Criminal, security, and other investigations.—The Federal Bureau of Investigation is the principal investigative branch of the Department of Justice. The overall objective of the FBI is to have a significant, deterring impact on criminal activity, to investigate civil matters in which the U.S. Government has a vested interest, and to provide information to the executive branch relating to national security.

In accordance with the overall objective and consistent with the FBI's "Quality-over-quantity" policy, significant achievements were posted in white-collar crime and organized crime in 1977 including the quality of individual convictions. In addition, there are currently numerous multi-office major racketeering investigations underway as well as a number of very selective undercover operations which are proving to be highly productive. Also, there are a number of major white-collar crime matters of significant importance currently receiving specialized attention in terms of staff assignment and support.

The FBI has wide deployment (59 field offices and approximately 500 resident agencies), with each field office responsive in varying degrees to local priorities of Federal interest. The overall national priorities, however, are organized and white-collar crime including public corruption, and foreign counter-intelligence investigations. Those programs will be increased by over 12% in 1979. There will be a corresponding deemphasis in fugitive and military deserter apprehensions, forcible crimes against banks investigations, and selected domestic intelligence investigations. These changes in priorities will result in the Department of Defense and local law enforcement agencies having to assume greater responsibility in enforcing laws in their jurisdictions.

In 1979, an increase of $7.1 million is requested to increase field investigative support. The cyclical replacement of communications and surveillance equipment and upgrading are necessary for efficient operations.

2. Coordination of investigations.—The FBI's coordination of investigations is a single activity representing resources devoted from FBI headquarters for the nationwide coordination and management of all of the FBI's investigative programs.

In 1979 the FBI is requesting coordination funding of $4.3 million and 170 work-years below the current services level. It is the administration's policy to deemphasize marginal investigations and concentrate on high priority Presidential initiatives against organized and white-collar crime, including public corruption. Other investigative programs that will be supervised are foreign counterintelligence, civil rights, fugitive, bank, domestic security, civil and other interstate crimes.

3. Investigative support.—Investigative support for the FBI is provided through training, forensic laboratories, attachés in foreign countries, and through investigative records and communications.

All new FBI agents receive 15 weeks of training at the FBI academy in Quantico, Va., to provide them with the skills and knowledge essential for their work. Agents currently in the field receive inservice training aimed at refining their skills to deal with the ever-increasing quality of cases arising in areas such as white-collar crime, organized crime, and foreign counterintelligence.

The FBI's forensic crime laboratory provides examinations and expert witness testimony for the FBI as well as other Federal agencies. In 1979 it is estimated that 321,000 examinations of evidence will be completed.

The FBI's investigative records and communications activity is dedicated to the effective management of investigative, personnel, applicant, administrative, and general files and providing a secure system of communication for information to the respective field offices and resident agencies. In 1979, an estimated 720,000 files will be requested and an estimated 2,120,000 name checks will be performed.

4. State and local assistance.—The FBI continues to support State and local law enforcement by providing training and furnishing laboratory, identification, and informational services. Current emphasis is being placed on the training of police instructors within State and local agencies to permit them to become more self-sufficient and to allow the FBI to concentrate its resources on high Presidential initiatives. Funding of $3.5 million is requested to construct a laboratory training facility at the FBI Academy.

In 1979, it is anticipated that 1,000 officers will be trained at the National Academy. The FBI will conduct fewer local police training schools in 1979; however, it expects nearly 300,000 attendees at these sessions.

In 1979, it is anticipated that 161,000 examinations will be conducted in support of State and local investigative efforts. This is compared to 144,000 examinations made in 1977.

The FBI's National Crime Information Center (NCIC) and uniform crime reporting (UCR) program provide criminal related information to Federal, State, and local law enforcement agencies without charge. The NCIC system contains over 6 million records relating to wanted and missing persons, stolen property, and criminal histories. Over 91 million transactions occurred in 1977, a 20% increase over the previous period. The UCR program collects data from more than 13,000 law enforcement agencies and makes this information available to criminal justice agencies and researchers, the academic community, and others.

The FBI's identification division is the national repository of identification data based on fingerprints. In 1977,

6 million sets of fingerprints were submitted, representing a 6% increase over the previous year.

During 1979, the FBI will continue to convert fingerprints to an automated file. This conversion will be instituted on a full-scale basis in 1978 and will require approximately 300 work-years on a full-time basis. When finished, this automated file will enhance the search capability, and increase the service available to requesters of identification data and yield substantial personnel and dollar savings.

5. Program direction.—This activity includes the management, direction, administrative support, legal, planning, inspection, and financial functions of the FBI.

During 1977, a massive effort to eliminate the backlog of Freedom of Information and Privacy Acts (FOIPA) requests was undertaken. In order to address current problems and improve overall operations, a number of organizational changes were effected at FBI headquarters.

The Immigration and Naturalization Service is responsible for administering laws relating to the admission, exclusion, deportation, and naturalization of aliens. Specifically, the Service inspects aliens to determine their admissibility into the United States; adjudicates requests of aliens for benefits under the law; prevents illegal entry into the United States; investigates, apprehends, and removes aliens in this country in violation of the law; and examines alien applicants wishing to become citizens.

Resource requirements and jurisdictional responsibilities of the border management agencies, of which the Service is an important part, are currently under study by the President's Reorganization Project. Reorganization of these agencies may be proposed later in 1978.

During 1979, the Service will significantly improve its capability to prevent illegal entry across the United States/Mexico border and through international airports. In addition, upgrading of the agency's management and information systems will continue.

1. Prevention.—This activity contains most of the resources dedicated to both preventing illegal entry into the United States and facilitating the entry of qualified persons. Also included are the assets involved in the alien documentation program (ADIT) and the major anti-smuggling program. The additional positions requested will be used to materially strengthen prevention of illegal entry across the United States/Mexico land border and through international airports and reduce smuggling of aliens by organized rings.

Most reimbursements received by the Service are for inspectional overtime work performed by officers who inspect travelers arriving at air and sea ports. The Airport and Airways Development Act requires that the carriers reimburse the Service for inspections performed outside normal duty hours at the convenience of the carrier.

2. Apprehension.—Resources in this activity are focused on identifying and apprehending undocumented aliens working in the interior cities. It includes farm and ranch checks and area control operations. New legislation has been proposed to provide legal sanctions and penalties for employers of illegal aliens. An estimated 5,000 employers of undocumented aliens will be investigated, though this estimate will increase substantially with the adoption of the administration's legislative initiative.

4. Intelligence.—Intelligence information for Service operations is collected, analyzed, and disseminated by personnel assigned to this activity. The resources requested will provide a predictive and analytical intelligence capability. In addition, a capability will be developed to scientifically examine and analyze documents to assist in the identification, investigation, and prosecution of major fraudulent documents and alien smuggling conspiracies.

5. Service to public.—The resources necessary to provide the benefits of the Immigration and Nationality Act are provided in this activity. In 1979 greater emphasis will be given to providing service to the public. Applications and petitions will be handled more expeditiously, provision of assistance to clients will be facilitated, and productivity will be increased. The administration has proposed legislation to permit the adjustment of status of undocumented aliens who have been in the U.S. since 1970, and registration of those who have been in the U.S. since before January 1, 1977. Resources to implement this legislation will be requested at a later date.

Increased emphasis on the prevention of illegal entry will impact materially on the programs of this activity. Necessary training of new and replacement personnel will be accomplished. The mission of the Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA) is to control narcotic and dangerous drug abuse by restricting the aggregate supply of those drugs to the point where society and its institutions can cope with the damage incurred.

The Administration is the investigative, intelligence, law enforcement, and regulatory agency responsible for suppression of illicit traffic in narcotics and dangerous drugs. It has responsibility to act for the Government in foreign countries in intelligence gathering activities and coordination with foreign government agencies to reduce the supply of illicit drugs entering the United States.

The appropriation request will provide resources to maximize the impact of Federal efforts on the control of heroin and dangerous drug abuse. Efforts in the heroin area have been especially encouraging. The national retail heroin purity fell to 5.1% in the second quarter of calendar year 1977—a drop of 23% from a high of 6.6% in the first quarter of calendar year 1976. A corollary indicator of the effectiveness of DEA efforts, heroin overdose deaths, also supports these gains. Overdose deaths for the first quarter of calendar year 1977 fell to 287 as compared with the high of 543 for the second quarter of calendar year 1976. In 1979, DEA will continue to focus on heroin trafficking (with special emphasis on Mexican brown heroin and Southeast Asian white heroin) and the rising incidence and prevalence of amphetamines and barbiturates.

The means by which DEA performs its mission are summarized by the following activities:

1. Enforcement of Federal law and investigations.— (a) Domestic enforcement.—This activity encompasses the enforcement of Federal laws regarding narcotics and dangerous drugs. Specifically, the activity aims to reduce the domestic supply of illicit drugs of abuse to a level with which our society and institutions can reasonably cope.

(b) Foreign cooperative investigations.—This activity encompasses efforts to reduce illicit opium production and the supply of heroin destined for the United States; efforts

(c) Compliance and regulation.—This activity encompasses the regulation of the legal trade in narcotics and dangerous drugs. By authority of the Controlled Substances Act this activity includes the scheduling and classification of controlled drugs; establishing import, export, and manufacturing quotas for controlled drugs; registering manufacturers, handlers, and dispensers of controlled drugs; investigating and determining points of diversion into the illicit market; and developing a precursor control program to prevent illicit manufacture of controlled drugs.

2. Intelligence.—This activity encompasses the collection, analysis, and dissemination of drug intelligence. Intelligence supports DEA, other Federal, State, and local efforts to interdict or suppress the illicit movement of drugs by providing a systematic approach for attacking the drug traffic by assessing the vulnerabilities of traffickers, and by supplying information for policy determination and strategy.

3. Research and development.—This activity encompasses research programs directly related to the DEA law enforcement and regulatory functions. The research includes, but is not limited to, studies comparing the deterrent effects of various enforcement strategies; assessing and detecting accurately the presence of controlled substances in the human body; evaluating the nature and sources of supply of dangerous substances; developing more effective methods to prevent diversion of controlled substances into illicit channels; developing and applying systems and technologies for limiting the supply of illicit drugs in the United States; and analyses to insure the most effective utilization of these systems.

4. Support operations.—This activity encompasses laboratory analysis of evidence in support of investigation and prosecution of drug traffickers; training programs for all levels of DEA operational personnel; and maintenance of an effective technical equipment program to support increasingly complex high-level investigations.

Reimbursable program.—A reimbursable program providing primarily for the training of foreign drug law enforcement officials is conducted by DEA and funded by the Department of State. More than 40 classes are held each year, both in the United States and host countries.

This appropriation will provide for the custody and care of an average of 31,500 offenders and for the maintenance and operation of 41 penal institutions, 14 community treatment centers, 5 regional offices and a central office located in Washington, D.C.

The appropriation also finances the boarding of sentenced Federal prisoners in State and local jails and therapeutic, community residential and other units for short periods of time. An average of 5,800 sentenced prisoners will be in contract facilities at an average cost of $23.18 per offender day in 1979.

The Bureau receives reimbursements from others for daily care and maintenance of unsentenced offenders and State and local offenders, for utilities produced for Federal Prison Industries, Inc., and for meals provided to Bureau staff at institutions.

1. Inmate care and custody services.—This activity covers the direct care costs, excluding psychology services, of all offenders in Federal institutions. This includes the cost of all food, medical supplies, clothing, welfare services and release clothing, transportation and gratuities, staff salaries, including salaries of Health Services Administration commissioned officers, and operational costs of functions directly related to providing inmate care. This activity also finances the costs of confining sentenced Federal offenders in contract State and local facilities.

Major program thrusts will be the activation of the Otisville, N.Y., Federal Correctional Institution (FCI) for adults, the Talladega, Ala, FCI for youths and young adults and the activation/expansion of 4 minimum custody camps and 1 detention unit at existing facilities; improvement of resource application through partial implementation of functional unit management; improvement of institutional security; expansion and improvement of medical services; provision of care to an additional 4,000 offenders in Federal institutions; and program expansion and higher per capita costs for contract detention.

2. Inmate programs.—This activity finances the costs of academic, social and occupational education courses and institution programs for the treatment of drug addiction and psychology services. The major program objectives in 1979 involve the activation of the Otisville, N.Y., and Talladega, Ala., FCI's, and the continuation of a phased transfer of the vocational training function from Federal Prison Industries, Inc., to "Salaries and expenses, Bureau of Prisons."

3. Institution administration and maintenance.—This activity covers all costs associated with the general operation and maintenance of facilities. Included are functions of the warden's office, personnel, financial management, safety, staff training, mechanical services, motor pool operations, powerhouse operations and other administrative functions. Funds are requested in 1979 to activate the Otisville, N.Y., and Talladega, Ala., FCI's.

