Federal Reserve Board,
Nov. 11, 1922.

BANK DEBITS.

Volume of business for the week ending November 8, as measured by debits to individual accounts reported to the Federal Reserve Board for banks in leading cities, totaled $8,213,000,000, or $1,480,000,000 less than for the preceding week. This large decrease is due to the fact that the week under review included Election day, observed as a bank holiday in most of the cities, in part also to the fact that the preceding week saw the regular end-of-month swell of bank debits. Nearly all the large centers report smaller totals than the week before, the principal exceptions being Boston, Washington and Atlanta, where the banks were not closed on Election day.

As compared with the corresponding week in 1921 the volume of business for the week under review shows an increase of $697,000,000, or of over 9 per cent, compared with an increase of 11 per cent shown the week before. Larger figures are shown for most of the centers, the principal increase, viz. by $495,000,000, being reported for the banks in New York City. Smaller totals are given for Baltimore, Chicago, St. Louis and San Francisco.

The total number of centers reporting this week is 249, of which 165 are included in the summary by Federal reserve districts.
