

UNITED STATES DEPARTMENT OF THE TREASURY
SIXTH TRANCHE REPORT TO CONGRESS
APRIL 24, 2009

I. INTRODUCTION

This Sixth Tranche Report to Congress meets the requirement for reporting at the $350 billion commitment level under section 105(b) of the Emergency Economic Stabilization Act of 2008 (EESA). Recent transactions under the Auto Supplier Support Program, Consumer and Business Lending Initiative, Home Affordable Modification Program, and Systemically Significant Failing Institutions Program, when combined with $3.6 billion of transactions under the Capital Purchase Program, bring the total investment amount to $376.7 billion as April 17, 2009. Treasury will submit the next report when transactions reach the $400 billion level.

The Report addresses the following six areas:

- A description of all the transactions made during the reporting period.
- A description of the pricing mechanism for the transactions.
- A justification of the price paid for, and other financial terms associated with, the transactions.
- A description of the impact of the exercise of such authority on the financial system.
- A description of the challenges that remain in the financial system, including any benchmarks yet to be achieved.
- An estimate of additional actions under the authority provided pursuant to the EESA that may be necessary to address such challenges.

II. TRANSACTION INFORMATION BY PROGRAM

This Sixth Tranche Report describes transactions under five programs: the Automotive Industry Financing Program, Capital Purchase Program, Consumer and Business Lending Initiative, Home Affordable Modification Program, and the Systemically Significant Failing Institutions Program. A report listing all transactions under the Troubled Asset Relief Program (TARP) is attached as the Appendix and is posted on Treasury's web site.

Automotive Industry Financing Program

On March 19, 2009, Treasury released details and eligibility information for the Auto Supplier Support Program, which is part of the Automotive Industry Financing Program. The Auto Supplier Support Program provides domestic auto suppliers access to government-backed protection for accounts receivable attributable to products they ship to participating auto manufacturers. Participating suppliers are able to sell their receivables into the program for payment at maturity at a modest discount or enhance their liquidity by selling the receivables before maturity for an additional discount. The program is expected to help increase liquidity in the supplier industry.

Any supplier that ships to a participating auto manufacturer on qualifying commercial terms is eligible to be selected for participation in the program. Participating auto manufacturers decide which suppliers and receivables receive protection under the program.

General Motors Corporation and Chrysler LLC have elected to participate in the Auto Supplier Support Program. Under the program, Treasury, through the TARP, will provide up to $5 billion of funding through the purchase of debt obligations from special purpose limited liability companies (SPLLC) established by GM and Chrysler. Each SPLLC received an allocation of the funding from Treasury to provide government backing for supplier receivables, and each was required to make a financial commitment of its own funds equal to five percent of the allocation it received from Treasury pursuant to the TARP. A third-party servicer administers the program for each manufacturer. The programs were launched on April 8, 2009. Receivables for goods shipped after March 19, 2009 are eligible for the program.

These efforts, backed by TARP resources, will help stabilize the auto supply base and restore credit flows in a critical sector that employs more than 500,000 American workers across the country (though eligible suppliers may also include suppliers that are not domiciled in the United States). During this difficult period of restructuring in the auto industry, the Auto Supplier Support Program will provide supply companies access to liquidity and protect American jobs while giving GM and Chrysler reliable access to the parts they need.

Capital Purchase Program

The purpose of the Capital Purchase Program (CPP) is to stabilize the financial system by building the capital base of healthy, viable U.S. financial institutions, which in turn will increase the capacity of those institutions to lend to businesses and consumers and support the economy. Under this program, Treasury is purchasing senior preferred shares from qualifying U.S. controlled banks, savings associations, and certain bank and savings and loan holding companies.

Since Treasury's Fifth Tranche Report to Congress published on February 6, 2009, Treasury has closed $3.6 billion in transactions under the CPP, bringing the total amount of funds disbursed under the CPP to $198.9 billion. Treasury has completed CPP transactions with 553 United States financial institutions and Community Development Financial Institutions in 48 states, Puerto Rico, and the District of Columbia.

The provisions in the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act of 2009 allow CPP participating banks to repay capital to Treasury without having to raise equivalent capital as stated in the CPP agreements, subject to consultation with their appropriate Federal banking agency. As of April 17, 2009, Treasury had received $467 million in principal and $3.1 million in accrued dividends associated with repayments. In addition, Treasury received $750,000 in proceeds from the sale of preferred shares associated with the exercise of warrants at closing. Treasury will continue to work with federal banking regulators to evaluate requests from CPP participants interested in repaying Treasury.

Complete details about the CPP are available at:
<http://www.financialstability.gov/impact/index.html>.

