Dear Mr. Eccles:

I take pleasure in enclosing herewith a marked copy of the April issue of our magazine which appears today, and desire to express my deepest appreciation for your courtesy and cooperation in making it possible for us to publish your statement relative to the proposed capital gains tax on real estate.

With kindest personal regards, I remain

Respectfully yours

Dear Mr. Blum:

This is to thank you for your letter of April 16 enclosing the marked copy of your April issue.

You certainly have presented this in an excellent manner, and I am glad to see it in print. It is very much appreciated.

Sincerely yours,

My dear Mr. Eccles:

Thank you very much for your kind note received this morning.

Being an average newspaper man and being unaccustomed
as yet to the "editorial chair" I overlooked an interesting detail which I now rectify.

I thought your statement very important to the realty interests of the country and was of course glad to publish it but I neglected to send you the wrapper in which we mailed the magazine to our subscribers. I am therefore enclosing it herewith to indicate the importance we gave the article here in New York.

Please accept my assurances of appreciation and esteem.

Sincerely yours

A. Coleman Blum.

Dear Mr. Blum:

This is to thank you for your letter of April 23 enclosing the wrapper calling attention to that statement of mine on page 7 of your April issue. That's a very striking way of calling attention to an article, and I again wish to express my appreciation of your courtesy.

Sincerely yours,

M. S. Eccles,
Chairman.
