New York Fed Releases New Student Loan Data by Age Groups

July 17, 2012

NEW YORK – The Federal Reserve Bank of New York today released new student loan data that presents a breakdown of various categories by age group and date back quarterly to 2005.

Through interactive graphics, viewers will observe information about student loans, by age group, in categories like:

- Number of borrowers
- Total balances
- Average balance
- Proportion 90+ days delinquent

The New York Fed will also tweet findings from these data on the @NYFed_News Twitter handle. We encourage you to follow the feed.
