

March 7, 1950.

Mr. Max Carpenter, Manager,
Hotel Utah,
Salt Lake City, Utah.

Dear Max:

When I last saw you in Utah around the first of the year you asked me if I would be willing to speak to your Luncheon Club the next time I came west. I think you said you were Chairman of the Program Committee of the Kiwanis Club, and if I would speak you would also like to have some of the Chamber of Commerce people join you.

My present plans are to spend about two weeks in Utah, from March 26 or 27 to April 8. If any time during that period would meet with your plans I would be glad to address your group. I will appreciate your advising me here not later than the end of next week.

with kind personal regards,

Sincerely yours,

M. S. Eccles.

Dear Mr. Eccles:

Nothing has pleased me more than your letter dated March 7th in which you say that you will be happy to be a speaker at a joint luncheon of the Kiwanis and Chamber of Commerce during your visit here between the dates of March 26th or 27th to April 8th. I have talked to Gus Backman today as well as the officers of Kiwanis, and they are all very happy that you are coming and have scheduled you for March 30th. That is a Thursday, and it will be here at Hotel Utah.

I will be looking forward to seeing you when you arrive, and if you will let me know the exact date, suitable quarters will be at your disposal.

Kindest regards.

Sincerely,