Consumer and Business Lending Initiative

The Consumer Business and Lending Initiative (CBLI) is designed to jumpstart secondary markets to make credit available. On March 3, 2009, as part of the CBLI, Treasury, the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System (Federal Reserve), and the Federal Reserve Bank of New York (FRBNY) launched the Term Asset-Backed Securities Loan Facility (TALF), which was first announced in November 2008, and released further details, including program terms and conditions and Q&As for the first funding of TALF loans to eligible borrowers. The TALF is a FRBNY facility designed to increase credit availability and support economic activity by facilitating renewed issuance of consumer and small business asset-backed securities (ABS) at more normal interest rate spreads.

Specifically, the FRBNY will lend on a non-recourse basis to holders of certain AAA-rated ABS secured by newly and recently originated consumer and small business loans. If the TALF borrower defaults on its loan with the FRBNY or voluntarily surrenders the collateral securing such loan, the FRBNY will sell that collateral to an asset disposition vehicle (TALF LLC) at a price equal to the TALF loan plus accrued but unpaid interest. Treasury, through the TARP, will purchase subordinated debt issued by TALF LLC to finance the first $20 billion of these asset purchases. Additional purchases of these assets in excess of Treasury's $20 billion subordinated debt will be financed by the FRBNY.

The TALF loans made by the FRBNY have a term of three years and are secured solely by eligible collateral. Haircuts – the percentage of the collateral value that must be advanced by the borrower – have been determined based on the riskiness of each type of eligible collateral and the maturity of the eligible collateral pledged to the FRBNY. The haircuts provide additional protection to taxpayers by protecting the Federal Government from loss. An additional credit protection measure includes excess loan spread from the TALF loans that is passed through to TALF LLC.

Complete details about the CBLI are available at:
<http://www.financialstability.gov/roadtostability/lendinginitiative.html>.

Home Affordable Modification Program

On March 4, 2009, Treasury issued preliminary guidelines on a new program, the Home Affordable Modification Program (HAMP). Final program guidelines and Servicer Participation Agreements were released on April 13, 2009. This program, along with the Home Affordable Refinance Program, was announced as part of the Administration's Homeowner Affordability and Stability Plan in February 2009. HAMP is a $50 billion homeowner stability initiative designed to offer assistance to as many as three to four million homeowners making a good-faith effort to pay their mortgages, helping to prevent the destructive impact of foreclosures on families and communities. The program will help borrowers avoid foreclosure by encouraging mortgage loan servicers to modify at-risk mortgage loans to achieve a payment the borrower can afford.

Borrowers must meet several eligibility criteria to participate in the program and must successfully complete a three-month trial modification period successfully prior to the modification becoming permanent. These requirements are designed to protect the taxpayers and ensure sound loan modifications. To encourage foreclosure mitigation efforts, fees and incentive payments are provided to the servicers, lender/investors, and borrowers. Servicers will receive an up-front payment of $1,000 when a modification becomes permanent and “pay for success” payments of $1,000 per year for eligible loan modifications for up to three years. The program also will provide one-time bonus incentive payments of $1,500 to lenders/investors and $500 to servicers for modifications made while a borrower is still current on mortgage payments. Additionally, all borrowers are eligible for up to $1,000 of principal reduction payments each year for five years as long as they remain current on their monthly modified mortgage payments.

Fannie Mae and Freddie Mac are responsible for administering the program and monitoring servicer compliance with the program guidelines, subject to oversight by Treasury.

Servicer funding for the HAMP began on April 13, 2009 and, already, over $13 billion (of a total potential allocation of $50 billion) have been allocated to implement the program.

Complete details for HAMP are available at <http://www.makinghomeaffordable.gov> and <http://www.financialstability.gov/roadtostability/homeowner.html>.

Systemically Significant Failing Institutions Program

The Systemically Significant Failing Institution (SSFI) Program is intended to provide stability and prevent disruptions to financial markets from the failure of a systemically significant institution. Treasury provided its second round of assistance to American International Group (AIG) under the SSFI Program in the form of a conversion of Treasury’s existing $40 billion investment from cumulative to non-cumulative preferred stock and a new commitment to invest up to $29.835 billion on April 17, 2009.

The latest round of assistance involved a restructuring and expansion of Treasury’s assistance to AIG through the TARP with the goal of enhancing the company’s capital and liquidity in order to stabilize the company and facilitate the orderly completion of its global divestiture program. Specific components of the restructuring include:

- Treasury exchanged its existing $40 billion cumulative perpetual preferred shares for new non-cumulative preferred shares with revised terms that more closely resemble common equity, improving the quality of AIG’s equity and its financial leverage. The new terms provide for non-cumulative dividends and limit AIG’s ability to redeem the preferred stock, except with the proceeds from the issuance of equity capital.
- Treasury’s purchase of additional preferred stock of AIG created a new equity capital facility, which will allow AIG to draw up to $29.835 billion (Treasury’s commitment to invest up to $30 billion less a reduction of $165 million for retention payments AIG Financial Products made to its employees in March 2009) as needed over time. This facility will further strengthen AIG's capital levels and improve its leverage.

