Badger, S. C.

Our political dollar - the crime of '34,
silver bill the wedge to trip us off gold again?
(In: Barron's, May 2, 1934, p.3)

Suggests that the bill is a redundancy and can only mean inflation, but chiefly that since the silver probably will have to be bought on foreign markets it will force another valuation of the dollar in gold.

Salter, Arthur

The silver problem. (In: Political Science Quarterly, September 1931, p.321-339)
Substance of address before the Academy of Political Science, June 1, 1931.

Statistics exclude the hypothesis that the fall in silver is a major cause of the world depression.

Silver again. (In: The Banker, Feb. 1938, p. 120-25)

Discussion of the silver situation now and of the effects of the American silver policies.

Suggests that those countries interested in silver try to work out some plan for concerted action to uphold the price when the U.S. can no longer or does no longer support it.

Slater, H. C. G.

Something for silver. (In: The Banker, Sept. 1936, p. 205-11.)

Suggests that the President will devalue the silver dollar as he did the gold dollar and so provide a solution of the 3 to 1 ratio of gold to silver desired. The intent that silver be used more for money has been unattained and reversed in reality, with only India left on silver.

Silver. (In: The Banker, London, June 1935, p.183-89)

There is no doubt that the present price of silver is entirely artificial...and the bottom would fall out of the market on any reversal of American policy...America has "bumped off" the London agreement and the Indian government can hardly be expected to continue to sell silver now.