4. Community corrections.—This activity provides for the care of Federal prisoners in Federal and contract community residential centers. In 1979, an average of 3,600 offenders will be housed in such facilities. In addition, contract community treatment programs are available to drug dependent offenders released from Bureau institutions and to offenders designated by the courts for participation as a condition of probation. In 1979, funds are requested to increase the number and length of stay of Federal offenders in contract community residential centers and to provide for anticipated rate increases in this area. In addition, the drug aftercare program will be curtailed, providing services for approximately 1,770 supervisees—500 less than in 1978.

5. Program direction.—This activity covers the costs of regional and central office executive direction and management support functions such as research and evaluation, systems support, financial management, personnel, legal counsel, and staff training. The major program accomplishment planned for 1979 is the implementation of an on-line automated data processing system in three regions.

1. Training and/or education.—This program supports the development of learning and skills which meet the defined needs of State and local correctional personnel and organizations. During 1979, the Institute plans to award 149 grants and contracts for projects to train and assist organizations in the implementation of new correctional managerial programs; train State and local correctional trainers; develop programs in such areas as labor relations, planning and problem solving, and classification of offenders; and provide for the development of training materials, including self-instructional materials for jail operations and other specialized areas.

2. Technical assistance.—This program provides assistance to State and local correctional agencies to focus on improving their capabilities to deal with organizational needs and improve the services, operation and management of the agency. A National Jail Center will impact on jail-related assistance efforts; through the combined use of the National Institute of Corrections (NIC) staff, consultants and supportive grants and contracts, assistance will also be provided in the field services, screening and staff development areas. Two hundred direct technical assistance responses and 20 technical assistance contracts and grants will be made in 1979.

3. Research and evaluation.—The 1979 request will allow the award of 50 grants and contracts to strengthen the research and evaluation capabilities of State and local correctional agencies, seek to identify relevant research and evaluation studies, and make those studies available in usable form to operating Federal, State, and local agencies. In addition, NIC will focus on maximizing the utilization of research and evaluation by cycling data into NIC's training, technical assistance, law and policy reform, and technology transfer functions.

4. Policy standards.—This program supports the collection and dissemination of relevant correctional policies, programs, practices, and resource documents. Assistance to jurisdictions attempting to develop and implement standards will be provided. Standards that may have significant impact if implemented will be identified, and the development of materials to assist practitioners and others to evaluate the implementation of standards on correctional practices will be accomplished. Thirty-one contracts and grants will be awarded for law and policy standards operations at State and local levels.

1. Planning and site acquisition.—This activity reflects the costs of efforts to obtain suitable sites for approved construction projects, including site purchase and development and facility design. During 1979, advance planning and/or site acquisition will continue for the North Central Federal correctional facility for young offenders. In addition, efforts will begin to obtain sites for a West Coast Federal correctional institution (adult) and the Phoenix, Ariz., Federal Correctional Institution/Detention Center for youths/young adults, for which funds are requested in 1979.

2. New construction.—This activity represents costs associated with the construction of new facilities in order to reduce overcrowding, close large and antiquated institutions, and provide a safe and humane environment for staff and inmates. In 1979, construction will be completed on the Northeast Federal Correctional Institution for adult offenders at Otisville, N. Y., and the Talladega, Alabama Federal Correctional Institution for youths/young adults. Construction will begin on the Phoenix, Ariz., Federal Correctional Institution/Detention Center for youths/young adults, for which construction funds are included in the 1979 request. Construction will continue on the Western Federal Correctional Institution for young offenders at Camarillo, Calif.; the Detroit Metropolitan Correctional Center; and the Northeast Federal Correctional Institution for young offenders at Ray Brook, N. Y.

3. Modernization and repair of existing facilities.—This activity includes rehabilitation and renovation of buildings, necessary modifications to accommodate new correctional programs, rehabilitation or replacement of utilities systems, and repair projects at existing facilities. In 1979, obligations of $14,850 thousand will be incurred for projects such as major plant renovation, air and water pollution control, electric systems rehabilitation, and expanded capacity of existing facilities. An additional obligation of $1.5 million will be incurred for the Oxford, Wis., lease/purchase agreement.

Federal Prison Industries, Inc. (FPI), was created by Congress in 1934 and is a wholly owned Government corporation. Its mission is to employ and train Federal inmates through a diversified program providing products and services to other Federal agencies. These operations are conducted in such a manner as to offer a minimum of competition to private industry and labor. Employment provides inmates with work, occupational knowledge and skills, plus money for personal expenses and family assistance.

The Corporation is currently expanding its operations to provide industrial employment opportunities for the expanding populations at existing institutions and for the populations at new institutions. This expansion includes the establishment of eight new industrial operations at six institutions in 1977. Current plans for 1978 are to open nine new enterprises at as many institutions. In 1979, an additional eight new industries are planned.

In accomplishing its mission, the Corporation produces goods and services, which are provided to other Federal agencies, and in so doing incurs costs for direct labor, overhead, and materials. These costs reflect the Corporation's expanding activities, as well as inflation.

In addition, administrative expenses are incurred for management at the corporate level. These represent approximately 2% of total obligations.

Federal Prison Industries currently funds vocational training programs within the Bureau of Prisons. A planned phase out of these expenses to FPI is in process and is shown by decreased amounts in future years; programs will continue, but will be funded through appropriations to the Bureau.

Other expenses charged to the industrial manufacturing program include inmate accident compensation, meritorious service awards to inmates, cost of miscellaneous sales and other miscellaneous operating expenses.

As a manufacturing concern, the Corporation makes capital investments in buildings and improvements and in machinery and equipment, as necessary, to provide working environments conducive to its legislative mandate to provide realistic inmate training through industrial production. Both types of investments are increasing as a result of corporate expansion.

Federal Prison Industries, Inc., is entirely self-sustaining. No appropriations are required. Revenues are derived entirely from the sale of products and services to other Federal agencies. Operating expenses are applied against these revenues, resulting in operating income or loss.

The amounts used by the Corporation for the administrative expenses and vocational training expenses are subject to a congressional limitation.

Earnings surplus to the needs of the manufacturing operations, capital improvements and cash reserves are used to pay vocational training expenses, meritorious service awards, and accident compensation.

Management of the Corporation is accomplished by a staff of 39 employees located at the corporate headquarters at Washington, D.C.

To date, Federal Prison Industries, Inc. has returned to the Treasury a total of $82 million of retained income excess to the Corporation's needs. No contributions from budget authority have been made to offset deficits for non-revenue producing outlays since the inception of the fund.

The Omnibus Crime Control and Safe Streets Act of 1968, as amended, and the Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention Act of 1974, as amended, place within the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration (LEAA) responsibility to provide assistance to States and local units of government to reduce crime and juvenile delinquency, improve and strengthen the quality of the criminal justice system—police, courts, and corrections—and provide resources and leadership for the development, implementation, and coordination of a comprehensive juvenile justice and delinquency prevention program. The LEAA program includes the following activities:

1. Direct assistance.—(a) Planning formula grants.—Funds under this subactivity are used to support State Planning Agencies (SPA's) which prepare and adopt, in cooperation with regional planning units (RPUs) and local units of government, an annual State comprehensive law enforcement and criminal justice plan based on the States' evaluations of their own problems. In 1979 these funds will be reduced to increase other grant assistance.

(b) Corrections formula grants.—Grants from this subactivity provide up to 90% of the cost of development and implementation of programs and projects identified in the annual comprehensive plan for the improvement of corrections, including construction and renovation of correctional institutions and facilities.

(c) Juvenile justice formula grants.—Grants from this subactivity are to assist State and local units of government in planning, establishing, operating, coordinating, and evaluating projects for the development of more effective education, training, research, prevention, treatment, and rehabilitation programs in the area of juvenile delinquency. Not less than 75% shall be used for advanced techniques in developing, maintaining, and expanding programs and services designed to prevent juvenile delinquency, diverting juveniles from the juvenile justice system, and providing community-based alternatives to juvenile detention and correctional facilities.

(d) Other criminal justice formula grants.—These grants will permit the States and territories to fund programs and projects according to their priorities for criminal justice as outlined in their annual comprehensive plans. Continued support will be provided in 1979 for at least 70% of multi-year activities for which second- or third-year operations originally were envisioned.

2. Collateral assistance.—(a) Prevention.—Funds for this program will be used to demonstrate effective techniques for curtailing international terrorism, juvenile delinquency, and street crime through action programs which show new techniques, methods, and training in the area of prevention. In 1979, emphasis will focus on providing training and technical assistance for the containment of international terrorism, skyjacking, narcotics smuggling, conducting research in citizen and community crime prevention programs, and the demonstration of effective techniques for preventing juvenile delinquency.

(b) Enforcement.—The purposes of this program are to strengthen law enforcement capability through specialized technical assistance to operating agencies; train management and line personnel; conduct research which develops new information and improved techniques; and support operational programs to test, demonstrate, and market enforcement technology. During 1979, funds will be used to support antifencing projects, organized crime strike forces, and white-collar crime projects.

(c) Adjudication.—Grants are available to assist State and local courts and officials to plan, manage, and budget for their justice systems; improve individual and system competency; provide direct assistance for experimentation, research, and systems support; and develop mechanisms to make the systems more consistent and equitable. The 1979 objectives include research on alternatives to adjudication, such as neighborhood justice centers, career criminal projects, and continued support of State judicial information systems programs.

(d) Corrections.—This activity will provide for the development of techniques, methods, and programs that will contribute to more effective correctional systems and improve capabilities of correctional functions, with special attention to offender rehabilitation, correctional administration, diversion, and treatment of drug abuse offenders. Emphasis in 1979 will be on consolidating components of the jail alternatives program and the restitution, probation, and parole control models. Also planned is the production of five statistical series on corrections.

(e) Criminal justice systems support.—This program is used to improve the effectiveness and efficiency of State and local agencies through priority support programs in the areas of training and education, technical assistance, technology transfer, program operations, research and development, evaluation and interagency coordination. In 1979, objectives include continuing the LEEP program, manpower development, training, and capacity building programs; implementing long-term research and evaluation programs; and providing technical assistance in order to implement the Prosecutor Management Information System (PROMIS) at various sites. During 1979, the prevention or curtailment of juvenile delinquency, diversion of juveniles from the traditional juvenile justice system, maintenance of community-based alternatives to traditional forms of institutionalization, and overall control of juvenile crime will be pursued.

3. Public safety officers' benefits program.—Funds will be used to pay $50 thousand in death benefits to eligible survivors of public safety officers who die in the line of duty. Each claim must be certified eligible by LEAA before any such payment is made. It is estimated that some 302 eligible claims will be paid in 1979.

4. Program direction.—Funds awarded here will assure the continuity of leadership and assistance to State and local units of government in the area of criminal justice activities. A major aspect of the program is to provide public and congressional liaison, legal counsel, management direction, audit, budget, and civil rights compliance support for the agency. These funds will also assure the continued availability to LEAA of services such as automatic data processing of information, training, procurement, contract administration, printing, financial analysis, and space charges.

GENERAL PROVISIONS—DEPARTMENT OF JUSTICE

SEC. 201. The Attorney General shall have authority for the supervision and support of all persons charged with offenses against the United States, including authority to contract with State and local authorities for the safekeeping, care, subsistence and medical aid of prisoners.

SEC. 202. None of the funds appropriated by this title may be used to pay the compensation of any person hereafter employed as an attorney (except foreign counsel employed in special cases) unless such person shall be duly licensed and authorized to practice as an attorney under the laws of a State, territory, or the District of Columbia.

SEC. 203. Appropriations and authorizations made in this title which are available for expenses of attendance at meetings shall be expended for such purposes in accordance with regulations prescribed by the Attorney General.

SEC. 204. Appropriations and authorizations made in this title for salaries and expenses shall be available for services as authorized by 5 U.S.C. 3109.

SEC. 205. Appropriations for "Salaries and expenses, general administration", "Salaries and expenses, United States attorneys and marshals", "Salaries and expenses, Federal Bureau of Investigation", "Salaries and expenses, Immigration and Naturalization Service", and "Salaries and expenses, Bureau of Prisons", shall be available for uniforms and allowances therefor as authorized by law (5 U.S.C. 5901-5902).

SEC. 206. Appropriations made in this title shall be available for the purchase of insurance for motor vehicles operated on official Government business in foreign countries.

SEC. 207. Funds appropriated under this title shall be available for (1) expenses of primary and secondary schooling for dependents of personnel stationed outside the continental United States at costs not in excess of those authorized by the Department of Defense for the same area, when it is determined by the Attorney General that schools available in the locality are unable to provide adequately for the education of such dependents, and (2) transportation of said dependents between their places of residence and schools serving the area which they would normally attend when the Attorney General, under such regulations as he may prescribe, determines that such schools are not accessible by public means of transportation.