- The Federal Reserve took several actions relating to the Revolving Credit Facility for AIG, established in September 2008, to further the goals described above.
- As required by the credit agreement governing the Revolving Credit Facility, on March 4, 2009, AIG issued shares of convertible preferred stock representing an approximate 77.9 percent equity interest in AIG to an independent trust for the sole benefit of Treasury.

Complete information on the AIG restructuring plan is available at:

III. ASSESSMENT OF CURRENT MEASURES AND THE CHALLENGES AHEAD

Impact of the Transactions

Treasury continues to develop, launch, and implement programs under the TARP, which are designed to restore stability and liquidity to the U.S. financial system while safeguarding taxpayer interests. In this period of unprecedented market instability, Treasury remains focused on providing support to financial institutions, increasing credit availability, and preventing the disorderly collapse of systemically significant institutions.

Treasury expects the Auto Supplier Support Program to maintain supplies of parts to GM and Chrysler on normal commercial terms while they attempt to restructure their businesses, and to help unlock credit in the supplier industry, stabilize the auto supply base, and protect jobs in the auto industry.

Since the inception of the CPP in October 2008, Treasury has strengthened small and large regional and national financial institutions, as well as Community Development Financial Institutions, through total CPP investments of $198.9 billion in 553 institutions in 48 states, Puerto Rico, and the District of Columbia. As of April 17, 2009, Treasury had received $467 million in principal and $3.1 million in accrued dividends associated with repayments. In addition, Treasury received $750,000 in proceeds from the sale of preferred stock associated with the exercise of warrants at closing.

On April 15, 2009, Treasury released the Monthly Intermediation Snapshot for February, providing detailed information regarding the lending activities of the top 21 recipients of government investment through the CPP. Snapshot results showed that the nation's largest banks continued to originate, refinance, and renew loans in the period from January to February, despite a difficult economic environment. Specifically, the survey found that residential mortgage origination volume increased from January as a result of lower interest rates. In contrast, commercial and industrial lending continued to weaken from the prior month due in large part to lower demand from businesses, which were focused on preserving liquidity and strengthening their balance sheets. Uncertain economic conditions have resulted in borrowers reducing expenses, paying down debt and delaying expenditures. These surveys continue to help Treasury monitor the effects its strategy is having on lending and other bank activities.

In addition to supporting financial institutions, Treasury, in coordination with the Federal Reserve, has taken steps to increase credit availability to consumers and businesses. On March 3, 2009, Treasury committed to provide up to $20 billion in funding to the Term Asset-Backed Securities Loan Facility (TALF), a component of the Consumer and Business Lending Initiative (CBLI), which is designed to jumpstart credit markets. Total subscriptions received for the first funding of TALF loans from eligible borrowers at the March 17-19 operation was $4.7 billion. Funding for those loans, which provided increased liquidity for consumer credit by stimulating issuance of new consumer ABS, took place on March 25, 2009.

To promote accountability and oversight for the current facility, the FRBNY has established a compliance framework that includes an assurance program related to borrower eligibility requirements and on-site inspection rights over borrowers. In addition, the participating sponsor must certify that the collateral supporting the ABS is eligible under TALF and that an independent accounting firm registered with the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board has attested to the sponsor's assessment of the eligible collateral.

On March 24, 2009, the FRBNY published the dates for the second funding of TALF loans, which took place on April 7. The FRBNY also announced that the TALF will expand in the future to include four additional categories of ABS: (1) ABS backed by mortgage servicing advances; (2) ABS backed by loans or leases relating to business equipment; (3) ABS backed by leases of vehicle fleets; and (4) ABS backed by floorplan loans.

The Home Affordable Modification Program, as part of the Administration's Homeowner Affordability and Stability Plan, will assist as many as three to four million homeowners making a good-faith effort to stay current on their mortgage payments and will also work to prevent the destructive impact of foreclosures on families and communities.

Treasury's commitment to restructure its existing investment in American International Group (AIG) and to invest up to an additional $29.835 billion (Treasury's commitment to invest up to $30 billion less a reduction of $165 million for retention payments AIG Financial Products made to its employees in March 2009) was necessary to provide stability and prevent disruption to the financial system. On April 17, 2009, Treasury closed these transactions, which will serve to strengthen AIG's capital levels, improve its leverage, and facilitate the orderly completion of its global divestiture program.

