Dear Sir

I have been very much interested in newspaper reports of your letter to Hon. Harry F. Byrd criticizing his Boston speech, and especially when you say you have seen no evidence to support Senator Byrd's charge that millions of able bodied citizens rely upon Government for support and have ceased to exert any effort for self help etc.

Any casual observer can substantiate Senator Byrd's charge:

As an humble voter and employe (not a business man) &

say to you that if the present system of ex-thorogant Coddling is not discontinued a very large part of the American people will become totally incapable of doing anything for them selves.

If less attention was given to social security and more to personal security we would all be very much better off and I like to believe that more people are realizing this every day.

We should be grateful to Senator Byrd for the great work he is doing

Very Respectfully