SEC. 208. A total of not to exceed [$17,500] $18,500 from funds appropriated to the Department of Justice shall be available for official reception and representation expenses in accordance with distributions, procedures, and regulations established by the Attorney General. This account provides for a flexible and decentralized system of Federal, State, and local programs of training and other services for economically disadvantaged, unemployed, and underemployed persons, designed to lead to permanent gains in employment and earnings and enhanced self-sufficiency.

1. Comprehensive employment and training programs.—Provides financial assistance primarily by formula to over 450 State and local prime sponsors to design and operate comprehensive employment and training assistance programs to help meet the employment and training needs of their areas. Services authorized include institutional and on-the-job training, work experience, vocational education and counseling, remedial education, job placement services, and transitional public service employment.

In 1979, an estimated 430,100 years of service will be provided. An estimated 250,000 individuals will be placed in unsubsidized jobs as a result of training and other services. Another 145,000 individuals will obtain jobs as a result of direct and self referrals to employment.

Funds requested for public service employment beyond September 30, 1978, are included in the Temporary employment assistance account.

2. Special programs for youth.—Provides employment and training assistance for unemployed youths, particularly economically disadvantaged and out-of-school youths through the young adult conservation corps (YACC), youth community conservation and improvement projects (YCCIP), youth employment and training program (YETP), youth incentive entitlement pilot projects (YIEPP), summer youth employment program (SYEP), and job corps.

YACC enrollees participate in outdoor activities such as flood control and relief, park maintenance, and forestry, with residency provided in camps. YCCIP enrollees work in urban neighborhoods and communities to rehabilitate housing, weatherize low-income houses, and repair and restore public buildings and properties. YETP provides enrollees training, education, employment opportunities, and supportive services designed to enhance job prospects and career opportunities. YIEPP provides enrollees in test sites with full-time or part-time employment combined with training, to determine effects in attendance at school. SYEP provides jobs for economically disadvantaged youth during the summer months. The job corps provides severely disadvantaged youth with a comprehensive program of basic education, vocational training, job placement, medical support, and other services in a residential setting.

3. Other national programs.—Provides additional employment and training assistance to special segments of the population which have particular disadvantages in the labor market. Among groups served are Indians, migrant and seasonal farmworkers, criminal offenders, and persons of limited English-speaking ability. This activity also provides for technical assistance and training for Federal, State, and local personnel involved in the planning and administration of employment and training programs; for a comprehensive system to develop labor market information; and for research, development, and evaluation.

A new set of demonstration projects will begin large-scale operations in 1979 to develop better information on the special issues involved in employment and training programs for low-income individuals who might otherwise be in need of cash assistance.

4. Private sector initiative.—This new activity provides obligations of $400 million to develop ways to make private sector unsubsidized jobs available for greater numbers of the long-term unemployed and disadvantaged, particularly youth, beginning in 1979. The program will provide additional training opportunities, involve local industry, increase the number and quality of job placements in the private sector, and improve private sector job development.

1. Payments to former Federal personnel.—Funds are allocated to the States for payment of unemployment compensation to eligible former Federal employees, ex-Postal Service employees, and ex-servicemen.

2. Trade adjustment assistance.—The Trade Expansion Act of 1962 and the Trade Act of 1974 authorize worker adjustment assistance allowances.

3. Unemployment assistance and payments under other Federal unemployment programs.—Funds are allocated to the States for payment of unemployment assistance through June 30, 1978, to workers who are not covered by other unemployment compensation programs but who are affected by adverse economic conditions, and for reimbursement to States for unemployment benefits paid on the basis of public service employment, as authorized by title II of the Emergency Jobs and Unemployment Assistance Act of 1974, as amended. States will also be reimbursed during a transition period for benefits paid to workers newly covered under the provisions of the Unemployment Compensation Amendments of 1976.

This account provides general revenue advances to several funds for the purpose of paying unemployment compensation to eligible individuals under various Federal and State unemployment compensation laws whenever the balances in the funds prove insufficient. All advances made to the Federal unemployment account and advances made to the Extended unemployment compensation account for Federal supplemental benefits paid prior to April 1, 1977, and for the Federal share of extended benefits are repaid, without interest, to the general fund of the Treasury. Advances made to the Extended unemployment compensation account for Federal supplemental benefits paid after April 1, 1977, and advances made to the Federal unemployment benefits and allowances appropriation account are nonrepayable.

ALLOCATIONS RECEIVED FROM OTHER ACCOUNTS

Note.—Obligations incurred under allocations from other accounts are included in the schedules of the parent appropriations as follows:

- Department of Health, Education, and Welfare:
- "Human Development Services."
- "Work Incentives."

The financial transactions of the Federal-State and railroad unemployment insurance systems are made through the Unemployment trust fund. In the Federal-State system, benefit payments are made by each State, and financed by State payroll taxes. All Federal and State unemployment tax receipts are deposited in the Unemployment trust fund and invested in Government securities until needed for benefit payments or the expenses of State and Federal administration (including those of the Federal-State employment service).

Both the benefit payments and administrative expenses of the separate unemployment insurance program for railroad employees are paid from the Unemployment trust fund and receipts from the tax on wages of railroad employees are deposited in the fund to meet expenses.

1. Labor-management relations, policy and services.—Provides assistance to unions, employers, employees, and State and local governments, including special studies and analyses and technical assistance in planning for work force adjustments as they will affect labor-management relations; coordinates Federal action in particular labor-management disputes; and carries out the Department's responsibilities under the Urban Mass Transportation Act of 1964, as amended. Develops recommendations on labor-management relations matters, and conducts studies of collective bargaining and programs pertaining to the Labor-Management Reporting and Disclosure Act (LMRDA), and Executive Order 11491. Among areas for research in 1979 will be union elections, studies of the construction industry, collective bargaining problems in selected industries, national health insurance and pay for union business.

2. Labor-management standards enforcement.—Covers the administration and enforcement of the LMRDA and section 18 of Executive Order 11491 which governs labor-management relations in the Federal service. Provides for the Department's participation in the inter-agency program against organized crime.

1. Improving and protecting wages.—This program obtains compliance with the minimum wage, overtime, child labor, and other employment standards under the Fair Labor Standards Act and enforces the labor standards provisions under various Federal procurement acts, under the Farm Labor Contractor Registration Act, and under the wage garnishment provisions in title III of the Consumer Credit Protection Act. Regulations and interpretive materials are developed for the compliance program and special minimum wage standards are set. About 800,000 workers are expected to be directly aided each year by these efforts. This program also includes determinations of prevailing wage rates and fringe benefits for all Federal and federally assisted contracts for construction subject to the Davis-Bacon and Related Acts. Prevailing wage rates and fringe benefits determinations are also made under the Service Contract Act. This program also includes specific enforcement of the Fair Labor Standards Act and the Farm Labor Contractor Registration Act with regard to employers of undocumented alien workers.

2. Elimination of discrimination in employment.—The major effort of this activity is to make equal opportunity an employment standard. The Employment Standards Administration works to insure nondiscrimination in employment on Federal contracts. It is responsible for the direction, coordination, and evaluation of the compliance activities of designated Federal agencies, which are responsible for assuring that Federal contractors take affirmative action in the hiring and promotion of minorities and women. Emphasis will be placed on providing equal employment opportunities to minorities and women in service and supply industries. In addition, increased employment opportunities will be provided in the construction industry through agreements among labor, management, and community groups under hometown plans. Enforcement of the equal pay provisions of the Fair Labor Standards Act and the Age Discrimination in Employment Act is also included in this activity. Administration of affirmative action provisions of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973, to hire and promote physically and mentally handicapped individuals, is under this activity. Also included in the activity is the administration of the Vietnam Era Veterans Readjustment Assistance Act providing for affirmative action by Federal contractors to employ and advance in employment disabled veterans and veterans of the Vietnam era.

3. Workers' compensation.—Under this income-maintenance activity the Employment Standards Administration administers the Federal Employees' Compensation Act (FECA), Longshoremen's and Harbor Workers' Compensation Act, their various extensions, and the benefit provisions of the Federal Coal Mine Health and Safety Act. These programs insure that eligible disabled and injured workers or their survivors receive compensation and medical benefits and a range of services including rehabilitation, supervision of medical care, and technical and advisory counseling to which they are entitled. Technical assistance is provided to the States to upgrade their workers' compensation laws.

4. Program development and administration.—This activity provides for the direction and coordination of employment standards programs. Program planning, research, evaluation, budget, and other administrative activities of the Employment Standards Administration are carried out to predefined objectives insuring effective and efficient program management and execution. Major goals in 1979 will include broadening the knowledge base of the research and evaluation program as well as developing a more balanced program; developing effective Federal-State cooperation; and strengthening ESA's programs for training its own employees in addition to compliance personnel of other agencies and for providing technical assistance to ESA's clientele.

1. Federal Employees' Compensation Act benefits.—Currently, more than 45,200 claimants are receiving long-term compensation benefits due to job-related injuries, diseases, or deaths, as specified in the Federal Employees' Compensation Act (FECA) and its extensions. Pertinent medical bills are paid for compensable injuries. Compensation benefits are paid when the injury causes loss of job time. Under the 1974 amendments to the law, workers suffering noncontroverted traumatic injuries continue in full pay status for a period not to exceed 45 days, paid by the employing agency rather than through this account. All medical costs associated with these continuation-of-pay claims are examined and paid by the FECA program. In addition, the FECA program is responsible for claims extending beyond 45 days, all nontraumatic injuries and controverted claims, medical costs associated with the above, and the review of the agency-paid continuation-of-pay claims. Costs to this account are subsequently charged back to the employing agency.

2. Disabled coal miners' benefits.—Administration of the black lung benefits program by the Department of Labor began July 1, 1973. Title IV of the Federal Coal Mine Health and Safety Act of 1969, as amended, provides that compensation benefits and medical treatment costs be paid to those who have been totally disabled due to pneumoconiosis. The Department pays benefits directly when no responsible mine operator can be determined under the insurance provisions of the act. Both surface and underground miners are covered by the program. Survivors who meet the test for eligibility are entitled to compensation benefits when, in the case of a deceased miner, it is shown that the death was attributable to pneumoconiosis. Receipt of approximately 14,000 claims is expected in 1978 and 10,000 in 1979 with approximately 2,000 claims expected to be approved each year.

3. Longshore and harbor workers' compensation benefits.—Under the 1972 amendments to the Longshoremen's and Harbor Workers' Compensation Act, the Federal Government pays from direct appropriations one-half of the increased benefits provided by the amendments for persons on the rolls prior to enactment. The remainder is provided from the special fund which is financed by private employers assessed at the beginning of each calendar year for their proportionate share of these payments. The amendments granted an increase in compensation benefits for total disability and death cases.

The trust funds consist of amounts received from employers for the death of an employee where no person is entitled to compensation for such death, for fines and penalty payments, and pursuant to an annual assessment of the industry, for the general expenses of the fund under the Longshoremen's and Harbor Workers' Compensation Act (33 U.S.C. 944; 31 U.S.C. 725).

These trust funds are available for payments of additional compensation for so-called second injuries. When a second injury results in a permanent partial disability which, combined with a previous disability, results in increased permanent partial disability, permanent total disability, or death, the employer provides compensation only for the disability caused by the subsequent injury; compensation to supplement the employer's payment is provided from this fund. In addition, the fund pays one-half of the increased benefits provided by the 1972 amendments to the Longshoremen's and Harbor Workers' Compensation Act for persons on the rolls prior to the amendments. Maintenance payments are made to disabled employees undergoing vocational rehabilitation to enable them to return to remunerative occupations, and the costs of necessary rehabilitation services not otherwise available to disabled longshore and harbor workers are defrayed. Payments are made in cases where other circumstances preclude payment by an employer and to provide medical, surgical, and other treatment in disability cases where there has been a default by the insolvency of an uninsured employer.

Note.—Excludes $445 thousand in 1979 for activities transferred to Departmental Management, comparable amounts for 1977 ($375 thousand) and 1978 ($629 thousand) are included above.

The Occupational Safety and Health Administration performs functions assigned to the Secretary of Labor by the Occupational Safety and Health Act of 1970.

1. Safety and health standards.—Mandatory standards are promulgated to protect the safety and health of working men and women. All new standards, except emergency temporary standards, are promulgated under procedures allowing public comment. Petitions for the promulgation, modification, or revocation of standards, and applications for variances or exemptions from the standards, are evaluated and acted upon in accordance with published rules of practice. Prior to promulgating permanent standards, evaluations are made of their technical feasibility, and possible economic and environmental impact. Under the proposed budget, OSHA will publish or propose a projected 17 new health standards and 2 new safety standards, and will revise and simplify about 20% of existing safety standards.

2. Compliance.—Compliance with occupational safety and health standards is gained in part by the physical inspection of plants and facilities by Federal and State enforcement personnel. The Act provides for 50% matching grants to administer and enforce State programs for occupational safety and health which have been approved by the Secretary, and provides for direct enforcement of Federal standards in States declining to assert jurisdiction. State or Federal enforcement personnel may cite employers for violations and propose penalties. In areas of exclusive Federal jurisdiction, citations are issued and penalties proposed subject to appeal to the independent Occupational Safety and Health Review Commission. Compliance inspections are targeted to fatal and catastrophic accidents, claims of imminent danger, employee complaints, and establishments in higher-risk industries. Due to increased thoroughness and an emphasis on serious and often complex health and safety hazards, inspections by Federal compliance officers numbered only 59,932 in 1977 compared to 90,369 in 1976. Federal compliance officers will complete approximately 66,000 inspections in 1978 and 70,000 inspections in 1979. State compliance officers completed 140,000 inspections in 1976 and 1977, and will complete an estimated 140,000 inspections in 1978 and 150,000 in 1979.

3. Education, consultation, and information.—Training programs and educational materials are developed and provided to workers and employers to assist them in understanding their rights and responsibilities under the act and ways to assure safe and healthful workplaces. Under contracts with States, Federal funds are made available covering 90% of State costs in providing free on-site consultation to employers upon request. In other States, consultation services are provided employers through contracts with recognized safety and health consultants and engineering firms. Formal classroom technical and professional training for compliance personnel is conducted at the OSHA Training Institute near Chicago, Ill. Evaluative, consultative and promotional programs are provided to assist Federal agencies in implementing effective job safety and health programs to protect Federal workers. In 1979, OSHA will assist employers, employees, and educational organizations to develop their internal competence for training and other occupational safety and health programing.

4. Safety and health statistics.—Statistics on occupational fatalities, injuries, and illnesses are collected and published annually to aid in the identification of occupational safety and health problems and to assist administration. Employers with 11 or more employees are required to maintain a record of work-related fatalities, illnesses, and injuries for examination by Federal and State enforcement personnel.

5. Executive direction and administration.—Provides management, centralized support, and operational research functions.

1. Enforcement.—This activity includes inspection of mines and enforcement of the Federal Mine Safety and Health Amendments Act of 1977. The development and promulgation of health and safety standards, assistance in mine rescue operations, investigations of serious accidents in mines, and recommendations to reduce working hazards, are all to safeguard the health and safety of workers and to assist industry in improving conditions of mine health and safety. Development of State health and safety programs is encouraged through technical and grant assistance.

2. Assessments.—This activity provides for the assessment of civil monetary penalties for violations of the Federal Mine Safety and Health Amendments Act of 1977.

3. Education and training.—Instruction designed to develop greater health and safety awareness and to make the miner a safe worker is provided to employees of the mineral industry. Instructional material is developed for compliance with mandatory training requirements.

4. Technical support.—This activity provides onsite technical services and advice to field managers, mine inspectors, State program employees, and industry management to assist enforcement or effect improvements in practices relating to ventilation, roof supports, use and application of electrical equipment, fire protection, use of explosives, haulage, hoisting, illumination, mine communications, dust collection and abatement, and other related safety practices, devices, techniques and equipment. It also provides analytical data relative to the cause, frequency, and manner of accidents and the events or the practices that contribute to their causes.

5. Program administration.—Provides for the Office of the Assistant Secretary and the key management staff that supports the general administrative functions. The balance of the cost for administrative functions is charged to program funds. In addition, this activity provides the necessary funds to reimburse the employee compensation fund for payments made resulting from the injury or death of Federal employees of the Mine Safety and Health Administration, as required by the Federal Employees Compensation Act.

4. Productivity and technology.—Analyses are prepared on output per man-hour and unit-labor cost trends for both the entire U.S. economy and for specific industries. Studies are conducted on automation and other technological changes and the adjustments to such changes. Studies are made of labor requirements for selected types of construction. Analyses and international comparisons are made of prices, wages, employment, unemployment, and unit-labor costs. Research is conducted on the effects of international trade on U.S. employment.

5. Economic growth.—Long-range projections of U.S. economic growth are prepared. Special economic and social studies are undertaken and special reports prepared for the Commissioner, the Secretary, the Council of Economic Advisers, and other Government agencies.

6. Executive direction and staff services.—Provides leadership in developing plans and policies for the Bureau's economic, statistical, and management programs. Note.—The appropriations for this agency had not been enacted at the time this budget was prepared. The 1978 language is following based upon a continuing resolution in effect through September 30, 1978, that provides for language consistent with that which would be provided by the conference version of the Departments of Labor, and Health, Education, and Welfare Appropriation Act, 1978.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

SEC. 101. Appropriations in this Act available for salaries and expenses shall be available for supplies, services, and rental of conference space within the District of Columbia, as the Secretary of Labor shall deem necessary for settlement of labor-management disputes.

SEC. 102. None of the funds appropriated by this title may be used by the Department of Labor to carry out any activity for or on behalf of any individual who is an alien in the United States in violation of the Immigration and Nationality Act or any other law, convention, or treaty of the United States relating to the immigration, exclusion, deportation, or expulsion of aliens.

TITLE IV—GENERAL PROVISIONS

SEC. 401. Appropriations contained in this Act, available for salaries and expenses, shall be available for services as authorized by 5 U.S.C. 3109 but at rates for individuals not to exceed the per diem rate equivalent to the rate for GS-18.

SEC. 402. Appropriations contained in this Act available for salaries and expenses shall be available for uniforms or allowances therefor as authorized by law (5 U.S.C. 5901-5902).

SEC. 403. Appropriations contained in this Act available for salaries and expenses shall be available for expenses of attendance at meetings which are concerned with the functions or activities for which the appropriation is made or which will contribute to improved conduct, supervision, or management of those functions or activities.

SEC. 404. No part of the funds appropriated under this Act shall be used to provide a loan, guarantee of a loan, a grant, the salary of or any remuneration whatever to any individual applying for admission, attending, employed by, teaching at, or doing research at an institution of higher education who has engaged in conduct on or after August 1, 1969, which involves the use of (or the assistance to others in the use of) force or the threat of force or the seizure of property under the control of an institution of higher education, to require or prevent the availability of certain curricula, or to prevent the faculty, administrative officials, or students in such institution from engaging in their duties or pursuing their studies at such institution.

SEC. 405. The Secretary of Labor and the Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare are authorized to transfer unexpended balances of prior appropriations to accounts corresponding to current appropriations provided in this Act: Provided, That such transferred balances are used for the same purpose, and for the same periods of time, for which they were originally appropriated.

SEC. 406. No part of any appropriation contained in this Act shall remain available for obligation beyond the current fiscal year unless expressly so provided herein.

SEC. 407. No part of any appropriation contained in this Act shall be used, other than for normal and recognized executive-legislative relationships, for publicity or propaganda purposes, for the preparation, distribution, or use of any kit, pamphlet, booklet, publication, radio, television or film presentation designed to support or defeat legislation pending before the Congress, except in presentation to the Congress itself.

SEC. 408. The Secretary of Labor and the Secretary of Health, Education, and Welfare are each authorized to make available not to exceed $7,500 from funds available for salaries and expenses under titles I and II, respectively, for official reception and representation expenses; the Director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service is authorized to make available for official reception and representation expenses not to exceed $2,500 from funds available for "Salaries and expenses, Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service".

SEC. 409. None of the funds appropriated by this Act shall be used to pay for any research program or project or any program, project, or course which is of an experimental nature, or any other activity involving human participants, which is determined by the Secretary or a court of competent jurisdiction to present a danger to the physical, mental, or emotional well-being of a participant or subject of such program, project, or course, without the written, informed consent of each participant or subject, or his parents or legal guardian, if such participant or subject is under eighteen years of age. The Secretary shall adopt appropriate regulations respecting this section.

NOTES

Includes $785 thousand in 1979 for UNESCO activities previously financed from Mutual educational and cultural exchange activities in 1977 ($695 thousand) and 1978 ($760 thousand).

Excludes $434 thousand in 1978 (beginning April 1, 1978) and $878 thousand in 1979 for activities transferred to Salaries and expenses, International Communication Agency. Comparable amounts for 1977, $730 thousand, and 1978 (ending March 31, 1978), $434 thousand, are included above.

The program described below is financed by this appropriation and by reimbursements from other agencies, which are provided with most of their administrative services overseas by the Department of State, and from non-Federal sources.

1. Executive direction and policy formulation.—The Secretary is assisted in the formulation of policy and direction of the Department's activities by appropriate staff officers, specialized offices, and functional bureaus of the Department.

2. Conduct of diplomatic and consular relations with foreign countries.—This includes representation of the United States and its citizens abroad, political and economic negotiations and reporting, consular operations, and overseas administrative services. Major items of increase are for rising prices and local employee wage rates in other countries, increased passport and consular services, and automated passport, visa, and information systems.

3. Conduct of diplomatic relations with international organizations.—In collaboration with other Government agencies, U.S. policy is developed and coordinated on political and security issues and in such specialized fields as world health, education, and labor activities.

4. Domestic public information and liaison.—This program provides for informing the American public on international policies and also keeping the Department informed on American attitudes on foreign policy.

5. Central program services.—These provide personnel and physical security measures, operations of the Foreign Service Institute, and the administration of a global communications system for civilian activities of the Government, including services for other agencies on a reimbursable basis.

6. Administrative and staff activities.—These include normal domestic administrative activities.

The Foreign Service buildings program provides consolidated office space for the Foreign Service and other Government agencies abroad and living quarters for American employees. This program also finances real property leases of 10 years or more (shorter term leases are included in Salaries and expenses); procurement of initial furniture and furnishings; and repair, maintenance, and operating costs of these facilities.

ABROAD—Continued

Unsatisfactory Government-owned or leased office space is replaced with structures designed specifically to meet the particular needs of the Foreign Service and other Government civilian operations overseas. Housing is provided for American employees in localities where suitable housing is otherwise unavailable.

The current appropriation finances, by 30 equal annual installments, any unfunded liability created by new or liberalized benefits, new groups of beneficiaries, and salary increases. In addition, the current appropriation finances the annual balance of the Foreign Service normal cost not met by employee and employer contributions.

The permanent appropriation provides payments to the fund for increasing shares of the interest on the unfunded liability and disbursements attributable to military service: 70% in 1977, 80% in 1978, and 90% in 1979.

ALLOCATIONS RECEIVED FROM OTHER ACCOUNTS

Note.—Obligations incurred under allocations from other accounts are included in the schedules of the parent appropriations as follows:

- Funds appropriated to the President:
 - “Security supporting assistance.”
 - “Functional development assistance program.”
 - “International organizations and programs.”
 - “Military assistance.”

Interior: Bureau of Reclamation: “Colorado River Basin salinity control projects.”

Transportation: Federal Highway Administration: “Chamizal Memorial Highway.”

As a member of the above listed organizations, the United States contributes its assessed share of the budgets of those organizations. The 1979 estimates reflect approved budgets of only a few organizations. Budgets for most organizations have not yet been adopted. For those, the United States proposes to support only increases needed to maintain the prior year's level of operations. The United States will encourage the organizations to meet new and expanded needs from reductions in low priority activities.

No appropriation is sought for the International Labor Organization from which the United States withdrew on November 5, 1977. The estimate for the Inter-American Institute of Agricultural Sciences covers an 18-month period because of a shift to a calendar fiscal year. The decrease in 1979 for the Organization of American States results from the organization's new fiscal year and from the United States intent to seek a reduction in its assessment share.

1. Lower Rio Grande flood control improvement program.—Authorized by agreement with Mexico and the act of August 19, 1935 (49 Stat. 660). Work will be completed in 1978 on repairs and improvements of flood control work which protect the cities of Brownsville, Harlingen, Mercedes, Hidalgo, and Weslaco, Tex.

2. Tijuana River flood control project.—Authorized by the act of October 10, 1966 (80 Stat. 884) as amended. Construction of U.S. improvements required for flood control in the Tijuana River Valley in California and Baja California will be completed in 1978.

3. 1970 boundary treaty projects.—Authorized by the American-Mexican Boundary Treaty Act of 1972, approved October 25, 1972 (Public Law 92-549), to facilitate compliance with the treaty between the United States and the United Mexican States, signed November 23, 1970. Work in 1979 will continue to provide for boundary preservation works, and for protection of the boundary against encroachments.

