OFFICE OF
FINANCIAL EDITOR

December 24, 1936

Mr. Elliott Thurston,
Federal Reserve Board,
Washington, D. C.

Dear Mr. Thurston:

I do not know whether or not I have been dropped from your mailing list, but I never received a copy of Mr. Eccles's speech in New England which, apparently, was released recently. I hope you can send me a copy.

With best wishes for the New Year.

Sincerely yours,

H. B. Elliston
Financial Editor

December 28, 1938.

Mr. H. B. Elliston, Financial Editor,
The Christian Science Monitor,
One, Norway Street,
Boston, Massachusetts.

Dear Mr. Elliston:

In accordance with your note of December 24th, I am sending you herewith a copy of Mr. Eccles' speech in Boston. This was intended to be off the record, but it was taken down by stenotype and he had a few copies mimeographed, but not for general distribution. It was not given out as a release and that is why you did not get it on the regular mailing list, from which you have definitely not been dropped.

Please let me reciprocate most heartily your good wishes for the New Year.

Sincerely yours,

Elliott Thurston,
Special Assistant to the Chairman.
