Notice 2000-38

June 16, 2000

TO: The Chief Executive Officer of each financial institution and others concerned in the Eleventh Federal Reserve District

SUBJECT

Proposed Amendments to Regulation Z (Truth in Lending)

DETAILS

The Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System has requested public comment on amendments to Regulation Z, which implements the Truth in Lending Act. Under Regulation Z, the annual percentage rate (APR) and other cost information must be provided in direct mail and other applications and solicitations to open card accounts. The amendments would

- revise the disclosure requirements for credit and charge card solicitations and applications;
- enhance consumers’ ability to notice and understand cost information that generally must be provided in the form of a table;
- provide additional guidance on the requirement that the table be prominently located; and
- provide additional guidance on the level of detail about cost information required or permitted in the table.

The APR disclosed for purchase transactions would be subject to a type-size requirement, and the requirement that disclosures be “clear and conspicuous” would be more strictly construed.
The Board must receive comments by July 18, 2000. Please address comments to Jennifer J. Johnson, Secretary, Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System, 20th Street and Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, DC 20551. Also, you may mail comments electronically to regs.comments@federalreserve.gov. All comments should refer to Docket No. R-1070.

[Regulation Z; Docket No. R–1070]

Truth in Lending

AGENCY: Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System.

ACTION: Proposed rule.

SUMMARY: The Board is proposing amendments to Regulation Z, which implements the Truth in Lending Act, to revise the disclosure requirements for credit and charge card solicitations and applications. The annual percentage rate (APR) and other cost information must be provided in direct mail and other solicitations and solicitations to open credit accounts. The amendments are intended to enhance consumers’ ability to notice and understand cost information that generally must be provided in the form of a table. The APR disclosed for purchase transactions would be subject to a type size requirement, and the requirement that disclosures be “clear and conspicuous” would be more strictly construed.

Additional guidance would be given on the requirement that the table be prominently located, and on the level of detail about cost information required or permitted in the table.

DATES: Comments must be received on or before July 18, 2000.

ADDRESSES: Comments, which should refer to Docket No. R–1070, may be mailed to Ms. Jennifer J. Johnson, Secretary, Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System, 20th Street and Constitution Avenue, NW., Washington, DC. 20551 or mailed electronically to regs.comments@federalreserve.gov. Comments addressed to Ms. Johnson may also be delivered to the Board’s mail room between 8:45 a.m. and 5:15 p.m. weekdays, and to the security control room at all other times. The mail room and the security control room, both in the Board’s Eccles Building, are accessible from the courtyard entrance on 20th Street between Constitution Avenue and C Street, NW. Comments may be inspected in room MP–500 in the Board’s Martin Building between 9 a.m. and 5 p.m., pursuant to the Board’s Rules Regarding the Availability of Information, 12 CFR part 261.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

I. Background

The purpose of the Truth in Lending Act (TILA), 15 U.S.C. 1601 et seq., is to promote the informed use of consumer credit by requiring disclosures about its terms and cost. The Board’s Regulation Z (12 CFR part 226) implements the act. The act requires creditors to disclose the cost of credit as a dollar amount (the finance charge) and as an annual percentage rate (the APR). Uniformity in creditors’ disclosures is intended to assist consumers in comparison shopping.

The Fair Credit and Charge Card Disclosure Act of 1988 (1988 Act) amended TILA to require that the APR and certain other terms (primarily applicable to purchase transactions) be disclosed in certain direct mail and other solicitations and applications to open credit and charge card accounts. The purpose of the 1988 Act was to ensure that consumers receive key cost information about credit and charge cards early enough to have the opportunity to comparison shop for such cards. The 1988 Act generally requires that card application and solicitation disclosures be provided in the form of a table (commonly referred to as the “Schumer box” after the law’s chief sponsor) with headings for each item of information. The terms required to be in the table include: the name of the method used for calculating finance charges on an outstanding balance, any minimum finance charge per billing cycle, transaction fee, annual fee, grace period, and the APR for purchase transactions. The card issuer also must disclose any cash advance fee, late payment fee, or fee for exceeding a credit limit. These items may be either in the required table or clearly and conspicuously elsewhere. The applicable disclosures must also be provided for charge cards that do not use a periodic rate to compute a finance charge.

