Hon. Marriner S. Eccles
Chairman, Board of Governors
Federal Reserve System
Washington, D. C.

Dear Mr. Eccles:

Dr. Brossard has just informed me that you have graciously consented to speak to the Inquirendo on the evening of March 8 on a topic of your choosing in connection with the financial condition of the United States. The members of the Inquirendo recall very vividly your previous talks and have expressed a keen desire to hear you this season.

If it is convenient for you, I should like to have you eat dinner with me and some other guests at the Cosmos Club that evening. In this way I can pick you up at your office or elsewhere and take you to the club and from there to the Inquirendo meeting at 8:15.

Very truly yours,

Lawrence Myers

Dear Mr. Myers:

This is to thank you for your note of January 20 inviting me to have dinner with you and some other guests at the Cosmos Club on March 8 before the meeting of the Inquirendo.

I very much appreciate your thoughtfulness, but as the date is so far in advance it is impossible for me to make a definite commitment for dinner at this time. If it would not inconvenience you or interfere with your plans, I am wondering if you could get in touch with me a day or two before that date, when it will be possible for me to know definitely whether I can be with you for dinner.

Sincerely yours,

Mr. Lawrence Myers,
