Expanded Examination Cycle for Certain Small Insured Institutions

DETAILS

The Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System, the Office of the Comptroller of the Currency, the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, and the Office of Thrift Supervision (collectively referred to as the agencies) have issued a final rule to expand the examination frequency cycle for certain small institutions. The final rule implements section 306 of the Riegle Community Development and Regulatory Improvement Act of 1994 (CDRI) and section 2221 of the Economic Growth and Regulatory Paperwork Reduction Act of 1996 (EGRPRA).

Together, section 306 of the CDRI and section 2221 of the EGRPRA authorize the agencies to expand the eligibility for the 18-month examination cycle from the current asset size limit of $100 million to a revised limit of $250 million. The final rule became effective April 2, 1998.

Expanded Examination Cycle for Certain Small Insured Institutions

AGENCIES: Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System, Office of the Comptroller of the Currency, Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation, and Office of Thrift Supervision.

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: The Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System (Board), the Office of the Comptroller of the Currency (OCC), the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation (FDIC), and the Office of Thrift Supervision (OTS) (collectively, the Agencies) are adopting as a final rule their joint interim rule implementing section 306 of the Riegle Community Development and Regulatory Improvement Act of 1994 (CDRI) and section 2221 of the Economic Growth and Regulatory Paperwork Reduction Act of 1996 (EGRPRA). Together, section 306 of CDRI and section 2221 of EGRPRA authorize the Agencies to increase the asset size of certain financial institutions that may be examined once in every 18-month period, rather than once in every 12-month period, from $100 million to a revised limit of $250 million. This final rule makes certain institutions that have $250 million or less in assets eligible for the 18-month examination schedule.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:Background

Section 10(d) of the Federal Deposit Insurance Act (the FDI Act),¹ which was added by section 111 of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation Improvement Act of 1991 (FDICIA),² requires that each appropriate Federal banking agency conduct a full-scope, on-site examination at least once during each 12-month period of every insured depository institution that the agency supervises. However, section 10(d) permits the Agencies to examine certain small insured depository institutions once during every 18-month period. As initially established by FDICIA, section 10(d) required an institution to have $100 million or less in total assets and its composite condition must have been found to be outstanding (rated 1 under the Uniform Financial Institutions Rating System (UFIRS)) at its most recent examination in order to qualify for an extended exam cycle. In addition, a qualifying institution (a) must not have undergone a change in control during the previous 12-month period in which a full-scope examination otherwise would have been required by section 10 of the FDI Act; (b) be well capitalized; and (c) be found by the appropriate agency to be well managed.

Section 306 of CDRI, which was enacted into law in 1994,³ made several amendments to section 10(d) that, taken together, expand the availability of the 18-month examination cycle to a larger number of small institutions. First, section 306 of CDRI increased to $250 million the asset size of institutions rated outstanding (UFIRS 1) that could be examined on an 18-month cycle. Second, section 306 added a provision permitting an 18-month cycle for institutions rated satisfactory (UFIRS 2) at their most recent examination, provided they did not exceed $100 million in total assets. Third, section 306 authorized the Agencies to increase this $100 million threshold to $175 million beginning on September 23, 1996, if the Agencies first determined that the increased amount is consistent with the principles of safety and soundness for insured depository institutions. Finally, section 306 required that, to qualify for the expanded examination cycle, an insured institution must not be subject to a formal enforcement proceeding or order. The remaining provisions of section 10(d) of the FDI Act were unchanged.

Section 2221 of EGRPRA⁴ further amended section 10(d) of the FDI Act. Pursuant to section 2221, the Agencies were authorized to increase to $250 million the maximum asset size of UFIRS 2-rated institutions eligible for examination on an 18-month cycle. EGRPRA also made the expanded examination cycle available to qualified Federal branches and agencies of foreign banks. The International Banking Act of 1978 (the IBA),⁵ as amended by the Foreign Bank Supervision Enhancement Act of 1991,⁶ requires an examination of each U.S. branch or agency of a foreign bank once during each 12-month period. Section 2214 of EGRPRA⁷ amended the IBA to provide, among other things, that each Federal or State branch or agency of a foreign bank will be subject to on-site examination by the appropriate Federal or State banking agency as frequently as would a national or state bank, respectively. Consequently, U.S. branches or agencies of foreign banks are eligible for the 18-month cycle provided that they meet the qualifying criteria outlined above.

In 1997, the Federal banking agencies issued a joint rule that was immediately effective upon the date of publication implementing section 306 of CDRI and section 2221 of EGRPRA. See 62 FR 6449 (Feb. 12, 1997). The interim rule was published with a request for public comment. As discussed in greater detail below, the public comments generally favored adoption of the expanded examination cycle rule as set forth in the interim rule. Accordingly, the Agencies hereby adopt the interim rule with only minor stylistic changes.

Comments Received

In response to the interim rule request for comment, the Agencies received a total of 16 comments, including six from banking institutions, six from Federal Reserve Banks, and four from trade associations. Most agreed that the expansion of the 18-month examination cycle should be applied to UFIRS 1- and 2-rated domestic institutions with assets of $250 million or less. Commenters favoring the proposed changes agreed that the application of an 18-month cycle would reduce regulatory burden on smaller, well run institutions that do not pose significant supervisory concerns. Commenters also noted that the rule is consistent with the Agencies' respective approaches to performance-based regulation and supervision.

