

January 12, 1945.

Dear Arthur:

May I add my word of commendation to the wide-spread and well deserved acclamation that has greeted your speech in the Senate on foreign relations. I read it carefully and want to compliment you on its exceptional clarity as well as its courageousness. We need more of that kind of broad vision and leadership.

I am glad to note that the press has so generally recognized its great merit.

Sincerely yours,

Honorable Arthur H. Vandenberg,
United States Senate,
Washington 25, D. C.
