

December 9, 1936.

Mr. Dudley Harmon,
Executive Vice President,
New England Council,
Statler Building,
Boston, Massachusetts.

My dear Mr. Harmon:

I am returning herewith corrected copies which I have had mimeographed of the talk which I gave before the Seventh New England Bank Management Conference at Boston on November 13th. I very sincerely regret having been delayed in revising the manuscript which you were good enough to send to me. As you know, it had not been my intention to have my remarks published since I did not prepare an address and spoke off the record, but in the form as revised it seems to me that there is no objection to making this public, especially since some of the matters which I undertook to discuss may be of some current interest to the banking community generally.

I greatly enjoyed the trip to Boston and was glad to have had the privilege of speaking before the Conference. I wish to express again my appreciation of the many courtesies extended to me.

Sincerely yours,

M. S. Eccles,
Chairman.
