Pearson, Frank A.

Gold and prices. (In: Proceedings of the Academy of Political Science, April 1934, p.37-45)

"If the various countries of the world re-establish an equilibrium in the price structure by changing their prices of gold, the next problem is to maintain that equilibrium. This can be accomplished by varying the price of gold inversely with the value of gold."

Warren, G. F. and Pearson, F. A.

Relationship of gold to prices. (In: Journal of the American Statistical Assn., March, 1933, pp. 118-126)

"No evidence has been found that credit management could have prevented a decline in commodity prices, or that 1929 commodity prices can be restored by credit management and still maintain the present price of gold."

Also a discussion of the article by E. W. Kemmerer, pp. 126-132.