4. Rio Grande canalization project.—Modification of this existing project will be completed in 1978 in order to safeguard from floods the urban development that has taken place since construction of the project in 1943.

5. Amistad Dam powerplant.—Authorized by agreement with Mexico and the Act of July 7, 1960 (74 Stat. 360).

Power facilities are to be built on the U.S. side of the dam, on a self-liquidating basis as required by the act. The recently completed contract for the sale of power from Amistad and the existing Falcon powerplant will retire the U.S. investment allocated to power plus interest over a 50-year period and will cover the annual costs of operation and maintenance and equipment replacement.

These funds are used for payment of the U.S. share of the expenses of eight international fisheries commissions, one international sea council, and the expenses of the respective commissioners. The commissions either conduct or plan and coordinate studies to determine measures necessary for the preservation and expansion of the productivity of fishery stocks. In addition, the Halibut and Salmon Commissions regulate their respective fisheries, the Great Lakes Fishery Commission carries on a program of lamprey eradication and control, and all the commissions are authorized to recommend conservation measures to the member governments. The sea council proposes and organizes fishery and oceanographic investigations and disseminates the results to the member governments.

Annual payments are made to the Government of Panama in consideration of the rights granted in perpetuity for the construction of the Panama Canal (33 Stat. 2238 and 53 Stat. 1818). The Treaty of Mutual Understanding and Cooperation of 1955 provided for an annual payment by the United States of $1,930 thousand. As a result of devaluations of the U.S. dollar, the annual payment was increased to $2,328 thousand (Public Laws 92-268 and 93-110). Of this amount, $519 thousand is reimbursed to the Treasury by the Panama Canal Company. These payments would no longer be made after ratification by the Senate of the new Panama Canal Treaty.

None of the funds appropriated in this title shall be used (1) to pay the United States contribution to any international organization which engages in the direct or indirect promotion of the principle or doctrine of one world government or one world citizenship; (2) for the promotion, direct or indirect, of the principle or doctrine of one world government or one world citizenship.

【SEC. 104. It is the sense of the Congress that any new Panama Canal treaty or agreement must protect the vital interests of the United States in the Canal Zone and in the operation, maintenance, property and defense of the Panama Canal.】 (Department of State Appropriation Act, 1978.)

TITLE VII—GENERAL PROVISIONS

SEC. 701. No part of any appropriation contained in this Act shall be used for publicity or propaganda purposes not authorized by the Congress.

SEC. 702. No part of any appropriation contained in this Act shall be used to administer any program which is funded in whole or in part from foreign currencies or credits for which a specific dollar appropriation therefor has not been made.

SEC. 703. No part of any appropriation contained in this Act shall remain available for obligation beyond the current fiscal year unless expressly so provided herein.

SEC. 704. No part of the funds appropriated by this Act shall be used to pay the salary of any Federal employee who is finally convicted in any Federal, State, or local court of competent jurisdiction, of inciting, promoting, or carrying on a riot resulting in material damage to property or injury to persons, found to be in violation of Federal, State, or local laws designed to protect persons or property in the community concerned.

SEC. 705. No part of the funds appropriated under this Act shall be used to provide a loan, guarantee of a loan, a grant, the salary of, or any remuneration whatever to any individual applying for admission, attending, employed by, teaching at or doing research at an institution of higher education who has engaged in conduct on or after August 1, 1969, which involves the use of (or the assistance to others in the use of) force or the threat of force or the seizure of property under the control of an institution of higher education, to require or prevent the availability of certain curriculum, or to prevent the faculty, administrative officials or students in such institution from engaging in their duties or pursuing their studies at such institution.

【SEC. 706. None of the funds appropriated or otherwise made available in this Act shall be obligated or expended for salaries or expenses in connection with the dismissal of any pending indictments for violations of the Military Selective Service Act alleged to have occurred between August 4, 1964 and March 28, 1973, or the termination of any investigation now pending alleging violations of the Military Selective Service Act between August 4, 1964 and March 28, 1973, or permitting any person to enter the United States who is or may be precluded from entering the United States under 8 U.S.C. 1182(a)(22) or under any other law, by reason of having committed or apparently committed any violation of the Military Selective Service Act.】

【SEC. 707. None of the funds appropriated or otherwise made available in this Act shall be obligated or expended to make a commitment to provide any reparations, aid, or credits to Vietnam, Cambodia, or Laos.】

【SEC. 708. No part of any appropriation contained in this Act shall be used for the purpose of negotiating a settlement of United States claims against private property confiscated by the Cuban Government at less than the principal value, giving full consideration to the amounts certified by the United States Foreign Claims Settlement Commission on July 6, 1972.】 (Departments of State, Justice, and Commerce, the Judiciary, and Related Agencies Appropriation Act, 1978.)

The Department of Transportation Act of 1966 assigns to the Secretary broad responsibilities for the development and coordination of national transportation policies and programs. This appropriation finances those research activities and studies concerned with planning, analysis and information development needed to support the Secretary's responsibilities in the formulation of transportation policies.

The program is carried out primarily through contracts with other Federal agencies, educational institutions, non-profit research organizations, and private firms.

1. Transportation policy and planning.—This research provides the foundation for development of transportation policy, for coordination of national level transportation planning, and for dealing with such difficult issues as regulatory modernization, energy conservation, environmental and safety impacts of transportation.

Special programs.—Projects provide technical studies and other data in support of the Secretary's decisions involving State and local level planning, consumer affairs, technology sharing and evaluation of departmental programs.

The working capital fund finances common administrative services which are centrally performed in the interest of economy and efficiency in the Department.

Services rendered are charged for at rates which return in full all operating expenses, including a normal reserve for accrued annual leave and depreciation of equipment. The fund is reimbursed in advance by the operating administrations and offices being served.

The activities of the working capital fund have been consolidated as follows:

Publishing and graphics activities include publishing and graphic program; still photographic services; and visuals services.

Support services activities include travel services and imprest fund; central employment information; warehouse management; parking management; chauffeur services; mail and messenger service; management information center; and facilities management.

Library services include information retrieval services.

Transportation computer activities include computer time-sharing services and the transportation computer center.

Funds for Coast Guard operations are provided for by this appropriation and account for 63% of the total request. To carry out its duties the Coast Guard employs multipurpose vessels, aircraft, and shore units, strategically located along the coasts and inland waterways of the United States and in selected areas overseas.

1. Search and rescue.—Most Coast Guard operating facilities have the capacity for promoting safety on or over the high seas and on waters subject to the jurisdiction of the United States. The Coast Guard performs acts necessary to rescue and aid persons and save property placed in jeopardy due to marine and aircraft accidents, floods, and ice conditions.

2. Aids to navigation.—A network of manned and unmanned aids to navigation is maintained along our coasts and on our inland waterways to insure the safe passage of the mariner. Loran stations are operated in the United States and abroad to serve the needs of the armed services and marine and air commerce. Administrative control is exercised over the construction, maintenance, and operation of bridges across the navigable waters of the United States to insure that the safe passage of navigation is not unreasonably interfered with. Included in aids to navigation is the Coast Guard's domestic ice operations which are performed by specially constructed icebreakers and cutters.

3. Marine safety.—The Coast Guard insures compliance with Federal statutes and regulations pertaining to the merchant marine industry by reviewing plans and specifications for the construction or alteration of merchant vessels; by periodic inspections; by licensing; and by setting standards, procedures, and practices under which merchant marine personnel are licensed and regulated.

The Coast Guard minimizes the risk of fatalities, injuries, and property damage associated with the operation of recreational boats through a boat safety standards program, boater information, education and compliance programs, support of the Coast Guard Auxiliary, and increasing financial and technical support of the individual State boating safety programs. Also, under statutory requirements the Coast Guard must safeguard and secure U.S. ports and waterways against harm, and thereby improve their economic utilization and assure their availability in time of national emergency.

6. Marine science and polar operations.—Marine science activities, which include the International Ice Patrol, are carried out on a cooperative basis with other Government agencies. Polar ice operations are performed by specially constructed icebreakers or ice/strengthened cutters which operate in support of Coast Guard programs, the requirements of other agencies, and in the facilitation of commerce.

Note.—Capital investment: 1977, $63,637 thousand; 1978, $107,823 thousand; and 1979, $148,204 thousand.

This appropriation provides for the major acquisition, construction, and improvement of vessels, aircraft, shore units, and aids to navigation, excluding minor acquisitions, alterations, additions, renewals, and replacements funded in the Operating Expenses appropriation where estimated costs of a project are $75 thousand or less, or where renewals and replacements involve less than 75% of the original facility. Most of these facilities are multimission in nature and are included below under their primary mission area.

1. Search and rescue.—In 1979, 15 41-foot search and rescue boats, and 7 motor lifeboats will be constructed along with continued improvement and modernization of selected boats and vessels: 12 additional medium-range surveillance aircraft and 5 short-range recovery helicopters will be procured. Construction, replacement, and/or renovation programs at selected shore sites and facilities are also provided for.

2. Aids to navigation.—Renovation and habitability improvements will be made to one aged buoy tender. In addition, improvements to existing and the establishment of new aids to navigation, the continuation of the lighthouse automation and modernization program, and the loran-C national implementation plan are highlighted under this activity.

3. Marine safety.—Efforts to facilitate the marine safety mission will center on the procurement of small boats, phase III of the New Orleans Vessel Traffic Service, and the second phase of the joint U.S./Canada Vessel Traffic Service System at Seattle, Wash.

4. Marine environmental protection.—For 1979 this activity is primarily concerned with the procurement of oil pollution recovery systems with the capability to perform in high seas conditions.

5. Enforcement of laws and treaties.—Emphasis in this activity centers on the continuation of the medium-endurance cutter replacement program and phase IV renovations and consolidations of the Kodiak, Alaska, support center.

6. Marine science and polar ice operations.—The medium-endurance cutter replacement program and the medium-range surveillance aircraft procurement program are the principal efforts of this activity for 1979.

7. Military readiness.—Major emphasis in this activity relates to the medium-endurance cutter replacement program.

The Coast Guard Reserve Forces program's objective is to provide qualified individuals and trained units for active duty in time of war or national emergency. This objective is accomplished through formal training and augmentation of Regular Forces in the performance of peacetime missions during domestic emergencies and during routine and peak operations. Funds requested will provide a Ready Reserve of 20,000, including a Selected Reserve of 11,700.

Direct program.—1. Initial training.—This activity encompasses direct costs of initial training for two categories of nonprior service trainees. The first category involves those who perform approximately 30 weeks initial training comprised of recruit and entry level rate training. The second category involves reservists whose initial training is split between two consecutive summer periods. The first period, 2½ months, consists of recruit training. The second period, 2½ to 4 months, consists of entry level rate training and/or on-the-job training with the length of the period varying with the speciality.

2. Continuing training.—Direct costs of officer and enlisted drills and annual active duty for training are programed under this activity.

3. Operation and maintenance of training facilities.—All costs for the operation and maintenance of Reserve training facilities are programed under this activity. Included are the costs of a training vessel, the prorated share of the cost of joint usage of Coast Guard and other Armed Forces facilities, the cost of providing station-keeper personnel for organized Reserve training units, and the procurement of training aids and facilities (under $75 thousand).

4. Administration.—This activity encompasses all administrative costs of the Reserve Forces program.

Reimbursable program.—5. Miscellaneous services for other accounts.—The Coast Guard performs functions related to mobilization for the Selective Service System for which reimbursement is received.

1. Search and rescue.—Emphasis will be placed on improving search effectiveness rescue techniques and operating efficiency and safety of Coast Guard search and rescue forces. Infrared search system, wide area illumination system, and ship/helicopter interface projects will be continued and/or completed. New projects will include the study and treatment of hypothermia, improved probability of detection methodology, the development of a computer model for the evaluation of rescue techniques and procedures, and participation in a joint DOT/NASA research demonstration project involving the use of satellite surveillance of emergency location devices.

2. Aids to navigation.—Activities are designed to reduce the potential for damage to the environment and economic loss by an improved aids to navigation system for the maritime community. Continuing projects include applied research to develop loran-C for use in precision navigation in restricted waters, improve signal stability and investigation of signal augmentation techniques for application requiring very high accuracy. Continued emphasis will be given to the development of the quantitative relationship between visual aids to navigation and the accuracy of navigation.

3. Marine safety.—Commercial vessel safety research will be conducted to provide a knowledge base to support regulations and standards designed to prevent vessel casualties and to permit analysis of consequences of presently unpreventable accidents. Emphasis will be directed toward bulk hazardous cargo and cryogenic vessels and to human factors as they relate to the operation of their vessels, transfer operations in U.S. ports and the offshore industry operations. Recreational boating safety will emphasize background research for boating safety education, cause identification for powering-related accidents and an improved system to certify personal flotation devices. Port safety and security research will define vessel traffic management techniques to provide reliable and earlier conflict alerts to assess impact of conflict resolution, to reduce congestion and to route vessels of interest.

