6/29-30/88

-3-

By unanimous vote, the following ranges for growth in the broader aggregates and nonfinancial debt for 1988 and the role of M1 were approved by the Committee:

The Federal Open Market Committee seeks monetary and financial conditions that will foster price stability over time, promote growth in output on a sustainable basis, and contribute to an improved pattern of international transactions. In furtherance of these objectives, the Committee reaffirmed at this meeting the ranges it had established in February for growth of 4 to 8 percent for both M2 and M3, measured from the fourth quarter of 1987 to the fourth quarter of 1988. The monitoring range for growth in total domestic nonfinancial debt was also maintained at 7 to 11 percent for the year.

With respect to M1, the Committee reaffirmed its decision in February not to establish a specific target for 1988 and also decided not to set a tentative range for 1989. The behavior of this aggregate will continue to be evaluated in the light of movements in its velocity, developments in the economy and financial markets, and the nature of emerging price pressures.

With Ms. Seger dissenting, the following longer-run policy for 1989 was approved by the Committee:

For 1989, the Committee agreed on tentative ranges for monetary growth, measured from the fourth quarter of 1988 to the fourth quarter of 1989, of 3 to 7 percent for M2 and 3-1/2 to 7-1/2 percent for M3. The Committee set the associated monitoring range for growth in total domestic nonfinancial debt at 6-1/2 to 10-1/2 percent. It was understood that all these ranges were provisional and that they would be reviewed in early 1989 in the light of intervening developments.

With Messrs. Angell and Kelley and Ms. Seger dissenting from the operational paragraph on policy implementation in the period immediately ahead, the Federal Reserve Bank of New York was authorized and directed, until otherwise directed by the Committee, to execute transactions in the System Account in accordance with the following domestic policy directive:

The information reviewed at this meeting suggests that economic activity has continued to expand at a fairly vigorous pace. Growth in total nonfarm payroll employment moderated somewhat in April and May. The civilian unemployment rate rose to 5.6 percent in May, a level just below its average in the first quarter. Industrial production advanced considerably in April and May. Retail sales were little changed on balance over the two months after rising appreciably in the first quarter. Available data indicate that business capital spending has remained at the high level reached in the first quarter. Housing starts fell sharply in May, but other indicators suggested little change in the pace of recent housing activity. The nominal U.S. merchandise trade deficit declined substantially in April, as imports dropped sharply and exports were essentially unchanged. Most measures indicate that prices and wages have risen somewhat more rapidly in recent months. Prices of a broad range of commodities, particularly agricultural goods, have increased sharply in the past few weeks.

Short-term interest rates have risen since the Committee's meeting on May 17, while bond yields have moved lower. The trade-weighted foreign exchange value of the dollar in terms of the other G-10 currencies appreciated considerably over the intermeeting period.

Expansion of M2 and M3 slowed considerably in May and M1 was about unchanged, but data available for June suggested some pickup in monetary growth. From a fourth-quarter base, M2 and M3 have grown at rates in the upper portion of the ranges established by the Committee for 1988. Expansion in total domestic nonfinancial debt for the year thus far appears to be at a pace somewhat below that in 1987.

The Federal Open Market Committee seeks monetary and financial conditions that will foster price stability over time, promote growth in output on a sustainable basis, and contribute to an improved pattern of international transactions. In furtherance of these objectives, the Committee reaffirmed at this meeting the ranges it had established in February for growth of 4 to 8 percent for both M2 and M3, measured from the fourth quarter of 1987 to the fourth quarter of 1988. The monitoring range for growth in total domestic nonfinancial debt was also maintained at 7 to 11 percent for the year.

For 1989, the Committee agreed on tentative ranges for monetary growth, measured from the fourth quarter of 1988 to the fourth quarter of 1989, of 3 to 7 percent for M2 and 3-1/2 to 7-1/2 percent for M3. The Committee set the associated monitoring range for growth in total domestic non-financial debt at 6-1/2 to 10-1/2 percent. It was understood that all these ranges were provisional and that they would be reviewed in early 1989 in the light of intervening developments.

With respect to M1, the Committee reaffirmed its decision in February not to establish a specific target for 1988 and also decided not to set a tentative range for 1989. The behavior of this aggregate will continue to be evaluated in the light of movements in its velocity, developments in the economy and financial markets, and the nature of emerging price pressures.

In the implementation of policy for the immediate future, the Committee seeks to increase slightly the existing degree of pressure on reserve positions. Taking account of indications of inflationary pressures, the strength of the business expansion, developments in foreign exchange and domestic financial markets, and the behavior of the monetary aggregates, somewhat greater reserve restraint would, or slightly lesser reserve restraint might, be acceptable in the intermeeting period. The contemplated reserve conditions are expected to be consistent with growth in M2 and M3 over the period from June through September at annual rates of about 5-1/2 and 7 percent, respectively. The Chairman may call for Committee consultation if it appears to the Manager for Domestic Operations that reserve conditions during the period before the next meeting are likely to be associated with a federal funds rate persistently outside a range of 5 to 9 percent.

It was agreed that the next meeting of the Committee would be held on Tuesday, August 16, 1988.

The meeting adjourned.

Secretary
