Money
Market

During the past week the money market was subject to the influences which usually manifest themselves as the end of the year draws near accentuated this year by an unusual amount of "window dressing." The preparations for December 31 statement and first of January interest and dividend disbursements were accompanied by a sizable increase in the required reserves of the New York City banks, and call money rates advanced. Call money began after Christmas at 2 per cent and advanced on the 26th to 2 1/2 per cent; on the succeeding day on which call money is quoted, Monday, the new loan rate went to 4 per cent from a 2 1/2 per cent renewal level. At that point purchases of securities were made for system account with an immediate effect on the money market. On the next day all transactions were at 3 1/2 per cent, and on the last day of the year the rate for new loans receded to 3 per cent from a 3 1/2 per cent renewal figure. Early in the first business day of the new year, Stock Exchange call money declined to 2 per cent, and later in the day to 1 1/2 per cent.

The demand for funds during the week took the form of an outflow of funds to other centers, in addition to which a substantial amount of currency was earmarked for New York City banks - a usual occurrence at this time of year and representing, it is understood, transactions for Canadian banks through their New York correspondents. There was also a great effort by banks to show no indebtedness at the end of the year and to show large cash reserves. Return of other currency to the Reserve Bank tended to offset losses, to the market, but the demand was largely met by sales of bills to the Reserve Bank and the purchase of $32,925,000 of securities for the System Special Investment Account. The bill and security purchases by this bank enabled the City banks to reduce their indebtedness here from $88,000,000 on December 24, to only $26,000,000 on December 31, and also enabled the City banks to accumulate a considerable surplus of reserve balances, as against a moderate deficit existing a week earlier. On January 2, the reverting of call money to its former easy position made it expedient to dispose of part of the securities acquired prior to the year-end and bill operations on that day also resulted in a loss to the money market, inasmuch as bill maturities from the Federal Reserve portfolio were not accompanied by offerings of bills to this bank.

Quotations in the time money market were unchanged during the past week, and little trading activity was reported. At the close of the period, 3 months' money was quoted at a nominal rate of 2 1/4 per cent bid, 2 1/2 per cent asked.

As is usual at this time of year, both the supply of and demand for commercial paper were of limited volume. Prevailing rates for prime commercial paper continued to be given as 2 3/4 - 3 per cent.

Government
Security
Market

Accompanying firmer money conditions during the first four days of the last statement week, the demand for United States Government securities fell off and, while short-term issues remained firm, the prices for the long-term bonds showed an average loss of about 1/4 of 1 per cent. On the last two days of the statement week, (which were also the last two days of the calendar year) in sympathy with the ease in money rates and partly assisted by System purchases, the demand for United States Government securities was much better, with the market reflecting a good undertone and prices of the long-term bonds recovering part of the losses recorded earlier in the week. At the close of the statement week the average yield on the short-term government securities, at dealers' offering prices, was about 1.50% as compared with 1.53% last week and the average selling price for the Liberty Loan and Treasury bonds was 104.87 as compared with 104.92 last week and the high for the year of 105.38.

Reports
week
ending
Dec. 31

In Boston dealers reported that there was a small supply of bills, with an increased demand during the past period. Bills moved freely at offered rates, with 90-day maturities in best demand. Local banks came in the market, with the result that dealers were obliged to receive bills from their offices in other cities in order to obtain the desired maturities. The supply of new bills continued small. In New York the bill market was moderately active during the week. Dealers' purchases fell off somewhat as compared with the past two weeks. Their sales continued in good volume and exceeded their purchases moderately. Their aggregate portfolios declined by about $17,000,000. The Reserve Bank purchased a substantial amount of bills during the week for System Account, principally from banks and mostly bills of the shorter maturities. Philadelphia reports that its acceptance market was practically unchanged. Offerings were a little heavier with the demand dull, although dealers reported portfolios slightly lighter. Chicago reports that its bill market was rather quiet although offerings to the Reserve Bank were heavy on account of year-end settlement. Dallas reports that the bill market in its district continued quiet during the past week with the demand small and few offerings.

SYSTEM SPECIAL INVESTMENT ACCOUNT - GOVERNMENT SECURITIES

Under authority of the Open Market Policy Conference of September 25, 1930, and to avoid undue stringency of money over the year-end, purchases were made on December 30 and 31 of $32,925,000 aggregate amount of United States Government securities of various issues, as follows:

December 30, 1930 -	$28,275,000
December 31, 1930 -	4,650,000
Total	$32,925,000

These purchases temporarily increased the total amount of holdings in the System Account to $435,225,000. The participations by Federal reserve banks and the classification of issues at the close of the statement week ending December 31, 1930, were as follows:

COMMENT ON CHANGES WEEK ENDED DECEMBER 24, 1930

Total earning assets of the System (exclusive of the $109,000,000 special one-day certificate of indebtedness issued by the Treasury to cover the overdraft on December 17, 1930) showed an increase of $182,598,000 for the current statement week. The changes by classification consisted of increases of $56,211,000 and $117,028,000 respectively, in outright purchases of government securities and bills discounted and $12,429,000 in investments held under sales contracts, and a decrease of $2,152,000 in bankers acceptances. The change in sales contracts consisted of an increase of $2,031,000 in government securities and $10,398,000 in bankers acceptances.

The increase of $56,200,000 in government securities at the Federal Reserve Bank of New York represents replacement purchases, delivery of which was deferred until December 18, as described in detail in last week's report.

Money
Market

Following the termination of the Treasury overdraft at the Reserve bank, money conditions in New York became slightly firmer as the supply of funds was reduced by outgoing transfers to other centers, and by currency withdrawals from the Reserve bank, partly for Christmas needs and also partly to fortify the City banks' cash position after the closing of the Chelsea Bank and Trust Company. The closing of this bank, however, created much less disturbance and a smaller currency demand than did the closing of the Bank of United States. Throughout the past week, call money has been quoted at 2 per cent on the Exchange, but the rate in the outside market which had been $1\frac{1}{4}$ - $1\frac{1}{2}$ per cent on Friday, the 19th, moved up to $1\frac{1}{2}$ - 2 per cent on the following Monday, and on the two days preceding Christmas offerings in the outside market were made no lower than the Exchange quotation. On Friday afternoon, the 26th, the rate for new call loans went to $2\frac{1}{2}$ per cent.

The New York City banks opened the past week with their reserve balances considerably in excess of requirements, but as a result of the losses during the period, this surplus was converted into a moderate shortage which prevailed on Wednesday, the 24th, and consequently on Christmas, the first two days of the current reserve period. The losses of money market funds during the week in transfers to other districts and increased currency requirements were amplified by Treasury collections and only slightly offset by a net gain of gold through import and earmarking transactions. The principal offsets to the large loss in commercial and agency transactions were replacement security purchases for the New York Bank's investment account, most of which were made on December 18, and an increase of $51,000,000 in New York City bank borrowings which occurred on December 24. On that day, the indebtedness of the City banks reached $88,000,000. On Friday, the 26th, the banks took the expedient of selling a large amount of bills to the Reserve bank in order to correct their reserve position.

Bid and asked quotations for 30 and 90 day loans turned slightly easier during the week. As to actual trading, however, the time money market was practically at a standstill.

Seasonal dullness characterized the commercial paper market on both the supply and demand sides. Rates for prime names were unchanged at $2\frac{3}{4}$ - 3 per cent.

Government
Security
Market

The undertone in the market for United States Government securities was somewhat easier during most of the current statement week. Offerings were in excess of the demand, especially for the long-term issues, which were offered in fairly large volume, as a result of which prices declined fractionally. However, on the last day of the statement week, following the announcement of the reduction in the re-discount rate at the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, there was a much better undertone in the government security market and prices of the short-term issues recorded small fractional gains, while prices of the long-term issues were firm. At the close of the current statement week the average yield on the short-term government securities, at dealers' offering prices, was about 1.53% as compared with 1.62% last week and the average selling price for the Liberty Loan and Treasury bonds was 104.92 as compared with 105.01 last week and the high for the year of 105.38.

Bankers
Acceptances

Dealers' offerings of unindorsed bankers acceptances continued at the following rates during the current statement week: 1 7/8 per cent for 30s, 60s and 90s; 2 per cent for 120s, and 2 1/8 per cent for 180-day bills.

Reports
Week
Dec. 24

Boston reports that the acceptors had more bills to offer during the past period than for several weeks past. The local demand also increased, due to continued easy money. Dealers continued to maintain small portfolios as heretofore and forwarded excess supply of bills to offices in other cities. In New York the bill market was slightly less active this week. The first three days of the period dealers' sales exceeded their purchases and aggregate portfolios were reduced to $47,000,000, but the last two days was the reverse with dealers' purchases exceeding sales considerably and aggregate portfolios at the end of the week had increased to $69,000,000, which was about $8,000,000 more than they held at the end of last week. Philadelphia reports that its acceptance market was dull and inactive. The supply of bills was small, with practically no demand. Chicago reports that there was an increase in both the supply and the demand for bills in its district during the past week. Dallas reports that its bill market continued quiet, with the demand small. There were no offerings to the Federal reserve bank.

COMMENT ON CHANGES WEEK ENDED DECEMBER 17, 1930

Total earning assets of the System (exclusive of the $109,000,000 special one-day certificate of indebtedness issued by the Treasury to cover the overdraft) showed an increase of $55,892,000 for the current statement week. The changes by classification consisted of increases of $504,000 and $74,224,000 respectively, in outright purchases of bankers acceptances and bills discounted, and decreases of $20,569,000 and $5,610,000 respectively, in outright purchases of government securities and investments held under sales contracts. The change in the latter item consisted of an increase of $7,390,000 in bankers acceptances and a decrease of $13,000,000 in government securities.