One commenter suggested that a financial institution with a UFIRS rating of 1 or 2 should be allowed to elect either a 12-month or an 18-month exam cycle, and that each examination should cover, among other things, compliance issues and an examination of the financial institution's fiduciary and data processing operations. In response, the Agencies note that the examination cycle adopted in the interim rule and finalized by this rulemaking creates the generally applicable schedule. The primary regulator will have the option, however, to examine an institution as frequently as the regulator deems appropriate. The Agencies believe that this approach is an efficient and effective use of both financial institution and examiner resources. Should a financial institution wish to discuss particular issues with its primary regulator at a time other than when an examination is ongoing, the financial institution is encouraged to contact its regulator for assistance at any time.

Final Rule

Based upon further deliberations by the Agencies and the comments received, the Agencies are adopting the interim rule in final form, with only minor stylistic changes. Pursuant to the final rule, a domestic national or state financial institution will be eligible for an 18-month examination schedule if the institution: (1) has total assets of $250 million or less; (2) is well capitalized as defined in section 38(b)(1)(A) of the FDI Act (12 U.S.C. 1831o(b)(1)(A)); (3) is well managed; (4) received a UFIRS rating of 1 or 2 at its most recent examination; (5) is not subject to a formal enforcement proceeding or order; and (6) has not undergone a change in control during the previous 12-month period.

The Agencies have determined that increasing the size limitation of UFIRS 2-rated institutions that are eligible for an 18-month cycle is consistent with the safety and soundness of insured depository institutions. A longer examination cycle permits the Agencies to focus their resources on those segments of the banking and thrift industry that present the most immediate supervisory concern, while concomitantly reducing the regulatory burden on smaller, well run institutions that do not pose an equivalent level of supervisory concern. In lieu of the more frequent annual examinations that would otherwise be conducted for these institutions, the agencies rely upon off-site monitoring tools to identify potential problems in smaller, well managed institutions that present low levels of risk. Moreover, neither the statute nor the regulation limits, and the Agencies therefore retain, the authority to examine an insured depository institution more frequently. The Agencies that supervise state-chartered insured institutions also recognize that flexibility must be made available in the implementation of this regulation to accommodate requirements for annual examinations by various states.

The FDIC, Board, and OCC, which have jurisdiction over U.S. branches and agencies of foreign banks, are reviewing the issue of how to apply the qualifying criteria to these entities. Upon development of a method under which the 18-month examination cycle qualifying criteria can be applied to Federal branches and agencies, a separate rule will be issued for comment.

Effective Date of Final Rule

The Agencies have determined that there is good cause to dispense with a 30-day delayed effective date pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 553(d)(3). The expanded exam cycle was immediately effective upon publication of the interim rule in February, 1997. This final rule adopts the interim rule without any substantive change. While the Agencies invited interested parties to comment on the rule at that time, each agency already has implemented the expanded exam cycle, and insured depository institutions already have been complying with the new rule for approximately a year. Accordingly, depository institutions will not require any additional time to adjust their policies or practices in order to comply with the rule. Delaying the effective date simply would create confusion on the part of the banking industry concerning the applicability of the expanded exam cycle during the time between publication and some later effective date.

The Agencies also have determined, for the reasons stated in the preceding paragraph, that good cause exists to adopt an effective date that is before the first day of the calendar quarter that begins on or after the date on which the regulation is published, as would otherwise be required by section 302 of the CDRI.

Regulatory Flexibility Act

The Regulatory Flexibility Act (the Act) (5 U.S.C. 601-612) does not apply to a rulemaking where a general notice of proposed rulemaking is not required, as is the case with the 18-month examination cycle rulemaking. See 5 U.S.C. 603 and 604. Accordingly, the Act's requirements relating to an initial and final regulatory flexibility analysis are not applicable.

Even if the Act were to apply, the final rule will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. The final rule will reduce regulatory burdens on eligible banks and thrifts with assets of $250 million or less. In addition, those depository institutions that are not eligible for the exemption from the statutorily prescribed 12-month examination cycle are not adversely affected by the final rule.

Small Business Regulatory Enforcement Fairness Act

Title II of the Small Business Regulatory Enforcement Fairness Act of 1996 (SBREFA)⁸ provides generally for agencies to report rules to Congress and the General Accounting Office (GAO) for review. The reporting requirement is triggered when a Federal agency issues a final rule. The Agencies will file the appropriate reports with Congress and the GAO as required by SBREFA. The Office of Management and Budget has determined that the uniform rule promulgated by the Agencies does not constitute a "major rule" as defined by SBREFA.

⁸ Pub. L. 104-121.

Paperwork Reduction Act

In accordance with the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1995 (44 U.S.C. 3506), the Agencies have determined that no collections of information pursuant to the Paperwork Reduction Act are contained in this final rule.

OCC and OTS Executive Order 12866 Statement

The OCC and OTS each independently has determined that this final rule is not a significant regulatory action under Executive Order 12866.

OCC and OTS Unfunded Mandates Act of 1995 Statement

Section 202 of the Unfunded Mandates Reform Act of 1995, Pub. L. 104-4, 109 Stat. 48 (March 22, 1995) (Unfunded Mandates Act), requires that an agency prepare a budgetary impact statement before promulgating a rule that includes a Federal mandate that may result in the expenditure by state, local, and tribal governments, in the aggregate, or by the private sector, of $100 million or more in any one year. If a budgetary impact statement is required, section 205 of the Unfunded Mandates Act also requires an agency to identify and consider a reasonable number of regulatory alternatives before promulgating a rule. Because the OCC and OTS have each independently determined that this final rule will not result in expenditures by state, local, and tribal governments, in the aggregate, or by the private sector, of more than $100 million in any one year, the OCC and OTS have not prepared a budgetary impact statement or specifically addressed the regulatory alternatives considered. As discussed in the preamble, this final rule will have the effect of reducing regulatory burden on certain institutions.
