Dear Marriner:

I have had the pleasure of reading the address which you gave at the American Bankers Association meeting. I assure you that I enjoyed it immensely. I regard it as a masterful exposition of important matters of deep concern, not only to bankers but to the whole American people. I wish that it could be much more widely distributed and read than it is apt to be. It would broaden everyone's outlook and understanding of issues that are to press for solution and determination in the very near future. I am passing the manuscript around among some of my friends who have said they would be interested in reading it.

With kindest regards, I am

Sincerely yours,

Salt Lake City, Utah.

My dear Mr. Richards:

Mr. Eccles was very happy to learn from your letter of December 4th that you enjoyed reading the address which he gave before the American Bankers Association in New Orleans on November 14th.

Inasmuch as you are interested in showing it to some of your friends, he has asked me to send on to you ten more copies of it.

Very truly yours,

Secretary to Mr. M. S. Eccles.

Dear Marriner:

I received from Miss Egbert ten copies of your address before the American Bankers' Association. I am very happy to get these copies because I am sure that I can place them with a number of my friends who will be interested in reading them.

I hope you are well and enjoying your work. Please accept best wishes for a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year for yourself and family.

Sincerely yours,