Money
Market

The money market during the past week was subject to two principal influences. Heavy currency withdrawals from the Reserve Bank, after the closing of the Bank of United States, were accompanied by large temporary borrowings from the Reserve Bank and by the development of a firmer money situation, which continued for several days. Following this, the quarterly Treasury operations and the beginning of a return flow of currency to the Reserve Bank were easing factors in the situation. As a result of these influences, call money on the Stock Exchange advanced to 2 1/2 per cent on Friday, the 12th, following a situation in the previous afternoon, when 2 1/2 per cent had been paid for some loans arranged in the outside market. The 2 1/2 per cent rate, which had not been quoted on the Exchange since September, continued despite Treasury operations until Wednesday, the 17th, when the Exchange new loan rate dropped to 2 per cent and outside money became available at 1 1/2 per cent. On the following day, the renewal rate returned to 2 per cent, with 1 1/2 per cent again quoted in the outside market.

The past week has been one of large movements of funds in the New York money market. The net withdrawal of nearly $160,000,000 of currency from the Reserve Bank during the 3 day period of December 11 to 13 was due to the substantial cash demands being made on several New York City banks and their numerous branches, as well as to the desire of other banks to fortify their cash position in the event that unusual withdrawals of currency should be made from them. Notwithstanding sizable currency deposits at the Reserve Bank on the succeeding three days, reflecting the return to a more normal banking situation in New York, there was a net loss to the reserves of the City banks of close to $100,000,000 for the week. There also was a substantial loss of money market funds through outgoing transfers to other districts (chiefly on the 16th and 17th to replace income tax collections in other centers). These losses of funds, were offset by gains through Treasury operations, Federal Reserve bill and security transactions, and member bank borrowings.

On December 15, Treasury redemptions of maturing securities and interest payments exceeded by a considerable amount income tax collections and foreign debt payments effected on that day, resulting in a large gain of funds to the market, and consequently it was expedient to sell to New York City banks participations for $80,000,000 in the Treasury special one-day certificate of indebtedness amounting to $215,000,000. In the two succeeding days further income tax collections in excess of Treasury bill maturities allowed the Treasury to reduce its special certificate to $109,000,000, and the participation of City banks in the overdraft was terminated on the 17th, after having been reduced to $50,000,000 on the 16th. Accompanying further losses to the market on the 18th through Treasury operations and outflow of funds to other centers, security purchases were made to replace securities which had matured or been sold from the New York Bank's investment account during the preceding three days. The deferring of these replacement purchases to a later date was arranged so as not to aggravate the condition of ample supply of funds during the period of December 15 - 17.

Time money quotations were advanced during the course of the week to 2 1/4 per cent, 2 1/2 per cent offered for 30 and 60 day loans; 2 1/2 - 2 3/4 per cent for 3 and 4 months; and 2 1/2 - 3 per cent for 5 and 6 months. These levels represent an increase of about 1/4 to 1/2 per cent. There was little activity evident in this division of the money market. Ninety day money loaned in limited amounts at 2 1/2 per cent, up 1/4 per cent from previous transaction.

Paper of high grade commercial concerns continued to command the 2 3/4 per cent rate in the open market, but the average piece of prime paper more generally was priced at 3 per cent. The market during the past week was rather inactive, due principally to the inability of dealers to secure new drawings - in part as a result of seasonal influences.

Government
Security
Market

On Thursday, December 11, the market for long-term issues of government bonds, which had been weak during the few preceding days, declined to lower levels accentuated somewhat by the closing of a large New York City bank on that day. During the next few days, however, there was a complete reversal of conditions in the market for these bonds with the demand brisk and prices advancing in most cases to levels above those existing at the close of the last statement week. The demand for the short-term government issues continued good through the week and prices advanced slightly. The two new Treasury issues of 1 3/4% and 1 7/8% certificates of indebtedness, were offered by dealers at a small premium while the 3 1/2% Series "C" Treasury notes advanced 18/32 in price due to these notes not being called on December 15 for payment on June 15, 1931, thereby making the earliest callable date December 15, 1931. At the close of the current statement week the average yield on the short-term governments was about 1.62% as compared with 1.51% last week (the increase in yield being primarily due to the change in maturity dates) and the average selling price for the Liberty Loan and Treasury bonds was 105.01 as compared with 104.91 last week and the high level for the year of 105.38.

Dealers unendorsed bankers acceptances continued at the following rates during the current statement week: $1\frac{7}{8}$ per cent for 30s, 60s and 90s; 2 per cent for 120-day bills, and $2\frac{1}{8}$ per cent for 180-day bills.

Reports
week
ending
Dec. 17

Boston reports that although the supply of bills was small during the past period, it was much greater than the demand and dealers were again obliged to forward most of their bills to their offices in other cities. Offerings to the reserve bank were small. In New York the bill market was more active this week than it has been for the past several weeks. Firmer money conditions resulted in a substantial increase in the supply of bills. The demand was also good and came principally from local banks who were buying for their own accounts and for the accounts of foreign correspondents. The demand, however, was exceeded by the supply and dealers' aggregate portfolios increased by about $22,000,000, the increase being bills of maturities of less than 60 days. Philadelphia reports that bills were offered a little more freely during the past week, consisting mostly of short maturities. The demand was very small and dealers' portfolios increased. Chicago reports that there was an increase in both the supply and demand for bills in its district during the past week, and Dallas reports that the bill market in its district was extremely dull during the past week, with practically no demand and no offerings to the reserve bank.

In order to provide a partial offset to the easing effect in the money market caused by Treasury tax period operations, purchases were made for the System Account (in replacement of maturities on December 15, 16 and 17) from the holdings in the Investment Account of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, as shown above, and delivery was deferred until after December 17 of purchases made in the market for the Investment Account of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York in replacement of maturities on December 15, 16 and 17, sales to the System Account and sales to the market on an exchange basis. The aggregate amount of these deferred deliveries was $57,200,000 and, in addition, participations in the Treasury special one-day certificate issued to the Federal Reserve Bank of New York to cover the overdraft (which amounted to $215,000,000 on December 15 and $118,000,000 on December 16) were sold to New York City banks to an amount of $80,000,000 on December 15 and $50,000,000 on December 16, all of which had the desired effect.

On December 11, the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis repurchased $5,000,000 of its participation of government securities in the System Account, representing the balance of the $10,000,000 of which it was temporarily relieved on November 17, 1930.

On December 12, the Federal Reserve Bank of Richmond, in order to increase its gold reserve to care for emergencies, asked to be relieved temporarily of $5,000,000 of its participation in the System Account. These securities were accordingly taken over immediately into the participation of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York and apportioned on Monday, December 15, to the other Federal reserve banks which expressed a willingness to participate.

The aforementioned transactions in the System Account did not affect the amount of total holdings in the Account which remained at the close of business Wednesday, December 17, 1930, at $402,300,000. The participation by Federal reserve banks and the classification of issues at the close of the statement week were as follows:

OPERATIONS IN INVESTMENT ACCOUNT OF FEDERAL RESERVE BANK OF NEW YORK

In the emergency situation of last week in order to supply funds to one of the large New York City institutions, which had heavy withdrawals due to the conditions which were brought about by the closing of the Bank of United States, the Federal Reserve Bank of New York purchased last week for its own account $40,000,000 par value of the government securities of this bank. The proceeds of this purchase were used by the institution to meet currency withdrawals without excessive borrowing from the Reserve bank.

Money
Market

Rates in the New York money market during the past week were practically unchanged from the preceding week. Call money continued to be quoted at 2 per cent on the Exchange, and in the outside market there was little money obtainable below this figure. In fact, on Thursday, the 11th, a small amount of loans was placed at 2 1/2 per cent in the outside market. For most of the time, Federal funds were quoted at around 1 3/4 - 2 per cent, but eased to 1 1/2 - 3/4 per cent on December 11.

During the week ended Wednesday there was a further moderately large increase in the amount of Federal Reserve credit outstanding in this market which was sufficient not only to offset a loss of funds through commercial and agency transactions, but also to raise the reserve balances of the City banks to a position of moderate surplus at the opening of business Thursday, December 11, as against a small deficit at the corresponding time in the preceding week. The increase in outstanding Reserve bank credit was accomplished to about half the total amount by an increase in Reserve System bill holdings, and there were in addition lesser increases in the New York Reserve Bank's security holdings and in borrowings of New York City banks. The loss in commercial and agency transactions reflected chiefly withdrawals of currency from the Reserve bank which were only partly balanced by some net inflow of funds from other centers, a small gold import, and a net gain in miscellaneous commercial and Treasury operations. On Thursday, December 11, heavy withdrawals of currency from the Reserve bank, following the closing of a New York City bank having numerous branches, were accompanied by a further increase of $43,000,000 in borrowings of City banks.

In the time money market little activity was reported, and bid and asked quotations were unchanged at 1 3/4 per cent bid, 2 per cent asked for 30-day loans; 2 - 2 1/4 per cent for 60 and 90 days; 2 1/4 - 2 1/2 per cent for 4 months, and 2 1/2 - 2 3/4 per cent for 5 and 6 months maturities. A moderate amount of 6 months money was loaned at 2 1/2 per cent.

A slightly better bank investment demand for commercial paper developed during the past week, but little improvement in dealers' sales was reported, due to the continued scarcity of prime names in the market. Prevailing open market rates for prime names were unchanged at 2 3/4 - 3 per cent.

