RESTORING CURRENCY STANDARDS. London: P. S. King
and Son, 1926. Pp. ix, 106.

3 early episodes in the history of currency are presented:
(a) the American continental currency, 1780-83;
(b) the assignats and mandats of French Revolution;
(c) depreciated banknotes of Austria, 1811-13.

In addition there is a short essay in conclusion, emphasizing the common elements in policy and in theory and bringing out the relation of these episodes to current problems.