4. Marine environmental protection.—Emphasis is directed toward enhancing detection, identification, and quantification of pollutant spills, and development of new systems and procedures for the control and cleanup of those spills. Development of an air deployable oil sampler and a boat deployable hazardous substance sampler will be continued. A project to develop airborne surveillance for oil and hazardous substance identification and mapping of discharges will be conducted. Further development of waste water management systems to meet standards for Coast Guard vessels and perform the statutorily required research for marine sanitary devices for commercial and recreational vessels will be continued.

5. Enforcement of laws and treaties.—This activity will focus on the development of an advanced detection and surveillance system to meet the performance requirements of the Coast Guard's law enforcement missions, and the identification and development of near-term improvements in monitoring and surveillance. Development of a suitable transponder-locator device for deployment aboard foreign fishing vessels within the 200-mile fishery conservation zone will be initiated.

6. Marine science and polar ice operations.—The focus of this activity centers on ice-breaking and ice-clearing technology, improved effectiveness of the International Ice Patrol and the gathering of ice and current information to facilitate ship movement in the arctic areas.

7. Military readiness.—Activity in this program area will be a direct result of work in the broad programs, energy research and development, and research, development, test, and evaluation administration areas.

This fund insures immediate cleanup of oil or other hazardous polluting substances spilled into the navigable waters of the United States, adjoining shorelines or waters of the contiguous zone. The fund is used when a spill occurs and the responsible owner or operator of a vessel of an onshore facility or of an offshore facility does not accomplish immediate cleanup with his own resources. Expenditures from the fund are later reimbursed by the responsible owner or operator.

The Coast Guard cadet fund is utilized by the Superintendent of the Coast Guard Academy to receive, plan, control, and expend personal funds of Coast Guard cadets. By use of the fund each cadet is assured funds to meet personal expenses while at the Academy and an adequate balance in his account at graduation for officer outfits, civilian clothing, and graduation leave expenses. The fund also receives and expends funds of the Coast Guard Academy Athletic Association.

The Coast Guard surcharge collections, sales of commissary stores fund is used to finance expenses incurred in connection with the operation of the Coast Guard commissary stores at Coast Guard Base, Governors Island, N.Y.; Coast Guard Training Center, Petaluma, Calif.; and Coast Guard Base, Kodiak, Alaska. Revenue is derived from a surcharge placed on sales to authorized store patrons (14 U.S.C. 487).

1. Operations—(a) Operation of traffic control system.—This activity covers the operation of a national system of air traffic management in the United States and its possessions on a 24-hour basis. With the aid of radar, communications, and other facilities, traffic management personnel at 25 centers monitor and control en route flights of civil and military aircraft conducted under instrument conditions to assure safety and to expedite the flow of traffic. Control towers are operated at 430 major civil airports to guide traffic movements on and in the vicinity of the airports. Some 323 domestic and international flight service stations transmit weather and other information to pilots and relay traffic control data between ground controllers and pilots. The increase in 1979 will provide for some additional employment in the controller work force to handle workload growth and to operate newly commissioned air traffic control facilities. Legislation is proposed to eliminate second career training for air traffic controllers who are eligible for immediate retirement.

(b) Installation and materiel services.—This activity covers procurement, contracting and materiel management programs; leased communications services for the traffic control system, and administrative communications services provided through the Federal Telecommunications System (FTS); supply support for the National Airspace System (NAS) and agency aircraft, except for aircraft related to the research and development program; lease costs for space for which payment is made to General Services Administration (GSA), and other logistics support functions such as administrative services, interfunctional and plant maintenance.

(c) Maintenance of traffic control system.—This activity covers the direction and engineering services related to the maintenance, improvement, and modification of facilities and equipment in the traffic control system; and the technical operation and maintenance of a national network of air navigation aids and traffic control facilities in the United States and its possessions.

(d) Administration of flight standards program.—This activity exists to promote safety of flight of civil aircraft in air commerce by assuring the airworthiness of aircraft; the competence of airmen; the adequacy of flight procedures and air operations; the evaluation of inflight facility performance for compliance with prescribed standards; and the safe operation and the effective development, utilization, and maintenance of the FAA's aircraft fleet. Resources are also included under this activity for the conduct of the Federal Government's civil aviation security program.

(e) Administration of medical programs.—This activity covers the development of regulations governing the physical and mental fitness of airmen and other persons whose health affects safety in flight; the application of these medical standards through the physical examination of applicants for new or periodic renewal of airmen medical certification; the management of a corps of over 7,800 designated aviation medical examiners trained in the special requirements of aviation medicine; the development and supervision of an occupational health program for agency personnel; the administration of an airman medical education program and the administration of an aviation medical research program, the costs of which are financed under the Research, engineering and development and Facilities, engineering and development appropriations.

(f) Development direction.—This activity covers the planning, direction, and evaluation of the engineering and development program, the direct project costs of which are financed under the Research, engineering and development and Facilities, engineering and development appropriations.

(g) Administration of airports program.—This activity includes the following work programs: (1) administration of a grants-in-aid program for airport planning and development; (2) maintenance of a national airport system plan; (3) development and application of airport engineering and safety standards; (4) collection, processing, and dissemination of airport data; and (5) safety certification of airports serving Civil Aeronautics Board certificated air carriers.

FACILITIES, ENGINEERING AND DEVELOPMENT

[(INCLUDING TRANSFER OF FUNDS)]

For necessary expenses of the Federal Aviation Administration, not otherwise provided [for and] for, for acquisition and modernization of facilities and equipment and service testing in accordance with the provisions of the Federal Aviation Act (49 U.S.C. 1301-1542), including construction of experimental facilities and acquisition of necessary sites by lease or grant and purchase of [one] three aircraft for replacement only, [$14,263,000] $19,411,000, to remain available until expended; and, in addition, not to exceed $2,350,000 from unobligated balances in the appropriations for "Civil supersonic aircraft development" and "Civil supersonic aircraft development termination" may be transferred to this account for necessary expenses to conduct a study of high altitude pollution: Provided, That there may be credited to this appropriation, funds received from States, counties, municipalities, other public authorities, and private sources, for expenses incurred for engineering and development. (49 U.S.C. 1301 et seq.; Department of Transportation and Related Agencies Appropriation Act, 1978.)

The 1979 estimates allow for a significant increase in the research and development activities which address aircraft safety. In addition funds are provided for the replacement of piston aircraft with turbined powered aircraft. It is anticipated that improved performance turbine powered aircraft will allow fewer aircraft to accomplish the workload currently being performed by piston aircraft.

1. Engineering and development—(a) Aircraft safety.—This subactivity covers the development of regulations for an accident prevention program designed to promote flight safety of civil aircraft by assuring the design, flight performance, and airworthiness of aircraft and development of systems and devices to prevent and deter sabotage in the civil air transportation system.

(b) Aviation medicine.—This subactivity provides for conducting an aeromedical research and development program to identify and eliminate those physical, physiological, and psychological factors which may jeopardize flight safety.

(c) Environment.—Principal efforts provided for under this subactivity are the development of data to support rulemaking and to minimize the undesired environmental effects on the public attributable to the air transportation system.

2. Facilities and equipment.—This activity provides for training equipment used primarily by flight inspectors in keeping abreast of the latest technology in the areas of their responsibility and for the purpose of maintaining proficiency in the performance of their duties. Also included are procurement and modification of nonflight inspection aircraft and improvement and replacement of navigation equipment.

This appropriation finances maintenance, operations, management, and capital investment costs for equipment and minor facility projects at the federally owned Washington National and Dulles International Airports which serve the Metropolitan Washington area.

The operation of the airports is conducted on a commercial basis with revenues derived from landing fees, concession activity, and lease arrangements being deposited as receipts in the general fund of the Treasury. The direct operating costs and capital investment are financed by direct appropriation.

Combined revenues are expected to exceed the 1979 appropriation by $10.2 million. The operating profit at Washington National in 1979 is expected to be $9,444 thousand and $2,245 thousand at Dulles International for a total operating profit of $11,689 thousand. However, the deduction of $8,026 thousand in depreciation and interest for the two airports results in a net profit of $3,663 thousand.

The rate structures and concession arrangements are established so as to assure the recovery of operating costs, interest expenses, and an appropriate return on the Government's investment during the useful life of the airports.

The following table reflects increase in activity at the airports:

The projects in the construction program for Washington National and Dulles International Airports for 1979 are designed to accomplish the following three objectives:
Upgrade airport facilities and correct deficiencies.—Due to the impact of growth in the air industry and changes in technology, existing facilities require expansion or replacement to correct deficiencies in load capacity or to upgrade performance through modernization. At National, funds are programed to design an extended runway safety area, install a 12-inch water line to Route 1, design the widening of the holding apron for runway 36, stabilize taxiway shoulders, install escalators in the main terminal, and reconstruct taxiway "A" and widen fillets. At Dulles, funds are requested to provide a skid resistant pavement surface on the runways and to expand the baggage claim area in the terminal.

Rehabilitate existing facilities.—Existing facilities require periodic rehabilitation due to deterioration from age and usage. At National, funds are programed to reroof hangars. At Dulles, funds are included to rehabilitate runway 12-30.

Energy conservation.—In response to the multi-year program to increase energy efficiency at Federal facilities, funds are required at Dulles to implement energy savings projects.

The fund currently provides direct support for the Aviation war risk insurance program authorized under title XIII of the Federal Aviation Act.

In addition to the premium program, binders are also issued to cover aircraft, persons, and property. These binders would provide war risk insurance in wartime and under certain situations short of war. Also available are policies which provide like coverage for U.S. air carrier aircraft used in connection with certain Government contract operations entered into by the Department of Defense (DOD) and Department of State (DOS). There exists indemnity agreements whereunder the DOD and

DOS agree to reimburse the Department of Transportation for all losses paid to air carriers sustaining damage to their aircraft by an insured peril while said aircraft is operating under a contract to the interested Department.

Administration costs are out of fee receipts (49 U.S.C. 1531, as amended 75 Stat. 210) and interests earned through authorized investments. The authorized staffing consists of one aviation insurance program officer and one secretary stenographer.

The Airport and Airway Development Act of 1970 (Public Law 91-258, 84 Stat. 219) as amended by the Airport and Airway Development Act Amendments of 1976 (Public Law 94-353, 90 Stat. 871), provides for the transfer of revenue from the general fund to the Airport and airway trust fund. This revenue is derived from the aviation fuel tax and certain other taxes paid by airport and airway users. The Secretary of the Treasury estimates the amount to be so transferred. In turn, annual appropriations are authorized from this fund to meet expenditures for Federal-aid airports and airways.

The status of the fund is as follows (in thousands of dollars):

The Airport and Airway Development Act of 1970
(Public Law 91-258, as amended) authorizes the Secretary of Transportation to incur obligations for airport planning and development grants for 1976 through 1980. The Department of Transportation, through the Federal Aviation Administration, will continue to provide financial assistance to airport sponsors for developing civil airports or bringing existing airports up to standards compatible with the present and future needs of civil aviation. In order to provide funding in line with this authorization, an obligation level of $590 million is reflected in this submission.

FACILITIES AND EQUIPMENT (AIRPORT AND AIRWAY TRUST FUND)

[(INCLUDING TRANSFER OF FUNDS)]

For necessary expenses, not otherwise provided for; for acquisition, establishment, and improvement by contract or purchase, and hire of air navigation and experimental facilities, including initial acquisition of necessary sites by lease or grant; engineering and service testing including construction of test facilities and acquisition of necessary sites by lease or grant; construction and furnishing of quarters and related accommodations for officers and employees of the Federal Aviation Administration stationed at remote localities where such accommodations are not available; [$200,000,000]

Fund, [together with $9,000,000 to be derived by transfer from the appropriation "Facilities and Equipment (Airport and Airway Trust Fund), 1975", to] of which $146,600,000 shall remain available until expended and $224,347,000 shall remain available until September 30, [1980] 1983: Provided, That there may be credited to this appropriation funds received from States, counties, municipalities, other public authorities, and private sources, for expenses incurred in the establishment and modernization of air navigation facilities: Provided further, That no part of the foregoing appropriation shall be available for the construction of a new wind tunnel, or to purchase any land for or in connection with the National Aviation Facilities Experimental Center, or to decommission in excess of five flight service stations. (49 U.S.C. 1151-60, 1301 et seq., 1507, 1701; Department of Transportation and Related Agencies Appropriation Act,

Under this appropriation, the Federal airway system is improved by the installation of new equipment and the construction and modernization of facilities to keep pace with aeronautical activity. The appropriation also finances major capital investments required by other agency programs such as aircraft for facility flight inspection and training, and experimental facilities for the engineering and development program. The 1979 estimates will carry forward the program to increase the capacity of the airway system and make its operation safer and more efficient, sufficient to accommodate expected price escalation.