Government
Security
Market

There was a fair demand in the market during the current statement week for the short-term government securities although prices of all issues showed small fractional recessions for the week. However, the market for the long-term Treasury bonds was uneasy with offerings considerably in excess of the demand and prices of these issues recorded much larger fractional losses. At the close of the statement week the average yield on the short-term governments at dealers' offering prices was about 1.51% as compared with 1.45% last week, and the average selling price for the Liberty Loan and Treasury bonds was 104.91 as compared with 105.29 last week and the high level for the year of 105.38.

Bankers
Acceptances

Dealers' offerings of unindorsed bankers acceptances continued at the following rates during the current statement week: 1 7/8 per cent for 30s, 60s and 90s; 2 per cent for 120s, and 2 1/8 per cent for 180-day bills.

Reports
week
ending
Dec. 10

In Boston, dealers reported that there was very little change in the bill market during the past period. The supply was somewhat limited, with the demand fair and preference shown for 90-day bills. City banks bought less than $1,000,000 from dealers and, as heretofore, dealers forwarded most of their bills to their offices in other cities. In New York the bill market was slightly more active this week. The demand was better, but was equalled by the supply and dealers' aggregate portfolios were practically unchanged. Banks sold to the Reserve bank for System Account fairly substantial amounts of bills of the shorter maturities. Philadelphia reports that its acceptance market was inactive during the past week; offerings were not particularly heavy, with practically no demand. Chicago reports that the demand for bills in its district was not as good during the past week as during the previous period, while the supply appeared to be a little better. Dallas reports that there was some improvement in the demand for bills in its district during the past week with sales consisting principally of five and six months' bills. Offerings to the Reserve bank were very light.

During the current statement week exchanges were effected advantageously, in anticipation of early maturities, of $14,500,000 - 3 1/4% certificates due Dec. 15, 1930, and

2,500,000 - 3 1/2% Treasury notes called for payment Mar. 15, 1931

a total of $17,000,000 - for a like par amount of government securities as follows:

$ 7,500,000 - 2 3/8% certificates due Sept. 15, 1931
 1,500,000 - 3 1/2% Treasury notes due Dec. 15, 1932
8,000,000 - 4 1/4% Fourth Liberty Loan bonds
$17,000,000

On December 4 the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis repurchased $5,000,000 of its participation of government securities in the System Account representing one-half of the $10,000,000 of which it was temporarily relieved on November 17, 1930.

These transactions did not affect the amount of total holdings in the System Account, which remained at the close of business Wednesday, December 10, 1930, at $402,300,000. The participations by Federal reserve banks and the classification of issues at the close of the statement week were as follows:

Money
Market

The rate for call money outside the Stock Exchange continued to be the principal medium reflecting conditions of the supply of and demand for funds in New York. Turn of the month and holiday influences resulted in a slight further hardening in the rate for call loans in the outside market, and by Friday, November 28, this rate reached the Exchange level of 2 per cent where it remained most of the time through Thursday, December 4. The Stock Exchange rate for call funds was unchanged at 2 per cent throughout the week. Federal funds went as high as $2\frac{1}{4}$ - $2\frac{1}{2}$ per cent on Monday, December 1, but subsequently receded and on December 4 the quotation was $1\frac{3}{4}$ - 2 per cent.

An increase in currency circulation, due to holiday and month-end demands, and an outflow of funds to other centers at the turn of the month occasioned substantial losses to the money market, and consequently the New York City banks had to seek recourse to the Federal Reserve in order to balance their average reserve position for the period ended Tuesday, December 2. In addition to rather large sales of bills by the banks to the Reserve Bank, the City banks temporarily increased their indebtedness to $67,000,000, the highest since the end of September. As the result of the accumulation of excess actual reserves by these operations and some gain in commercial and agency transactions on Wednesday, the major part of the member bank borrowings incurred in the previous days was retired, but on Thursday the City banks again sold bills to the Reserve Bank in order to offset losses occasioned chiefly by currency withdrawals.

No change occurred in the bid and asked rates for time money; trading was confined to a small volume of 90-day loans at $2\frac{1}{4}$ per cent. Commercial paper continued to be quoted at a range of $2\frac{3}{4}$ - 3 per cent with activity limited chiefly by the small quantity of new prime material entering the open market.

Government
Security
Market

Accompanying firmer money conditions there was considerable selling of United States Government securities, especially the long-term bonds. While the demand was fair, it was somewhat less than the amount of offerings and the trend of prices turned downward. At the close of the statement week the average yield on the short-term governments at dealers' offering prices was about 1.45% as compared with 1.34% last week, and the average selling price for the long-term bonds was 105.29 as compared with the high level for the year of 105.38 which was established during the preceding statement week.

Bankers
Acceptances

Dealers' offerings of unendorsed bankers acceptances continued at the following rates during the current statement week: 1 7/8 per cent for 30s, 60s and 90s; 2 per cent for 120s and 2 1/8 per cent for 180-day bills.

Reports
week
Dec. 3

Boston reports that there was very little change in the bill market in its district during the past period. There was a slight indication on the part of some of the accepting banks to sell more of their bills from their portfolios. The demand was about the same as the previous week, dealers forwarding most of their bills to their offices in other cities as heretofore. Offerings to the Reserve bank from dealers amounted to $764,000, the first in four weeks. In New York firmer money conditions resulted in banks selling to the Federal Reserve Bank of New York fairly substantial amounts of bills of the shorter maturities for System Account and to the dealers a moderate amount of the longer maturities. The demand was moderately exceeded by the supply and dealers aggregate portfolios increased by about $6,000,000. Philadelphia reports that its acceptance market was a little more active. Offerings to dealers while not heavy showed some improvement indicating that banks were releasing some of their holdings. Portfolios were slightly higher. Chicago reports that there was a good demand for bills in its district during the past week with the supply limited. Dallas reports that its bill market was very quiet during the past week, the demand being very light. Offerings to the Reserve bank were practically negligible.

Money
Market

As in other recent weeks, changes in money market conditions were reflected in the rate quoted on call money outside the Exchange. This quotation remained at 1 per cent during most of the week, but some firming was indicated on Tuesday when the bulk of the offerings were at 1 1/2 and 2 per cent, and on Wednesday when no concessions were obtainable below 1 1/2 per cent. Call money on the Stock Exchange continued at 2 per cent, a figure which has been constant since the middle of September except for a one-day decline to 1 1/2 per cent on September 29. The rate for Federal funds at the close of the week rose as high as 1 3/4 - 2 per cent, compared with 1/2 - 3/4 per cent at the end of the preceding period.

The principal factor affecting conditions in the New York money market during the past week was a substantial seasonal withdrawal of currency from the Reserve Bank for circulation purposes. Doubtless due to a similar holiday demand in other districts, the net inter-district movement of funds was away from New York through Tuesday and on that day the New York City banks sold a moderately large amount of bills to the Reserve Bank in order to maintain their reserve position. On Wednesday, however, a return movement of funds to this market and a decrease in member bank reserve requirements resulted in the accumulation of a moderate surplus of actual reserves. This was completely wiped out on Friday and member banks found a small amount of borrowing necessary.

A small volume of business continued to be transacted in the time money market, chiefly in 4 months' maturities which on Thursday, November 20, were at 2 1/4 per cent, down 1/4 per cent from previously reported trades, but toward the end of the present week were again made at 2 1/2 per cent. Nominal bid and asked rates were unchanged as follows: 30 days, 1 3/4 - 2 per cent; 60 and 90 days, 2 - 2 1/4 per cent; 4 months, 2 1/4 - 2 1/2 per cent; and 5 and 6 months, 2 1/2 - 2 3/4 per cent.

Dealers in commercial paper report that outlets for high grade material at 2 3/4 per cent were fewer than a short time ago, but that the prevailing quotations for prime names remained at 2 3/4 - 3 per cent. Bank investment demand generally was somewhat smaller than recently, and new drawings of paper were light.

Government
Security
Market

The market for United States Government securities continued strong during the current statement week. The demand was good for both the short and long-term issues, which again advanced in price to higher levels. At the close of the statement week the average yield on the short-term governments at dealers' offering prices was about 1.34% as compared with 1.41% last week, while the average selling price for the long-term bonds again registered a new high level for the year of 105.38 as compared with the previous high for the year of 105.21 made last week.

Bankers
Acceptances

Dealers' offerings of unendorsed bankers acceptances continued at the following rates during the current statement week: 1 7/8 per cent for 30s, 60s and 90s; 2 per cent for 120s and 2 1/8 per cent for 180-day bills.

Reports
week
ending
Nov. 26

Boston reports that bill dealers continued to report that the supply of bills was very limited with a considerable falling off in the demand over the previous week. Bills as a whole did not move freely, with very little choice as to maturities. Reporting dealers' sales fell to approximately $600,000, while new bills coming into the market fell off over $3,500,000. Some corporation buying was noticed for the first time in months, but as heretofore dealers were obliged to forward the majority of their bills to their offices in other cities in order to keep portfolios down. Offerings to the Reserve bank were negligible. In New York the volume of bills handled by dealers during the week was greater than it has been for the past several weeks, as firmer money conditions brought some bills into the market. Up to the 25th of the month, conditions were the same as they have been for the past few weeks with dealers being able to sell all of the bills which came into their hands. On the 25th, dealers' purchases were substantially larger. Sales increased also, but not to the same extent as their purchases and aggregate portfolios at the end of the week had increased by approximately $6,000,000. Philadelphia reports that its acceptance market was without change. New bills continued to be scarce with portfolios very low. Chicago reports that there was very little activity in the bill market in its district. The demand was good with the supply small. Dallas reports that there was some improvement in the bill market during the past week, the demand being better than at any time for the past several months. However, the increase in purchases was due partially to a large order from a reserve city bank. Offerings to the Federal reserve bank were negligible.

