Program support.—These programs provide for overall NOAA management, NOAA's share of the Regional Administrative Support Centers, and the operational and logistics support of ships, marine centers, and aircraft to support NOAA missions. An increase is proposed for the Systems Program Office to provide program management for the design, procurement, and acceptance of new systems and programs within NOAA; and an increase for Aircraft Critical Safety and Instrumentation and maintenance to ensure safety and operational readiness of NOAA aircraft.

This fund is financed through collections from foreign vessel owners who fish within the U.S. Exclusive Economic Zone. Collections to the fund are used by the Secretary of Commerce to pay the salaries of observers and program support personnel and the costs of data management and analysis of the observer program. The observers collect scientific information on the foreign catch and monitor compliance with the provisions of the Magnuson Fishery Conservation and Management Act (MFCMA) of 1976 as amended.

This fund was established by the Coastal Zone Act Reauthorization Amendments of 1990 (CZARA). The fund consists of loan repayments from the former Coastal Energy Impact Program. The proceeds are first used to cover CZM program administration expenses formerly paid from the Operations, Research, and Facilities account. Any receipts remaining will be used for grants and demonstration projects as authorized by Section 308 of the Coastal Zone Management Act.

Prior to the enactment of the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1990 on November 5, 1990, a portion of Office operating costs were recovered through user fee revenues. This Act directed a significant increase in user fees to the point where the Office is nearly fully fee funded in 1991 and 1992. PTO will be fully fee funded in 1993. The Office's 1992 authorization act directed an increase in fee revenues effective in December 1991. Legislation to authorize PTO programs for 1993 will be proposed.

Fee collections were $344.3 million in 1991 and are estimated to be $426.0 million in 1992 and $486.0 million in 1993.

The 1991 unobligated balance brought forward is $12.6 million, of which $9.5 million is reserved for trademark programs. Remaining funds will be utilized in 1992 for procurement actions delayed from 1991 and for program requirements resulting from higher workloads.

An Information Technology Plan provides for the automation of the majority of the functions and operations of the Office in the 1990's. The 1993 funds provide for the continued implementation of the Automated Patent and the Automated Trademark Systems. Automation resources are distributed among the four activities of the Office.

Patent process.—Applications are examined to determine inventor entitlements to a patent for the claimed invention. Patent application examination also includes quasi-judicial review in appeal and interference proceedings, and the publication of issued patents.

The 1993 increases support programs 1) to maintain reduced patent application pendency time while maintaining the quality of issuing patents, and 2) to manage increasing workloads especially in emerging technologies.

Key patent application workload and performance data are:

Trademark process.—This activity provides for the examination of applications to determine whether the statutory criteria for the Federal registration of the trademark or service mark have been met. When the criteria are met, a registration is printed and issued to the applicant. Examination also includes inter partes proceedings involving oppositions, cancellations, and interferences. The 1993 funding allows for reduced pendencies in trademark examination and anticipates a continued increase in the receipt of applications. There is also an increase for office automation capabilities and program management.

Applications in Office (start of year)	99,337	141,951	170,236	204,574

Information dissemination.—Materials and services which assist in the examination of patent and trademark applications and in the transfer of technological information are provided in this activity. Specific materials and services include art documents; maintenance of a scientific library and public search rooms; preparation of copies of patents, trademark registrations, and official documents; assignment of patents and trademark rights; and administration of printing.

The 1993 increases provide funds for the processing of increased volumes of work; to expand user access to products and services; to maintain paper search files; to enhance classification services; and to expand the availability of search tools to patent examiners.

Executive direction and administration.—Management and administration of the Office functions are supported in this activity. Funds in 1993 will provide for the executive leadership of the Office; for the provision of legal services, including litigation and the registration of patent attorneys and agents; for the development and implementation of intellectual property policies and proposals in the U.S. and abroad; for the provision of administrative, personnel, financial, and planning services throughout the Office; for the implementation of the Office's Information Technology Plan; and for the acquisition and management of leased space.

The Technology Administration coordinates the Department's technology activities with the goal of enhancing U.S. competitiveness.

The offices of the Under Secretary for Technology and the Assistant Secretary for Technology Policy provide executive direction, policy guidance, and management oversight for the Technology Administration, the National Institute of Standards and Technology, and the National Technical Information Service. Policy guidance and executive direction are provided for the following activities: identifying means of eliminating barriers to technology commercialization and promoting technology transfer; monitoring and reporting on commercialization of federally funded technology; reviewing international science and technology agreements; monitoring and disseminating foreign science and technology information, particularly through the Japanese Technical Literature Program; managing the Clearinghouse on State and Local Competitiveness Initiatives, an important technology information dissemination program; President's National Medal of Technology, Award Program; and performing other, relevant policy-related technology assessments and supporting special projects. Through the National Institute of Standards and Technology the Under Secretary administers the Malcom Baldridge Quality Award Program and programs to facilitate national voluntary conversion to the metric system. In addition, the Under Secretary participates extensively on interagency commissions, such as the FCCSET and the Industrial Technology Advisory Board, which address technology issues to enhance U.S. industry competitiveness in the international arena.

The National Institute of Standards and Technology (NIST) is responsible for the measurement foundation which supports U.S. industry, government, and scientific establishments. NIST's intramural research program is funded by the Scientific and technical research and services appropriation. Fiscal year 1993 program changes will enhance U.S. competitiveness in a wide variety of areas, including electronics, information technology, advanced materials and processing, and international standards activities. NIST efforts encompass the following areas:

Measurement and engineering research and services.—

Electronics and electrical engineering.—This includes research efforts to support the fundamental electronic technologies of semiconductors, magnetics, and superconductors; communications technologies, such as fiber optics and microwaves; electrical power systems; and electronic measurement instrumentation.

Manufacturing engineering.—This encompasses research in high precision dimensional measurement and precision engineering; robotics and intelligent machines; manufacturing data description, data administration, and information processing; and advanced sensors for manufacturing processes.

Chemical science and technology.—This covers fundamental investigations of measurement-based phenomena related to the composition and behavior of chemical and biochemical systems. This research includes developing and improving measurement capability and quantitative understanding of the underlying physical principles of measurement science.

Physics.—This includes investigation of the structure and dynamics of atoms and molecules and establishment of measurement methods and standards for infra-red, visible, ultra-violet, x-ray, gamma-ray, electron, and neutron radiation.

Materials science and engineering.—This covers research in materials characterization, nondestructive evaluation, metallurgy, polymers, and ceramics and addresses the measurement and standards issues crucial to exploiting the potential technological advantages of advanced materials.

Building and fire research.—This includes research and development of technologies to predict, measure, and test the performance of construction materials, components, systems, and practices, and to investigate the scientific principles that govern the phenomena of fire and the fire properties of materials.

Computer systems.—This covers support for the development of national and international voluntary standards and conformance tests for computers and telecommunication systems, as well as research and technical support to Federal agencies and industry in the effective use of computers and related systems.

Applied mathematics and scientific computing.—Efforts in this area ensure that the best and most appropriate techniques in mathematical modeling, statistics, numerical analysis, and scientific computing are made available to and used by NIST.

Technology assistance.—This area provides a central source of information and leadership for U.S. industry regarding national and international standardization activities and offers industry central access to Standard Reference Materials, Standard Reference Data, and calibration services.

Research support activities.—This area groups centrally managed activities which provide support to all other NIST programs. This support includes competence development in NIST mission-oriented areas of research, high caliber postdoctoral scientists and engineers, and computing support for research programs.

This appropriation will support three activities in FY 1993. Matching grants will be provided to universities and nonprofit organizations for use as seed money to support Manufacturing Technology Centers which facilitate the transfer of new and innovative manufacturing technology to small and medium size businesses. The Advanced Technology Program provides matching grants to industry-led efforts to support development of generic precompetitive technologies. The State Technology Extension Program works with existing Federal, State and local government organizations to develop a network of technology assistance programs.

This appropriation provides for safety modifications, construction, and improvements to the facilities of the National Institute of Standards and Technology. The FY 1993 budget includes increases for safety and obsolescence and for design work to replace outdated facilities and renovate existing facilities. This capital improvement program is needed to address the technological obsolescence of the NIST facilities.

The National Telecommunications and Information Administration (NTIA) is the principal executive branch adviser to the President on domestic and international communications policy. Additionally, it manages the Federal Government's use of the radio frequency spectrum and performs extensive research in telecommunications sciences.

Domestic and international policies.—

Domestic policies.—In 1993, NTIA will continue to develop and advocate policies to decrease regulation and increase competition in the domestic telecommunications marketplace. NTIA will place special emphasis on emerging technologies, including advanced video and radio applications, and will develop and advocate policies in the common carrier and mass media fields to offer increased consumer choices. Particularly, NTIA will conduct policy and technical research which will assist the Federal Communications Commission in developing effective regulations and standards.

International policies.—In 1993, NTIA will continue to develop and advocate policies for the advancement of U.S. interests in the international telecommunications regulatory and policy areas. NTIA will place emphasis on promoting U.S. Government positions at international radio conferences, aiding in the enhancement of telecommunications infrastructures in developing countries; and furthering U.S. objectives to liberalize telecommunication regulations and laws worldwide. In coordination with the Department of State, the agency will continue to discharge the Presidential responsibility for oversight of the Communications Satellite Corporation (COMSAT) in its role as the U.S. Signatory to INTELSAT.

Spectrum management.—

Spectrum plans and policies.—In 1993, NTIA will continue to prepare for, participate in, and implement the results of international, regional, and national conferences addressing spectrum allocation and utilization. In addition, NTIA will formulate, in coordination with the FCC, long range plans and policies for efficient use of the spectrum and continue its efforts in the identification and analysis of spectrum available for new communication requirements and emergency communications systems.

Spectrum management, analysis and operations.—In 1993, NTIA will continue to authorize frequency assignments, review and certify spectrum for proposed Federal radio communications systems, conduct frequency band studies and compliance activities and operate the necessary automated data facilities to support the above. In addition, NTIA will improve its spectrum certification and assignment and band selection processes to achieve more efficient use of the spectrum by the Federal government agencies.

Telecommunication sciences research.—

Spectrum research and analysis.—In 1993, NTIA will continue to conduct applied research and analysis as a basis for developing spectrum use concepts and models that lead to more efficient use of the radio spectrum, and electromagnetic wave and propagation models that lead to improvement in radio systems performance. In addition, NTIA will undertake selected telecommunication studies to promote the development of advanced personal communication services in the U.S.

Systems and networks research and analysis.—In 1993, NTIA will assess and develop domestic and international technical performance standards to facilitate competition in telecommunications products and services. In addition, NTIA will undertake a focused program to advance U.S. interests in broadband network technologies. Also, analytical methods and automated models will be employed to assist in the development of credible and defensible positions before international conferences and committees.

NTIA is administering the National Endowment for Children's Educational Television (NECET), a grant program established by Title II of the Children's Television Act of 1990. The NECET is to encourage the development of "fundamental intellectual skills" in children through the creation and production of quality children's television programming. Administration of the NECET is to be overseen by a ten-member Advisory Council on Children's Educational Television, to be appointed by the Secretary.

The public telecommunications facilities program has provided grants for planning and construction of noncommercial telecommunications facilities in areas not previously served by public television and radio. Since over 95 percent of the United States currently receives public broadcast programming, funding for this grant program is not requested in 1993.

GENERAL PROVISIONS—DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE

The following sections are proposed for deletion and do not appear below:

Sec. 205 ..... Establishes conditions for participation of foreign companies in the Department's Advanced Technology program.

Sec. 605 ..... Provides for absorption of fiscal year 1992 pay raises for programs funded by this Act within the levels appropriated by this Act.

Sec. 608 ..... Prohibition on use of funds to reinstate or approve any export license applications for the launch of United States-built satellites on Chinese-built launch vehicles.

Sec. 609 ..... Amendments to the Small Business Act (15 U.S.C. 634 and 636), the Small Business Administration Reauthorization and Amendments Act of 1990 (Public Law 101–574), and the Small Business Computer Security and Education Act of 1984 (15 U.S.C. 633 Note).

Sec. 610 ..... Requirement that the Attorney General shall prescribe regulations to carry out sections of the Immigration and Nationality Act.

Sec. 611 ..... Permits procurement of the services of expert witnesses without regard to competitive procurement procedures.

SEC. 201. During the current fiscal year, applicable appropriations and funds made available to the Department of Commerce by this Act shall be available for the activities specified in the Act of October 26, 1949 (15 U.S.C. 1514), to the extent and in the manner prescribed by said Act, and, notwithstanding 31 U.S.C. 3324, may be used for advanced payments not otherwise authorized only upon the certification of officials designated by the Secretary that such payments are in the public interest.

SEC. 202. During the current fiscal year, appropriations made available to the Department of Commerce by this Act for salaries and expenses shall be available for hire of passenger motor vehicles as authorized by 31 U.S.C. 1343 and 1344; services as authorized by 5 U.S.C. 3109; and uniforms or allowances therefor, as authorized by law (5 U.S.C. 5901–5902).

SEC. 203. None of the funds made available by this Act may be used to support the hurricane reconnaissance aircraft and activities that are under the control of the United States Air Force or the United States Air Force Reserve.

SEC. 204. None of the funds provided in this or any previous Act, or hereinafter made available to the Department of Commerce shall be available to reimburse the Unemployment Trust Fund or any other fund or account of the Treasury to pay for any expenses paid before Oct. 1, 1992 as authorized by section 8501 of title 5, United States Code, for services performed after April 20, 1990, by individuals appointed to temporary positions within the Bureau of the Census for purposes relating to the 1990 decennial census of population.

SEC. 205. Not to exceed 3 percent of any appropriation made available for the current fiscal year by this Act may be transferred between such appropriations, but no such appropriation, except as otherwise specifically provided, shall be increased or decreased by more than 3 percent by any such transfers. (Department of Commerce Appropriations Act, 1992.)

TITLE VI—GENERAL PROVISIONS

SEC. 601. No part of any appropriation contained in this Act shall be used for publicity or propaganda purposes not authorized by the Congress.

SEC. 602. No part of any appropriation contained in this Act shall remain available for obligation beyond the current fiscal year unless expressly so provided herein.

SEC. 603. The expenditure of any appropriation under this Act for any consulting service through procurement contract, pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 3109, shall be limited to those contracts where such expenditures are a matter of public record and available for public inspection, except where otherwise provided under existing law, or under existing Executive order issued pursuant to existing law.

SEC. 604. If any provision of this Act or the application of such provision to any person or circumstances shall be held invalid, the remainder of the Act and the application of each provision to persons or circumstances other than those as to which it is held invalid shall not be affected thereby.

SEC. [606] 605. (a) None of the funds provided under this Act or provided from any accounts in the Treasury of the United States derived by the collection of fees available to the agencies funded by this Act shall be available for obligation or expenditure through a reprogramming of funds which: (1) creates new programs; (2) eliminates a program, project, or activity; (3) increases funds or personnel by any means for any project or activity for which funds have been denied or restricted; (4) relocates an office or employees; (5) reorganizes offices, programs, or activities; or (6) contracts out or privatizes any functions or activities presently performed by Federal employees; unless the Appropriations Committees of both Houses of Congress are notified fifteen days in advance of such reprogramming of funds.

(b) None of the funds provided under this Act or provided from any accounts in the Treasury of the United States derived by the collection of fees available to the agencies funded by this Act shall be available for obligation or expenditure for activities, programs, or projects through a reprogramming of funds in excess of $500,000 or 10 per centum, whichever is less, that: (1) augments existing programs, projects, or activities; (2) reduces by 10 per centum funding for any existing program, project, or activity, or numbers of personnel by 10 per centum as approved by Congress; or (3) results from any general savings from a reduction in personnel which would result in a change in existing programs, activities, or projects as approved by Congress, unless the Appropriations Committees of both Houses of Congress are notified fifteen days in advance of such reprogramming of funds.

SEC. [607] 606. Funds appropriated to the Legal Services Corporation and distributed to each grantee funded in fiscal year [1992] 1993 pursuant to the number of poor people determined by the Bureau of the Census to be within its geographical area shall be distributed in the following order:

(1) grants from the Legal Services Corporation and contracts entered into with the Legal Services Corporation under section 1006(a)(1) shall be maintained in fiscal year [1992] 1993 at not less than $9.76 per poor person within the geographical area of each grantee or contractor under the 1980 census or 8 cents per poor person more than the annual per-poor-person level at which funding was appropriated for each grantee and contractor in Public Law 101–515, whichever is greater; and

(2) each such grantee shall be increased by an equal percentage of the amount by which such grantee's funding, including the increase under (1) above, falls below $18.39 per poor person within its geographical area under the 1980 census:

Provided, That none of the funds appropriated in this Act for the Legal Services Corporation shall be used to bring a class action suit against the Federal Government or any State or local government unless—

(1) the project director of a recipient has expressly approved the filing of such an action in accordance with policies established by the governing body of such recipient;

(2) the class relief which is the subject of such an action is sought for the primary benefit of individuals who are eligible for legal assistance; and

(3) that prior to filing such an action, the recipient project director has determined that the government entity is not likely to change the policy or practice in question, that the policy or practice will continue to adversely affect eligible clients, that the recipient has given notice of its intention to seek class relief and that responsible efforts to resolve without litigation the adverse effects of the policy or practice have not been successful or would be adverse to the interest of the clients:

except that this proviso may be superseded by regulations governing the bringing of class action suits promulgated by a majority of the Board of Directors of the Corporation: Provided further, That none of the funds appropriated in this Act made available by the Legal Services Corporation may be used—

(1) to pay for any publicity or propaganda intended or designed to support or defeat legislation pending before Congress or State or local legislative bodies or intended or designed to influence any decision by a Federal, State, or local agency;

(2) to pay for any personal service, advertisement, telegram, telephone communication, letter, printed or written matter, or other device intended or designed to influence any decision by a Federal, State, or local agency, except when legal assistance is provided by an employee of a recipient to an eligible client on a particular application, claim, or case, which directly involves the client's legal rights or responsibilities;

(3) to pay for any personal service, advertisement, telegram, telephone communication, letter, printed or written matter, or any other device intended or designed to influence any Member of Congress or any other Federal, State, or local elected official—

(A) to favor or oppose any referendum, initiative, constitutional amendment, or any similar procedure of the Congress, any State legislature, any local council or any similar governing body acting in a legislative capacity,

(B) to favor or oppose an authorization or appropriation directly affecting the authority, function, or funding of the recipient or the Corporation, or

(C) to influence the conduct of oversight proceedings of the recipient or the Corporation;

(4) to pay for any personal service, advertisement, telegram, telephone communication, letter, printed or written matter, or any other device intended or designed to influence any Member of Congress or any other Federal, State, or local elected official to favor or oppose any Act, bill, resolution, or similar legislation, except that this proviso shall not preclude funds from being used to provide communication directly to a Federal, State, or local elected official on a specific and distinct matter where the purpose of such communication is to bring the matter to the official's attention if—

(A) the project director of a recipient has expressly approved in writing the undertaking of such communication to be made on behalf of a client or class of clients in accordance with policy established by the governing body of the recipient; and

(B) the project director of a recipient has determined prior to the undertaking of such communication, that—

(i) the client and each client is in need of relief which can be provided by the legislative body involved;

(ii) appropriate judicial and administrative relief have been exhausted; and

(iii) documentation has been secured from each eligible client that includes a statement of the specific legal interests of the client, except that such communication may not be the result of participation in a coordinated effort to provide such communications under this proviso; and

(C) the project director of a recipient maintains documentation of the expenses and time spent under this proviso as part of the records of the recipient; or

(D) the project director of a recipient has approved the submission of a communication to a legislator requesting introduction of a private relief bill:

except that nothing in this proviso shall prohibit communications made in response to a request from a Federal, State, or local official: Provided further, That none of the funds appropriated in this Act made available by the Legal Services Corporation may be used to pay for any administrative or related costs associated with an activity prohibited in clause (1), (2), (3), or (4) of the previous proviso: Provided further, That none of the funds appropriated under this Act for the Legal Services Corporation will be expended to provide legal assistance for or on behalf of any alien unless the alien is present in the United States and is—

(1) an alien lawfully admitted for permanent residence as defined in section 101(a)(20) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (8 U.S.C. 1101(a)(20));

(2) an alien who is either married to a United States citizen or is a parent or an unmarried child under the age of twenty-one years of such a citizen and who has filed an application for adjustment of status to permanent resident under the Immigration and Nationality Act, and such application has not been rejected;

(3) an alien who is lawfully present in the United States pursuant to an admission under section 207 of the Immigration and Nationaly Act (8 U.S.C. 1157, relating to refugee admissions) or who has been granted asylum by the Attorney General under such Act; or

(4) an alien who is lawfully present in the United States as a result of the Attorney General's withholding of deportation pursuant to section 243(h) of the Immigration and Nationaly Act (8 U.S.C. 1253(h)):

Provided further, That an alien who is lawfully present in the United States as a result of being granted conditional entry pursuant to section 203(a)(7) of the Immigration and Nationaly Act (8 U.S.C. 1153(a)(7)) before April 1, 1980, because of persecution or fear of persecution on account of race, religion, or political opinion or because of being uprooted by catastrophic natural calamity shall be deemed, for purposes of the previous proviso, to be an alien described in clause (3) of the previous proviso: Provided further, That none of the funds appropriated for the Legal Services Corporation may be used to support or conduct training programs for the purpose of advocating particular public policies or encouraging political activities, labor or antilabor activities, boycotts, picketing, strikes, and demonstrations, including the dissemination of information about such policies or activities, except that this provision shall not be construed to prohibit the training of attorneys or paralegal personnel necessary to prepare them to provide adequate legal assistance to eligible clients or to advise any eligible client as to the nature of the legislative process or inform any eligible client of his rights under statute, order, or regulation: Provided further, That none of the funds appropriated in this Act for the Legal Services Corporation may be used to carry out the procedures established pursuant to section 1011(2) of the Legal Services Corporation Act unless the Corporation prescribes procedures to insure that financial assistance under this Act shall not be terminated, and a suspension of financial assistance shall not be continued for more than thirty days, unless the grantee, contractor, or person or entity receiving financial assistance under this Act has been afforded reasonable notice and opportunity for a timely, full, and fair hearing and, when requested, such hearing shall be conducted by an independent hearing examiner, subject to the following conditions—

(1) such request for a hearing shall be made to the Corporation within thirty days after receipt of notice to terminate financial assistance, deny an application for refunding, or suspend financial assistance and such hearing shall be conducted within thirty days of receipt of such request for a hearing;

(2) the Corporation shall make such final decision within thirty days after completion of such hearing; and

(3) hearing examiners shall be appointed by the Corporation in accordance with procedures established in regulations promulgated by the Corporation:

Provided further, That none of the funds appropriated in this Act for the Legal Services Corporation may be used to carry out the procedures established pursuant to section 1011(2) of the Legal Services Corporation Act unless the Corporation prescribes procedures to ensure that an application for refunding shall not be denied unless the grantee, contractor, or person or entity receiving assistance under this Act has been afforded reasonable notice and opportunity for a timely, full, and fair hearing to show cause why such action should not be taken and subject to all other conditions of the previous proviso: Provided further, That none of the funds appropriated in this Act for the Legal Services Corporation shall be used by the Corporation in making grants or entering into contracts for legal assistance unless the Corporation insures that the recipient is either (1) a private attorney or attorneys (for the sole purpose of furnishing legal assistance to eligible clients) or (2) a qualified nonprofit organization chartered under the laws of one of the States, a purpose of which is furnishing legal assistance to eligible clients, the majority of the board of directors or other governing body of which organization is comprised of attorneys who are admitted to practice in one of the States and who are appointed to terms of office on such board or body by the governing bodies of State, county, or municipal bar associations the membership of which represents a majority of the attorneys practicing law in the locality in which the organization is to provide legal assistance, or, with regard to national support centers, the locality where the organization maintains its principal headquarters: Provided further, That none of the funds appropriated in this Act for the Corporation shall be used, directly or indirectly, by the Corporation to promulgate new regulations or to enforce, implement, or operate in accordance with regulations effective after April 27, 1984, unless the Appropriations Committees of both Houses of Congress have been notified fifteen days prior to such use of funds: Provided further, That none of the funds appropriated to the Legal Services Corporation for fiscal years prior to fiscal year 1986 and carried over into fiscal year 1993, either by the Corporation itself or by any recipient of such funds, may be expended, unless such funds are expended in accordance with the preceding restrictions and provisos, except that such funds may be expended for the continued representation of aliens prohibited by said provisos where such representation commenced prior to January 1, 1983, or as approved by the Corporation: Provided further, That if a Presidential order pursuant to the Balanced Budget and Emergency Deficit Control Act of 1985, as amended, is issued for fiscal year 1993, funds provided to each grantee of the Legal Services Corporation shall be reduced by the percentage specified in the Presidential order: Provided further, That if funds become available to the Legal Services Corporation because a national support center has been defunded or denied refunding pursuant to section 1011(2) of the Legal Services Corporation Act, as amended by this Act, such funds may be transferred to basic field programs to be distributed in the manner specified by this Act: Provided further, That none of the funds appropriated by this Act or prior Acts or any other funds available to the Corporation or a recipient may be used by an officer, board member, employee or consultant of the Corporation or by any recipient to implement or enforce the 1984 and 1986 regulations on legislative and administrative advocacy (part 1612) or to implement, enforce or keep in effect provisions in the regulation regarding legislative and administrative advocacy and training (part 1612, 52 FR 28434 (July 29, 1987)) which impose restrictions on private funds except to the extent that such restrictions are explicitly set forth in sections 1007 (a)(5), (b)(6), (b)(7), and 1010(c) of the Legal Services Corporation Act, as amended: Provided further, That the Corporation shall not impose requirements on governing bodies of the recipients that are additional to, or more restrictive than, the provisions of this Act and section 1007(c) of the Legal Services Corporation Act, as amended, including, but not limited to (1) the procedures of appointment, including the political affiliation and the length of terms of board members, (2) the size, quorum requirements and committee operations of such governing bodies, and (3) any requirements on appointment of board members of national support centers that would preclude the bar associations in the States in which the center's principal offices are located from making all appointments required to be made by bar associations: Provided further, That none of the funds appropriated under this Act to the Legal Services Corporation may be used by the Corporation or any recipient to participate in any litigation with respect to abortion: Provided further, That the Corporation shall utilize the same formula for distribution of fiscal year 1993 migrant funds as was used in fiscal year 1992: Provided further, That the Corporation shall insure that all grants and contracts made for calendar year 1993 to all grantees receiving funds under sections 1006(a)(1)(A) and (3) of the Legal Services Corporation Act as of September 30, 1992, shall be made for a period of at least twelve months beginning on January 1, 1993, so as to insure that the total annual funding for each current grantee or contractor is no less than the amount provided pursuant to this Act: Provided further, That such grants or contracts shall not be subject to any amendments to regulations relating to fee-generating cases (45 CFR part 1609) or the use of private funds (45 CFR parts 1610 and 1611) not in operational effect on October 1, 1988: Provided further, That any changes in procedures in operational effect as of September 1, 1992 that would have the effect of imposing timekeeping requirements on recipients must be adopted as rules or regulations in accordance with section 1008(e) of the Legal Services Corporation Act and all of the requirements of this Act. [Provided, That none of the funds appropriated in this Act for the Legal Services Corporation shall be expended for any purpose prohibited or limited by or contrary to any of the provisions of Public Law 101–515, and that, except for the funding formula, all funds appropriated for the Legal Services Corporation shall be subject to the same terms and conditions set forth in Public Law 101–515; Provided further, That for the purposes of the previous proviso, all references to "1991" in Public Law 101–515 shall be deemed to be "1992".]

SEC. [608] *607. The Federal Communications Commission shall move current users of the radio spectrum in the 1 GHz through 4 GHz bands so that 45 megahertz are available for assignment via competitive bid procedures, provided that such displaced users shall be provided access to radio spectrum that shall be made available to the Commission by the Department of Commerce. The Federal Communications Commission shall commence the assignment of 20 megahertz through competitive bid procedure or procedures in 1995, with completion in FY 1997. Funds are requested to continue and initiate surveys, preconstruction engineering and design, data collection, interagency coordination and research activities to determine the need, engineering feasibility, economic justification, and the environmental and social suitability of solutions to water and related land resource problems.

Funds are requested for twenty-three new studies, three of which will address restoring fish and wildlife resources. Funds are also requested for a research program on the valuation of environmental investments; and a survey to determine the need for earthquake engineering research.

In the area of infrastructure, funds are proposed to continue participation with the Department of Transportation in the development of magnetically levitated rail transportation (MAGLEV). Proposed legislation would authorize the continuation of the conduct of research and development activities on magnetic levitation technology in fiscal year 1993 and beyond. Also, funds are requested to continue the construction productivity advancement research (CPAR) program.

Funds are requested for construction, rehabilitation and related activity for water resources development projects having navigation, flood control, water supply, hydroelectric, and other attendant benefits to the Nation.

Funding is included for new construction work as follows: six new projects with a total Federal cost of $68.3 million, and five new major rehabilitation projects with a total Federal cost of $73.2 million. New major rehabilitation projects, including three for inland and coastal waterways for which one-half of the funding will be derived from the Inland Waterways Trust Fund, have been moved from Operation and Maintenance, General to Construction, General.

Funding is included to serve the interests of the environment at three completed projects and one ongoing project to mitigate environmental losses caused by their construction. The budget also includes continued funding for juvenile fish mitigation in the Columbia River Basin including funding of passage facilities at six Corps of Engineers hydroelectric dams on the mainstem Columbia and Snake Rivers and funding to support Corps activities in response to the determination that the Snake River Sockeye Salmon is endangered. Funding is also proposed for environmental restoration at completed projects under the authority of section 1135 of the Water Resources Development Act of 1986, as amended. Under Public Law 101–512, the Department of the Interior's National Park Service will transfer funds to the Corps of Engineers for work it accomplishes under authority of the Everglades National Park Protection and Expansion Act.

Funding for Continuing Authorities Projects Not Requiring Specific Legislation is provided for all phases of this program which includes flood control (Section 205) projects, emergency streambank and shoreline protection (Section 14) projects, beach erosion control (Section 103) projects, mitigation of shore damages (Section 111) projects, navigation (Section 107) projects, and snagging and clearing (Section 208) projects.

Funds are requested for operation, maintenance, and related activities of the Corps of Engineers at the navigation, flood control and multiple purpose projects for which it is responsible. Work to be accomplished consists of dredging, repair, and operation of structures and other facilities, including recreation facilities, all as authorized in the various Rivers and Harbors and Flood Control Acts. Related activities include aquatic plant control, monitoring of completed coastal projects, wetlands research, dredging research, removal of sunken vessels, and the collection of domestic waterborne commerce statistics. This request also includes funds for National Emergency Preparedness as directed in Executive Order 11490.

Emphasis would be placed on the maintenance of existing structures and equipment through the major rehabilitation program. However, the new construction work recommended in Fiscal Year 1993 for the repair of hydropower structures and of structures on the inland waterway system would be funded under the Construction, General appropriation. Continuing major rehabilitation projects would remain in the Operation and Maintenance, General appropriation.

Five new initiatives would be undertaken: three to improve efficiency of operation and maintenance, and two to comply with legislative direction. Initiatives to improve efficiency are: (a) Coastal Inlet Research Program to reduce dredging costs and to minimize erosion on adjacent shorelines, (b) River Confluence Ice Research to reduce future maintenance costs on Corps structures such as locks and dams, river training structures and bank stabilization revetments, and (c) Water Control Research Program to apply technological advances to system-wide water control. The new initiatives resulting from recent legislation are: (a) Native American Graves Protection and Repatriation Act (NAGPRA) to inventory Native American and Hawaiian human remains and associated objects for public information as provided in the NAGPRA law, and (b) a Technical Advisory Committee for Reservoir Management to serve as advisor to the Secretary of the Army on research and application of water management methods, practices and policies at Corps reservoirs as provided in Section 310 of the Water Resources Development Act of 1990.

Under proposed legislation, payments of up to $5 million from the Harbor Maintenance Trust Fund would become available for administrative costs of the Corps, Treasury, and Commerce.

Proposed legislation would expand authority to collect recreation user fees and to encourage more non-Federal participation in the operation and enhancement of recreation areas by the establishment of a Challenge Cost Share Program. The increase in revenues, to become effective on April 1, 1992, would allow construction, operation and maintenance of recreation facilities consistent with public demand. Under the proposed Challenge Cost Share Program, the Secretary of the Army would be authorized to enter into cooperative arrangements with non-Federal public and private entities and to accept funds, materials and services at projects where recreation facilities and natural resources are being maintained with Federal funds.

Regulatory Program

For expenses necessary for administration of laws pertaining to regulation of navigable waters and wetlands, [$86,000,000] $92,565,000, to remain available until expended.

[None of the funds in this Act shall be used to identify or delineate any land as a "water of the United States" under the Federal Manual for Identifying and Delineating Jurisdictional Wetlands that was adopted in January 1989 (1989 Manual) or any subsequent manual not adopted in accordance with the requirements for notice and public comment of the rule-making process of the Administrative Procedure Act.

In addition, regarding Corps of Engineers ongoing enforcement actions and permit application involving lands which the Corps or EPA has delineated as waters of the United States under the 1989 Manual, and which have not yet been completed on the date of enactment of this Act, the landowner or permit applicant shall have the option to elect a new delineation under the Corps 1987 Wetland Delineation Manual, or completion of the permit process or enforcement action based on the 1989 Manual delineation, unless the Corps of Engineers determines, after investigation and consultation with other appropriate parties, including the landowner or permit applicant, that the delineation would be substantially the same under either the 1987 or the 1989 Manual.

None of the funds in this Act shall be used to finalize or implement the proposed regulations to amend the fee structure for the Corps of Engineers regulatory program which were published in the Federal Register, Vol. 55, No. 197, Thursday, October 11, 1990.] (Energy and Water Development Appropriations Act, 1992.)

This activity provides for flood emergency preparation, flood fighting and rescue operations, and repair of flood control and Federal hurricane or shore protection works. It also provides for emergency supplies of clean water where the source has been contaminated and, in drought distressed areas, adequate supplies of water for human and livestock consumption. In the event of a major flood or coastal emergency, additional funds may be requested.

Executive direction and management.—The Office, Chief of Engineers, and 11 division offices supervise work in 36 district offices. Provision of funds for reorganization is proposed to strengthen management and improve efficiency. The fiscal year 1993 Budget anticipates implementation of a reorganization plan to be developed during fiscal year 1992.

Board of Engineers for Rivers and Harbors.—The Board reviews reports on proposed projects and makes advisory recommendations to the Chief of Engineers.

Coastal Engineering Research Board.—The Board provides policy guidance, reviews and plans requirements for conducting coastal engineering research and development, and recommends research project priorities.

Humphreys Engineer Center Support Activity.—This support center provides administrative services for the Office, Chief of Engineers and other separate field operating activities to include personnel, logistics, and finance and accounting.

Engineer Automation Support Activity.—This central data processing service was terminated in fiscal year 1991.

Water Resources Support Center.—This support center performs studies and analyses for meeting national objectives. It develops planning techniques for comprehensive management and development of the Nation's water resources, and man-

Hydraulic mining in California, debris fund.—Fees paid by mine operators in the Sacramento and San Joaquin river basins for depositing mine debris in restraining works are used for maintaining the works (33 U.S.C. 683).

Maintenance and operation of dams and other improvements of navigable waters.—License fees are levied by the Department of Energy for private construction, operation and maintenance of dams, conduits, and reservoirs. Half of the fees collected are used for maintenance and operation of Federal dams and other navigation structures, and for improvement of navigable waters (16 U.S.C. 810a). License fees are also levied by the Department of Energy for benefits accruing directly as the result of headwater improvements by Federal projects. One hundred percent of these fees collected are used for maintenance and operation of Federal dams and other navigation structures, and for improvement of navigable waters (16 U.S.C. 803e).

Payments to States.—Three-fourths of the money received from lease of Federal lands acquired for flood control, navigation, and allied purposes is paid to the State in which such property is situated for public schools, roads, or other expenses of county government (33 U.S.C. 701c–3).

The Inland Waterways Trust Fund was established in accordance with the Inland Waterways Revenue Act of 1978, Public Law 95–502, and amended by the Water Resources Development Act of 1986, Public Law 99–662. Revenue is derived from taxes imposed on fuel in vessels engaged in commercial waterway transportation and is used for one half of the construction and rehabilitation costs of specified inland waterway projects. See "Construction, General" for appropriation language.

The Harbor Maintenance Trust Fund is established in accordance with the Harbor Maintenance Revenue Act of 1986 (Public Law 99–662, Title XIV, as amended). Under law, revenue is derived from: (1) receipts from a 0.125 percent ad valorem user fee imposed on commercial cargo loaded and unloaded at specified U.S. ports open to public navigation, and (2) collection of charges and tolls imposed by the Saint Lawrence Seaway Development Corporation.

The Harbor Maintenance Revenue Act also authorized expenditures from the Trust Fund to fully finance the operation and maintenance of the Corporation, to finance up to 100 percent of Corps of Engineers' harbor operation and maintenance (O&M) costs, including O&M costs associated with Great Lakes navigational projects, and to rebate the U.S. portion of tolls paid on the Seaway.

For appropriation language, see the following accounts: Army Corps of Engineers, Civil "Operation and Maintenance, General"; St. Lawrence Seaway Development Corporation "Operation and maintenance"; and Department of the Treasury "St. Lawrence Seaway toll rebate program".

Legislation will be proposed to authorize payment of up to $5 million annually for administrative costs of the Corps, Treasury and Commerce and to also provide $45.5 million to fund certain National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA) programs that benefit the commercial navigation industry. Details of this legislation will be forthcoming after the submission of the FY 1993 Budget.

In 1990, the Coastal Wetlands Planning, Protection and Restoration Act (Public Law 101–646) authorized transfer of 18 percent of each annual appropriation from the Sport Fish Restoration Account for coastal wetlands activities; 70 percent of this amount is allocated to the Corps of Engineers for use by the Louisiana Coastal Wetlands Conservation and Restoration Task Force, chaired by the Secretary of the Army, to provide for the long-term conservation, protection, and restoration of coastal wetlands in the State of Louisiana. The Coastal Wetlands Restoration Trust Fund is established to receive these funds and finance the appropriate activities.

ADMINISTRATIVE PROVISIONS

Appropriations in this title shall be available for expenses of attendance by military personnel at meetings in the manner authorized by section 4110 of title 5, United States Code, uniforms, and allowances therefor, as authorized by law (5 U.S.C. 5901–5902), and for printing, either during a recess or session of Congress, of survey reports authorized by law, and such survey reports as may be printed during a recess of Congress shall be printed, with illustrations, as documents of the next succeeding session of Congress; not to exceed $5,000 for official reception and representation expenses; and during the current fiscal year the revolving fund, Corps of Engineers, shall be available for purchase (not to exceed [150] 100 for replacement only) and hire of passenger motor vehicles. (Energy and Water Development Appropriations Act, 1992.)

Public Law 98–94 provided for accrual funding of the military retirement system and for the establishment of a Department of Defense Military Retirement Fund in 1985. The fund is financed through: (a) Federal contributions for retired pay and retirement pay of military personnel on the retired lists of the Army, Navy and Marine Corps, and Air Force, including the reserve components thereof, and retainer pay for personnel of the Inactive Fleet Reserve; (b) Government contributions consisting of a normal cost accrual percentage applied to basic pay amounts contained in the military personnel appropriations; and (c) interest on investments.

The status of the fund is as follows:

NOTES

Excludes budget authority in 1992 and 1993 for the State agency program for handicapped children financed in the Department of Education, Office of Special Education and Rehabilitative Services, Special education account. The comparable amount for 1991 ($148,859 thousand) is included above.

Includes $36 thousand in budget authority in 1993 for field reader costs previously financed from Department of Education, Departmental Management, Program administration account. The comparable amount for 1991 is $131 thousand and for 1992 is $20 thousand.

Includes $14,000 thousand in budget authority for Concentration grants and $138,000 thousand in budget authority for Basic grants in 1992 available from September 30, 1992 to September 30, 1993, and a similar amount for each activity in budget authority in 1993, available from September 30, 1993 to September 30, 1994.

This account funds activities authorized under chapter 1 of title I of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965 and section 418A of the Higher Education Act of 1965.

Grants for the disadvantaged.—

Basic grants to local educational agencies.—Funds enable local educational agencies to provide supplementary compensatory education services for disadvantaged elementary and secondary school students. Funds are allocated to local school districts on the basis of a statutory formula.

Concentration grants.—Funds provide additional resources for compensatory education programs to local educational agencies that have high concentrations of children from low-income families.

Capital expenses.—Funds assist local educational agencies to pay for certain additional capital costs associated with providing equitable compensatory education services to children in non-public schools.

Even start.—Funds are provided on a formula basis to States, which in turn award grants to local educational agencies to operate projects that provide educational services to children under 8 years of age and basic education to their parents. Prior to 1992, grants were awarded directly to local educational agencies.

State agency programs.—Funds enable State educational agencies to provide supplementary compensatory education services to migrant children and neglected or delinquent children in State institutions, with amounts allocated to the appropriate State agencies on the basis of an annual count of eligible children.

State administration.—Funds are provided to State educational agencies to administer the programs authorized under Chapter 1.

State program improvement grants.—Funds assist States in their efforts to help local educational agencies improve ineffective Chapter 1 projects.

Evaluation and technical assistance.—Funds provide technical assistance to local school districts and State educational agencies and support activities to evaluate Chapter 1 programs.

Migrant education programs.—Funds support grants to institutions of higher education and other non-profit agencies that assist migrant students to earn a high school equivalency certificate or to complete their first year of college.

Reimbursable program.—Amounts in this activity consist of: payments made to the Department of Education as audit recoveries that the Secretary has granted back to the audited agency under the terms of section 456 of the General Education Provisions Act; and funds appropriated in other accounts for consolidated grants to the insular areas.

Maintenance and operations.—Payments are made to school districts when enrollments and the availability of revenues from local sources are deemed to have been adversely affected by Federal activities. Funds are provided to districts under section 3(a) for children who live on and whose parents work on Federal property or are on active duty in the uniformed services. For 1993, funds available for section 3(a) payments would total $489.5 million. Amendments to the authorizing statute are proposed to increase equity in the distribution of funds under sections 2 and 3.

In 1993, payments would be made to about 1,000 school districts for over 300,000 children under section 3(a). Section 3(d)(2)(B), which authorizes increased payments to certain school districts that meet special conditions, would be funded at $16 million. Section 2, which provides payments to certain districts having a partial loss of tax base, would be funded at $16.6 million.

Construction.—Budget authority of $10 million is requested for 1993 for construction of school facilities in school districts that serve children connected with Federal activities.

For carrying out authorized activities, consistent with section 112 of the Department of Justice and Related Agencies Appropriations Act, 1993, relating to the promotion of neighborhood revitalization, $56,000,000, which shall become available on July 1, 1993 and remain available through September 30, 1994, to be used for program purposes authorized by section 1005 and part B of chapter 1 of title I of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965, the Drug-free Schools and Communities Act, the Adult Education Act, the Talent Search and Upward Bound programs of title IV, part A, subpart 4 of the Higher Education Act of 1965, and for after hours use of school buildings for educational purposes.

Provided, That $46,400,000 of these funds shall be used to fund approved plans submitted by areas designated Enterprise Zones in accord with the Enterprise Zone Act, if such Act is enacted by July 1, 1993: Provided further, That if such legislation is not enacted, or if it is enacted and if the zones so designated do not submit plans pursuant to section 112, or if the funding needs for educational services in the approved plans do not require the full amount of funds provided herein, the remaining funds shall be transferred to and merged with the following accounts, to be available for the purposes stated herein:

- —in the Compensatory education for the disadvanataged account, up to $35,000,000 shall be added to funds otherwise available for section 1005 of chapter 1 of title I of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965, and $5,000,000 shall be added to funds otherwise available for part B (Even Start) of said Act;
- —in the School improvement programs account, up to $1,000,000 shall be added to funds otherwise available for part D of title V of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965;
- —in the Vocational and adult education account, up to $3,400,000 shall be added to funds otherwise available for Adult Education Act State grants;
- —in the Higher education account, up to $2,000,000 shall be added to funds otherwise available for Special programs for the disadvantaged.

To carry out activities for the promotion of neighborhood revitalization, the Secretary may waive any regulations or provisions of law restricting the distribution or use of funds made available by this paragraph. The Secretary shall publish in the Federal Register notice of any such waivers as are necessary to carry out these activities. (Department of Education Appropriations Act, 1992; additional authorizing legislation required for $2,432,000.)

NOTES

Excludes $139,996 thousand in budget authority in 1993 and $98,471 thousand in 1992 for activities transferred to Department of Education, Office of Educational Research and Improvement Assessment, statistics, research, and improvement account. The comparable amount for 1991 ($97,360 thousand) is included above.

Includes $368 thousand in budget authority in 1993 for activities previously financed from Department of Education, Departmental Management, Program administration account. Comparable amounts are $567 thousand for 1991 and $155 thousand for 1992.

Educational improvement.—

State block grants.—States and outlying areas receive grants, according to a statutory formula based on school-age population, to improve the quality of elementary and secondary education for children in public and private schools. Each State retains up to 20 percent of its allocation for statewide activities and distributes the remainder by formula to its local educational agencies. Under proposed legislation, the State set-aside would be increased to 50 percent to enable States to concentrate more funding on educational reform efforts in support of the National Education Goals.

Inexpensive book distribution.—One award is made to Reading Is Fundamental, Inc. to support the distribution of books to children and other reading motivation activities.

Arts in education.—Funds support arts education activities of the John F. Kennedy Center and the Very Special Arts organization.

Drug-free schools and communities.—

State grants.—States and outlying areas receive grants, according to a statutory formula based on school-age population and previous year's share of allocations under chapter 1 of title I of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965, to assist in combating the abuse of drugs and alcohol by the Nation's children and youth.

School personnel training.—Funds are used to train teachers, counselors, and other school personnel in drug and alcohol abuse education and prevention.

