The Alma Mater

Daniel L. Marsh, President 1926-1951

Oh Glorious thy name and fame,
Resplendent from thy youth!
Oh radiant the holy flame
That lights thy lamp of Truth!
O Boston University,
O Alma Mater dear,
We'll cherish, love and honor thee,
And thy great name revere.

Oh beautiful thy colors' gleam,
The scarlet and the white,
When Love and Life mean all they seem,
Courageous for the Right!
O Boston University,
O Alma Mater brave,
We'll boldly stand for purity
Where'er thy banners wave.

The music for the Alma Mater was composed by John P. Marshall, professor in the College of Music, now the School of Music of the School for the Arts.

The Metcalf Cup and Prize

FOR EXCELLENCE IN TEACHING

THE METCALF CUP and $2,500 Prize was created by an endowment gift from Dr. A. G. B. Metcalf (at left in photograph with President Silber), an alumnus and Trustee of Boston University. Candidates are nominated by students, faculty, or alumni, and finalists are selected by a screening committee of faculty and students. The committee's recommendation is then forwarded to the Executive Office and Board of Trustees for approval. "The purpose of the prize," Dr. Metcalf said, "is to establish a systematic procedure for the review of the quality of teaching and the identification and advancement of those members of the faculty who excel as teachers, of which this cup is symbolic."

Dennis D. Berkey

COLLEGE OF LIBERAL ARTS

Since joining the faculty in 1974, Professor Dennis Berkey has made unusually significant contributions to the lives of Boston University students. Teaching mathematics and statistics at all levels, Professor Berkey has a gift for expressing extremely complicated ideas lucidly and coherently. He is equally meticulous in his own preparation and in his evaluation of his students' work. His classroom presentations are done with skill, taste and imagination. He demands hard work and high standards, yet is sought out as a teacher not only by mathematics majors and graduate students, but also by students in engineering and premedical programs, as well as by colleagues seeking mathematical illumination of problems in their own fields. As an advisor, Professor Berkey extends himself beyond the usual curricular guidance to raise students' aspirations and to help them shape their larger goals. He helped found and is now advisor to the Undergraduate Math Association. Colleagues wonder at his detailed knowledge of and insight into his students and advisees. But for Professor Berkey teaching is not a duty confined to the classroom and the office. It is a way of life. Under the faculty-in-residence program his home is in Claflin Dormitory. There his example of the intellectual life has exerted a profoundly civilizing influence. His tutoring in mathematics has rendered the subject not only accessible, but enjoyable, to many who had previously found it arcane and forbidding. His patience and rare ability to listen make him invaluable to all. As a teacher in class and out, of students and faculty, Dennis Berkey has exhibited a depth of commitment that is its own reward, but that Boston University wishes to recognize through its most prestigious teaching award.

The Metcalf Awards

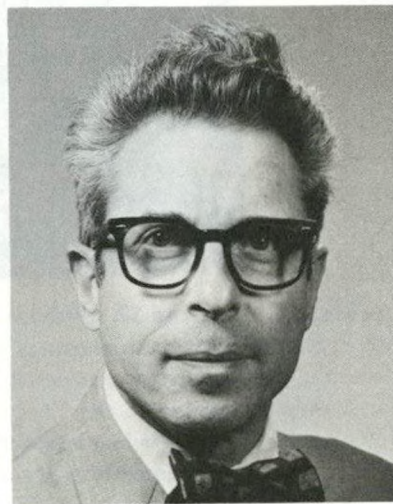

FOR EXCELLENCE IN TEACHING

THE METCALF AWARDS, endowed by a gift from Dr. A. G. B. Metcalf, are given annually to other finalists in the competition for the Metcalf Cup and Prize. These Metcalf Awards are $1,000 each. "The Excellence in Teaching Awards are a concrete expression of our intent at Boston University to recognize and advance Teacher-Scholars," President John R. Silber declared. "We are not interested in recruiting teachers who excuse themselves from the test of scholarship or writing; nor are we interested in scholars who disdain the company of students. Students at Boston University in future years will be the beneficiaries of this program to encourage outstanding teaching."

Alfred Prock

COLLEGE OF LIBERAL ARTS

Alfred Prock faces a forbidding task: to teach difficult required subjects to pre-professional students. Since the inception of Boston University's highly respected six-year medical program, Professor Prock has been responsible for laying bare to premedical students the mysteries of physical chemistry. Fortunately he has the facility of the great teacher in illustrating sophisticated concepts with graphic examples drawn from everyday life. His extraordinary success as a teacher is widely recognized. Graduates recall with awe the lucidity with which he explains the laws of thermodynamics. Students have often commented that even in large classes Professor Prock senses their individual needs. Little wonder that it is hard to find an empty seat in his lecture room, even at an early class with a snowstorm raging outside. Students do not hesitate to seek him out, knowing that they will be rewarded with a sympathetic hearing, with a penetrating appraisal of their problem, and with gentle guidance toward a solution. As a teacher of science, Professor Prock can receive no greater satisfaction than to know that it is through his keen understanding, his transparent exposition, and his generous availability that his students have learned to think scientifically and to relish scientific inquiry.

Freda Rebelsky

COLLEGE OF LIBERAL ARTS

Freda Rebelsky has already received national recognition of her gifts as a teacher. In 1970 she was named a Distinguished Teacher of Psychology by the American Psychological Foundation, and in 1971 the Danforth Foundation conferred upon her its E. Harris Harbison Award for Gifted Teaching. Professor Rebelsky's scholarly field is developmental psychology. The breadth of her knowledge and the depth of her concern are prized by students of psychology and of the health professions. She inspires curiosity about and compassion for the human condition, and confers dignity on all its forms. Her commitment to teaching extends to the full development of her students. Professor Rebelsky does not assume that any aspect of their lives is outside the educational domain, and accordingly she offers students support and insight in their every problem and in every context. Her concern is not limited to those in her Department or in her classes. Each year she offers a seminar, "Job Hunting with a B.A.," to which all undergraduates are invited. Her contributions and services outside the academy are many. A scholar, writer, and editor, a professional who generously serves the larger community, Professor Rebelsky is distinguished by her commitment to academic excellence, her effectiveness as a teacher, and her dedication to the welfare of students at Boston University.

The Metcalf Awards

FOR EXCELLENCE IN TEACHING

Samuel Stern

METROPOLITAN COLLEGE

Professor Samuel Stern is known internationally for his contributions to the field of developmental biology. No less significant are his contributions to the teaching of science in an interdisciplinary context. Professor Stern combines scientific discipline with wide knowledge and unifying vision. His standards are consistently demanding, yet his courses are among the most popular in the College. Students find the energy and vivacity of his presentation irresistible. His reputation as a teacher is not limited to Boston University and its immediate vicinity. Colleagues from around the country admire his rare blend of force and amiability, of scholarship and wit, of rigor and humor, and many have expressed the wish that they could take his courses. The Metcalf Award acknowledges Professor Stern's personal commitment to precise scholarship and broad understanding, and his ability to share this commitment with mature adults who seek to expand their knowledge and their horizons at Boston University.

Honorary Degree

G. William Miller, DOCTOR OF LAWS

Your new post is frequently called the second most important in the federal government; your appointment to it, the most significant of this administration. President Carter has said that your role as Chairman of the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve Board is less influential only than his own "in shaping our economic strength in the future."

The breadth of your education and experience qualify you exceptionally. Marine engineer, lawyer, distinguished veteran of the Coast Guard, you guided Textron, Inc., and its subsidiaries through a period in which sales rose from $250 million to $2.8 billion. The respect of the national business community is demonstrated by your leadership of its most prestigious organizations. Business leaders throughout the country proclaim your ability to succeed in filling your post as you have defined it: "bringing business understanding to the workings of economic policy."

Your preparation for this task far surpasses extensive experience and a broad knowledge of economics. You have led an astonishing array of local and national organizations: the philanthropic life of Rhode Island is reflected in your record in that state; nationally, you have been a Governor of the United Nations Association, Trustee of the National Urban League, Chairman of the National Alliance of Businessmen, and Chairman of the President's Commission on Equal Employment Opportunity.

To list even a representative selection of your achievements would exceed the reasonable bounds of lapidary prose. It suffices to say that your accession to the Chairmanship of the Federal Reserve Board has left an empty chair at one important board table after another, in business, government, and philanthropy.