6,500,000 - 4 1/4% Fourth Liberty Loan bonds

$11,500,000

On November 21 the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis asked to be relieved temporarily of the balance of its participation in the System Account. These securities, amounting to $5,526,000, were taken over into the participation of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York on November 21 and apportioned on Monday, November 24, to the other Federal reserve banks who expressed a willingness to participate.

These transactions did not affect the amount of total holdings in the System Account, which remained at the close of business Wednesday, November 26, 1930, at $402,300,000. The participations by Federal reserve banks and the classification of issues at the close of the statement week were as follows:

Money
Market

Easy conditions continued to prevail in the call money market during the past week. During at least part of each day funds were obtainable in the outside market as low as 1 per cent, and at all times the supply of money was abundant. The Stock Exchange rate remained at 2 per cent throughout the period. Federal funds temporarily dipped to $1\frac{1}{4}$ per cent, but the closing quotation of the period was $1\frac{1}{2}$ - $3\frac{3}{4}$ per cent, a figure similar to that of a week ago.

The Treasury bill sale consummated on the 17th exceeded by $35,000,000 Treasury bill maturities in the local money market, but this discrepancy was offset to a considerable extent by securities purchased here in replacement of maturing Treasury bills held in Federal reserve portfolios. Other losses occurred through increased currency requirements, but, because of the large surplus of reserves existing at the beginning of the week and gains in commercial transfers and gold imports, the Reserve System acceptance portfolio showed a decline. The net result of the moderate loss of funds to the market from the aforementioned transactions, together with a sizable rise in the bank's reserve requirements, was the absorption of most of the excess of bank reserves, so that by Thursday the 20th reserve balances were not greatly above the required level.

Activity in fixed date accommodation continued within narrow limits at practically unchanged bid and asked quotations for all maturities. The trading rate for 90-day loans, at $2\frac{1}{2}$ per cent, was at the level of previously reported transactions. Four months money loaned on Thursday, the 20th, at $2\frac{1}{4}$ per cent, down $1\frac{1}{4}$ per cent from the previously reported transaction.

Prime commercial paper continued to be quoted at $2\frac{3}{4}$ and 3 per cent, with dealers encountering resistance from the banks to offerings at the lower level. Turnover generally was limited by the small quantity of new paper that entered the open market.

Government
Security
Market

The market for United States Government securities reflected a rather strong tendency during the current statement week. The demand, which was greater than the supply, was especially good for the short-term issues and the Fourth 4 $1\frac{1}{4}$ s. Prices of both the short and long-term issues again advanced to higher levels, the average yield on the short-term governments at dealers' offering prices at the close of the statement week being about 1.41% as compared with 1.49% last week, while the average selling price for the long-term bonds again registered a new high level for the year of 105.21 as compared with the previous high for the year of 105.13 established during the previous week.

Bankers
Acceptances

Dealers' offerings of unendorsed bankers acceptances continued at the following rates during the current statement week: 1 7/8 per cent for 30s, 60s and 90s; 2 per cent for 120s, and 2 1/8 per cent for 180-day bills.

Reports
week
ending
Nov. 19

Boston reports that there was some slackening in the demand for bills in its district during the past period. Dealers purchased over $7,000,000 bills from acceptors and sold only $2,600,000. Most of their surplus bills, amounting to $5,600,000, were forwarded to their offices in other cities. Offerings to the Reserve Bank were exceedingly light. In New York conditions in the bill market were practically the same during the week as they have been for the past two weeks with dealers able to sell all of the bills which came into their hands and accepting and discounting banks continuing to withhold bills from the market. Rates were unchanged. Philadelphia reports that its acceptance market was less active. There were very few new bills offered to dealers, indicating that banks were probably holding rather than selling. Bills generally were scarce, portfolios decreasing. Chicago reports that the bill market in its district continued very quiet. Dallas reports that there was a slightly improved demand for bills in its district and offerings to the reserve bank larger.

SYSTEM SPECIAL INVESTMENT ACCOUNT - GOVERNMENT SECURITIES

During the current statement week the following transactions were effected in the System Account:

Redemption at maturity of	$28,214,000 - Treasury bills due Nov. 17, 1930, which were replaced by purchase in the market of a like par amount of Treasury bills due Feb. 16, 1931.
Sales to Foreign Correspondent of	1,793,000 - Treasury bills due Feb. 16, 1931, which were replaced by purchases in the market of a like par amount of 2 3/8% certificates of indebtedness due Sept. 15, 1931.
Exchanges in the market of	24,950,000 - 3 1/2% Treasury notes called for payment March 15, 1931, for a like par amount of Treasury bills due Feb. 16, 1931, and 2 3/8% certificates of indebtedness due Sept. 15, 1931, and 1,000,000 - Treasury bills due Feb. 16, 1931, for a like par amount of 2 3/8% certificates of indebtedness due Sept. 15, 1931.
Total	$55,957,000

On November 14 the Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta asked to be relieved temporarily of $5,000,000 of its participation of government securities in the System Account and on November 17 the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis asked to be relieved temporarily of $10,000,000 of its participation of government securities in the System Account. These securities were taken over into the participation of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York on November 14 and November 17 and apportioned on November 17 and November 18, respectively, to the other Federal reserve banks, all of which expressed a willingness to participate.

These transactions did not affect the total holdings in the Account, which remained at the close of business Wednesday, November 19, 1930, at $402,300,000. The participations by Federal reserve banks and the classification of issues at the close of the statement week were as follows:

Money
Market

During the past week the call money market in New York has changed from the slightly firmer condition that prevailed in the first few days of the month to a situation of comparative ease. The variations have been entirely in the rate for loans in the outside market, as the official Stock Exchange quotation has been 2 per cent throughout. Beginning on Thursday, the 6th, the outside rate went no lower than 1 1/2 per cent and on the following day a 2 per cent rate alone was quoted. On the 10th, however, larger offerings began to appear with concessions to 1 1/2 per cent granted, a condition that existed until Thursday, the 13th, when outside market loans were placed as low as 1 per cent. The quotation for Federal funds worked as high as 2 - 2 1/4 per cent on Friday, the 7th, but by the following Thursday had returned to 1/2 - 3/4 per cent.

At the opening of the past reporting week a moderate deficit existed in reserve accounts of the money market banks, so that on Friday the City banks had to increase their Reserve Bank borrowings to $34,000,000 in order to balance their average position for the period ended that day, despite an inflow of funds from other centers and an increase in Federal Reserve bill holdings. In the succeeding days return of currency from circulation, further net inward movement of funds from other districts, and a gold import were accompanied by repayment of New York City bank borrowings and the establishing of a substantial surplus of reserves as the reporting week closed.

The time money market has remained quiet during the past week and rates have been unchanged. Limited amounts of 3 and 4 months money have been placed at 2 1/4 and 2 1/2 per cent respectively.

While sales of prime commercial paper at 2 3/4 per cent have increased to sufficient volume to change the effective selling range quoted by dealers to 2 3/4 - 3 per cent, there is still considerable sales resistance to offerings at the lower level. Investment demand, at the same time, is largely for the best grade of names, little interest being evidenced in the smaller good names, which may be obtained at slightly higher rates. Activity of the market is hampered by the extremely small supply of paper available.

Government
Security
Market

The market for United States Government securities continued fairly active, with the demand good for practically all issues. Prices of both the short and long-term issues showed small net gains for the week, the average yield on the short-term governments at dealers' offering prices at the close of the statement week being about 1.49% as compared with 1.53% last week, while the average selling price for the long-term bonds again established a new high level for the year of 105.13 as compared with the previous high for the year of 105.11 made during the previous statement week.

Bankers
Acceptances

Dealers' offerings of unendorsed bankers acceptances continued at the following rates during the current statement week:

1 7/8 per cent for 30s, 60s and 90s, 2 per cent for 120s and 2 1/8 per cent for 180-day bills.

Reports
week
ending
Nov. 12

Boston reports that the supply of bills in its local market fell off considerably during the reporting period. There was a good local demand for bills but local dealers were not able to fill all their orders due to the small supply caused by local banks holding their own bills. Ninety day bills continued in best demand. In New York dealers' purchases increased slightly as compared with the past two weeks. Their sales, however, continued to exceed their purchases and aggregate portfolios decreased by about $12,000,000 to $26,000,000, the lowest they have been since the end of July. Several dealers reported they could have sold more bills of maturities under 90 days if bills had been available. Philadelphia reports that its acceptance market was a little more active. There was more improvement in the volume of new bills offered although banks were inclined to hold rather than sell. The demand generally greatly exceeded the supply - portfolios low. Chicago reports that the bill market in its district continued very quiet. Dallas reports that there was continued dullness in its bill market during the past week with practically no demand and very light offerings to the reserve bank.

a total of $9,500,000 for a like par amount of other issues of short-term governments as follows:

$1,500,000 - Treasury bills due November 17, 1930
5,000,000 - " " " December 17, 1930
1,000,000 - 2 3/8% certificates of indebtedness, due
September 15, 1931
2,000,000 - 3 1/2% Treasury notes due December 15, 1932
$9,500,000

These exchanges, which were made mostly as an accommodation to the market, were effected at prices advantageous to the System Account and did not affect the total amount of holdings in the Account, which remained at the close of business Wednesday, November 12, 1930, at $402,300,000. Money
Market

Turn of the month and holiday influences caused a slight firming in call money during the past week. The Stock Exchange quotation showed no change from the 2 per cent rate in effect throughout October, but in the outside market the granting of concessions became less of a factor as the period progressed so that by Thursday, the 6th, only a small amount of money was placed at 1 1/2 per cent, as against large offerings at 1 per cent a week earlier. The quotation for federal funds rose to 1 3/4 - 2 per cent from the 1/4 - 1/2 per cent rate in effect a week ago.

