Dear Marriner:

Many thanks for the two copies of your speech on the postwar price problems which Bob Driscoll and I have both read with particular interest since the very delightful and informative evening we had with you last week in Washington.

As you well know, we folks at home are very proud of you and your accomplishments and the public service you are giving. It was good of you to take the time to spend an entire evening with us and I deeply appreciate the friendship which prompted it.

Best regards, and don't forget your promise to call me when you come in to New York.

Sincerely yours,