In the first months of what we know will be a historic term of office, Boston University is proud to confer upon you the degree Doctor of Laws, honoris causa.

Honorary Degree

Alice L. Beeman, DOCTOR OF HUMANE LETTERS

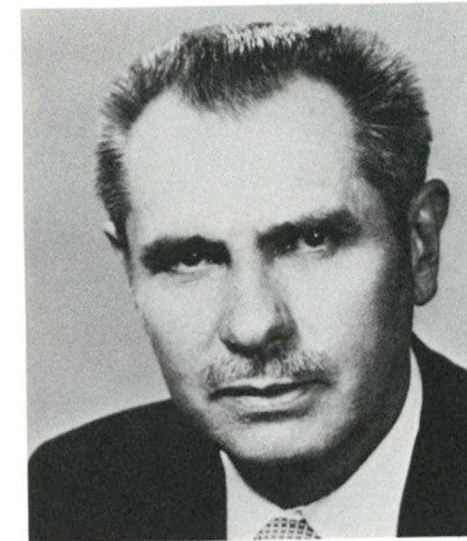

Your service to education was recognized and augmented when in 1974 you were elected unanimously president of the Council for the Advancement and Support of Education. With intelligence and imagination you have guided this national organization in providing approximately 1850 member colleges, universities, and independent schools with programs that, in your words, "education needs from us." Through the wide spectrum of CASE activities—conferences and institutes, a variety of publications, monitoring of and reporting on federal legislation and regulations affecting education, and much more—your sound judgment, devotion and energies have strengthened the member institutions and increased the knowledge and capabilities of their 8000 representatives. You recognize, too, the importance of CASE's role as spokesman for education. You have guided the organization in a formulation of the strengths and the needs of education, and to a more eloquent presentation of those strengths and needs to the federal government and the American public.

With great rapport and efficiency you have worked with professional staff and volunteer leadership, written and spoken, traveled tirelessly. It is representative of your selfless service that you have called your place on today's platform an honor to CASE.

Your presidential report this spring encouraged those who speak for education to inspire public confidence by speaking "of education and its aspirations in the language of the poet and the philosopher as well as the accountant and the lawyer." The effectiveness of your administration and the eloquence of your language, practical and poetic, have helped education find its voice and have contributed immeasurably to that inspiration of public confidence on which the future of education depends. Your own good sense and clear vision have served American education well.

Boston University is proud to confer upon you the degree Doctor of Humane Letters, honoris causa.

Honorary Degree

Hermann F. Eilts, DOCTOR OF LAWS

Your interest in the Middle East began with your childhood stamp collection. By the time you began advanced international study, classmates recall, you knew more about the region than your professors. Your professional interests have developed as a rare combination of exacting scholarship and active diplomacy.

Through more than thirty years in the foreign service, your careful and intelligent preparation for each assignment and your absolute command of the relevant facts have inspired the respect of your colleagues and the governments to which you have been accredited.

Seven years before you were named ambassador in 1965—the youngest career ambassador then in our diplomatic service—you received the Arthur S. Flemming Award for outstanding government service. Your leadership has been exemplary: seven junior officers who worked for you have gone on to serve our country as ambassadors. Your hallmarks are inexhaustible energy, perfect prose in drafts and dispatches, sheer mastery of the particulars of your postings, and a capacity for outlasting Secretaries of State.

Your scholarship is as remarkable as your statesmanship. Your monographs on the Middle East, such as your study of the mandate period and the evolution of the Kingdom of Trans-Jordan, written over thirty years ago, still stand among the most authoritative. You are known, inter alia, as an authority on the history of Yemen. The staff of the Army War College, where you served for three years as Diplomatic Advisor, remembers you as the most able representative ever assigned by the Department of State, a superb lecturer on highly complex histories who spoke without note or outline. Even as you have returned to the front lines of diplomacy, your life continues to display unity of scholarship and practical concern: a week's vacation—your first in eight years—was spent in Salem doing research on maritime trade between the United States and Oman at the beginning of the nineteenth century.

As a young foreign service officer, you crossed the Great Arabian Desert without benefit of roads. Still moving over trackless ground, you now drive toward peace in the Middle East. Appointed Ambassador to Egypt in November 1973 at the close of a disruptive, damaging war, you have made personal diplomacy instrumental in mending fractured relationships.

Boston University is proud to confer upon you the degree Doctor of Laws, honoris causa.

Honorary Degree

Ella Fitzgerald, DOCTOR OF HUMANE LETTERS

You are everybody's favorite jazz singer—undisputedly! Ebony magazine has said the only real question in any jazz poll is who will finish second. Your honors and achievements dazzle by sheer numbers: you have been named the best female jazz singer for eighteen consecutive years by Downbeat magazine and for thirteen consecutive years by the Playboy poll; you have recorded over a hundred albums that have sold over twenty-five million copies; you have received myriad plaques and trophies, civic citations and forty years of unwavering devotion from a public that now extends around the world.

You are a singer for all seasons. Musical styles change, you remain the fashion. Since your first appearance at the Apollo Theatre and at other amateur contests in Harlem, since the great success of "A-Tisket A-Tasket," which tradition says you improvised and recorded to cheer Chick Webb's final days, you have illuminated popular music, adding to your repertoire what is new without discarding what is traditional. Ballads, blues, and bossa nova; swing, calypso, musical comedy; the sweet and the sophisticated: through your voice, your musicianship, your wit, your humanity, you present each song at its best. And often more than its best, for you improvise melody, improvise words, scat-singing syllables to prove that the voice, your voice, is the finest and most versatile of musical instruments.

As you have the understanding and style for each song, so for each audience. At the Royal Festival Hall, Boston Symphony Hall or the Hollywood Bowl, in Monaco or the Armory of Elmira, in the clatter of the Copacabana, in the intimacy of Ronnie Scott's club, in the privacy afforded by radio, television and recordings, you bring us the meaning, and the joy of music.

For the best, the most loved, performers is reserved the distinction of being known by one name. Today we say what Bing said of you: "Man, woman or child, Ella is the greatest."

Boston University proudly confers upon you the degree Doctor of Humane Letters, honoris causa.

Honorary Degree

Julia C. Pratt, DOCTOR OF LAWS

You have served this university as all might aspire to serve it.

Your career as a college administrator began in your native Maine with astonishing precocity: at nineteen, you became Bursar of a junior college. Within a year, you were Secretary to the President. You had also enrolled as a student. Two years later, the President had become weary of summoning his right hand from the classroom, and you of leaving it at his summons. He thereupon petitioned his faculty for remedy, which they were pleased to grant. They examined you and certified without further classwork what no one could ever have doubted: your mastery of what were known down south at Boston University as the practical arts and letters.

You left Westbrook Junior College to serve as an officer in the U.S. Navy for two years. Newly demobilized, you came to Boston University to pursue your education—one of the happiest of the many happy outcomes of the G.I. Bill. During the last two years of your student career, you continued your custom of administering schools while you studied at them, first in the Office of the Dean of the College of Liberal Arts, and then in the Office of Admissions.

Taking your A.B. in history from the College of Liberal Arts in 1948, you began a term in the office of the Director of Admissions. After five years, you returned to your natural place: the Office of the President, of which you have been the mainstay and sheet anchor through three incumbencies and a quarter of a century.

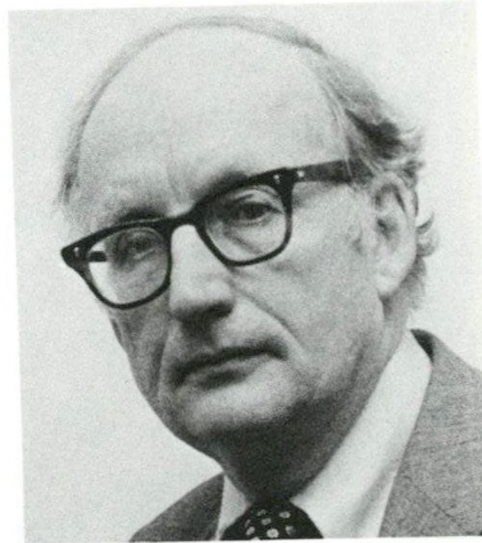

From your earliest days there you displayed the ability that led President Case to write to the Chairman of the Board of Trustees: "I regret this mixup; but as Julia has been away from the office for the past few days, some mistakes have been inevitable."

Your work has been largely out of the sight of the public, faculty, and students. It has, all too often, been done in work weeks of a hundred hours. Those who have shared this work with you, and tried—not often successfully—to keep to your pace, know the immense debt owed you by the Boston University community, accumulated over thirty years as you have provided imaginative and clear-sighted administrative judgment. You have become the repository of the modern history of Boston University, a history shaped by your own service.

Your dedication, integrity, and intelligence have inspired your fellow workers. Your wit has seen them through dark days. You have always suffered fools and presidents courteously. And always you have won not only the admiration of those around you, but their love. When the award of this degree was proposed to the Trustees, they approved it with a unanimous and rising ovation that has no precedent in living memory.

Boston University proudly and gratefully confers upon you the degree Doctor of Laws, honoris causa.

Honorary Degree

Robert C. Wood, DOCTOR OF LAWS

You are the voice and the paladin of state higher education in Massachusetts. In a troubled time for higher education—a time of fiscal restraint, shrinking enrollment, and growing public uncertainty about the value of higher education—you have guided the University of Massachusetts as it became preeminent among state universities in New England, worthy of the region that is richest in educational tradition and achievement.

You have articulated the case for the state sector with a clarity and vigor that led one imaginative journalist to call you and the president of a certain large independent university “scorpions in a bottle.” Apparently, this ominous simile was somewhat exaggerated.

You have dealt with the realities of strife within the system and political forces without, of shifting student interests and changing societal demands, and in doing so you have not evaded unpopular but essential stands, economic or academic. Under your leadership the University of Massachusetts has grown in size, strength, breadth of program, and prestige. You brought a distinguished institution to the University: a hundred sites were offered the Kennedy Library—one on hallowed academic land, one even in the air. Through your persuasion, the Library and its Museum will be on the sea, overlooking the new campus at Columbia Point.

Your leadership in education extends beyond the traditional boundaries of the campus. As chairman of the Citywide Coordinating Council you monitored the desegregation of the Boston school system and fostered cooperation between the school department and the twenty-four universities and colleges assisting in the enrichment of the city’s public schools.

A widely respected authority in urban affairs, former chairman of the Massachusetts Bay Transportation Authority and Undersecretary and Secretary of the Department of Housing and Urban Development, you have nurtured a sense of mutual responsibility between academy and city.

Although you have chosen to leave the presidency of the University of Massachusetts, no one doubts that you will continue your astute and farsighted service to higher education and the public good.

Boston University is proud to confer upon you the degree Doctor of Laws, honoris causa.

The Silver Medal of the Royal Society for the Encouragement of Arts, Manufactures, and Commerce

Each year the Royal Society recognizes selected institutions of higher learning in the United States by awarding a Silver Medal to a graduating senior. It is the aim of the Society to reward individual achievement and to strengthen the good relations between the United States and Great Britain. The medal is to be awarded to a student with a distinguished academic record in a department directly concerned with art or with the relation of art or science to industry or commerce. The candidate must also have played a significant role in student activities. Richard Nabhan, a sculpture student in the School for the Arts, has been selected as the first student from Boston University to receive the Royal Society's Silver Medal.

Mortar Board

Mortar Board is the only honorary society at Boston University whose members may be drawn from each of the undergraduate Schools and Colleges. Only seniors are eligible for election to Mortar Board. The Meeting House of the First Baptist Church in America
This Meeting House, completed in 1775, was built "for the Publick Worship of Almighty God, and also for holding Commencement in." Central parts of the Brown Commencement ceremonies have been held here ever since. Moreover, three Brown Presidents were also ministers of this church during their tenure and all of the Presidents who held office between 1764 and 1937 were Baptist clergymen.

The Physician's Oath, Program in Medicine
Now being admitted to the high calling of the physician, I solemnly pledge to consecrate my life to the care of the sick, the promotion of health and the service of humanity.

In the spirit of those who have inspired and taught me, I will seek constantly to grow in knowledge, understanding and skill and will work with my colleagues to promote all that is worthy in the ancient and honorable profession of medicine.

The health and dignity of my patient will ever be my first concern. I will hold in confidence all that my patient relates to me. I will not permit considerations of race, religion, nationality or social standing to come between me and my duty to anyone in need of my services.

This pledge I make freely and upon my honor.