At the opening of the reporting week the New York City banks had rather large surplus reserves, but losses to the market during the week in commercial and agency transactions, principally through an outflow of funds to other parts of the country and currency withdrawals from the Reserve Bank, were about twice the size of the opening surplus of reserves. In order to average their position for the reserve period ending with the Tuesday holiday, New York City banks on Monday sold a moderately large volume of bills to the Reserve Bank and in addition borrowed $39,000,000. In the two subsequent business days, the City banks retired part of these borrowings, but the reserve position of the banks on these days reflected the narrowing of the supply of funds in New York that has occurred during the past week.

General lack of interest continued to prevail in the market for fixed date accommodation, with bid and asked rates down about 1/4 per cent from a week ago to new low levels in recent years. Current quotations are: 30 days, 1 3/4 - 2 per cent; 60 days, 2 per cent flat; 90 days, 2 - 2 1/4 per cent; 4 months, 2 1/4 - 2 1/2 per cent; 5 and 6 months, 2 1/2 - 2 3/4 per cent. Trading activity during the week appeared to be confined chiefly to 4 months loans at 2 1/2 per cent, and to 6 months loans at 2 3/4 per cent.

Dealers' offering lists contained an increased proportion of especially choice commercial paper priced at 2 3/4 per cent, but the actual movement of this paper into investors' portfolios during the past week was limited to only occasional transactions. Dealers reported a ready market for the average run of prime names at 3 per cent, which they continue to quote as the prevailing rate. The market generally was rather inactive due to the scarcity of material.

Government
Security
Market

The market for United States Government securities continued moderately active during the current reporting period with the demand good for all issues, especially for the short-term issues and the Fourth 4 1/4s. Prices advanced fractionally for the week, the average yield on the short-term governments at dealers' offering prices at the close of the week being 1.53% as compared with 1.71% last week, while the average selling price for the long-term bonds again established a new high level for the year of 105.11 as compared with the previous high for the year of 105.05 made on the last day of the previous statement week.

Bankers
Acceptances

Dealers' offerings of unindorsed bankers acceptances were at the following rates at the close of the current statement week: 1 7/8 per cent for 30s, 60s and 90s, 2 per cent for 120s, and 2 1/8 per cent for 180-day bills. This represents a reduction of 1/8 per cent on 180-day bills from the previous week.

Reports
week
ending
Nov. 5

Boston reports that, with call money at 1 to 1 1/2 per cent, local banks turned to bankers acceptances during the past week, with the result that nearly all available bills were soon absorbed, necessitating dealers to import bills from their offices in other cities to fill orders. The supply of bills also showed some increase and, for the first time in months, was insufficient to meet the demand. There was little choice as to maturities, but 90-day bills were easier to move. In New York the bill market was less active this week than the previous week. The demand, however, continued to exceed the supply and dealers' aggregate portfolios were reduced $17,000,000 to $38,000,000. On October 31, dealers reduced rates 1/8 per cent on 5 and 6 months bills to 2 1/4 bid, 2 1/8 asked. Indorsed bills 1/8 less. No change in other maturities. Dealers' sales to the Reserve Bank for System Account were practically nil during the week, while sales by banks to the Reserve Bank were in fairly substantial amounts, the bulk of the purchases being offered by two or three banks on the 3rd of November. Philadelphia reports that its acceptance market was dull; there were practically no new bills and no sales. Dealers reported that, due to the demand in other districts, their portfolios were considerably lower. Chicago reports that there was continued extreme dullness in the bill market in its district. Dallas reports that there was a very light demand for bills in its district during the past week, with offerings to the Reserve Bank very small.

Money
Market

Call money on the Stock Exchange was steady at 2 per cent during the past week, but reflecting the usual seasonal tendencies at this time easier conditions prevailed in the outside market where large offerings resulted in loans being made during much of the time as low as 1 per cent, whereas a week earlier the outside rate went no lower than 1 1/2 per cent. Federal funds also eased, the quotation during the past three days being 1/4 - 1/2 per cent, compared with 1 - 1 1/4 per cent at the close of the previous period.

Reserves of the New York City banks at the opening of the week were $40,000,000 in excess of requirements, and during the period reserves were raised by a further substantial inflow of funds from other parts of the country and a gain of gold which were only slightly offset by some additional decline in Reserve Bank bill holdings. There was a concurrent increase in member bank reserve requirements of somewhat smaller amount so that by the end of the week a surplus of $66,000,000 had developed in the reserve accounts of the City banks. This will probably diminish over the first of the month.

Very little interest was shown in fixed maturity accommodation during the week, and nominal quotations were unchanged. A small aggregate amount of loans was placed; some for 30 days at 2 per cent; some for 90 days at 2 1/2 per cent; for 4 months at 2 3/4 per cent; and for 6 months at 3 per cent. These trading rates were the same as during the previous week.

With respect to commercial paper, the dealers indicated that a good market existed for prime material at 3 per cent, but for trades to be made below this level required paper of nationally known business organizations of especially high rating and only occasional sales were made at 2 3/4 per cent. The supply of prime names continued scarce, and consequently sales were in limited volume.

Government
Security
Market

The market for United States Government securities was somewhat more active during the current statement week than in the previous reporting period. There was a good demand for practically all issues, short and long-term, especially the Fourth Liberty Loan 4 1/4s. Prices advanced fractionally for the week with the long-term bonds recording the larger gains, the greater portion of which were made on the last day of the current period. The average yield on the short-term governments at dealers' offering prices at the close of the statement week was about 1.71% as compared with 1.76% last week, while the average selling price for the long-term bonds established a new high level for the year of 105.05 as compared with 104.90 at the close of last week and a previous high for the year of 105.03.

Bankers
Acceptances

Dealers' offerings of unindorsed bankers acceptances continued at the following rates during the current statement week: 1 7/8 per cent for 30s, 60s and 90s; 2 per cent for 120s and 2 1/8 - 2 1/4 per cent for 180-day bills.

Boston reports that there was slight improvement in the demand for bills in its district during the past period, with the visible supply somewhat smaller and dealers were obliged to call on their offices in other cities to obtain the desired maturities to complete their orders. Dealers continued to forward their new bills to their offices in other cities; principally to the New York market. In New York easier money conditions during the week resulted in an excellent demand for bills. Dealers' purchases fell off considerably as compared with the past few weeks. Their sales exceeded their purchases very substantially and their aggregate portfolios declined by $59,000,000 during the week to $55,000,000. Offerings to the Reserve Bank for System Account were light. Philadelphia reports that its acceptance market was without change - dull and inactive. There was some little demand for 30 and 120-day bills, but other maturities did not move. Chicago reports that there was no change in its bill market during the past week. Dallas reports that the demand for bills during the past week was negligible. There were no bills offered to the Reserve Bank.

OPERATIONS FOR ACCOUNT OF UNITED STATES TREASURY

Transactions consummated under Treasury authorization during the current statement week were as follows:

Sale of $1,000,000 - 3 1/4% certificates of indebtedness due December 15, 1930, account Government Life Insurance Fund
 600,000 - 3 1/2% Treasury notes due December 15, 1932, account Alien Property Custodian
$1,600,000 - Total Sales

SYSTEM SPECIAL INVESTMENT ACCOUNT - GOVERNMENT SECURITIES

During the current statement week exchanges were effected in the System Account of

$2,500,000 - Treasury bills due November 17, 1930, and

3,000,000 - 3 1/4% certificates of indebtedness due December 15, 1930

a total of $5,500,000 - for a like par amount of 2 7/8% certificates of indebtedness due June 15, 1931, and 3 1/2% Treasury notes, Series C, due December 15, 1932.

These exchanges of early maturities for later maturities of short-term government securities were made at prices to give slightly higher yields on the securities purchased, and did not affect the total amount of holdings in the System Account, which remained at the close of business Wednesday, October 29, 1930, at $402,300,000. The participation by Federal reserve banks and the classification of issues at the close of the statement week were as follows:

Money
Market

On Thursday and Friday of last week, a substantial inflow of funds from other parts of the country and some increase in reserve bank bill holdings resulted in a gain to the market large enough not only to offset losses through currency requirements and Treasury operations, but also to permit the retirement by member banks of reserve bank indebtedness incurred a few days previously. During this time, call money held at 2 per cent, both on the Stock Exchange and in the outside market.

This week a continued net inflow of funds from other centers and return of currency from circulation led to the accumulation of some surplus of bank reserves. Reflecting this situation, conditions in the call money market during this part of the week became somewhat easier, although the only rate changes were in the outside market where concessions to 1 1/2 per cent prevailed, as against the continuance of the Exchange rate at 2 per cent.

The time money market was extremely quiet during the entire week. Small amounts were loaned for 3, 4 and 6 months at 2 1/2 per cent, 2 3/4 and 3 per cent respectively. Nominal quotations are now: 30 days 2 per cent flat; 60 days 2 per cent bid, 2 1/4 asked; 3 and 4 months 2 1/2 per cent bid, 2 3/4 asked; and 5 and 6 months 2 3/4 percent bid, 3 per cent asked.

