TO THE ISSUING AGENT ADDRESSED:

The Treasury Department has recently adopted new forms to be used in cases where inscribed United States Savings Bonds are lost by an issuing agent prior to delivery to the registered owner, or where bonds are forwarded by use of special penalty envelopes and reported as not received by the registered owner. These forms are as follows:

1. Form PD 1900 is to be signed by the issuing agent where an inscribed bond is lost by the issuing agent prior to delivery to the registered owner.
2. Form PD 1901 is to be signed by the issuing agent where an inscribed bond has been mailed by use of a special penalty envelope and reported as not received by the registered owner.
3. Form PD 1902 in each case must accompany Form PD 1900 or Form PD 1901. This form must be signed by the registered owner and coowner, if the bond is inscribed in coownership form, certifying that the bond has not been received.

A small supply of the forms will be furnished upon request. They will replace Forms PD 1825 and PD 1826 previously used for this purpose. The new forms in no way affect the use of Form PD 1048, which is now used by the registered owner to request that a substitute bond be issued in lieu of a lost, stolen or destroyed bond after it has been received by the registered owner.

Yours very truly,
