Interview with Mr. Floyd Harrison

March 2, 1954

Mr. Harrison is Mr. Eugene Meyers' confidential man, and Mr. Meyers suggested that we see him in regard to Mr. Meyers' papers. Mr. Harrison doubts very much if the diaries about which Miss Youngman spoke would contain any material concerning the Federal Reserve Bank. He thinks they belong to an earlier period. He himself was with Mr. Meyer both in the bank and in the War Loan Corporation. He started by saying that men's memories were very little account, and then he went on remembering one thing after another, with very vivid interest. Finally at the end he promised that he would look up Mr. Meyer's list of papers and send us a record of anything which concerned the Federal Reserve. He confirmed the fact that Mr. Hyman is writing Mr. Meyers' life.