As with all TILA disclosures, the table is subject to the “clear and conspicuous” standard. Currently, the table meets the “clear and conspicuous” standard if the disclosures are in a “readily understandable form.” There are no type size requirements associated with this standard. The table is also required to be in a “prominent location” on or with the application or solicitation. Under the existing rules, this requirement is met if the table is “readily noticeable to the consumer.” The table need not be in any particular location to satisfy the requirement.

Over the years, the pricing of credit card programs has changed, and the cost disclosures accompanying card issuers’ solicitations and applications have become more complex. Multiple APRs may apply to a single program. There may be a temporary introductory rate, a fixed or variable rate for all purchases after the introductory period expires, and one or more “penalty rates” that apply if, for example, the consumer makes late payments.

As interest rates and other account features have become more complex, and disclosures longer, some card issuers have compensated by using reduced type sizes for the table instead of allocating additional space for the disclosures. In such cases, consumers may have difficulty in using the table to readily identify key costs and terms. In contrast, the promotional materials that accompany the credit card application or solicitation may highlight a low introductory APR in a large, easy to read type size; oftentimes without the expiration date in close proximity. The APR in effect after the introductory rate expires typically is disclosed much less prominently—in a smaller type size—and it may only appear in the disclosure table and not at all in the promotional materials. The table may be in a location that is less likely to capture the consumer’s attention, for example, on the reverse side of an application or on the last page of a multi-page solicitation.

Even with the format requirements, there is substantial flexibility in the current regulatory framework. While some card issuers’ disclosures are fairly... straightforward, other card issuers have created disclosures that are difficult for consumers to use. Changes to the current regulatory scheme appear necessary to ensure that consumers receive meaningful disclosures on a more consistent basis, for comparison shopping.

The 1988 Act authorizes the Board to require disclosure of additional information, or to modify the disclosures required by the statute if the Board determines that such action is necessary to carry out the purposes of, or prevent evasions of the 1988 Act. See 15 U.S.C. 1637(c)(5). This is in addition to the Board’s authority under section 105(a) of TILA to prescribe regulations to effectuate the purposes of TILA, to prevent circumvention or evasion, or to facilitate compliance. See 15 U.S.C. 1604(a).

II. Summary of Proposed Revisions

The Board is proposing amendments to Regulation Z in order to effectuate the purposes of the 1988 Act and promote more effective disclosure of the costs and terms in credit and charge card applications and solicitations.

Under the proposal, the APR for purchase transactions is subject to a type-size requirement, to highlight this information. It would be in at least 18-point type and would appear under a separate heading from other APRs, such as penalty rates. The requirement that disclosures be “clear and conspicuous” would be more strictly construed for purposes of the disclosure table required for credit and charge card applications and solicitations. These disclosures would have to be “readily noticeable,” as well as in a “reasonably understandable form.” As to type size, disclosures in at least 12-point type would be deemed readily noticeable.

Additional guidance is provided on satisfying the current requirement that the table be prominentely located. The Staff Commentary would be revised to provide that the table is sufficiently prominent, for example, if it is on the same page as an application or solicitation reply form, or on a separate insert with a reference to the insert on the application or reply form.

Guidance also would be issued on the level of detail required or permitted in the table. This is intended to reduce clutter and promote the use of more concise language. For example, the table must include any increased penalty APR that will apply upon the occurrence of one or more specific events, such as a late payment or an extension of the credit limit. The card issuer must also provide a description of the specific events that can trigger an increase. Currently, card issuers have the option of including this description inside the table or elsewhere. In order to simplify the table, the existing staff interpretations would be revised so that only the penalty rates could appear inside the table; the explanatory information would have to appear outside the table.