While there have been some sales of high grade commercial paper reported at 2 3/4 per cent, leading paper dealers construe them in the nature of special transactions and continue to quote a prevailing selling rate of 3 per cent. At the present time, dealers' small acquisitions of prime material are moving rapidly into investors' portfolios.

Government
Security
Market

The market for United States Government securities was very quiet during the current statement week. The undertone was steady with a slight preference in the demand being shown for the Fourth 4 1/4% Liberty Loan bonds. Prices were approximately at the same levels as at the previous week's close, the average yield on the short-term governments at dealers' offering prices at the close of the reporting period being 1.76% as compared with 1.78% last week, while the average selling price for the long-term bonds was 104.90 as compared with 104.87 at the close of last week and the high average for the year of 105.03.

Bankers
Acceptances

Dealers' offerings of unindorsed bankers acceptances continued at the following rates during the current statement week:

1 7/8 per cent for 30s, 60s and 90s; 2 per cent for 120s and 2 1/4 per cent for 180-day bills.

Reports
week
ending
Oct. 22

Boston reports that the bill market conditions in its district remained unchanged during the past period. While there was a slight increase in the supply, the demand continued poor and dealers were obliged to forward most of their bills to their offices in other cities as heretofore. In New York, due to a slackened demand and a good supply of bills, dealers' portfolios were increased during the week by $31,000,000 to $113,000,000. on Wednesday, the highest since the middle of last July. This amount is now being reduced as money has become easier. Investments by the reserve bank for foreign account were comparatively light, while offerings for System Account increased considerably, principally from banks. Philadelphia reports that its acceptance market was very quiet. The supply of new bills practically dried up in its district, with no demand. Dealers reported portfolios still rather high. Chicago reports that there was no change in its bill market conditions during the past week. Dallas reports that the demand for bills during the past week was very light. There were no bills offered to the reserve bank.

Money
Market

Conditions in the New York call money market during the past week were little changed from the situation that prevailed during much of the preceding period. On the Exchange, the call rate held steady at 2 per cent and in the outside market no concessions from this rate were reported. Ample, though not abundant, supplies of funds were available at all times however.

For the week ended October 15, there was an inflow of funds to this market from other centers, but losses occurred through increased currency requirements, an excess of Treasury bill sales over interest payments here, and a decline in Reserve System bill holdings. The resulting net loss and a rise in member bank reserve requirements caused the New York City banks to increase their Reserve Bank borrowings to $40,000,000 on the 14th, following which there was only a small decrease, as increased Federal Reserve bill takings on the 15th and 16th served as a partial offset to the loss occasioned by the Treasury bill sales in this market.

In the time money market, quotations were virtually unchanged during the week. Little actual trading was done and the small amount of loans for 4 and 6 months placed was 2 3/4 and 3 per cent, respectively.

The rather limited supply of new commercial paper that was received by dealers moved quickly into investors' portfolios at the prevailing quotation of 3 per cent for prime names.

Government
Security
Market

There was less activity in the market for United States Government securities during the current statement week than in the few preceding weeks. Notwithstanding the smaller amount of trading, the undertone was good and dealers reported that while offerings were not in large volume there was a fair demand for practically all issues. Prices in general were firm at levels slightly below the high point reached during the early part of the preceding week, and at the close of the current reporting period the average selling price for the long-term bonds was 104.87 as compared with the high average for the year of 105.03 established during the early part of the previous week.

Bankers
Acceptances

Dealers' offerings of unendorsed bankers acceptances continued at the following rates during the current statement week: 1 7/8 per cent for 30s, 60s and 90s; 2 per cent for 120s and 2 1/8 - 2 1/4 per cent for 180-day bills.

Reports
week
ending
Oct. 15

Boston reports that there was no change in the local bill market conditions in its district during the past period. While the supply showed a slight decrease, it continued to be in excess of the demand which was very small. Local banks were practically out of the market and dealers found it difficult to move their bills. Dealers kept their portfolios small by forwarding all of their excess supply to their offices in other cities. In New York the bill market continued moderately active during the week. The demand fell off somewhat as compared with the past few weeks, while the supply continued good and dealers aggregate portfolios increased by about $23,000,000 to $82,000,000, the highest they have been since the middle of July. Offerings to the reserve bank for System Account were only moderate and practically all from banks. Philadelphia reports that its acceptance market continued inactive. Dealers reported portfolios slightly higher, there being no demand for bills in its district. Chicago reports that there was practically no improvement in bills in its market during the past week. Dallas reports that there was a slight improvement in the demand for bills during the past week due principally to a substantial purchase by one of the large reserve city banks. The demand from other sources was practically negligible and offerings to the reserve bank were very light.

Up to the last month or so, it has been the practice of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York to address to the Board weekly a letter reviewing conditions and operations in the bill and Government securities markets. The last letter received by the Board was under date of August 28th, and is attached, for your information. May I inquire whether the discontinuance of this letter is the result of an agreement made by you with the New York Bank? If not, would you like for me to write to the Bank and ask that they resume the sending of the weekly letter. I believe it was of interest to other members of the Board.

Money
Market

Somewhat firmer conditions existed in the money market during the past week. Call money on the Stock Exchange held steady at 2 per cent throughout the period, while during the previous week the rate declined to 1 1/2 per cent for one day. In the outside market, concessions from the Exchange rate were smaller and less frequent than they were last week; at no time was the outside rate less than 1 1/2 per cent, and from Monday to Thursday the outside charge held at the 2 per cent level which prevailed on the Exchange.

There was a large outflow of funds to other parts of the country during the week, and the loss to the market from this source was only partly offset by gains resulting chiefly from a small net return of currency from circulation and a reduction in the reserve requirements of New York City banks. Consequently, the member banks found it necessary to increase their borrowings here in order to balance their average reserve position, but these loans were soon repaid through the sale of bills to the Reserve Banks. The increase in bill holdings was largely in the form of repurchase agreements; outright holdings declined during the first part of the period, but in the last two days there were substantial bank sales of bills to the Reserve Bank.

There was little trading activity in time money, but this market showed some firming tendency in that the nominal quotations for 3 to 6 months' maturities closed the period slightly higher. Bid and asked quotations on October 9 were as follows: 30 days, 2 per cent flat; 60 days, 2 - 2 1/4 per cent; 3 and 4 months, 2 1/2 - 2 3/4 per cent; 5 and 6 months, 3 per cent flat.

The rate for prime commercial paper remained 3 per cent, and conditions of demand for and supply of the paper continued much the same as a week ago. Sales generally were small due to the fact that new drawings were in limited volume. Demand was large, and new paper currently received by dealers passed quickly into investors' portfolios.

Government
Security
Market

During the first part of the current statement week the market for United States Government securities, which had become somewhat easier in the few preceding days, was again fairly active and strong. The demand was good for practically all issues and prices advanced fractionally, the average selling price for the long-term bonds reaching a new high level for the year of 105.03 as compared with the previous high for the year of 105.02, established during the early part of the preceding week. During the latter part of the current statement week, however, the demand again slackened and prices in most instances declined fractionally to levels slightly below those prevailing at the close of the previous statement week.

Bankers
Acceptances

Dealers' offerings of unendorsed bankers acceptances continued at the following rates during the current statement week: 1 7/8 per cent for 30s, 60s and 90s; 2 per cent for 120s and 2 1/8 - 2 1/4 per cent for 180-day bills.

Reports
week
ending
Oct. 8

Boston reports that for the past ten days the supply of new bills had been slowly increasing. While most of these bills represent shipments between foreign countries, cotton credits have made their appearance in fair volume. There was no change in the demand for bills which continued poor in its district. Consequently dealers continued to send most of their bills to their offices in other cities. In New York the bill market was fairly active during the week. As a result of the firmer money conditions which existed during the week, more bills were offered to dealers with a falling off in the demand and dealers' aggregate portfolios increased approximately by about $20,000,000, to about $60,000,000. The reserve bank's purchases for System Account were fairly substantial and came practically all from banks. Philadelphia reports that its acceptance market was quiet. The amount of new bills was the smallest for sometime with no demand. Chicago reports that its bill market continued very dull and inactive with very few bills appearing. Dallas reports that the bill market in its district continued very dull during the past week with the demand light. There were no offerings to the reserve bank.

Money

ie money market banks had a substantial surplus of reserves at the opening of business on Thursday, September 25, the initial day of the past reporting period. This excess, however, was absorbed during the remainder of the calendar week through losses resulting chiefly from currency withdrawals from the Reserve Bank and a net outflow of funds to other parts of the country, including transfers of funds to Cuba through the Atlanta bank. In addition, there occurred a large month-end increase in reserve requirements, so that at the close of business on Saturday the banks' reserves were in deficit to a rather marked extent.

This deficit carried over the week-end, so that on Monday morning the accumulated shortage was equal to an impairment of $38,000,000 for one day, and a small net return flow of funds from other centers during the following two days only partly counterbalanced this deficiency. In order to balance their average reserve position on Tuesday, the New York City member banks borrowed $77,000,000, and in addition a substantial volume of bills was sold to the Reserve Bank, part of which was in the form of repurchase agreements. Thus, in balancing average reserves for the period, there was created a large excess of actual reserves at the opening on Wednesday, which together with a sizeable gain during the day in commercial and agency transactions provided the funds for a retirement of Reserve Bank credit in an amount approximately equal to the increase of the previous day.