National programs.—Funds support programs at institutions of higher education, programs for Indian youth, regional centers, and Federal activities for preventing alcohol and drug abuse.

Emergency grants.—Grants are awarded to provide special assistance to school systems with a high incidence of drug abuse.

Other programs.—

Weed and Seed.—Funds to support education services in communities participating in the Administration's Weed and Seed initiative.

Eisenhower mathematics and science education State grants.—Funds available for this activity are used by State and local educational agencies to train teachers and improve instruction in mathematics and science. States and outlying areas receive grants based on their school-age population and previous year's share of allocations under chapter 1 of title I of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act. Each State must spend 75 percent of its grant for elementary and secondary education programs and 25 percent for higher education programs.

Christa McAuliffe fellowships.—Fellowships are awarded to outstanding teachers to enable and encourage them to continue their education or to develop educational projects and programs. In 1991, 72 fellows received awards.

Magnet schools assistance.—Funds are provided to local educational agencies for magnet school programs that are part of approved desegregation plans. In 1991, 64 local educational agencies received awards.

Education for homeless children and youth.—Funds are provided to State and local educational agencies to support a State office to coordinate education for homeless children and youth, and to provide direct educational and support services to homeless children and youth that enable them to enroll in, attend, and achieve success in school.

Training and advisory services.—Grants are made to State educational agencies and regional desegregation assistance centers to enable them to provide technical assistance, at the request of school districts, in desegregating public schools and developing effective methods of coping with special educational problems associated with desegregation.

Dropout prevention demonstrations.—Funds in 1993 would support continuation awards for 86 structured demonstration projects begun in 1991 and 1992 to test new approaches to dropout prevention and reentry. Funds would also support an evaluation of the program.

Grants to local educational agencies and Indian-controlled schools.—Formula grants are made to local educational agencies (LEAs) and tribal schools for supplementary elementary and secondary education programs to meet the special educational and culturally related academic needs of Indian children. In 1991, 1,163 formula grants were made to LEAs and certain tribal schools enrolling approximately 368,040 Indian students. Discretionary awards are authorized to be made to Indian-controlled schools on or near reservations and to LEAs that have been in existence less than three years that serve substantial numbers of Indians. In 1991, 16 discretionary awards supported special projects at 16 Indian-controlled schools.

Special programs for Indian students.—Funds support planning, pilot, and demonstration projects; educational service projects; educational personnel training; resource and evaluation centers; special projects for the education of gifted and talented children; and fellowships.

Special programs for Indian adults.—Competitive grants are made to Indian tribes, institutions, and organizations for programs to improve educational opportunities for Indian adults.

Statistics and assessment.—Funds will enable the Department of Education, in cooperation with the Department of the Interior, to augment data collections and analyses in order to produce nationally representative data on the educational status of Indians.

Program administration.—Funds support the administrative expenses of the Office of Indian Education and the National Advisory Council on Indian Education.

A new legislative proposal will provide for competitive demonstration grants to States and localities. Federal funds would match State funds for certificates of up to a total of $1,000. Middle- and low-income families would be identified by States or localities and offered the opportunity to use those certificates at the schools most appropriate for their children.

Bilingual education.—These programs support the establishment, operation, and improvement of programs in local schools to prepare children of limited English proficiency to enter an all-English-language educational program. In 1993, the Department will hold a special competition limited to school districts implementing projects that emphasize math and science instruction for limited English proficient students. Aid is also given to train educational personnel and parents to serve limited English proficient children, to build State capacity to improve educational services for limited English proficient children in school districts, and for information dissemination, studies, and evaluations.

Immigrant education.—The immigrant education program provides grants to school districts to help finance educational services for immigrant students. Participation is limited to districts with 500 immigrant students or districts in which immigrant children represent at least 3 percent of the enrollment. Awards are made to State educational agencies, which make subgrants to eligible local educational agencies. Proposed legislation would reduce the current double counting of these students under other Federal programs and require that funds be used to supplement, not supplant, local educational funds.

State grants.—

Grants to States.—This formula grant program assists States in providing special education and related services to children with disabilities. In order to participate in the program, States must provide services to all children with disabilities ages 6 through 17. States must be providing services to all children ages 3 through 5 with disabilities in order to count 3- through 5-year olds for allocations. Children with disabilities ages 18 through 21 must also be served, except when such services would be inconsistent with State law or practice, or the order of any court. To be eligible for a grant, each State is required to submit an acceptable State plan that requires the development and use of an individualized education program for each student with a disability, the establishment of procedural safeguards for all children with disabilities and their parents, and the training of personnel for these special education programs.

Chapter 1 handicapped program.—Under chapter 1 of the Elementary and Secondary Education Act of 1965, States receive formula grants to help them provide early intervention services to children, ages birth through 2 years, and special education and related services to children, ages 3 through 21 years, who have disabilities and who are served by State agencies. Beginning in 1992, this program is being phased out over a four-year period.

Preschool grants.—This formula grant program provides additional funds to States to further assist them in providing special education and related services to children with disabilities ages 3 through 5 who are counted under the Grants to States program and, at a State's discretion, to 2-year old children with disabilities who will reach age 3 during the school year. To receive awards under this program, States must serve all 3- through 5-year olds with disabilities.

Grants for infants and families.—This formula grant program assists States in: (1) developing and implementing a statewide program of early intervention services for infants and toddlers with disabilities, from birth through age 2, and their families; (2) enhancing their capacity to provide quality early intervention services; and (3) expanding and improving existing early intervention services. States may use funds to provide a free appropriate public education to children with disabilities from their third birthday to the beginning of the following school year. The statewide program must be implemented by the fourth year of a State's participation and services must be provided to all infants and toddlers with disabilities by the fifth year of a State's participation. Between 1990 and 1992, States experiencing difficulty in meeting fourth or fifth year requirements were able to request and receive extended participation for up to 2 years. All States must provide services no later than 1993. Primary funding for services is provided by other Federal, State, local, and private sources.

Special purpose funds.—

Deaf-blindness.—Awards are made to support activities to improve special education services for children with both deafness and blindness.

Serious emotional disturbance.—Projects are supported to improve special education services for children with serious emotional disturbance.

Severe disabilities.—The program supports activities to improve special education services for children with severe disabilities.

Early childhood education.—Awards support activities to expand and improve early intervention and special education services for children with disabilities from birth through age 8.

Secondary and transitional services.—Projects improve secondary school special educational services and assist youths with disabilities in moving from school to work, further education, and adult services.

Postsecondary education.—The program supports demonstration projects to assist persons with disabilities in pursuing postsecondary, vocational, technical, continuing, and adult education.

Innovation and development.—Support is provided for research and related activities to improve special education and early intervention services.

Media and captioning services.—Funds are used for a variety of media related purposes including captioning films and television for individuals with hearing impairments, and descriptive video and recording activities for individuals with visual impairments.

Technology applications.—Awards are made to advance the use of technology, media, and materials in providing special education services.

Special studies.—Studies are conducted to provide information on and improve the effectiveness of special education programs.

Personnel development.—Awards are made to improve the quality and increase the supply of personnel in the fields of special education and early intervention.

Parent training.—Awards are made to parent organizations to provide training and information to parents regarding the education of their children.

Clearinghouses.—The program supports clearinghouses to disseminate information to parents and others regarding special education, provide information on available postsecondary services, and encourage and assist individuals to seek careers in special education.

Regional resource centers.—Centers provide technical assistance to States to help them provide special education and early intervention services.

The Administration will propose legislation reauthorizing and revising the expiring authorities under the Rehabilitation Act of 1973 and the Helen Keller National Center Act. The distribution of resources shown in the above schedule is for illustrative purposes only, and may be revised based on the final form of legislation to be proposed by the Administration.

State grants.—

Vocational rehabilitation State grants.—The basic State grant program has provided Federal matching to State vocational rehabilitation agencies to assist individuals with physical and mental disabilities to become gainfully employed. Services provided include counseling, vocational evaluation, work adjustment, mental and physical rehabilitation, education and vocational training, job placement, and post-employment services. Priority is given to serving those with the most severe disabilities.

The first table below presents estimates of the number of persons served and rehabilitated nationally under the program. The second table shows relative State performance in rehabilitating severely disabled persons.

COMPARABLE NUMBER OF INDIVIDUALS WITH DISABILITIES SERVED AND REHABILITATED

	1990 actual	1991 est.
Total active cases	937,951	942,000

60–69 percent	28	25	20

[1] Includes District of Columbia and Puerto Rico.
[2] Fourth quarter estimates.

Supported employment.—Formula grants are made to assist States in developing programs with public and nonprofit organizations for training and time-limited services leading to supported employment for individuals with severe vocational disabilities.

Client assistance.—Formula grants are made to States to provide assistance in informing and advising clients and applicants of benefits available under the Rehabilitation Act and, if requested, to pursue legal or administrative remedies to ensure the protection of the rights of individuals with disabilities.

Special purpose funds.—

Service and demonstration projects.—Grants are made for projects to expand services to disability groups who have been underserved in the past, to develop new and innovative approaches to meeting the needs of individuals with severe disabilities, and to provide special training and job opportunities in private industry to individuals with vocational disabilities.

Helen Keller National Center.—The Center provides services to deaf-blind youths and adults and conducts research and training programs.

Independent living.—Grants are awarded to States and nonprofit agencies for services designed to enable individuals with severe disabilities to live and function more independently.

Training.—Project grants are made to States and public or nonprofit agencies and organizations, including institutions of higher education, to increase the number of skilled personnel available for employment in rehabilitation settings.

National Institute on Disability and Rehabilitation Research.—The Institute carries out a comprehensive and coordinated program of rehabilitation research. Through grants and contracts, it supports research and training centers, rehabilitation engineering centers, research and demonstration projects, information dissemination and utilization projects, and career development activities.

Evaluation.—Studies are conducted to evaluate the impact and effectiveness of various programs authorized under the Rehabilitation Act. In 1992, the Department initiated a multiyear national longitudinal study of the Basic State Vocational Rehabilitation Grant Program.

This institution provides college preparatory, undergraduate, and continuing education programs for persons who are deaf, and graduate programs related to deafness for students who are deaf and hearing impaired. The University also conducts basic and applied research and public service programs for persons who are deaf and persons who work with them.

Gallaudet operates two pre-college programs on the main campus of the University. The Kendall Demonstration Elementary School serves students who are deaf from infancy through age 15, and the Model Secondary School for the Deaf serves students who are deaf of high school age. Both schools also develop and disseminate information on effective educational techniques and strategies for teachers and professionals working with students who are deaf or hard of hearing.

In 1991, the Federal appropriation represented 65 percent of the University's operating budget, excluding Federal financial aid, vocational rehabilitation, and competitive grants, and 100 percent of the operating budgets of the related elementary and secondary schools. Funds are also requested for endowment matching grants and construction.

Vocational education.—

Basic grants.—Formula grants provide funds to States and localities to expand and improve their programs of vocational education and promote equal opportunity in vocational education programs for historically underserved populations. Funds under the Indian program are awarded to federally recognized Indian tribes and are in addition to services provided under other provisions of the Perkins Act. Funds under the Territorial set-aside support the expansion and improvement of vocational education programs in American Samoa, Guam, the Northern Marianas, and Palau.

Community-based organizations.—Formula grants to States assist recipients of Perkins Act funds to operate vocational education programs jointly with community-based organizations.

Tech-prep education.—Formula grants to States support planning and demonstration grants to consortia of local educational agencies and postsecondary institutions to develop and operate model 4-year programs. Programs begin in high school and provide students with the mathematical, science, communications, and technological skills needed to earn a 2-year associate degree or a 2-year certificate in a specific occupational field.

Tribally controlled postsecondary vocational institutions.—Grants support the operation and improvement of tribally controlled postsecondary vocational institutions, to ensure continued and expanded educational opportunities for Indian students.

State councils.—Formula grants support the activities of the State councils which provide advice on the State vocational education plan and evaluate State vocational education programs. Each council is composed of 13 members, 7 of whom represent the private sector.

National programs.—

Research.—Funds are awarded on a competitive basis for research activities that contribute to knowledge of how to improve access to vocational education for underserved populations and how to improve vocational education nationally. Activities include a national center for research in vocational education, a national assessment of vocational education, regional curriculum coordination centers, and a program of discretionary research projects.

Demonstration programs.—Funds support vocational education demonstration projects that are designed to develop and demonstrate more effective methods of providing vocational education.

Data systems.—Funds support the operation of the National Occupational Information Coordinating Committee and the State occupational information coordinating committees.

The Smith-Hughes Act of 1917 (Public Law 64-347), as amended, provides a permanent appropriation for vocational education basic grants and national programs.

Adult education—

State programs.—Formula grants are made to States to eliminate functional illiteracy among the Nation's adults and to assist adults in obtaining a high school diploma or its equivalent.

National programs.—Funds support discretionary activities to evaluate the effectiveness of Federal, State, and local adult education programs and provide technical assistance to States to improve program quality. Funds also support the operation of the National Institute for Literacy.

Literacy training for homeless adults.—Funds provide discretionary grants to States to support special literacy services for the homeless.

Workplace literacy partnerships.—Funds support discretionary grants for projects to provide literacy and basic skills education in the workplace.

State literacy resource centers.—Formula grants support the creation of State or regional adult literacy resource centers that coordinate literary services and expand the capacity of State and local organizations to provide literacy services.

This account finances several programs of aid to students in postsecondary education. The Administration is proposing reauthorizing legislation for the expiring Higher Education Act. When new authorizing legislation is enacted, funds will be requested for the Student financial assistance account. The narrative and tables below reflect the Administration's budget and legislative proposals. See the "Proposed for later transmittal, proposed legislation" schedule for additional details.

The budget and legislative program includes substantial policy changes affecting award amounts and eligibility for awards for all the programs to be funded. Major reforms include: establishing minimum performance standards for all aid recipients; establishing a single, simplified need analysis methodology; establishing minimum standards of quality for school eligibility for Federal aid; strengthening the State role in determining the eligibility of institutions for participation in Federal student aid programs; and tightening the definition of independent student.

Pell grants.—Undergraduate students establish eligibility for these grants through application to a federally managed system of assessment of need. This need assessment evaluates the individual and parental ability to contribute towards a student's postsecondary education.

The 1992 appropriation does not include any funding for unfunded Pell costs in prior year programs. Current estimates project a funding shortfall of $332 million in unfunded Pell costs in prior year programs. The Administration is requesting to fully fund this shortfall in 1993.

The budget and legislative program significantly increases Pell grant aid to all students. The total request of $6,641 million provides for a substantial increase in the maximum award, from $2,400 to $3,700; two award rules designed to direct the largest aid awards to those least able to contribute to postsecondary costs—varying percent of "need" (cost of attendance less estimated family contribution) by income, and maximum award minus estimated family contribution; a minimum student contribution for all Pell recipients, except those with very low family and/or student income; and a proposed revised and simplified general need analysis, also known as "Congressional Methodology", to assess the level of need for applicants to all student aid programs. Average awards will increase for all recipients, funds spent on recipients will increase for all recipients with incomes less than $50,000.

Presidential achievement scholarships.—The budget and legislative program proposes to reward recipients of Pell grants for outstanding educational achievement. Pell grant recipients ranking in the top 10 percent of their high school graduating class or scoring highly on national standardized tests would be eligible for a $500 award in their first year of postsecondary study. In subsequent years, Pell grant recipients ranking in the top 20 percent of their college class would be eligible. These awards would provide additional incentives to low-income students to excel while in high school, to seek admission to institutions of higher education, and to excel while in attendance there.

Work-study.—Federal grants are awarded by formula to qualifying institutions, which develop and provide part-time jobs for eligible undergraduate and graduate students with demonstrated need. Federal grants in most cases pay 70 percent of a student's earnings and the remainder is paid by the employer. Hourly earnings must not be less than the Federal minimum wage. The budget and legislative program proposes to increase the institutional matching share to 50 percent, in recognition of the significant benefits institutions receive from decreased labor costs.

Supplemental educational opportunity grants.—Funds are allocated by formula among qualifying institutions, which use these funds at their discretion to award grants to undergraduate students, with priority for those students with exceptional need. The Federal share of such grants may not exceed 85 percent of the total grant. The budget and legislative program proposes to increase the institutional matching share to 50 percent, in recognition of the significant benefits institutions receive from this campus-based aid.

Income contingent loans.—Under the income contingent loan (ICL) program, institutions operate revolving loan funds capitalized in part with Federal contributions distributed to participating institutions. Loans are made at the institution's discretion, usually to students with demonstrated need, and carry unsubsidized interest rates. Repayment rates depend on post-school earnings: as income increases, so does the percentage of income required for repayment.

Perkins loans—Cancellations.—Under the Perkins loan (formerly national direct student loan (NDSL)) cancellation program, institutional revolving funds are reimbursed for indebtedness cancelled as a result of a borrower engaging in certain public service occupations. Appropriations in 1991 and 1992 were not needed because sufficient unobligated balances were available to fund expected cancellations in that year. The budget and legislative program proposes to eliminate cancellations for Perkins loans made after 1992. Loan forgiveness has not been proven to have a positive effect on inducing individuals to pursue desired occupations.

Grants to States to Improve Licensure.—The budget and legislative program includes $50 million in grants to States to improve the licensing of schools for purposes of eligibility for Federal student aid programs. These funds will supplement, not supplant existing State resources used for licensure activities.

The following tables display student aid funds available, the number of aid awards, average awards, and the unduplicated count of students receiving awards, including aid under the Guaranteed Student Loan (GSL) program, under the budget and legislative program request. The tables include the effects of matching funds wherever applicable. ICL and Perkins loan amounts also reflect other available capital in institutional revolving funds, including loan collection and loan cancellation receipts. Guaranteed Student Loan amounts reflect the capital actually loaned, not the Federal costs of those loans.

GSL program. Administrative expenses include discretionary expenses for salaries, expenses and overhead of employees working directly on the GSL program. Mandatory administrative expenses such as administrative cost allowances and supplemental preclaims assistance payments for loans made prior to 1993 are separately identified on a cash basis. Beginning in 1993, mandatory administrative costs are included in the GSL subsidy estimates. The subsidy amounts are estimated on a present value basis.

The guaranteed student loan (GSL) program is designed to promote the availability of loans from banks and other lenders to students and their parents to help meet the costs of attending participating universities, colleges, and other postsecondary institutions after taking into consideration family financial resources and student self-help. This is accomplished through the provision of Federal reinsurance against borrower default as well as through substantial Federal interest subsidy payments to lenders. In general, the program is administered by State and private nonprofit guarantee agencies that serve as intermediate loan insurers, defaulted loan collectors, and providers of various services to lenders. The Government also provides substantial subsidies to these agencies. Through July 1984, the Federal Government also provided direct loan insurance and, in such cases, continues to be responsible for defaulted loan collection and providing assistance to lenders.

The Administration is proposing reauthorizing legislation for the expiring Higher Education Act. When new authorizing legislation is enacted, funds will be requested for the Guaranteed student loans program account.

Three types of guaranteed loans are currently available through the program: under the Stafford loan component, students may borrow highly subsidized loans; under the PLUS loan component, parents can borrow less-subsidized loans; and under the Supplemental Loans for Students (SLS) component, formerly part of PLUS, students also may borrow less-subsidized loans. Each program has both annual and cumulative limits on loan amounts. All loans can be used only to meet educational expenses. Evidence of financial need is required for a student to receive a Stafford student loan.

The Federal Government pays lenders a quarterly special allowance throughout the life of each Stafford loan. This allowance generally assures lenders a total yield on new loans equal to the current 91-day Treasury bill rate plus 3¼ percentage points. The budget and legislative program propose a reduced lender yield of 91-day Treasury bill rate plus 3 percentage points for lenders with high default rates. The Government is also liable for up to 100 percent of costs related to borrower default, death, disability, and bankruptcy.

Under the Stafford loan component, the Federal Government pays the interest obligation (generally 8 percent on new loans) of eligible borrowers while they are in school and during grace and certain deferment periods. Federal interest benefit costs are partially offset by an origination fee of 5 percent of loan principal which is charged to borrowers.

Under the PLUS and SLS loan components, all students, and parents of dependent students, may borrow to meet the student's educational expenses without any demonstrated financial need. Unlike the Stafford loan program, the borrower's interest obligation (up to the 52-week Treasury bill rate plus 3¼ percentage points, not to exceed 12 percent) during in-school, grace and deferment periods is not paid by the Federal Government.

Under a fourth component, consolidation loans, student borrowers that meet certain debt level criteria and have loans from multiple sources may consolidate these loans into a single new long-term loan. Borrowers may consolidate Stafford, Perkins (formerly NDSL), and SLS loans, PLUS loans made to students prior to enactment of the SLS program, and Health Professions Student Loans (HPSL). The interest rate is the greater of 9 percent or the weighted average of the interest rates of the loans discharged by consolidation, rounded to the nearest whole percent. Most consolidation activity is a roll-over of current debt from a Federal perspective, with only Perkins and HPSL consolidation constituting new Federal loan guarantees. Since this new loan volume is minimal (less than $100 million a year), consolidation loan data are included in Stafford loan data.

The Federal Government also pays administrative cost allowances to guarantee agencies. Funds for "administrative expenses subject to limitation" requested in the Guaranteed student loans program account support administration of the GSL program in the Office of Postsecondary Education. Funding is requested in this account pursuant to the Federal Credit Reform Act of 1990.

Federal receipts primarily include collections on defaulted loans and reimbursements from guarantee agencies for their default collections. One-time savings of $200 million was achieved in 1988 through 1991 by applying excess guarantee agency reserves to agency default claims against the Government and by other means. In addition, outstanding advances (interest-free loans) of $10 million to guarantee agencies will be repaid in 1992; $4 million was repaid in 1991. Also included are Student Loan Marketing Association (Sallie Mae) repayments of loans from the Federal Financing Bank; these transactions are treated as part of the cost of the GSL program. Sallie Mae annual payments are $30 million until 1995. A payment of $4.3 billion is due in 1996, and the remaining balance of $400 million is due in 1997.

Total loan volume disbursed under all program components under the President's program is expected to be $16.4 billion in 1993, resulting in outstanding loans at the end of 1993 of $64.4 billion.

The Emergency Unemployment Compensation Act of 1991 enacted several default collection and prevention provisions that affect GSL loans. These reforms include: authorizing administrative wage garnishment of up to 10 percent of a defaulter's disposable wages; requiring lenders to perform credit checks for loan applicants age 21 and older and to obtain a credit-worthy cosigner for applicants with adverse credit histories; collecting additional skip-tracing information from borrowers; requiring lenders to obtain the borrower's authorization for entry of judgment against the borrower in the event of default; authorizing the Secretary to obtain data from any Federal Department or Agency concerning the most recent address and employer of a GSL borrower; and extending indefinitely the authority to offset defaulter's tax refunds until the defaulter's debt has been retired.

For 1993, the budget and legislative program builds on these positive changes with a wide-ranging set of strategies in order to restore integrity to the GSL program, continue the attack on defaults and eliminate waste and abuse, strengthen the guarantee agency structure and tighten the links between States and guarantee agencies, impose State and bank risk-sharing for excessive defaults, and improve default collection.

The text tables that follow provide additional information on the GSL program and reflect the effect of proposed legislative changes. These text tables include 1991, 1992, and 1993 data from the Guaranteed student loans (liquidating) account and 1992 and 1993 data from the Guaranteed student loans program account.

[1] 1991 data reflect program obligations and cost offsets for those years displayed in the Guaranteed student loans (liquidating) account. 1992 and 1993 data reflect 1992 and 1993 cash flows for loans guaranteed in 1992 and 1993, as calculated under credit reform requirements, plus 1992 and 1993 costs associated with loans made prior to 1992.

[2] Includes direct Federal collections and collections due to Federal tax refund offset. Some of these collections are displayed below as offsets to Federal administrative costs, principally for collections work by Federal contractors. These collections are net of amounts retained by guarantee agencies to cover their collection costs. This "collections retention allowance" is reflected in the section on guarantee agency administrative costs.

[3] Includes repayment of agency advances, elimination of excess agency reserves through direct payments to the Government and through reduced reinsurance payments to the agencies, and purchase of rehabilitated loans by the agencies.

[4] Agency collection costs are not directly reimbursed by the Government; instead, they are financed by retained agency collections, and are thus reflected in reduced net agency collections transmitted to the Government. The transactions are displayed here on a gross and net basis for completeness.

[5] Federal contract collection costs are payments to debt collection contractors. The payments are financed in entirety by collections.

[6] Includes administrative costs for the calculation of the institutional cohort default rates

[7] Includes scheduled default collections from wage garnishment and IRS offsets pursuant to P.L. 102–164, and estimated default collections due to the proposed extension of the repeal of the statute of limitations provisions.

Because the costs of subsidizing educational loans can vary widely within a program, it becomes valuable to collect data for homogeneous groups within cohort or risk categories. Factors that were considered in developing appropriate risk categories include default behavior of borrowers, type of educational institution attended by the borrower, and the borrower's year in school.

The Stafford program has been divided into four risk categories: 1) 4-year college, first and second year students, 2) 4-year college, all other students, 3) students attending 2-year schools, and 4) proprietary school students. SLS loans have been divided into two risk categories: 1) nonproprietary school students, and 2) proprietary school students. PLUS loans are not further categorized.

Loan data by risk category is not currently available for all cost categories. Recently, the Department initiated steps to improve such data in order to obtain a more accurate profile of GSL costs. Although this effort and, therefore, the necessary data are not complete, the following text tables depict preliminary findings of subsidy costs based on loan program by risk category. Gross default rates (default rates excluding collections on defaulted loans) by risk category are also displayed.

Increased efforts are being made to collect outstanding defaults and to reduce the incidence of default. Final default reduction regulations were issued in 1989 to curb defaults at participating schools. Those regulations have been fully implemented. Legislative changes in the Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Acts of 1989, 1990 and 1991 focus on decreasing defaults in the Stafford and/or SLS programs. Legislative changes in the Emergency Unemployment Compensation Act of 1991 focus on preventing defaults and enhancing default collections.

Increased administrative efforts to collect outstanding defaults include: referring both insured and reinsured defaulted loans to private collection agencies; sharing information on defaulted loans with consumer credit bureaus; computer matches to locate defaulters; increased litigation; increased lender and guarantee agency due diligence requirements; closer monitoring of collection activity; review of debt compromise policies to ensure maximum collections on defaults; and deduction from Federal income tax refunds of defaulted loan amounts.

The following tables reflect data from the Guaranteed student loans liquidating account on loans made prior to 1992 and the Guaranteed student loans program account on loans made after 1991. Outstanding defaults owed to the Federal Government in 1991–93 are as follows:

Note.—Same as Program and Financing schedules, Addendum: cumulative balances of defaulted guaranteed loans that result in loans receivable provided for the Guaranteed student loans (liquidating) account and Guaranteed students loans finance account.

Frequently used GSL default rate measures are the gross and net cumulative default rates. The former represents cumulative defaults divided by cumulative loans that have matured (i.e., entered repayment). The latter represents cumulative defaults minus cumulative collections on defaults, divided by cumulative matured loans. These rates are the best measures of the long-term default costs of the entire GSL portfolio and the best indicators of longer term trends in default costs. The following table displays these gross and net default rates.

END OF YEAR GUARANTEED LOAN STATUS

Gross default rate	17.7%	18.9%	19.1%
Net default rate	13.1%	13.9%	13.8%

Another measure represents defaults in a given year divided by the average amount of loans in repayment during that year. This annual rate is more comparable to default rates calculated by commercial lending institutions. The volatility of this rate, depending as it does on annual flows into and out of repayment, makes this a less useful indicator in assessing longer term default trends.

Other aid for institutions—

Program development.—In 1993, funds would be used in the Overseas International Education programs to provide research and study opportunities in foreign countries for American graduate students, faculty members, and teachers of foreign languages.

Academic facilities.—In 1993, funds would meet mandatory interest subsidy costs of construction loan commitments made prior to 1974.

Special grants.—In 1993, funds would be used to assist the Robert A. Taft Institute of Government in developing education programs to train elementary and secondary teachers in the principles of democracy and the governmental and political processes of the United States.

This account also records collections on outstanding prior year loans under the Cuban Loan program and Law Enforcement Education program. No new loans have been made under these activities since 1980. Even though most of the cumulative portfolio has been in default for many years, and is being written off under standard procedures, the Department is continuing to pursue collection efforts against borrowers. The resources in this schedule are proposed for later transmittal under proposed legislation to revise and reauthorize programs currently authorized under the Higher Education Act of 1965, as amended.

Aid for institutional development.—

Strengthening historically Black colleges and universities.—Funds under this heading would support grants to help historically Black undergraduate and graduate institutions equalize educational opportunity and strengthen their management and fiscal operations so that they may eventually become self-sufficient.

Strengthening institutions.—Funds would support planning and development grants for improving academic programs and financial management at schools that enroll high proportions of disadvantaged students and have low per-student expenditures.

Endowment challenge grants.—Funds would support endowment challenge grants for historically Black colleges and universities and other institutions eligible to participate in the institutional development program.

Other aid for institutions.—

Program development.—In 1993, funds would support projects under: the Fund for the Improvement of Postsecondary Education, to address problems and encourage improvements in postsecondary education; the minority science improvement program, to improve science education at predominantly minority institutions; international education and foreign language study programs, to help strengthen American education in foreign languages and area and international studies; innovative projects for community services, to encourage community and national service and to expand efforts to combat illiteracy; and the cooperative education program to help students strengthen the connection between their education and work.

Aid for students—

Special programs for the disadvantaged.—In 1993, funds would support: the student support services program to assist postsecondary students from disadvantaged backgrounds who need academic support to successfully complete their education; the precollege outreach program, to award grants to State-level higher education agencies to assist individuals from disadvantaged backgrounds in the completion of secondary education and transition to postsecondary education; and the McNair graduate outreach program, to provide support to disadvantaged groups underrepresented in graduate education. In 1993, funds would also support the continuation of an evaluation of the special programs for the disadvantaged.

Scholarships.—In 1993, funds would support: the national science scholars program for outstanding undergraduate students studying in the areas of mathematics and science; Robert C. Byrd honors scholarships for outstanding students who show promise of continued excellence; and Paul Douglas teacher scholarships for outstanding students who intend to teach at the elementary and secondary level.

National graduate fellowships.—Funds would support national graduate fellowships (which would consolidate the graduate fellowship programs currently authorized under the Higher Education Act) to assist needy graduate students, particularly those from groups historically underrepresented in graduate education, who are studying in areas of national need.

Legal training for the disadvantaged.—In 1993, funds would support the Legal training for the disadvantaged program, to assist disadvantaged individuals in undertaking training for the legal profession.

Howard University is a private, nonprofit educational institution consisting of 18 schools and colleges. Federal funds are used to provide partial support for university programs as well as for the teaching hospital facilities. In 1991, direct Federal appropriations represented 68 percent of the university's educational and general expenditures.

Higher Education Facilities Loans

The Secretary is hereby authorized to make such expenditures, within the limits of funds available under this heading and in accord with law, and to make such contracts and commitments without regard to fiscal year limitation, as provided by section 104 of the Government Corporation Control Act (31 U.S.C. 9104), as may be necessary in carrying out the program for the current fiscal year. For the fiscal year [1992] 1993, no new commitments for loans may be made from the fund established pursuant to title VII, section 733 of the Higher Education Act, as amended (20 U.S.C. 1132d–2). (Department of Education Appropriations Act, 1992.)

Program operations.—Title VII, Part C, of the Higher Education Act of 1965 authorizes direct loans at 5.5 percent interest, repayable within 50 years, to colleges, universities, and higher education building agencies for the construction, reconstruction, or renovation of academic facilities. No new loan commitments have been made since 1981, and no new commitments are planned for 1993 and beyond.

Financing.—Loan capital for this program has been provided both through appropriations and the sale of participation certificates which are backed by pools of existing higher education facilities loans held by the Federal Government. All participation certificates held by this account were redeemed as of September 30, 1988.

Interest is payable to Treasury on the amount of appropriations paid out for loan capital and remaining outstanding, less the average undisbursed cash balance in the fund during the year. The interest rate certified by Treasury for payment from the account is 8.875 percent in 1992.

The appropriation, along with repayments on outstanding loans, interest revenue, and investment income, is used to pay operating expenses and to repay interest costs to Treasury. The status of defaulted loans is shown in the table below:

As required by the Federal Credit Reform Act of 1990, the College Housing and Academic Facilities Loans account was separated into two distinct budget accounts—College Housing and Academic Facilities Loans Liquidating Account and College Housing and Academic Facilities Loans Program. The College Housing and Academic Facilities Loans Liquidating Account records all cash flows to and from the Government resulting from direct loans made to schools and colleges for construction and renovation of undergraduate academic facilities, student and faculty housing, and other educational facilities from loans obligated prior to fiscal year 1992.

This account is only partially self-financing since the amount of interest paid by borrowers, 5.5 percent, is lower than the amount the Department must pay Treasury for capital borrowed to finance the loans. The Secretary pays 8.14 percent interest on funds borrowed for 1991 loans. To meet the required repayment of interest and principal each year to Treasury, the Federal Credit Reform Act of 1990 has provided permanent appropriation authority.

The Federal Credit Reform Act of 1990 separates the College Housing and Academic Facilities Loans (CHAFL) account into two distinct operating activities and budget accounts—CHAFL (Liquidating) and CHAFL Program. The loan activity associated with loan awards made in fiscal year 1992 and beyond is recorded in the program account with the corresponding loan subsidies and Federal Administration. This program finances supports financing for the reconstruction, renovation, and construction of undergraduate academic facilities, housing and other postsecondary educational facilities for students and faculty. The priority is on renovation and reconstruction of older academic facilities and undergraduate academic facilities that have gone without major renovation or reconstruction for an extended period. Institutions receive direct interest-subsidized loans of 5 percent. This financing is intended to help higher education institutions finance reconstruction and renovation activities on more favorable terms.

This account is only partially self-financing since the amount of interest paid by borrowers, 5.5 percent, is lower than the amount the Department must pay Treasury for capital borrowed to finance the loans. The Secretary pays 8.14 percent interest on funds borrowed for 1991 loans residing in the CHAFL Liquidating account. To meet the required repayment of interest, principal, and defaults a loan subsidies appropriation of $7,539,000 was provided in 1992; a net amount of $556,000 was provided to meet Federal administration cost.

The Administration is proposing reauthorizing legislation for the expiring Higher Education Act. No funds are requested for the CHAFL program.

Program operations.—Loans in this account were made for construction and renovation of college housing facilities prior to 1987 under title IV of the Housing Act of 1950. The Higher Education Amendments of 1986 repealed title IV and gave the Secretary authority to manage outstanding college housing loans under title VII, Part F of the Higher Education Act. There is no new loan activity in this account. New loans made after 1986 under Part F are financed in the College Housing and Academic Facilities Loans Account.

Financing.—Loan capital for this program was provided primarily through Treasury borrowings and the sale of participation certificates which were backed by pools of college housing loans held by the Federal Government. The participation certificates sold by the Government National Mortgage Association (GNMA) and held by this account, were redeemed as of September 30, 1988. As of September 30, 1991, $632 million in loan capital is still due the Treasury at an annual interest rate of 2.75 percent.

Available resources (loan repayments, interest revenue, and other income in excess of operating expenses) will be used to redeem a portion of the agency's debt in outstanding Treasury borrowings, as is being done in 1992 and as was done in the three preceding years. Approximately $80 million will be repaid to Treasury in 1992 and $37 million will be repaid in 1993; $55 million was repaid in 1991.

The budget provides $5 thousand in 1993 to fund expenses related to prior year loan sales.

A total of $8.1 million in defaulted loans was converted to current status in 1991 from institutions in default. The status of defaulted loans is shown in the table below:

Research, statistics, and assessment activities aid students, teachers, administrators, and decisionmakers at all levels of education, as well as parents and other members of the public.

Research.—Research centers focus on topics of national concern in education. Additional individual projects and field-initiated research complement this work.

Regional laboratories determine and help meet the educational research and development needs in specified geographic regions. Study groups and national leadership conferences are also supported.

The Educational Resources Information Center system makes education literature accessible through computerized abstracts and indexes. Dissemination activities provide timely information to the public and educational practitioners.

Statistics.—Statistics are collected on educational institutions and on individuals to monitor trends in education. A coordinated program of statistical services is supported that provides assistance to States in developing comparable data bases and analyses of the implications of data.

Assessment.—The National Assessment of Educational Progress surveys young Americans to provide reliable information about the nation's attainment in certain important skill areas. Collection of both nationally- and State-representative data is planned.

Discretionary grant programs support innovation and demonstrations to identify effective strategies for improving educational outcomes.

Fund for innovation in education.—Funds support projects to identify and disseminate innovative educational approaches, including programs for technology education, computer-based education, comprehensive school health education, and innovative alcohol abuse education.

Fund for the Improvement and Reform of Schools and Teaching (FIRST).—Funds support projects to improve the performance of elementary and secondary school students and teachers and to develop family-school educational partnership activities.

Eisenhower mathematics and science education.—

National programs.—Funds support model demonstration programs of national significance in mathematics and science instruction. A major initiative will demonstrate comprehensive models for intensive retraining of math and science teachers in local school districts.

Regional consortia.—Awards are made to regional consortia to disseminate exemplary materials and provide technical assistance to help teachers and administrators implement new teaching methods and assessment tools.

National Diffusion Network.—Funds support the dissemination of exemplary educational projects and practices, including assistance for replication.

Blue ribbon schools.—Funds support the identification and recognition of outstanding elementary and secondary schools.

Javits gifted and talented students education.—Funds support projects designed to identify and meet the special educational needs of gifted and talented students and a national center for research and development in the education of gifted and talented children and youth. Economically disadvantaged students must be included among those to be served.

Star schools.—Funds support the acquisition of telecommunications equipment and the development of instructional programming for distance learning.

Educational partnerships.—Funds are awarded to partnerships of local educational agencies or institutions of higher education with business or non-profit organizations to apply the resources of the community to the needs of elementary and secondary or higher education and encourage businesses to work with students.

Territorial teacher training.—Grants are provided to the State educational agency in each Territory to provide assistance to train elementary and secondary school teachers.

Comparable amounts for 1991 ($2,072 thousand) and 1992 ($1,274 thousand) are included above.

Postsecondary education.—The postsecondary education activity includes the direct Federal costs of administering student aid and other higher education programs, including contractual costs associated with student aid delivery systems and program management improvements.

Other education programs.—This activity includes the direct Federal costs of administering elementary and secondary education, bilingual education, vocational and adult education, and special education programs, and programs for disabled persons. This activity also supports assessment, statistics, research and improvement activities.

Executive direction.—This activity includes the costs of providing centralized support and administrative services, overall policy development, and strategic planning for the Department. Included in the centralized activities are space and mail services; telecommunications; grants and contractual services; financial management and accounting, including preparation of auditable financial statements; ADP services; personnel management; budget formulation and execution, program evaluation; legal services; congressional and public relations; and intergovernmental affairs.

Reimbursable program.—Reimbursements to this account include funds for field reader costs and administrative expenses to carry out the Guaranteed Student Loans and College Housing and Academic Facilities Loans programs, as well as the costs of collecting defaulted student loans. The collections are made under contract with private agencies, and the costs are financed from collections.

Spending derives from contributions from the public. Activities supported in 1991 and 1992 include grants for short-term training of professionals for the care and welfare of people who are blind, the Drug-Free Schools Recognition Program, and the Gifts and Bequests Miscellaneous Fund. No new contributions are currently anticipated for 1993.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

The following section is proposed for deletion and does not appear below:

Sec. 306 ..... One-time provision amended the Higher Education Act permitting the National Commission on Responsibilities for Financing Postsecondary Education to receive gifts and donations.

Sec. 301. Funds appropriated in this Act to the American Printing House for the Blind, Howard University, the National Technical Institute for the Deaf, and Gallaudet University shall be subject to financial and program audit by the Secretary of Education and the Secretary may withhold all or any portion of these appropriations if he determines that an institution has not cooperated fully in the conduct of such audits.

Sec. 302. No part of the funds contained in this title may be used to force any school or school district which is desegregated as that term is defined in title IV of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, Public Law 88–352, to take any action to force the busing of students; to force on account of race, creed or color the abolishment of any school so desegregated; or to force the transfer or assignment of any student attending any elementary or secondary school so desegregated to or from a particular school over the protest of his or her parents or parent.

Sec. 303. (a) No part of the funds contained in this title shall be used to force any school or school district which is desegregated as that term is defined in title IV of the Civil Rights Act of 1964, Public Law 88–352, to take any action to force the busing of students; to require the abolishment of any school so desegregated; or to force on account of race, creed or color the transfer of students to or from a particular school so desegregated as a condition precedent to obtaining Federal funds otherwise available to any State, school district or school.

(b) No funds appropriated in this Act may be used for the transportation of students or teachers (or for the purchase of equipment for such transportation) in order to overcome racial imbalance in any school or school system, or for the transportation of students or teachers (or for the purchase of equipment for such transportation) in order to carry out a plan of racial desegregation of any school or school system.

SEC. 304. None of the funds contained in this Act shall be used to require, directly or indirectly, the transportation of any student to a school other than the school which is nearest the student's home, except for a student requiring special education, to the school offering such special education, in order to comply with title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964. For the purpose of this section an indirect requirement of transportation of students includes the transportation of students to carry out a plan involving the reorganization of the grade structure of schools, the pairing of schools, or the clustering of schools, or any combination of grade restructuring, pairing or clustering. The prohibition described in this section does not include the establishment of magnet schools.

SEC. 305. No funds appropriated under this Act may be used to prevent the implementation of programs of voluntary prayer and meditation in the public schools. (Department of Education Appropriations Act, 1992.)

Note.—Includes $4,703,545 thousand in budget authority in 1992 and $4,756,739 thousand in 1993 for activities previously financed from Atomic energy defense activities account. The comparable amount for 1991 is $4,635,854 thousand.

Weapons activities.—This program includes the following activities:

Research and Development.—This activity provides for the research, development, and engineering of U.S. nuclear weapons. Research and development on inertial confinement fusion is also included and the transfer of nonsensitive defense programs' funded technology to the private sector is promoted. The program also supports facility construction, maintenance, and restoration for the nuclear weapons laboratories.

Nuclear Weapons Testing.—This activity provides for the research and testing of U.S. nuclear weapons at the Nevada Test Site (NTS). The program also supports facility construction, maintenance, and restoration for the NTS.

Production and Surveillance.—This activity provides for the production and maintenance of the U.S. nuclear weapon stockpile, their lifetime surveillance, and retirement and disposal of weapons and weapon components. The program supports facility construction, maintenance, and restoration for the nuclear weapons production plants.

Weapons Program Direction.—This program provides personnel and contractual services for the Federal management direction and the administration of selected Defense Programs' missions.

Complex Reconfiguration.—This program supports the efforts to "reconfigure" the nuclear weapons complex into Complex-21, which will be smaller, less diverse, and more efficient and cost effective than today's Complex. As part of the reconfiguration effort, a Programmatic Environmental Impact Statement is being prepared.

New production reactors.—This program provides for the acquisition and construction of New Production Reactor capacity to meet National security requirements. It provides for the planning and development of a program to ensure safety, quality, and environmental protection as well as timely completion of the new facilities. During 1993 activities will include: selection of a reactor technology and a site; compliance with National Environmental Policy Act requirements; continuation of the design process for the selected reactor technology; further development and implementation of the safety review process; continuation of facility engineering and design; and tritium target development.

and with internal Department of Energy requirements in an expeditious manner.

Environmental restoration.—Provides for assessments, cleanup, and decontamination and decommissioning at contaminated DOE facilities and sites. Various amounts and types of waste have accumulated at these facilities and sites as a result of past departmental activities spanning nearly five decades.

Waste management.—Provides for the management of wastes generated by defense activities, through treatment, storage or disposal of various waste types including radioactive, hazardous, mixed or sanitary wastes in compliance with applicable local, State, and Federal requirements and internal Department of Energy requirements.

Technology development.—Provides for research and development activities which will develop and apply more effective technologies for meeting the Department of Energy's 30-year environmental restoration and waste management goals.

Transportation management.—Responsible for ensuring the safe, secure, and economical transportation of DOE materials, including radioactive and other hazardous materials and waste.

Program direction.—Provides salaries and expenses for headquarters staff for administration and oversight of environmental restoration and waste management programs.

Materials production and other defense programs.—This program includes the following activities:

Materials production.—This activity provides nuclear materials for national defense and nondefense requirements. To accomplish this mission, it operates and maintains a complex of production reactors, chemical processing plants, and support facilities.

Verification and control technology.—This activity supports the development and execution of U.S. national security and foreign policy in the areas of treaty verification and implementation, intelligence, and arms control. The program consists primarily of detection technology, analytical support, and intelligence. Detection technology efforts include research, development, and fabrication of seismic, nonseismic, and satellite devices. Analytical support provides technical support to both arms control and intelligence concerns.

Nuclear safeguards and security.—This activity provides for the development of measures for the protection of nuclear weapons, nuclear materials, and facilities against theft, sabotage, espionage, and terrorist activity. Also provided is technical support to international activities designed to minimize the proliferation of nuclear weapons. In the area of classification and technology policy, this program protects classified and unclassified sensitive information critical to the National security and controls nuclear energy-related exports.

Security investigations.—This activity ensures that the common defense and the security of the United States will not be endangered by the granting of security clearances for personnel who, in the performance of their official duties, must have access to restricted data, National security information or special nuclear material, or who occupy a designated critical sensitive position. Security investigations are used as a basis to determine whether individuals are an acceptable security risk for such access.

Naval reactors.—This program provides for the design, development, and testing of improved naval nuclear propulsion plants and reactor cores having increased reliability, improved performance, and simplified operating and maintenance requirements. These reactors are necessary to meet a variety of military requirements. During 1993, work will continue to improve existing submarine and surface ship reactors and plant components, and to develop advanced reactor concepts and propulsion plants. This program also continues facility upgrading, provides equipment to support ongoing reactor design and testing activities, and provides for the start of standing down the highly enriched uranium production facility at Portsmouth, Ohio.

