WILLIAM HOWARD TAFT

(1857 - 1930)

The papers of William Howard Taft, lawyer, U. S. Circuit Judge, Governor of the Philippines, Secretary of War, President of the United States, Chief Justice of the Supreme Court, were given to the Library of Congress.

Measure of size: 539 containers

Approximate number of items:

The papers are open to scholarly research under Library of Congress restrictions.

"The main group of papers, comprising an estimated 500,000 letters and other items, is in the Library of Congress, and many official papers are in the National Archives. There are some papers also in the Southern Historical Collection of the University of North Carolina, the Hayes Memorial Library, the Ohio State Archaeological and Historical Society, the New York Public Library, the Cornell University Library, the University of Rochester Library, the Yale University Library, and the Michigan Historical Collections (University of Michigan).

Four volumes of Taft's speeches, Presidential addresses, and state papers have been published, but there has been no systematic publication of the correspondence and other manuscripts."

Description of Series

The 539 containers of Taft papers include 144 volumes of letter-press copies of correspondence dating from 1890 to 1921. Addresses and articles are bound in 42 volumes.

The main body of the Presidential papers was arranged in 3 separate files by Executive Office assistants and has been kept that way.

The Library has a temporary description of the various series into which the collection is divided, and a listing of letter press volumes by date. A more complete register is in preparation.
