

May 14, 1936.

My dear Worth:

I am enclosing a copy of a talk I gave in New York last week, extracts from which appeared in the press. I thought that some of my friends might care to see the complete text, and I am, therefore, taking the liberty of sending you a copy since this is an effort to outline briefly what I conceive to be the theory of the government's monetary and spending program and how it is working out toward a balanced budget and full restoration.

Sincerely yours,

Honorable D. Worth Clark,
House of Representatives,
Washington, D. C.

enclosure

D. WORTH CLARK
2d IDAHO DISTRICT

LU LU SHANK
SECRETARY

COMMITTEE:
BANKING AND CURRENCY

Congress of the United States
House of Representatives
Washington, D. C.

June 9, 1936

My dear Marriner:

I appreciated very much receiving the copy of the address which you recently delivered in New York.

Needless to say I have read it with a great deal of interest and approval. I think it presents the financial philosophy of the New Deal perfectly and, of course, I subscribe to it.

I shall consider it a favor to receive copies of any further addresses which you make as you already know I am very much interested in your ideas.

Sincerely yours,

D. WORTH CLARK.

Hon. Marriner Eccles
Federal Reserve Board
Washington, D. C.