Office of Security Evaluations.—This program provides independent assessment of the safeguards and security posture of the DOE. This program is the principal focal point within the Department for all safeguards and security inspection and evaluation matters. Oversight is accomplished through the conduct of inspections at field sites and Headquarters to evaluate the status of protection provided national security interests, public safety, and program operations. Assessments, evaluations, and special studies of the effectiveness of protection policies and programs are conducted to provide a consolidated statement of the status of protection programs throughout the DOE complex. The budget also includes the Radioactive Materials Packaging Certification program, which is responsible for certifying that radioactive material packages are in safety compliance with federal regulations and for maintaining a technology base to support certification activities.

Education programs.—Provides support for science and mathematics education at the precollege, undergraduate, and graduate levels.

High energy physics.—Research in this program focuses on the fundamental constituents of matter, the fundamental forces in nature and the transformations between matter and energy at the most elemental level. The program includes experimental and theoretical particle physics research and related advanced accelerator and detector technology R&D. The primary mode of experimental research involves the study of collisions of energetic particles using large particle accelerators or colliding beam facilities by means of advanced multiparticle detector systems and associated electronics. Research in 1993 will continue studies of known fundamental constituents of particles, initiate searches for new particle constituents, and continue to pursue a unified description of the four fundamental forces in nature.

The 1993 high energy physics budget request provides for continued research at the Tevatron, the Stanford Linear Collider (SLC), the Alternating Gradient Synchrotron (AGS) and advanced accelerator and detector R&D related to next generation high energy particle accelerators. The operation of the Tevatron will provide the capability for utilizing Fermilab's superconducting synchrotron as a 900 GeV on 900 GeV proton anti-proton collider and as a 800 GeV fixed target facility, while Stanford Linear Accelerator Center's SLC will produce 50 GeV on 50 GeV electron-positron collisions. Both facilities will allow access into previously unexplored areas of high energy physics. The request also provides continuing support for effective participation by university based groups in experimental research, including accelerator user group efforts and non-accelerator experiments, and for theoretical research efforts. The 1993 high energy physics capital equipment request provides for meeting the highest priority needs associated with the detectors required to implement the research programs using the new capabilities being provided by the Tevatron proton anti-proton collider at Fermilab and by the SLC electron-positron collider at SLAC. The construction request provides for continuation of the new Main Injector ring at the Fermi National Laboratory which will further enhance the capability of the Tevatron.

Superconducting Super Collider.—The Superconducting Super Collider (SSC) is a new powerful particle accelerator capable of exploring the TeV mass region essential to advancing understanding of the fundamental nature of matter and energy. In 1993, R&D efforts will continue on magnet design, testing and fabrication, design and testing of other collider technical systems and on detector R&D. The request for capital equipment is in support of these R&D programs. Construction funding requested in 1993 will be used for the magnet industrialization program, the technical systems fabrication, and on-site construction of conventional facilities.

Nuclear Physics.—The goal of this program is to understand the interactions and structure of atomic nuclei and to investigate fundamental particles and forces of nature as manifested in nuclear matter. Program emphasis in 1993 centers on the role that quarks play in the makeup and interactions of nuclei, application of nuclear physics to astrophysical problems and properties of neutrinos, and the mechanisms by which colliding nuclei exchange mass, energy, and angular momentum. The program supports and provides experimental equipment to qualified scientists and research groups conducting experiments in nuclear physics accelerator facilities around the world.

The 1993 nuclear physics budget requests continuation of construction for the Relativistic Heavy Ion Collider (RHIC) at Brookhaven and for the Continuous Electron Beam Accelerator Facility at Newport News, Virginia.

The request provides for research and operations of the LAMPF facility at Los Alamos, AGS/Tandem facility at Brookhaven, the Bevalac at Lawrence Berkeley, and smaller low energy heavy ion facilities. The program also supports the operation of dedicated university accelerator facilities.

General science program direction.—Provides direction, management, and administrative support to HEP and NP programs within general science.

ENERGY SUPPLY, RESEARCH AND DEVELOPMENT ACTIVITIES—Continued

The purpose of energy supply research and development activities is to develop new energy technologies and improve existing energy technologies. Included in this mission are basic and applied research along with selected technology development.

This account provides funds for operating expenses, capital equipment and construction projects for the research and technological development of the various energy technologies under examination in the energy supply, research and development mission.

Solar and renewable energy technology.—The 1993 budget continues a recent pattern of growth. In the four years since 1989, funding for this area has increased by 68 percent. This growth reflects the Administration's commitment, as reflected in the National Energy Strategy, to an aggressive program of research and development of promising technologies that will increase the environmentally protective production and use of domestic energy resources. Toward this end, the Office of Conservation and Renewable Energy seeks to work with industry to strengthen the technology base leading to new products and processes for the commercial market. Program activities range from basic research in universities and national laboratories to applied research and development and proof-of-concept projects with industrial firms. A strong and balanced program is proposed for 1993 to contribute toward strengthening the nation's energy security, promoting energy efficiency, and increasing industrial competitiveness and Federal technology transfer.

Utility Technologies.—The proposed 1993 budget includes a strengthened and streamlined effort to develop solar electric supply options, focusing on photovoltaic (PV) energy systems, solar thermal systems, and wind energy. The PV program will continue a balanced program aimed at increasing the solar conversion efficiency of thin-film and concentrator materials, while assisting in the development of mass-production manufacturing capability. The solar thermal program will support cost-shared development of dish/Stirling systems for remote power use and central receiver systems for grid-connected electric generation. The wind energy program will continue its core research program while significantly increasing emphasis on cost-shared development of utility-scale advanced wind turbines and collaborative projects which target high-potential near-term commercial opportunities. Other continuing solar energy activities include: thermochemical conversion of biomass to energy, development of a reliable solar resource base, and construction of a new research facility at the National Renewable Energy Laboratory, formerly the Solar Energy Research Institute.

The 1993 budget for geothermal energy reflects a continuing effort to work with the industry and the utility sector to identify their highest R&D priorities. The result is an increased emphasis on the reservoir identification, drilling, and conversion technologies needed to develop the Nation's hydrothermal resources fully.

The Electric Energy Systems program includes substantially increased support for research on potential health effects from exposure to electric and magnetic fields (EMF), pursuant to congressional direction to lead and coordinate the Federal effort on this topic. The program also includes research on high-temperature superconductivity technology for power systems. The Energy Storage program has been restructured to focus on solutions to T&D problems and power generation limitations currently affecting many of the Nation's utilities and includes research on the production and storage of hydrogen.

Building Technologies.—1993 activities in the solar buildings program will focus on the cost-effective use of solar energy for space heating and domestic hot water.

Industrial Technologies.—As part of the solar thermal program, 1993 activities will continue development of the use of concentrated solar energy to break down toxic organic wastes and for advanced materials processing. Within the biofuels program, research will continue on the biochemical conversion of municipal solid waste to methane in landfills, in order to accelerate the process and increase yields.

Transportation Technologies.—Nearly two-thirds of the petroleum consumed in the Nation, roughly half of it imported, is used for transportation. In addition, the transportation sector is a major contributor to the Nation's air pollution, particularly urban smog. For these reasons, the Office of Transportation Technologies seeks to: improve the efficiency of the transportation sector through advanced vehicle technologies capable of using alternative fuels; develop cost-effective and low-polluting alternative fuels; and support the infrastructure needed to allow industry and consumers to adopt and use these new technologies and fuels.

In addition to initiatives contained in the Energy Conservation account, the 1993 Energy Supply transportation program supports continuation of a major effort within the biofuels program to develop competitively priced alternative fuels from biomass feedstocks. Specifically targeted within the National Energy Strategy as a target of accelerated R&D, the program emphasizes the biochemical conversion of biomass to ethanol and will scale up successful laboratory research in conjunction with industry to verify key process assumptions.

Technical and Financial Assistance.—1993 activities include continued support for the Committee on Renewable Energy Commerce and Trade (CORECT), the regional biomass program, and solar and renewable energy information programs.

Nuclear fission.—In 1993 the Civilian Reactor Development program continues on two parallel and complementary paths to ensure that nuclear energy continues to make a vital contribution to national energy security. The Light Water Reactor (LWR) program will focus on making standardized advanced light water reactors available to assist in meeting the increased electrical capacity needs of the first decade of the next century. The program includes institutional and regulatory reform and supporting technology efforts. Cooperative programs with industry have the objective of ensuring that the designs developed are those of interest to utilities. The Advanced Reactor R&D program will focus on the development of the Modular High Temperature Gas Reactor (MHTGR) program and Integral Fast Reactor (IFR) for the Advanced Liquid Metal Reactor (ALMR) program. In addition to supplying energy, the ALMR/IFR provides a potential opportunity to extend resources and potentially improve LWR high level waste management by recycling the actinides from LWR spent fuel. The space reactor and advanced radioisotope power systems programs will continue to develop and produce nuclear power systems, including purchases from foreign sources, for use in U.S. space missions and in support of military and civilian applications. The space exploration initiative provides for Departmental support of the President's new initiative, to be conducted in cooperation with NASA and DOD to develop nuclear power sources and nonnuclear technologies for moon and Mars exploration. The early program will focus on technology development with a search for new innovative approaches and technologies.

Environment, safety and health.—The Office of Environment, Safety and Health is made up of three programs: Environment, Safety and Health; Environmental Policy Analysis; and Scientific and Engineering Recruitment, Training and Development:

Environment, Safety and Health.—Environment, Safety and Health is responsible for oversight of all Department of Energy (DOE) activities to determine whether they are being conducted in conformance with applicable environmental laws and regulations and in a manner designed to ensure that the health and safety of workers and the public are protected. The Office also ensures that National environmental protection goals are incorporated in all DOE program areas; ensures that environmental, health and non-nuclear safety concerns are identified, prioritized and addressed through corrective and remedial actions; and provides liaison with other Federal agencies, such as the Environmental Protection Agency, the Department of Labor, and the Department of Health and Human Services, concerning regulatory efforts and specific actions of those agencies that may have an effect upon the Department's operations.

As a result of the Secretary's Ten Point initiative, the Office will continue to implement the Environment, Safety and Health Compliance Assessment ("Tiger Team") program. This program will provide the Secretary with current assessments of the status of DOE operating facilities' compliance with applicable orders, statutes, and regulations pertaining to environment, safety and health (including OSHA) considerations. In addition, baseline audits will be conducted at small DOE sites which will not be subjected to Tiger Team assessments.

Efforts will continue with the review of environmental legislation and regulations to ensure DOE-wide understanding and compliance with environmental laws and regulations. DOE-wide environmental policies, standards and directives will be developed as well as environmental guidance and training programs which cover the full range of environmental statutes, regulations, and internal requirements.

The Office continues to support the timely implementation of the Department's proposed actions by ensuring compliance with the National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA) and related environmental review requirements that are necessary prior to project commitment. The NEPA review workload is expected to increase significantly as a result of DOE project development and environmental compliance activities in support of the Secretary's Ten Point initiative, and as a result of the Secretary's NEPA policy statement, SEN–15.

Establishing effective compliance agreements with the States and the Environmental Protection Agency continues to be a focus of environmental issues coordination and oversight. Oversight of the environment, safety and health aspects of the DOE award fee system will continue. Similar oversight efforts are continuing relative to the development and implementation of the Environmental Restoration and Waste Management Five-Year Plan.

The Office will continue to provide independent internal oversight of DOE line programs for occupational safety, aviation, firearms, high explosives, industrial safety, facility safety, packaging and transportation safety, and quality assurance conducted by program offices, operations offices, power administrations, and operating contractors. Independent appraisal, reviews, and technical evaluations of the operation and management of DOE's facilities (exclusive of nuclear reactor and non-reactor nuclear facilities) will be conducted. Diagnostic assessments of DOE line management's safety and health program performance at nuclear and non-nuclear facilities will be conducted, and the Site Resident Program will be expanded to additional sites.

In response to the Secretarial Panel for the Evaluation of Epidemiologic Research Activities (SPEERA), the Secretary established an Office of Health in Environment, Safety and Health. This Office conducts a comprehensive DOE occupational health program, a strengthened program of oversight of the occupational medical program of the Department's contractors, and a comprehensive epidemiological and health surveillance program in cooperation with the Department of Health and Human Services.

Environmental Policy Analysis.—This office is responsible for developing the analytical framework and database for assessing the environmental implication of energy policy decisions and programs in light of changes in the Nation's energy situation, analyzing legislative and international environmental and resource proposals, and coordinating Department of Energy policy on such proposals, and for analysis and coordination activities for environmental issues related to energy production, delivery, use, and waste disposal. The immediate objectives are to assess the relationship between energy production and use and international and national environmental goals, and to assess the effects on energy supply and demand from changing environmental laws and regulations. For 1993, efforts to achieve these objectives will involve: (a) environmentally-related implementation actions and assessing the effect of the first National Energy Strategy (NES) implementation on the environment, including global climate change, (b) participating in the development and implementation of the 1993 NES biennial report, (c) representing the Department at international discussions of global climate and transboundary environmental concerns involving energy implications, (d) providing effective DOE representation on environmental and related regulatory issues, and (e) providing timely, high quality analysis of, and recommendations on, emerging environmental policy issues.

Scientific and Engineering Recruitment, Training, and Development.—This Office is responsible for the development and implementation of a five-year plan for the recruitment, training, and professional development of technically trained professionals to staff and manage the Department's technically complex programs and facilities. Consistent with this responsibility, this Office will ensure that programs are in place to systematically analyze scientific and engineering job requirements, assess and identify the necessary technical qualifications and skills of each position and target training as appropriate, implement various recruiting initiatives to supply qualifed staff for all levels of technical vacancies, and provide a trained cadre from which the Secretary can fill the Department's senior technical managerial positions with qualified executives.

Office of nuclear safety.—On September 28, 1989, the Secretary of Energy established the Office of Nuclear Safety and transferred to it the nuclear safety oversight function previously performed in the Office of the Assistant Secretary for Environment, Safety and Health. In 1993, the Office of Nuclear Safety will continue independent oversight of line management performance, including oversight of the line's self assessment activities, to ensure proper development and implementation of reactor and nonreactor nuclear facility safety policies and standards throughout the Department. The Office will be responsible for concurrence in restart operations when any Department of Energy nuclear facility has been shut down for nuclear, environmental, chemical, radiological, or fire/safety reasons and for new starts of nuclear facilities. Under the authority of the Price-Anderson Amendments Act of 1988, the Office will continue its enforcement of the Department's nuclear safety rules, regulations, and orders. An on-site presence will be established at nuclear facility sites, providing direct and continuing interaction between independent oversight at Headquarters and activities in the field involving nuclear safety.

ENERGY SUPPLY, RESEARCH AND DEVELOPMENT ACTIVITIES—Continued

Biological and environmental research.—This program develops the knowledge base necessary to identify, understand, and anticipate the long-term health and environmental consequences of energy use and development and utilizes the Department's unique scientific and technological capabilities to solve major scientific problems in the environment, medicine, and biology. Planned 1993 activities include programs in global climate change; terrestrial and oceanographic processes; molecular, cellular and systemic studies on the biological effects of radiation, including radon emissions; structural biology; and medical applications of nuclear technology. Additional funds in 1993 are also provided for the Human Genome Program, structural biology and for carbon dioxide research to determine the quantitative linkage between the rise of greenhouse gases and global warming.

Spill test facility.—The overall goal is to conduct user-sponsored spill tests in support of safety research associated with the handling, shipping and storage of liquefied gaseous fuels and other hazardous fluids. Currently, several options are being considered regarding future use of the facility.

Fusion energy.—Fusion is a potential energy source that offers the promise of being safe, environmentally benign, and economically affordable. This program provides support for a goal-oriented research and development program to demonstrate the technical feasibility of fusion energy. This effort represents an important part of a comprehensive, balanced National Energy Strategy. The long term goals of the program are to have an operating demonstration powerplant by 2025 and an operating commercial power plant by 2040. The strategy for achieving these goals is to gain the scientific understanding of the complex processes involved in fusion and to use this understanding to design and operate an engineering test facility to develop fusion technology. The 1993 budget provides for U.S. support for participation in a world-wide effort to develop the engineering design of an International Thermonuclear Experimental Reactor (ITER), the conduct of deuterium-tritium fueled experiments for the first time in the Tokamak Fusion Test Reactor, and conceptual design of a new experimental device to improve the current tokamak machine performance and contribute to the ITER effort. It has been decided that the program should not proceed with the construction of the Burning Plasma Experiment project because of projected fiscal constraints. In addition, support is provided to develop inertial fusion energy by conducting R&D on a heavy ion driver concept.

Supporting research and technical analysis.—The role of these programs is to expand the scientific and engineering base for future energy technology development and to provide independent, objective evaluations of energy research activities. Support is also provided for university related research and manpower training including the use of facilities at the national laboratories for student research and education.

Basic energy sciences.—This program funds basic research in the physical, biological, and engineering sciences in support of both the nuclear and non-nuclear technology programs. The principal focus of the basic energy sciences program is energy; however, a number of other important national goals are also supported including U.S. leadership in science and technology, U.S. economic competitiveness and the training of scientists and engineers. In 1993, work will continue in materials sciences, chemical sciences, advanced energy projects, energy biosciences, and research in engineering systems, applied mathematics, and the geosciences. The 1993 budget request attempts to maintain the necessary balance between all of the elements of the BES program. This budget is designed to balance: research and facility needs; university and laboratory research support; core research and enhanced activities; and ensure that the BES program is responsive to the overall NES goals. The budget request for Basic Energy Sciences includes an enhancement for materials research as part of the U.S. Advanced Materials and Processing Program. Additionally, the budget request takes into consideration the need to strengthen the area of biotechnology in support of the FCCSET recommendations. The Applied Mathematical Sciences subprogram includes the DOE contribution for the second year of the President's High Performance Computing and Communications (HPCC) Program. Strengthened research focused on the goals of the National Energy Strategy is also requested. These research enhancements will strengthen small science at both the DOE laboratories and universities. The request contains funding to continue the 6–7 GeV Synchrotron Radiation Source, to initiate commissioning of the 1–2 GeV Synchrotron Radiation Source, and to continue advanced conceptual design for the Advanced Neutron Source.

University and Science Education.—This program helps maintain strong scientific/technical research capabilities in support of the Department's long-range energy R&D mission in the university and private sector and the national laboratories. Specific activities supported include: university reactor fuel assistance; university laboratory cooperative science centers; energy manpower development; and related education and training activities. This program includes support for the purchase of state-of-the-art scientific instrumentation used in energy-related research areas such as geological sciences, materials characterization, catalysis, and health effects research.

Technology Transfer.—This program supports efforts to more effectively transfer research and technology from Energy Research laboratories by supporting cost-shared research projects to a point where they can be evaluated for commercial applications.

Energy research analysis.—This activity involves the independent assessment of existing or proposed technological initiatives, including examination of the base of research that underlies energy supply and utilization technologies.

Multiprogram energy laboratories facilities support.—The goal of the multiprogram energy laboratories facilities support program is to provide funds for rehabilitating and replacing deficient common-use utilities, roads, and buildings at the multiprogram laboratories. This program also includes support to correct deficiencies identified in the Tiger Team reviews.

In-house energy management.—This program funds energy conservation retrofit projects at Department facilities. These projects are designed to improve the efficiency of DOE energy use and set an example for other Federal agencies and the private sector. Surveys are conducted to identify cost-effective candidate projects and projects are then selected on a competitive basis using as the primary criterion the greatest economic return.

Technical information management program.—This program contributes to DOE's missions in advancing energy and nuclear defense technologies and protecting U.S. economic and military security through the effective management and control of the Department's scientific and technical knowledge which is contained in its information resources. Major objectives which are structured to meet the overall purpose are the effective management, control, and use of the results of DOE's multibillion dollar research program, and the acquisition and management of results of worldwide investment in energy R&D.

Facilities infrastructure, replacement, and modernization program.—This program supports a departmental initiative to conduct a condition assessment survey of all Department of Energy facilities.

Environmental restoration and waste management.—The Environmental Restoration and Waste Management Program encompasses the following non-defense activities:

Corrective Activities.—This program provides for those activities needed to bring active and standby Energy Supply facilities into compliance with applicable local, State and Federal requirements and internal Department of Energy requirements in an expeditious manner.

Environmental Restoration.—This program provides for assessments, cleanup, and decontamination and decommissioning at contaminated DOE and legislatively authorized non-government facilities. Various amounts and types of waste have accumulated at these facilities and sites as a result of past department activities spanning nearly five decades.

Waste Management.—This program provides for the management of wastes generated by Energy Supply activities, through treatment, storage or disposal of various waste types including radioactive, hazardous, mixed or sanitary wastes in compliance with applicable local, State and Federal requirements and internal Department of Energy requirements.

Policy and management.—Provides executive direction, management assistance, and administrative support to all programs within energy supply activities.

FOSSIL ENERGY RESEARCH AND DEVELOPMENT

(INCLUDING RESCISSION)

For necessary expenses in carrying out fossil energy research and development activities, under the authority of the Department of Energy Organization Act (Public Law 95–91), including the acquisition of interest, including defeasible and equitable interests in any real property or any facility or for plant or facility acquisition or expansion, [$458,107,000] $311,325,000, to remain available until expended, [of which $338,000 is for the functions of the Office of the Federal Inspector for the Alaska Natural Gas Transportation System established pursuant to the authority of Public Law 94–586 (90 Stat. 2908–2909) and] of which $3,100,000 is available for the fuels program: Provided, [That none of the funds made available under this head may be managed by any individual who is not subject to the "employment floor" provisions in Public Law 97–257 as amended or, in the alternate, who is not the Acting Assistant Secretary for Fossil Energy: Provided further,] That no part of the sum herein made available shall be used for the field testing of nuclear explosives in the recovery of oil and gas[: Provided further, That the funds provided under this head in fiscal year 1991 for the purchase of supercomputer time needed for Fossil Energy programmatic purpose shall be provided as a grant to the University of Nevada-Las Vegas: Provided further, That disbursements pursuant to such a grant shall be made only upon the actual use of such supercomputer time upon request by Fossil Energy and receipt by Fossil Energy of the products therefrom].

[Of the funds provided herein, $2,000,000 shall be available for a grant for the National Research Center for Coal and Energy, and $1,500,000 shall be for a grant to be matched on an equal basis from other sources for the University of North Dakota Energy and Environmental Research Center.]

[Of the funds herein provided, $40,800,000 is for implementation of the June 1984 multiyear, cost-shared magnetohydrodynamics program targeted on proof-of-concept testing: Provided, That 35 per centum private sector cash or in-kind contributions shall be required for obligations in fiscal year 1992, and for each subsequent fiscal year's obligations private sector contributions shall increase by 5 per centum over the life of the proof-of-concept plan: Provided further, That existing facilities, equipment, and supplies, or previously expended research or development funds are not cost-sharing for the purposes of this appropriation, except as amortized, depreciated, or expended in normal business practice: Provided further, That cost-sharing shall not be required for the costs of constructing or operating Government-owned facilities or for the costs of Government organizations, National Laboratories, or universities and such costs shall not be used in calculating the required percentage for private sector contributions: Provided further, That private sector contribution percentages need not be met on each contract but must be met in total for each fiscal year.]

[Funds in the amount of $8,000,000 provided under this head in Public Law 101–512 to initiate a ten-year industry/government cooperative agreement to design, construct, and operate a proof-of-concept oil shale facility employing modified in-situ retorting and surface processing of mined shale and waste at Federal Prototype Oil Shale Lease Tract Cb near Meeker, Colorado, are rescinded.] (Department of the Interior and Related Agencies Appropriations Act, 1992.)

The Fossil Energy programs support the National Energy Strategy through research and development that will strengthen the technology base on which industry can draw in developing future new products and processes for the commercial market. The programs support activities ranging from basic research in universities and national laboratories to applied R&D and proof-of-concept projects in private sector firms.

Reductions in the Fossil Energy R&D programs are proposed in the 1993 budget that will reduce Federal in-house R&D at the Energy Technology Centers and will continue limited Federal support of company-specific technology development and demonstration activities. The program continues to fund high-priority, high risk and cross-cutting research that will improve the Nation's ability to cleanly and efficiently use coal, and to enhance the economic recovery of our oil and gas reserves.

Coal R&D.—The objectives of this program will be to continue generic, technology base and environmental research to provide an adequate scientific and engineering knowledge base to foster technological advances by the private sector. The 1993 research program provides for a continued, limited Federal role in high-risk R&D that supports technology development by the private sector. These efforts will include the Advanced Research and Technology Development program,

Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis with additional advanced research efforts conducted in the Advanced Research portions of the Coal Liquefaction, Control Technology and Coal Preparation, Combustion Systems, Fuel Cells, and Surface Coal Gasification programs. The coal program for 1993 is focused on both high-efficiency, low pollution systems aimed at meeting increasingly tough environmental requirements, and on technology with the potential to produce economically competitive liquid fuels from coal. We plan to conclude work on coal-fired diesels, direct coal-fired turbines, atmospheric fluid bed, and residential/commercial systems. We propose no further investments in underground coal gasification. On coal liquefaction, our goal is to withdraw from the Wilsonville facility and find a smaller, cheaper facility to conduct cost-shared research with industry. We will continue work at LaPorte, but increase the level of industry cost-share.

Oil, gas and shale.—The Advanced Extraction and Process Technology (AEPT) and Enhanced Oil Recovery (EOR) are proceeding with the Oil Implementation Plan to support very aggressive NES enhanced oil recovery objectives. One major procurement is expected per year, after the initial one in 1992 which, among other things, will indicate the level of cost-share obtainable from industry.

Consistent with the NES objectives, the Fossil Energy R&D program on natural gas has been redesigned. This program, previously focused on unconventional gas recovery, is now focused on enhanced gas production, storage technology, and high efficiency, low-NO_x turbines. As in all other 1993 programs, industry and GRI cost-share is a key feature of this initiative.

Program direction and management support.—This program provides the funding for both Headquarters and field personnel and overhead expenses in Fossil Energy. In addition, it provides support for the day-to-day project management functions.

Federal Inspector for the Alaska natural gas pipeline.—Activities formerly included under the Office of the Federal Inspector for the Alaska natural gas pipeline are now funded in this line item, in accordance with the 1986 appropriation. Funding for this program will end in fiscal year 1992.

Environmental restoration.—The Department of Energy is assisting in payments for the environmental clean-up of former Fossil Energy projects as required by the Environmental Protection Agency.

Fuels conversion.—This program will continue regulatory reviews and oversight of the transmission of natural gas and electricity across the U.S. borders and processes certification of alternate fuel capability.

Naval Petroleum and Oil Shale Reserves

For necessary expenses in carrying out naval petroleum and oil shale reserve activities, [$235,300,000] $238,094,000, to remain available until expended: Provided, [That notwithstanding any other provision of law, revenues received from use and operation of the Naval Petroleum Reserves Numbered 1, 2, and 3 and the Naval Oil Shale Reserves and estimated to total $523,000,000 for fiscal year 1992 shall be retained and used for the specific purpose of offsetting costs incurred by the Department in carrying out naval petroleum and oil shale reserve activities: Provided further, That the sum herein appropriated shall be reduced as such revenues are received so as to result in a final fiscal year 1992 appropriation estimated at not more than $0:] *That the President is authorized and directed to lease Naval Petroleum Reserve numbered 1 (Elk Hills) competitively. Any lease entered into pursuant to this proviso shall require a bonus payment of at least $1.2 billion in fiscal year 1993 or the initial year of the lease and an annual royalty payment equal to 12.5 percent of the value of the oil, natural gas, and other hydrocarbon resources removed or sold from the lease. Seven percent of the lease bonus payment and fifty percent of the royalty payments shall be paid to the State of California; amounts accruing to the State of California shall be paid by the Federal Government in seven equal annual payments, beginning from the date the Federal Government receives the first installment of the bonus payment from the lease. The lease shall further provide that parties leasing the reserve shall sell to small refiners and producers a set portion of crude oil production, not to exceed 25 percent of the estimated annual crude oil production at the reserve. Section 160 (a), (b), and (d) of the Energy Policy and Conservation Act (42 U.S.C. 6240 (a), (b) and (d)) shall cease to apply to the reserve. The Secretary of Energy shall create for the use of the Secretary of Defense at the Secretary of Defense's sole discretion a Defense Petroleum Inventory consisting of ten million barrels of crude oil, using for this purpose proceeds received from the lease of Naval Petroleum Reserve Numbered 1. NAVAL PETROLEUM AND OIL SHALE RESERVES—Continued

This program includes those activities necessary to operate, explore, conserve, develop, and produce the naval petroleum reserves at the maximum efficient rate and to conserve the oil shale reserves. This includes routine operation and maintenance, development and exploration drilling, environmental and conservation work, and construction and installation of on-reserve facilities and related systems required for the collection, storage, and distribution of produced petroleum and related products. The 1993 budget proposes to lease NPR-1 competitively at the end of 1993. The field would be leased competitively to the highest bidder at a royalty rate of 12.5 percent. The budget includes a lease bonus estimated at $2.1 billion to the Federal Government. Of that amount, $1.2 billion would be payable in 1993; the balance would be payable in four equal annual installments between 1994 and 1997. The proposal also includes the creation of a 10-million barrel Defense Petroleum Inventory to be funded from lease proceeds. In addition, the State of California would share in the lease proceeds receiving 50 percent of the lease royalties and 7 percent of the lease bonus.

The 1993 budget represents significant growth over 1992. Indeed, in the four years since 1989, funding for energy conservation R&D has more than doubled. This growth reflects the Administration's commitment, as reflected in the National Energy Strategy, to an aggressive program of research and development of promising technologies for improving energy end-use efficiency in the buildings, industry, transportation, and utility sectors of the economy, and to providing needed technical and financial assistance in these areas to the States and to the public. Toward these ends, the Office of Conservation and Renewable Energy seeks to work with industry to strengthen the technology base leading to new products and processes for the commercial market. Program activities range from basic research in universities and national laboratories to applied research and development and proof-of-concept projects with industrial firms. A strong and balanced program is proposed for 1993 to contribute toward strengthening the nation's energy security, promoting energy efficiency, and increasing industrial competitiveness and Federal technology transfer.

Building Technologies.—As a Nation, we spend approximately $200 billion annually on energy for commercial and residential buildings. The Office of Building Technologies seeks to improve the efficiency of that energy use in new and existing buildings, including the building envelope, space conditioning systems, and lighting and appliances, and to develop and apply cost-effective renewable energy technologies.

1993 activities for encouraging energy-efficient buildings include research in materials and structures, advanced lighting, heating and cooling equipment, indoor air quality, and building systems interactions. Research also will continue on solar cooling technologies and on integrating renewable energy technologies with energy-efficient building practices. The program also will continue to encourage use of Federal building energy standards and guidelines.

In addition, the effort to achieve greater energy efficiency in Federal facilities will be intensified, pursuant to the President's issuance of Executive Order 12759 on Federal energy management. Technology transfer activities will focus on information dissemination to architects, builders, engineers, the business community, and the general public, including the development of programs to encourage the purchase of energy-efficient housing through energy-efficient mortgages and home energy rating systems.

Industrial Technologies.—Industry accounts for approximately one-third of total energy use in the United States. In 1989, over 29 quads of energy were used by industry, at a cost of about $100 billion. Process improvements which minimize the production of waste materials and which use wastes by upgrading them to higher-value products are achievable in a variety of industrial settings. The Office of Industrial Technologies supports industrial research and development of technologies that are directed towards these opportunities. These activities address both efficiency of energy demand and the use of alternative energy supplies.

1993 activities related to energy demand reduction are aimed at important new technologies in both the near and long term. Near-term technologies include advanced drying systems for textiles and paper production, improved high-temperature heat pumps, improved steelmaking processes, and advanced sensors for on-line process measurement. Long-term technologies include corrosion-resistant ultra-high temperature materials, low-energy sulfur-free paper pulping, and materials and catalysts "by design."

The 1993 budget also includes a significant program, heavily cost-shared by industry, in industrial waste minimization. U.S. industry produces about 12 billion tons of waste each year. The cost of handling, cleaning, and disposing of these wastes is $45 billion per year and rising rapidly. The energy savings opportunity associated with them is 3 quads per year, or roughly 10 percent of the industrial sector's total energy consumption. Many existing pollution control methods do little more than move waste from one medium to another. Changing existing industrial processes to reduce or reuse these wastes generally is preferable to focusing on end-of-the-pipe cleanup.

Activities focused on supply include the development of improved information on combustion and ash emissions management for waste-to-energy systems, and research on conversion of waste wood, plastic, and biomass to feedstock chemicals.

Transportation Technologies.—Nearly two-thirds of the petroleum consumed in the Nation, roughly half of it imported, is used for transportation. In addition, the transportation sector is a major contributor to the Nation's air pollution, particularly urban smog. For these reasons, the Office of Transportation Technologies seeks to: improve the efficiency of the transportation sector through advanced vehicle technologies capable of using alternative fuels; develop cost-effective and low-polluting alternative fuels; and support the infrastructure needed to allow industry and consumers to adopt and use these new technologies and fuels.

The 1993 transportation program includes one major new initiative and continuation of three others. Initial funding is proposed for a major new collaboration with the major U.S. automakers leading to commercial introduction of electric hybrid vehicles with the size, safety, and performance characteristics needed for widespread consumer acceptance. Such vehicles hold the promise of dramatically improved fuel economy and reduced emissions.

This initiative follows in the path broken in 1991 by the creation of the U.S. Advanced Battery Consortium, which brought together U.S. automakers and the electric utility industry in a partnership with the Department of Energy to develop the batteries needed for improved electric vehicle performance. That effort will see substantial growth in 1993, as will prior year initiatives to develop competitively priced alternative fuels from biomass feedstocks (supported within the Solar and Renewable Energy account) and to accelerate the acquisition of alternative fuel vehicles for the Federal fleet pursuant to the President's Executive Order 12759 on Federal energy management.

The program also will continue development of high-temperature diesel and automotive gas turbine engines capable of achieving high efficiency and operating on alternative fuels; development of a technology base for ceramic and advanced materials for high-performance, high-efficiency heat engines (including work performed at the High Temperature Materials Laboratory); and evaluation of alternative fuels in passenger vehicles, heavy-duty commercial trucks, and transit buses.

Technical and Financial Assistance.—The Office of Technical and Financial Assistance (OTFA) promotes the use of renewable energy and energy-efficient technologies and practices through cooperative activities with State and local governments and private and non-profit organizations. Its portfolio combines the formula grant programs previously funded in the State and Local Assistance Program, plus several other non-grant activities not specifically oriented toward any one end-user sector.

The 1993 request, substantially larger than those in recent years, offers a new partnership with the States to encourage the near-term adoption of emerging renewable energy and energy efficient technologies. Funding of $40 million is proposed for the State Energy Conservation Program, of which half will support State-led joint ventures with industry. In addition, $20 million is proposed to expand a prior-year initiative aimed at encouraging States to attract non-Federal resources to supplement the grants provided under the Weatherization Assistance Program.

Non-grant activities include the Energy-Related Inventions/Energy Innovation program, which helps independent inventors and innovators to develop their ideas, and the Information and Communications program, which responds to requests for information and technical assistance concerning energy efficiency and renewable energy technologies from individuals, small businesses, and other organizations.

Utility Technologies.—The National Energy Strategy supports the view that utility investment decisions should be based on an evaluation process in which both supply and demand resources can compete for the delivery of energy services. During the last decade, this concept of integrated resource planning (or least-cost utility planning) emerged as an important energy planning tool, and it is currently used in some 27 States. The Office of Utility Technologies program provides technical assistance to utilities and regulators on this topic. In addition, research is conducted on district heating and cooling, focused on developing more efficient and environmentally benign systems.

Policy and Management.—This activity supports management in the development of policy and program evaluation for energy conservation programs to ensure effective program delivery.

The objective of this program is to decrease the vulnerability of the United States to disruptions in world petroleum markets by creating a crude oil stockpile to be used in the event such disruptions occur.

The account provides for petroleum reserve storage facility construction, ongoing operations and maintenance activities, planning studies, and program administration.

This account provides for the acquisition, transportation, and injection of petroleum into the Strategic Petroleum Reserve and for its drawdown and distribution. During fiscal year 1991, the Department conducted a test sale of SPR oil, and the President ordered an emergency drawdown in conjunction with Operation Desert Storm. The Reserve is being maintained in readiness for possible further use at the direction of the President. The budget proposes no additional appropriations in 1993 for SPR oil purchases. The budget outlay estimates assume direct purchases of 6.7 million barrels in FY 1992 and 9.1 million barrels in FY 1993. However, alternative financing arrangements with major oil producers are being pursued and could result in a long-term agreement to provide oil to the SPR.

This program supports energy information activities which are designed to provide timely, accurate and relevant energy information for use by the Administration, the Congress, and the general public. The activities funded in this program include the design, development and maintenance of information systems on petroleum, natural gas, coal, nuclear, electricity, alternate fuel sources, and energy consumption. This includes collecting data and ensuring its accuracy; preparing forecasts of alternative energy futures; and preparing reports on energy sources, end-uses, prices, supply and demand, and associated economic, international, and financial matters. This program also includes the operation of the Energy Information Administration (EIA) computer facility, telecommunications support, customer services, and ADP software support to the Department of Energy and others. In addition, the National Energy Information Center disseminates publications, analytic reports, and public use tapes, and responds to public inquiries. Finally, this activity provides survey and statistical design standards, documentation standards, and energy data public-use forms clearance and burden control services.

Economic Regulatory Administration.—The Economic Regulatory Administration (ERA) is responsible for resolving all remaining enforcement actions to ensure that oil companies complied with petroleum regulations in effect prior to decontrol of oil in January 1981.

Hearings and appeals.—The Office of Hearings and Appeals issues all final orders of an adjudicatory nature other than those over which the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission or the Board of Contract Appeals has jurisdiction. It decides appeals of petroleum enforcement actions and adverse Freedom of Information Act and Privacy Act determinations, examines requests for exception relief, and administers refund proceedings involving funds obtained as a result of petroleum enforcement actions.

Federal Energy Regulatory Commission

SALARIES AND EXPENSES

For necessary expenses of the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission to carry out the provisions of the Department of Energy Organization Act (Public Law 95–91), including services as authorized by 5 U.S.C. 3109, including the hire of passenger motor vehicles; official reception and representation expenses (not to exceed [$3,000] $4,000); [$141,071,000] $147,801,000, to remain available until expended: Provided, That hereafter and notwithstanding any other provision of law, not to exceed [$141,071,000] $147,801,000 of revenues from fees and annual charges, and other services and collections in fiscal year [1992] 1993, shall be retained and used for necessary expenses in this account, and shall remain available until expended: Provided further, That the sum herein appropriated shall be reduced as revenues are received during fiscal year [1992] 1993, so as to result in a final fiscal year [1992] 1993 appropriation estimated at not more than $0; Provided further, That notwithstanding any other provision of law, the Commission is authorized to permit an applicant, at its own election, to fund a contractor to prepare required environmental documents. The applicant shall choose the contractor, subject to procedures the Commission establishes, to assure the scope of work and that the contractor has no financial or other interest in the outcome of the proceedings.

[The Federal Energy Regulatory Commission is authorized pursuant to section 4 of the Natural Gas Act to allow recovery, in advance, of expenses by natural-gas companies for research, development and demonstration activities by the Gas Research Institute for projects on the use of natural gas in motor vehicles and on the use of natural gas to control emissions from the combustion of other fuels: Provided, That the Commission finds that the benefits, including environmental benefits, to both existing and future ratepayers resulting from such activities exceed all direct costs to both existing and future ratepayers.] (Energy and Water Development Appropriations Act, 1992.)

The Federal Energy Regulatory Commission (FERC) is charged with regulating certain interstate aspects of the natural gas, oil pipeline, hydroelectric, and electric industries. Such regulation includes issuing licenses and certificates for construction of facilities, approving rates, inspecting dams, implementing enforcement activities, and providing other services to regulated businesses. In 1993, these businesses will pay fees and charges sufficient to fully offset the Commission's cost of providing licenses, inspections, and other services.

Pipeline and producer regulation.—The Commission regulates 150 natural gas pipeline companies, more than 9,700 natural gas producers, and 130 common carrier oil pipelines companies, including the Trans-Alaska Pipeline System (TAPS). Responsibilities include issuing certificates of public convenience and necessity for natural gas pipelines, determining rates for the transportation and sale of natural gas and rates for the transportation of oil, administering wellhead pricing provisions in accordance with the Natural Gas Policy Act, and establishing curtailment and other provisions. Under the Natural Gas Wellhead Decontrol Act of 1989, all wellhead gas prices will be deregulated by January 1, 1993.

Hydropower regulation.—The Commission issues preliminary permits, exemptions, and licenses, including relicensing, for hydroelectric projects, enforces the terms and conditions, and performs dam safety inspections. The Commission regulates more than 1,700 hydroelectric projects which supply about 10 percent of the electric energy generated in the United States. The Commission also performs investigations of headwater benefits that are derived from Federally-owned or licensed headwater improvements.

Electric power regulation.—The Commission is responsible for determining rates for the interstate sale or transmission of wholesale electric energy for more than 200 electric utilities and for overseeing electric utility corporate transactions. The Commission approves rates for all Federal power marketing agencies except TVA. The Commission also certifies cogenerators and small power producers.

This loan guarantee program was intended to subsidize loans for geothermal energy projects too risky to acquire private sector financing on their own. From 1979 to 1986, 8 loan guarantees were executed. Of those, 3 have been repaid and 5 have defaulted. The new budget authority in the fund in recent years has only been needed to support one FTE to monitor the remaining agreements and assets of the program. In 1992, that person's position was incorporated into the geothermal R&D activity, so no new budget authority will be needed in this account in FY 1993.

Public Law 99-190, making continuing appropriations for 1986, provided $400 million from funds in the Energy Security Reserve in the Department of the Treasury for a new Clean Coal Technology Program in the Department of Energy. This program was authorized under the Clean Coal Technology Reserve proviso of Public Law 98-473 to subsidize the construction and operation of facilities to demonstrate the potential commercial feasibility of such technologies.

Of the $400 million, $100 million was made available for obligation beginning in 1986, $150 million in 1987, and $150 million in 1988. These amounts were reduced by .6 percent pursuant to section 325 of the Department of the Interior and Related Agencies Appropriations Act, 1986, as included in section 101(d) of Public Law 99-190.

The fiscal year 1993 program includes a continuation of funding for the fourth and fifth rounds of cost-shared Innovative Clean Coal Technology projects. These projects demonstrate technologies appropriate for replacing, retrofitting, or modernizing existing coal-fired facilities to provide significantly reduced emissions. Projects are cost-shared, with industry providing at least half of the funding, and with provisions for the Government to recoup its investment through a share of revenues if the technology is commercialized.

This program was established in 1980 for the purpose of expediting the development and production of alternative fuels.

When the Synthetic Fuels Corporation was declared to be operational in 1982, the uncommitted and unobligated funds remaining in the program were transferred to the Energy Security Reserve for use by the Synthetic Fuels Corporation, with the exception of the loan guarantee for the Great Plains Gasification Project, which remained under the jurisdiction of the Department of Energy. The Department exercised its authority to borrow from the Treasury to repay the Federal Financing Bank upon default of the borrower in 1985. This loan was repaid, along with accrued interest, by a Supplemental appropriation in 1986. The Department acquired ownership of the Great Plains plant by foreclosure, which was completed on July 14, 1986, and continued operation of the plant without the expenditure of appropriated funds. On October 31, 1988, the Department completed the process of establishing an asset purchase agreement for the Great Plains Gasification Plant by settlement with Basin Electric Power Cooperative Association. Responsibilities for other related agreements—Trust Agreement, Gas Transportation Agreement, Gas Purchase Agreement—were also settled. Under the terms of the asset purchase agreement a check for $85 million was provided to the Government as an initial payment. In addition, this transaction was estimated at that time by the DOE sales team to have a potential return, to the Government, of approximately $1.8 billion in immediate and long-term payments, tax credit waivers, and income taxes. The asset purchase agreement also includes a commitment to keep the facility operating through the year 2009 as long as revenues exceed expenses.

NUCLEAR WASTE DISPOSAL FUND

For nuclear waste disposal activities to carry out the purposes of Public Law 97–425, as amended, including the acquisition of real property or facility construction or expansion, [$275,071,000] $391,976,000, to remain available until expended, to be derived from the Nuclear Waste Fund. To the extent that balances in the fund are not sufficient to cover amounts available for obligation in the account, the Secretary shall exercise his authority pursuant to section 302(e)(5) of said Act to issue obligations to the Secretary of the Treasury: Provided, That of the amount herein appropriated, within available funds, not to exceed [$5,000,000] $6,900,000 may be provided to the State of Nevada, for the conduct of its oversight responsibilities pursuant to the Nuclear Waste Policy Act of 1982, Public Law 97–425, as amended: Provided further, That of the amount herein appropriated, not more than [$4,000,000] $8,500,000 may be provided to affected local governments, as defined in the Act, to conduct appropriate activities pursuant to the Act: Provided further, That the distribution of the funds herein provided among the affected units of local government shall be determined by the Department of Energy (DOE) and made available to the State and affected units of local government by direct payment: Provided further, That within 90 days of the completion of each Federal fiscal year, each entity shall provide certification to the DOE, that all funds expended from such direct payment monies have been expended for activities as defined in Public Law 97–425, as amended. Failure to provide such certification shall cause such entity to be prohibited from any further funding provided for similar activities: Provided further, That none of the funds herein appropriated may be used directly or indirectly to influence legislative action on any matter pending before Congress or a State legislature or for any lobbying activity as provided in 18 U.S.C. 1913: Provided further, That none of the funds herein appropriated may be used for litigation expenses: Provided further, That of the amount appropriated herein, up to [$3,500,000] $1,700,000 shall be available for infrastructure studies and other research and development work to be carried out by the University of Nevada, Las Vegas (UNLV) and the University of Nevada, Reno. Funding to the universities will be administered by the DOE through a cooperative agreement.