Full funding in the amount of $174.5 million (which includes funds appropriated in 1977 and funds requested in 1979) is provided for a program to automate, streamline, and modernize the flight service station system. Anticipated escalation is included in the funding level allocated to this program. This appropriation also continues the funding required to implement a major program to replace tube-type, very high frequency radio range systems with solid-state equipment. Operating costs of facilities procured under this appropriation are financed under the Operations appropriation. The budget activities include the following facilities and functions:

1. Air route traffic control centers.—(a) Long range radar provides FAA air traffic controllers with information on aircraft positions, at distances up to 185 miles, (b) automation equipment includes computers and other devices which aid controllers in handling en route air traffic, (c) other center facilities cover the installation of equipment to provide communications and related services.

2. Airport traffic control towers.—(a) Terminal area radar aids traffic control in the vicinity of airports by displaying aircraft positions at distances up to 60 miles, (b) terminal area automation includes computers and other devices which aid controllers in handling terminal air traffic, (c) other tower facilities include the establishment, improvement, and relocation of airport traffic control tower facilities.

3. Flight service facilities.—(a) Domestic flight service stations and associated facilities provide flight assistance service to pilots, (b) international flight service stations provide long-distance communications for transoceanic flights.

4. Air navigation facilities.—(a) Very high frequency omnidirectional radio ranges equipped with tactical air navigation capabilities (VORTAC) are standard short-range navigation aids used to define airways and air routes and to provide distance and direction information to pilots, (b) low and medium frequency facilities include radio beacons and ranges which provide pilots with direction and weather information, (c) instrument landing systems which provide pilots with direction, distance, and glide slope information necessary for making safe approaches to runways under poor visibility conditions, distance measuring equipment, and visual lighting aids which will assist pilots in making final approaches to airport runways, particularly in areas where terrain and other environmental factors pose potential hazards to safe landings.

5. Housing, utilities, and miscellaneous facilities.—This activity includes general facility support requirements which apply to a wide range of FAA installations.

6. Aircraft and related equipment.—This activity provides for facility flight inspection, including procurement of aircraft and avionics equipment to inspect the accuracy and other characteristics of navigation and traffic control aids from the air and flight inspection training equipment. It also includes the replacement of obsolete aircraft used in the engineering and development program.

7. Development, test, and evaluation facilities.—This activity provides for leasing and improvement of plant and facilities at the National Aviation Facilities Experimental Center in Atlantic City, N.J. It also includes the procurement, rehabilitation, or replacement of equipment for use in the engineering and development program.

The FAA conducts engineering and development programs to improve the national air traffic control system and to increase progressively its productivity and capacity to meet the expected air traffic demands of the future. These efforts are based upon exploiting current technology and applying system engineering techniques to the development and integration of new equipment into the total system. The agency also administers aviation medical research aimed at increasing the personal effectiveness of traffic controllers.

These programs are conducted under the direction of the agency's technical personnel, through contracts with qualified private firms, universities, individuals and other Government agencies.

1. Air traffic control.—This provides for improving the airway system by applying existing technology to air traffic control problems to keep the current system operating safely and by making system improvements to increase the productivity and capacity of the current system. These improvements include the surveillance of aircraft by tracking radars and control center processing of flight information received from pilots, airline dispatchers, flight service stations and the surveillance system through a national communications network. The high-speed or real-time, computerized processing of this data for the direct use of air traffic controllers is a key to increasing system productivity. This traffic control program also provides for increasing the capacity of major airports to handle larger, faster passenger aircraft safely and efficiently. Increases in airport capacity will be achieved by the development of new procedures and equipment/computer programs which will enable more efficient metering and spacing of terminal traffic under all weather conditions.

This program also includes activities designed to insure that the air traffic control system will satisfy the demands of the 1990's, particularly those affecting the interface between pilots and traffic controllers. This work includes developing new traffic control concepts; assessing their technical, economic, and operational feasibility and conducting selected feasibility demonstrations.

2. Navigation.—This provides for modernization, expansion, and improvement of the common navigation system facilities in the United States and in overseas areas where international agreements require U.S. participation. This capability ranks in importance with the radar surveillance of aircraft in the effort to increase system capacity. It requires the exploitation of all available and planned techniques, as well as the development of new navigation techniques and sophisticated landing systems capable of handling increased air traffic in adverse weather conditions.

3. Aviation weather.—This provides for a program, coordinated with the Departments of Defense and Commerce, to modernize the acquisition, processing, dissemination, and display of weather information tailored to the needs of aviation users. Development of systems for the detection and avoidance of wind shears is also included in this activity.

RESEARCH, ENGINEERING AND DEVELOPMENT (AIRPORT AND AIRWAY TRUST FUND)—Continued

4. Aviation medicine.—This provides for conducting aeromedical research directed toward identifying and eliminating those physiological and psychological factors inimical to personnel engaged in operating the traffic control system.

Certain costs of maintaining air navigation facilities, formerly 100% financed from the general fund, are to be reimbursed to the Operations appropriation from the Airport and airway trust fund. The programs funded are limited to the direct costs of flight checking and maintaining air navigation facilities. The expected level of 1979 trust fund receipts will permit payment of these costs as well as the costs of airport development, airway facilities investment, and research programs without drawing on accumulated prior year balances.

FEDERAL HIGHWAY ADMINISTRATION*

*See "Legislative Program" (end of this chapter) for additional information.

Title 23 U.S.C. ("Highways") and other supporting legislation provide authority for the various programs of the Federal Highway Administration designed to improve highways throughout the Nation.

In summary, the 1979 budget contemplates $8,064 million in obligations and $7,565 million in outlays. The following table compares 1979 program level (obligations) with those of prior years (in millions of dollars). The "1979 legislation" column reflects program level inherent in the 1979 highway and transit authorization bill which is being submitted to the Congress. That bill provides for consolidation of many of the current narrow, program categories into fewer and broader categories. If enacted as proposed, the figures shown in the "1979 legislation" column would supersede those in the "1979 estimate" column. The budget schedules to achieve this change are presented at the end of the Department of Transportation schedules (pages 714-716).

The motor carrier safety mission, in accordance with the Department of Transportation Act, the Interstate Commerce Act, and the Explosives and Dangerous Articles Act, is to reduce the risk of accidents in truck and bus highway safety transportation by regulation of motor carriers engaged in interstate commerce. In 1979, efforts will be made to fully implement the revised hazardous materials regulatory program, increase noise control, and provide knowledge to improve safety regulation of interstate trucks and buses, consistent with the Government-wide effort of regulatory reform. A new $4 million motor carrier safety demonstration program is proposed for 1979. This program will provide assistance to selected States for upgrading their enforcement efforts. Increases are also proposed for research and development, and for additional Federal enforcement action through the hiring of 26 additional personnel.

This appropriation provides grant assistance for projects initiated pursuant to the provisions of the Highway Beautification Act of 1965, together with the Federal-Aid Highway Acts of 1968 and 1970, as amended. Activities funded include junkyard screening and removal, control of commercial advertising along highways, and program administration.

The Federal-Aid Highway Act of 1976 removed landscaping and scenic enhancement from funding under this account. Instead, this activity is eligible for funding as part of the construction of Federal-aid highways. Obligations will be incurred for landscaping and scenic enhancement within this account only to the extent that unobligated balances are available from prior year appropriations.

As proposed in the new highway and transit legislation, this program will be incorporated in "Federal-aid highways."

The United States, in cooperation with the Republic of Panama and the Government of Colombia, is participating in the construction of approximately 250 miles of highway through the Darien Gap—an incomplete link in the Inter-American Highway.

The temporary court injunction of September 1976, dealing with the evaluation of environmental issues, was appealed, and the court ruled that the Federal Highway Administration may seek further appropriations for this program.

An appropriation of $20 million is requested for 1979 to fund two projects in Panama. This funding will permit completion of construction south to the Rio Conglon. No funding will be requested south of that point until and unless foot-and-mouth disease is brought under control in Colombia.

Grants are authorized by 23 U.S.C. 215(a) to assist the territorial governments of the Virgin Islands, Guam, and American Samoa in the improvement of their highway systems. Assistance is provided for an arterial highway system, and necessary interisland connectors, as designated by each territorial governor and approved by the Secretary of Transportation.

Under the Federal-Aid Highway Act of 1976, the territories are now also eligible for funding from the high-hazard locations, roadside obstacles, and highway-related safety grants programs. A program level of $5,600 thousand is anticipated in 1979, the same as in 1978, for the entire territorial highways program.

As proposed in the new highway and transit legislation, this program will be incorporated in "Federal-aid highways."

The Federal-Aid Highway Act of 1970, and the Federal-Aid Highway Act of 1973, as amended, authorized select projects for the purpose of protecting, eliminating, re-locating, or otherwise modifying ground-level rail-highway crossings.

1. Railroad-highway crossings.—This program provides for demonstration projects in 19 cities. The planned program levels in 1978 and 1979 will utilize all unobligated balances of appropriated funds and will allow for completion of preliminary engineering on most projects as well as some right-of-way acquisition and construction.

2. Rail crossings.—This program provides for demonstration projects along the route of the Northeast corridor rail line between Washington, D.C., and Boston, Mass., and in and around Greenwood, S.C. 1979 funding required for this program will be provided under the Northeast corridor improvement program administered by the Federal Railroad Administration.

The Federal-Aid Highway Act of 1973 authorized the construction and reconstruction of the Great River Road by the 10 States bordering the Mississippi River. A single continuous two-lane route has been tentatively designated which will run from Lake Itasca, Minn., to Venice, La. Program levels for 1978 and 1979 will focus on preliminary engineering, environmental studies, roadside rest areas, acquisition of areas of archeological, scientific, or historical importance, and necessary easements for scenic purposes.

The 1973 Federal-Aid Highway Act authorized $58.67 million for the reconstruction of the Alaska Highway from the Alaskan border to the Haines Junction, Canada, and the Haines Cutoff Highway from Haines Junction to the south Alaskan border. Total program costs are now estimated to be about $180 million. Because benefits from this program primarily accrue to only one State, Alaska, no additional Federal funding is requested for 1979.

The Federal-Aid Highway Amendments of 1974 and the Federal-Aid Highway Act of 1976 authorized three programs for the improvement of roads off the Federal-aid highway system.

1. Off-system roads.—The Federal-Aid Highway Amendments of 1974 provided $200 million in contract authorization for construction, reconstruction, and improvement of roads not on the Federal-aid highway system. This program has been superseded by the Safer off-system roads program via section 135 of the Federal-Aid Highway Act of 1976.

2. Safer off-system roads.—This program, as amended, is intended to continue the Safer roads demonstration program (23 U.S.C. 405) and the Off-system program (23 U.S.C. 219), to provide Federal-aid highway funds for improvements on roads and streets off the Federal-aid system. This program is for construction, reconstruction, and improvement of any off-system road, and is to include such features as correction of safety hazards, replacement of bridges, and elimination of high-hazard locations and roadside obstacles.

3. Off-system railway-highway crossings.—The 1976 Highway Act authorized this program for the elimination of hazards of railroad-highway crossings on roads other than those on any Federal-aid highway system. Projects include crossing separation, relocation, and/or installation of gates or flashing lights.

As proposed in the new highway and transit bill, off-system roads construction is an eligible expense within the "Federal-aid highways" account. $275 million has explicitly been added to the proposed "Federal-aid highways" authorization total to accommodate increased State expenditures for roads not on any current Federal-aid highway system.

The Federal-Aid Highway Amendments of 1974 authorized a program to construct or reconstruct access highways to public recreation areas on lakes in order to accommodate present and projected traffic density.

The 1979 program level requested will fully fund the 12 projects already approved. Funds for additional projects of this nature are available in the Federal-aid highways and the Safer off-system roads program which are national in scope and available to all States on an equitable basis.

The 1976 Federal-Aid Highway Act authorized $100 million for the construction and reconstruction of any public highway bridge across any Federal public works project where there has been a substantial change in the requirements and cost of such highway or bridge since the public works project was authorized, and where such increased costs would work an undue hardship upon any one State. All but $14 million of the authorization will have been exhausted by the end of 1979.

Financial assistance is made available to States for construction and improvements on the National System of Interstate and Defense Highways and for urban and rural transportation programs. The Federal Government pays 90% of the costs for interstate projects and 70% of the costs of most other Federal aid projects. The Federal share of project costs is increased in those States with large areas of public domain.

