

COMMITTEE ON THE HISTORY OF THE FEDERAL RESERVE SYSTEM

Register of Papers

I

Processed: MA
Date: 11/18/55

JOHN FRANKLIN EBERSOLE

(1884 - 1945)

The papers of John F. Ebersole, economist, professor of economics and finance, bank director, Assistant Federal Reserve Agent in Minneapolis, are housed in the Baker Library at Harvard University. It is possible that others having to do with his work at the Federal Reserve Bank of Minneapolis may be incorporated in the files of that Bank, if they have not been destroyed as over age.

Measure of shelf space occupied: 7 file drawers

Approximate number of items:

The papers at the Baker Library may be used by qualified scholars by permission of the Library.

Biographical Note

1884, July 16            Born, North Tonawanda, New York

1907                    Ph.B., University of Chicago

1907-08                Instructor in history at Goshen College (Indiana)

1908, Aug. 27         Married Blanche Brenneman (5 children)

1909                    A.M., Harvard University

1909-11                Professor of Economics, Marquette University

1911-27                Assistant professor of economics, then of banking,
University of Minnesota

1917-20                Managing director, State Deposit Bank, Minneapolis

1920-27                Assistant Federal Reserve Agent, Federal Reserve
Bank of Minneapolis

1927-30                Economic adviser, U. S. Treasury

1930-45                Professor finance, then banking and finance, Harvard

1945, June 24         Died

Author of:             Bank Management, a Case Book. 1935. (Prentice Hall, 2nd edit.)

Banking for Beginners. 1917. (A.I.B.)

Money Management Powers of the Treasury and the Federal Reserve Banks. 1936. (Harvard Business Review)

See Who Was Who in America, 1943-50, vol. II, Marquis

Description of Series

Baker Library collection:

- 1 drawer correspondence with students
- 1 drawer containing materials for Business School cases
- 1 drawer on research notes
- 4 drawers miscellaneous material relating to various subjects and possibly including Federal Reserve data