In paying the amounts determined to be appropriate as a result of the decision in Consolidated Edison Company of New York v. Department of Energy 870 F.2d 694 (D.C. Cir. 1989), the Department of Energy shall pay interest at a rate to be determined by the Secretary of the Treasury and calculated from the date the amounts were deposited into the Nuclear Waste Fund. Such payments may be made by credits to future utility payments into the Fund. (Energy and Water Development Appropriations Act, 1992.)

The nuclear waste activities program consists of efforts related to the development, acquisition, and operation of facilities for the disposal of civilian and defense high level nuclear waste. These activities are funded by appropriations from the nuclear waste fund which is paid for by the users of the disposal service.

The Isotope Production and Distribution program is directed towards the production, sale, and distribution of isotope products and services to the user community utilizing Government-owned facilities. The isotopes produced by the Department of Energy are those that can be produced in existing DOE production and research facilities dedicated to the products required by the Isotope Production and Distribution program. The isotopes are sold at their market value or at a price determined to be in the best interest of the government for use in industrial applications, hospital and medical facilities, and Government, university, and industrial research programs.

Advances contributed by domestic and foreign sources fund research and development activities for civilian reactor, electric energy systems, magnetic fusion, and basic energy sciences. Sources also provide funds for defense programs, the technical information management program, constructing the Superconducting Super Collider, and conducting the Naval Petroleum Reserves Community Wells Protection program.

Civilian reactor safety and testing.—Advances contributed by domestic and foreign sources fund research and development activities involving advanced reactors and related processes.

Electric energy systems.—Advances from foreign private industry for basic electric energy effects testing and experimentation.

Magnetic fusion program.—Advances received under international cooperative agreements provide for joint research, operation and upgrading of magnetic fusion and reactor facilities.

Basic energy sciences.—Advances contributed by foreign countries under cost-sharing agreements are for neutron scattering experiments and research.

Defense programs.—Information concerning these activities is classified.

Technical information management program.—Advances received under international cooperative agreements provide funds for operating the International Energy Agency (IEA) Energy Technology Data Exchange (ETDE).

Superconducting Super Collider.—State and private contributions applied to the construction of the Superconducting

The Alaska Power Administration (APA) is responsible for operation and maintenance and power marketing for the Eklutna and Snettisham hydroelectric projects in accordance with the authorizing legislation for each project.

The agency's normal activities will continue in 1993. Proprietary receipts are estimated to be $10,014,000 in 1993.

In 1993 the Administration will complete its work with the State of Alaska and local customers and companies to sell assets of the Alaska Power Administration. Legislation is expected to be submitted in 1992. The budget assumes authorization and completion of the sale at the end of 1993.

The Southeastern Power Administration (SEPA) markets power generated at Corps of Engineers hydroelectric generating plants in a 10-State area of the Southeast. Deliveries are made by means of transmission facilities owned by others. There are 22 projects now in operation. A schedule of kilowatt capacity of projects in operation or under construction follows:

Projects in operation	3,092,375
Project under construction: Russell B. Russell (pumping units)	300,000
Total	3,392,375

SEPA sells power at wholesale primarily to publicly and cooperatively-owned electric distribution utilities using wheeling and pooling agreements with the region's large private utilities to provide firm power to its customers. SEPA does not own or operate any transmission facilities. Its long-term contracts provide for periodic electric rate adjustments to ensure that the Federal Government recovers costs of operation and capital invested in power, with interest, in keeping with statutory requirements.

The Administration is proposing that SEPA modify its debt repayment practices so that the full cost of providing power is borne by the power customers. Beginning in 1993, $36,600,000 in revenues would be used by SEPA to eliminate past debt financing subsidies and place power repayment practices on a more business-like basis. The proposal provides a mortgage-type amortization approach to Federal investment with interest on unpaid debt balances accruing at the historic Treasury interest rates in effect at the time each investment was placed in service. Long term Treasury interest rates would be applied to all future investments with the exception of construction loans which would be granted at the appropriate shorter term Treasury interest rates.

The SEPA program includes the following activities:

Systems operations and maintenance.—Provision is made for negotiation and administration of power contracts, collection of revenues, development of wholesale power rates, the amortization of power investment, investigation and planning of proposed water resources projects, scheduling and dispatch of power generation, scheduling storage and release of water, administration of contractual operation requirements, and determination of methods of operating generating plants individually and in coordination with others to obtain maximum utilization of resources. Proprietary receipts deposited in the Treasury were $133,608,856 for 1991 and are estimated to be $155,520,000 for 1992. Proprietary receipts are expected to be $157,784,000 for 1993.

Purchase power and wheeling.—Provision is made for the payment of wheeling fees and for the purchase of electricity in connection with disposal of power under contracts with utility companies.

The Southwestern Power Administration (SWPA) operates as a marketing agent for hydroelectric power produced at Corps of Engineers dams in a six-State area. It also operates and maintains some 1,380 miles of high voltage transmission lines, 24 substations and switching stations, and 39 radio and microwave stations. Southwestern sells its power at wholesale primarily to publicly and cooperatively owned electric distribution utilities. Its long-term contracts provide for periodic rate adjustments to ensure that the Federal Government recovers all costs of operation and all capital invested in power, with interest, in keeping with statutory requirements.

Southwestern also is responsible for scheduling and dispatching power, negotiating power sales contracts, and constructing facilities required to meet changing customer load requirements.

The Administration is proposing that SWPA modify its debt repayment practices so that the full cost of providing power is borne by the power customers. Beginning in 1993, $21,300,000 in revenues would be used by SWPA to eliminate past debt financing subsidies and place power repayment practices on a more business-like basis. The proposal provides a mortgage-type amortization approach to Federal investment with interest on unpaid debt balances accruing at the historic Treasury interest rates in effect at the time each investment was placed in service. Long term Treasury interest rates would be applied to all future investments with the exception of construction loans which would be granted at the appropriate shorter term Treasury interest rates.

Systems operation and maintenance.—Provision is made for investigating and planning proposed water resources projects, scheduling and dispatching power generation, scheduling storage and release of water, administering contractual operation requirements, and determining methods of operating generating plants individually and in coordination with others to obtain maximum utilization of resources. Provision also is made for maintenance of the transmission system and related facilities to ensure reliable service, negotiation and administration of power contracts, collection of revenue, development of wholesale power rates and the amortization of the power investment. Estimated proprietary receipts which are deposited in the Treasury are $80,549,000 in 1991, and $97,886,000 (not including repayment increases) in 1992. Proprietary receipts are expected to be $100,637,000 in 1993 (not including repayment increases).

Purchase power and wheeling.—Provision is made for the payment of wheeling fees and for the purchase of energy in connection with the marketing of power under contracts with utility companies.

Construction.—The construction program provides transmission, substation and switching facilities to transmit power generated at Corps of Engineers' hydroelectric projects in the Southwest. This program is coordinated with the Corps of Engineers' construction program and customer requirements in order that transmission and related facilities will be in place when these power projects are completed and available for marketing. This program also provides for the purchase of capital electrical equipment used for upgrading the established system to meet changing customer load requirements.

Reimbursable program.—This program involves services provided by Southwestern Power Administration to others under various types of reimbursable arrangements. In 1993 the reimbursable program primarily provides for operation and maintenance, construction, and power and energy services. The power and energy service supports the requirements of two government agencies: Ft. Sill and McAlester Army Ammunition Plant, and direct purchase of energy for the Oklahoma municipalities.

The Western Area Power Administration (Western) markets electric power in 15 western States from federally-owned power plants operated primarily by the Bureau of Reclamation, Corps of Engineers, and the International Boundary and Water Commission. Western operates and maintains approximately 16,500 miles of high-voltage transmission lines and over 270 substation/switchyards and constructs transmission facilities, including new transmission lines, substations, and essential additions and modifications to existing facilities.

Western sells power at wholesale to electric distribution utilities. In keeping with statutory requirements, Western's long-term power contracts provide for periodic rate adjustments to ensure that the Federal Government recovers costs of operation and capital invested in power facilities, with interest.

Systems operation and maintenance.—A total of 13 power systems will be operated and maintained. Western will continue to participate in conservation and renewable energy programs in 1993. Revenue will be available from Boulder Canyon project operations for Western's power marketing and transmission expenses, without further appropriation, as provided in the Hoover Power Plant Act of 1984 (Public Law 98–381).

Power is sold to wholesale customers such as municipalities, cooperatives, irrigation districts, public utility districts, State and Federal Government agencies, and private utilities. Receipts are deposited in the Reclamation fund, the General fund, the Colorado River dam fund, the Lower Colorado River Basin development fund, and the Upper Colorado River Basin fund.

Energy sales and revenues resulting from these Western power systems operations, excluding the Colorado River Storage project and the Colorado River Basin project, are as follows:

Revenues from energy sales (in thousands of dollars)	488,337	593,880	655,843

The Administration is proposing that Western modify its debt repayment practices so that the full cost of providing power is borne by the power customers. Beginning in 1993, $43,963,000 in revenues would be used by Western to eliminate past debt financing subsidies and place power repayment practices on a more business-like basis. The proposal provides a mortgage-type amortization approach to Federal investment with interest on unpaid debt balances accruing at the historic Treasury interest rates in effect at the time each investment was placed in service. Long term Treasury interest rates would be applied to all future investments with the exception of construction loans which would be granted at the appropriate shorter term Treasury interest rates.

Purchase of power and wheeling.—The program provides for purchase of power and wheeling. Financing of this program consists of $115,293,000 of new budget authority, $2,820,000 of permanent budget authority, $14,713,000 associated with net billing procedures, $82,000,000 associated with customer bill crediting, $44,350,000 associated with reimbursement from other Federal entities, and $2,360,000 associated with Bonneville Power Administration power transfers, for a total program cost of $258,716,000.

System construction.—Construction of transmission facilities is necessary to maintain system reliability and for marketing electric power produced from generating plants of others. Funding is provided in 1993 for upgrading, rehabilitating, and extending the power system to reduce outages, reduce maintenance costs, and to improve overall operational efficiency and reliability, construction of maintenance facilities, and system security additions. Western will continue to participate in joint construction projects to encourage greater transmission access.

Reimbursable program.—This program involves services provided by Western to others under various types of reimbursable arrangements. In 1993, the reimbursable program primarily provides for construction and operation and maintenance services for the Bureau of Reclamation and for construction services associated with the California-Oregon Transmission project being built for non-Federal entities, for jointly financed activities with non-Federal entities under the Contributed Funds Act, and for power purchases for other Federal entities.

Bonneville Power Administration (BPA) is the Federal electric power marketing agency in the Pacific Northwest. BPA markets hydroelectric power from 21 multipurpose water resource projects of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers and 9 projects of the U.S. Bureau of Reclamation, plus some energy from non-Federal generating projects in the region. These generating resources and BPA's transmission system, planned by the end of 1993 to consist of an estimated 14,794 circuit miles of high-voltage transmission lines and 389 substations, are operated as an integrated power system with operating and financial results combined and reported as the Federal Columbia River Power System. BPA is the largest power wholesaler in the Northwest and provides about four-fifths of the region's electric power transmission capacity.

BPA is responsible for meeting the net firm power requirements of its requesting customers through a variety of means, including energy conservation programs, acquisition of renewable and other resources, and power exchanges with utilities both in and outside the region.

BPA will finance its operations on the basis of the self-financing authority provided by Federal Columbia River Transmission System Act of 1974 (Transmission Act) (Public Law 93–454) and the new borrowing authority provided by the Pacific Northwest Electric Power Planning and Conservation Act (Pacific Northwest Power Act) (Public Law 96–501) for energy conservation, renewable energy resources and capital fish facilities. Authority to borrow is available to the BPA on a permanent, indefinite basis. The amount of borrowing outstanding at any time cannot exceed $3.75 billion.

Operating expenses: Energy resources.—Provides for the orderly planning, contractual acquisition, and oversight of reliable, cost-effective, environmentally acceptable resources, including resources purchased prior to the Pacific Northwest Power Act, as well as cost-effective conservation measures, including home energy efficiency, commercial energy efficiency, industrial technology transfers, solar energy applications and conservation measures for new home and commercial building construction. These resources are needed to serve BPA's portion of the region's forecasted net electric load requirements.

Residential exchange.—Provides for extending the benefits of low-cost Federal power to the residential and small farm customers of investor-owned and publicly-owned utilities, in accordance with the Pacific Northwest Power Act.

Transmission system development.—Provides funding from revenues for electric transmission research and development and program support of the capital investment program described below for transmission system development.

System operation.—Provides for operating an estimated 14,794 miles of line and 389 substations of the BPA transmission system during 1993.

System maintenance.—Provides for the annual expenses of maintaining the facilities and equipment of the BPA transmission system in 1993.

Power marketing.—Provides for forecasting regional demand; negotiating power sales and wheeling, billing, and servicing these contracts; reviewing and establishing wholesale power and wheeling rates; and encouraging public participation in the formation of BPA policies and programs.

Power scheduling.—Provides for the scheduling of power.

Fish and wildlife.—Provides funding from revenues in support of the capital investment program described below for fish and wildlife.

Planning Council.—Provides for activities of the Pacific Northwest Electric Power and Conservation Planning Council required by the Pacific Northwest Power Act.

Interest.—Provides for payments to the U.S. Treasury for interest on borrowings to finance BPA's transmission system development, system replacements, conservation related costs previously capitalized, capital equipment, and fish and wildlife programs under $3.75 billion borrowing authority provided by the Transmission Act as amended by the Pacific Northwest Power Act and replenished by Public Law 98–50. This category also includes, interest on Corps of Engineers, BPA and U.S. Bureau of Reclamation appropriated debt.

Associated project costs.—Provides for repayment of the operation and maintenance (O&M) costs of the 30 U.S. Army Corps of Engineers and U.S. Bureau of Reclamation power generating projects, and amortization on the U.S. Bureau of Reclamation capital investment in power generating facilities.

Reimbursable.—Provides for reimbursable power purchases, and for services such as construction, operation and maintenance of transmission facilities when requested and financed by other entities. Also includes the coordination agreement payments to the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission.

Capital investments: Energy resources.—Provides for funding conservation measures including home and commercial energy efficiency, industrial technology transfers, solar energy applications and conservation measures for new home and commercial building construction.

Transmission system development.—Provides for planning, design and construction of transmission lines, substation and control system additions, and enhancements to the FCRPS transmission system for a reliable, efficient and cost-effective regional transmission system. During 1993, BPA plans to energize one additional substation along with a variety of upgrades and additions to existing facilities.

System replacements.—Provides for planning, design, and construction work to repair or replace existing transmission lines, substations, control systems, and general facilities of the FCRPS transmission system.

Capital equipment.—Provides for general purpose ADP equipment, office furniture and equipment, and software development in support of all BPA programs.

Fish and wildlife.—Provides for protection, mitigation and enhancement of fish and wildlife affected by hydroelectric facilities on the Columbia River and its tributaries, in accordance with the Pacific Northwest Power Act.

Contingencies.—Although contingencies are not specifically funded, the need may arise to provide for purchase of power in low-water years; for repair and/or replacement of facilities affected by natural and man-made emergencies, including the resulting additional costs for contracting, construction, and operation and maintenance work; for unavoidable increased costs for the planned program due to necessary but unforeseen adjustments, including engineering and design changes, contractor and other claims and relocations, or for payment of a retrospective premium adjustment in excess nuclear property insurance.

Financing.—The Transmission Act provides for the use by BPA of all receipts, collections, and recoveries in cash from all sources, including the sale of bonds, to finance the annual budget programs of BPA. These receipts result primarily from the sale of power and wheeling services. The Transmission Act also provides for authority to borrow from the U.S. Treasury at rates comparable to borrowings at open market rates for similar issues. As amended by the Pacific Northwest Power Act and replenished by Public Law 98–50, it allows for $3.75 billion of borrowing to be outstanding at any time. The fiscal year 1993 capital program obligations are estimated to be $417.1 million, of which $372.8 million is new borrowing authority. To the extent BPA capital borrowing authority is insufficient in 1993, BPA would use cash reserves generated by revenues from customers to finance some of these investments.

In 1991 BPA made payments to the Treasury of $604.2 million and also expects to make payments of $683.3 million in 1992 and $710.9 million in 1993 on a current services basis. The 1993 payment will be distributed as follows: U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, U.S. Bureau of Reclamation, U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service O&M for associated project costs ($130.7 million), interest expense on bonds and appropriations ($321.8 million), allowance for funds used during construction—capitalized interest ($12.0 million) and amortization ($246.4 million).

The Administration is proposing that BPA modify its debt repayment practices so that the full cost of providing power is borne by the power customers. Beginning in 1993, $288,600,000 in revenues would be used by BPA to eliminate past debt financing subsidies and place power repayment practices on a more business-like basis. The proposal provides a mortgage-type amortization approach to Federal investment with interest on unpaid debt balances accruing at the historic Treasury interest rates in effect at the time each investment was placed in service. Long term Treasury interest rates would be applied to all future investments with the exception of construction loans which would be granted at the appropriate shorter term Treasury interest rates.

Direct loans.—There will be no direct loans in 1993.

Operating results.—Total revenues and reimbursements are forecast at approximately $3,128.2 million in 1993.

It should be noted that BPA's revenue forecasts are based on several critical assumptions about both the supply of and demand for Federal energy. Deviation from the assumed conditions may result in variation in actual revenues of several hundred million dollars from the forecast.

The Administration will propose legislation to modify the repayment criteria that applies to the outstanding Federal investment funded through appropriations to be repaid to the U.S. Treasury by the Bonneville Power Administration. The proposed legislation will provide that, beginning in 1993, amortization of the Federal investment funded through appropriations excluding irrigation assistance, would be made according to a mortgage-type repayment schedule with interest rates on unpaid appropriations being set at the historic yields of long-term government securities in effect during the year the investment was placed in service.

Western's operation and maintenance and power marketing expenses for the Colorado River storage project, the Colorado River Basin project and the Fort Peck project are financed from power revenues.

Western operates and maintains approximately 3,600 miles of transmission lines, substations, switchyards, communications and control equipment associated with this fund. Wholesale power is provided to utilities over interconnected high-voltage transmission systems. In keeping with statutory requirements, long-term power contracts provide for periodic rate adjustments to ensure that the Federal Government recovers all costs of operation and all capital invested in power, with interest.

The Administration is proposing that Western modify its debt repayment practices so that the full cost of providing power is borne by the power customers. Beginning in 1993, $8,224,000 in revenues would be used by Western to eliminate past debt financing subsidies and place power repayment practices on a more business-like basis. The proposal provides a mortgage-type amortization approach to Federal investment with interest on unpaid debt balances accruing at the historic Treasury interest rates in effect at the time each investment was placed in service. Long term Treasury interest rates would be applied to all future investments with the exception of construction loans which would be granted at the appropriate shorter term Treasury interest rates.

Colorado River storage project.—Western markets power and operates and maintains the power transmission facilities of the Colorado River storage project. Western also purchases electricity and pays wheeling fees to meet firm and nonfirm commitments.

Colorado River Basin project.—The Colorado River Basin project includes Western's expenses associated with the Central Arizona project and the United States entitlement from the Navajo coal-fired powerplant. Revenues in excess of operating expenses are deposited in the Lower Colorado River Basin development fund.

Fort Peck project.—Revenue collected by Western is used to defray construction, operation and maintenance and power marketing expenses associated with the power generation and transmission facilities of the Fort Peck project, Corps of Engi-

Energy sales and revenue from the Colorado River storage project and the Colorado River Basin project are shown in the table below. Revenue from the Fort Peck project is integrated with Pick-Sloan Missouri Basin program revenue and included in the revenue totals shown in Western's construction, rehabilitation, operation and maintenance account.

Departmental administration.—This account funds a wide array of policy development and analysis activities, institutional and public liaison functions, and other program support requirements necessary to ensure effective operation and management. Specific activities provided for are:

Policy, planning and analysis.—This organization is the principal advisor to the Secretary for formulating and recommending national energy policy, for Departmental planning strategies and outyear program funding requirements, for conducting integrated policy analysis, and for conducting a systemic evaluation of DOE programs to ensure that each contributes the maximum to the national energy strategy and DOE's goals and objectives.

International affairs.—This organization supports the formulation of international energy policy, analyses and assessments of the current world energy situation, international cooperation in energy matters, and the Department's participation in the Administration's nuclear nonproliferation program.

Administration and human resource management.—This office provides institutional support services to headquarters organizations and to the Department as a whole. Areas of responsibility include: organization and management systems; personnel management; equal employment opportunity; automated data processing management and acquisition; telecommunications management; program/project construction and facility management; as well as performing and supplying administrative services.

Office of the Chief Financial Officer.—This office is responsible for Departmental budgeting, accounting, financial policy, and compliance.

Procurement, assistance and program management.—This office is responsible for Departmental procurement, and assistance management and oversight, independent cost estimates for major projects/systems acquisitions, and contractor industrial relations.

Small and disadvantaged business utilization.—This office is responsible for administering a Departmental small and disadvantaged business program to encourage awards in the procurement process.

Congressional and intergovernmental affairs.—This office is responsible for coordinating and directing legislative liaison with the Congress. It gathers information on issues under departmental jurisdiction; counsels and advises DOE staff on relationships with the Congress; serves as liaison between relevant DOE elements and Congressional authorization and/or oversight committees and other Members; and coordinates the designation and scheduling of DOE witnesses to testify at hearings. For intergovernmental activities, the office provides guidance to ensure consistency in program activities with constituents and oversight on relations between Federal energy activities and external groups excluding those on an international level.

Public affairs.—This office is responsible for managing and ensuring coordination of Departmental policies and programs for conducting relations with the news media and the general public. The Office also reviews and approves the Department's publications, exhibits and audiovisual products for general distribution.

Operations offices.—The operations offices perform functions in support of energy activities throughout the country. Among these functions are field procurement, engineering and construction management, health and safety and environmental monitoring, property management, labor relations and maintenance of personnel and financial systems.

General Counsel.—This office is responsible for providing legal services to all energy activities except for those functions belonging exclusively to the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, which is served by its own General Counsel and litigation arising from the Emergency Petroleum Allocation Act. Its responsibilities entail the provision of legal opinion, advice and services to administrative and program offices, and the conduct of both administrative and judicial litigation, as well as legal advice and support for enforcement activities. Further, the General Counsel appears before State and Federal agencies in defense of national energy policies and activities. The office is responsible for the coordination and clearance of proposed legislation affecting energy activities and testimony before Congress. The General Counsel is also responsible for oversight of intelligence activities; ensuring consistency and legal sufficiency of all energy regulations; administering and monitoring standards of conduct requirements; and conducting the Patents program.

Office of the Secretary.—Directs and supervises the staff and provides policy guidance to line and staff organizations in the accomplishment of agency objectives.

Board of Contract Appeals.—Hears and resolves contractual disputes arising from the Administration's financial assistance programs, including guaranteed loans, loan agreements, grants and cooperative agreements.

Office of Minority Economic Impact.—Is responsible for: (1) advising the Secretary on the effects of the Department's policies, regulations and actions on minorities and minority business enterprises; (2) conducting research to determine energy consumption and use patterns of minorities; (3) providing technical assistance to minority educational institutions and minority business enterprises to enable them to participate more fully in Departmental activities; and, (4) the office also is responsible for the White House Initiatives on Historically Black Colleges and Universities for the Department.

Work for others.—This activity covers the cost of work performed under orders placed with the Department by non-DOE entities. Reimbursement for these costs is made through deposits of offsetting collections to this account.

This fund is the repository of gifts, bequests, and devises of property, both real and personal, which the Secretary of Energy is authorized to accept, hold, administer, and utilize for the purpose of aiding or facilitating the work of the Department. The provision of section 652 of the Department of Energy Organization Act, 42 U.S.C. 7762, authorizes this fund for the above purposes. Property and the proceeds thereof are used as nearly as possible in accordance with the terms of the gift or bequest.

ADMINISTRATIVE PROVISIONS, DEPARTMENT OF ENERGY

Appropriations under this Act for the current fiscal year shall be available for hire of passenger motor vehicles; hire, maintenance, and operation of aircraft; purchase, repair, and cleaning of uniforms; and reimbursement to the General Services Administration for security guard services.

From appropriations under this Act, transfers of sums may be made to other agencies of the Government for the performance of work for which the appropriation is made.

None of the funds made available to the Department of Energy under this Act shall be used to implement or finance authorized price support or loan guarantee programs unless specific provision is made for such programs in an appropriations Act.

The Secretary is authorized to accept lands, buildings, equipment, and other contributions from public and private sources and to prosecute projects in cooperation with other agencies, Federal, State, private, or foreign: Provided, That revenues and other moneys received by or for the account of the Department of Energy or otherwise generated by sale of products in connection with projects of the Department appropriated under this Act may be retained by the Secretary of Energy, to be available until expended, and used only for plant construction, operation, costs, and payments to cost-sharing entities as provided in appropriate cost-sharing contracts or agreements: Provided further, That the remainder of revenues after the making of such payments shall be covered into the Treasury as miscellaneous receipts[: Provided further, That any contract, agreement, or provision thereof entered into by the Secretary pursuant to this authority shall not be executed prior to the expiration of 30 calendar days (not including any day in which either House of Congress is not in session because of adjournment of more than three calendar days to a day certain) from the receipt by the Speaker of the House of Representatives and the President of the Senate of a full comprehensive report on such project, including the facts and circumstances relied upon in support of the proposed project].

The Secretary of Energy may transfer to the Emergency Preparedness appropriation such funds as are necessary to meet any unforeseen emergency needs from any funds available to the Department of Energy from this Act.

[Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the Secretary of Energy may enter into a contract, agreement, or arrangement, including, but not limited to, a Management and Operating Contract as defined in the Federal Acquisition Regulations (17.601), with a profit-making or non-profit entity to conduct activities at the Department of Energy's research facilities at Bartlesville, Oklahoma.] (Department of the Interior and Related Agencies Appropriations Act, 1992.)

GENERAL PROVISIONS—DEPARTMENT OF ENERGY

The following sections are proposed for deletion and do not appear below:

Sec. 303 ..... Provision relating to the transfer of unexpended balances of prior appropriations for activities in the 1992 appropriations act.

Sec. 304 ..... Minority participation in the Superconducting Super Collider.

SEC. 301. Appropriations for the Department of Energy under this title for the current fiscal year shall be available for hire of passenger motor vehicles; hire, maintenance and operation of aircraft; purchase, repair and cleaning of uniforms; and reimbursement to the General Services Administration for security guard services. From these appropriations, transfers of sums may be made to other agencies of the United States Government for the performance of work for which this appropriation is made. None of the funds made available to the Department of Energy under this Act shall be used to implement or finance authorized price support or loan guarantee programs unless specific provision is made for such programs in an appropriation Act. The Secretary is authorized to accept lands, buildings, equipment, and other contributions from public and private sources and to prosecute projects in cooperation with other agencies, Federal, State, private, or foreign.

(TRANSFER OF FUNDS)

SEC. 302. Not to exceed 5 per centum of any appropriation made available for the current fiscal year for Department of Energy activities funded in this Act may be transferred between such appropriations, but no such appropriation, except as otherwise provided, shall be increased or decreased by more than 5 per centum by any such transfers, and any such proposed transfers shall be submitted promptly to the Committees on Appropriations of the House and Senate. (Energy and Water Development Appropriations Act, 1992.)

TITLE V—GENERAL PROVISIONS

The following sections are proposed for deletion and do not appear below:

Sec. 503 ..... Special protection for projects listed in report accompanying the 1992 appropriations act.

Sec. 506 ..... Prohibition against studies of pricing reform at the Federal power marketing administrations.

Sec. 507 ..... Provides for absorption of 1992 pay raises.

SEC. 501. No part of any appropriation contained in this Act shall remain available for obligation beyond the current fiscal year unless expressly so provided herein.

SEC. 502. None of the funds in this Act shall be used to pay the expenses of, or otherwise compensate, parties intervening in regulatory or adjudicatory proceedings funded in this Act.

SEC. [504] 503. The expenditure of any appropriation under this Act for any consulting service through procurement contract, pursuant to section 3109 of title 5, United States Code, shall be limited to those contracts where such expenditures are a matter of public record and available for public inspection, except where otherwise provided under existing law, or under existing Executive order issued pursuant to existing law.

SEC. [505] 504. None of the funds appropriated in this Act shall be used to implement a program of retention contracts for senior employees of the Tennessee Valley Authority. (Energy and Water Development Appropriations Act, 1992.)

The Health Education Assistance Loan (HEAL) program guarantees loans from private lenders to health professions students to help pay for the costs of their training. As required by the Federal Credit Reform Act of 1990, this account records, for the HEAL program, the subsidy costs associated with HEAL loan guarantees committed in 1992 and beyond (including modifications of HEAL loan guarantees that resulted from obligations or commitments in any year), as well as administrative expenses of the program. The subsidy amounts are estimated on a present value basis; the administrative expenses are estimated on a cash basis. An explanation of credit reform, including a discussion of how subsidies are calculated, is included in Part Two, Subpart IV-A of the Budget.

	MEMORANDUM
2299	U.S. contingent liability for guaranteed loans outstanding, end of year	451,182	382,682	322,682

Title VI and subsequently title XVI of the Public Health Service Act established a loan and loan guarantee fund for medical facilities with a maximum amount allowable for the Government's liability. Direct loans were made available for public facilities and guaranteed loans for private, nonprofit facilities.

Funds under this authority were established in the amount of $50 million for use in fulfilling guarantees in event of default, $30 million as a revolving fund for direct loans and an amount for interest subsidy payments on guaranteed loans. Default and interest subsidy funds are replenished as necessary through the annual appropriation process.

The Vaccine Improvement Program was established pursuant to Public Law 99–660 and Public Law 100–203, and serves as a source of funds to pay claims for compensation for vaccine related injury or death. This account reflects payments for claims for vaccine related injury or death occuring after October 1, 1988.

The Administration is proposing to shift the accounting for all insurance programs from a cash basis to an accrual basis. The proposal would be implemented in phases. This budget shows the conversion for deposit insurance and pension guarantees beginning with the transactions for 1992. The conversion of all other insurance programs is planned for 1993 and will be reflected in the 1994 budget.

90.00 Outlays			67,000

This account would finance the Government contributions for Commissioned Officers retirement to fund, on an accrual basis, annuities of retired Public Health Service (PHS) commissioned officers and survivors of retirees. The 1993 payment would fund the amortization of the unfunded liability for all retirement benefits earned by PHS Commissioned Officers before October 1, 1992. The amortization schedule for the unfunded liability was determined by the Secretary of the Department of Health and Human Services. Included in the unfunded liability are consolidated requirements for retirement and survivors' benefits.

Proposed legislation would provide for accrual funding of the Public Health Service Commissioned Corps retirement system and establish a retirement trust fund similar to the Department of Defense Military Retirement Fund established through Public Law 98–94. The fund would be financed through: (a) contributions from employing agencies, determined by a normal cost accrual percentage applied to the basic pay of active duty officers, to cover future benefit costs;

SURVEY AND CERTIFICATION REVOLVING FUND

There is hereby established in the Treasury of the United States a revolving fund. Amounts in the Fund shall be available to the Secretary, without fiscal year limitation, to finance the costs of carrying out Federal and State survey and certification activities under Titles XVIII and XIX of the Social Security Act and activities under section 353 of the Public Health Service Act (42 U.S.C. 263a). Fees authorized by this paragraph and section 353 (m) of the Public Health Service Act shall be deposited in and credited to the Fund. Notwithstanding any other provision of law, including but not limited to sections 1903 and 1919 (g) of the Social Security Act, annually the Secretary shall establish and collect user fees from all providers and suppliers of services or items requestng certification under Titles XVIII and XIX of the Social Security Act (except clinical laboratories otherwise inspected and certified under section 353 of the Public Health Service Act) and payment thereof shall be made a condition of participation under said Titles. Such fees shall be determined in an amount sufficient to cover the estimated full cost of survey and certification activities not otherwise covered by fees collected pursuant to section 353 (m) of the Public Health Service Act. These fees shall be collected annually from each provider or supplier, regardless of whether the provider or supplier will be surveyed in the year for which the fees are being charged. Fees may be collected through deductions from payments to be made under Titles XVIII and XIX of the Social Security Act. Fees may vary by group or classification of provider or supplier, or by the relative complexity, type, or estimated cost of planned surveys, based on such considerations as the Secretary deems appropriate. Fees established under this paragraph and section 353 (m) of the Public Health Service Act shall be set and collected to maintain a minimum balance in the Fund equal to one month's estimated expenses.

The Supplementary Medical Insurance program (SMI) is a voluntary program which affords protection against the costs of physician and certain other medical services. The program also covers treatment of end-stage renal disease for eligible enrollees. SMI costs are financed by premium payments from enrollees and contributions from the general revenues.

The status of the trust fund is as follows (in thousands of dollars):

Legislation has been proposed to: increase family income by extending child support services to recipients of Federal or Federally assisted programs; increase the child support program's effectiveness by modifying the incentive payment structure and reforming the financing of services; target funding by modifying fees to non-poor households; and help children receive health insurance coverage from absent parents. Legislation will also be proposed to, at State option, (1) raise the asset limit to $10,000 for families already on AFDC, and (2) allow families on AFDC to exclude some income and resources needed to meet the objectives of a "self-employment" plan.

Proposed legislation would establish the Clearinghouse on Third Party Liability to identify available health coverage for a) federally-funded health programs in all federal agencies, and b) federally-assisted health coverage (Medicaid, tribal health authorities, Federal Employee Health Benefit Program, Public Health Service activities). The Clearinghouse would develop better health coverage information collection procedures and coordinate related Federal policies.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

The following sections are proposed for deletion and do not appear below:

Sec. 201 ..... Limitation on Executive Branch flexibility to provide forward or multiyear funding.

Sec. 209 ..... Limitation on Executive Branch flexibility to allocate personnel resources.

Sec. 213 ..... Prohibition on use of Federal funds for any project that involves the capture or procurement of chimpanzees from the wild.

Sec. 214 ..... One-time reduction of Department of Health and Human Services travel expenses.

Sec. 215 ..... Circumvents current law by barring Federal enforcement of child welfare protections under Title IV–B of the Social Security Act.

Sec. 216 ..... One-time provision expanding the Board of Directors for the National Foundation for Biomedical Research.

SEC. [202.] 201. Appropriations in this or any other Act shall be available for expenses for active commissioned officers in the Public Health Service Reserve Corps and for not to exceed 2,400 commissioned officers in the Regular Corps; expenses incident to the dissemination of health information in foreign countries through exhibits and other appropriate means; advances of funds for compensation, travel, and subsistence expenses (or per diem in lieu thereof) for persons coming from abroad to participate in health or scientific activities of the Department pursuant to law; expenses of primary and secondary schooling of dependents in foreign countries, of Public Health Service commissioned officers stationed in foreign countries, at costs for any given area not in excess of those of the Department of Defense for the same area, when it is determined by the Secretary that the schools available in the locality are unable to provide adequately for the education of such dependents, and for the transportation of such dependents, between such schools and their places of residence when the schools are not accessible to such dependents by regular means of transportation; expenses for medical care for civilian and commissioned employees of the Public Health Service and their dependents assigned abroad on a permanent basis in accordance with such regulations as the Secretary may provide; rental or lease of living quarters (for periods not exceeding five years), and provision of heat, fuel, and light and maintenance, improvement, and repair of such quarters, and advance payments therefor, for civilian officers and employees of the Public Health Service who are United States citizens and who have a permanent station in a foreign country; purchase, erection, and maintenance of temporary or portable structures; and for the payment of compensation to consultants or individual scientists appointed for limited periods of time pursuant to section 207(f) or section 207(g) of the Public Health Service Act, at rates established by the Assistant Secretary for Health, or the Secretary where such action is required by statute, not to exceed the per diem rate equivalent to the maximum rate payable for senior-level positions under 5 U.S.C. 5376.

SEC. [203.] 202. None of the funds contained in this Act shall be used to perform abortions except where the life of the mother would be endangered if the fetus were carried to term.

SEC. [204.] 203. Funds advanced to the National Institutes of Health Management Fund from appropriations in this Act shall be available for the expenses of sharing medical care facilities and resources pursuant to section 327A of the Public Health Service Act.

SEC. [205.] 204. Funds appropriated in this title shall be available for not to exceed $37,000 for official reception and representation expenses when specifically approved by the Secretary.

SEC. [206.] 205. Amounts received from employees of the Department in payment for room and board may be credited to the appropriation accounts which finance the activities of the Public Health Service.

SEC. [207.] 206. None of the funds made available by this Act shall be used to provide special retention pay (bonuses) under paragraph (4) of 37 U.S.C. 302(a) to any regular or reserve medical officer of the Public Health Service for any period during which the officer is assigned to the clinical, research, or staff associate program administered by the National Institutes of Health or the Alcohol, Drug Abuse, and Mental Health Administration.

SEC. [208.] 207. Funds provided in this Act may be used for one-year contracts which are to be performed in two fiscal years, so long as the total amount for such contracts is obligated in the year for which the funds are appropriated.

SEC. [210.] 208. For the purpose of insuring proper management of federally supported computer systems and data bases, funds appropriated by this Act are available for the purchase of dedicated telephone service between the private residences of employees assigned to computer centers funded under this Act, and the computer centers to which such employees are assigned.

SEC. [211.] 209. None of the funds appropriated by this title shall be used to pay for any research program or project or any program, project, or course which is of an experimental nature, or any other activity involving human participants, which is determined by the Secretary or a court of competent jurisdiction to present a danger to the physical, mental, or emotional well-being of a participant or subject of such program, project, or course, without the written, informed consent of each participant or subject, or a participant's parents or legal guardian, if such participant or subject is under eighteen years of age. The Secretary shall adopt appropriate regulations respecting this section.

SEC. [212.] 210. None of the funds appropriated in this title for the National Institutes of Health and the Alcohol, Drug Abuse, and Mental Health Administration shall be used to pay the salary of an individual, through a grant or other extramural mechanism, at a rate in excess of $125,000 per year.

SEC. 211. For any program funded in this Act, the Secretary of Health and Human Services is authorized, when providing services or conducting activities for a State with respect to such program for which the Secretary is entitled to reimbursement by the State, to obtain such reimbursement as an offset against Federal payments to which the State would otherwise be entitled under such program from funds appropriated for the same or any subsequent fiscal year. Such offsets shall be credited to the appropriation account which bore the expense of providing the service or conducting the activity, and shall remain available until expended.

SEC. 212. States, as defined for purposes of title XIX of the Social Security Act, and political subdivisions, as defined in section 218(b)(2) of the Act, which accept funds or data from the Department of Health and Human Services shall transmit, without charge and in such form and with such frequency as required by the Secretary—

(1) in order to carry out section 205(r) of the Social Security Act, data on the deaths occurring within the State, and

(2) data on each individual within the State awarded workers' compensation, including name, social security number and award amount.

Such information may be made available to Federal benefit-paying agencies, or to such agencies of States or political subdivisions, subject to such privacy safeguards as are determined necessary or appropriate to protect the information from inappropriate use or disclosure and subject to such provisions for payment as deemed necessary to reimburse the Secretary for reasonable costs incurred in providing such information.

SEC. 213. Not to exceed $489,000,000 may be obligated in fiscal year 1993 for contracts with Utilization and Quality Control Peer Review Organizations pursuant to part B of Title XI of the Social Security Act. (Department of Health and Human Services Appropriations Act, 1992.)

20. DEPARTMENT OF HOUSING AND URBAN DEVELOPMENT

This chapter presents the budget and program estimates for the Department of Housing and Urban Development. The major divisions of this chapter conform to the following Department activities:

Housing programs cover the Department's major housing subsidy programs except for those activities under the public and Indian housing programs. Included is the new Homeownership and Opportunity for People Everywhere Grants (HOPE Grants) program and a new housing initiative—RESTORE. The mortgage insurance activities of the Federal Housing Administration, including loan management and property disposition activities, are also included under this heading. Other activities included under this heading are the Office of Interstate Land Sales Registration and manufactured home inspection and monitoring programs.

Public and Indian housing programs cover public housing management and development activities (including modernization, drug elimination efforts, and resident management programs) and provision of Indian housing assistance. Also included are credit and financing activities related to development and modernization.

Government National Mortgage Association (GNMA) covers the Department's programs to assist in the availability of mortgage credit and stabilize financing of selected types of mortgage loans including the guarantee of mortgage-backed securities.

Community planning and development covers the community development grant program authorized by the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974, as amended, the Home Investment Partnerships program and the homeless grant programs, including shelter plus care and the proposed safe havens program. This heading also includes the administration of the rental rehabilitation grant, urban homesteading, and rehabilitation loan (section 312) programs repealed in the 1990 National Affordable Housing Act, as well as earlier terminated categorical community development programs, including urban development action grants, and the revolving fund for liquidating programs.

Fair housing and equal opportunity includes the Fair Housing Assistance Program authorized by title VIII of the Civil Rights Act of 1968, as amended, and the Fair Housing Initiatives Program.

Policy development and research includes the policy development, economic analysis, program evaluation, and research activities of the Department.

Departmental Management includes the Department's Salaries and Expenses and the Inspector General accounts.

Included within several of the Department's programs are earmarks for a new Administration multiagency proposal—Weed and Seed—aimed at concentrating and coordinating Federal resources in selected distressed communities. Further discussion of Weed and Seed is contained in Part One, Chapter 8.

A total of $8.5 billion is being requested for 1993 under Annual Contributions for Assisted Housing. This includes $7.9 billion in new appropriations and $.6 billion in transfers and carryover funding. In order to more clearly illustrate the impact of activities being proposed for 1993, the programs included under "Subsidized Housing" are divided between two program and financing schedules. The financial data summarized above relate to those programs for which funds are being requested in 1993—the Section 8, section 801/811 Capital Grants and Rental Assistance and Public and Indian Housing programs.

All other subsidized housing programs are grouped within a separate schedule presented later. These include: Section 235 Homeownership, Section 236 Rental Assistance, the Rent Supplement program, College Housing grants and balances from funds appropriated under the Annual Contributions account for Rental Rehabilitation grants and Rental Housing Development grants (HoDAG).

The funds will be used for rental assistance for approximately 148,000 units and for amendments to existing contracts—including increases resulting from rental adjustments in compliance with "Rainier View" provisions in the Department of Housing and Urban Development Reform Act of 1989.

Included within the total number of units proposed for this budget are 87,241 incremental units. This total is comprised of 4,542 units to assist the elderly or disabled, 11,084 incremental vouchers in support of the HOPE initiative 1,401 incremental vouchers for Public Housing Homeownership (5(h)), and 70,214 incremental vouchers.

Within the funding provided for incremental vouchers, $20 million is set aside for the Administration's 1993 multi-agency Weed and Seed initiative, and $81.1 million is set aside for the Perestroika initiative.

No new development funding is being requested for either public or Indian housing. However, the total includes amounts for lease adjustments. About $2.3 billion is being requested for modernization activities. Within modernization funding, $100 million is set aside for use with the "Choice in Management" initiative and $192 million for "Take the Boards OFF". These initiatives are designed to more effectively deal with troubled PHAs. Also within modernization funding, $20 million is set aside for the Administration's 1993 multi-agency Weed and Seed initiative.

Rental assistance for the elderly and disabled is being proposed in conjunction with 1,692 new construction units provided under the new grant program authorized in the Cranston-Gonzalez National Affordable Housing Act (P.L. 101–625). In addition, assistance also will be made available for 2,850 leased units—1,900 for the elderly and 950 for the disabled.

Annual Contributions funding is being requested in support of the HOPE initiative authorized in the Cranston-Gonzalez National Affordable Housing Act. Within this context: vouchers will be used to promote homeownership, the moving to opportunity initiative, preservation/prepayment and elderly independence. Furthermore, over $10 million is being requested under the HOPE grant program for supportive services to be provided in conjuction with the elderly independence initiative.

In order to address the problems of cash-flow inadequacy, deterioration in physical condition and replacement reserves shortages in HUD-assisted and insured properties, the Department is proposing to implement the RESTORE program starting in 1993. This multi-faceted proposal is aimed at confronting current and anticipated problems so as to minimize losses to project residents, the FHA insurance funds, and the public. The RESTORE program will replace two set-asides normally found within the annual contributions for assisted housing program account—property disposition and loan management. The RESTORE proposal is presented separately in another section of this chapter.

The budget also reflects proposals for equality between certificate and voucher fees at 7.25 percent.

The program being proposed for Annual Contributions in 1993 is summarized in the following table.

Lower-income housing (section 8).—The budget proposes the reservation of 148,241 units under Annual Contributions, of which 145,599 will be section 8 units, 1,692 units represent rental assistance in support of the new grant program for the elderly and disabled and 950 section 202(h) units for the disabled.

Included within the 145,599 section 8 units are 59,669 preservation/prepayment units, 7,753 Public Housing Homeownership Replacement (incremental) units and 3,331 Public Housing and Multifamily Non-purchaser (incremental) units under the HOPE initiative and 1,401 (incremental) units under the Public Housing Homeownership 5(h) initiative. In order to expand affordable rental housing opportunities, 70,214 regular incremental voucher units are being proposed. There are 1,900 units of leased housing for the elderly and 1,331 units in other set-asides.

Housing for the elderly and disabled (section 202/811).—The Cranston-Gonzalez National Affordable Housing Act authorized a grant program to make new construction assistance available to elderly and disabled persons. Both the Grant funding and the Rental Assistance needed to aid these low-income tenants is being requested under the annual contributions account in 1993. In addition, legislation is being proposed which will permit the use of leased existing housing to serve the needs of the elderly, handicapped and chronically mentally ill. These leased units will require rental subsidy assistance but will not require grant funding under the sections 202 or 811 grant programs.

Public and Indian housing.—No new development funding is proposed for 1993 for either the public housing or Indian housing programs. However, $125 million is to be set aside under the HOME program for Indian families. A total of $21.8 million is being requested for lease adjustments. Funding for modernization activities amounting to $2.3 billion is being proposed for 1993.

Included within the modernization funding is $10.5 million for the inspection of modernization units and for the provision of management and technical assistance of housing authorities.

Included within Annual Contributions for Assisted Housing are components of a new Administration multi-agency proposal—Weed and Seed initiative—aimed at concentrating and coordinating resources in selected areas.