Call money remained at 2 per cent on the Stock Exchange until Monday, September 29, when the renewal rate was reduced to 1 1/2 per cent, the lowest in fifteen years. On the following day, however, the renewal rate was returned to 2 per cent, and call money held at this level on the Stock Exchange through the remainder of the period. Federal funds rose from a low of 1/4 per cent a week ago to a peak of 2 1/4 - 2 1/2 per cent at the month-end, but subsequently declined, and at the close of business today the quotation was reported to be 1 per cent.

The only change during the past week in the bid and asked quotations for time money was a slight easing in the rates for four months' loans, which are now quoted at 2 1/4 - 2 1/2 per cent, the same as for the 90-day period. Activity was confined principally to small loans for 4 months at 2 1/2 per cent, and for 6 months at 2 3/4 per cent.

Commercial paper dealers report that new drawings of prime paper, which they have received during the past week, have moved rapidly into investors' portfolios. Generally, new paper is said to be in small volume, and consequently only part of the continued substantial demand for the best names is currently satisfied. During the week there was a special transaction consisting of a sizeable block of prime paper maturing in 60 days which was sold at 2 1/2 per cent, but otherwise there has been no indication of any lowering of rates. The rate for 4 to 6 months' prime paper continues at the 3 per cent figure which has prevailed during the two months just passed.

Government
Security
Market

The market for United States Government securities was strong and active. During the first four business days of the current state-ment week the demand for practically all issues of government securities was exceptionally strong and, on a heavy turnover, prices of all issues advanced fractionally, the long-term bonds establishing a new high average selling price for the year of 105.02 as compared with the previous high for the year of 104.77. On the last two days of the reporting week the demand slackened somewhat and while prices in general were firm there were some fractional recessions from the high levels during the week and the average selling price for the long-term bonds declined to 104.91, a level still above the high point for any previous week this year.

BankersAcceptances

Dealers' offerings of unendorsed bankers acceptances continued at the following rates: 1 7/8 per cent for 30s, 60s and 90s, 2 per cent for 120s and 2 1/4 per cent for 180-day bills.

ReportsweekendingOct. 1

Boston reports that some increase was noted in the demand for bills in its market during the past period due mostly to cheap call money rates. This demand, however, did not hold and with a slight increase in the supply of new bills dealers, as heretofore, were obliged to forward their bills to offices in other cities. Offerings to the Reserve bank continued small. The New York bill market was more active this week than it has been for the past several weeks. The greater part of the week there was a good demand which came principally from local banks who were buying for their own accounts and for the accounts of foreign correspondents. This demand exceeded the supply most of the week, but on Tuesday, the last day of the month, money was firmer and dealers' purchases exceeded their sales considerably on that day. At the close of the week dealers' portfolios had only been reduced slightly. Philadelphia reported that its acceptance market showed little change from the previous week. There was a fair amount of new bills offered during the week with practically no demand. Chicago reports that the supply of bills was limited during the past week with the demand light. Dallas reports that its bill market was quiet during the past week with a small demand. Offerings to the Reserve bank were light.

During the current statement week a sale was made from the holdings in the System Account to a foreign correspondent of

$5,000,000 - 3 1/2% Treasury notes called for payment on March 15, 1931
at a price to yield about 1.95%

This sale was replaced in the System Account by purchase of a like par amount of 2 3/8% Treasury certificates due September 15, 1931, at a price to yield about 2.25%.

These transactions did not change the total amount of holdings in the System Account, which remained at the close of business Wednesday, October 1, 1930, at $402,300,000. COMMENT ON CHANGES WEEK ENDED SEPTEMBER 24, 1930

Total earning assets of the System (exclusive of the $45,000,000 special one-day Treasury certificate of indebtedness issued by the Treasury to cover the overdraft September 17) showed an increase of $29,068,000 for the current statement week. The changes by classification consisted of increases of $36,693,000 (exclusive of Treasury overdraft certificate of indebtedness) and $4,013,000 respectively in outright purchases of government securities and bills discounted, and decreases of $10,958,000 and $430,000 net respectively, in outright purchases of bankers acceptances and investments held under sales contracts. The change in the latter item consisted of a decrease of $270,000 in government securities and $160,000 in bankers acceptances.

Money
Market

On Thursday, September 18, the opening day of the reporting week just completed, bank reserves were substantially in excess of requirements, but during this and the following two days losses through income tax collections, a substantial movement of funds to other centers, and currency withdrawals for week-end circulation, which were only partly offset by security purchases for the Treasury Sinking Fund and the completion of replacement purchases of securities for the New York Bank's own investment account, completely absorbed this surplus. In fact, actual reserves of the New York banks became slightly in deficit on Saturday.

During the last three days of the reporting period a reversal of the inter-district movement of funds placed a large credit at the disposal of the money market. In addition, there was an unseasonal return of currency from circulation and other miscellaneous gains which were only partly absorbed by a decline in Reserve Bank bill holdings, and an increase in member bank reserve requirements. Consequently, toward the end of the week bank reserves rose to a position of surplus which was even more substantial than the excess which existed at the opening of the period. This case, unusual for this time of year, may be ascribed to the release of funds by slack business activity.

The Stock Exchange rate for call money remained at 2 per cent, but conditions in the outside market were somewhat easier in that toward the end of the week loans were made at 1 per cent. Federal funds were practically unlendable, and the market was quoted at 1/4 per cent nominal.

The time money market remained exceedingly dull, while quoted rates moved lower. Nominal quotations for maturities up to 4 months showed a net reduction of 1/4 per cent during the past week, and 5 and 6 months' loans were reduced 1/2 per cent from the rates quoted on the previous Thursday. By the end of the period limited trading was being done in 30-day money at 2 per cent, in loans of nearly 4 months at 2 1/2 per cent, and in 6 months' money at 2 3/4 per cent. These are new low rates for recent years - on the whole somewhat below the 1924 level.

Commercial paper dealers continued to report that the scarcity of prime names was the principal reason for the small volume of sales. A large potential investment demand existed, but it was only partly satisfied. The prevailing rate for prime names remained at 3 per cent.

Government
Security
Market

The volume of trading in the market for United States Government securities during the current statement week was considerably less than during the preceding period. The demand fell off for all issues, with exception of the Fourth 4 1/4s for which the demand continued good, and prices generally showed small fractional losses for the week. The average selling price of the long-term bonds at the close of the statement week was 104.64 as compared with 104.70 last week, and the high for the year of 104.77. On Thursday the market was better.

BankersAcceptances

Dealers' offering of unendorsed bankers acceptances continued at the following rates during the current statement week: 1 7/8 per cent for 30s, 60s and 90s, 2 per cent for 120s and 2 1/4 per cent for 180-day bills.

ReportsweekendingSept. 24

Boston reports that although there was a slight increase in the supply of bills during the past period, there seemed to be no material change in the local bill conditions. The amount of bills showed a sizeable increase but most of these bills were purchased for foreign accounts. Dealers still continued to forward their longer maturities to New York necessitating the importation of bills of shorter maturities to fill the small local demand. Philadelphia reports that its acceptance market continued very quiet. Dealers reported little activity either way with the result that portfolios were practically unchanged. In New York the bill market was slightly more active this week than it has been for the past few weeks. Dealers' purchases were moderately larger, a moderate amount of grain bills having appeared in the market. Their sales exceeded purchases slightly and aggregate portfolios decreased accordingly. The demand was practically all from local institutions who were buying for their own account and for the accounts of foreign correspondents. Chicago reports that there was no change in the bill market in its district except possibly an increase in the supply of new bills. The demand continued quiet. Dallas reports that its bill market was very dull during the past week with very little demand and practically no offerings to the reserve bank.

SYSTEM SPECIAL INVESTMENT ACCOUNT - GOVERNMENT SECURITIES

During the current statement week a sale was made from the holdings in the System Account to the Treasury, account Sinking Fund of $12,350,000 - 3 1/2% Treasury notes called for payment March 15, 1931

In this connection the Treasury purchased $20,000,000 called notes for account of the Sinking Fund, $7,650,000 of which was acquired by direct purchase in the market, and the balance of $12,350,000 was supplied from holdings in the System Account. This sale from the System Account was replaced by purchase in the market of a like amount of short-term Treasury certificates and bills.

These transactions did not affect the total amount of holdings in the System Account which remained at the close of business Wednesday, September 24, 1930, at $402,300,000. The participation by Federal reserve banks and the classification of issues held at the close of the statement week were as follows:

COMMENT ON CHANGES WEEK ENDED SEPTEMBER 17, 1930

Total earning assets of the System (exclusive of the $45,000,000 special one-day Treasury certificate of indebtedness issued by the Treasury to cover the overdraft) showed a decrease of $40,705,000 for the current statement week. The changes by classification consisted of an increase of $25,696,000 in outright purchases of bankers acceptances, and decreases of $36,900,000 (exclusive of Treasury overdraft) and $20,046,000 respectively in outright purchases of government securities and bills discounted, and $9,705,000 net in investments held under sales contracts. The change in the latter item consisted of an increase of $250,000 in government securities and a decrease of $9,955,000 in bankers acceptances.

Money
Market

Only a slight easing in call money accompanied the Treasury financing operations during the past week. The renewal rate for call loans which had been 2 1/2 per cent for some days continued at that level until Wednesday, the 17th, when following declines in the new loan charge on Monday and Tuesday, a 2 per cent renewal rate was established. Subsequently the Exchange rate remained at that level. In the outside market funds were loaned during much of the period at as low as 1 1/2 per cent, and on Thursday a 1 1/4 per cent rate was quoted on some money.

