May: Denies that the need of extra currency for handling the crops is an important cause of US banking troubles.

July: Attacks E. W. Kemmerer's "Seasonal Variations in the Demand for Money and Capital in the U.S." In particular, contends that the highest money rates have seldom come during the crop moving months. Urges that the N.Y. call loan market is not a true guide and denies that Western demands for N.Y. funds have been a cause of panic.

August: Denies that there is a great demand upon N.Y. to furnish money for moving the crops or that this demand is a cause of panics.