Section 8 funding for the renewal of expiring subsidy contracts is being requested under separate accounts.

tion, and Other Assisted Housing Programs presented immediately above.

Rent supplement.—Rent supplement assistance payments will continue to be made on behalf of qualified low-income tenants in approximately 18,200 units which have not converted to section 8.

Section 235.—The Housing and Urban-Rural Recovery Act of 1983 (Public Law 98–181) authorized a restructured section 235 program based on a 10-year interest reduction subsidy. A total of $150 million of budget authority was provided in the Second Supplemental Appropriations Act of 1984 (Public Law 98–396) to fund the program. Recaptures of budget authority from terminations must be transferred into the Homeownership Assistance Fund account established pursuant to Public Law 98–181. Amounts deposited will be available for use to assist program beneficiaries still in need of assistance at the expiration of their present ten-year assistance contracts.

Section 236.—The Housing and Urban Development Act of 1968, as amended, authorizes the section 236 Rental Housing Assistance Program which subsidizes the monthly mortgage payment that an owner of a rental or cooperative project is required to make. This interest subsidy reduces rents for lower income tenants.

The Rental Housing Assistance Rescission allows the rescission of not more than $2,000,000 in uncommitted balances.

In addition up to $13.4 million in contract authority ($283 million in budget authority) may be rescinded as a result of mortgage prepayments by section 236 project owners.

The table below reflects the consolidated outlay total for both the Annual Contributions for Assisted Housing Account and the Other Assisted Housing account.

The budget proposes an appropriation of $6.4 billion to renew those section 8 subsidy contracts that are scheduled to expire. Together with the $850 million advance appropriation provided in 1992, funding available for 1993 will be $7.3 billion. The Department is also requesting the authority to transfer funds from the Annual Contributions for Assisted Housing account, if needed, to supplement this appropriation.

Legislation was enacted in 1990 for the Homeownership and Opportunity for People Everywhere Grants (HOPE Grants). The Budget requests an appropriation of $1.01 billion in 1993. Under the program, grants will be used to convert public housing and distressed FHA multi-family properties to homeownership; and to assist non-profits with programs to sell Government-held single family properties to low-income families.

HOPE Grants will be used for acquisition (where appropriate), rehabilitation, replacement reserves, operating reserves, counseling, and technical assistance.

The HOPE Grants appropriation includes $10.2 million to fund the services component of a new program of voucher assistance for the frail elderly. (The housing voucher component is displayed in the housing assistance account.)

Also, section 8 vouchers will be used to provide replacement housing and transitional assistance for public housing developments that convert to low-income homeownership.

Legislation is being proposed in 1992 for the RESTORE program to begin in 1993. Under the proposal, the RESTORE program will replace several existing programs, providing for the first time a comprehensive treatment of troubled HUD-subsidized or assisted multi-family projects with physical, financial, or management problems.

This account includes funding for two of the three components of RESTORE. The Project Support component will provide additional rental assistance in the form of project stabilization vouchers to secure the cash flow of projects in financial distress. After an initial period of two years, tenants will have the choice to use these vouchers to remain in their unit or to move to alternative housing. In addition, assistance for operating income, replacement reserves, and maintenance may be provided to stabilize a project's financial condition. The Property Disposition component will provide for greater flexibility in the sale of multi-family housing by relying on vouchers in soft markets, where there is a relatively adequate supply of affordable housing, and using project stabilization vouchers in tight housing markets.

Eligibility for Project Support assistance will be confined to the housing stock that is subsidized or assisted by HUD. Owners receiving assistance from the RESTORE program will be required to maintain the safety and quality of the housing and to give tenants the option of managing their properties.

Funding for the third component of the RESTORE program, Project Repair, is shown separately under the RESTORE loan program account. This separate account is necessary in order to comply with the new budgetary accounting required by the Federal Credit Reform Act of 1990.

the first time a comprehensive treatment of troubled HUD-subsidized or assisted multi-family projects with physical, financial, or management problems.

As required by the Federal Credit Reform Act of 1990, this account records the subsidy costs associated with the Project Repair direct loan component of RESTORE. The subsidy amounts are estimated on a present value basis.

Project Repair will provide low-interest capital improvement loan funding for projects in need of physical renovation and repair. Eligibility for Project Repair assistance will be confined to certain categories within the housing stock that are subsidized or assisted by HUD. Owners receiving assistance from Project Repair will be required to maintain the safety and quality of the housing and to give tenants a financial interest and the option of managing their properties. Eligible projects may include those who qualify for incentives not to prepay mortgages, so that low-income rent restrictions on the affected units will be preserved. Funding for the other two components of the RESTORE program, Project Support and Property Disposition, is shown separately under the RESTORE grants account.

Under the congregate services program the Department contracted directly with local public housing agencies and section 202 housing for the elderly or disabled sponsors to supply support services, including meals and other services. These 3- and 5-year contracts commenced in 1980 and were evaluated over the life of the contracts. This program did not achieve its primary goal, to prevent premature institutionalization of the elderly. Such activities can more properly be carried out under the Department's HOPE initiative and with the use of service coordinators in the elderly and disabled program. Therefore, no new funding is being requested for 1993 and it is being proposed that $16.7 million of the funds appropriated for 1992 be rescinded.

The budget proposes an appropriation of $3.5 million in 1993 to continue the housing counseling assistance program, which provides comprehensive housing counseling services to eligible homeowners or tenants, including default and renter counseling. The 1993 appropriation will also fund counseling services in support of the Department's "Moving to Opportunity" counseling initiative. The budget does not propose to extend the emergency homeownership counseling and foreclosure-prevention counseling demonstration programs.

Section 8 Single Room Occupancy Program.—The budget requests no appropriation for this program in 1993. The types of activities funded under this program will continue to be eligible under the new Shelter Plus Care program. An appropriation of $265.9 million is requested under that account in 1993.

Funding for this program before 1990 was provided under the Annual Contributions for Assisted Housing account. A separate appropriation, independent of the Assisted Housing account, was provided beginning in 1990. The obligations and outlays shown in the Program and Financing schedule above do not include activity from the pre-1990 appropriations. For purposes of comparison, the table below presents data for the entire program from all appropriations:

As required by the Federal Credit Reform Act of 1990, this account records, for this program, the subsidy costs associated with the loan guarantees committed in 1992 and beyond, as well as administrative expenses of this program. The subsidy amounts are estimated on a present value basis; the administrative expenses are estimated on a cash basis.

Regulations implementing major reforms to this single family mortgage insurance program, enacted in the National Affordable Housing Act of 1990, became effective July 1, 1991. The objective of the reforms was to rebuild the economic value of the fund while maintaining the following principles: (1) meeting the needs of low- and moderate-income first-time homebuyers; (2) establishing insurance premiums that reflect the risk of default; and (3) requiring homebuyers to make minimum equity contributions to protect them and the Fund from excessive default risk.

An independent actuarial analysis of the fund recommended that capital in the fund be increased to 1.25 percent of outstanding insurance in force within 2 years and to 2.0 percent by the year 2000. According to the reforms implemented with the July 1, 1991 regulations FHA homebuyers are paying an annual premium of 50 basis points (0.05 percent) for a specified number of years depending upon the amount of downpayment the homebuyer makes. This annual premium is in addition to the up-front premium, currently 3.8 percent dropping to 3.0 percent beginning in 1993 and to 2.25 percent beginning in 1995. Homebuyer equity is increased by limiting to 57 percent the amount of closing costs that can be financed in the loan. Prior policy had allowed 100 percent of closing costs to be financed in the loan.

Other changes to the program aimed at stabilizing the fund included, elimination of distributive share payments (mutuality benefits) to FHA-insured homeowners who pay off their loans unless the entire fund is actuarially sound; permanent extension of the high-cost home mortgage limit to the lower of $124,875 or 95 percent of the area median house price; and, elimination of vacation properties from the insurance program.

The Department is monitoring the effects of these reforms on the fund. The financial health of the fund depends on the number and costs of homeowner defaults, which are a function of general economic conditions and homeowner equity in the underlying property. The Secretary has the authority to raise or lower the premiums, if an independent auditor determines that the Fund is not meeting its operational goals. These statutory goals are: (1) maintaining an adequate capital ratio; (2) providing access to mortgage credit for homebuyers with low downpayments and first-time homebuyers; (3) minimizing the risk to the Fund and to homeowners from homeowner default; and, (4) avoiding adverse selection.

As required by the Federal Credit Reform Act of 1990, this account records, for the single family, multifamily and Title I insurance programs of FHA's General and Special Risk Insurance Funds, the subsidy costs associated with the loan guarantees committed in 1992 and beyond (including modifications of loan guarantees that resulted from obligations or commitments in any year), as well as administrative expenses of these programs. The subsidy amounts are estimated on a present value basis; the administrative expenses are estimated on a cash basis.

Beginning in 1993, the budget is proposing a homeownership voucher (or homeownership certificate) that could be used in conjunction with single-family mortgage insurance provided from the GI/SRI fund. Currently, housing vouchers and certificates can only be used to help very low-income tenants pay rent. This proposal would permit very low-income tenants with vouchers to pay either the rent or the mortgage payment on a home.

The Nehemiah grants program was authorized by the Housing and Community Development Act of 1987 and funded in 1989, 1990 and 1991 under the Annual Contributions for Assisted Housing account. The legislation authorizes a revolving fund into which are deposited appropriated funds. This program and financing schedule indicates the appropriation from 1990 and 1991 as being transferred from the Annual Contributions account to the Nehemiah revolving fund.

The program provides loans to eligible families to assist in the purchase of new or substantially rehabilitated units. The purpose of the program was: (1) to encourage homeownership by families not otherwise able to afford homeownership; (2) to undertake a concentrated effort to rebuild the depressed areas of the cities and to create sound and attractive neighborhoods; and (3) to increase the employment of neighborhood residents. No separate program is being proposed for 1993. Activities eligible under the Nehemiah Program are being included in the new HOPE and HOME programs.

Unobligated balances remaining in the Nehemiah Housing Opportunity Fund at the end of 1992 are proposed to be transferred to and merged with amounts available under the Annual Contributions for Assisted Housing Program.

Section 620 of the National Manufactured Housing Construction and Safety Standards Act of 1974, as amended, authorizes enforcement of appropriate construction standards for the construction, design and performance of manufactured homes to assure their quality, durability, and safety. All manufactured homes produced since the standards took effect on June 15, 1976 must comply with Federal construction and safety standards. The States are actively encouraged to participate in the program under compliance plans approved by HUD.

A fee is charged to the manufacturers for each manufactured home produced to cover the costs of the monitoring and enforcement activities by HUD contract agents. Fees are deposited in a special fund administered by the Department, and a portion of the fee receipts are transferred to the salaries and expenses account to defray the direct administrative expenses of the program.

The Interstate Land Sales Full Disclosure Act provides protection to the public with respect to purchases or leases of subdivision lots. Statements of record must be filed with the Secretary before subdivisions with 100 or more lots may be sold in interstate commerce, except when the subdivision is eligible for exemption.

The Secretary is authorized to charge a fee, to be paid by the developer when filing a statement of record. The fee receipts are permanently appropriated and have helped finance a portion of the direct administrative expenses incurred in program operations.

The Federal Housing Administration (FHA) Fund consists of four separate insurance funds. Prior to 1992, all budget transactions for the four funds were reflected in a single consolidated budget account (86–4070). Beginning in 1992, the transactions of the Fund appear in six separate accounts. (However, financial data for each individual insurance fund are continuing to be maintained for control and reporting purposes.)

In order to present more clearly the operations of the various funds, FHA's budget transactions have been separated into two major business segments. The single-family insurance programs in the Mutual Mortgage and the Cooperative Management Housing insurance funds (MMI/CMHI) form one segment. The multifamily and high risk insurance programs in the General and Special Risk insurance funds (GI/SRI) form the other.

The Federal Credit Reform Act of 1990 requires each FHA business segment to consist of three separate budget accounts. A liquidating account records the revenues and costs associated with loans insured prior to October 1, 1991; a financing account records the revenues and costs associated with loans insured after September 30, 1991; and, a program account records the transactions associated with the program subsidy costs, if any, and the costs of administering the program.

The 1991 actual year results in the 86–4070 account mark the final year of the consolidated Fund budget presentation. The 86–4070 account has been retained as the liquidating account for the MMI/CMHI activities. As required by the Federal Credit Reform Act of 1990, this account records, for this program, all cash flows to and from the Government resulting from loan guarantees committed prior to 1992. This account is shown on a cash basis. All new activity in this program in 1992 and beyond (including modifications of loan guarantees that resulted from commitments in any year) are recorded in corresponding program (86–0138) and financing (86–4587) accounts.

The detailed program activity in the "Program Highlights" table shown below reflects the consolidated activity of all four insurance funds in 1991 and only the activity in the MMI/CMHI for 1992 and 1993. The detailed GI/SRI program activity for 1992 and 1993 can be found with the GI/SRI liquidating account (86–4072).

The General insurance fund provides for a large number of specialized mortgage insurance programs, including the insurance of loans for property improvements as well as for cooperatives, condominiums, housing for the elderly, rental housing and nonprofit hospitals.

The Special risk insurance fund provides mortgage insurance on behalf of mortgagors eligible for interest reduction payments who otherwise would not be eligible for mortgage insurance. In addition, the fund provides insurance on mortgages covering experimental housing where strict adherence to State or local building regulations is not observed. Also provided is insurance for high-risk mortgagors who normally would not be eligible for mortgage insurance.

Budget program.—As required by the Federal Credit Reform Act of 1990, this account records, for this program, all cash flows to and from the Government resulting from loan guarantees committed prior to 1992. This account is shown on a cash basis. All new activity in this program in 1992 and beyond (including modifications of loan guarantees that resulted from obligations or commitments in any year) is recorded in corresponding program and financing accounts.

The budget is requesting appropriation language to override parts of section 203 of the Housing and Community Development Amendments of 1978 to allow for the efficient disposition of HUD-acquired rental properties. As the acquired inventory rises, current statutory restrictions severely inhibit the Secretary to manage this portfolio and simply increase the cost to the Federal Government. Low-income tenants who could be economically impacted by disposition would be eligible to receive a voucher.

This account reflects legislation that cancelled $7.3 billion of Treasury borrowings as well as $128 million of accrued interest of the General and Special Risk Insurance Funds, which was outstanding on September 30, 1991. The debt was incurred over the past twenty years to finance the continuing operations of high risk insurance programs not designed originally to be actuarially sound. Forgiveness eliminates annual interest payments by the GI and SRI funds to the Treasury of approximately $600 million. Future insuring activity under the Credit Reform approach will require the provision of subsidy at the time of insurance commitment to cover anticipated future costs of the programs.

The detailed programs activity in the "Program Highlights" table shown below reflects the consolidated activity of the GI/SRI account.

Note.—Amounts for direct loan obligations reflect reservations of section 202 funds. Loan obligations shown under the program and financing schedule reflect loans that have reached the initial closing stage of processing.

The Housing for the Elderly or Handicapped Fund was established pursuant to section 202 of the Housing Act of 1959, as amended. The fund provides direct loans to nonprofit organizations building and managing housing projects for lower income persons who are elderly or disabled.

Projects must include an assured range of necessary services for the occupants of such projects. In addition, the section 8 lower income housing assistance payments program have been used in conjunction with the section 202 program. Applications under the two programs have been processed simultaneously.

The data included in these schedules represent direct loan activities funded under the Housing for the Elderly or Handicapped Loan Fund. Starting in 1991, activities in support of the needs of the elderly and disabled are carried out under a new grant program funded in the 1991 Appropriations Act (P.L. 101–507) and authorized in the National Affordable Housing Act (P.L. 101–625).

While the National Affordable Housing Act provided for implementation of the grant program in fiscal year 1992, the 1991 Appropriations Act permitted the program to begin in 1991.

After January 1, 1992, all projects for which there are administrative reservations will be converted to the new capital advance assistance program. Until April 1, 1992, the Secretary may waive such conversions in individual cases. The operations of the new grant program are included within the

The Housing and Urban Development Act of 1968 authorized the Secretary to establish a revolving fund into which rental collections in excess of the established basic rents for units in section 236 subsidized projects would be deposited.

The Housing and Community Development Amendment of 1978 authorized the Secretary, subject to approval in appropriation acts, to transfer excess rent collections received after 1978 to the Troubled projects operating subsidy program, renamed the Flexible Subsidy Fund. Prior to that time, collections were used for paying tax and utility increases in section 236 projects. The Housing and Community Development Act of 1980 amended the 1978 Act by authorizing the transfer of excess rent collections regardless of when collected.

This Budget proposes that the resources deposited in the Flexible Subsidy Fund from the Rental Housing Assistance Fund be transferred to the general fund of the Treasury.

The Flexible Subsidy Fund, formerly the Troubled Projects Operating Subsidy Program, assists financially troubled subsidized projects under certain FHA authorities. The subsidies are intended to prevent potential losses to the FHA fund resulting from project insolvency and to preserve these projects as a viable source of housing for low- and moderate-income tenants.

No additional reservation activity is proposed for the Flexible Subsidy Fund in 1993 and thereafter. In 1993, the budget instead proposes a total transfer of $112 million. Of this amount, $24 million is proposed to be transferred to the Annual Contributions for Assisted Housing program, and $87.6 million is proposed to be transferred to the general fund of the Treasury.

To replace the Flexible Subsidy Fund, the Department is proposing a comprehensive RESTORE Program designed to deal with the growing backlog of multi-family projects that are either financially or physically troubled or have the potential to become so in the near future.

The new RESTORE Program will be divided into three accounts. The RESTORE grant account will fund two components: Project Support and Property Disposition. The Project Support Program will provide assistance to secure the cash flow of projects in financial distress. The Property Disposition Program will provide project stabilization vouchers to aid in the sale of multi-family housing. The other RESTORE accounts, the RESTORE loan program account and the RESTORE financing account (an off-budget account), will provide capital improvement loans for projects in need of physical renovation and repair.

In exchange for additional assistance, project owners who receive loans would be required to provide a financial interest in the project for the low-income residents.

The program and financing schedule for the Flexible Subsidy account summarizes the Federal Government's obligations for this program for loans reserved through 1992.

As required by the Federal Credit Reform Act of 1990, this account records, for this program, all cash flows to and from the Government resulting from direct loans obligated prior to 1992. This account is shown on a cash basis.

The Nonprofit sponsor assistance fund provided interest-free loans to nonprofit organizations to plan housing projects to be financed under the section 202 housing for the elderly or disabled program. To ensure a sufficient commitment by the sponsor to the proposed project, the fund financed up to 80 percent of the start-up costs through these "seed money" loans. Sponsors are required to demonstrate their financial capacity by providing 20 percent from their own funds which is repaid from the initial proceeds of the section 202 construction loan. Loans may not exceed $50,000. The Budget does not propose a loan limitation in 1993 since the capital advance program for the elderly and disabled provides money for technical assistance to help nonprofit sponsors to finance these "seed" costs.

The community disposition program was established by the Atomic Energy Community Act of 1955 to dispose of federally owned properties.

Budget program.—All sales under the program have been completed. The Department will continue to service the mortgage inventory it currently holds.

Operating results.—Total funds recovered and transferred to the Treasury over the life of the program are estimated to reach $87.4 million by the end of 1993. The mortgages are expected to be liquidated by the end of 1993 and there will be no activity thereafter.

The Homeownership Assistance Fund was established by the Housing and Urban-Rural Recovery Act of 1983. It provides for the receipt of recaptures of budget authority, cash, and interest earnings under the restructured section 235 program. The funds are authorized to be used, to the extent approved in Appropriation Acts, by the Secretary to provide additional section 235 assistance payments for mortgagors who are unable to assume the full payment due under the mortgage after the termination of the original 10-year assistance payments contract.

Operating subsidy payments are provided to assist local Public Housing Agencies (PHAs) and Indian Housing Authorities (IHAs) to meet certain deficits in the operation of PHA-owned and IHA-owned low-income housing. These payments are in addition to the debt service and capital funding provided by HUD for development and modernization of low-income housing.

The operating subsidy estimates for 1993 are based primarily upon the Performance Funding System (PFS) formula, but include projected savings resulting from a vacancy rule change and other actions.

DRUG ELIMINATION GRANTS FOR LOW-INCOME HOUSING

Drug elimination grants are provided to public housing agencies (PHAs) and Indian housing authorities (IHAs) to promote safe and decent housing communities by ridding PHAs and IHAs of drugs and drug-related crime. Funding for drug elimination grants were included in the "Payments for Operating of Low-Income Housing Projects" appropriation in both 1989 and 1990 and in the "Annual Contributions for Assisted Housing" appropriation in 1990. A separate appropriation titled Drug Elimination Grants was established in 1991 for $150 million.

In 1992, $165 million was appropriated under the Drug Elimination Grants for Low-Income Housing account. For 1993, $165 million is being requested for such activities under this account. This includes $6 million to be earmarked to support the administration's multi-agency Weed and Seed initiative for 1993. See Part One, Chapter 8 for more details. The table below summarizes the funding levels provided for drug elimination for the period, 1991–1993.

The Low-Rent Public Housing Loan Fund is used to provide direct Federal loans to fund remaining Public Housing Agency (PHA) and Indian Housing Authority (IHA) construction, acquisition, and modernization activities reserved under the Annual Contributions appropriation through 1986. These loans are made from available resources of this fund and from borrowings from the Treasury. Under legislation enacted during 1986 (Public Law 99-272), the borrowings from the Treasury are forgiven at the end of each fiscal year and the loans to PHAs/IHAs are forgiven as construction, acquisition, and modernization activities are completed. Under the provisions of this legislation, $150 million of borrowings from the Treasury were forgiven in 1991, an estimated $100 million will be borrowed from the Treasury and forgiven in 1992 and an estimated $50 million will be borrowed from the Treasury and forgiven in 1993. The table below shows the status of outstanding loans for the period 1991-1993. The $85 million balance at the end of each year represents administrative loans, off-site facility loans, and preliminary loans on projects never undertaken and excess financing.

LOANS TO FEDERAL NATIONAL MORTGAGE ASSOCIATION

The Treasury is authorized to make up to $2.25 billion of loans to the Federal National Mortgage Association. Such loans were made in the first few months of the Association's existence as a private corporation while it arranged lines of credit with commercial banks. No loans have been made since that time and the loan authority will be used only in emergency situations.

In accordance with the Federal Credit Reform Act of 1990, GNMA is transferring $2.032 billion from the liquidating account (86-4238-0-3-371) to the financing account (86-4240-0-3-371) in the beginning of fiscal year (FY) 1993. The liquidating account beginning in FY 1993 will include only the portfolios that defaulted prior to October 1, 1992. Therefore, the GNMA U.S. Treasury Account (Securities/Funds) that support the GNMA guarantee will be transferred in part to the financing account in FY 1993. This non-budgetary account (financing account) starting in FY 1993 will administer all revenues and expenses associated with GNMA issuer portfolios in good standing and all issuer portfolios that defaulted on or after October 1, 1992.

MEMORANDUM:
2299 U.S. contingent liability for guaranteed loans outstanding, end of year[2]	421,298,608	369,598,217	13,787,984

[1] Transfer to the financing account.

[2] Ultimate liability for GNMA mortgage backed securities rests with other U.S. agencies. Total Federal contingent liability should not be double counted.

The Housing and Urban Development Act of 1968 authorized the Government National Mortgage Association (GNMA) to guarantee the timely payment of principal and interest on privately issued securities that are backed by pools of FHA, VA and FmHA mortgages. The GNMA guarantee gives lenders access to the capital markets for funds to originate new loans. Over 95% of new FHA and VA loans are pooled into new GNMA securities.

Budget Program.—Program activity is summarized below:

	1991 actual	1992 est.	1993 est.
Commitment Limitation	79,998,960
Commitments Issued	66,230,751
Guarantees Issued	62,761,445
Securities Outstanding	422,926,501	369,598,217	13,787,984

Financing.—GNMA Issuers are assessed commitment, guarantee and other fees to cover costs incurred by GNMA and to fund a reserve against possible future payments under the guarantee.

Operating results.—Fee collections, interest, and other income are expected to exceed expenses by $281 million and $27 million in 1992 and 1993, respectively. These amounts will be retained to cover future year expenses and as a reserve against losses that may be incurred on guarantees. GNMA will transfer $2,032 million from the liquidating account in 1993 to the financing account.

[1] Transfer from liquidating account.

In accordance with the Federal Credit Reform Act of 1990, GNMA is transferring $2.032 billion from the Liquidating Account (86-4238-0-3-371) to the financing account (86-4240-0-3-371) in the beginning of fiscal year (FY) 1993. The liquidating account beginning in FY 1993 will include only the portfolios that defaulted prior to October 1, 1992. Therefore, the GNMA U.S. Treasury Account (Securities/Funds) that supports the GNMA guarantee will be transferred in part to the financing account in FY 1993. This non-budgetary account (financing account) starting in FY 1993 will administer all revenues and expenses associated with GNMA issuer portfolios in good standing and all issuer portfolios that defaulted on or after October 1, 1992.

The Housing and Urban Development Act of 1968 authorized the Government National Mortgage Association (GNMA) to guarantee the timely payment of principal and interest on privately issued securities that are backed by pools of FHA, VA and FmHA mortgages. The GNMA guarantee gives lenders access to the capital markets for funds to originate new loans. Over 95% of new FHA and VA loans are pooled into new GNMA securities.

Budget Program.—Program activity is summarized below:

	1991 actual	1992 est.	1993 est.
Commitment Limitation		74,769,293	77,700,000

Guarantees Issued		64,122,389	67,651,087
Securities Outstanding		63,583,719	449,963,503

Financing.—GNMA Issuers are assessed commitment, guarantee and other fees to cover costs incurred by GNMA and to fund a reserve against possible future payments under the guarantee.

Operating results.—Fee collections, interest, and other income are expected to exceed expenses by $21 million and $442 million in 1992 and 1993, respectively. These amounts

Funds are allocated to Indian tribes, and on an entitlement basis, to metropolitan cities and urban counties which receive their grants using the higher of two objective formulas. States and small cities are also allocated a portion of the available funds.

Budget program.—An appropriation of $2,900 million is proposed for 1993. Grant outlays are estimated at $3.1 billion in 1992 and $3.3 billion in 1993.

In 1993, the Department proposes to continue funding a $4.75 million public housing child care demonstration as authorized by section 222 of the Housing and Urban-Rural Recovery Act of 1983 and proposes $10 million for a new program of grants to States for barrier-removal planning and implementation.

The Budget further proposes that $44 million of the 1993 appropriation be earmarked to support the Administration's multi-agency initiative Weed and Seed. For more details on this initiative, see Part One, Chapter 8.

The HOME Investment Partnerships program is authorized by the National Affordable Housing Act (P.L. 101-625). This program provides assistance to States and units of local government, through formula allocation, for the purpose of expanding the supply and affordability of housing. Eligible activities would include acquisition, rehabilitation, tenant-based rental assistance, and, under certain prescribed situations, new construction.

In 1993, formula funds will be distributed 40 percent to States and 60 percent to eligible local governments after a set-aside of $125 million for Indian tribes and a set-aside of $375 thousand for Insular Areas. Jurisdictions participating in the program are required to develop a "Comprehensive Housing Affordability Strategy" in order to receive funding.

This program was authorized under section 17(a)(1)(A) of the United States Housing Act of 1937, as amended by section 301 of the Housing and Urban-Rural Recovery Act of 1983 (Public Law 98-181).

The National Affordable Housing Act (P.L. 101-625) terminated the Rental Rehabilitation program effective October 1, 1991, and the program's unexpended balances were transferred to the revolving fund (liquidating programs), effective October 1, 1991.

Funding for this program before 1989 was provided under the Annual Contributions for Assisted Housing account. A separate appropriation, independent of the Assisted Housing account, was provided beginning in 1989.

For purposes of comparison, the table below presents data for the entire program, including that resulting from appro-

Section 810 of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974, as amended, authorized the Secretary of HUD to transfer one- to four-unit HUD-owned properties, without payment, to units of local government for use in an urban homesteading program. In addition, the Act authorized the Secretary of the Department of Veterans Affairs, the Secretary of Agriculture, and the Resolution Trust Corporation to transfer their unoccupied, single family properties for use in such programs.

The National Affordable Housing Act (P.L. 101–625) terminated the Urban Homesteading Program effective October 1, 1991.

Title V of the Energy Security Act of 1980 authorized the creation of the Solar Energy and Energy Conservation Bank to encourage energy conservation and the use of solar energy. It has provided funds to subsidize loans and grants for the installation of energy conservation and solar energy improvements in single and multifamily residences, and agricultural and commercial buildings.

The Solar Bank was extinguished by operation of law on March 15, 1988.

Title IV, subtitle B, of the Stewart B. McKinney Homeless Assistance Act (Public Law 100–77), authorizes the Secretary to make Emergency Shelter Grants to States, units of local government, and nonprofit organizations to provide emergency shelter and other support for the homeless. An appropriation of $17.45 million is requested for this account in 1993.

This program will be phased out in 1993 and no additional funds will be proposed after 1993. Rather than continuing to provide funds for emergency shelters, which are not intended to help end homelessness, greater emphasis will be placed on programs providing or leading to permanent housing. Such programs include Shelter Plus Care, Transitional Housing for the Homeless, and the new Safe Havens program.

Title IV, subtitle C, of the Stewart B. McKinney Homeless Assistance Act (Public Law 100–77) authorizes assistance to deinstitutionalized homeless individuals, homeless families with children, homeless individuals with mental disabilities, and other homeless persons. Such assistance is available for the acquisition, rehabilitation, and construction of structures to be used for the homeless as well as to pay a portion of annual operating costs and supportive services.

The Budget proposes amending the current Supportive Housing Demonstration Program (Subtitle C of Title IV of the McKinney Act), to be retitled the "Transitional Housing for the Homeless Program", beginning in 1993. This revised program would combine the current program, along with the Supplemental Assistance for Facilities to Assist the Homeless (SAFAH) Program, so as to expand current efforts to assist families and individuals to make the transition from homelessness to greater self-sufficiency and permanent housing. The proposal would also make delivery of assistance more efficient by reducing the numbers of separate, national funding competitions conducted by the Department. The revised program will focus on assisting non-disabled persons and would eliminate funding for permanent housing.

[SUPPLEMENTAL ASSISTANCE FOR FACILITIES TO ASSIST THE HOMELESS]

[For grants for supplemental assistance for facilities to assist the homeless as authorized under subtitle D of title IV of the Stewart B. McKinney Homeless Assistance Act (Public Law 100–77), as amended, $11,263,000, notwithstanding section 837(c) of the Cranston-Gonzalez National Affordable Housing Act (Public Law 101–625), to remain available until expended.] (Departments of Veterans Affairs and Housing and Urban Development, and Independent Agencies Appropriations Act, 1992.)

Title IV, subtitle D, of the Stewart B. McKinney Homeless Assistance Act (Public Law 100–77), authorizes the Supplemental Facilities To Assist the Homeless program (SAFAH), which provides comprehensive assistance for particularly innovative programs or alternative methods of meeting the immediate and long-term needs of the homeless.

The Budget does not propose an appropriation for the SAFAH program in 1993. Instead, the SAFAH and Supportive Housing Demonstration programs will be combined into one program, to be called the Transitional Housing for the Homeless program, beginning in 1993. This consolidated program, which will award funds on a competitive basis, would expand current efforts to assist homeless families and individuals to make the transition from homelessness to greater self-sufficiency and permanent housing. It would also make delivery of assistance more efficient by reducing the numbers of separate, national funding competitions conducted by the Department.

The Budget proposes amending title IV of the Stewart B. McKinney Homeless Assistance Act to authorize a unified Shelter Plus Care program which will consolidate the three component programs currently authorized by that Act. Under this program, HUD provides rental assistance to homeless persons with disabilities. Supportive services equal to, or greater than, the HUD grant are provided by grant recipients. The awards are made on a competitive basis. The consolidated approach will retain all of the approaches for providing assistance under the existing three-component programs but will be more efficient by allowing homeless providers greater flexibility in giving assistance to their disabled homeless populations. Shelter Plus Care is an integral part of the HOPE initiative and is an important endeavor in the effort to end the tragedy of homelessness.

For 1992, two components of Shelter Plus Care were funded at $73 million for the Section 8 Moderate Rehabilitation SRO program and $37 million for Section 202 Rental Assistance. Under the Section 8 Moderate Rehabilitation SRO component, HUD provides rental assistance for a ten-year period to assist homeless persons with disabilities (primarily persons who are seriously mentally ill, have chronic problems with alcohol or drugs, or have acquired immunodeficiency syndrome and related diseases) to live in moderately rehabilitated SRO housing. The Section 202 component of Shelter Plus Care provides rental housing assistance for a five-year period to assist homeless persons with disabilities through private, non-profit organizations meeting the requirements of the program.

The Budget is proposing to amend Title IV of the Stewart B. McKinney Homeless Assistance Act (Public Law 100–77) by adding a new subtitle, "Safe Havens." This program will provide financial assistance to States, local governments, nonprofit organizations, and Indian tribes. Funds would support the acquisition, rehabilitation, and operating costs of low-cost, semi-private lodging for homeless persons who, due to severe mental illness, are unwilling or unable to make the commitment needed for successful treatment. Counseling would also be provided in an attempt to engage these persons in treatment programs.

Safe Havens are an alternative to the high cost and hopelessness of the current pattern of transiency between shelters, hospitals, jails, and the streets. A Safe Haven would be the size of a small emergency shelter, preferably the size of a group home for about a dozen people. The maximum occupancy at a Safe Haven would be twenty-five. Unlike an emergency shelter, residents would not be required to vacate the premises during the day, nor would the duration of their stay be limited.

As required by the Federal Credit Reform Act of 1990, this account records, for this program, all cash flows to and from the Government resulting from loan guarantees committed prior to 1992. This account is shown on a cash basis. A guaranteed loan commitment level of $140 million was established in the 1992 HUD Appropriations Act. This activity appears in the financing account for the Section 108 Loan Guarantee Program. No subsidy is estimated for 1992 and 1993 for the Section 108 Program. The program account therefore shows no activity.

Guaranteed loans.—Guaranteed loan assistance under section 108 was provided to eligible communities to finance acquisition of real property, rehabilitation of publicly owned real property, and certain related expenses. In the past the Federal Financing Bank financed these guaranteed loans. The Consolidated Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1985 requires private financing of all loan guarantees committed after July 1, 1986. FFB will continue disbursing loans for commitments approved prior to July 1, 1986. No guarantee commitments are proposed for 1993, and legislation is being proposed to repeal section 108.

The Housing and Urban Development Act of 1970 directs the Secretary to undertake programs of research, studies, testing, and demonstrations related to the HUD mission. These functions are carried out internally and through contracts with industry, nonprofit research organizations, and educational institutions, and through agreements with State and local governments and other Federal agencies.

In 1993, the research program will continue to emphasize the improvement of the operation of the Department's programs. Also, program evaluation and monitoring will be carried out in 1993, as a continuation of the Department's reform commitment initiated in 1991.

This appropriation provides agency-wide audit and investigative functions to identify and correct management and administrative deficiencies, which create conditions for existing or potential instances of fraud, waste and mismanagement. The audits function provides internal audit, contract audit, and inspections services. Contract audits provide professional advice to agency contracting officials on accounting and financial matters relative to negotiation, award, administration, repricing, and settlement of contracts. Internal audits review and evaluate all facets of agency operations. Inspections services provide detailed technical evaluations of agency operations. The investigative function provides for the detection and investigation of improper and illegal activities involving programs, personnel, and operations.

Budget program.—Grants were distributed to new community developers under section 718 to supplement public facility projects in existing new communities. Public Law 96–7, dated April 9, 1979, rescinded all budget authority not administratively committed. Any amounts recovered subsequent to that date will be rescinded automatically. All remaining commitments are estimated to be disbursed by the end of 1992.

This fund is the repository of gifts and bequests that the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development is authorized to accept and use for the purposes of aiding the work of the Department. Section 7(k)(1) of the Department of Housing and Urban Development Act, 42 U.S.C. 3535(k)(1), authorizes the installment of a fund amount for the above purpose.

ADMINISTRATIVE PROVISIONS

[Notwithstanding any other provision of law or other requirement, the city of Vallejo, California, is authorized to retain any land disposition proceeds or urban renewal grant funds that remain after the financial closeout of the Marina Vista Urban Renewal Project, and to use such funds in accordance with the requirements of the community development block grant program specified in title I of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974. The city of Vallejo shall retain such funds in a lump sum and shall be entitled to retain and use, in accordance with this paragraph, all past and future earnings from such funds, including any interest.]

[Notwithstanding any provision of law or other requirement, the Urban Renewal Authority of the city of Oklahoma City, in the State of Oklahoma, is authorized to retain any land disposition proceeds and other income from the financially closed-out Central Business District Number 1A Urban Renewal Project (OKLA. R–30) and John F. Kennedy Urban Renewal Project (OKLA. R–35) in accordance with the Close-out Agreements executed pursuant to 24 CFR 570.804(b)(5) October 16, 1979, and concurred in by the Secretary, which agreements obligated such proceeds to completion of project activities in consideration for the reduction of an approved categorical settlement grant in satisfaction of the repayment requirements of 24 CFR 570.486. The Urban Renewal Authority of the city of Oklahoma City shall retain such proceeds and other income in a lump sum and shall be entitled to retain and use, subject only to the provisions of 24 CFR 570.504(b)(5), such past and future proceeds, including any interest, for the completion of such project activities.]

[Notwithstanding any other provision of law or other requirement, the city of New London, Connecticut, is authorized to retain any land disposition proceeds or urban renewal grant funds that remain after the financial closeout of the Shaw's Cove Urban Renewal Project (No. Conn. R–126), and to use such funds in accordance with the requirements of the community development block grant program specified in title I of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974. The city of New London shall retain such funds in a lump sum and shall be entitled to retain and use, in accordance with this paragraph, all past and future earnings from such funds, including any interest.]

[Notwithstanding any other provision of law or other requirement, the cities of Newburyport and Malden, in Massachusetts, are authorized to retain any categorical settlement grant funds or urban renewal grant funds that remain after the financial closeout of the Central Business Urban Renewal Project (No. MASS–R–80) in the city of Newburyport and the Civic Center Urban Renewal Project (No. MASS–R–118) in the city of Malden, respectively, and to use such funds in accordance with the requirements of the community development block grant program specified in title I of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974. The cities of Newburyport and Malden shall retain such funds in a lump sum and shall be entitled to retain and use, in accordance with this paragraph, all past and future earnings from such funds, including any interest.]

[Notwithstanding any other provision of law or other requirement, the Housing Authority of the city of Jefferson, in the State of Missouri, is authorized to retain any land disposition proceeds from the financially closed-out Capitol West Urban Renewal Project (Mo. R–45), pursuant to the agreement which permitted the retention of certain proceeds, which agreement was dated August 27, 1982, and to use such proceeds in accordance with the requirements of the community development block grant program specified in title I of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974. The Housing Authority of the city of Jefferson City shall retain such funds in a lump sum and shall be entitled to retain and use, in accordance with this paragraph, all past and future earnings from such proceeds, including any interest.]

[The Secretary of Housing and Urban Development shall cancel the indebtedness of the town of Calhoun Falls, South Carolina, relating to the public facilities loan (Project No. SC–16–PFL0061). The town of Calhoun Falls, South Carolina, is relieved of all liability to the Government for the outstanding principal balance on such loan, for the amount of accrued interest on such loan, and for any other fees and charges payable in connection with such loan.]

[During fiscal year 1992, notwithstanding any other provision of law, the number of individuals employed by the Department of Housing and Urban Development in other than "career appointee" positions in the Senior Executive Service shall not exceed 15.]

[Section 8(c)(1) of the United States Housing Act of 1937 is amended by inserting after "New York." the following new sentences: "The Secretary shall also establish separate fair market rentals under this paragraph for Monroe County in the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. In establishing fair market rentals for the remaining portion of the market area in which Monroe County is located, the Secretary shall establish the fair market rentals as if such portion included Monroe County.".]

[Section 801(a) of the Cranston-Gonzalez National Affordable Housing Act is amended in the last sentence of subsection (g)(2) of the amendment to be made (by such section 801(a)) to section 202 of the Housing Act of 1959 by striking "in housing principally serving frail elderly persons".]

[The last sentence of section 202(g)(2) of the Housing Act of 1959 (12 U.S.C. 1701q(g)(2)) is amended by striking "or a project where the tenants are not principally frail elderly".]

[Section 6 of the United States Housing Act of 1937 (42 U.S.C. 1437d) is amended by adding at the end the following new subsection:

"(p) With respect to amounts available for obligation on or after October 1, 1991, the criteria established under section 213(d)(5)(B) of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1974 for any competition for assistance for new construction, acquisition, or acquisition and rehabilitation of public housing shall give preference to applications for housing to be located in a local market area that has an inadequate supply of housing available for use by very low-income families. The Secretary shall establish criteria for determining that the housing supply of a local market area is inadequate, which shall require—

"(1)(A) information regarding housing market conditions showing that the supply of rental housing affordable by very low-income families is inadequate, taking into account vacancy rates in such housing and other market indicators; and

"(B) evidence that significant numbers of families in the local market area holding certificates and vouchers under section 8 are experiencing significant difficulty in leasing housing meeting program and family-size requirements; or

"(2) evidence that the proposed development would provide increased housing opportunities for minorities or address special housing needs.".]

[Section 14(k)(5)(A) of the Housing Act of 1937, as amended, is hereby amended as follows:

(1) by striking in the first sentence thereof the word "initial";

(2) in subsection (i) thereof by substituting the phrase "for each of the preceding three fiscal years" for the phrase "for each of fiscal years of 1989, 1990 and 1991"; and

(3) by adding a new subsection (iii) as follows:

"(iii) In determining whether an agency is 'troubled with respect to the modernization program', the Department shall consider only the agency's ability to carry out that program effectively based upon the agency's capacity to accomplish the physical work: (a) with decent quality; (b) in a timely manner; (c) under competent contract administration; and (d) with adequate budget controls. No other criteria shall be applied in the determination.".]

[Section 14(k)(5)(E) of said Act is repealed.]

[No appropriated funds may be used to implement the rule proposed in 56 FR 45814, September 6, 1991, relating to "Low-Income Public and Indian Housing—Vacancy Rule" or any revision thereof or any other rule related or similar thereto.]

[Section 6(j)(1) of the Housing Act of 1937, 42 U.S.C. 1437d(j)(1) section 502(a) of the National Affordable Housing Act, is amended as follows:

(1) by adding at the end of subparagraph (H) the following language: "which shall not exceed the seven factors in the statute, plus an additional five"; and

(2) by adding as subparagraph (I) the following:

"(I) The Secretary shall:

"(1) administer the system of evaluating public housing agencies flexibly to ensure that such agencies are not penalized as result of circumstances beyond their control;

"(2) reflect in the weights assigned to the various indicators the differences in the difficulty of managing individual projects that result from their physical condition and their neighborhood environment; and

"(3) determine a public housing agency's status as 'troubled with respect to the program under section 14' based upon factors solely related to its ability to carry out that program.".]

[The Secretary shall cancel the indebtedness of the Sale Creek Utility District in Soddy Daisy, Tennessee, relating to public facilities loan (Project No. TN 40–PFL0071) issued May 1, 1962. The Sale Creek Utility District in Soddy Daisy is relieved of all liability to the Government for the outstanding principal balance on such loan, for the amount of accrued interest on such loan, and for any other fees and charges payable in connection with such loan.]

[The Secretary of Housing and Urban Development shall transfer title to the repossessed property known as the Roosevelt Homes Project (No. 074–84006) located in Davenport, Iowa, to a nonprofit organization. Such property shall be used only for the provision of an integrated program of shelter and social services to the homeless, or for other nonprofit uses, for a period of not less than twenty years following the date of the transfer. Use of the transferred property before the expiration of the twenty-year period following the date of the transfer for any purpose other than those described herein shall cause title to revert back to the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development. The nonprofit organization selected by the Department shall have the right to use or not use the section 8 certificates attached to the property.]

[Notwithstanding any other provision of law, housing assistance payments in the amount of $896,000 made available under the Departments of Veterans Affairs and Housing and Urban Development, and Independent Agencies Appropriations Act, 1990 (Public Law 101–144), for project-based assistance under the section 8 existing housing certificate program (42 U.S.C. 1437f) for the Ganado Acres project, shall be for a term beginning on December 1, 1989.]

[Hereafter, notwithstanding any other provision of State or Federal law, regulation or other requirement, any public housing agency or Indian housing authority that purchases any line of insurance from a nonprofit insurance entity, owned and controlled by public housing agencies or Indian housing authorities, and approved by the Secretary, may purchase such insurance without regard to competitive procurement.]

[Hereafter, the Secretary shall establish standards as set forth herein, by regulation, adopted after notice and comment rulemaking pursuant to the Administrative Procedures Act, which will become effective not later than one year from the effective date of this Act.]

[Hereafter, in establishing standards for approval of such nonprofit insurance entities, the Secretary shall be assured that such entities have sufficient surplus capital to meet reasonably expected losses, reliable accounting systems, sound actuarial projections, and employees experienced in the insurance industry. The Secretary shall not place restrictions on the investment of funds of any such entity that is regulated by the insurance department of any State that describes the types of investments insurance companies licensed in such State may make. With regard to such entities that are not so regulated, the Secretary shall establish investment guidelines that are comparable to State law regulating the investments of insurance companies.]

[Hereafter, the Secretary shall not approve additional nonprofit insurance entities until such standards have become final, nor shall the Secretary revoke the approval of any nonprofit insurance entity previously approved by the Department unless for cause and after a due process hearing.]

[Hereafter, until the Department of Housing and Urban Development has adopted regulations specifying the nature and quality of insurance covering the potential personal injury liability exposure of public housing authorities and Indian housing authorities (and their contractors, including architectural and engineering services) as a result of testing and abatement of lead-based paint in federally subsidized public and Indian housing units, said authorities shall be permitted to purchase insurance for such risk, as an allowable expense against amounts available for capital improvements (modernization): Provided, That such insurance is competitively selected and that coverage provided under such policies, as certified by the authority, provides reasonable coverage for the risk of liability exposure, taking into consideration the potential liability concerns inherent in the testing and abatement of lead-based paint, and the managerial and quality assurance responsibilities associated with the conduct of such activities.]