At the opening of business on Thursday, the 11th, bank reserves were substantially in excess of requirements, but during this and the succeeding two days currency withdrawals and substantial sales of securities from Reserve Bank holdings (in connection with the Treasury financing period turnover) absorbed this surplus; in fact, a small deficit in reserves developed on Saturday, and consequently carried over until the opening of business on the 15th. On September 15, Treasury redemptions of certificates of indebtedness, and interest and other Treasury payments affecting the money market exceeded income tax collections by over $190,000,000, in addition to which the interdistrict flow of funds was considerably in favor of this market. Consequently in order to absorb part of the surplus of funds arising from the day's operations, it was propitious to sell to New York City banks participations for $170,500,000 in the special one-day Treasury certificate of indebtedness to cover the $274,000,000 Treasury overdraft. All but $1,000,000 of the total Treasury overdraft with the Reserve System was concentrated at New York.

On Tuesday, the 16th, the banks' reserves were only moderately above requirements, reflecting in part a marked increase in the requirement figures. Income tax collections on that day took $85,000,000 more out of this market, and the interdistrict flow of funds turned outward due to heavy tax collections outside of New York. In addition, losses occurred through Reserve Bank bill and security operations. Accompanying these losses and a decrease of the Treasury overdraft to $122,000,000, $102,500,000 of participations in the special Treasury certificate were retired, leaving the New York City banks still participating in the overdraft to the extent of $68,000,000.

As a result of Tuesday's operations and despite a decline in reserve requirements from the September 15 peak, no great excess of bank reserves existed at the opening of business on Wednesday, and with further income tax collections and a continued substantial outflow to other centers taking funds from the market, the remaining $68,000,000 of member bank participation in the Treasury special certificate was retired and $50,500,000 of replacement security purchases, which had been deferred until money market conditions warranted, were made for the New York Bank's own investment account. The net effect of these transactions was to place the banks in a favorable reserve position for the first day of the reserve period so that further income tax collections and outgoing transfers could be met without undue strain. On this day the Treasury overdraft was reduced to $45,000,000, and on the following day, (Thursday, the 18th) was practically eliminated with some Treasury funds going back into the market through security purchases. The effect of continued tax collections in New York and outgoing transfers was counterbalanced by the completion of the replacement security purchases on Thursday and Friday.

Time money was dull and unchanged during the week. Two, three, four and six months' loans were arranged in small amounts at 2 1/4, 2 3/4, 3 and 3 1/4 per cent, respectively.

Continued inability of dealers to secure adequate supplies of new paper restricted the activity of the commercial paper market. Bank investment demand at the same time continued good. Prime names were quoted at 3 per cent, and less well known material at 3 1/4 and 3 1/2 per cent, unchanged from a week ago.

Government
Security
Market

The market for United States Government securities during the current statement week was strong and active. Dealers reported that a large volume of exchanges were effected in the market of the 3 1/2% Series "A" and "B" Treasury notes called for payment on March 15, 1931 for other issues of government securities principally for the long-term bonds which were in very good demand. The average selling price of the long-term bonds at the close of the statement week was 104.70 as compared with 104.48 last week and the high for the year of 104.77.

Bankers
Acceptances

Dealers' offerings of unindorsed bankers acceptances continued at the following rates during the current statement week; 1 7/8 per cent for 30s, 60s and 90s, 2 per cent for 120s and 2 1/4 per cent for 180-day bills.

Reports
week
ending
Sept. 17

Boston reports that the bill market in its district continued to remain in a sluggish condition. Few new bills made their appearance and the supply again fell off. There was practically no demand for bills and dealers were obliged to forward most of their bills to their offices in other cities, most of them continuing to go to New York for foreign accounts. In New York the bill market was quiet throughout the week. Dealers' purchases declined moderately as compared with last week. Sales were slightly in excess of purchases and dealers' aggregate portfolios were reduced by about $4,500,000. Philadelphia reports that its acceptance market was less active. The supply of new bills was smaller with the demand extremely light. Chicago reports that the bill market in its district was very dull with both the demand and supply very light. Dallas reports that its bill market was very dull during the past week with very little demand and practically no offerings to the reserve bank.

SYSTEM SPECIAL INVESTMENT ACCOUNT - GOVERNMENT SECURITIES

Transactions effected in the System Account during the current statement week were related primarily to the tax period and consisted of

Redemption on

September 15	$27,215,000	maturing 3 1/8% Treasury certificates
	1,855,000	" Treasury Bills

Total Redemptions - $29,070,000 which were replaced by purchase of a like par amount of various issues of short-term government securities

Exchange on

September 15 of $5,130,000 maturing Treasury Bills against allotment by the Treasury of a like amount of the new Treasury 2 3/8% certificates on subscription entered for $34,200,000.

Exchange in

the market of	$ 5,000,000	- 2 7/8% certificates due June 15, 1931
	5,000,000	- 3 1/4% " " Dec. 15, 1930
	13,000,000	- 4 1/4% Fourth Liberty Loan bonds

$23,000,000 for a like amount of various issues of short-term government securities.

The active market for United States Government securities during the past week afforded an opportunity of exchanging almost all the holdings of Fourth 4 1/4s in the System Account and in the Investment Account of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York for shorter maturities. There was also the opportunity to exchange advantageously in the market the $10,000,000 aggregate amount of Treasury certificates due next December 15 and June 15, referred to above, for other short-term issues.

In order to steady the conditions in the money market over the Treasury financing period, purchases were made for the System Account (in replacement of the redemption of the September 15 maturities and a large portion of the other securities exchanged) from the holdings in the Investment Account of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York and delivery of the purchases made in the market in replacement of these and other sales and maturities from the holdings in the latter account were deferred until September 17, 18 and 19 in order to provide a partial offset to the easing effect of Treasury tax day operations. The aggregate amount of such deferred deliveries for the Investment Account of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York was $87,500,000. In addition participations in the Treasury $274,000,000 special one-day certificate issued to the Federal Reserve Bank of New York were sold to New York City banks to an amount of $170,000,000 on September 15 and $68,000,000 on September 16; as a consequence the market was relatively undisturbed by tax day operations.

The aforementioned transactions in the System Account did not affect the amount of total holdings in the Account which remained at the close of business Wednesday, September 17, 1930, at $402,300,000. The participation by Federal reserve banks and the classification of issues at the close of the statement week were as follows:

Money
Market

At the opening of business on Thursday, September 4, the reserve balances of the large New York City banks were impaired to the extent of $6,000,000, but in the subsequent days funds have been placed at the disposal of the New York money market through a net inflow from other parts of the country, a retirement of currency from circulation, and a substantial increase in Reserve Bank bill holdings. In addition, there has been a decline in member bank reserve requirements. These developments have been sufficient not only to permit a reduction of New York City bank indebtedness to the low level prevailing during the latter part of August, but as well to convert bank reserves from the position of small deficit at the opening of the period to one of substantial surplus at the close of Wednesday, September 10.

Notwithstanding this accumulation of surplus bank reserves, call money has held at 2 1/2 per cent on the Exchange since the afternoon of Wednesday, September 3, and the only directions in which easier money has been evident have been in the outside market, where funds have been available at 2 per cent throughout most of the period, and in the market for Federal funds where the quotation has declined to 1 - 1 1/4 per cent from the 2 - 2 1/4 per cent rate in effect at the close of the previous period.

Time money bid and asked quotations continued at the level in effect at the close of the previous week. Trading activity was reported to have been of small proportions, with loans for 90 days made at 2 3/4 per cent, and loans for 4 and 6 months, which carry beyond the year-end, made at 3 and 3 1/4 per cent respectively.

No significant change has occurred in the market for commercial paper. A large potential demand exists for prime names, but sales have been small due principally to the inability of dealers to acquire sufficient supplies. The rate for prime material continues to be 3 per cent, with names not so well known quoted at 3 1/4 and 3 1/2 per cent.

Government
Security
Market

The market for United States Government securities, which had been dull and inactive for the past few weeks, continued to show no improvement for the greater part of the current statement week. However, following the Secretary of the Treasury's announcement of the new issue of one year 2 3/8 per cent certificates of indebtedness and the calling for payment on March 15, 1931, of the Series A and B - 3 1/2 per cent Treasury notes, there was more interest shown in the demand for government securities which, on the last day of the statement week developed into a strong market, especially for the Fourth 4 1/4s which were traded in large volume. While prices declined fractionally in the early part of the week, there was an upturn later in the week for all issues with the exception of the called Treasury notes and the closing prices for the week showed small fractional gains in most instances.

Bankers
Acceptances

Dealers' offerings of bankers acceptances continued at the following rates during the current statement week: 1 7/8 per cent for 30s, 60s and 90s; 2 per cent for 120s and 2 1/4 per cent for 180-day bills.

Reports
week
ending
Sept. 10

Boston reports that while there was no material change in the local bill market conditions in its district, there was a slight increase in the supply of new bills during the past period. Although bills sold by dealers showed a good increase, most of the bills were sold for foreign account, local banks being poor buyers. Dealers continued to forward most of their 90-day bills to New York, making it necessary to import bills to fill orders for short maturities. In New York the bill market was slightly more active this week. Dealers' purchases and sales were both moderately larger than last week but their purchases exceeded sales slightly. Call money was slightly firmer during the week and the Reserve Bank purchased fairly substantial amounts of bills from banks for System Account, but offerings from dealers were very light. Philadelphia reports its acceptance market somewhat better. More new bills were made in its district than for some time, dealers reporting portfolios slightly higher. The demand continued light. Chicago reports that its bill market continued very dull with no excess supply and very little demand. Dallas reports that there was practically no change in its bill market during the past week, as compared with the previous week. There was no demand for bills and no offerings to the Reserve Bank.
