Dec. 27, 1937.

Mr. Marriner Eccles,
Washington, D. C.

My dear Mr. Eccles:

Will you kindly send me copy of your address made recently in Chicago?

I will appreciate this very much,
as I could find no newspaper with enough of the address printed to get an idea of its contents.

Very truly yours,

D. I. Van Ness

Dear Mr. Eccles:

I wonder if it is possible for me to secure seven copies of your address delivered on Dec. 14.
To my mind, it is the most logical statement made by a public man, which has fallen into my hands.

I would like these copies so that I may give them to men whom I know are trying to think.
In this section, the newspapers did not give much space
to this address.

Very truly yours,

D. I. Van Ness