[During fiscal year 1992, notwithstanding any other provision of law, average employment in the headquarter's offices of the Department of Housing and Urban Development shall not exceed: (1) 71 staff years for the Immediate Office of the Secretary/Under Secretary, (2) 13 staff years for the Deputy Under Secretary for Field Coordination, (3) 19 staff years for the Office of Public Affairs, (4) 28 staff years for the Office of Legislation and Congressional Relations, (5) 1,068 staff years for the Assistant Secretary for Housing—Federal Housing Commissioner, of which 25 staff years shall be for data management reform and preservation activities only, (6) 207 staff years for the Assistant Secretary for Public and Indian Housing, (7) 275 staff years for the Assistant Secretary for Community Planning and Development, (8) 137 staff years for the Assistant Secretary for Policy Development and Research, (9) 170 staff years for the Assistant Secretary for Fair Housing and Equal Opportunity, and (10) 219 staff years for the Office of General Counsel of which not more than 13 staff years shall be for the Immediate Office of General Counsel: Provided, That no funds may be used from amounts provided in this or any other Act for details of employees from any organization in the Department of Housing and Urban Development to any organization included under the budget activity "Departmental Management".]

[Section 14(a) of the Housing Act of 1937, as amended (42 U.S.C. 1437l(a)) is amended by—

(1) striking "and" at the end of clause (1); and

(2) adding clauses (3), (4), and (5) as follows:

"(3) to assess the risks of lead-based paint poisoning through the use of professional risk assessments that include dust and soil sampling and laboratory analysis in all projects constructed before 1980 that are, or will be, occupied by families;

"(4) to take effective interim measures to reduce and contain the risks of lead-based paint poisoning recommended in such professional risk assessments; and

"(5) the costs of testing, interim containment, professional risk assessments and abatement of lead are eligible modernization expenses. The costs of professional risk assessment are eligible modernization expenses whether or not they are incurred in connection with insurance and costs for such assessments that were incurred or disbursed in fiscal year 1991 from other accounts shall be paid or reimbursed from modernization funds in fiscal year 1992.".]

[Section 606(c) of the Housing and Community Development Act of 1987 (12 U.S.C. 1715l note) is amended by adding at the end thereof the following new sentence: "The Secretary may apply this 25 percent requirement to all the homes under Nehemiah housing opportunity program or to a phase (approved under subsection (b)) consisting of at least 16 homes.".] Within amounts appropriated for the Department of Housing and Urban Development in this Act, up to $90,000,000 shall be available to carry out authorized activities, consistent with Section 112 of the Department of Justice and Related Agencies Appropriations Act, 1993, relating to Weed and Seed as follows:

(a) in the "Community development grants" account, up to $44,000,000;

(b) in the "Annual contributions for assisted housing" account, for the modernization of existing public housing projects, as authorized by Section 14 of the United States Housing Act of 1937, as amended, up to $20,000,000; and for the housing voucher program, as authorized by section 8(o) of such Act, up to $20,000,000; and

(c) in the "Drug elimination grants for low-income housing" account, from funds available to public housing agencies for use in eliminating drug-related crime in public housing projects, up to $6,000,000.

Authority To Collect a Fee for Regulating

Section 7(j) of the Department of Housing and Urban Development Act of 1965, amended (42 U.S.C. 3535(j)), is amended by inserting ", entities that the Secretary regulates," immediately after "program beneficiaries",; and by inserting "regulation," immediately after "costs of inspection,". Energy and minerals management.—Provides for leasing of Federal minerals onshore, for Federal mineral resource and economic evaluation, and for the supervision of minerals development activities on Federal and Indian lands, including oil and gas, coal, geothermal, oil shale, tar sands, phosphates, sodium, and potash. Emphasis is also placed on surface management regulation and compliance for mining on public lands.

Lands and realty management.—Includes processing rights-of-way applications; processing land selections under the Alaska Native Claims Settlement Act and the Alaska Statehood Act; processing State indemnity selections, land exchanges, and other lands and realty cases; review and processing of public land withdrawals, and sale of lands under the terms of the Federal Land Policy and Management Act and other laws. BLM is also responsible for the system of public land records, some of which date back nearly 200 years.

Renewable resources management.—Provides for development, utilization, protection, preservation and sustained yield management of the natural resources on the public lands through such activities as forest management; wild horse and burro management; range land management; recreation management; soil, water, and air management; and wildlife habitat and fisheries management.

Resource management planning.—Provides for resource management and land use planning.

Information and resource data management.—Provides for management of ADP and data information systems; technical support to field offices for automation of resources data; production of maps and GIS technology to support resource management; and, development of the Automated Land and Mineral Records System (ALMRS).

Resource protection and maintenance.—Includes: cadastral surveys which provide for identification of Federal land boundaries and legal property descriptions; the enforcement of laws and regulations governing the management, use, and protection of public lands; maintenance of buildings, roads, and trails; and identification and cleanup of hazardous material sites on the public lands.

Emergency operations.—Involves replacement or reconstruction of facilities damaged or destroyed by fire or natural disaster; and, support to control the potential outbreak of pests on public lands.

General administration.—Includes aviation management, equal employment opportunity programs, general administrative services, and Bureau-wide fixed costs.

This account represents the monetary value of the quarterly adjustments to bidding rights issued under the authority of Public Law 96–476 as required by section 7 of the Lee Metcalf Wilderness and Management Act of 1983. The bidding rights may be used as monetary credits against that portion of any coal lease bonus payments, rentals or royalties payable under the Mineral Leasing Act of 1920, as amended, and retained by the Federal Government, on any Federal coal lease won or otherwise held by the holder. The value of unused bidding rights increases at a rate set quarterly by the Secretary of the Treasury, pursuant to section 11 of the Debt Collection Act of 1982 (31 U.S.C. 3717). No activity is anticipated for 1992 or 1993.

Provides funding for the nonemergency and predictable aspects of the Department's fire program, program management and presuppression. The program management activity includes program management staffs; automatic detection and other systems; communications; fire prevention; training management; and interagency coordination. Presuppression includes activities associated with maintaining the basic capabilities and workforce available to fight wildfires; preparing for the annual fire season (e.g. hiring seasonal firefighters, purchasing equipment and fire protection contracts); and reducing hazardous conditions (including costs of eliminating unnatural or hazardous levels of accumulated fuel, either by controlled fire or other means).

Payments to Oklahoma (royalties).—The State of Oklahoma is paid 37½ percent of the Red River oil and gas royalties in lieu of State and local taxes on Kiowa, Comanche, and Apache tribal lands to be used for construction and maintenance of public roads and support of public schools (65 Stat. 252).

Payments to Coos and Douglas Counties, Oreg., from receipts, Coos Bay Wagon Road grant lands.—Out of receipts from the Coos Bay Wagon Road grant lands in Oregon, payments in lieu of taxes are made to Coos and Douglas Counties for schools, roads, highways, bridges, and port districts (53 Stat. 753–754).

Payments to counties, Oregon and California grant lands.—Fifty percent of the receipts of Oregon and California land-grant funds are paid to the counties in which the lands are situated, to be used as other county funds (39 Stat. 218; 50 Stat. 876).

Payments to States (proceeds of sales).—The States are paid 5 percent of the net proceeds from sale of public land and public land products (31 U.S.C. 1305).

Payments to States from grazing receipts, etc., public lands outside grazing districts.—The States are paid 50 percent of the grazing receipts from public lands outside of grazing districts (43 U.S.C. 315i, 315m).

Payments to States from grazing receipts, etc., public lands within districts.—The States are paid 12½ percent of grazing receipts from public lands inside grazing districts (43 U.S.C. 315b, 315i).

Payments to States from grazing receipts, etc., public lands within grazing districts, miscellaneous.—The States are paid specifically determined amounts from grazing receipts derived from miscellaneous lands within grazing districts when payment is not feasible on a percentage basis (43 U.S.C. 315).

Payments to Alaska, National Petroleum Reserve.—Alaska is paid 50% of the receipts derived from sales, bonuses, royalties, and rentals resulting from the leasing of oil and gas in the National Petroleum Reserve in Alaska (94 Stat. 2964, 42 U.S.C. 6508).

Payments to counties, National Grasslands.—Of the revenues received from the use of Bankhead-Jones Act lands administered by the Bureau of Land Management, 25% is paid to the counties in which such lands are situated, for school and road purposes (7 U.S.C. 1012).

Expenses, road maintenance deposits.—Users of certain roads under jurisdiction of the Bureau of Land Management make deposits for maintenance purposes, and moneys collected are appropriated for necessary road maintenance. Moneys collected on Oregon and California grant lands are available only for those lands (43 U.S.C. 1762(c), 43 U.S.C. 1735(b)).

Payments to Nevada from receipts on land sales.—Public Law 96–586 authorizes and directs the Secretary to sell not more than 700 acres of public lands per calendar year in and around Las Vegas, Nevada, proceeds of which are to be used to acquire environmentally sensitive lands in the Lake Tahoe Basin of California and Nevada. Annual revenues are distributed to the State of Nevada (5%) and the county in which the land is located (10%).

Land and resource management trust fund.—Applicants for conveyance of lands omitted in original surveys pay the cost of surveys and the administrative costs of conveyance. Advances are also made to pay the costs of other types of surveys. Cooperators in the management of the public lands, including the California off-road vehicle program, contribute funds for conservation practices, acquisition, protection, and improvements to benefit the public lands and for other purposes (43 U.S.C. 315, 1719, 1721, and 1737; 31 U.S.C. 1305).

Trustee funds, Alaska townsites.—Amounts received from sale of Alaska town lots are available for expenses incident to the maintenance and sale of townsites (31 U.S.C. 1321; Comp. Gen. Dec. of Nov. 18, 1935).

ADMINISTRATIVE PROVISIONS

Appropriations for the Bureau of Land Management shall be available for purchase, erection, and dismantlement of temporary structures, and alteration and maintenance of necessary buildings and appurtenant facilities to which the United States has title; up to [$25,000] $100,000 for payments, at the discretion of the Secretary, for information or evidence concerning violations of laws administered by the Bureau of Land Management; miscellaneous and emergency expenses of enforcement activities authorized or approved by the Secretary and to be accounted for solely on his certificate, not to exceed $10,000: Provided, That appropriations herein made for Bureau of Land Management expenditures in connection with the revested Oregon and California Railroad and reconveyed Coos Bay Wagon Road grant lands (other than expenditures made under the appropriation "Oregon and California grant lands") shall be reimbursed to the General Fund of the Treasury from the 25 per centum referred to in subsection (c), title II, of the Act approved August 28, 1937 (50 Stat. 876), of the special fund designated the "Oregon and California land grant fund" and section 4 of the Act approved May 24, 1939 (53 Stat. 754), of the special fund designated the "Coos Bay Wagon Road grant fund": Provided further, That appropriations herein made may be expended for surveys of Federal lands and on a reimbursable basis for surveys of Federal lands and for protection of lands for the State of Alaska: Provided further, That an appeal of any reductions in grazing allotments on public rangelands must be taken within thirty days after receipt of a final grazing allotment decision. Reductions of up to 10 per centum in grazing allotments shall become effective when so designated by the Secretary of the Interior. Upon appeal any proposed reduction in excess of 10 per centum shall be suspended pending final action on the appeal, which shall be completed within two years after the appeal is filed: Provided further, That notwithstanding 44 U.S.C. 501, the Bureau may, under cooperative cost-sharing and partnership arrangements authorized by law, procure printing services from cooperators in connection with jointly-produced publications for which the cooperators share the cost of printing either in cash or in services, and the Bureau determines the cooperator is capable of meeting accepted quality standards: Provided further, That notwithstanding any other provisions of law, that effective upon the date of enactment of this Act for the fiscal year 1993 and every year thereafter, for each unpatented mining claim, mill or tunnel site on federally owned lands, in lieu of the assessment work requirements contained in the Mining Law of 1872 (30 U.S.C. 28–28(e)), and the filing requirements contained in Section 314(a) of the Federal Land Policy and Management Act of 1976 (FLPMA) (43 U.S.C. 1744(a)) and the related requirements of Section 314(c) of FLPMA (43 U.S.C. 1744(c)), the claimant shall pay an annual holding fee of $100.00 to the Secretary of the Interior or his designee on or before August 31 of each year in order for the claimant to hold such unpatented mining claim, mill or tunnel site for the following year beginning on September 1: Provided, further, That the fee established by this Act in lieu of the assessment work requirements for the assessment year ending at noon on September 1, 1993, shall be due and payable to the Secretary on or before June 30, 1993, except that such fee otherwise due and payable for this period shall be waived by the Secretary or his designee if the claimant files an affidavit of assessment work by June 30, 1993, showing the labor required by 30 U.S.C. 28 was completed for the assessment year ending at noon September 1, 1993, before the effective date of this Act: Provided further, That such fee otherwise due and payable for the assessment year ending at noon on September 1, 1993, for mill and tunnel sites shall be waived by the Secretary or his designee if the claimant files a notice of intention to hold the site by June 30, 1993: Provided further, That for every unpatented mining claim, mill or tunnel site located after the date of enactment of this Act, the locator shall pay $100.00 to the Secretary of the Interior or his designee at the time the location notice is recorded with the Bureau of Land Management to hold such claim for the year in which the location was made: Provided further, That the co-ownership provision of 30 U.S.C. 28 will remain in effect except that the annual holding fee shall replace the assessment work requirements and expenditures: Provided further, That failure to make the annual payment of the holding fee required by this Act shall conclusively constitute an abandonment of the unpatented mining claim, mill or tunnel site by the claimant: Provided further, That nothing in this Act shall change or modify the requirements of Section 314(b) of FLPMA (43 U.S.C. 1744(b)) or the requirements of Section 314(c) of FLPMA (43 U.S.C. 1744(c)) related to filings required by Section 314(b), which shall remain in effect: Provided further, That the Secretary of the Interior shall promulgate rules and regulations to carry out the purposes of this Section as soon as practicable after the effective date of this Act. (Department of the Interior and Related Agencies Appropriations Act, 1992.)

The Minerals Management Service supervises exploration for and the development and production of gas, oil, and other minerals on the Outer Continental Shelf (OCS) lands and collects royalties, rentals, and bonuses due the Federal Government and Indian lessors from minerals produced on Federal, Indian, and OCS lands.

Outer Continental Shelf (OCS) lands.—The program provides for: (1) performance of environmental assessments to ensure compliance with the National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA); (2) conduct of lease offerings; (3) selection and evaluation of tracts offered for lease by competitive bidding; (4) assurance that the Federal Government receives fair market value for leased lands; and (5) regulation and supervision of energy and mineral exploration, development, and production operations on the OCS lands.

Royalty management.—The Royalty Management program provides accounting, auditing, and compliance activities for royalties, rentals, and bonuses due from minerals produced on Federal, Indian, allotted and OCS lands. The program includes an automated accounting system to ensure that all royalties are properly collected.

General administration.—General administrative expenses provide for management, executive direction and coordination, administrative support, Federal building space and general support services.

The Administration plans to make an annual payment to coastal States and counties for a share of new revenues realized as a result of oil and gas production activities on Federal OCS lands within 200 miles off their coastline. New revenues are those monies defined as royalties but only from leased tracts from which such revenues are first received by the government after the date of enactment. Collections of receipts into a Special Fund, the Coastal Communities Impact Assistance Fund, begins October 1, 1992. In accordance with proposed legislation, the annual payment can be made no earlier than the following fiscal year and no later than December 31st of that fiscal year. Therefore, the first annual payment will be made by December 31, 1993.

State regulatory program grants.—This program activity is to provide grants to States for the operation of permanent enforcement programs under the terms of the Surface Mining Control and Reclamation Act of 1977 (the Act). As of September 30, 1991, 24 States with actual or planned coal mining facilities had approved State programs.

Federal regulatory programs.—This activity includes programs for Federal oversight of State permanent regulatory programs, for monitoring State inspection and enforcement, for the provision of technical assistance to States, for the assessment and collection of civil penalties imposed pursuant to the Act, and for the administration of the Federal regulatory program in States without approved permanent enforcement programs. In addition, it also includes funding for the Office of Surface Mining (OSM) to perform reclamation in cases where performance bonds have been forfeited and OSM is the regulatory authority, and funding derived from collections of civil penalties pursuant to the Act, which is used by OSM and the States for reclamation projects.

General administration.—This activity includes: the Offices of the Director and Deputy Directors; the Headquarters staffs for Public Affairs, Equal Employment Opportunity, Congressional Liaison, Information Systems Management, Planning and Analysis, Budget, Correspondence, and Issues Management; and the Divisions of Financial Management; Personnel; and Management Services. This activity represents only that portion of the total General Administration expenses attributable to the Regulation and Technology appropriation. The remainder has been requested from the Abandoned Mine Reclamation Fund.

State reclamation program grants.—Each State and Tribe with an approved reclamation program is entitled, subject to appropriation, to receive 50 percent of Abandoned Mine Reclamation Fund revenues derived from operating mines in that State or Tribal Land. With grants, States and Tribes assume primary responsibility for addressing problems such as subsidence, underground fires, open shafts, and acid drainage in accordance with priorities set forth in the Surface Mining Control and Reclamation Act of 1977 (the Act). States with approved reclamation plans are responsible for emergency reclamation.

Federal reclamation programs.—This activity includes fee collection, and assistance to States in developing reclamation programs, abandoned mine lands reclamation projects undertaken directly by the Office of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement for States lacking approved reclamation plans, and the Rural Abandoned Mine Program (RAMP) administered by the Department of Agriculture's Soil Conservation Service.

Small operator assistance payments.—This activity provides for payments for authorized services to eligible coal mine operators in preparing applications for mining permits under a permanent State or Federal regulatory program. These services include determining the probable hydrologic consequences of the proposed mining operation and analysis of test borings or core samples.

General administration.—This activity includes the offices described for the General Administration activity in the Regulation and Technology appropriation. The funds for this activity represent only that portion of general administration expenses attributable to the Abandoned Mine Reclamation Fund.

Bureau of Reclamation

Appropriations to the Bureau are made from the general fund and special funds. The special funds are: (a) the Reclamation fund, largely derived from certain water and power revenue; receipts from the sale, lease, and rental of public lands; and certain oil and mineral revenue; (b) the Colorado River Dam fund (CRDF), permanently available revenues of the Boulder Canyon Project; and (c) the recreation, entrance and use fees account derived from fees collected pursuant to the Land and Water Conservation Fund Act of 1965, as amended. Funds are also provided by non-Federal entities under the Contributed Funds Act. The 1993 estimates are summarized by source as follows (in thousands of dollars):

Under the Small Reclamation Projects Act (43 U.S.C. 422a–422l), loans and/or grants can be made to non-Federal organizations for construction or rehabilitation and betterment of small water resource projects.

As required by the Federal Credit Reform Act of 1990, this account records the subsidy costs associated with the direct loans obligated in 1992 and beyond, as well as administrative expenses of this program. The subsidy amounts are estimated on a present value basis; the administrative expenses are estimated on a cash basis.

Funding under the Federal Credit Reform Act of 1990 is broken out as follows: Liquidating account; Program account (subsidy); and Financing account. The following table summarizes the total loan program of the Bureau of Reclamation by account (in thousands of dollars):

In 1993 a total of 37 projects, project areas, or divisions of projects will be operated and maintained for power, municipal and industrial water supplies, irrigation, flood control, and other benefits with funds made available under this appropriation.

Provision is also made for administration of 15 associated programs. These programs seek to maximize benefits from existing projects. Project benefits and operations will be enhanced through water conservation measures, examination of existing structures, environmental considerations, improvement of recreation opportunities, and water quality improvement.

Revenue from Boulder Canyon project operations is placed in this fund. Under provisions of Public Law 98–381, the fund is available without further appropriation for payment of expense of operation and maintenance of the project, for payment of interest on amounts advanced from the Treasury, for annual payments of not more than $300,000 each to Arizona and Nevada, and for repayment of advances from the Treasury for construction or other purposes (43 U.S.C. 617a). Public Law 98–381 also provides that the rates charged for Boulder Canyon project power include certain amounts for transfer to the Lower Colorado River basin development fund.

ALLOCATIONS RECEIVED FROM OTHER ACCOUNTS

Note.—Obligations incurred under allocations from other accounts are included in the schedule of the parent appropriations, as follows:
Interior: Bureau of Indian Affairs, "Construction".

ADMINISTRATIVE PROVISIONS

Appropriations for the Bureau of Reclamation shall be available for purchase of not to exceed [16] 17 passenger motor vehicles for replacement only; payment of claims for damages to or loss of property, personal injury, or death arising out of activities of the Bureau of Reclamation; payment, except as otherwise provided for, of compensation and expenses of persons on the rolls of the Bureau of Reclamation appointed as authorized by law to represent the United States in the negotiations and administration of interstate compacts without reimbursement or return under the reclamation laws; services as authorized by 5 U.S.C. 3109, in total not to exceed $500,000; rewards for information or evidence concerning violations of law involving property under the jurisidiction of the Bureau of Reclamation; performance of the functions specified under the head "Operation and Maintenance Administration", Bureau of Reclamation, in the Interior Department Appropriations Act 1945; preparation and dissemination of useful information including recordings, photographs, and photographic prints; and studies of recreational uses of reservoir areas, and investigation and recovery of archeological and paleontological remains in such areas in the same manner as provided for in the Acts of August 21, 1935 (16 U.S.C. 461-467) and June 27, 1960 (16 U.S.C. 469): Provided, That no part of any appropriation made herein shall be available pursuant to the Act of April 19, 1945 (43 U.S.C. 377), for expenses other than those incurred on behalf of specific reclamation projects except "General Administrative Expenses", amounts provided for plan formulation investigations under the head "General Investigations", and amounts provided for science and technology under the head "Construction Program".

Sums appropriated herein which are expended in the performance of reimbursable functions of the Bureau of Reclamation shall be returnable to the extent and in the manner provided by law.

No part of any appropriation for the Bureau of Reclamation, contained in this Act or in any prior Act, which represents amounts earned under the terms of a contract but remaining unpaid, shall be obligated for any other purpose, regardless of when such amounts are to be paid: Provided, That the incurring of any obligation prohibited by this paragraph shall be deemed a violation of 31 U.S.C. 1341.

No funds appropriated to the Bureau of Reclamation for operation and maintenance, except those derived from advances by water users, shall be used for the particular benefits of lands (a) within the boundaries of an irrigation district, (b) of any member of a water users' organization, or (c) of any individual when such district, organization, or individual is in arrears for more than twelve months in the payment of charges due under a contract entered into with the United States pursuant to laws administered by the Bureau of Reclamation.

None of the funds made available by this or any other Act shall be used by the Bureau of Reclamation for contracts for surveying and mapping services unless such contracts for which a solicitation is issued after the date of this Act are awarded in accordance with title IX of the Federal Property and Administrative Service Act of 1949 (40 U.S.C. 541 et seq.).

Notwithstanding any other provisions of law, including 43 U.S.C. 620d(c) and 43 U.S.C. 1543(c), the revenue from leases of communication circuits associated with Bureau of Reclamation transmission facilities operated by a Federal Power Marketing Administration, and from leases of space at Bureau of Reclamation sites for microwave radio installations, shall be hereafter credited to the general fund and shall not be credited against project repayment obligations. (Energy and Water Development Appropriations Act, 1992.)

GEOLOGICAL SURVEY

Federal Funds

General and special funds:

SURVEYS, INVESTIGATIONS, AND RESEARCH

For expenses necessary for the Geological Survey to perform surveys, investigations, and research covering topography, geology, hydrology, and the mineral and water resources of the United States, its Territories and possessions, and other areas as authorized by law (43 U.S.C. 31, 1332 and 1340); classify lands as to their mineral and water resources; give engineering supervision to power permittees and Federal Energy Regulatory Commission licensees; administer the minerals exploration program (30 U.S.C. 641); and publish and disseminate data relative to the foregoing activities; [$590,054,000] $540,267,000, of which [$62,058,000] $60,558,000 shall be available only for cooperation with States or municipalities for water resources investigations: Provided, That no part of this appropriation shall be used to pay more than one-half the cost of any topographic mapping or water resources investigations carried on in cooperation with any State or municipality. (Department of the Interior and Related Agencies Appropriations Act, 1992.)

Note.—Collections contained in this account include amounts that have been legislatively reclassified as intragovernmental funds.

The Geological Survey provides basic scientific data and information concerning water, land, and mineral resources. Funding for 1993 emphasizes water-quality research, and continues geological hazards and global change research, energy and mineral assessments, and the development of advanced cartographic systems (ACS).

National mapping, geography, and surveys.—The national mapping program produces and makes available, in printed and digital format, cartographic and geographic base data and multipurpose and special-purpose maps. Map receipts are retained for map printing and distribution.

Geologic and mineral resource surveys and mapping.—The national program of onshore and offshore geologic research and investigations produces: (1) improved methods and instruments for mineral and energy assessments; (2) geologic, geophysical, and geochemical maps and analyses; (3) information on the chemistry and physics of the Earth, the climate, and the geologic processes by which it was formed and is being modified; (4) information on geologic hazards; and (5) information for use by other Federal and State agencies in the management of public lands and in national policy determinations.

Water resources investigations.—The national program of water resources investigations has the objective of appraising the Nation's water resources and ensuring that the data necessary to develop and manage them efficiently and effectively are available when needed. The program produces data and analyses to support decisions on water planning, water management, water quality, energy development, and enhancement of the quality of the environment.

General administration.—General administrative expenses provide for management, executive direction and coordination, and administrative support.

Facilities.—This activity finances the operation and maintenance, facilities management, and special support services for the operation of the national center headquarters and field centers.

Reimbursements from non-Federal sources are from States and municipalities for cooperative efforts and proceeds from sale to the public of copies of photographs and records; proceeds from sale of personal property; reimbursements from permittees and licensees of the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission; and reimbursements from friendly countries and international organizations for technical assistance. Reimbursements from other Federal agencies are for mission related work performed at the request of the financing agency.

The Geological Survey has 15 quarters located at geomagnetic or seismic observatories. The operation and maintenance of these quarters, in the past, have been funded out of rental receipts which were credited to the Survey's annual SIR account. Under the provisions of Public Law 98–473, this account was established to receive rental receipts to remain available until expended for operation and maintenance of these quarters.

The Working Capital Fund allows for efficient financial management of telecommunications and automated data processing equipment amoritization and the operations of the USGS Administrative Service Center (ASC), which is implementing the Federal Financial System (FFS) and is beginning development of the departmentwide automated procurement system. Other USGS activities might also be appropriately managed through such a fund, subject to future determinations by the Department of the Interior.

Information and analysis.—This program provides a reliable data base for analysis of national minerals problems by collecting, interpreting, and disseminating worldwide information relating to the production, consumption, and availability of nonfuel minerals. The program maintains information on the production and consumption of approximately 100 mineral commodities, and also on the minerals-related industries of about 168 countries. Indepth economic, technical, and policy studies that address the worldwide supply and demand for nonfuel minerals are conducted in this program. The Minerals Availability System, a computerized data base system, develops and utilizes methodologies for evaluation of mineral deposits based on quantifiable technical, economic, and social data. The program also includes mineral land assessments on certain lands managed by the Department of the Interior, Department of Defense, and Department of Agriculture in development of land management plans and withdrawal decisions required by the Secretary or other bureaus.

Research.—

Health, safety and mining technology.—This program focuses on long-term, high risk research designed to improve all aspects of the health and safety of miners, including prevention of occupational illnesses, accidents, and disasters, as well as innovations. Research is being concentrated on new concepts that promise revolutionary improvements in health and safety, reduced environmental impacts, increased access to marginal mineral deposits, increasing the domestic mineral reserve base, and increased productivity, including major efforts in automation, robotics, and innovative mining systems.

Minerals and materials science.—Research is conducted to develop basic information on fundamental scientific and engineering principles of minerals processing that will enhance the mineral industry's efforts to investigate new or alternative techniques that increase production and substitution of strategic, critical, and other essential minerals.

Environmental technology.—Research is conducted to mitigate or eliminate adverse environmental impacts associated with mining and mineral processing. Problems addressed include subsidence, acid mine drainage, and neutralization of waste materials. The Bureau works closely with other bureaus and government agencies by providing expertise in hazardous waste cleanup and mitigation.

Mineral institutes.—The minerals institutes program was initiated in the 1970s to provide seed money to encourage the development of mineral-related university research and graduate education programs. The States and private industry have responded and such programs are now in place. Therefore, the program's goal has been accomplished, and there is no further need for direct Federal financial assistance to these institutes.

General administration.—The program supports executive direction, and financial and management services for the Bureau of Mines.

The Helium Act Amendments of 1960, Public Law 86–777 (50 U.S.C. 167), authorized activities necessary to provide sufficient helium to meet the current and foreseeable future needs of essential government activities. The program includes production, conservation, sale, and distribution of helium and involves the management of helium program facilities and resources to:

(a) Provide helium to meet current demands of all Federal agencies.

(b) Provide helium to meet the foreseeable future helium requirements of essential Government programs.

(c) Conduct investigations and evaluations to improve the helium program.

The Administration has proposed the Helium Act Amendments of 1992 to permit Federal Government users to purchase refined helium from the private sector.

Note.—Collections contained in this account include amounts that have been legislatively reclassified as intragovernmental funds.

Fish and wildlife enhancement.—The Service conducts investigations and provides technical assistance to prevent or minimize adverse environmental effects of development projects. Contaminants are monitored and assessed. Activities are pursued to prevent species from becoming extinct, and return them to the point where they are neither threatened or endangered.

Refuges and wildlife.—The Service maintains the National Wildlife Refuge System consisting of 490 units, with waterfowl production areas in 161 counties and 51 coordination areas, totaling about 91.2 million acres; directs and coordinates national migratory bird programs; and enforces Federal wildlife laws and regulations.

Fisheries.—The Service participates in development, management, and protection of interstate and international fishery resources, and provides technical assistance related to fish, wildlife and some marine mammals.

Research and development.—The Service conducts research to improve wildlife management capabilities, improve sport fish productivity, protect endangered or threatened species, assist recovery programs, and prevent or minimize adverse impacts on fish and wildlife.

General administration.—Provides policy formulation, direction, and administration for fish and wildlife programs.

Under the Natural Resource Damage Assessment and Restoration Fund, natural resource damage assessments will be performed in order to provide the basis for claims against responsible parties for the restoration of injured natural resources. Funds are appropriated to conduct damage assessments and for program management. In addition, funds will be received for the restoration of injured resources and other restitution activities and for natural resource damage assessments from responsible parties through negotiated settlements or other legal actions by the Department of the Interior. Restoration activities include the replacement and enhancement of affected resources, acquisition of equivalent resources and services, and long-term environmental monitoring and research programs directed to the prevention, containment, cleanup and amelioration of hazardous substances and oil spill sites. The Fund will allow the four Interior Bureaus with natural resource managment responsibilities (Fish and Wildlife Service, National Park Service, Bureau of Land Management, and Bureau of Indian Affairs) and the Office of Environmental Affairs, which coordinates the Department's overall natural resource damage assessment responsibilities, to implement coordinated damage assessments and restoration activities. Natural resource damage assessments and the restoration of injured natural resources are authorized by the

Funds deposited into this account include direct appropriations and fines, penalties and forfeitures collected under the authority of the Migratory Bird Treaty Act (16 U.S.C. 707) and interest on obligations held in the Federal Aid to Wildlife Restoration Fund. The funding for the North American Wetlands Conservation Fund is authorized by the North American Wetlands Conservation Act, Public Law 101-233. The Act establishes the North American Wetlands Conservation Council which recommends wetlands conservation projects for the approval of the Migratory Bird Conservation Commission. These projects help fulfill the habitat protection, restoration and enhancement goals of the North American Waterfowl Management Plan, the Act and the Tripartite Agreement among Mexico, Canada and the United States; may involve partnerships with public agencies, and private entities, with non-Federal matching of Federal contributions of funding; provide for the long-term conservation of habitat for migratory birds and other fish and wildlife, including species that are listed, or are candidates to be listed, under the Endangered Species Act, (16 U.S.C. 1531). Wetlands conservation projects include the obtaining of a real property interest in lands or waters, including water rights; the restoration, management or enhancement of habitat; and training and development for conservation management in Mexico. Funding may be provided for assistance for wetlands conservation projects in Canada or Mexico.

Public Law 100-478 authorized this account, to be administered by the Secretary of the Interior, to fund State grants for the conservation of threatened and endangered species and for monitoring the status of candidate species. The authorization requires formula-determined amounts to be deposited into the Fund each year beginning with fiscal 1989. Amounts become available for expenditure only if appropriated. No funds were appropriated in fiscal years 1990 and 1991.

The Refuge Revenue Sharing Act (16 U.S.C. 715s) authorizes revenues through the sale of products from Service lands, less expenses for producing revenue and activities related to revenue sharing. The Fish and Wildlife Service makes payments to counties in which Service lands are located. If the net revenues are insufficient to make full payments according to the formula contained in the Act, direct appropriations are authorized to make up the difference.

Federal aid in fish restoration and management.—Beginning in 1986, this activity is funded under the "Sport fish restoration" account, Fish and Wildlife Service, Department of the Interior.

Federal aid in wildlife restoration.—States, Puerto Rico, Guam, the Virgin Islands, American Samoa, and the Northern Mariana Islands are allocated funds equal to the 11 percent excise tax on sporting arms and ammunition, the 10 percent excise tax on handguns, and the 11 percent tax on certain archery equipment. States are reimbursed up to 75 percent of the cost of approved wildlife and hunter education projects.

Proceeds from sales, water resources development projects.—Receipts collected from the sale of products from refuges on which other agencies have primary jurisdiction pay the costs of producing these products and for managing wildlife habitat.

The National Park System contains 359 areas and 80.1 million acres of land in 49 States, the District of Columbia, Puerto Rico, U.S. Virgin Islands, Guam, Samoa, and the Northern Marianas. These areas have been established to protect and preserve the cultural and natural heritage of the United States and its territories. This appropriation funds the operation of individual units of the National Park System as well as planning and administrative support for the entire system. The total appropriation request of $1,031,813,000 includes $60,000,000 in revenue from recreation, user and entrance fees in accordance with Public Law 100-203 to remain available until expended.

Construction.—This activity provides for: (1) rehabilitation and restoration of historic and cultural resources; (2) rehabilitation of operational structures such as visitor use and maintenance facilities, trails, and utility systems; (3) construction of new visitor use and operational facilities where the need exists; and (4) rehabilitation and construction of park roads and bridges, funded from the Federal Lands Highways program in the Department of Transportation.

Emergency, unscheduled, and housing projects.—To continue visitor services and preserve resources, minor emergency reconstruction and repair projects are performed. Also, employee housing is repaired and rehabilitated.

Planning.—Under this activity, the National Park Service conducts environmental, architectural and engineering studies, as well as planning and design activities.

General management plans.—This activity has been moved by Congress from the "Operation of the National Park System" account. Under this activity, general management plans are prepared and revised to guide the National Park Service in the protection, use, development, and management of each unit of the National Park System.

Education.—This activity supports the operation and maintenance of elementary and secondary schools, provides for services in early childhood education, education of the handicapped, and bilingual education. Two post-secondary institutions are operated by the Bureau of Indian Affairs, scholarships are available for students attending college, and operating grants are provided to 22 Tribally-Controlled Community Colleges.

Tribal services.—This activity includes municipal-type government services for Indian communities, along with assistance to tribes in self-government. Individual Indians are assisted by vocational training and employment placement.

Navajo/Hopi settlement program.—This activity provides for range management and grazing capacity restoration on lands lying within the former Navajo/Hopi Joint Use Area.

Economic development.—Economic development is encouraged and assisted through programs of technical and financial aid to Indian individuals and organizations. Indian tribal organizations and individuals are assisted with securing and managing loans. Grants are also available to eligible applicants.

Natural resources development.—This activity provides for the conservation, development, and use of Indian land, water, and related resources.

Trust responsibilities.—This activity provides for the protection of Indian rights and property, and the management of assets held in trust for Indian tribes and individuals.

Facilities management.—This activity provides for the maintenance and operation of non-education facilities and the provision for GSA-owned or leased facilities.

General administration.—These functions include executive direction, administrative services, safety management, employee compensation payments, construction management, facilities management, and education program management.

Tribe/Agency Operations.—Programs in the areas of education, tribal government services, natural resources, economic development, and administration are supported through this activity as well as those indicated above. Locally determined priorities serve as the basis for these estimates.

Housing.—This program provides for the repair and rehabilitation of housing for needy Indians.

Land acquisition.—This program provides for the acquisition of lands and interests in lands for Indian tribes, as directed by Congress and by judicial decisions.

Fish hatcheries.—This program provides for the rehabilitation of tribal fish hatcheries funded through the Bureau.

Employee housing.—This activity provides for a pilot program to address the repair needs for Bureau employee housing.

Road maintenance and road construction.—The Road Maintenance program provides safe and accessible public roads, which serve Indian reservations. The Road Construction program provides roads on Indian reservations for safe and convenient transportation of people and goods.

Construction contract support.—This activity provides for the payment of indirect costs on construction projects carried out under Public Law 93-638 contracts. Contract support is paid only on amounts associated with the administration of the contract. No funds are requested in FY 1993 as a sufficient amount of carryover balances are anticipated.

Self-Governance Compacts.—This activity includes amounts transferred to self-governance tribes for construction activities included in the compacts.

This account covers expenses associated with the following ten Acts:

White Earth Reservation Claims Settlement Act (Public Law 99-264).—Funds will be used to investigate and verify questionable transfers of land by which individual Indian allottees, or their heirs, were divested of ownership.

Old Age Assistance Claims Settlement Act (Public Law 98-500).—Funds will be used to identify, notify and compensate individuals entitled to compensation under this Act.

Colorado Ute Indian Water Rights Settlement Act (Public Law 100-585).—The Act provides for the settlement of water rights claims of the Ute Mountain Ute and the Southern Ute tribes in Colorado. Funds are deposited in two tribal development funds established by section 7 of the Act for the benefit of the tribes. Each tribe is required to submit an economic development plan to the Secretary of the Interior prior to using the funds. The FY 1993 payment of $62,000 is the estimated interest earned on the FY 1991 unpaid balance which was the result of the .524% reduction in the FY 1991 Interior and Related Agencies Appropriations Act. The FY 1993 payment will satisfy the requirements of the Colorado Ute Settlement Act.

Hoopa-Yurok Settlement Act (Public Law 100-580).—The Act provides for the settlement of reservation lands between the Hoopa Valley Tribe and the Yurok Indians in northern California. Funds are deposited in a settlement fund authorized by section 4 of the Act.

Zuni Land Conservation Act (Public Law 101-486).—The Act provides for the formulation of a resource development plan for the Zuni Indian Reservation (NM). Funds are used for development of the resource plan and other related expenses.

Fallon Paiute Shoshone Indian Water Rights Settlement Act (Public Law 101-618).—The Act provides for the settlement of claims of the Fallon Paiute Shoshone Indian Tribe (NV). Funds are used for tribal economic development, land acquisition, and rehabilitation of irrigation systems.

Truckee-Carson-Pyramid Lake Water Settlement Act (Public Law 101-618).—The Act provides for the settlement of claims of the Pyramid Lake Paiute Tribe (NV). Funds are used to capitalize the Pyramid Lake Paiute Fisheries Fund. Interest earned on the Fund will be used by the Tribe for the operation and maintenance of fishery facilities at Pyramid Lake.

Fort Hall Indian Water Rights Act (Public Law 101-602).—The Act provides for the settlement of water rights claims of the Shoshone-Bannock Tribes (ID). Funds are used to capitalize a tribal development fund, and for development of a reservation water management system and for land acquisition.

Aleutian and Pribilof Island Restitution (Public Law 100-383).—The Act provides compensation to Aleut residents for the loss of property during World War II. The funds will be used for payments to eligible recipients and related administration and legal expenses.

Salt River Pima—Maricopa Water Settlement Act (Public Law 100-512).—The Act provides for the settlement of water rights claims of the Salt River Pima—Maricopa Indian Community in Arizona. Funds are deposited in an account to be used for improvements to water facilities. The FY 1993 payment of $100,000 is the estimated interest earned on the FY 1991 unpaid balance which was the result of the .524% reduction in the FY 1991 Interior and Related Agencies Appropria-

Under the terms of the 1947 Trusteeship Agreement between the United States and the Security Council of the United Nations, the United States exercises full jurisdiction over the Trust Territory of the Pacific Islands and is obligated to promote the political, economic, and educational advancement of the inhabitants. These responsibilities are carried out through the Department of the Interior.

The Trusteeship Agreement is no longer in effect with respect to the Republic of the Marshall Islands and the Federated States of Micronesia. Their assistance is discussed in the "Compact of Free Association" account. The United States has approved a Compact with the Republic of Palau, but that Compact has not been ratified by Palau consistent with the requirements of the Palau constitution, and has, therefore, not been implemented. Funding included in the "Trust Territory of the Pacific Islands" account represents assistance for the Republic of Palau, and remaining transition responsibilities of the United States from the Trusteeship administration.

COMPACT OF FREE ASSOCIATION

For economic assistance and necessary expenses for the Federated States of Micronesia and the Republic of the Marshall Islands as provided for in sections 122, 221, 223, 232, and 233 of the Compacts of Free Association, [$25,010,000] $17,357,000, to remain available until expended, as authorized by Public Law 99-239: Provided, That the effective date of the Palau Compact for purposes of economic assistance pursuant to the Palau Compact of Free Association, Public Law 99-658, shall be the effective date of the Palau Compact as determined pursuant to section 101 of Public Law 101-219[: Provided further, That the language in the third proviso under this head in Pubic Law 100-446 is amended by striking the word "Ejit" and inserting the word "Majuro": Provided further, That $2,000,000 shall be available on an ex gratia basis for the relocation and resettlement of the people of Rongelap on Rongelap Atoll: Provided further, That such funds shall remain available for deposit into a Rongelap Resettlement Trust Fund to be used by the people of Rongelap under the terms and conditions as set forth in a trust agreement or amendment thereto approved by the Rongelap Local Government Council subject only to the disapproval of the Secretary of the Interior: Provided further, That the Government of the Republic of the Marshall Islands and the Rongelap Local Government Council shall provide for the creation of the Rongelap Resettlement Trust Fund to assist in the resettlement of Rongelap Atoll by the people of Rongelap, and the employment of the manager of the Rongelap fund established pursuant to the section 177 Agreement (pursuant to section 177 of Public Law 99-239) as trustee and manager of the Rongelap Resettlement Trust Fund, or, should the manager of the Rongelap fund not be acceptable to the people of Rongelap, another United States investment manager with substantial experience in the administration of trusts and with funds under management in excess of $250,000,000, subject only to the disapproval of the Secretary of the Interior: Provided further, That such funds shall be available only for costs directly associated with the resettlement of Rongelap by the people of Rongelap and for projects on Mejatto: Provided further, That the Secretary may approve expenditures of up to $500,000 in fiscal year 1992 for projects on Mejatto benefitting the people of Rongelap presently residing on the island of Mejatto: Provided further, That after fiscal year 1992, such projects on Mejatto benefitting the people of Rongelap may be funded only from the interest and earnings generated by the trust fund corpus: Provided further, That such fund and the earnings and distribution therefrom shall not be subject to any form of Federal, State or local taxation: Provided further, That the Governments of the United States and the Trust Territory of the Pacific Islands shall not be liable in any cause of action in law or equity from the administration and distribution of the trust funds]. (Department of the Interior and Related Agencies Appropriations Act, 1992.)

The peoples of the Marshall Islands and the Federated States of Micronesia approved Compacts of Free Association negotiated by the United States and their governments. The Compact of Free Association Act of 1985 (Public Law 99-239) constituted the necessary authorizing legislation to make annual payments to the Republic of the Marshall Islands and the Federated States of Micronesia, which began in fiscal year 1987 and will continue for fifteen years, totalling $2.3 billion, to aid in the development of these freely associated states as sovereign nations. Public Law 99-658 provided the necessary authorizing legislation for the Republic of Palau Compact. That Compact, when implemented, will provide annual payments that will total $450 million over a fifteen-year period.

The Indian Gaming Regulatory Act (Public Law 100–497) established the National Indian Gaming Commission as an independent agency within the Department of the Interior. The Commission will have a regulatory role over class II gaming (such as bingo) conducted on Indian lands. Operating costs of the Commission will be financed through annual appropriations and assessments of gaming activities regulated by the Commission. Federal appropriations are requested in 1993 to cover start-up and operating costs of the Commission.

GENERAL PROVISIONS, DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR

The following sections are proposed for deletion and do not appear below:

Sec. 107 ..... Permanently allows appropriations in this title to be used to provide insurance on official motor vehicle, aircraft and boats operated by the Department of the Interior in Canada and Mexico.

Sec. 108 ..... Prohibition against use of funds to detail any employee to an organization unless such detail is in accordance with Office of Personnel Management Regulations.

Sec. 109, 110, 111, 112. Prohibition against use of funds to conduct offshore leasing and related activities in the areas of Northern, Central, and Southern California; the North Atlantic; Washington and Oregon; the Eastern Gulf of Mexico south of 26 degrees north latitude and east of 86 degrees west longitude; the North Aleutian Basin; the Eastern Gulf of Mexico for Outer Continental Shelf Lease Sale 137 or for Sale 151; and the Atlantic for Outer Continental Shelf Lease Sale 145.

Sec. 113, 114 ..... Prohibition on use of funds for the implementation or financing of agreements with entities for the management of all lands, waters, and interest on Matagorda Island, Texas.

Sec. 115 ..... Permanently authorizes the use of funds to provide non-monetary awards of nominal value to private individuals or organizations that make contributions to Department of the Interior programs.

Sec. 116 ..... Permanently authorizes the use of funds to pay costs incidental to the utilization of services contributed by individuals who serve without compensation as volunteers in aid of work for units of the Department of the Interior.

