Dear Marriner:

After reading a number of adverse comments from the press on your recommendation to the Senate Banking and Currency Committee that they adopt a drastic tax measure to syphon off all capital gains it was indeed pleasing to read your statement for the press March 2nd, copy of which I received yesterday.

Personally, I find nothing wrong with your proposal. I think as you do it would be the most likely single thing that could be adopted to hold speculation in check.

Thank you for remembering to send me a copy of your statement.

With all good wishes for your welfare,

Sincerely yours,

W. W. Anderson
