

November 9, 1936.

My dear Henry:

I left for Philadelphia early Friday morning and spent the balance of the week in that city visiting the Federal Reserve Bank as well as a son and daughter who are attending school there. When I arrived at my office this morning my secretary advised me that you had called for me on the telephone Friday afternoon. I am sorry indeed that I was not in as I should have enjoyed having a talk with you.

I hope the next time you are in Washington you will get in touch with me so we can arrange to get together for a little visit.

With kindest personal regards,

Sincerely yours,

Honorable Henry B. Steagall,
Ozark, Alabama.
