Honorable Marriner S. Eccles
Chairman, Federal Reserve Board
Washington, D. C.

Dear Sir:

I have read with great interest some newspaper accounts of your recent testimony before the House Banking Committee, and would very much appreciate it if it would be possible for me to get a copy of this testimony.

Thanking you in advance, I am

Very truly yours,

D. H. Howie

Mr. David H. Howie,

Boston, Massachusetts.

Dear Mr. Howie:

As Mr. Eccles is temporarily absent and, as a matter of fact, is on a visit to the Boston Federal Reserve Bank, I wish to acknowledge receipt of your letter of June 29 requesting a copy of his testimony before the Banking and Currency Committee of the House.

I have seen nothing except preliminary and unrevised Committee prints, but understand the Committee is having the testimony printed in final form. We do not get copies in sufficient number to make them available, so that I would suggest you write directly to the clerk of the Committee or to Chairman Steagall.

Sincerely yours,

(Signed) Elliott Thurston

Dear Marriner:

Congratulations on the signing of your bill.

May I also express appreciation, for this bank at least, for your efforts in carrying through this legislation. The third provision of the bill is a real relief and, at the appropriate time, the second will be very useful.

Sincerely yours,

Honorable Marriner S. Eccles,

Dear mandolph:

Glad you approve of the bill just signed. I only wish that you were as enlightened on the matter of diversifying Treasury offerings specifically by the shorter or intermediate open end issues. Since you so clearly perceive the merits of this bill, I am encouraged to hope that you will also see only merit in other things I advocate from time to time. Anyway, I appreciate your thoughtful note.

Sincerely yours,

Dear Marriner:

After all, we have been so much in agreement on the major points of policy that we ought to be entitled to the luxury of minor differences of opinion, just so as not to be accused of collusion.

Sincerely yours,

My dear Mr. Chairman:

Discussion had been had several times concerning an important contribution you made on the subject of the Gold Reserve before the House Committee on Banking and Currency last month. If available, it would be appreciated if you will send me a complete copy of your remarks on that occasion.

Thanking you.

Sincerely,

EDWARD J. W. PROFFITT

Dear Mr. Proffitt:

This is to acknowledge your letter of July 28 in regard to testimony I gave before the Banking and Currency Committee of the House last month.

So far as I know the Committee has printed or intends to print the hearings, but I do not have any copies and would suggest accordingly that you might write directly to the Committee.

Sincerely yours,

M. S. Eccles,
Chairman.
