Notice 05-61

TO: The Chief Executive Officer of each financial institution and others concerned in the Eleventh Federal Reserve District

SUBJECT

Amendment to Regulation D
(Reserve Requirements of Depository Institutions)

DETAILS

The Board of Governors has amended Regulation D (Reserve Requirements of Depository Institutions) to reflect the annual indexing of the low reserve tranche and the reserve requirement exemption amount for 2006.

The amendments increase the amount of net transaction accounts at each depository institution that is subject to a 3 percent reserve requirement in 2006 from $47.6 million to $48.3 million. This amount is known as the low reserve tranche. The Regulation D amendments also increase the amount of total reservable liabilities of each depository institution that is subject to a zero percent reserve requirement in 2006 from $7 million to $7.8 million. This amount is known as the reserve requirement exemption amount. The adjustments to both amounts are derived using statutory formulas specified in the Federal Reserve Act.

The Board is also announcing increases in two other amounts—the nonexempt deposit cutoff level and the reduced reporting limit—that are used to determine the frequency with which depository institutions must submit deposit reports. These amounts are indexed annually to reduce reporting burden for smaller depository institutions.

For depository institutions that report weekly, the adjusted low reserve tranche and reserve requirement exemption amount will apply to the 14-day reserve computation period that begins

Tuesday, November 22, 2005, and the corresponding 14-day reserve maintenance period beginning Thursday, December 22, 2005. For depository institutions that report quarterly, the adjusted low reserve tranche and reserve requirement exemption amount will apply to the seven-day reserve computation period beginning Tuesday, December 20, 2005, and the corresponding seven-day reserve maintenance period beginning Thursday, January 19, 2006.

For all depository institutions, the nonexempt deposit cutoff level, the reserve requirement exemption amount, and the reduced reporting limit will be used for 2006 deposit report screening to determine reporting frequency for the 12-month period that begins in September 2006.

FEDERAL RESERVE SYSTEM

12 CFR Part 204

[Regulation D; Docket No. R-1236]

Reserve Requirements of Depository Institutions

AGENCY: Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System.

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: The Board is amending Regulation D, Reserve Requirements of Depository Institutions, to reflect the annual indexing of the low reserve tranche and of the reserve requirement exemption amount for 2006. The Regulation D amendments increase the amount of net transaction accounts at each depository institution that is subject to a three percent reserve requirement in 2006 from $47.6 million to $48.3 million. This amount is known as the low reserve tranche. The Regulation D amendments also increase the amount of total reservable liabilities of each depository institution that is subject to a zero percent reserve requirement in 2006 from $7.0 million to $7.8 million. This amount is known as the reserve requirement exemption amount. The adjustments to both of these amounts are derived using statutory formulas specified in the Federal Reserve Act.

The Board is also announcing increases in two other amounts, the nonexempt deposit cutoff level and the reduced reporting limit, that are used to determine the frequency with which depository institutions must submit deposit reports. These amounts are indexed annually in order to reduce reporting burden for smaller depository institutions.

DATES: Effective date: November 7, 2005.

Compliance dates: For depository institutions that report weekly, the adjusted low reserve tranche and reserve requirement exemption amount will apply to the fourteen-day reserve computation period that begins Tuesday, November 22, 2005, and the corresponding fourteen-day reserve maintenance period that begins Thursday, December 22, 2005. For depository institutions that report quarterly, the adjusted low reserve tranche and reserve requirement exemption amount will apply to the seven-day reserve computation period that begins Tuesday, December 20, 2005, and the corresponding seven-day reserve maintenance period that begins Thursday, January 19, 2006. For all depository institutions, the nonexempt deposit cutoff level, the reserve requirement exemption amount, and the reduced reporting limit will be used for 2006 deposit report screening to determine reporting frequency for the twelve-month period that begins in September 2006.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: Section 19(b)(2) of the Federal Reserve Act (12 U.S.C. 461(b)(2)) requires each depository institution to maintain reserves against its transaction accounts and nonpersonal time deposits, as prescribed by Board regulations, for the purpose of implementing monetary policy. Section 11(a)(2) of the Federal Reserve Act (12 U.S.C. 248(a)(2)) authorizes the Board to require reports of liabilities and assets from depository institutions to enable the Board to conduct monetary policy. The Board's actions with respect to each of these provisions are discussed in turn below.

