DISPOSITION OF PERSONAL INCOME

Disposable personal income (seasonally adjusted) increased in the second quarter of 1961, following a decline in the first quarter. Since the rate of increase was more than in consumption expenditures, the saving rate rose.

[1] Excludes agriculture.
[2] Commercial and other includes trade, service, finance, communications, and construction.
[3] Estimates based on anticipated capital expenditures as reported by business in late April and May 1961. Includes adjustments when necessary for systematic tendencies in anticipatory data.

NOTE.—Beginning 1959 all quarterly data are rounded to nearest $50 million. Annual total is the sum of unadjusted expenditures; it does not necessarily coincide with the average of seasonally adjusted figures.

These figures do not agree with the totals included in the gross national product estimates of the Department of Commerce, principally because the latter cover agricultural investment and also certain equipment and construction outlays charged to current expense.

[1] Includes all full- and part-time wage and salary workers in nonagricultural establishments who worked during or received pay for any part of the pay period ending nearest the 15th of the month. Excludes proprietors, self-employed persons, domestic servants, and personnel of the armed forces. Total derived from this table not comparable with estimates of nonagricultural employment of the civilian labor force, shown on p. 9, which include proprietors, self-employed persons, and domestic servants; which count persons as employed when they are not at work because of industrial disputes; and which are based on an enumeration of population, whereas the estimates in this table are based on reports from employing establishments.

[2] Includes mining; transportation and public utilities; finance, insurance, and real estate; and service and miscellaneous, not shown separately.

U.S. BALANCE OF PAYMENTS

Despite a sharp drop in exports and a slight rise in imports, net international payments in the second quarter fell by a further $2.0 billion (seasonally adjusted annual rate) and the United States ran an over-all balance of payments surplus for the first time since 1957. However, special debt repayments on U.S. Government loans more than accounted for the improvement.

PRICES

CONSUMER PRICES

The consumer price index rose 0.2 percent in June, reaching a new high. The rise was due to price increases for transportation items and housing together with a seasonal rise in food prices.

WHOLESALE PRICES

Wholesale prices increased 0.3 percent in July, following four months of decline. A rise in the prices for farm products and foods, partly seasonal, accounted for the change.