Challenges That Lie Ahead

During this period of unprecedented market challenges, Treasury is actively engaged in developing, launching, and implementing programs to stabilize the financial system and continues to take steps to better measure whether the programs are increasing the flow of credit to consumers and businesses. In February 2009, the Administration announced the Financial Stability Plan (FSP), a multi-pronged approach aimed at economic recovery, which includes the following strategies: (1) a broad program to stabilize the housing market by encouraging lower mortgage rates and making it easier for millions to refinance and avoid foreclosure; (2) a new capital program under which Treasury stands ready to provide banks with a safeguard to establish a capital buffer they would need against a deeper recession; (3) an expansion of TALF targeted at the securitization markets critical for consumer and small business lending; (4) a program to set up funds to provide a market for the legacy loans and securities that currently burden the financial system; and (5) a small-business lending initiative aimed at providing increased funding for this important part of our economy.

While there is no single action the Federal Government can take to end the financial market turmoil and the economic downturn, the authorities Congress provided last fall in EESA dramatically expanded the tools available to address the needs of the nation's financial system. Treasury is committed to ensuring that a financial crisis of this magnitude does not happen again. In that regard, the crisis of the past 18 months has exposed critical gaps and weaknesses in the nation's financial regulatory system. The lack of an appropriate and modern regulatory regime and resolution authority contributed to this crisis and it will continue to constrain the Federal Government's capacity to address future crises until we implement fundamental reforms. While many challenges lie ahead, Treasury is confident that its continued efforts through existing and future programs to restore financial stability, as announced in the FSP, will lay a strong foundation for economic recovery and market stability. Treasury is working with the President's Working Group to develop a comprehensive plan of reform.

Additional Actions

In its continued effort to ensure participation by a broad range of financial institutions in the CPP, Treasury recently issued four term sheets covering mutual holding companies and mutual banks. The first term sheet provided for issuance of preferred stock at publicly-traded subsidiary holding companies. The second term sheet provided for issuance of preferred stock at privately held subsidiary holding companies. The third term sheet provided for issuance of debt by top-tier mutual holding companies that do not have subsidiary holding companies. The fourth term sheet provided for issuance of debt by mutual banks that do not have holding companies. The application deadline for the first three terms sheets to apply to the CPP is May 7, 2009 and the deadline for the fourth term sheet is May 14, 2009. The federal banking agencies are evaluating all submitted CPP applications and continue to send qualifying applications to Treasury for approval.

On March 23, 2009, Treasury announced the Public-Private Investment Program (PPIP) under which Treasury will make targeted investments in multiple public-private investment funds in order to purchase legacy real estate-related assets. PPIP will use $75 to $100 billion in TARP capital and capital from private investors to generate up to $500 billion in purchasing power to buy these assets, with the potential to expand to $1 trillion over time.

The PPIP is designed to draw new private capital into the market for legacy assets by providing government equity co-investment and attractive public financing. This program should allow the market to determine the price of an asset and should help, over time, to reduce the excessive liquidity discounts embedded in current legacy asset prices. Reducing these discounts should, in turn, free up capital and allow U.S. financial institutions to engage in new credit formation.

Furthermore, enhanced clarity about the value of legacy assets should increase investor confidence and enhance the ability of financial institutions to raise new capital from private investors.

The primary areas of focus for the PPIP are the residential and commercial mortgage sectors, including both whole loans and securitizations backed by loan portfolios. These legacy assets are held by all types of financial institutions, including those that predominantly hold the assets in the form of loans, such as banks, and those that predominantly hold assets in the form of securities, such as insurers, pension funds, mutual funds, and individual retirement accounts. While PPIP may initially target real estate-related assets, it can evolve, based on market demand, to include other asset classes.

The PPIP will operate through two key components: (1) a Legacy Loans Program, which will combine a Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (FDIC) guarantee of debt financing with equity capital from the private sector and Treasury to support the purchase of legacy loans from insured depository institutions; and (2) a Legacy Securities Program, which will be a stand-alone Treasury program that will make equity and debt investments in pre-qualified Funds and may allow for additional financing from the Federal Reserve through the Legacy TALF (when it becomes operational).

On March 31, 2009, as part of its assessment of the viability plans submitted by GM and Chrysler, the Administration announced the Warranty Commitment Program, which is part of the Automotive Industry Financing Program. The Warranty Commitment Program will provide government-funded protection for warranties issued by auto manufacturers that are in the process of restructuring. The program will cover warranties on new vehicles purchased from participating auto manufacturers during the period in which those manufacturers are restructuring. Both GM and Chrysler have already indicated their intention to participate in the program.
