Dear Cam:

I am enclosing a copy of a letter which I received from Mr. Edmund G. S. Flannigan of the Elkins, Morris & Co., brokers in Philadelphia. You will note in the second paragraph of the letter that Mr. Flannigan says they will be very happy to have you visit their office and make use of their facilities in any way which might assist you in your school work. It is no doubt too late for you to avail yourself of this opportunity this year and it may be that your studies are such that access to a brokerage house would not be of assistance to you. However, you might keep it in mind for next year as you may find it helpful to visit a brokerage concern and see how they operate, as well as get other information for your school work.

I enjoyed very much having you along on the New York and Princeton trip and also my stop-over in Philadelphia. I hope you are applying yourself to your studies so that you will pass your final examinations with good marks.

I have advised Miss Egbert to forward your allowance check so that it will reach you Friday morning in time for your weekend activities.

We are all well here. We have not heard yet when aunt Jess and uncle Joe expect to arrive.

With love and best wishes,

Mr. Campbell Eccles,

Dear Governor Eccles:

Edgar J. Loftus and DeWitt C. Morris join me in expressing our pleasure in meeting with you and your son at the reception preceding the dinner Friday night at the Wharton Institute Conference. We also enjoyed your talk on "Monetary Management in the United States."

Our business was established in 1907 and we believe that we are considered a rather conservative house. We should be very happy to have your son visit our office and make use of our facilities in any way which might assist him in his school work.

We should be pleased to have you call on us in person whenever you may be in Philadelphia or otherwise if any occasion to do so may arise.

Respectfully yours,

Edmund S. S. Flannigan

My dear Mr. Flannigan:

I greatly appreciate your letter of May 11th advising me that you, Mr. Loftus and Mr. Morris enjoyed my address before the Wharton Institute Conference. My son and I were both glad of the opportunity to become acquainted with you and the other members of your firm.

I have advised my son of your thoughtful suggestion that he visit your office and make use of its facilities in any way which might assist him in his school work.

Very truly yours,

M. S. Eccles,
Chairman.
