Dear Chairman Eccles:

I am writing to express to you my own personal appreciation and that of our Association for your contribution to the success of our convention in Atlantic City. I was very happy to learn that it was possible for you to come and to have the honor of presenting you to our membership.

Our little visit at the banquet was very enjoyable and I hope to have the privilege of calling on you in Washington sometime in the future.

With kind regards, I am

Cordially yours,

Dear Mr. Collins:

Your thoughtful note of May 18th with reference to my attendance at the Convention in Atlantic City is very much appreciated, the more so because I felt I had put the officers of the Association to a good deal of inconvenience in view of the late hour at which I decided it would be possible to attend, though I had first declined. It afforded me an opportunity to say some of the things that were weighing on my mind at this juncture and that I felt needed saying just at this time.

The arrangements which were made left nothing to be desired from my standpoint, and I especially appreciated your courtesy and enjoyed the opportunity to visit with you at the banquet. I trust I may have the privilege of seeing you when you are in Washington.

With kindest regards,

Sincerely yours,

Mr. Ferd I. Collins, President,
Bound Brook Trust Company,
Bound Brook, New Jersey.