Sec. 117 ..... Amends Section 105 of Public Law 100–675 to authorize disbursement of interest income from the San Luis Rey Tribal Development Fund.

Sec. 118 ..... Authorized the Secretary to approve the extension of the Blackstone Commission on or before November 10, 1991.

Sec. 119 ..... Prohibition against use of funds appropriated in the Energy and Water Development Act, 1992 to implement the proposed rule for the Army Corps of Engineers amending regulations on "ability to pay".

Sec. 120 ..... Amends the Departments of Commerce, Justice, and State, the Judiciary, and Related Agencies Appropriations Act, 1992.

SEC. 101. Appropriations made in this title shall be available for expenditure or transfer (within each bureau or office), with the approval of the Secretary, for the emergency reconstruction, replacement, or repair of aircraft, buildings, utilities, or other facilities or equipment damaged or destroyed by fire, flood, storm, or other unavoidable causes: Provided, That no funds shall be made available under this authority until funds specifically made available to the Department of the Interior for emergencies shall have been exhausted[: Provided further, That all funds used pursuant to this section are hereby designated by Congress to be "emergency requirements" pursuant to section 251(b)(2)(D) of the Balanced Budget and Emergency Deficit Control Act of 1985 and must be replenished by a supplemental appropriation which must be requested as promptly as possible].

SEC. 102. The Secretary may authorize the expenditure or transfer of any no year appropriation in this title, in addition to the amounts included in the budget programs of the several agencies, for the suppression or emergency prevention of forest or range fires on or threatening lands under the jurisdiction of the Department of the Interior; for the emergency rehabilitation of burned-over lands under its jurisdiction; for emergency actions related to potential or actual earthquakes, floods, volcanoes, storms, or other unavoidable causes; for contingency planning subsequent to actual oilspills; response and natural resource damage assessment activities related to actual oilspills; for the prevention, suppression, and control of actual or potential grasshopper and Mormon cricket outbreaks on lands under the jurisdiction of the Secretary, pursuant to the authority in section 1773(b) of Public Law 99–198 (99 Stat. 1658); for emergency reclamation projects under section 410 of Public Law 95–87; and shall transfer, from any no year funds available to the Office of Surface Mining Reclamation and Enforcement, such funds as may be necessary to permit assumption of regulatory authority in the event a primacy State is not carrying out the regulatory provisions of the Surface Mining Act: Provided, That appropriations made in this title for fire suppression purposes shall be available for the payment of obligations incurred during the preceding fiscal year, and for reimbursement to other Federal agencies for destruction of vehicles, aircraft, or other equipment in connection with their use for fire suppression purposes, such reimbursement to be credited to appropriations currently available at the time of receipt thereof: Provided further, That for emergency rehabilitation and wildfire suppression activities, no funds shall be made available under this authority until funds appropriated to the "Emergency Department of the Interior Firefighting Fund" shall have been exhausted[: Provided further, That all funds used pursuant to this section are hereby designated by Congress to be "emergency requirements" pursuant to section 251(b)(2)(D) of the Balanced Budget and Emergency Deficit Control Act of 1985 and must be replenished by a supplemental appropriation which must be requested as promptly as possible: Provided further, That such replenishment funds shall be used to reimburse, on a pro rata basis, accounts from which emergency funds were transferred].

SEC. 103. Appropriations made in this title shall be available for operation of warehouses, garages, shops, and similar facilities, wherever consolidation of activities will contribute to efficiency or economy, and said appropriations shall be reimbursed for services rendered to any other activity in the same manner as authorized by sections 1535 and 1536 of title 31, U.S.C.: Provided, That reimbursements for costs and supplies, materials, equipment, and for services rendered may be credited to the appropriation current at the time such reimbursements are received.

SEC. 104. Appropriations made to the Department of the Interior in this title shall be available for services as authorized by 5 U.S.C. 3109, when authorized by the Secretary, in total amount not to exceed $500,000; hire, maintenance, and operation of aircraft; hire of passenger motor vehicles; purchase of reprints; payment for telephone service in private residences in the field, when authorized under regulations approved by the Secretary; and the payment of dues, when authorized by the Secretary, for library membership in societies or associations which issue publications to members only or at a price to members lower than to subscribers who are not members.

SEC. 105. Appropriations available to the Department of the Interior for salaries and expenses shall be available for uniforms or allowances therefor, as authorized by law (5 U.S.C. 5901–5902 and D.C. Code 4–204).

SEC. 106. Appropriations made in this title shall be available for obligation in connection with contracts issued by the General Services Administration for services or rentals for periods not in excess of twelve months beginning at any time during the fiscal year. (Department of the Interior and Related Agencies Appropriations Act, 1992.)

GENERAL PROVISIONS, DEPARTMENT OF THE INTERIOR

SEC. 201. Appropriations in this title shall be available for expenditure or transfer (within each bureau or office), with the approval of the Secretary, for the emergency reconstruction, replacement, or repair of aircraft, buildings, utilities or other facilities or equipment damaged, rendered inoperable, or destroyed by fire, flood, storm, drought, or other unavoidable causes: Provided, That no funds shall be made available under this authority until funds specifically made available to the Department of the Interior for emergencies shall have been exhausted.

SEC. 202. The Secretary may authorize the expenditure or transfer (within each bureau or office) of any appropriation in this title, in addition to the amounts included in the budget programs of the several agencies, for the suppression or emergency prevention of forest or range fires on or threatening lands under jurisdiction of the Department of the Interior.

SEC. 203. Appropriations in this title shall be available for operation of warehouses, garages, shops, and similar facilities, wherever consolidation of activities will contribute to efficiency, or economy, and said appropriations shall be reimbursed for services rendered to any other activity in the same manner as authorized by the Act of June 30, 1932 (31 U.S.C. 1535 and 1536): Provided, That reimbursements for costs of supplies, materials, equipment, and for services rendered may be credited to the appropriation current at the time such reimbursements are received.

SEC. 204. Appropriations in this title shall be available for hire, maintenance, and operation of aircraft; hire of passenger motor vehicles; purchases of reprints; payment for telephone services in private residences in the field, when authorized under regulations approved by the Secretary; and the payment of dues, when authorized by the Secretary, for library memberships in societies or associations which issue publications to members only or at a price to members lower than to subscribers who are not members.

SEC. 205. The Bureau or Reclamation may invite non-Federal entities involved in cost sharing arrangements for the development of water projects to participate in contract negotiation and source selection proceedings without invoking provisions of the Federal Advisory Committee Act (5 U.S.C. Appendix (1988)): Provided, That such non-Federal participants shall be subject to the provisions of the Federal Procurement Integrity Act (41 U.S.C. 423 (1988)) and to the conflict of interest provisions appearing at 18 U.S.C. 201 et seq. (1988). (Energy and Water Development Appropriations Act, 1992.)

TITLE III—GENERAL PROVISIONS

Sec. 302 ..... Prohibits use of funds for oil and natural gas leasing activities within the Shawnee National Forest, Illinois.

Sec. 306 ..... Prohibits use of funds for oil, gas, or geothermal leasing activities on Federal lands in the Mount Baker-Snoqualmie National Forest, State of Washington.

Sec. 308 ..... Prohibition to subjecting employment to any personnel ceiling or other personnel restriction except as provided by law.

Sec. 309 ..... Permanently authorizes the entering into contracts with State and local government entities, including local fire districts, for procurement of services in the presuppression, detection, and suppression of fires on any units within their jurisdiction.

Sec. 310 ..... Prohibits use of United States Fish and Wildlife Service funds to plan for, conduct, or supervise deer hunting on the Loxahatchee National Wildlife Refuge.

Sec. 312 ..... Provides that FY 1992 pay raises shall be absorbed within the levels appropriated for FY 1992.

Sec. 313 ..... Provided a permanent restriction on use of funds to make reimbursements to any Federal department for litigation costs associated with the Prince William Sound oilspill.

Sec. 314 ..... Prohibits use of funds by the Forest Service or the Bureau of Land Management in increase fees charged for communication site use of lands they administer by more than 15 per centum per user in fiscal year 1992 over the levels in effect on January 1, 1989.

Sec. 315 ..... Prohibits use of funds to ensure that hardwood saw timber harvested from Federal lands east of the 100th meridian is marked as to make it readily identifiable at all times before its manufacture.

Sec. 316 ..... Provides that payments to States pursuant to 16 U.S.C. 500 for National Forests affected by decisions related to the Northern Spotted Owl from FY 1992 receipts shall not be less than 90 per centum of the average payments to States, based on receipts collected on those National Forests during the five-year period of fiscal years 1986 through 1990, but not more than the actual receipts collected in fiscal year 1992.

Sec. 317 ..... Provides that payments made to the Oregon and California land-grant counties in the State of Oregon from fiscal year 1992 receipts derived from the Oregon and California grant lands shall not be less than 90 per centum of average annual payment to those counties during the five-year baseline period of fiscal year 1986 through 1990, but not more than the actual receipts collected in fiscal year 1992.

Sec. 318 ..... With some exceptions, reduced each amount of budget authority for the fiscal year ending September 30, 1992, provided in this Act, for payments not required by law, by 1.26 per centum.

Sec. 319 ..... Provides for the land transfer and conveyance of Pease Air Force Base, New Hampshire.

Sec. 320 ..... Amends section 12(d)(2) of Public Law 94-204.

SEC. 301. The expenditure of any appropriation under this Act for any consulting service through procurement contract, pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 3109, shall be limited to those contracts where such expenditures are a matter of public record and available for public inspection, except where otherwise provided under existing law, or under existing Executive order issued pursuant to existing law.

SEC. [303] 302. No part of any appropriation contained in this Act shall be available for any activity or the publication or distribution of literature that in any way tends to promote public support or opposition to any legislative proposal on which congressional action is not complete.

SEC. [304] 303. No part of any appropriation contained in this Act shall remain available for obligation beyond the current fiscal year unless expressly so provided herein.

SEC. [305] 304. None of the funds provided in this Act to any department or agency shall be obligated or expended to provide a personal cook, chauffeur, or other personal servants to any officer or employee of such department or agency except as otherwise provided by law.

SEC. [307] 305. No assessments may be levied against any program, budget activity, subactivity, or project funded by this Act unless notice of such assessments and the basis therefor are presented to the Committees on Appropriations [and are approved by such Committees].

SEC. [311] 306. None of the funds in this Act may be used to plan, prepare, or offer for sale timber from trees classified as giant sequoia (sequoiadendron giganteum) which are located on National Forest System or Bureau of Land Management lands until an environmental assessment has been completed and the giant sequoia management implementation plan is approved. In any event, timber harvest within the identified groves will be done only to enhance and perpetuate giant sequoia. There will be no harvesting of giant sequoia specimen trees. Removal of hazard, insect, disease and fire killed giant sequoia other than specimen trees is permitted.

SEC. 307. Section 4(a)(11) of the Land and Water Conservation Fund Act of 1965, as amended (16 U.S.C. 4601-6a(11), is amended by inserting the following after the colon in the first sentence: "Yosemite National Park, Rocky Mountain National Park, Sequoia National Park, Mount Rainier National Park, Glacier National Park, Everglades National Park, Mesa Verde National Park, Big Bend National Park, Hawaii Volcanoes National Park and Zion National Park".

SEC. 308. TITLE I—RECREATION ADMISSION FEES AND USE FEES

SECTION 101. SHORT TITLE.

SECTION 102. AMERICA THE BEAUTIFUL PASSPORT.

Section 4(a) of the Land and Water Conservation Fund Act of 1965, (16 U.S.C. 4601-6a) is amended by:

(1) striking the first sentence and inserting in lieu thereof the following:

"The Secretary of the Interior and the Secretary of Agriculture are authorized to charge admission fees at any land and water area which they administer and which they designate for such charges: Provided, That the Secretary of Agriculture is authorized to charge admission fees only at National Recreation Areas, National Monuments, National Volcanic Monuments, National Scenic Areas, and developed recreation complexes within the National Forest System. Areas so designated by the Secretaries shall meet each of the following criteria or other criteria as the Secretaries may jointly determine—

"(1) be managed primarily for outdoor recreation purposes;

"(2) provide facilities and services necessary to accommodate heavy public use;

"(3) contain at least one major recreation attraction including, but not limited to, a lake, river, historical site, or geologic feature; and

"(4) provide public access such that admission fees can be efficiently collected at one or more centralized locations rather than at individual sites.";

(2) striking subparagraph (1)(A) and inserting in lieu thereof the following:

"(1)(A) For admission into any such designated area, an admission permit, known as the 'America the Beautiful Passport', valid for 12 months beginning in the month of sale, shall be available for a fee set by the Secretary of the Interior, with the advice and consent of the Secretary of Agriculture: Provided, That such fee shall be set at $30: Provided further, That the Secretary of the Interior, with the advice and consent of the Secretary of Agriculture, may change such fee upon the recommendation of the Federal Recreation Fee Advisory Commission established pursuant to subsection (D) of this paragraph. The permittee and any person accompanying the permittee in a single, private, noncommercial vehicle, or alternatively, the permittee and the permittee's spouse, children, and parents accompanying the permittee where entry to the area is by any means other than private, noncommercial vehicle, shall be entitled to general admission into any area designated pursuant to this subsection. The permit shall also waive additional fees that are charged pursuant to subsections (b), (c), and (j) of this section: Provided, That the permit shall not waive fees for overnight camping or the use of group facilities. The permit shall be nontransferable, and the unlawful use thereof shall be punishable in accordance with regulations established pursuant to subsection (e) of this section. The permit shall be available for purchase at any such designated area.";

(3) striking subparagraph (1)(B) and inserting in lieu thereof the following:

"(1)(B) The Secretary of the Interior and the Secretary of Agriculture are further authorized to make available an admission permit, valid for 12 months beginning in the month of sale, for one or more designated areas in a particular geographic area. Such a permit shall convey the privileges of, and shall be subject to the same terms and conditions as, the America the Beautiful Passport, except that it shall be valid only for admission into the specific unit or units indicated at the time of purchase. The fee for such a permit shall be $15: Provided, That either Secretary may change such fees for areas they administer upon the recommendation of the Federal Recreation Fee Advisory Commission established pursuant to subparagraph (D) of this paragraph.";

(4) adding the following new subparagraphs following subparagraph (1)(B):

"(C) The Secretary of the Interior, with the advice and consent of the Secretary of Agriculture may authorize units of State or local government, individuals, organizations, businesses, or non-profit entities to sell and collect fees for the America the Beautiful Passport, subject to such conditions as the Secretaries may jointly prescribe. The Secretaries may authorize the seller or sellers to inventory America the Beautiful Passports for periods not to exceed 6 months and to withhold reasonable amounts up to, but not exceeding, 8 percent of the gross fees collected from America the Beautiful Passport sales as reimbursement for necessary expenses of the sales. The sellers must provide information to America the Beautiful Passport purchasers about recreation activities on Federal lands and basic information to the Secretaries about such purchasers. Notwithstanding provision of law, all net receipts from the sales of permits pursuant to this subparagraph shall be deposited into a special account in the Treasury. Amounts deposited into the special account during each fiscal year shall, after the end of such fiscal year, be available for appropriation to any agency collecting fees under this section to fund the agency's share of challenge cost-share agreements negotiated and implemented pursuant to the Challenge Cost-Share Act of 1991. Projects funded under this subparagraph must repair, maintain, construct, or rehabilitate outdoor recreation lands and facilities at Federal sites in cooperation with non-Federal entities that provide not less than 50 percent of the total cost of the project, in cash or in-kind services. Funds appropriated from the special account shall remain available until expended.

"(D) Subject to the requirements of the Federal Advisory Committee Act (5 U.S.C. App. 2), there is hereby established the Federal Recreation Fee Advisory Commission (hereinafter, "the Commission") which shall consist of five persons appointed by the President of the United States. Members of the Commission shall be appointed within 90 days of the date of enactment of this Act, serve 3-year terms, and shall not receive compensation: Provided, That members of the Commission may be reimbursed for reasonable travel and other expenses associated with the performance of their duties pursuant to this subparagraph. Within one year of the date of enactment of this Act, and biannually thereafter, the Commission shall prepare an advisory report for the Secretary of the Interior and the Secretary of Agriculture regarding the admission fee system established by this Act, including the fee charged for the America the Beautiful Passport, the designation of sites where admission fees are collected, the amount of fees at designated and proposed sites, and whether the America the Beautiful Passport should waive other existing recreation fees. The Commission shall terminate upon the transmittal of its fourth biannual report to the Secretary of the Interior and the Secretary of Agriculture. The Secretary of the Interior and the Secretary of Agriculture are authorized to provide support staff and services to the Commission, at the request of the Commission.

"(E)(i) For the purposes of this subsection, 'developed recreation complexes' are areas administered by the Secretary of Agriculture and include:

"(A) Seely Lake, Montana;

"(B) Brainard Lake, Rampart Motorcycle Complex, Cottonwood Lake, and O'Haver Lake, Colorado;

"(C) Hopewell Lake, New Mexico;

"(D) Sabino Canyon, Bear Canyon, and Lower Salt River, Arizona;

"(E) Current Creek, Soldier Creek, and Strawberry Bay, Utah;

"(F) Big Tujunga Canyon, Corral Canyon, and Jenks Lake, California;

"(G) Sand Lake All-Terrain Vehicle Complex, Horsfall All-Terrain Vehicle Complex, and Applegate Reservoir, Oregon;

"(H) Lake Kachess, Washington;

"(I) Chadwick Motorcycle Complex, Missouri; and

"(J) Tuckerman Ravine, New Hampshire.

"(ii) By using the criteria in subsection (a)(1) of this section, the Secretary of Agriculture may, 60 days after notifying the Committee on Interior and Insular Affairs and the Committee on agriculture of the United States House of Representatives and the Committee on Energy and Natural Resources and the Committee on Agriculture, Nutrition, and Forestry of the United States Senate, charge an admission fee at additional developed recreation complexes within the National Forest System.";

and

(5) amending paragraph (7) to read:

"(7) No admission fee may be charged pursuant to this subsection of any person less than 16 years of age."

SECTION 103. RECREATION USE FEES

Section 4 of the Land and Water Conservation Fund Act of 1965 (16 U.S.C. 4601–6a) is amended by:

(1) striking the last sentence of paragraph (i)(1);

(2) striking paragraph (i)(3) and inserting in lieu thereof:

"(3) Such funds shall be available for the support of resource protection, research, interpretation, maintenance activities related to resource management, and outdoor recreation activities on the lands and waters administered by the agency collecting the recreation receipts.";

(3) striking paragraph (i)(4);

(4) striking subsection (j) and inserting in lieu thereof the following: "(j)(1) National Forest System Recreation Sites—Notwithstanding subsection (b) of this section, the Secretary of Agriculture is authorized to charge a daily recreation use fee at designated developed recreation sites within units of the National Forest System: Provided, That there shall be no fee charged singly for the use of drinking water, wayside exhibits, general purpose roads, overlook sites, toilet facilities, or for general visitor information.

"(2) for the purpose of this subsection, 'developed recreation sites' include, but are not limited to, camp and picnic grounds, swimming sites, boat launch sites, managed parking lots, and visitor centers with specialized services or programs.

"(3) Subject to the specific provisions of each Golden Access Passport or Golden Age Passport, any Golden Access Passport or Golden Age Passport permittee shall be entitled upon presentation of such permit to utilize developed recreation sites at a rate of 50 percent of the established recreation use fee."; and

(6) adding the following new subsection at the end thereof:

SEC. 308. TITLE I—RECREATION ADMISSION FEES AND USE FEES—Continued

"(n) National Forest System Recreation Use Receipts—Notwithstanding any other provision of law, receipts collected by the Secretary of Agriculture pursuant to subparagraphs (a)(1)(A) and (a)(1)(B) and subsection (j) of this section shall—

"(1) be collected at the place of use or other location reasonably convenient to the user and the authorized collector;

"(2) be available for the purposes of distribution to States and counties pursuant to the Act of May 23, 1908 (16 U.S.C. 500) and section 33 of the Act of July 22, 1937 (7 U.S.C. 1012); and

"(3) not be subject to the provisions of section 1 of the Act of March 4, 1913 (16 U.S.C. 501)."

TITLE II—CHALLENGE COST-SHARE AGREEMENTS

SECTION 201. SHORT TITLE.

This title may be cited as the "Challenge Cost-Share Act of 1991".

SECTION 202. DEFINITIONS.

For the purposes of this Act—

(1) "challenge cost-share agreement" means any agreement entered into between the Secretary of the Interior or the Secretary of Agriculture and any cooperator for the purpose of sharing costs or services in carrying out any function or responsibility of the land management agencies administered by the respective Secretary; and

(2) "cooperator" means any State or local government, public or private agency, organization, institution, corporation, individual, or other legal entity.

SECTION 203. CHALLENGE COST-SHARE AGREEMENTS.

Notwithstanding any other provision of law, the Secretary of the Interior and the Secretary of Agriculture are authorized to negotiate and enter into challenge cost-share agreements with cooperators.

SECTION 204. FEDERAL FUNDS FOR CHALLENGE COST-SHARE AGREEMENTS.

In carrying out challenge cost-share agreements, the Secretary of the Interior and the Secretary of Agriculture are authorized, subject to appropriation, to provide the Federal funding share from any funds available to the land management agencies administered by the respective Secretary.

This Act may be cited as the "Department of the Interior and Related Agencies Appropriations Act [1992] 1993." (Department of the Interior and Related Agencies Appropriations Act, 1992.)

Program direction and policy coordination.—The Attorney General of the United States is responsible for leading the Department of Justice in accomplishing its missions. The Attorney General is assisted by the Deputy Attorney General, Department policy-level officials, and the Justice Management Division. The General Administration appropriation provides the resources for the programs and operations of the Attorney General, the Deputy Attorney General and their Offices, the several Senior Policy Offices, and the Justice Management Division. The resources requested for General Administration in 1993 reflect Department of Justice-wide initiatives that, taken together, strengthen management and fiscal controls and continue a critical office consolidation and temporary relocation initiative. These initiatives would: begin implementation of the Chief Financial Officers Act ($1,000,000); develop auditable financial statements ($3,750,000); improve the Department's financial management information reporting system ($558,000); implement improved debt collection methods and increase management information on the program's effectiveness, including the recommendations of the joint OMB-Department litigation information action team ($1,122,000); increase program coordination and oversight of Departmental ADP security ($236,000); and, finally, continue activities of the Facilities Program 2000 for acquiring new space to consolidate the Department's fragmented leased locations, and to obtain temporary relocation space to house personnel displaced during the General Services Administration renovation of the Main Justice Building ($6,537,000).

Administrative review and appeals.—This activity includes the Office of the Pardon Attorney and the Executive Office for Immigration Review (EOIR). The Pardon Attorney receives and reviews all petitions for clemency, i.e., commutation of sentences and pardons. A number of actions have been taken to reduce backlogs. The Executive Office for Immigration Review contains the Immigration Judge function, the Board of Immigration Appeals, the Office of the Chief Administrative Hearing Officer, and the Office of Management and Administration. EOIR was established January 1, 1983 to improve the immigration hearing and appeal process. A program increase of $1,472,000 is included to provide for an additional 60 immigration judges and support positions, as authorized in the Immigration Act of 1990. Workload for the activity follows:

The Office of the Inspector General, established by the Inspector General Amendments Act of 1988, provides leadership and assists management in promoting economy, efficiency, and effectiveness within the Department; enforces the fraud, waste, abuse and integrity laws and regulations of the United States within the Department; and brings to justice those individuals or organizations involved in financial, professional or criminal misconduct relating to Department of Justice programs and operations.

The Audit function conducts, reports on and tracks the resolution of financial and compliance, economy and efficiency, and program audits of organizations, programs and functions within the Department, including expenditures made under Department contracts, grants and other agreements.

The Investigations function investigates and prepares for criminal prosecution violators of fraud, abuse and integrity laws which govern the Department or operations which are financed by the Department; and develops such allegations for possible civil and/or administrative actions.

The Inspections function performs program review, efficiency and performance reviews of operations and programs within the Department, or financed by the Department, and of field and headquarters entities of Department organizations; this function also provides assistance to management at all levels of the Department.

The United States Parole Commission makes decisions to grant or deny parole to Federal prisoners serving sentences of one year and a day or more, sets conditions of parole, supervises parolees and mandatory releasees, recommits parolees in the event of violations of the conditions of supervision, and determines the termination of supervision in accordance with the Parole Commission and Reorganization Act of 1976.

By 1997, this program will meet the statutory limitations by granting or denying parole within the legal time requirements to all Federal prisoners who are eligible for parole consideration. In addition to this basic function, the Commission will seek to improve the rehabilitation process by monitoring an effective parole supervision program through the U.S. probation officers. Finally, the Commission conducts ongoing research programs and administers its responsibilities under the labor and pension laws.

The Antitrust Division administers and enforces the antitrust and related statutes. This program primarily involves the investigation of suspected violations of the antitrust laws, the conduct of civil and criminal proceedings in the Federal courts, and the maintenance of competitive conditions.

In 1993, the Antitrust Division will continue to collect filing fees for premerger notifications and will retain up to $10,000,000 of these fees to be used for the Division's Preservation of Competitive Market Structure Program. The President's budget continues the increase of the Antitrust Division's program level (total obligations) begun in 1990. Staffing will increase to 607 workyears in 1993, compared to 601 in 1992. Program levels will increase from $58 million in 1992, to $64 million in 1993. The increased program level will allow the Division to pursue its mission more aggressively.

The Government is represented in each of the 94 judicial districts by a U.S. Attorney. The U.S. Attorneys are responsible for the prosecution of criminal offenses against the United States, the representation of the Government in civil actions in which the United States is concerned, and the initiation of proceedings for the collection of fines, penalties, and forfeitures owed to the United States. The 1993 estimate provides for increased criminal prosecutions, including prosecutions in the District of Columbia Superior Court, prosecution of economic crimes, violent crimes, and civil rights violations. It provides for affirmative civil litigation, including bankruptcy and debt collection to recover money owed the Government.

In 1993, the Foreign Claims Settlement Commission will continue the process of adjudicating approximately 3,100 claims of U.S. nationals against Iran. These claims were settled en bloc in an agreement between the United States and Iran signed at The Hague on May 13, 1990. The Commission will continue to provide technical assistance to the Departments of State and Treasury and to the public in connection with the 41 established international and war claims programs previously completed. It also will provide policy recommendations, evaluation of pending claims legislation and liaison with Congressional Committees considering such legislation.

The Federal Government is represented in each of the 94 judicial districts by a U.S. Marshal. The primary mission of the U.S. Marshals Service is responsibility for the protection of the Federal judiciary, protection of witnesses, execution of warrants and court orders, management of seized assets, and custody and transportation of unsentenced prisoners. It is the principal support force in the Federal judicial system and an integral part of the Federal law enforcement community. Program increases are requested for protection of the judicial process, prisoner transportation, D.C. Superior Court operations, and necessary support services.

Reimbursable program.—Federal funds in 1993 are derived primarily from the U.S. Air Force for Intercontinental Ballistic Missile transportation security services provided by the U.S. Marshals Service, as well as the Bureau of Prisons for the transportation of sentenced prisoners, the Department of State for security details at the United Nations, the Organized Crime Drug Enforcement appropriation for drug law enforcement and the Office of National Drug Control Policy

Care of U.S. prisoners in non-Federal institutions.—Under this program, the U.S. Marshals Service contracts with State and local jails to board Federal prisoners and detainees for short periods of time. These periods of detention occur before and during a trial and while awaiting transfer to Federal institutions after conviction. Approximately 96,000 prisoners will be boarded in approximately 920 jails at an average cost of $48.86 and one private jail at an average cost of $93.85 per offender day in 1993.

Cooperative agreement program.—Agreements are negotiated with State and local governments for renovating, constructing, and equipping facilities that detain Federal prisoners.

Reimbursable program.—Federal funds in 1991 are derived from the Bureau of Prisons-Buildings and Facilities account for use in the Cooperative Agreement Program, as authorized in the Dire Emergency Supplemental Appropriations Act of 1990, P.L. 101–302.

Fees and expenses are paid to witnesses who appear on behalf of the Government in cases in which the United States is a party. Costs incurred are affected by factors over which the Department of Justice exercises little control. The U.S. Attorneys, the U.S. Marshals, and the Department's six legal divisions are served by this appropriation.

Fees and expenses of witnesses.—Provides for payment of fees and expenses associated with the preparation and presentation of testimony on behalf of the United States for fact witnesses, who testify as to events or facts about which they have personal knowledge, and for expert witnesses, who provide technical or scientific testimony. Also, this program pays the fees of physicians and psychiatrists who examine accused persons upon order of the court to determine their mental competency.

Protection of witnesses.—Provides for payment of subsistence costs to assure the safety of Government witnesses whose testimony on behalf of the United States places them or their families in jeopardy.

Victim compensation fund.—This fund pays restitution to any victim of a crime committed by a protected witness who causes or threatens death or serious bodily injury.

Private counsel.—Provides for payments to private counsel retained to represent Government employees who are sued for actions taken while performing their official duties.

D.C. Informant Protection.—This program also provides for the short term protection of informants for the DC Superior Court.

Reimbursable program.—Reimbursements are received from States and localities to cover the costs of maintaining those State and local organized crime witnesses and their families who have been accepted into the witness protection program.

Conflict resolution.—The Community Relations Service (CRS) provides assistance to communities in resolving disputes, disagreements, and difficulties arising from discriminatory practices based on race, color, or national origin which impair the rights of citizens or which disrupt or threaten to disrupt peaceful relations among citizens.

The 1993 request will provide CRS with resources to continue conflict resolution in the areas of law enforcement, hate crimes, gang and drug violence, immigration, voting rights, education, employment, and housing. CRS will continue to monitor and will help communities to forestall threats of urban civil disorder.

Reception, processing and care of Cubans and Haitians.—This activity provides for the reception, processing, resettlement, health and mental care, and other services of Cubans and Haitians who entered the United States in 1980 and each year thereafter and who subsequently have been detained by the Immigration and Naturalization Service for their undocumented or unauthorized entry into the United States. The 1993 request includes increases to expedite outplacement of Mariel Cubans who are incarcerated but eligible for release. Increases also will fund resettlement of Cubans and Haitians.

The Civil Liberties Act of 1988 provides for restitution payments to be made to Japanese Americans who were evacuated or relocated from their homes and interned during World War II. Payments of $20,000 to each eligible individual will be made from this fund. The Act provides that no more than $500 million is to be provided in any year.

The 1993 level provides for $250 million. Consistent with section 209 of the Departments of Commerce, Justice, and State, the Judiciary, and Related Agencies Appropriations Act, 1990, payments from the Civil Liberties Public Education Fund are entitlements for the purposes of the Congressional Budget Act. The Departments of Commerce, Justice, and State, the Judiciary, and Related Agencies Appropriations Act, 1990, included advance appropriations for 1991, 1992, and 1993. These payments are deemed to be mandatory for the purpose of budget classification.

United States trustee system fund.—The Bankruptcy Judges, U.S. Trustees and Family Farmer Bankruptcy Act of 1986 (Public Law 99–554), expanded the pilot program to a twenty-one region nationwide program encompassing 88 judicial districts. The United States trustee program supervises the administration of bankruptcy cases and trustees in the Federal Bankruptcy Courts. For the third year the program was funded wholly by fees assessed to debtors and did not require any monies from the general fund of the Federal Government. Bankruptcy filings have increased by 139% from 1985 to 1991. The 1993 budget addresses staffing deficiencies in key areas: the substantiation and rectification of debtor fraud and private trustee mismanagement; and the tremendous escalation in the number of bankruptcy cases filed nationwide. A rate increase will not be necessary in 1993 to fund the program.

The Comprehensive Crime Control Act of 1984 established the Assets Forfeiture Fund, as amended by the Asset Forfeiture Amendments Act of 1988, into which the proceeds or sales of forfeited or seized property are deposited. In establishing this fund, Congress requires that program management and investigative expenses shall be a definite appropriation of a specific amount. Expenses necessary to seize, detain, inventory, safeguard, maintain, advertise or sell property under seizure shall be a permanent indefinite appropriation. In 1993, up to $150,000,000 in unneeded surplus resources will be transferred to the Special Forfeiture Fund for use by the Director of the Office of National Drug Control Policy. The amount transferred will be in accordance with the Department of Justice and Related Agencies Appropriations Act, 1992, and will be that amount necessary to bring the balance in the Special Forfeiture Fund at the beginning of the new fiscal year to $150,000,000. Surplus funds after transfers to the Special Forfeiture Fund are available to the Attorney General, without fiscal year limitation, to be transferred to any Federal agency to procure vehicles, equipment, and other capital investment items for law enforcement, prosecution and correctional activities, and related training requirements.

The Organized Crime Drug Enforcement Task Force (OCDETF) Program consists of 13 regional task forces which consolidate the resources and expertise of 12 member Federal agencies, in cooperation with State and local investigators and prosecutors, to target and destroy major narcotic trafficking and money-laundering organizations. The task forces perform the following activities:

1. Law Enforcement.—This activity includes the resources for direct investigative and support activities of the task forces, focusing on the interdiction and disruption of drug trafficking controlled by various organized crime enterprises. Organizations participating under the law enforcement function of the OCDETF Program are the Drug Enforcement Administration, Federal Bureau of Investigation, U.S. Customs Service, Internal Revenue Service, Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms, U.S. Coast Guard, U.S. Marshals Service, Financial Crimes Enforcement Network, and the Immigration and Naturalization Service.

2. Prosecution.—This activity includes the resources for the prosecution of cases generated through the investigative efforts of task force agents. Litigation efforts are targeted selectively on the criminal leadership involved in drug trafficking and are intended to dissolve organized illicit enterprises. This includes activities designed to secure the seizure and forfeiture of the assets of these enterprises. Participating agencies are the U.S. Attorneys, Criminal Division and Tax Division.

3. Administrative Support.—This activity includes the resources for a Washington-based administrative staff which provides policy guidance, central coordination, and administrative support to the headquarters of the 12 member Federal agencies and the 13 regional task forces. The administrative staff is also responsible for financial management, records management, and maintenance of the OCDETF case management system.

In 1983 and 1984, the OCDETF Program operated as a single appropriation reimbursing participating agencies for their involvement. Beginning in 1985, and continuing through 1989, the resources were appropriated directly to the participating agencies. Pursuant to the provisions of the Anti-Drug Abuse Act of 1988, a single appropriation for expenses relating to all Federal agencies participating in the OCDETF Program was established in 1990.

This appropriation includes resources transferred from the Office of National Drug Control Policy for Federal drug control activities which are consistent with the approved strategy for each of the four Metropolitan High Intensity Drug Trafficking Areas.

The planned distribution of budget authority for fiscal years 1992 and 1993 among the participating Federal agencies, as well as the actual distribution for fiscal year 1991, is as follows:

Note: Excludes $80 million in budget authority in 1993 for activities transferred to: Federal Bureau of Investigation, Special Program. Comparable amounts for 1991 ($80 million) and 1992 ($80 million) are included above.

The overall objectives of the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) are to uphold the law—to investigate violations of Federal criminal law, to protect the United States from hostile intelligence efforts, to provide assistance to other Federal, State, and local law enforcement agencies and to perform these responsibilities in a manner that is faithful to the Constitution and the laws of the United States.

These objectives result in the FBI's being actively involved in a wide range of investigations, including traditional law enforcement investigations (bank robbery, kidnaping, fugitive, bank embezzlement, etc.), investigations involving more modern phenomena (organized crime, white-collar crime, drug investigations, gang violence, financial institution fraud, environmental crimes, civil rights violations, antitrust violations, etc.), and investigations of foreign intelligence activities within the United States. The FBI has concurrent jurisdiction with DEA over Federal drug violations.

The activities of the FBI are divided into the following general categories:

Criminal, security, and other investigations.—This activity includes all field investigations of the Federal Bureau of Investigation. These investigations are conducted by FBI Special Agents in 56 field offices and approximately 400 resident agencies located throughout the United States and Puerto Rico. National priority investigations include white-collar crime, drugs, organized crime, counterterrorism and foreign counterintelligence, and investigations relating to violent crimes and major offenders. Other investigative areas are civil rights, applicant, and other investigations. An increase of $2,191,000 is planned to expand FBI's regional drug intelligence squads. Increases of $14,154,000 for additional white collar crime activities are aimed at bankruptcy fraud, health care fraud, wire fraud, financial institution fraud, and computer crimes. Asian Organized Crime efforts will increase by $2,389,000. As a result of reprogramming existing resources, the FBI will continue a sustained law enforcement program focused upon violent gang activities.

The FBI is reimbursed by other Federal agencies for certain investigative activities such as pre-employment background inquiries, fingerprint and name checks. Another primary reimbursement is the Organized Crime Drug Enforcement Task Force program.

This activity also includes resources devoted to national program supervision, coordination, and management of FBI investigations and liaison with foreign police and security services through Legal Attaches.

Investigative support.—Investigative support consists of training, forensic laboratories, investigative records and communications, ADP and telecommunications, and technical field support and equipment. An increase of $3,804,000 is being requested for the Advanced Telephony Project. Additional funding of $13,900,000 is also requested for the Surreptitious Entry Program.

Name checks processed	1,794,913	2,500,000	2,500,000

State and local assistance.—The FBI supports State and local law enforcement by providing training, laboratory, identification, and informational services. Emphasis is being placed on the training of State and local police instructors to enable their agencies to become more self-sufficient and, thereby, allow the FBI to concentrate its resources on high priority initiatives. Training is conducted at various locations within the United States but most courses are conducted at the FBI National Academy near Quantico, VA.

The FBI's National Crime Information Center (NCIC) and Uniform Crime Reporting (UCR) programs provide criminal justice information to Federal, State, and local law enforcement agencies without charge. The NCIC system contains over 20 million records relating to wanted and missing persons, stolen property, and criminal histories. The UCR program collects data from over 16,000 law enforcement agencies and provides this information to criminal justice agencies and researchers, the academic community, and others.

The FBI's Identification Division is the national repository for fingerprint identification data. In 1993, approximately 10.2 million fingerprint cards will be processed. Processing of non-criminal fingerprint checks for State and local agencies and banking institutions is on a reimbursable basis. An increase of $3,400,000 is requested to support the development of the Felon Identification in Firearm Sales System within the Fingerprint Identification Program. Additionally, $100,000,000 is planned to continue the development of the Integrated Automated Fingerprint Identification System (IAFIS), a Presidential Priority System.

The mission of the Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA) is to control abuse of narcotics and dangerous drugs by restricting the aggregate supply of those drugs. At the Federal level, DEA is the lead drug law enforcement agency. DEA accomplishes its objectives through coordination with State, local, and other Federal officials in drug enforcement activities, development and maintenance of drug intelligence systems, regulation of legitimate controlled substances activities, and enforcement coordination and intelligence-gathering activities with foreign government agencies.

Cooperation among Federal law enforcement agencies is extensive, especially within the 13 organized crime drug enforcement task forces (OCDETF). DEA's involvement is integral to this nationwide coordinated enforcement strategy. With the OCDETF program and the expansion of other agency cooperative efforts, overall drug enforcement capabilities have been significantly strengthened in recent years.

The activities of the DEA are divided into the following general categories:

ENFORCEMENT

Domestic enforcement.—This activity encompasses DEA's general efforts to eliminate or immobilize major drug trafficking organizations and thereby reduce the domestic supply of illicit drugs.

Special enforcement operations/programs.—This activity encompasses efforts to reduce the availability of illicit drugs by immobilizing targeted organizations that are substantially responsible for importation and distribution of drugs and by focusing enforcement operations on specific drug trafficking problems. In 1993, additional resources totaling $8,365,000 will provide 53 agents and equipment for foreign suppression programs.

State and local task forces.—This activity encompasses efforts to reduce drug availability and immobilize major drug trafficking organizations through intergovernmental cooperation with State and local law enforcement agencies. There are currently 64 program-funded and 34 provisional State and Local Task Forces participating in the program. In 1993, an additional $8,394,000 provides 22 agents and equipment for State and local task forces.

DEA initiated arrests (includes SEO/P arrests)	10,419	11,409	11,865
Other Federal referral arrests (includes SEO/P arrests)	1,056	1,169	1,216
DEA cooperative arrests (includes SEO/P arrests)	3,651	4,040	4,202
State and Local Task Force arrests	5,703	8,839	9,139
Clandestine labs seized	309	324	337
DEA/OCDE arrests	3,805	4,189	4,357
DEA-wide assets seized ($ millions)	$660	$730	$759

Foreign cooperative investigations.—This activity encompasses efforts to (1) disrupt, as close to the source as possible, production of opium, heroin, cocaine, marijuana, and illicitly produced and diverted legitimate dangerous drugs destined for the United States, and (2) collect and disseminate intelligence regarding narcotics production and trafficking. The measures below reflect the level of activity performed by this program.

Foreign cooperative arrests	1,352	1,436	1,465

Diversion control.—This activity seeks to reduce, to the maximum extent, the diversion of legitimately produced controlled substances including steroids and chemicals into illicit channels at all levels of distribution and to provide leadership and support to ensure that State and local agencies and the pharmaceutical and chemical industry establish and maintain programs and policies to control diversion.

The measures below reflect the level of activity performed by this program.

Steroid investigations	27	27	27

Intelligence.—This activity encompasses the collection, analysis, and dissemination of drug intelligence in support of the enforcement operations of DEA and other Federal, State and local agencies.

DEA laboratory services.—This activity encompasses laboratory analysis of evidence and expert testimony in support of investigation and prosecution of drug traffickers. The measures below reflect the level of activity performed by this program.

Laboratory exhibits analyzed	38,924	39,178	40,079

DEA training.—This activity encompasses entry level training for all special agents, diversion investigators, and intelligence analysts; advanced, in service and specialized training for investigative and other personnel; executive, mid-level management, and supervisory training for appropriate agency officials, and foreign language training for all DEA personnel assigned to overseas and border offices as needed. The measures below reflect the level of activity performed by this program.

Basic agents trained	531	275	256
Basic diversion investigators trained	30	41	34
Basic intelligence specialist trained	23	100	33
Forensic chemists trained	20	15	15

Research, engineering, and technical operations.—This activity encompasses providing high quality and timely radio communications capability, technical and investigative equipment assistance support, maintenance and operation of an aircraft fleet, and research programs directly related to the DEA law enforcement and intelligence functions. Additional 1993 resources provide $1,963,000 for 18 special agent pilots and $10,300,000 from the Assets Forfeiture Fund to purchase one overseas aircraft.

ADP and telecommunications.—This activity encompasses automated data processing and telecommunication support on a nationwide and worldwide basis. In 1993, $1,000,000 will be provided for improvements to computer capabilities at the El Paso Intelligence Center.

Records management.—This activity encompasses effective and efficient records management, Freedom of Information/Privacy Act, and library support.

PROGRAM DIRECTION

Executive direction and administrative services.—This activity encompasses the overall management and direction of DEA to include personnel, general services, and Equal Employment Opportunity functions.

REIMBURSABLE PROGRAM

Reimbursable program.—The primary reimbursements to DEA are for the Organized Crime Drug Enforcement Task Force program, the training of foreign drug law enforcement officials (funded by the Department of State), the expenses incurred in managing seized assets, and other purposes for which DEA is reimbursed from the Department of Justice Assets Forfeiture Fund.

The Immigration and Naturalization Service is responsible for administering laws relating to the admission, exclusion, deportation, and naturalization of aliens. Specifically, the Service inspects aliens to determine their admissibility into the United States; adjudicates requests of aliens for benefits under the law; prevents illegal entry into the United States; investigates, apprehends, and removes aliens in this country in violation of the law; and examines alien applicants wishing to become citizens.

Enforcement.—This activity contains resources for preventing illegal entry into the United States and facilitating the entry of qualified persons. This includes inspection of applicants for admission, patrol of the border, and the location of illegal aliens who are in the United States following illegal entry or violation of status after legal entry. Apprehensions are made through the inspection of places of employment, by the investigation of information about the location of undocumented aliens, and through investigative case work. Also included are the resources for the Service's nationwide anti-smuggling program and for the detention and deportation of illegal aliens. For 1993, increases are requested for additional Border Patrol agents on the Southern border, additional investigators to pursue criminal aliens and to establish a national enforcement operations center to track criminal aliens, funding for additional detention days, and increased staffing for Service detention facilities.

Most reimbursements received by the Service are from the inspections, legalization, examination, and land border fee programs. Also included are reimbursements for retrofitting conveyances for drug law enforcement purposes and for managing and operating the vehicle seizure program. These resources are from the Department of Justice Assets Forfeiture Fund. Resources are also received for participation in the Organized Crime Drug Enforcement Program.

Immigration support.—This activity includes the resources for construction, communications, records management, automated data processing, training of personnel, research and development, field management, legal proceedings, and the alien documentation program (ADIT). In addition, it provides a capability to scientifically examine and analyze documents to assist in the identification, investigation and prosecution of major conspiracies which provide fraudulent documents and smuggled aliens. For 1993, increases are proposed for information architecture and office automation projects, Border Patrol sensor systems, construction of support facilities at the Krome, Florida Service Processing Center, and to provide adequate legal support to address workload associated with twenty additional immigration judges that are authorized in the Immigration Act of 1990, as well as increased workload in the area of civil document fraud.

The Immigration Emergency Fund, established by the Immigration Reform and Control Act and funded by Public Law 101–162, provides funds for possible increases in border patrol and other enforcement activities, and for reimbursement to States and localities for assistance in meeting an immigration emergency. The Immigration Act of 1990, however, amended these provisions and allows for reimbursement to States and localities at the discretion of the Attorney General, in the event that asylum applications in a district exceed a certain amount during a given quarter, or if lives, property, safety or welfare of the residents of a State or locality are endangered, or in other circumstances as determined by the Attorney General.

The Immigration Reform and Control Act of 1986, title II, section 201(a), amends section 245(c) of the Immigration and Nationality Act by permitting the Attorney General to provide for a schedule of fees to be charged for filing legalization applications and further allows for the depositing of payments received in a separate account with the amounts to be available without fiscal year limitation to cover administrative and other expenses incurred in connection with the review of legalization applications. The 1993 request reflects a phase-out of this program.

