Dear Mac:

There is a cold wind nowadays sweeping o'er the fairways of the Burning Tree. This makes some risk of contracting a chill and yet you, as well as I, need the health-giving exercise. The answer to this problem is warm woollens on the outside and good bourbon on the inside.

Herewith a couple of bottles of this medicine. Take in good dosages, either before or after the golf game, or both.

And in token of a valued friendship and much cooperation, I wish you and yours a merry Christmas and many happy New Years to come.

Cordially and sincerely,

Honorable Marvin McIntyre
