

Update December 31, 2011

Troubled Asset Relief Program Office of Financial Stability

The United States Department of the Treasury (Treasury) is pleased to present this supplement to the Warrant Disposition Report dated December 31, 2010 with information about the 27 warrant repurchases, 2 public warrant auctions, and 17 private placement auctions that Treasury's Office of Financial Stability (OFS) conducted under the Troubled Asset Relief Program (TARP) in the six months ending December 31, 2011.<sup>1</sup>

Executive Summary

The Emergency Economic Stabilization Act of 2008 (EESA) requires that in most circumstances Treasury receive warrants in connection with the purchase of troubled assets.

Major parts of TARP were the Capital Purchase Program (CPP) and the Targeted Investment Program (TIP). Under these programs, Treasury invested $245 billion in 707 financial institutions.

Treasury's warrant sales provide additional returns beyond dividend payments from Treasury's preferred stock investments. Treasury's successful warrant dispositions have significantly benefited taxpayers. During the six months ending December 31, 2011, Treasury received more than $70.3 million in gross proceeds from the disposition of 46 warrant positions through repurchases and public and private auctions.<sup>2</sup>

Since the program's inception, Treasury has received more than $9.2 billion in gross proceeds from the disposition of warrants associated with 127 CPP investments and 2 TIP investments,<sup>3</sup> consisting of (i) $3.7 billion from issuer repurchases at agreed upon fair market values and (ii) $5.4 billion from auctions. For the 140 fully repaid CPP investments representing $225.4 billion in capital, Treasury has received an absolute return of 8.50% from dividends and capital appreciation on Citigroup common stock and an added 4.07% return from the sale of the warrants for a total absolute return of 12.57%.<sup>4</sup> For the $40 billion TIP investment in Bank of America Corporation and Citigroup, Treasury received an absolute return of 4.95% from dividends and an added 4.07% return from the sale of the warrants for a total absolute return of 9.02%.

Repurchases

Upon repaying its TARP preferred stock investment, a financial institution may repurchase its warrants at an agreed upon fair market value. In all cases, Treasury follows a consistent evaluation process to ensure that taxpayers receive fair market values for the warrants. In the six months ending December 31, 2011, Treasury received $23.5 million from 27 banks through warrant repurchases at agreed upon fair market values.

Auctions

If an institution decides not to repurchase its warrants, Treasury has determined to dispose of the warrants as soon as practicable. Treasury has been successful in effectively disposing of warrants at fair market values through public and private auctions.

In the 24 public warrant auctions held to date, investor demand above Treasury's minimum price has exceeded the supply of warrant shares by an average of 6.9 times with oversubscription rates ranging from 2.0 to 18.3 times. These publicly auctioned warrants are actively traded on national exchanges, providing a liquid secondary market and observable market pricing for long-dated warrants. In the six months ending December 31, 2011, Treasury auctioned two more warrant positions in public offerings, generating over $34.1 million in proceeds.

Treasury also sells warrants through a private placement auction when the expected proceeds of the warrant sale do not justify the fixed cost, both to the issuing institution and the Treasury, of a registered transaction or when the warrant position does not meet certain requirements for listing on the relevant exchange.

<sup>3</sup> For the purposes of this report, warrants in Citigroup acquired in connection with the Asset Guarantee Program are incorporated with the Citigroup TIP warrants.

Each private sale of warrants uses an auction to establish a clearing price for each warrant position by allowing qualified bidders to submit bids at or above a minimum price specified for each warrant position. Each warrant position is sold to a single winning bidder. Treasury executed the first and, thus far, only tranche of private placement auctions for 17 warrant positions on November 17, 2011, generating gross proceeds of $12.7 million. Treasury expects to conduct similar auctions in the future for other warrant positions it holds in financial institutions that have repaid CPP.

Remaining Positions

As of December 31, 2011, Treasury held warrants to purchase common stock in 17 financial institutions that have fully repaid their CPP investments and in 146 publicly traded companies in which the CPP investment is still outstanding. Treasury intends to continue to execute a consistent and transparent disposition process which achieves fair market values and protects taxpayer interests.

The table below sets forth proceeds from 27 warrant repurchases, 2 public warrant auctions, and 17 private placement auctions completed during the six months ending December 31, 2011.

WARRANT DISPOSITION REPORT - UPDATE DECEMBER 31, 2011

3

Background

As required by EESA, Treasury received warrants from TARP banks to provide taxpayers with an additional potential return on the government's investment.<sup>5</sup>

For each CPP and TIP investment in a publicly traded company, Treasury received warrants to purchase, at a fixed exercise price, shares of common stock equal to 15 percent of the aggregate liquidation preference of the senior preferred investment.<sup>6</sup> The per share exercise price was set at the 20-trading day trailing average of the bank's common stock price as of the time it was given preliminary approval for the TARP investment. The warrants may be exercised at any time over a ten year period. These public warrants include certain customary anti-dilution provisions for Treasury's protection.

For CPP investments in a privately-held company, an S-corporation, or certain mutual institutions, Treasury received warrants to purchase, at a nominal cost, additional preferred stock (warrant preferreds) or subordinated debentures (warrant sub debt) equivalent to five percent of the aggregate liquidation preference of the primary CPP investment. These warrant preferreds and warrant sub debt securities pay a higher dividend or interest rate than the primary CPP investment. Treasury exercised these kinds of warrants at the closings of the investments.

Institutions may repay Treasury for its CPP investment under the conditions established in the CPP purchase agreements as amended by the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act of 2009 (ARRA). The repayment price is equal to what Treasury invested, plus any unpaid dividends or interest. Originally, the CPP contracts provided that an institution could not redeem the investment within the first three years except with the proceeds of a "qualified equity offering" (QEO), which is an offering of securities that would qualify as Tier 1 capital. The repayment terms of the contracts were later effectively amended by the ARRA, which provides that an institution can repay from any source of funds and without regard to any waiting period. For TIP investments, an institution was required to first redeem its CPP investment before being able to redeem the TIP preferred stock.<sup>7</sup>

In addition, in order to encourage institutions to seek additional private capital, the CPP contracts provided that participants could halve the number of shares subject to their warrants by completing one or more QEOs before December 31, 2009 with aggregate gross proceeds equivalent to the value of Treasury's CPP investment. Thirty-eight CPP participants completed a QEO in time to reduce their warrants.

The CPP and TIP contracts further provide that once the preferred investment is redeemed or sold by Treasury, the institution has a right to repurchase its warrants at the fair market value. In addition, Treasury has the contractual right to sell the warrants.

The ARRA affected Treasury's authority to dispose of warrants, as it provided that when an institution repaid, "the Secretary shall liquidate warrants [of such institution]... at the current market price." The ARRA was subsequently amended in May 2009 through the Helping Families Save Their Homes Act of 2009 (HFSTHA), which provides that the Secretary "may liquidate the warrants" following repayment.

Δ

<sup>5</sup> EESA provides that the Secretary may establish a "de minimis" exception to the requirement to issue warrants in the case of an institution that receives less than $100 million in TARP funds. Treasury has exercised that authority by not requiring warrants in the case of investments in Community Development Financial Institutions in order to encourage their participation in CPP.

<sup>6</sup> Treasury received warrants in Citigroup to purchase, at a fixed exercise price, shares of common stock equal to 10 percent of the aggregate liquidation preference of the senior preferred stock received by Treasury in connection with Citigroup's participation in the Asset Guarantee Program.

<sup>7</sup> Bank of America redeemed both its CPP and TIP on December 9, 2009. With regards to Citigroup, i) on December 23, 2009, Citigroup redeemed the trust preferred securities that Treasury had received in exchange for the original TIP preferred stock in Citigroup, ii) on September 30, 2010, Treasury sold its remaining trust preferred securities in Citigroup that Treasury had received in exchange for the original AGP preferred stock, and iii) on December 6, 2010, Treasury completed the sale of the common stock that it had received in exchange for its CPP investment in the Citigroup.

Warrant Disposition Process

Upon redemption of the preferred stock issued to Treasury, an institution has a contractual right to repurchase its warrants at the fair market value.<sup>8</sup> The banks have 15 days from repayment of the preferred to submit a bid, and Treasury then has 10 days to respond. In June 2009, Treasury announced that, in the event that an issuer does not repurchase its warrants, Treasury would sell the warrants to third parties "as quickly as practicable" and, when possible, by public auction.

Issuer Repurchases

If a company wishes to repurchase its warrants, the issuer and Treasury must agree on the warrants' fair market value. Accordingly, Treasury has established a methodology for evaluating a bank's determination of fair market value. As described below, Treasury's evaluation of an issuer's bid is based on three categories of input: (i) market quotes, (ii) independent, third party valuations, and (iii) model valuations.

If the issuer and Treasury fail to agree on a price, an appraisal procedure may be invoked by either party within 30 days following Treasury's response to the issuer's first bid. In the appraisal process, each party selects an independent appraiser. These independent appraisers conduct their own valuations and attempt to agree upon the fair market value. If they agree on a fair market value, that valuation becomes the basis for repurchase. If these appraisers fail to agree, a third appraiser is hired, and subject to some limitations, a composite valuation of the three appraisals is used to establish the fair market value. To date, no institution has invoked the appraisal procedure.

Even if an agreement is not reached within the specified timeframe, a bank that has repaid its preferred stock may bid to repurchase its warrants at any time, and Treasury will determine whether to accept the bid.

Sale to Third Party

Treasury retains the right to sell the warrants to a third party at a mutually agreed upon price. Following repayment of the preferred stock, if a bank notifies Treasury that it does not intend to repurchase its warrants or cannot agree with Treasury on the fair market value, Treasury intends to dispose of the warrants, when possible, through public auctions.

Treasury held the first warrant auctions in December 2009 and has held 24 public auctions to date. These public auctions were conducted as modified "Dutch" auctions which were registered under the Securities Act of 1933. Only one bank's warrants were sold in each public auction. In this format, bidders were able to submit one or more independent bids at different price-quantity combinations and the warrants were sold at a uniform price that cleared the auction.

Treasury executed the first and, thus far, only tranche of private placement auctions for 17 warrant positions on November 17, 2011. Each private offering of warrants uses an auction to establish a clearing price for each warrant position by allowing qualified bidders to submit bids at or above a minimum price specified for each warrant position. Each warrant position is sold to a single winning bidder.

<sup>8</sup> Privately-held companies, S-corporations, and certain mutual institutions typically redeem their warrant preferreds or subordinated debentures at par when redeeming the primary CPP investment. (See Appendix I for table of warrant preferred repurchases as of December 31, 2011.)

Treasury's Evaluation of Issuer's Bid

Treasury adheres to a consistent process for evaluating bids from institutions to repurchase their warrants. Upon receiving a bid for a warrant repurchase, Treasury utilizes (i) market quotes, (ii) independent, third party valuations, and (iii) model valuations to assess the bid.

(i) Market Quotes

There is little comparable market data for long-dated options. In order to perform its valuation analysis, Treasury seeks indications of value from various market participants active in the options markets. The range of estimated valuations is included in Treasury's analysis along with the average of the market indications collected. Treasury also utilizes the market information from the trading of auctioned TARP warrants as another indication how of the market values long-dated warrants.

(ii) Third Party Valuations

Treasury engages outside consultants or external asset managers to provide independent, third party valuations for the warrants. The third party provides Treasury with an estimated valuation along with a range of potential values given a reasonable variance in the assumptions underlying their models.

(iii) Model Valuations

Treasury uses a number of financial models to estimate warrant valuations. Primarily, Treasury uses a binomial option model adjusted for American style options, which is a well-accepted method for valuing options by both academics and market participants. Valuation estimates generated from the binomial model are presented in the Treasury's analysis along with a range of potential values given a reasonable variance in key model inputs, such as assumptions about the expected future volatility and dividend yield of the underlying stock. Treasury's internal valuation modeling was reviewed by Dr. Robert Jarrow, an options expert and professor at Cornell University, who concluded that "the Treasury's modeling methodology for valuing the warrants is consistent with industry best practice and the highest academic standards." More information on Treasury's internal valuation modeling and the report written by Dr. Jarrow can be found on the OFS website.

Treasury and its external asset managers use the 20-trading day trailing average stock price of a company in their valuations to minimize the effects of day-to-day market fluctuations. Market participants who provide Treasury with market indications utilize the stock price at the time that they provide the valuation. If the discussions with an institution continue over an extended period of time, Treasury and its external asset managers will update their estimates as necessary. Treasury may also collect new market quotes or adjust the market quotes based on changes in market conditions from when the quotes were collected. (See Appendix I for information on the timing of issuers' bids.)

Determination by Warrant Committee

Based on the range of estimated warrant values provided by these sources, a committee of Treasury officials within the Office of Financial Stability (OFS), who comprise the OFS Warrant Committee, makes a recommendation to the Assistant Secretary for Financial Stability as to whether to agree with the bank's determination of fair market value. Each member of the Warrant Committee and the Assistant Secretary weigh the three valuation metrics as they deem appropriate.

Additional factors presented to the Warrant Committee, along with the three valuation metrics discussed above include:

- how quickly Treasury would have to monetize the warrants if the issuer does not repurchase based on legislation in place at the time as discussed in the "Background" section of this report,
- the expertise and experience of the outside consultant providing the third party valuation,
- the quality and number of market indications received,
- any significant movements in the stock price of the issuer since market indications were collected,
- deviations of the current stock price from the 20-trading day trailing average of the company's stock price,
- the size of the warrant position and potential investor interest in the warrants,
- the liquidity of the underlying common stock, and
- fixed transaction costs associated with selling the warrants to a third party.

Repurchases of Warrants

Treasury began selling warrants back to banks that had repaid the TARP investment in May 2009. In aggregate, as of December 31, 2011, Treasury has realized $3.7 billion in gross proceeds from 86 warrant repurchases. This compares favorably to initial bids of $2.4 billion and estimates of aggregate value of $2.9 billion based on market indications, $3.5 billion based on third party estimates, and $3.3 billion based on Treasury's internal financial model. Warrants repurchased by the issuer have yielded an extra absolute return of 4.07% on Treasury's investment.

When selling warrants back to the issuer, Treasury has achieved fair market values and protected the taxpayer. Dr. Jarrow noted that "[Treasury's] valuation process results in a warrant valuation that is fair to both the participating banks and the U.S. taxpayers." Further, the Special Inspector General for the Troubled Asset Relief Program (SIGTARP) audit released on May 15, 2010 entitled Assessing Treasury's Process to Sell Warrants Received from TARP Recipients concluded that Treasury successfully negotiated prices from institutions that wished to repurchase their warrants that were at or above Treasury's estimated range of fair market value for such warrants.<sup>9</sup> The report also described the valuation methodology to estimate fair market value and offered no suggestions for modifying that methodology.<sup>10</sup>

<sup>9</sup> SIGTARP report, Assessing Treasury's Process to Sell Warrants Received from TARP Recipients, dated May 15, 2010.

<sup>10</sup> SIGTARP offered some suggestions regarding documentation of the negotiation process, and regarding insuring consistency in the information provided to issuers seeking to repurchase their warrants. Treasury reviewed these suggestions carefully and has made appropriate changes to its procedures for recording Warrant Committee meeting minutes and conversations with banks regarding the repurchases of their warrants.

Auctions of Warrants

Following repayment of its preferred stock, if a bank notifies Treasury that it does not intend to repurchase its warrants or cannot agree with Treasury on the fair market value, Treasury disposes of the warrants, when possible, through public auctions. Since December 2009, Treasury has publicly auctioned 24 warrant positions in 21 financial institutions, generating aggregate proceeds of approximately $5.4 billion.<sup>11</sup> Demand in the public warrant auctions has exceeded the number of warrant shares being auctioned by an average of 6.9 times with an oversubscription range of 2.0 to 18.3 times. Warrants sold through public auctions have yielded an extra absolute return of 3.27% on Treasury's investment.

The auctions have also provided valuable insights into how the market values long-dated warrants, as scores of different bidders have placed hundreds of unique bids in each auction. The auctions have resulted in estimated placements of approximately 46% to fundamental institutional investors,<sup>12</sup> 25% to convertible-focused investors, 19% to derivative-focused investors, and 10% to individual investors. Typically, many of the fundamental institutional investors who buy warrants in any given auction are also holders of the bank's common stock.

Active secondary trading in the warrants has further validated the auction prices and provides ongoing observable market prices for long-dated warrants. Each of the warrants sold through public auction has been listed on the New York Stock Exchange or the NASDAQ. Trading volumes tend to be very high during the first few days following an auction and then to fall into a lower range. Excluding the first five trading days after each auction, the daily trading volume of the warrants has averaged 0.38% of the outstanding securities. Across the 24 TARP warrant positions currently outstanding with public investors, four million warrants change hands on a typical trading day.

In a Treasury report entitled Treasury Analysis of Warrant Auction Results, the OFS and the Office of Economic Policy also examined three CPP warrant auctions and one TIP warrant auction, each of which generated proceeds in excess of $100 million.<sup>13</sup> This report concluded that no single bidder had a large impact on the final clearing price in these four auctions. Further, the report showed that increasing the amount of smaller bidders participating in the auctions would not have had a material impact on the final clearing price. These two results suggest that the auctions were robust and achieved a fair market value.

Treasury has successfully disposed of warrants through the auction process. Clearing prices have been set through robust competition between a large number of bidders, and fair market value has been achieved for taxpayers. Additionally, an active and liquid secondary market for the warrants has been established, providing greater confidence in the market value of the total Treasury warrant portfolio and thereby supporting future auctions.

<sup>11</sup> Treasury held two separate auctions for different Bank of America Corporation CPP and TIP warrants. See footnote 5.

<sup>12</sup> The estimated placements to different investor types are calculated excluding any allocations to the issuing institution.

Private Placement Auctions of Warrants

Warrants are also sold through private placement auctions when the expected proceeds of the warrant sale do not justify the fixed cost, both to the issuing institution and the Treasury, of a registered transaction or when the warrant position does not meet certain requirements for listing on the relevant exchange.

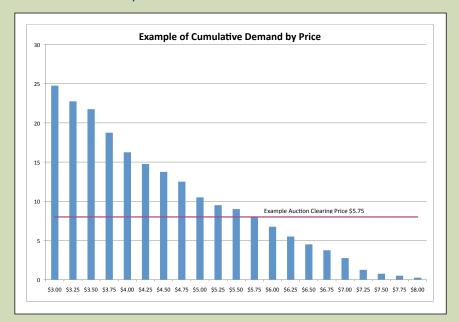

These sales are executed using an auction to establish a clearing price for each warrant position by allowing appropriately qualified bidders to submit bids at or above a minimum price specified for each warrant position. Each warrant position is sold to a single winning bidder.

Treasury executed the first and, thus far, only tranche of private placement auctions for 17 warrant positions on November 17, 2011, generating gross proceeds of $12.7 million. Treasury expects to conduct similar auctions in the future for other warrant positions it holds in financial institutions that have repaid CPP.

For the public warrant auctions completed to date, Treasury has utilized modified "Dutch" auctions to dispose of the warrants. The public auctions were registered under the Securities Act of 1933. Only one bank's warrants were sold in each such auction. With advice from its external asset managers and the auction agent, Treasury publicly disclosed a minimum bid for each auction. Bidders were able to submit one or more independent bids at different price-quantity combinations at or above the set minimum price. The auction agent did not provide bidders with any information about the bids of other bidders or auction trends, or with advice regarding bidding strategies, in connection with the auction. The issuers of the warrants were able to bid for their warrants in the auctions. Bids were accepted by the auction agent from 8:00 a.m. to 6:30 p.m. on the day of the auction. The warrants were sold to all winning bids at the uniform price that cleared the auction.

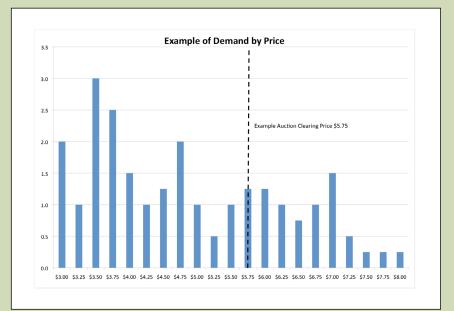

Deutsche Bank Securities Inc. has been Treasury's auction agent each public auction to date. Deutsche Bank receives fees equal to approximately 1.3% of the gross proceeds ($72.1 million) which is significantly below typical secondary equity offering fees that run around 3.5% to 4.5% depending on the size of the offering.

For illustrative purposes only, Figures 1 and 2 are example charts of the demand in a theoretical auction of an 8 million share position with a minimum price of $3.00 per share and a clearing price of $5.75 per share.

) Coverage Ratio = Gross Demand / Warrant Shares

2) Market Orders Share of Auction = Total Market Orders / Gross Demand

A market order is a bid that specifies the number of warrants the bidder is willing to purchase without specifying the price it is willing to pay and is treated as a bid at the highest price received from any other bidder in the auction.

3) Daily Liquidity Turnover = Average Daily Trading Volume / Warrants Outstanding

The liquidity calculation excludes the first five trading days after the auction which typically have higher than normal volume and uses data through June 30, 2010. The data source is Bloomberg.

Note: Totals for Coverage Ratio, Market Orders and Daily Liquidity are weighted averages. Total for Number of Bidders is a simple average.

Appendix II – Warrant Disposition Details

GRAPHICAL REPRESENTATION OF TREASURY'S WARRANT VALUATION ANALYSIS

The chart below demonstrates the three elements of Treasury's warrant valuation analysis together with an institution's bid for the warrants, using Northern Trust Corporation as an example. The market quotes are presented as a range from the low to the high estimate of value provided by market participants (black bar) as well as the average of all the market indications collected (red point). The third party estimate of value (red point) is presented along with a reasonable range (black bar) that is also prepared by the third party. Treasury's estimate of value (red point) based on its internal model is presented along with a reasonable range (black bar). The ranges of estimates presented below show the final estimates utilized by Treasury officials to analyze the bank's final bid.

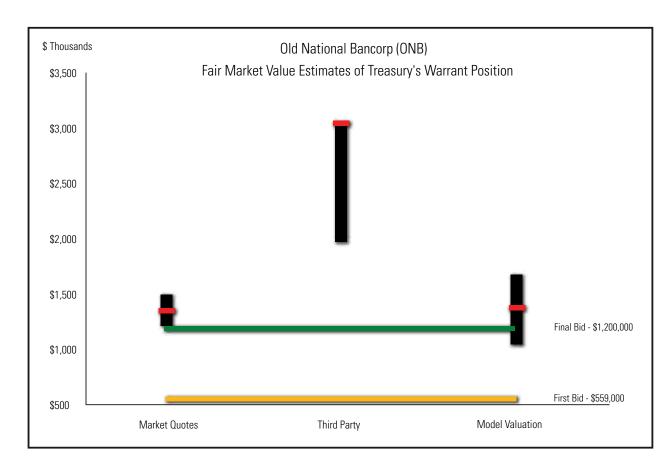

Appendix II presents charts for all of the CPP warrant sales, in which the bank submitted a bid to repurchase its warrants, as of December 31, 2010. As with the example below, all of the valuation estimates presented in Appendix II represent the final estimates used by Treasury officials when analyzing a repurchase request. Appendix II also notes additional relevant factors that were presented to the Warrant Committee.

NOTE: 1) At the time of the decision, the external asset managers had not been hired. Treasury relied on financial modeling consultants to provide third party input. The modeling consultants may not have had market expertise necessary to make reasonable assumptions for key inputs such as volatility and dividend yield. 2) At that time, legislation may have required that Treasury dispose of the warrants immediately. The fixed cost of disposing of the warrants was taken into consideration when analyzing the company's determination of fair market value.