This appropriation will provide for the custody and care of an average of 74,460 offenders and for the maintenance and operation of 75 penal institutions, 6 regional offices, and a central office located in Washington, D.C.

The appropriation also finances the boarding of sentenced Federal prisoners in State and local jails and therapeutic, community residential and other facilities for short periods of time. An average of 9,000 sentenced prisoners will be in contract facilities in 1993.

The Bureau receives reimbursements for daily care and maintenance of State and local offenders, for utilities produced by Federal Prison Industries, Inc., and for meals provided to Bureau staff at institutions.

Inmate care, custody, and programs.—This activity covers the cost of all food, medical supplies, clothing, welfare services, release clothing, transportation, gratuities, staff salaries (including salaries of Health Resources and Services Administration commissioned officers), and operational costs of functions directly related to providing inmate care. This activity also finances the costs of institution security, academic, social and occupational education courses, religious programs, psychological services, and drug abuse treatment programs.

Institution administration and maintenance.—This activity covers all costs associated with the general operation and maintenance of facilities. Included are functions of the Chief Executive Officers, human resource management, inmate systems management, financial management, safety, employee development, institution maintenance, motor pool operations, powerhouse operations, and other administrative functions.

Contract confinement.—This activity provides for the confinement of sentenced Federal offenders in contract State and local facilities and for the care of Federal prisoners in contract community residential centers.

Program direction.—This activity covers the costs of regional and central office executive direction and management support functions such as research and evaluation, systems support, financial management, personnel, and legal counsel.

In 1993, resources are requested to provide for a projected increase in the inmate population and to activate five new prisons. In total, the new institutions will add about 4,000 new beds. The request also includes additional resources for medical care, and contract confinement in State and local institutions.

The National Institute of Corrections (NIC) was established by the Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention Act of 1974 to provide leadership in improving correctional programs and practices, especially in State and local organizations. The NIC awards contracts and grants to provide technical assistance to requesting correctional organizations; to maintain an information service to provide information on the latest developments, research results, et cetera, in the field of corrections; to provide training to the correctional community to improve systems and skills; and to conduct limited research and evaluation of correctional activities.

The NIC Jail Center will continue to improve the knowledge and skills of sheriffs and jail administrators, enabling them to upgrade services and practices within their jail operations.

The National Academy of Corrections will offer training to local correctional personnel working in prisons, community corrections, and jails. In 1993, the Academy will train 2,000 students in the areas of management theory, current issues affecting jails, institutions, probation and parole, standards implementation, and inmate services and programs.

The dissemination of relevant correctional policies, programs, practices and resource documents will continue through the clearinghouse activity of NIC.

New construction.—This activity represents costs associated with the acquisition, construction, and leasing of facilities in order to reduce overcrowding and provide a safe and humane environment for staff and inmates. In 1993, resources are requested to construct one penitentiary, and to acquire and convert existing facilities, such as military bases, closed college campuses, etc., for prison use. In addition planning and site acquisition funding is included for a medical center, a penitentiary and two detention centers.

Modernization and repair of existing facilities.—This activity includes rehabilitation and renovation of buildings, necessary modifications to accommodate new correctional programs, rehabilitation or replacement of utilities systems, and repair projects at existing facilities. In 1993, resources are requested for hazardous waste removal, life safety improvements, utility system upgrades, energy improvements, modernization of 2 facilities and improvements at 12 locations.

Federal Prison Industries, Inc., was created by Congress in 1934 and is a wholly-owned Government corporation. Its mission is to employ and train Federal inmates through a diversified program providing products and services to other Federal agencies. These operations are conducted in such a manner as to offer a minimum of competition to private industry and labor. Employment provides inmates with work, occupational knowledge and skills, plus money for personal expenses and family assistance.

The Corporation has been expanding its operations to provide additional industrial employment opportunities at existing and planned institutions.

Budget program.—Federal Prison Industries, Inc., is entirely self-sustaining. No appropriations are required. The amounts used by the Corporation for administrative expenses are subject to a congressional limitation. Information regarding this limitation is provided separately following this account.

Financing program.—Revenues are derived entirely from the sale of products and services to other Federal agencies. Operating expenses are applied against these revenues, resulting in operating income or loss. Earnings surplus to the needs of the manufacturing operations, capital improvements and cash reserves are used to pay accident compensation.

Operating results.—To date, Federal Prison Industries, Inc., has returned to the Treasury a total of $82 million of retained income excess to the Corporation's needs. No contributions from budget authority have been made to offset deficits for non-revenue producing outlays since the inception of the fund.

The Office of Justice Programs carries out policy coordination and general management responsibilities for the Bureau of Justice Assistance, Bureau of Justice Statistics, National Institute of Justice, Office of Juvenile Justice and Delinquency Prevention and the Office for Victims of Crime, which administer the following programs and activities.

Research, evaluation, and demonstration programs.—Funds provide for and encourage the development of basic and applied research for the improvement of Federal, State, and local criminal, civil, and juvenile justice systems; new methods for the prevention and reduction of crime and the detection, apprehension, and rehabilitation of criminals; and the dissemination of the results of such research efforts.

Criminal justice statistical programs.—Funds provide for the collection and analysis of statistical information concerning crime, victims, offenders, criminal justice processes, juvenile delinquency, and civil disputes in support of public and private policy and decisionmaking about society's response to crime; planning, coordination, implementation and provision of technical assistance to States to initiate innovative applications of communications and information systems technology for State and local criminal justice systems; and assurance of conformance with privacy and security regulations. Three increases are requested for 1993: $450,000 for the Intentional Injuries Statistical Series; $500,000 for the Criminal Justice Expenditure and Employment Survey; and $1,000,000 for the Probation and Parole Survey.

Emergency assistance.—Funds are used to provide emergency assistance to a State or locality after the Attorney General has determined that a law enforcement emergency exists. A law enforcement emergency is a situation where the capacity of local resources has been exceeded. No funds are requested for 1993.

Juvenile justice programs.—Funds under this activity assist States and localities in the development of more effective education, training, research, prevention, treatment, and rehabilitation programs in the area of juvenile delinquency. No funds are requested for the Juvenile Justice formula grant program in 1993. Instead, $7,500,000 has been requested to continue a High Risk Youth program that addresses the problems with gangs and drugs and their relationship with the juvenile justice system. It is also proposed that grant recipients contribute a hard cash match of 50 percent of total project costs.

Missing children.—Funds for this program will be used to reduce the incidence of crimes against children, particularly kidnaping and sexual exploitation, by assisting families, citizen groups, law enforcement agencies and government institutions in a national effort to insure the safety and protection of children. The 1993 request of $7,971,000 continues the efforts of State and local communities in their comprehensive response to missing and exploited children issues such as search teams, investigations, crisis intervention, as well as reunification with family.

Mariel Cubans.—This is a reimbursement to certain States for part of the cost of incarcerating Mariel Cubans who had originally been paroled by the Federal Government. No new budget authority is requested for 1993.

Crime control programs.—This activity provides for expenditures from programs that were authorized by preceding legislative authority but are not continued under existing legislation.

Regional information sharing system.—This is a program to aid State and local law enforcement agencies in the exchange of intelligence information. For 1993, these grants are proposed to be funded from the Anti-Drug Abuse program.

Anti-drug abuse program.—Funds for this program have been appropriated since 1987 to assist State and local governments in the war against drugs. In 1993, a total of $496,000,000 is requested for this program.

Management and administration.—Funds provide for executive direction and control, program operation, and administrative support of the above activities.

This program provides payment of death benefits to eligible survivors of public safety officers who die in the line of duty, and disability payments to public safety officers who are permanently disabled as a result of injury incurred in the line of duty. Amendments in the Anti-Drug Abuse Act of 1988 raised the benefit from $50,000 to $100,000 and provided for an annual cost of living escalator tied to the Consumer Price Index (CPI). On October 1 of every year, this escalator will increase the benefit by the percentage of increase to the CPI.

The Victims of Crime Act of 1984 (Public Law 98-473), as amended, established a special fund in the Treasury entitled "The Crime Victims Fund." This fund is credited with criminal fines that are collected from persons convicted of offenses against the United States. Annual grants are made to eligible crime victims compensation and assistance programs.

Amounts collected in the previous year are available for obligation in the subsequent year, subject to the limitations included in authorizing language.

tributions, procedures, and regulations established by the Attorney General.

SEC. 102. (a) Subject to subsection (b) of this section, authorities contained in Public Law 96-132, "The Department of Justice Appropriation Authorization Act, Fiscal Year 1980", shall remain in effect until the termination date of this Act or until the effective date of a Department of Justice Appropriation Authorization Act, whichever is earlier.

(b)(1) During fiscal year [1992] 1993 with respect to any undercover investigative operation of the Federal Bureau of Investigation or the Drug Enforcement Administration which is necessary for the detection and prosecution of crimes against the United States or for the collection of foreign intelligence or counterintelligence—

(A) sums authorized to be appropriated for the Federal Bureau of Investigation and for the Drug Enforcement Administration may be used for purchasing property, buildings, and other facilities, and for leasing space, within the United States, the District of Columbia, and the territories and possessions of the United States, without regard to section 1341 of title 31 of the United States Code, section 3732(a) of the Revised Statutes (41 U.S.C. 11(a)), section 305 of the Act of June 30, 1949 (63 Stat. 396; 41 U.S.C. 255), the third undesignated paragraph under the heading of "Miscellaneous" of the Act of March 3, 1877 (19 Stat. 370; 40 U.S.C. 34), section 3324 of title 31 of the United States Code, section 3741 of the Revised Statutes (41 U.S.C. 22), and subsections (a) and (c) of section 304 of the Federal Property and Administrative Service Act of 1949 (63 Stat. 395; 41 U.S.C. 254 (a) and (c)),

(B) sums authorized to be appropriated for the Federal Bureau of Investigation and for the Drug Enforcement Administration may be used to establish or to acquire proprietary corporations or business entities as part of an undercover investigative operation, and to operate such corporations or business entities on a commercial basis, without regard to section 9102 of title 31 of the United States Code,

(C) sums authorized to be appropriated for the Federal Bureau of Investigation and for the Drug Enforcement Administration for fiscal year 1992, and the proceeds from such undercover operation, may be deposited in banks or other financial institutions, without regard to section 648 of title 18 of the United States Code and section 3302 of title 31 of the United States Code, and

(D) proceeds from such undercover operation may be used to offset necessary and reasonable expenses incurred in such operation, without regard to section 3302 of title 31 of the United States Code, only, in operations designed to detect and prosecute crimes against the United States, upon the written certification of the Director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation (or, if designated by the Director, a member of the Undercover Operations Review Committee established by the Attorney General in the Attorney General's Guidelines on Federal Bureau of Investigation Undercover Operations, as in effect on July 1, 1983) or the Administrator of the Drug Enforcement Administration, as the case may be, and the Attorney General (or, with respect to Federal Bureau of Investigation undercover operations, if designated by the Attorney General, a member of such Review Committee), that any action authorized by subparagraph (A), (B), (C), or (D) is necessary for the conduct of such undercover operation. If the undercover operation is designed to collect foreign intelligence or counterintelligence, the certification that any action authorized by subparagraph (A), (B), (C), or (D) is necessary for the conduct of such undercover operation shall be by the Director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation (or, if designated by the Director, the Assistant Director, Intelligence Division) and the Attorney General (or, if designated by the Attorney General, the Counsel for Intelligence Policy). Such certification shall continue in effect for the duration of such undercover operation, without regard to fiscal years.

(2) Notwithstanding paragraph (1), proceeds or other money—

(A) received by an undercover agent from or at the direction of the subject of an investigation, or

(B) provided to an agent by an individual cooperating with the Government in an investigation, who received the proceeds or money from or at the direction of the subject of an investigation, may be used as the subject of the investigation directs without certification of the undercover operation: Provided, That the Director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation or the Administrator of the Drug Enforcement Administration, or their designees, in advance or as soon as practicable thereafter, make a written determination that such a use would further the investigation.

[(2)] (3) As soon as the proceeds from an undercover investigative operation with respect to which an action is authorized and carried out under subparagraphs (C) and (D) of [subsection (a)] paragraph (1), or under paragraph (2) are no longer necessary for the conduct of such operation, such proceeds or the balance of such proceeds remaining at the time shall be deposited in the Treasury of the United States as miscellaneous receipts.

[(3)] (4) If a corporation or business entity established or acquired as part of an undercover operation under subparagraph (B) of paragraph (1) with a net value of over $50,000 is to be liquidated, sold, or otherwise disposed of, the Federal Bureau of Investigation or the Drug Enforcement Administration, as much in advance as the Director or the Administrator, or the designee of the Director or the Administrator, determines is practicable, shall report the circumstances to the Attorney General and the Comptroller General. The proceeds of the liquidation, sale, or other disposition, after obligations are met, shall be deposited in the Treasury of the United States as miscellaneous receipts.

[(4)] (5)(A) The Federal Bureau of Investigation or the Drug Enforcement Administration, as the case may be, shall conduct a detailed financial audit of each undercover investigative operation which is closed in fiscal year [1992] 1993—

(i) submit the results of such audit in writing to the Attorney General, and

(ii) not later than 180 days after such undercover operation is closed, submit a report to the Congress concerning such audit.

(B) The Federal Bureau of Investigation and the Drug Enforcement Administration shall each also submit a report annually to the Congress specifying as to their respective undercover investigative operations—

(i) the number, by programs, of undercover investigative operations pending as of the end of the one-year period for which such report is submitted,

(ii) the number, by programs, of undercover investigative operations commenced in the one-year period preceding the period for which such report is submitted, and

(iii) the number, by programs, of undercover investigative operations closed in the one-year period preceding the period for which such report is submitted and, with respect to each such closed undercover operation, the results obtained. With respect to each such closed undercover operation which involves any of the sensitive circumstances specified in the Attorney General's Guidelines on Federal Bureau of Investigation Undercover Operations, such report shall contain a detailed description of the operation and related matters, including information pertaining to—

(I) the results,

(II) any civil claims, and

(III) identification of such sensitive circumstances involved, that arose at any time during the course of such undercover operation.

[(5)] (6) For purposes of paragraph [(4)] (5)—

(A) the term "closed" refers to the earliest point in time at which—

(i) all criminal proceedings (other than appeals) are concluded, or

(ii) covert activities are concluded, whichever occurs later.

(B) the term "employees" means employees, as defined in section 2105 of title 5 of the United States Code, of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, and

(C) the terms "undercover investigative operations" and "undercover operation" mean any undercover investigative operation of the Federal Bureau of Investigation or the Drug Enforcement Administration (other than a foreign counterintelligence undercover investigative operation)—

(i) in which—

(I) the gross receipts (excluding interest earned) exceed $50,000, or

(II) expenditures (other than expenditures for salaries of employees) exceed $150,000, and

(ii) which is exempt from section 3302 or 9102 of title 31 of the United States Code, except that clauses (i) and (ii) shall not apply with respect to the report required under subparagraph (B) of such paragraph.

SEC. 103. None of the funds appropriated by this title shall be available to pay for an abortion, except where the life of the mother would be endangered if the fetus were carried to term or in the case of rape: Provided, That should this prohibition be declared unconstitutional by a court of competent jurisdiction, this section shall be null and void.

SEC. 104. None of the funds appropriated under this title shall be used to require any person to perform, or facilitate in any way the performance of, any abortion.

SEC. 105. Nothing in the preceding section shall remove the obligation of the Director of the Bureau of Prisons to provide escort services necessary for a female inmate to receive such service outside the Federal facility: Provided, That nothing in this section in any way diminishes the effect of section 104 intended to address the philosophical beliefs of individual employees of the Bureau of Prisons.

SEC. 106. Pursuant to the provisions of law set forth in 18 U.S.C. 3071-3077, not to exceed $100,000 of the funds appropriated to the Department of Justice in this title shall be available for rewards to individuals who furnish information regarding acts of terrorism against a United States person or property.

SEC. 107. Deposits transferred from the Assets Forfeiture Fund to the Buildings and Facilities account of the Federal Prison System may be used for the construction of correctional institutions, and the construction and renovation of Immigration and Naturalization Service and United States Marshals Service detention facilities, and for the authorized purposes of the Support of United States Prisoners' Cooperative Agreement Program.

SEC. [110] 108. Notwithstanding 28 U.S.C. 1821, no funds appropriated to the Department of Justice in fiscal year [1992] 1993 or any prior fiscal year, or any other funds available from the Treasury of the United States, shall be obligated or expended to pay a fact witness fee to a person who is incarcerated testifying as a fact witness in a court of the United States, as defined in 28 U.S.C. 1821(a)(2).

SEC. 109. The Attorney General may transfer up to five per centum of any appropriation made to the Department of Justice to any other such appropriation, but no appropriation shall be increased by more than two per centum by any such transfers.

SEC. 110. Chapter 123 of title 28, United States Code, is amended by adding at the end thereof:

"SEC. 1932. Fees Accruing in Favor of the United States.

"Notwithstanding that the United States is not required to, and does not, pay any filing fees or docketing fees in any court of the United States, filing fees and docketing fees shall be taxed pursuant to section 1920 of this title in favor of the United States.

The table of sections at the beginning of Chapter 123 of title 28, United States Code, is amended by adding at the end thereof:

"SEC. 1932. Fees Accruing in Favor of the United States."

SEC. 111. The Attorney General shall collect fees, subject to 31 U.S.C. 3302, to cover the costs of confinement from persons committed to his custody upon conviction in the United States District Courts. The fee shall be equivalent to the average cost of one year of incarceration. The Attorney General, in his discretion, may waive all or part of this fee based on indigency or other mitigating circumstances.

GENERAL PROVISION FOR WEED AND SEED INITIATIVE

SEC. 112. The Attorney General shall promote neighborhood revitalization by developing a plan for the use of federal funds appropriated for selected activities in the Departments of Labor, Education, Health and Human Services, Transportation, Agriculture, and Housing and Urban Development. The Attorney General shall solicit from State and local governments plans to revitalize neighborhoods using programs administered by such agencies. The Attorney General shall review and approve such plans in consultation with the Federal agency to which funds are appropriated. This account provides for a flexible, decentralized system of Federal and local programs of training and other services for the economically disadvantaged designed to lead to permanent gains in employment. Such programs are currently authorized by the Job Training Partnership Act (JTPA). The account is forward funded on a July to June cycle.

Grants to States.—Includes (1) block grants to provide financial assistance to States and territories to design and operate training programs to meet their training and employment needs; (2) grants to operate a summer youth employment and training program; and (3) services for displaced workers under JTPA Title III, including individuals displaced from their jobs as a result of the Clean Air Act and Department of Defense downsizing. Seventy percent of the JTPA block grant funding will be used for training, including basic skills instruction, occupational training, and on-the-job training. Legislation is proposed to amend JTPA for 1993 to replace the existing block grant and summer youth programs with separate programs serving adults and youth. These new programs, which would be targeted on those economically disadvantaged individuals with particularly severe barriers to employment, will enhance program quality by providing more intensive and comprehensive services. In an effort to ensure equitable treatment of dislocated workers, legislation will be proposed to repeal the Trade Act adjustment assistance program, effective October 1, 1992.

Federally administered programs.—Provides program support for JTPA activities and training assistance through nationally administered programs for segments of the population that have special disadvantages in the labor market. Among groups to be served are Indians and other native Americans, migrant and seasonal farmworkers, and veterans. This activity also includes the Job Corps, which is a national network of residential centers designed to provide training in basic and vocational skills for youth aged 14–21 who have severe educational and economic disadvantages. Job Corps slots will increase to 41,780 with the addition of one new center in 1993. Also included in this activity is training for the homeless, as authorized by the Stewart B. McKinney Homeless Assistance Act. A new program of technical assistance for middle- and small-sized firms to assist in upgrading worker skills is included in 1993 as authorized by the National Literacy Act of 1991. The proposed 1993 JTPA amendments will authorize a Youth Opportunities Unlimited demonstration program funded by this account to provide comprehensive services to youth living in high poverty areas.

Trade adjustment assistance.—Adjustment assistance including cash weekly benefits, training, job search and relocation allowances, is paid to workers as authorized by the Trade Act of 1974, as amended. For 1993, legislation will be proposed to terminate separate trade adjustment assistance activities. Funds will be provided to continue benefits for those collecting them during the week of September 30, 1992.

Unemployment assistance and payments under other Federal unemployment programs.—Benefits are paid to workers under Public Law 95–250, which expanded the Redwood National Park. Reimbursements from the Federal Emergency Management Agency provide Federal disaster unemployment assistance.

Legislation is proposed to terminate the Trade Adjustment Assistance (TAA) program beginning October 1, 1992. Workers adversely affected by imports will receive services through the Economic Dislocation and Worker Adjustment Assistance program under Title III of the Job Training Partnership Act. Upon passage of the proposed legislation, workers collecting TAA benefits during the week including September 30, 1992 would continue to collect the balance of their TAA entitlement.

Note.—State integrity and contingency obligations for 1991 are included in State operations.

Unemployment compensation.—State operations amounts provide administrative grants to State agencies which pay unemployment compensation to eligible workers and collect State unemployment taxes from employers. These agencies also pay unemployment benefits to former Federal personnel as well as trade adjustment assistance to eligible individuals. Grants are also provided to upgrade State automated systems for benefit payments and collection of taxes. State integrity activities provide administrative grants to State agencies to improve the integrity and financial stability of the unemployment compensation program through a quality control program and related activities designed to assess and reduce errors and prevent fraud, waste, and abuse in the payment of unemployment compensation benefits and the collection of unemployment taxes. National activities relating to the Federal-State unemployment insurance programs are conducted through contracts or agreements with the State agencies. Contingency funds are available only to meet increases in the costs of administration resulting from changes in State law, or increases in the number of claims filed and claims paid.

Employment service.—The public employment service is a nationwide system providing no-fee employment services to individuals who are seeking employment and employers who are seeking workers. State employment service activities are financed by allotment to States distributed under a demographically based funding formula established under the Wagner-Peyser Act, as amended. Employment service allotments are funded on a program year basis running from July 1 through June 30 of the following year.

Employment service activities serving national needs, including interstate job listings and labor certification of aliens, are conducted through specific reimbursable agreements between the States and the Federal Government under the Wagner-Peyser Act, as amended. Funding is also provided in 1993 for amortization payments for States which had independent retirement plans prior to 1980 in their State employment service agencies. As a part of a program to improve the quality of the American workforce, the Department will continue to examine the role of the Employment Service in increasing the efficiency of the labor market.

This account provides advances to several other accounts to pay unemployment compensation to eligible individuals under various Federal and State unemployment compensation laws whenever the balances in the funds prove insufficient or reimbursements to certain accounts, as allowed by law, are to be made. Advances made to the Extended unemployment compensation account under the financing provisions of the Emergency Unemployment Act of 1991, the Federal employees compensation account in the Unemployment trust fund and to the Federal unemployment benefits and allowances account are nonrepayable. All other advances made to the Federal unemployment account and to the Extended unemployment compensation account (both in the Unemployment trust fund) are repaid, with interest, to the general fund of the Treasury.

This account also provides repayable advances to the Black Lung Disability Trust Fund for making payments from that fund whenever its balances prove insufficient.

The financial transactions of the Federal-State and railroad unemployment insurance systems are made through the Unemployment Trust Fund. All State and Federal unemployment tax receipts are deposited in the trust fund and invested in Government securities until needed for benefit payments or administrative costs. States may receive repayable advances from the fund when their balances in the fund are insufficient to pay benefits. The fund may receive repayable advances from the general fund when it has insufficient balances to make advances to States or to pay the Federal share of extended benefits.

State payroll taxes pay for all regular State benefits. During periods of high State unemployment, extended benefits, financed one-half by State payroll taxes and one-half by the Federal unemployment payroll tax, are also paid. The Federal tax pays the costs of Federal and State administration of unemployment insurance and veterans employment services and 97% of the costs of the employment service.

The Federal employees compensation account provides funds to States for unemployment compensation benefits paid to eligible former Federal civilian personnel, Postal Service employees, and ex-servicemembers. Benefits paid are reimbursed to the Federal employees compensation account by the various Federal agencies. Any additional resources necessary to assure that the account can make the required payments to States will be provided from the Advances to the Unemployment Trust Fund and other funds account.

Both the benefit payments and administrative expenses of the separate unemployment insurance program for railroad employees are paid from the unemployment trust fund and receipts from the tax on railroad payrolls are deposited in the fund to meet expenses.

This schedule shows the effects of the Administration's proposal to shift the accounting for major Federal insurance programs from a cash basis to an accrual basis beginning with the transactions for 1992. The costs for liabilities accruing in 1992 and later years are recorded in this account. The cash transactions corresponding to the accrual costs are recorded in a corresponding financing account. An explanation of the proposal is included in Part One, Chapter 13, "Identifying Long-Term Obligations and Reducing Underwriting Risks."

This wholly owned government corporation administers programs of mandatory insurance to prevent loss of pension benefits under covered private, defined-benefit pension plans if single-employer plans terminate or if multiemployer plans are unable to pay benefits. Terminated plans are taken over by the Corporation. The Corporation assumes control of their assets, administers them in a trust fund held in a private bank, and takes responsibility for paying benefits. The Corporation also provides repayable assistance to insolvent multiemployer plans when necessary to pay benefits and to forestall termination and subsequent Corporation responsibility to pay benefits.

The Administration is proposing to shift the accounting for all insurance programs from a cash basis to an accrual basis. The proposal would be implemented in phases. This budget shows the conversion for deposit insurance and pension guarantees beginning with the transactions for 1992. The conversion of all other insurance programs is planned for 1993 and will be reflected in the 1994 budget.

With sufficient assets	7,500	9,000	9,000
With insufficient assets	86	80	80
Government trusteeships at end of year	1,592	1,672	1,752
Regulations issued	1	12	8

Administrative expenses subject to limitation.—Provides case processing, benefits administration, resource management, legal support, public information, executive direction, and other support functions.

Services related to terminations.—Provides for needed but unpredictable costs related to benefits payments, actuarial services, investment management, and a share of other administrative costs arising from pension plan terminations.

Benefit payments.—Checks are issued when due to pay plan participants and other beneficiaries in plans which have terminated.

Payees in Government trusteeships receiving monthly benefits from the Corporation	142,000	270,107	302,532

Financial assistance.—If multiemployer-sponsored plans become insolvent, the Corporation gives repayable loans to enable the plans to continue paying benefits. Financial assistance to an insolvent plan is made only after the plan takes a series of prescribed steps to place the plan on a sound financial basis.

Financing.—The primary source of financing is a per capita annual premium paid by sponsors of ongoing covered plans, which varies according to the plans' funding level. Other sources of financing include assets from terminated plans, investment income, and amounts due the Corporation from the sponsors of terminating plans. Also, the Corporation is authorized to borrow up to $100 million from the U.S. Treasury.

Operating results.—The following tables show the status of the Corporation's trust funds and the Corporation's operating results.

This schedule shows the effects on the existing fund of the Administration's proposal to shift the accounting for major Federal insurance programs from a cash basis to an accrual basis beginning with the transactions for 1992. This account shows the liquidation of costs accrued as of October 1, 1991. The accruing costs in 1992 and later years are recorded in a corresponding proposed general fund program account. An explanation of the proposal is included in Part One, Chapter 13, "Identifying Long-Term Obligations and Reducing Underwriting Risks."

Enforcement of wage and hour standards.—The Wage and Hour Division works to obtain compliance with the minimum wage, overtime, child labor, and other employment standards under the Fair Labor Standards Act, Migrant and Seasonal Agricultural Worker Protection Act, certain provisions of the Immigration Reform and Control Act and the Immigration and Nationality Act, and the wage garnishment provisions in title III of the Consumer Credit Protection Act. Prevailing wages are determined and employment standards enforced under various Government contract wage standards, including helper classifications and rates. In 1993, approximately 336,000 persons are expected to be aided under the Fair Labor Standards Act through securing agreements with firms to pay back wages owed to their workers. Through the special minimum wage program, an estimated 410,000 persons will be aided by certificates issued and employment authorized. In Government contract compliance actions, about 41,000 persons will be aided through securing agreements to pay wages owed to workers. Under the Migrant and Seasonal Agricultural Worker Protection Act program, approximately 146,000 persons will be aided through enforcement of employment standards for migrant and seasonal agricultural workers. In the course of all on-site investigations, investigators will routinely check for employer compliance with the eligibility recordkeeping requirements of the Immigration Reform and Control Act. About 1,400 investigations will be conducted to ensure compliance with homeworker employment restrictions. The Wage and Hour Division will continue to provide enforcement of the Employee Polygraph Protection Act of 1988, Immigration Nursing Relief Act of 1989, and certain provisions of the Immigration Act of 1990.

Federal contractor EEO standards enforcement.—The Office of Federal Contract Compliance Programs (OFCCP) works to ensure nondiscrimination in employment by Federal contractors. It is responsible for conducting compliance activities to assure that Federal contractors take affirmative action in the hiring and promotion of minorities and women under the authority of Executive Orders 11246 and 11375. of 1973 and, in coordination with the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission, the Americans with Disabilities Act of 1990, relating to the hiring and promotion of individuals with physical and mental disabilities, is included in this activity. Also included is the administration of the Vietnam Era Veterans Readjustment Assistance Act providing for affirmative action by Federal contractors to employ and advance in employment disabled veterans and veterans of the Vietnam era. In 1993, about 4,910 compliance reviews and 950 complaint investigations will be conducted. During these reviews and investigations, employer compliance with the Immigration Reform and Control Act will be checked regarding hiring only legally authorized workers. A total of 4,714 other compliance actions will be conducted with respect to contractor employment practices.

Federal programs for workers' compensation.—Under this income maintenance activity, the Employment Standards Administration administers the Federal Employees' Compensation Act, the Longshore and Harbor Workers' Compensation Act, and the benefit provisions of the Federal Mine Safety and Health Act of 1977. These programs insure that eligible disabled and injured workers or their survivors receive compensation and medical benefits and a range of services including rehabilitation, supervision of medical care, and technical and advisory counseling to which they are entitled. Monitoring and advisory services are provided with respect to State workers' compensation laws.

Executive direction and support services.—This activity includes planning, personnel management, financial management, and Federal/State liaison programs, management systems implementation, and data processing operations. Major goals in 1993 will include implementing financial management initiatives; continued efforts to eliminate internal fraud, waste, and mismanagement; the improvement of management information, automated data processing, and program and fiscal accountability; and legislative and regulatory improvements.

bills arising from compensable job injuries are also paid. Not all benefits are paid by the program since the first 45 days of disability are usually covered by keeping injured workers in pay status with their employing agencies. In 1993, 172 thousand injured federal workers or their survivors will file claims; sixty-two thousand will receive long-term wage replacement benefits for job-related injuries, diseases, or deaths. Most of the costs of this account are charged back to the employing agencies of beneficiaries.

In 1992 the program will start a multi-year review of its long-term payment roll and will start an experiment in subsidized employment of disabled beneficiaries.

Panama Canal Commission Compensation Fund.—This fund has been established to provide for the accumulation of funds to meet the Panama Canal Commission's obligations to defray costs of workers' compensation which will accrue pursuant to the Federal Employees' Compensation Act (FECA). On December 31, 1999, the Commission will be dissolved as set forth in the Panama Canal Treaty of 1977, and the liability of the Commission for payments beyond that date will not end with its termination. The establishment of this fund, into which funds will be deposited on a regular basis by the Commission is in conjunction with the transfer of the administration of the FECA program from the Commission to the Department of Labor effective January 1, 1989.

The trust fund consists of all moneys collected from the coal mine industry under the provisions of the Black Lung Benefits Revenue Act of 1981, as amended by the Consolidated Omnibus Budget Reconciliation Act of 1985, in the form of an excise tax on mined coal. These moneys are expended to pay compensation, medical, and survivor benefits to eligible miners and their survivors, where mine employment terminated prior to 1970 or where no mine operator can be assigned liability. In addition the fund pays all administrative costs incurred in the operation of the black lung program. The fund is administered jointly by the Secretaries of Labor, the Treasury, and Health and Human Services. The Benefits

The trust funds consist of amounts received from employers for the death of an employee where no person is entitled to compensation for such death, for fines and penalty payments, and pursuant to an annual assessment of the industry, for the general expenses of the fund under the Longshore and Harbor Workers' Compensation Act, as amended.

These trust funds are available for payments of additional compensation for second injuries. When a second injury is combined with a previous disability and results in increased permanent partial disability, permanent total disability, or death, the employer provides compensation only for the disability caused by the subsequent injury; compensation to supplement the employer's payment is provided from this fund. In addition, the fund pays one-half of the increased benefits provided under the Longshore and Harbor Workers' Compensation Act, as amended, for persons on the rolls prior to 1972. Maintenance payments are made to disabled employees undergoing vocational rehabilitation to enable them to return to remunerative occupations, and the costs of necessary rehabilitation services not otherwise available to disabled workers are defrayed. Payments are made in cases where other circumstances preclude payment by an employer and to provide medical, surgical, and other treatment in disability cases where there has been a default by the insolvency of an uninsured employer.

Note.—Excludes $17,500 thousand in budget authority in FY 1993 for activities transferred to Bureau of Labor Statistics, Salaries and Expenses. Comparable amounts for 1991 ($16,463) and 1992 ($16,754) are included above.

Safety and health standards.—New and revised standards are proposed and promulgated to protect the safety and health of workers. All new standards, except emergency temporary standards, are promulgated under procedures providing opportunity for public comment. Before any standard is proposed or promulgated, a determination is made that: (1) a significant risk of serious employee injury or health impairment exists; (2) the standard will reduce this risk; (3) the standard is economically and technologically sound; and (4) the standard is cost-effective when compared with alternative regulatory proposals providing equal levels of protection.

Enforcement.—The Occupational Safety and Health Act of 1970 provides for enforcement of Federal standards in States declining to assert jurisdiction, and for grants to assist States in administering and enforcing State standards. Compliance with occupational safety and health standards is gained in part by the physical inspection of plants and facilities, and by encouraging the voluntary protection efforts of employers and employees. Programs are targeted to the investigation of claims of imminent danger and employee complaints, the investigation of fatal and catastrophic accidents, programmed inspections of firms with injury-illness rates that are above the national average, and special emphasis inspections for serious health and safety hazards. OSHA's enforcement strategy includes a selective targeting of inspections and related compliance activities to specific high hazard industries.

Technical support.—Technical assistance is provided on all aspects of standards setting, variances, compliance assistance, and enforcement programs. Laboratory support is provided to compliance officers. Comprehensive scientific and technical information services are made available. The economic and environmental impacts of proposed standards are analyzed.

Compliance assistance.—This activity contributes to the balanced use of the authority provided by the Act through a variety of employer and employee assistance activities. Under cooperative agreements, State agencies are reimbursed for 90 percent of the costs of providing free onsite consultation to employers upon request. Grants are awarded to nonprofit organizations to provide employee and employer training programs, targeted to address specific industry needs for safety and health education. This activity also encourages employers to establish voluntary employee protection programs, and assists Federal agencies in implementing job safety and health programs for their workers. Professional training for compliance personnel and others with related workplace safety and health responsibilities is conducted at the OSHA Training Institute.

Statistics.—This activity provides management information and statistical support for OSHA's programs and field operations through an integrated data network and statistical analysis and review. The national injury and illness recordkeeping system and forms are undergoing revision in conjunc-

Enforcement.—Enforcement of the Federal Mine Safety and Health Act of 1977 includes inspection of mines, the development and promulgation of health and safety standards, assistance in mine rescue operations, investigations of serious accidents in mines, recommendations to reduce working hazards, and on-site education and training assistance. The estimates will support all inspections specified in the Act of mines expected to be operating throughout 1992 and 1993. In addition to these regular health and safety inspections, the program statistics below include additional inspections and investigations that are conducted as needed to ensure the safety and health of miners.

Assessments.—This activity assesses and collects civil monetary penalties for violations of safety and health standards.

Educational policy and development.—This activity develops and coordinates MSHA's mine safety and health education and training policies, and provides classroom instruction at the National Academy for MSHA personnel, other governmental personnel, and the mining industry.

Technical support.—This activity provides technical services and advice to field managers, mine inspectors, State program employees, and industry management to assist enforcement or improve mining practices. It also collects and analyzes data relative to the cause, frequency, and circumstances of accidents.

Program administration.—This activity provides for general administrative functions.

Executive direction.—Provides leadership and direction for all programs and functions assigned to the Department. Provides guidance for the development and implementation of governmental policy to protect and promote the interests of the American worker, toward achieving better employment and earnings, promotion of productivity and economic growth, safety, equity and affirmative action in employment, and collection and analysis of statistics on the labor force.

Legal services.—Provides the Secretary of Labor and Departmental program officials with the legal services required to accomplish the Department's mission. The major services include litigating cases, providing assistance to the Department of Justice in case preparation and trials, reviewing rules, orders and written interpretations and opinions for DOL program agencies and the public, and coordinating the Department's legislative program.

International labor affairs.—Coordinates the Department of Labor's international responsibilities, including support of U.S. foreign policy objectives through relationships with international organizations and foreign governments, analysis on the labor market and economic impact of trade proposals, trade legislation and immigration-related initiatives; and assuring compliance with worker rights provisions in U.S. trade law.

Administration and management.—Exercises leadership in all Departmental administrative and management programs and services; ensures efficient and effective operation of Departmental programs. Provides policy guidance on matters of personnel management, information resource management, procurement, and provides for consistent and constructive internal labor-management relations throughout the Department.

Adjudication.—Conducts formal hearings and renders timely decisions on claims filed under the Black Lung Benefits Reform Act of 1977 as subsequently amended, the Longshore and Harbor Workers' Compensation Act and its extensions, the Federal Employees' Compensation Act, the Davis-Bacon Act and other acts involving complaints to determine violations of minimum wage requirements, overtime payments, health and safety regulations and unfair labor practices.

Promoting employment of the disabled.—The President's Committee on Employment of People With Disabilities provides leadership to achieve maximum employment of people with physical and mental disabilities, and works to eliminate attitudinal and architectural barriers standing in the way of employment opportunities.

Women's bureau.—Promotes the welfare of wage earning women, and seeks to improve their working conditions, increase their efficiency and advance their opportunities for profitable employment.

Civil rights.—Ensures full compliance with title VI of the Civil Rights Act of 1964 and other regulatory nondiscrimination provisions in programs receiving financial assistance from the Department of Labor and promotes equal opportunity in these programs and activities. Ensures equal employment opportunity to all DOL employees and applicants for employment.

Chief financial officer.—Responsible for enhancing the level of knowledge and skills of Departmental staff working in financial management operations; developing comprehensive accounting and financial management policies; assuring that all DOL financial functions conform to applicable standards; providing leadership and coordination to DOL agencies' trust and benefit fund financial actions; monitoring the financial execution of the budget in relation to actual expenditures; developing programmatic performance indicators and reporting mechanisms; and managing a comprehensive training program for budget, accounting, and financial support staff.

State administration.—The Disabled Veterans Outreach Program provides intensive employability development services to secure permanent employment for veterans with service-connected disabilities and the most disadvantaged Vietnam-era veterans. Local Veterans Employment Representatives provide job development, placement, and supportive services directly to veterans and act as functional supervisors of the services provided veterans by other local office staff to ensure compliance with the performance standards for services to veterans.

Administration.—Identifies policies and programs to serve and meet employment and training needs of veterans. Assures the adequacy of counseling, testing, job training, and job placement services for veterans through monitoring, evaluating, and providing technical assistance and training to the delivery systems providing these services. Coordinates with the Department of Defense to ensure the provisions of labor market information and other services to military servicemembers separating from active duty to expedite their transition from military to civilian employment. Administers veterans job training programs under the Job Training Partnership Act. Promotes compliance of Federal contractors in listing jobs for veterans. Provides information and processes complaints to help veterans, reservists, and members of the National Guard obtain employment rights provided by law.

National Veterans Training Institute.—This program operates through a contract with the University of Colorado in Denver, Colorado, providing training to Federal and State employees who assist veterans in finding jobs.

Note.—Obligations incurred under allocations from other accounts are included in the schedules of the parent appropriations as follows:
General Services Administration, Salaries and Expenses.

GENERAL PROVISIONS

The following sections are proposed for deletion and do not appear below:

Sec. 100 ..... Directs the Department to issue a certain occupational health standard by a certain date.
Sec. 103 ..... Prohibits contracting the operation of certain Job Corps centers to certain nongovernmental entities.
Sec. 104 ..... Restricts the use of Job Corps funds for paying legal expenses in criminal cases.

SEC. [101] 100. Appropriations in this Act available for salaries and expenses shall be available for supplies, services, and rental of conference space within the District of Columbia, as the Secretary of Labor shall deem necessary for settlement of labor-management disputes.

SEC. [102] 101. None of the funds appropriated under this Act shall be used to grant variances, interim orders or letters of clarification to employers which will allow exposure of workers to chemicals or other workplace hazards in excess of existing Occupational Safety and Health Administration standards for the purpose of conducting experiments on workers health or safety. (Department of Labor Appropriations Act, 1992.)

TITLE V—GENERAL PROVISIONS

The following sections are proposed for deletion and do not appear below:

Sec. 506 ..... Provision, deemed unenforceable by agency General Counsels, prohibiting the Federal government from providing assistance to applicants to or students, teachers, or researchers at institutions of higher education who have used force to prohibit faculty from carrying out their duties.
Sec. 512 ..... Provision requiring absorption of pay within appropriated levels.
Sec. 513 ..... Reduces amounts appropriated for salaries and expenses in the Departments of Labor, Health and Human Services, and Education by specific amounts, and reduces amounts available for travel for the Public Health Service by a specific amount; provides additional appropriations for two independent agencies; and prohibits resources for carrying out certain functions from becoming available for obligation until September 30, 1992.

SEC. 501. The expenditure of any appropriation under this Act for any consulting service through procurement contract, pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 3109, shall be limited to those contracts where such expenditures are a matter of public record and available for public inspection, except where otherwise provided under existing law, or under existing Executive order issued pursuant to existing law.

SEC. 502. No part of any appropriation contained in this Act shall be expended by an executive agency, as referred to in the Office of Federal Procurement Policy Act (41 U.S.C. 401 et seq.), pursuant to any obligation for services by contract, unless such executive agency has awarded and entered into such contract in full compliance with such Act and regulations promulgated thereunder.

SEC. 503. Appropriations contained in this Act, available for salaries and expenses, shall be available for services as authorized by 5 U.S.C. 3109 but at rates for individuals not to exceed the per diem rate equivalent to the maximum rate payable for senior-level positions under 5 U.S.C. 5376.

SEC. 504. Appropriations contained in this Act, available for salaries and expenses, shall be available for uniforms or allowances therefor as authorized by law (5 U.S.C. 5901–5902).

SEC. 505. Appropriations contained in this Act, available for salaries and expenses, shall be available for expenses of attendance at meetings which are concerned with the functions or activities for which the appropriation is made or which will contribute to improved conduct, supervision, or management of those functions or activities.

SEC. [507] 506. The Secretaries of Labor, Health and Human Services, and Education are authorized to transfer unexpended balances of prior appropriations to accounts corresponding to current appropriations provided in this Act: Provided, That such transferred balances are used for the same purpose, and for the same periods of time, for which they were originally appropriated.

SEC. [508] 507. No part of any appropriation contained in this Act shall remain available for obligation beyond the current fiscal year unless expressly so provided herein.

SEC. [509] 508. (a) No part of any appropriation contained in this Act shall be used, other than for normal and recognized executive-legislative relationships, for publicity or propaganda purposes, for the preparation, distribution, or use of any kit, pamphlet, booklet, publication, radio, television, or film presentation designed to support or defeat legislation pending before the Congress, except in presentation to the Congress itself.

(b) No part of any appropriation contained in this Act shall be used to pay the salary or expenses of any grant or contract recipient, or agent acting for such recipient, related to any activity designed to influence legislation or appropriations pending before the Congress.

SEC. [510] 509. The Secretaries of Labor and Education are each authorized to make available not to exceed $7,500 from funds available for salaries and expenses under titles I and III, respectively, for official reception and representation expenses; the Director of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service is authorized to make available for official reception and representation expenses not to exceed $2,500 from the funds available for "Salaries and expenses, Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service"; and the Chairman of the National Mediation Board is authorized to make available for official reception and representation expenses not to exceed $2,500 from funds available for "Salaries and expenses, National Mediation Board".

SEC. [511] 510. When issuing statements, press releases, requests for proposals, bid solicitations and other documents describing projects or programs funded in whole or in part with Federal money, all grantees receiving Federal funds, including but not limited to State and local governments, shall clearly state (1) the percentage of the total costs of the program or project which will be financed with Federal money, (2) the dollar amount of Federal funds for the project or program, and (3) percentage and dollar amount of the total costs of the project or program that will be financed by nongovernmental sources.

SEC. 511. Within amounts appropriated for the Departments of Labor and Health and Human Services in this Act, up to $224,800,000 shall be available for neighborhood revitalization, as follows:

(a) in the "Alcohol, drug abuse, mental health" account, up to $93,800,000 from funds available for drug abuse treatment and prevention;

(b) in the "Health resources and services" account, up to $35,000,000 from funds available for community and migrant health centers;

(c) in the "ACF service programs" account, up to $54,000,000 from funds available for Head Start;

(d) in the "Training and employment services" account, up to $24,000,000 from funds available for part A of title II of the Job Training Partnership Act; up to $4,000,000 available for part B of title II of such Act; and up to $5,000,000 from funds available for youth demonstration projects; and

(e) in the "Community service employment for older Americans" account, up to $9,000,000 from funds available to carry out the activities for national grants or contracts with public agencies and public or private nonprofit organizations.

Amounts so designated in these accounts shall be available to carry out authorized activities, consistent with Section 112 of the Department of Justice and Related Agencies Appropriations Act, 1993, relating to the promotion of neighborhood revitalization. To carry out such activities, the Secretaries of Labor and Health and Human Services may waive any regulations or provisions of law restricting the distribution of funds. Each shall publish in the Federal Register notice of any such waivers as are necessary to carry out these activities. (Departments of Labor, Health and Human Services, and Education, and Related Agencies Appropriations Act, 1992.)
