

January 4, 1937.

My dear Senator:

You were complimentary enough to say when we chanced to meet the other evening that you would like me to send you another copy of my talk to the New England bankers, which I am accordingly enclosing.

This was extemporaneous and intended to be off the record, but was taken down by stenotype and a copy furnished to me, as a result of which I inflicted mimeographed copies upon a few of my friends who I felt would be interested in the subjects discussed. Naturally I would feel honored if you could find time to glance through it since you are so thoroughly informed upon all of these matters, and your views and assistance are always of great value to me. I trust that I shall have a better opportunity than is afforded by our chance encounters in elevators to go over some of these matters of mutual interest with you during this winter.

Sincerely yours,

M. S. Eccles,
Chairman.

Honorable William Gibbs McAdoo,