1. Reserve Requirements. Pursuant to section 19(b)(2) of the Federal Reserve Act, transaction account balances maintained at each depository institution up to a certain amount, known as the low reserve tranche, are subject to a three percent reserve requirement. Transaction account balances over the low reserve tranche are subject to a ten percent reserve requirement. Section 19(b)(2) also provides that, before December 31 of each year, the Board shall issue a regulation adjusting the low reserve tranche for the next calendar year. The Act requires the adjustment in the low reserve tranche to be 80 percent of the percentage increase or decrease in total transaction accounts of all depository institutions over the one-year period that ends on the June 30 prior to the adjustment.

Currently, the low reserve tranche is $47.6 million. Net transaction accounts of all depository institutions rose 1.8 percent (from $700.4 billion to $713.1 billion) between June 30, 2004 and June 30, 2005. Accordingly, the Board is amending Regulation D (12 CFR part 204) to increase the low reserve tranche for net transaction accounts by $0.7 million, from $47.6 million for 2005 to $48.3 million for 2006.

Section 19(b)(11)(A) of the Federal Reserve Act (12 U.S.C. 461(b)(11)(A)) provides that a zero percent reserve requirement shall apply at each depository institution to total reservable liabilities that do not exceed a certain amount, known as the reserve requirement exemption amount.

Section 19(b)(11)(B) provides that, before December 31 of each year, the Board shall issue a regulation adjusting the reserve requirement exemption amount for the next calendar year if total reservable liabilities held at all depository institutions increase from one year to the next. Unlike the low reserve tranche, which can be adjusted upward or downward, no adjustment is made to the reserve requirement exemption amount if total reservable liabilities held at all depository institutions should decrease during the applicable time period. The Act requires the percentage increase in the reserve requirement exemption amount to be 80 percent of the increase in total reservable liabilities of all depository institutions over the one-year period that ends on the June 30 prior to the adjustment.

Total reservable liabilities of all depository institutions increased by 13.7 percent (from $2,946.2 billion to $3,350.0 billion) between June 30, 2004, and June 30, 2005. Accordingly, the Board is amending Regulation D to increase the reserve requirement exemption amount by $0.8 million, from $7.0 million for 2005 to $7.8 million for 2006.<sup>1</sup>

For depository institutions that report weekly, the adjusted low reserve tranche and reserve requirement exemption amount will be effective for the fourteen-day reserve computation period beginning Tuesday, November 22, 2005, and for the corresponding fourteen-day reserve maintenance period beginning Thursday, December 22, 2005. For depository institutions that report quarterly, the adjusted low reserve tranche and reserve requirement exemption amount will be effective for the seven-day reserve computation period beginning Tuesday, December 20, 2005, and for the corresponding seven-day reserve maintenance period beginning Thursday, January 19, 2006.

2. Deposit Reports. Section 11(b)(2) of the Federal Reserve Act authorizes the Board to require depository institutions to file reports of their liabilities and assets as the Board may determine to be necessary or desirable to enable it to discharge its responsibility to monitor and control the monetary and credit aggregates. The Board screens depository institutions each year and assigns them to one of four deposit reporting panels (weekly reporters, quarterly reporters, annual reporters, or nonreporters). An institution's panel assignment is effective with the annual deposit panel shifts in September of the screening year.

In order to ease the reporting burden, the Board permits institutions with net transaction account above the reserve requirement exemption amount but with total deposits below a specified level (the "nonexempt deposit cutoff") to report quarterly. The Board requires certain large depository institutions to report weekly regardless of the level of their net transaction accounts if their total deposits exceed a specified level (the "reduced reporting limit"). The annual adjustment to the first amount, the reserve requirement exemption amount, is described in Section 1 above. The nonexempt deposit cutoff level and the reduced reporting limit are also adjusted annually, by an amount equal to 80 percent of the increase, if any, in total deposits of all depository institutions over the one-year period that ends on the June 30 prior to the adjustment.

