By unanimous vote, the open market transactions in Government securities, agency obligations, and bankers' acceptances during the period June 29 through July 26, 1971, were approved, ratified, and confirmed.

By unanimous vote, the Federal Reserve Bank of New York was authorized and directed, until otherwise directed by the Committee, to execute transactions in the System Account in accordance with the following current economic policy directive:

The information reviewed at this meeting suggests that moderate expansion in real output of goods and services is continuing and that unemployment remains substantial. Wage rates in most sectors are continuing to rise at a rapid pace. The rate of advance in both consumer prices and wholesale prices of industrial commodities has stepped up again recently after moderating earlier in the year. In the second quarter inflows of consumer-type time and savings funds at banks and nonbank thrift institutions were large, but below the unusually rapid first-quarter pace. Growth in bank credit and the broadly defined money stock slowed in the second quarter, but the rate of expansion in the narrowly defined money stock increased. In July, according to partial data, it appears that both bank credit and the narrowly defined money stock are growing at rates close to those of the second quarter, but that expansion in broadly defined money is slowing. While interest rates on most types of long-term market securities have changed relatively little on balance in recent weeks, short-term interest rates have risen further. In mid-July Federal Reserve discount rates were increased by one-quarter of a percentage point to 5 per cent. The deficit in the U.S. balance of payments remained extraordinarily large in the second quarter, mainly reflecting capital outflows related to expectations of shifts in foreign exchange rates and the development of a substantial deficit in the merchandise trade balance. In light of the foregoing developments, it is the policy of the Federal Open Market Committee to foster financial conditions conducive to sustainable economic growth, while encouraging an orderly reduction in the rate of inflation, moderation of short-term capital outflows, and attainment of reasonable equilibrium in the country's balance of payments.

To implement this policy, taking account of the current Treasury financing and of developments in capital markets, the Committee seeks to achieve more moderate growth in monetary aggregates over the months ahead. System open market operations until the next meeting of the Committee shall be conducted with a view to achieving bank reserve and money market conditions consistent with those objectives.

It was agreed that the next meeting of the Federal Open Market Committee would be held on Tuesday, August 24, 1971, at 9:30 a.m.

The meeting adjourned.

Deputy Secretary