Legislation

During 1999, bills were introduced in the Congress that also would add new disclosure requirements for credit card applications and solicitations. Some bills would require card issuers that offer temporary introductory rates to provide more conspicuous information in their promotional materials about the expiration date and the rate that will apply after that date. The provisions in these bills would address some of the same concerns that are the basis for the Board’s regulatory proposal. In light of the pending legislation, however, the scope of the Board’s regulatory proposal does not address those rates and terms disclosed in card issuer’s promotional materials. Such matters may be the subject of future regulatory proposals once the Congress acts on the proposed legislation or otherwise clarifies its intent.

III. Section-by-Section Analysis

Subpart B—Open-End Credit

Section 226.5—General Disclosure Requirements

5(a) Form of Disclosures

Section 226.5(a) states the general rule that TILA disclosures for open-end credit plans must be made clearly and conspicuously. Comment 5(a)(1)–1 interprets this standard to require disclosures to be in a “reasonably understandable form.” Under the proposal, this standard would be more strictly construed for purposes of the disclosures required under §226.5a for credit and charge card applications and solicitations. Accordingly, comment 5(a)(1)–1 would be revised to reflect this fact, and include a cross-reference to proposed comments 5a(a)(2)–1 and 2 concerning the special format and location rules for §226.5a disclosures.

Section 226.5a—Credit and Charge Card Applications and Solicitations

5(a) General Rules

5a(a)(2) Form of Disclosures

Disclosures required by §226.5a(a)(2) must be clear and conspicuous and prominently located on or with an application or solicitation, or other applicable document. Certain of these disclosures are also required to be in a tabular format. A new comment 5a(a)(2)–1 would be added to establish a stricter standard for satisfying the “clear and conspicuous” standard with respect to the tabular disclosures. Proposed comment 5a(a)(2)–2 would provide additional interpretative guidance on the location of the table. Because the proposed interpretations differ from those currently provided, they are intended to have prospective application only.

Currently, information provided in the table meets the “clear and conspicuous” requirement if the disclosures are reasonably understandable. Although the tabular format assists consumers by providing key cost information in a single location, consumers may have difficulty using the table due to the amount of information provided in the table and the small type size used by some card issuers to compensate for the amount of information. To ensure that consumers receive meaningful disclosures on a consistent basis, proposed comment 5a(a)(2)–1 would provide that disclosures are clear and conspicuous if the disclosures are both reasonably understandable and readily noticeable. Comment 5a(a)(2)–1 would also provide that as to type size, disclosures in at least 12-point type would be deemed to be readily noticeable. Disclosures printed in less than 12-point type would not automatically violate the standard, but would be judged on a case-by-case basis. For example, disclosures in 10- or 11-point type would probably satisfy the standard, but disclosures in 6-point type would likely be too small to satisfy the standard.

Existing comment 5a(a)(2)–1 addresses the requirement that the table be prominently located. The comment would be redesignated as comment 5a(a)(2)–2, and would be revised to address concerns about the location of tabular disclosures. Currently, some card issuers locate the table on the reverse side of an application or reply form or on the last page of a multi-page solicitation. Consumers may see the promotional materials and fill out the application without being aware that there is additional cost information following the application, on the reverse side of the page or at the end of the promotional materials. Proposed comment 5a(a)(2)–2 would provide additional interpretative guidance; the table would be deemed to be prominently located, for example, if it appears on the same page as the application or solicitation reply form, or the first page of any other applicable document, or on an insert with a reference to the insert on the application or reply form.

5a(b) Required Disclosures

The table required under § 226.5a provides consumers with key cost information, grouped together in one place to facilitate consumers’ use of the information for comparison shopping. These disclosures are not intended to be as detailed as disclosures provided to consumers at account opening; at the time the 1988 Act was adopted, the primary focus was on cost disclosures for purchase transactions. For example, the APR and transaction fees for purchases must be disclosed in the table, but not the APR for cash advances.