Total deposits at all depository institutions increased 8.3 percent (from $6,962.1 billion to $7,540.4 billion) between June 30, 2004 and June 30, 2005. Accordingly, the Board is adjusting the nonexempt deposit cutoff level upward by $11.3 million, from its current level of $169.8 million for 2005 to $181.1 million for 2006. The Board is also adjusting the reduced reporting limit upward by $75 million, from its current level of $1.131 billion for 2005 to $1.206 billion for 2006.<sup>2</sup>

Beginning in September 2006, the boundaries of the four deposit reporting panels will be defined as follows. Those depository institutions with net transaction accounts over $7.8 million (the reserve requirement exemption amount) or total deposits greater than or equal to $1.206 billion (the reduced reporting limit) are subject to detailed reporting, and must file an FR 2900 report either weekly or quarterly. Of this group, those with total deposits greater than or equal to $181.1 million (the nonexempt deposit cutoff level) are required to file the FR 2900 report each week, while those with total deposits less than $181.1 million are required to file the FR 2900 report each quarter. Those depository institutions with net transaction accounts less than or equal to $7.8 million (the reserve requirement exemption amount) and with total deposits less than $1.206 billion (the reduced reporting limit) are eligible for reduced reporting, and must either file a deposit report annually or not at all. Of this group, those with total deposits greater than $7.8 million (but less than $1.206 billion) are required to file the FR 2910a report annually, while those with total deposits less than or equal to $7.8 million are not required to file a deposit report. A depository institution that manipulates its reporting, however, in an attempt to qualify for less frequent reporting or to reduce its reserve requirement may be required to report the FR 2900 on a weekly basis and maintain appropriate reserve balances with its Reserve Bank, regardless of its most recent panel assignment.

Notice and Regulatory Flexibility Act. The provisions of 5 U.S.C. 553(b) relating to notice of proposed rulemaking have not been followed in connection with the adoption of these amendments. The amendments involve expected, ministerial adjustments prescribed by statute and by the Board's policy concerning reporting practices. The increases in the reserve requirement exemption amount, the low reserve tranche, the nonexempt deposit cutoff level, and the reduced reporting limit serve to reduce regulatory burdens on depository institutions. Accordingly, the Board finds good cause for determining, and so determines, that notice in accordance with 5 U.S.C. 553(b) is unnecessary. Consequently, the provisions of the Regulatory Flexibility Act, 5 U.S.C. 601, do not apply to these amendments.

List of Subjects in 12 CFR Part 204

Banks, Banking, Reporting and recordkeeping requirements.

■ For the reasons set forth in the preamble, the Board is amending 12 CFR part 204 as follows:

PART 204—RESERVE REQUIREMENTS OF DEPOSITORY INSTITUTIONS (REGULATION D)

■ 1. The authority citation for part 204 continues to read as follows:

Authority: 12 U.S.C. 248(a), 248(c), 371a, 461, 601, 611, and 3105.

■ 2. Section 204.9 is revised to read as follows:

§ 204.9 Reserve requirement ratios.

The following reserve requirement ratios are prescribed for all depository institutions, banking Edge and agreement corporations, and United States branches and agencies of foreign banks:

Category	Reserve requirement
Net transaction accounts:
$0 to $7.8 million .....	0 percent of amount.
Over $7.8 million and up to $48.3 million .....	3 percent of amount.
Over $48.3 million .....	$1,215,000 plus 10 percent of amount over $48.3 million.
Nonpersonal time deposits .....	0 percent.
Eurocurrency liabilities .....	0 percent.

<sup>1</sup> Consistent with Board practice, the low reserve tranche and reserve requirement exemption amounts have been rounded to the nearest $0.1 million.

<sup>2</sup> Consistent with Board practice, the nonexempt deposit cutoff level has been rounded to the nearest $0.1 million, while the reduced reporting limit has been rounded to the nearest $1 million.
