SUBJECT

Operating Circulars Available on the Internet

DETAILS

On January 2, 1998, 10 of the 11 new standardized operating circulars of the Federal Reserve System became effective. These circulars, which are uniform across all Reserve Banks, make it easier for depository institutions to conduct business in multiple Fed districts. Each institution received a three-ring binder containing the 10 new circulars. As an added convenience, these circulars are now available via the Internet at the following address:
