BANK DEBITS

Volume of business, as measured by debits to individual accounts reported to the Federal Reserve Board for banks in 155 important clearing house centers for the week ending November 16, 1921, shows a relatively small increase of $186,000,000 compared with the preceding week's total. Substantial increases in debits are shown for New York, Philadelphia, Detroit, and Boston, while San Francisco and Chicago report materially smaller totals than for the week before.

As compared with the week ending November 17, 1920, the debits ^{for the week} under review show a decrease of $2,444,000,000 or about 25 per cent, this lag being practically the same as for the preceding week. Smaller figures as compared with last year are shown for all the leading centers.
