

FISHER, Irving

"The debt-deflation theory of great depressions," ECONOMETRICA,
October 1933.

21 pp.

FISHER, Irving

Debt-Deflation Theory of Great Depressions,
ECONOMETRICA,
1934, pp. 337-357.

FISHER, Irving

BOOMS AND DEPRESSIONS. SOME FIRST PRINCIPLES.
New York: Adelphi, 1932.

1932.

domestic price-stabilization policy
Swedish experiment

FISHER, Irving

BOOMS AND DEPRESSIONS: SOME FIRST
PRINCIPLES. New York: Adelphia, 1932.
Pp. xxi, 258.

Review: by R. T. Bowman, AMERICAN ECONOMIC REVIEW, XXIII,
March, 1933, pp. 127-28.

FISHER, Irving

"Our unstable dollar and the so-called
business cycle, JOURNAL OF THE AMERICAN BANKERS ASSOCIATION,

June, 1925.

Pp. 24.

A high correlation is found between fluctuations of the dollar and the volume of business in 1915-23. Prof. Fisher sees no reason to believe in the 'business cycle' since fluctuations in the volume of business can be ascribed to fluctuations in the dollar and special war influences, none of which are known to be cyclical or rhythmic in their movements. Abstract by W. O.

Weyforth, AMERICAN ECONOMIC REVIEW,
XV, September, 1925, p. 574.

FISHER, Irving

The business cycle largely a dance of the dollar, JOURNAL OF THE AMERICAN STATISTICAL ASSOCIATION,
June, 1925.

FISHER IRVING

"Our Unstable Dollar and the So-Called Business Cycle"
J.A.S.A. Vol XX, No. 149, June, 1925

FISHER, Irving

Our unstable dollar and the so-called business cycle, JOURNAL OF THE AMERICAN STATISTICAL ASSOCIATION,

June, 1925.

FISHER, Irving

Must we turn to free trade to assure continued prosperity?

New York,

1926. 4 pp.