NIGHT LETTER - COLLECT

January 27, 1942

Leland D. Case, Editor
The Rotarian
35 East Wacker Drive
Chicago, Illinois

Have no objection your using your adaptation of my New York address provided it appears as your report and not as article especially prepared by me.

M. S. Eccles.

January 27, 1942.

Mr. Leland D. Case, Editor,
The Rotarian,
35 East Wacker Drive,
Chicago, Illinois.

Dear Mr. Case:

Confirming his night letter of January 27, Mr. Eccles wishes to emphasize again that he would not want to appear to be sponsor for or author of a special article for "The Rotarian" and if he were to prepare such an article he would wish to make it more complete and well rounded than these excerpts. However, this is a well done abbreviation so far as it goes.

He has made a rule not to attempt to write special articles for magazines or the press because to do so in one case requires that all such requests be met, if he is to be fair to all comers, and time limitations prevent preparation of so much material. For this reason, he authorizes your use of the material you suggest, and which I am returning herewith, as if it were a report by you and not an article by him.

He asked me to say that your publication has a large influence and he appreciates your courtesy in submitting the material to him.

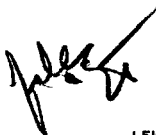

Sincerely yours,

(Signed) Elliott Thurston

Dear Mr. Thurston:

Illness prevented an earlier response to your good letter of January 27, in which you state Mr. Eccles' desire that the report of his speech to the New York Bankers be not adapted to article use for THE ROTARIAN.

This was indeed a disappointment to us, for I had hoped we would be able to present him to our readers. Possibly later on, on some other subject, an arrangement of that character can be materialized.

Inasmuch as he was advised of our plan for a discussion of income taxes for the March issue, it may interest him to learn that we have evolved a pro and con statement of a somewhat different character than has been done in the past. I shall send you an advance, marked copy, and trust that you will call it to his attention.

Very sincerely yours,

Editor

Dear Mr. Case:

I am sorry we could not use Mr. Eccles' talk to the New York State Bankers as an article for your magazine, but, as I told you, it was impossible to attempt to prepare a separate one and rather difficult to edit this extemporaneous effort sufficiently.

I shall be particularly interested in seeing the discussion of income taxes which you are getting together for the March issue, and I want to thank you in advance for sending me a copy. I shall see that it comes to the Chairman's attention.

Sincerely yours,

(Signature of Elliott Thurston)