Because the services and features offered with credit and charge cards have evolved in recent years, the disclosures required by the 1988 Act may not capture costs commonly assessed on such cards. For example, the periodic rate of interest assessed on a balance transfer (which the card issuer may characterize as a cash advance) is not disclosed in the table. The 1988 Act expressly authorizes the Board to add disclosures to the table, or modify the existing requirements. Accordingly, the Board solicits comment on whether consumers could be aided in comparison shopping by having additional rates and fees disclosed in the table. In particular, commenters should address whether the APR and transaction fees for balance transfers and the APR for cash advances should be included in the table; commenters are requested to specify why the benefits to consumers from the additional information would not outweigh the burden of compliance.

5a(b)(1) Annual Percentage Rate

Section 226.5a(b)(1) requires card issuers to disclose in the table each periodic rate that may be used to compute the finance charge on an outstanding balance for purchases, expressed as an APR. This section would be revised to require the APR for purchases to be disclosed in the table in at least 18-point type. The type-size requirement would not apply to temporary initial rates that are lower than the APR that will apply after the temporary rate expires, or to penalty rates that may increase upon the occurrence of one or more specific events (such as a late payment or an extension of credit that exceeds the credit limit).

The use of this larger type size is intended to highlight the significance of this information, particularly in light of the larger type sizes typically used by card issuers to promote introductory rates. Although the tabular format generally draws consumers’ attention to the table, under existing rules the APR information is often obscured due to the amount of other information provided in the table and the small type size used by some card issuers. The APR for purchase transactions would also be highlighted by requiring that it be listed under a separate heading.

In September 1999, the Board published a proposal that would amend Regulation Z to authorize creditors to use electronic communication to deliver required disclosures. 64 FR 49722 (September 14, 1999). Accordingly, comment is also requested on any specific guidance that may be needed for applying the type size requirements to disclosures made using electronic communication.

Comment 226.5a(b)(1)-6 provides that where there is a temporary initial APR that is higher than the rate that will apply after the temporary rate expires, the card issuer must disclose the higher initial rate. This would be revised to clarify that in such cases, the initial rate must be disclosed in at least 18-point type, unless the card issuer also discloses the permanently applicable rate in the table, which would have to be in at least 18-point type.

Comment 226.5a(b)(1)-7 requires card issuers to disclose “penalty rates” in the table, along with a description of the specific events that can trigger a rate increase and any index or margin used to determine the penalty rate. Currently, card issuers have the option of including this information inside the table or elsewhere. To simplify the table, the comment would be revised so that only the penalty rates would appear inside the table and the additional information would appear outside the table. Card issuers would be required to use an asterisk or other means to direct the consumer to the additional information.

Appendices G and H to Part 226—Open-End and Closed-End Model Forms and Clauses

Comment App. G and H–1 would be revised to clarify that there are special rules for disclosures required under § 226.5a for applications and solicitations for credit and charge cards.

Appendix G to Part 226—Open-End Model Forms and Clauses

The Board provides three model forms to aid compliance with the disclosure requirements of § 226.5a(b). See Appendix G–10(A)–(C). Under the proposal, Appendix G–10(A) would be revised, and a new sample form G–10(D) would be added to illustrate an account with a lower introductory rate and a penalty rate.

Comment G–5 would be revised to clarify that there are format and sequence requirements for certain § 226.5a disclosures.

IV. Form of Comment Letters

Comment letters should refer to Docket No. R–1079. This, and, when possible, should use a standard typeface with a font size of 10 or 12. This will enable the Board to convert the text to machine-readable form through electronic scanning, and will facilitate automated retrieval of comments for review. Also, if accompanied by an original document in paper form, comments may be submitted on 3½ inch computer diskettes in any IBM-compatible DOS- or Windows-based format.

V. Initial Regulatory Flexibility Analysis

In accordance with section 3(a) of the Regulatory Flexibility Act, the Board has reviewed the proposed amendments to Regulation Z. Although the proposal would require creditors to use a specific type size for the APR; require creditors to provide supplemental information about penalty rates outside the table; and require that the table be located on the same page as the application or solicitation reply form, on the first page of any other applicable document, or on a separate insert with a reference to the insert on the application or reply form, the proposed amendments are not expected to have any significant impact on small entities beyond these initial revisions. A final regulatory flexibility analysis will be conducted after consideration of comments received during the public comment period.

VI. Paperwork Reduction Act

In accordance with the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1995 (44 U.S.C. 3506; 5 CFR 1320 Appendix A.1), the Board reviewed the rule under the authority delegated to the Board by the Office of Management and Budget. The Federal Reserve may not conduct or sponsor, and an organization is not required to respond to, this information collection unless it displays a currently valid OMB control number. The OMB control number is 7100–0199.

The collection of information that is revised by this rulemaking is found in 12 CFR part 226 and in Appendices F, G, H, J, K, and L. This information is mandatory (15 U.S.C. 1601 et seq.) to evidence compliance with the requirements of Regulation Z and the Truth in Lending Act (TILA). The respondents/recordkeepers are for-profit financial institutions, including small businesses. Institutions are required to retain records for twenty-four months. This regulation applies to all types of creditors, not just state member banks. However, under Paperwork Reduction Act regulations, the Federal Reserve accounts for the burden of the paperwork associated with the regulation only for state member banks. Other agencies account for the paperwork burden on their respective constituencies under this regulation.

The proposed revisions would require creditors to revise disclosures for credit card solicitations and applications by:

1. Requiring the use of a specific type size for the APR,
2. Requiring creditors to provide supplemental information about penalty rates outside the table, and
3. Requiring that such table be located on the same page as the application or solicitation reply form.

Although the proposal adds these requirements, it is expected that these revisions would not significantly increase the paperwork burden of creditors. With respect to state member banks, it is estimated that there are 988 respondent/recordkeepers and an average frequency of 136,294 responses per respondent each year. Therefore, the current annual burden is estimated to be 1,863,754 hours. Because these proposed revisions modify preexisting tables, it is estimated that additional annual cost burden and no capital or start-up cost.

Because the records would be maintained at state member banks and the notices are not provided to the Federal Reserve, no issue of confidentiality under the Freedom of Information Act arises; however, any information obtained by the Federal Reserve, no issue of confidentiality under the Freedom of Information Act regulations, the Federal Reserve may be protected from the collection of information should be sent to the Office of Management and Budget, Paperwork Reduction Project (7100–0199), Washington, DC 20503, with copies of such comments sent to Mary M. West, Federal Reserve Board

Certain conventions have been used to highlight the proposed revisions to the text of the staff commentary. New language is shown inside bold-faced brackets, while language that would be deleted is set off with bold-faced brackets.

For the reasons set forth in the preamble, the Board proposes to amend Regulation Z, 12 CFR part 226, as set forth below:

issuer must disclose in the table the initial rate. The initial rate must be in at least 18-point type unless the issuer also discloses in the table the permanently applicable rate. In that case, the permanently applicable rate must be in at least 18-point type.

7. Increased penalty rates. If the initial rate may increase upon the occurrence of one or more specific events, such as a late payment or an extension of credit that exceeds the credit limit, the card issuer must disclose in the table the initial rate and the increased penalty rate that may apply. If the penalty rate is based on an index and an increased margin, the issuer must also disclose in the table the index and the margin. The issuer must also disclose the specific event or events that may result in imposing an increased rate. In describing the specific event or events that may result in imposing an increased rate, the issuer must provide an explanation of the penalty rate determined at the time disclosures are given, and shall be used to direct the consumer to the explanation. If the penalty rate cannot be determined at the time disclosures are given, the issuer must provide an explanation of the specific event or events that may result in imposing an increased rate. For issuers using a tabular format, the specific event or events must be located outside of the table and an asterisk or other means shall be used to direct the consumer to the additional information. If the conditions are noted with an asterisk or other means that direct the consumer to the explanation, the issuer may include in the explanation of the penalty rate the period for which the increased rate will remain in effect, such as "until you make three timely payments." The issuer need not disclose an increased rate that is imposed when credit privileges are permanently terminated.

The two forms also illustrate two different levels of detail in disclosing the grace period, and different arrangements of the disclosures. Model G–
