NOTICE

NTIS to Distribute Printouts of Reports of Condition and Income for Individual Banks

Beginning October 1, 1986 the National Technical Information Service (NTIS), an agency of the Department of Commerce, will assume responsibility for public sale and distribution of individual bank printouts of the Reports of Condition and Income. The Board and Federal Reserve Banks will no longer handle such requests. Requests for individual reports received after September 30, 1986 as well as those for printouts from the June 30, 1986 Call will be returned.

Reports of condition and income files include data for all insured commercial banks, all insured mutual savings banks, and all FDIC-insured cooperative banks. These files also include data for branches and agencies of foreign banks, banking edge and agreement corporations and New York State-chartered investment company subsidiaries of foreign banks.

NTIS will be able to produce printouts for all publicly available Call and Income Reports directly from Federal Reserve Board data. Thus, the quality of the data and level of revision will be the same as those currently available from the Federal Reserve System. Requests should be addressed to:
