For your information we quote below a telegram received from the Treasury Department in connection with Executive Order No. 8389 of April 10, 1940, as amended, and Regulations issued pursuant thereto, relating to transactions in foreign exchange, etc.

“You are advised that henceforth the Treasury Department will not require the notarization of applications for licenses under the Order or reports in connection therewith, when such documents are filed by domestic banks.

“The foregoing shall, of course, not be construed as indicating that the Treasury Department waives any other requirement relating to the signing or executing of license applications or reports, and such documents when filed by domestic banks should be signed or executed by responsible officers of such institutions. Neither shall it be deemed to be a waiver of any of the applicable provisions of the penal laws of the United States.”
