BANK DEBITS

Aggregate debits to individual account, as reported for banks in 154 of the country's leading clearing house centers for the week ending January 5, were 10,535 millions, compared with 8,507 millions for the previous week, both weeks having five business days. Larger totals are reported for all the leading centers, the increase for New York City alone being more than 1,000 millions, due chiefly to the large volume of end-of-year payments of dividends, interest, and bonuses.

As compared with the corresponding week a year earlier, debits for the week under review were 180 millions larger, the increase for New York City banks alone being about 171 millions.
