

December 29, 1934.

Dear Mr. Daiger:

I appreciated your having your nurse call me this morning, advising me how you were. I am sorry that you had a bad night but I am glad to know that your condition is as good as can be expected under the circumstances. I hope that each day will find you improving and that you will soon be back at the office with us.

In accordance with your request, I am sending you the book by Sturgis -- "Investments". I have tried to think of, and have inquired, whether or not there is something else which would be of interest to you today but have found nothing.

You, no doubt, get the newspapers and are following the only thing I know of which has been "exciting" (and possibly somewhat disturbing) -- meaning the publicity Glass is giving a few of our friends.

Mr. Eccles was glad to get word from you and to know that things are coming along okeh. Please have your nurse call us again and advise us of your condition.

Sincerely,

Mr. J. M. Daiger,
c/o Emergency Hospital,
Washington, D. C.