1. Interstate System.—As of September 30, 1977, 38,674 miles of the 42,500-mile system were open to traffic. At State and local option, authorizations for nonessential segments deleted from the system may be utilized for improvements on bus and rail transportation systems or on other highway systems.

2. Rural and small urban area transportation programs.—Provides financial assistance to States for highway construction, reconstruction, and related planning and research on the primary, secondary, and urban systems in rural and small urban areas (with populations of 50,000 or less). Assistance is also provided for forest and public lands highways.

3. Urbanized area transportation programs.—Provides financial assistance to States for highway construction, reconstruction, and related planning and research on the urban system in urbanized areas (with populations of more than 50,000). Financial assistance may also be utilized for bus and other mass transportation related facilities.

4. Construction safety programs.—Provides financial assistance to States for safety improvements to the highway systems. Programs that may be pursued at State and local option are projects for high hazard locations, elimination of roadside obstacles, rail-highway crossings, bridge reconstruction and replacement, and pavement marking demonstrations.

5. Administration and research.—Provides for executive and general administrative and research expenses of Federal-aid highways. These funds are expended under the Limitation on general operating expenses.

6. Other.—Provides for emergency relief and bridges over Federal dams.

As proposed in the new highway and transit bill, Federal-aid highways funding will be increased, categorical restrictions will be reduced, and program eligibility will be broadened. Refer to page 715 for a brief description of the reconfigured account.

This limitation provides for the salaries and expenses of the Federal Highway Administration required to conduct and administer Federal-aid highways, Off-system roads, Safer off-system roads, and Off-system railway-highway crossings. Commencing in 1977, administrative expenses for the Highway beautification and Territorial highways programs were also included within the limitation.

Administrative services for other programs of the Federal Highway Administration, including Highway-related safety grants, and for road construction programs of other agencies are initially financed from this limitation with reimbursements being collected from those programs. In addition, the appropriation for Highway safety research and development is transferred to and administered through this limitation. The limitation does not cover administrative expenses of Darien Gap Highway and Motor carrier safety which are funded by their respective appropriations, although an amount is transferred from Motor carrier safety to this account to cover their share of the cost of undistributed overhead.

1. Program direction and coordination.—(a) Provides overall direction and coordination of the highway transportation program; (b) provides legal services for all programs; (c) develops and administers programs for continuing audit of claims against Federal funds and a thorough investigation of alleged irregularities; (d) plans and directs public affairs programs; and (e) develops, recommends policies and standards, and reassures compliance with the civil rights and equal opportunity procedures within the Federal Highway Administration and by recipients of grants-in-aid administered by the Federal Highway Administration.

2. General program support.—(a) Formulates policy, multiyear and long-range plans and goals for highway programs and develops data and analyses for current and long-range programing; (b) conducts direct and contract research and development relating to traffic operations, new construction techniques, and the social and environmental aspects of highways; (c) provides administrative support services for all elements of the Federal Highway Administration; and (d) provides on-the-job training for employees of the Federal Highway Administration and training opportunities for highway-related personnel.

3. Highway programs.—(a) Provides engineering guidance to Federal and State agencies and to foreign governments, and conducts a program to encourage use of modern traffic engineering procedures to increase the vehicle-carrying capacity of existing highways and urban streets; (b) assists States, other Federal agencies, and certain foreign countries in right-of-way acquisition and develops procedures for highway location selection and consideration of environmental impacts; and (c) finances construction skill training programs for disadvantaged workers hired by contractors on federally aided highway projects.

4. Field operations.—(a) Provides staff advisory and support services in field offices of the Federal Highway Administration, and (b) provides program and engineering supervision of the several highway programs through 9 regional and 52 division offices.

5. Highway beautification.—Provides for monitoring of program progress, policy formulation, and assistance and guidance to the States in the removal of billboards, screening or removal of junkyards, and landscaping and scenic enhancement of highway rights-of-way.

6. Territorial highways.—Provides for planning and engineering guidance to Guam, American Samoa, and the Virgin Islands in the development of their highway systems.

The Highway Safety Act of 1970 authorized grants to States and communities for implementing and maintaining highway-related safety standards. Funding was one-third Federal funds and two-thirds highway trust funds. The Highway Safety Act of 1975 provided additional authorizations which were entirely trust funded and extended grant eligibility to Indian reservations and the three U.S. territories.

As proposed in the new highway and transit legislation, this program will be incorporated within "Federal-aid highways."

The Federal-Aid Highway Act of 1970 authorized $65 million for the reconstruction of the federally owned section of the Baltimore-Washington Parkway to six lanes. Following reconstruction, the highway will be transferred to the State of Maryland and placed on the Federal-aid primary system.

The 1979 program level of $2.1 million will complete environmental and preliminary design studies and begin some right-of-way acquisition. The projects are not expected to advance to construction in 1979, so no new funds are requested.

This account reimburses certain parent accounts financed from general funds of the Treasury for the Highway trust fund portion of costs in carrying out the following programs:

1. National scenic and recreational highway.—The Federal-Aid Highway Act of 1973 authorized the construction and reconstruction of the Great River Road by the 10 States bordering the Mississippi River. A single continuous route has been tentatively designated which will run from Lake Itasca in Minnesota to Venice, La.

2. Railroad-highway crossings demonstration projects.—Various legislation authorized demonstration projects in 19 cities for the purpose of protecting or eliminating certain public ground-level rail-highway crossings, relocating railroad lines from central areas, and the construction of overpasses and underpasses.

3. Rail crossings—demonstration projects.—The Federal-Aid Highway Act of 1970 authorized two demonstration projects. One project is to eliminate public ground-level rail-highway crossings along the route of the Northeast corridor high-speed rail line between Washington, D.C., and Boston, Mass. The other project is to eliminate or protect certain rail-highway crossings in the vicinity of Greenwood, S.C., and to relocate rail lines bisecting the town proper.

4. Rural highway public transportation demonstration program.—The Federal-Aid Highway Act of 1973 authorized demonstration projects for encouraging the development, improvement, and use of public mass transit systems operating vehicles within rural areas.

HIGHWAY SAFETY RESEARCH AND DEVELOPMENT

For necessary expenses in carrying out provisions of title 23, United States Code, to be derived from the Highway Trust Fund, $9,000,000, to remain available until expended. (Department of Transportation and Related Agencies Appropriation Act, 1978; additional authorizing legislation to be proposed.)

This appropriation, established in 1975, seeks to identify, correct, and evaluate those critical elements which contribute to loss of life, disabling injuries, and property damage on American highways. The emphasis of research is to provide workable and timely solutions to a set of critical safety problems. A program level of $9,000 thousand is planned for 1979 to meet the increasing demands for solutions to urgent safety problems such as traffic management in construction and maintenance zones and new longer range initiatives in safety hardware, driver aids, and measuring system performance.

Funds appropriated for this account are transferred to the General operating expenses limitation where the program is administered in conjunction with other research and development programs of the Federal Highway Administration.

OVERSEAS HIGHWAY

For necessary expenses for construction of the Overseas Highway in accordance with the provisions of section 118, Federal-Aid Highway Amendments of 1974, to remain available until expended, $17,000,000 to be derived from the Highway Trust Fund, together with $8,000,000 to be allocated from amounts available for obligation as authorized by section 105(c)(2) of the Federal-Aid Highway Act of 1976. (Department of Transportation and Related Agencies Appropriation Act, 1978.)

The Federal-Aid Highway Amendments of 1974 authorized 70% Federal grant assistance for reconstruction or replacement of 37 two-lane bridges on the Overseas Highway. This 110-mile highway is the ground transportation link between Key West and Key Largo in the State of Florida.

An appropriation of $17 million is requested for this program in 1979. This level of funding will permit the orderly continuation of the program, consistent with the total program authorization of $109.2 million.

1. Project acceleration demonstration program.—The 1976 Highway Act authorized $25 million to demonstrate the feasibility of reducing the time required to construct a highway project that is necessitated due to changes in population or traffic flow caused by the construction of other Federal projects.

The appropriations for this program through 1978 total $15,000 thousand, and is expected to be obligated by the end of that year for a highway interchange near Everett, Pa. No appropriation is requested for 1979.

2. Traffic control signalization demonstration projects.—Section 146 of the Federal-Aid Highway Act of 1976 (Public Law 94-280) authorized $40,000 thousand per year for 1977 and 1978 to improve traffic signal control systems by using technology not now in general use.

It is estimated that all $30,000 thousand appropriated through 1978 will be obligated by the end of that year, and no further funding is requested. Activities authorized through this account are also authorized expenses within the Federal-aid highways account.

3. Intermodal urban demonstration project.—Section 124 of the Federal-Aid Highway Amendments of 1974 authorized not to exceed $53 million for a demonstration project for construction of a high-density urban highway intermodal transportation connection between Franklin Avenue and 59th Street, South, in Minneapolis, Minn.

The 1978 appropriation of $2.25 million will cover preliminary design and environmental studies, but further funding is deferred pending the outcome of social, economic and environmental studies.

RIGHT-OF-WAY REVOLVING FUND (LIQUIDATION OF CONTRACT AUTHORIZATION) (TRUST FUND)

The Federal-Aid Highway Act of 1968 authorized $300 million for the establishment of a right-of-way revolving fund. This fund is utilized to make cash advances to the States for the purpose of purchasing right-of-way parcels in advance of highway construction and thereby preventing the inflation of land prices from causing a significant increase in construction costs.

The initial legislation for this program required the States to construct the highway and reimburse the revolving fund within 7 years from the date of the advance. The 1973 Highway Act extended the required time limit on construction to 10 years and the 1976 Highway Act extended the time limit indefinitely, if deemed necessary by the Secretary.

In 1979, obligations will be made to the extent of States reimbursements to the revolving fund.

Note.—Includes $295 thousand in 1979 for activities previously financed from Salaries and expenses, Office of the Secretary of Transportation. In 1977, ($200 thousand); in 1978 ($202 thousand).

1. Rulemaking programs.—Covers rulemaking activity relative to the promulgation of Federal motor vehicle safety standards for new and used motor vehicles, tires, and equipment; automotive fuel economy standards required by the Energy Policy and Conservation Act; and programs requiring economic bumpers withstanding low-speed collisions, automobile ratings, diagnostic inspection, and odometer regulation. The 1979 budget provides for historic development work on a methodology for rating cars for crash survivability and damageability.

2. Enforcement programs.—Provides for the enforcement of programs described under the rulemaking activity, including manufacturer compliance with motor vehicle safety and automotive fuel economy standards, investigation of safety related motor vehicle defects, and surveillance of odometer tampering.

3. Traffic safety programs.—This activity provides for headquarters and field staff to establish policy, program, and technical guidance to the States in executing highway safety programs to determine program effectiveness and to assure conformity with governing laws and regulations. Funding is also provided to carry out training and execution programs; and to conduct demonstration projects that will speed the implementation of new safety techniques into practice.

4. Research and analysis.—This activity provides for research and development in support of all NHTSA programs, including the collection and analysis of data to determine the relationship between motor vehicle and driver performance characteristics and crashes causing death or personal injury. Provision is also made for facilities required to furnish scientific and technical bases for motor vehicle standards, and to do limited compliance testing and defects investigation. The 1979 budget includes funds to continue the development of a national accident data collection program to improve problem identification, rulemaking support, and program evaluation activities.

5. General administration.—This activity provides for overall executive direction, coordination, and implementation of agency programs, except for mission-oriented support activities which are included in the respective program areas. Basic administrative and support requirements for all safety programs are also provided in this category.

Under the State and community highway safety program, Federal grants are provided to assist the States and their political subdivisions in the establishment and improvement of highway safety programs. A total of $172 million is planned for NHTSA's highway safety programs in 1979, the same level as for 1978.

1. Basic program.—Funding for this part of the program is determined on the basis of statutory formula. Incorporated programs include driver licensing, motor vehicle registration, traffic records, police traffic services, driver education and schoolbus driver training. Individual States are utilizing this funding in areas which have the greatest potential for achieving safety improvements and reducing traffic fatalities and accidents at the State and local level. Activities are centered largely in efforts that will: control the drinking driver; increase the intensity of traffic law enforcement; improve the quality and availability of emergency medical services; and improve program management. Total obligations for all encompassed activities, including Federal grant administration, are estimated at $132 million for 1979.

2. Incentive grants.—No new obligations are projected for this program for 1979.

3. Special programs.—Pursuant to proposed legislation, beginning in 1979 funds will be specifically dedicated to programs of special importance, such as enforcement of the 55-mile-per-hour speed limit, based on criteria to be established by the Secretary. It is estimated that $40 million will be obligated for 55-mile-per-hour enforcement in 1979.
