

July 29, 1947.

Dear Fred:

On glancing over the record of the discussion in the House on the question of continuing consumer instalment credit restraints, I was gratified, but not surprised, to note your characteristically informed part in that discussion. I could not refrain from sending you this word of appreciation.

May I take this occasion to say that I hope you will have a pleasant respite between the sessions of Congress.

Sincerely yours,

The Honorable Fred L. Crawford,
House of Representatives,
Washington, D. C.
